

Along The Waterfront

Herb Mills took his brother Glenn and Walter Blunzer, both of Goliad, fishing the other day, and they came in with 43 sheep-head and one drum, but Cap Mills said that was about the size of the pot this week.

At Rattlesnake Point, on Saturday, Buster Ringham and Carl Morris, Harlingen, and Ted LeBleu, Rockport, strung 49 trout that averaged from 2 1/2 to five pounds each.

Sunday and Monday Alfred Poch, Fulton, and Alfred Neumeyer, Hallettsville, brought in 111 trout.

Grady Kincaannon and E. G. Brooks did themselves proud Saturday and Sunday, wading fishing in Copano. They caught around 250 pounds of reds and drum. There are also rumors that Pat Greene was mixed up in the matter somewhere.

The Taylor Oaks Trailer Park is at it again, according to Mrs. Tom Roper.

John Belt, Lockney, and Bill Savoie, of Kankakee, Ill., went out last Friday and came in with 10 (Continued on page 8)

Do not give to anyone who cannot produce such a card, Mrs. Hart says.

Lost Boys Found Asleep In Brush

Two Lamar youths were found unharmed at 12:15 a. m. Monday after a 40-man search party had combed the heavy brush near Lamar for more than three hours.

The youths, Dailey Heldenfels, 14, and Rob Johnson, 12, left the home of the boys' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Johnson, about 4 p. m. Sunday to go horse-back riding in a ranch pasture. Johnson warned them not to carry a gun and not to chase cattle, Sheriff Arlie Shivers said. He said nothing about not chasing deer.

A dog went along on the ride and jumped a deer shortly before sundown. The boys gave chase and found themselves lost in heavy brush after sundown. They tied and unsaddled the horses, made beds of the saddle blankets and went to sleep.

The family began looking for the two at dark and summoned Sheriff Shivers about 9 p. m. Members of the Rockport volunteer fire department and other citizens joined Shivers and his deputies in the search.

Shivers said the siren on his patrol car awoke the boys and they answered the shouts of the search party. They had bedded down for the night about two miles from the Johnson home.

The sheriff added that it took about three additional hours after the boys were found to round up all the volunteer searchers in the brush.

The youths, who are cousins, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heldenfels and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson, Sr., of Lamar.

'Mustang' New Name Of Boy Scout District

"Mustang" was chosen as the name of the new Boy Scout District formed from the Copano and Karankawa District at the beginning of this year. The name was chosen by the scout leaders at the monthly scouters night held last Thursday in Sinton. J. M. Chrestman, Taft, was elected to serve as district chairman replacing R. D. Davis of Refugio who resigned because of a change in employment.

Some 66 scouters and den mothers from the 12 town area comprising the new Mustang District attended the meeting. San Patricio County Judge William E. Nicholas has agreed to serve as district chairman, heading a concentrated effort to organize additional cub, boy scout and explorer units. Some 25 institutions have been selected as potential sponsors of scouting units.

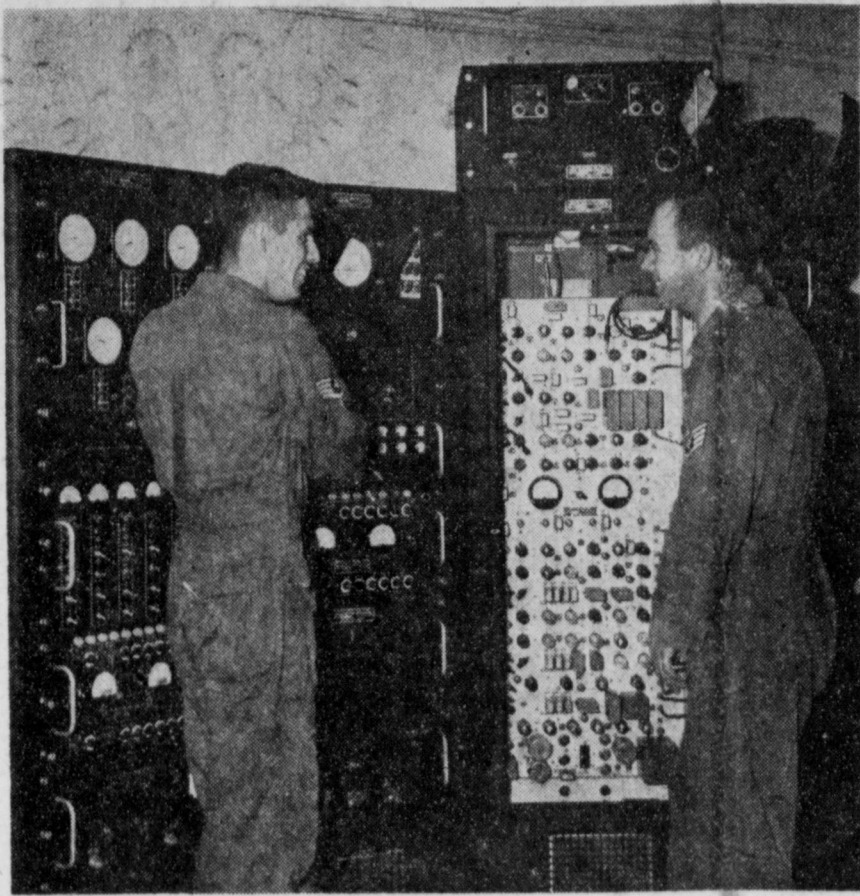

The drive will commence on March 12 with a dinner attended by people who will assist in the organization of the scout units.

The Del Mar Grill will hold its second coffee hour for benefit of the March of Dimes on Jan. 31, between 10 and 11 a. m. All proceeds from coffee will go to the polio fund.

The radar unit that forms the heart of any aircraft warning station is an extremely complicated piece of mechanism. One of the most interesting sections of the set-up is the main switch board, which can do almost everything but talk. Should something go wrong, bells ring, lights flash, and the resulting commotion indicates to technicians the exact part that is giving him trouble. Repairs are made on a unit basis. Spare units for all parts of the installation are on hand, and just as a radio tube is replaced, a bad unit is slipped out and a new one installed. This makes repairs a matter of only a few minutes or seconds, and service is never interrupted. The defective unit is then repaired in shops attached to the ACW station.

Chamber of Commerce Sponsoring Public Relations Course

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a public relations course which will be held Feb. 13, and H. R. Taggart, retail planning specialist of the Extension Division of the University of Texas was in town Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss the matter with various business men in the area.

He met Wednesday morning with Charles Roe Jr., H. J. Durbin, Sol Silverman, and Vernon Kleppas, to enlist their cooperation in contacting all the merchants of the area before the course opens.

The class will deal with relations in retail selling between sales people and the public; proper telephone approach, and similar matters, and Taggart will explain these things using movies and other training aids.

Mrs. Mary Juergens, manager of the chamber says that it looks as though the class will be too large to be held in the Chamber of Commerce building, and, if this is true, it will be transferred to the Woman's Club building.

Pirates Split Last Two District Games

The AC Pirates split even in their last two district ball games to give them a 2-2 record in the East Zone.

Last Friday night in Woodsboro, the Pirates won a hard fought 49-48 game in the last 15 seconds on Tommy Bradshaw's field goal. Eddie Morrison took the scoring honors however with 26 points for the night. Griffith of the Eagles, 19 and Bradshaw had 12. This was the first time in several years that the Pirates have beaten Woodsboro in basketball.

Woodsboro had a team average of way over six feet but the defense employed by coach Segler kept their high scoring machine in check.

Last Tuesday night on the home court, the Pirates fell to the Sundeen Eagles by a score of 53-67. Coach Segler's boys were in the game until the final three minutes, when some free throws by the Sundeen team iced the game away (Continued on page 4)

They're Branding Butterflies Now

They're branding butterflies now, and Mrs. Jack Hagar, national bird authority, and first to identify the exotic cattle egret in Texas, took time out from her bird studies, this past summer to help with the work. She banded fifty of the big, brown monarch butterflies that are so common in the fall—11 females and 39 males—and one of these was recently captured.

In a letter from Dr. F. A. Urquhart, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology and Paleontology, in Toronto, Ontario, she was apprised of this fact.

Dr. Urquhart, who is directing the research, said: "Specimen No. G307, tagged by you on October 18th, was recovered by R. K. Williams, of Harper, recently.

Interesting Assembly Program to Be Presented

An interesting assembly program will be presented at the high school auditorium on Tuesday, Jan. 31, at 1 p. m.

It will be given by Nutehuk, the Eskimo.

Nutehuk was born at the tiny Alaskan village of Chignik, of a Norwegian father and an Eskimo mother. At the age of 20 he came to this country and entered North Central College. He later attended Chicago Musical College, where he majored in piano under a scholarship.

Nutehuk has written and illustrated two successful books. His first, "Son of the Smoky Sea," was the Junior Literary Guild selection for older boys in November, 1941. The second, written after World War II, "Back to the Smoky Sea," is now in its fifth printing.

In his school program he tells something of his own life story. It is a talk about the Eskimos he knows so well, being one himself. He tells of hunting—whale hunting—and his ability to describe something like this makes the listener feel that he is taking part himself. Nutehuk also describes the Eskimo villages around Point Barrow, tells Eskimo fairy tales, then tells about the music of the Aleut Indians and plays some examples of it.

The program is ended with a medley of American popular numbers.

Radar Guards Our Shores from Attack, Protecting the Nation

813th ACW Station Here Part of Vast Network of Similar Outposts that Extend from the Gulf to the Arctic, and Atlantic to Pacific

The 813th ACW Station, which will be built at Rockport this year, is part of a vast network of such stations, extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Guarding the airplanes leading into America is its main job, and that of all the other stations. To do this efficiently, they have been placed under various commands, all of which channel their information to one great headquarters in Colorado Springs, the headquarters for this phase of national defense.

The Rockport station is directly under the command of the 33rd Air Defense Division Headquarters, at Oklahoma City.

Loss of one ACW Station could leave a loophole in the net large enough to allow an enemy bomber to slip through and possibly destroy key cities or plants.

Hence, each of the stations in the web must be ready at all times to protect itself, and airmen and officers are taught the basic techniques of ground warfare.

Alerts, or practice sessions are carried off as if an actual emergency exists. Men assigned duty stations other than in the radar (Continued on Page 8)

Offering received on this night will go to the film commission to help produce other films of this quality. "John Wesley" has not yet been released for TV or commercial showing.

Shrimp Fishery Now Most Important In U. S., Says Statistical Expert Of U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service

The shrimp fishery, from the standpoint of dollar value, is now the most important in the U. S., according to top Fish and Wildlife Service statistician Dr. Richard Kahn, of Washington, D. C., in Brownsville for the annual meeting of the Texas Shrimp Association.

"Last year," Dr. Kahn told this reporter, "value of shrimp landed in the U. S. amounted to more than $50,000,000. This was greater than either tuna or salmon, which have been leaders in past years, in value if not in tonnage, and made the fishery tops during 1955."

Dr. Kahn was in Brownsville to report on a recent survey, made for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, by A. C. Nielsen, market specialist of New York and Chicago, with funds provided by the Saltonstall-Kennedy Act.

Statistics may be dry, but the intense interest shown by assembled members of the association during Dr. Kahn's 30-minute analysis of the Nielsen report would not indicate it. Everyone gave him their undivided attention, because they realized that here, for the first time in the history of the industry, they were getting the facts on shrimp sales through the nation.

The report covered consumer sales, retail inventories, consumer prices, and distribution methods with regard to shrimp, and produced some extremely interesting facts, not only for assembled fishermen, but for housewives of the nation.

The two months chosen for the study were August and September 1955, because August was a vacation month and September was a normal one, with children back in school and housewives doing their customary buying. It produced the following facts, regarding shrimp sales in that period, throughout the United States:

During those two months, U. S. housewives bought $10.33 million worth of fresh shrimp; another $10.27 million of frozen shrimp; and $2.7 million worth of shrimp in cans. Converting this to pounds, they bought 13.93 million pounds of fresh shrimp; 10.8 million of frozen shrimp in various forms; and only 1.79 million in cans.

Dr. Kahn pointed out that there was still a large potential market for the shellfish that had not been touched, if sufficient production could be found to supply it.

Fresh shrimp are handled by only 6% of the stores in the U. S., he said, although these sell 29% of the total food used; frozen shrimp were handled in 30% of the country's stores, which sold 61% of all U. S. food. This left much room for expansion of the market. He went on to point out that, even in those stores that were handling shrimp, it had been possible to increase sales significantly by making a greater variety of package sizes and types of shrimp available to housewives. When the survey company experimented with this in stores in New York, Chicago, Harrisburg, Pa., and Waterloo, Iowa, it was found that by adding only 17 new shrimp products, or product sizes, sales shot up by 60%, and that point of sales advertising produced another advance.

The average price paid by American wives for shrimp and shrimp products during the time of the survey varied. Fresh shrimp, Dr. Kahn said, were 74c; frozen uncooked shrimp retailed at 91c; frozen, uncooked, breaded were $1.00 a pound. Frozen, cooked, breaded shrimp sold for $1.10; and canned shrimp were $1.53 a pound on a year round basis.

Wesleyan Service Guild Plans RSV Program

The Wesley Service Guild of the Methodist Church, in their meeting to be held Feb. 13, at 7:30 p. m., will hear Leonora Green speak on her experiences during six years service as secretary of the Standard Bible Committee.

Mrs. Green was with the committee when the Old Testament was in preparation, and typed the working drafts as well as the printer's copy, staying on through the proof-reading stage.

She was closely associated with the scholars engaged in this work, and her experiences should be most enlightening.

The guild invites everyone who is interested to attend the meeting.

Those attending were Ann Knox, Frances Le Blanc, June Krippa, Marcia Wetzel, Sue Armstrong, Darlene Evans, and Betty Johnson.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ballou were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rawls and daughters of Channel View and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Aughburger of Houston.

for them. This victory put the Eagles on top in the East Zone of the district.

The other teams of the district are feeling the effects of the sharp-shooting Eddie Morrison, junior guard on the Pirate team. Morrison scored 38 points in the Sundeen game and kept the Pirates up there all the way. 6'7" Johnny West hit for 23 points, most of them coming on free throws.

The Sundeen team hit a total of 19 points from the free throw line, which is practically unheard of in high school basketball and will probably never happen again. It's unfortunate that it had to happen in the Pirate's game. The Pirates go to Ingleside tomorrow night.

The First Job
The feeling of being secure is very necessary in the teenage young people. The first job that a youngster has gives him a sense of responsibility, this is very necessary in the building of the citizens of tomorrow.

If your child wants to get a job let him for there is nothing better for him. Sure, you remind him that he will have to give up some of his activities, but you watch and see what he says. In most cases he will say, "Gee, that doesn't matter. Just look I will have my own money to spend the way I want to and who knows I might even be able to buy my own car."

Finally after long thought the parents give in and the child goes to work. He is a happier, more content person because he feels that he is helping out at home. And for goodness sake don't let him think that he isn't helping.

It all adds up to the feeling of being able to stand on his own two feet, not only has he gained this but he has learned the value of a dollar and how hard he must work to earn one.

Wouldn't you be happy to say some day that my son is the President of the United States and it all began when he took his first job. Just think what he might have missed if he hadn't taken that job.—Jean Mullinax

GIRL SCOUTS

The Annual Report of the Whooping Crane Girl Scout Council to National Headquarters indicated tremendous change and progress in Girl Scouting in this area.

The area covered by Aransas, Bee and San Patricio Counties, prior to organization of Council, was represented by a few "lone troops" and the organized troops of the city of Beeville.

In contrast to the "lone troop" activity, the area organization (or Council) now has a total of 313 adult members working together.

Of these 313 adult members, 26 serve on the Board of the Council, and meet regularly each month to recognize, plan for and fulfill the needs of the area. In addition to these 26 board members there are some 40 members of various committees, also meeting regularly, working out detailed problems and plans in specific jobs such as Finance, Camp Planning, Camp Development, Troop Organization, Public Relations and others.

The remainder of the 313 adult members is composed of local Girl Scout Leaders, Assistant Leaders, Program Consultants and Troop Committee members.

All of these 313 workers are volunteers with the exception of Mrs. Alison Nichols, Area Executive, who is a professionally trained Girl Scout worker.

In 1955, some 859 girls were enrolled in the neighborhoods of Aransas Pass - Ingleside, Beeville, Mathis, Rockport - Fulton, Sinton, and Taft-Gregory. This membership was distributed in 36 Brownie Troops and 30 Intermediate Troops.

Aside from outstanding individual troop activities which included a number of Troop Camps held at the Rockport Little House, the Whooping Crane Council can be proud of a 30% membership increase over 1954 and the figures are still rising as new leaders are being recruited and new troops organized.

In less than two years, this council has been organized, established, chartered and even secured a site for an established camp.

The camp site, given by Mr. and Mrs. Emory M. Spencer of Rockport, is located on Copano Bay and plans for its construction and operation are well under way.

Branding Butterflies—

is a big orange and brown butterfly which, because of the color of its wings, was named after Prince William of Orange, founder of the present British monarchy. From this fact it derived its common name—Monarch in this country, and King Billy in the British Isles, where it also occurs, as it does throughout much of the rest of Europe. Nor do these points mark the limits of its wanderings, for Monarchs are known to occur in Trinidad, Cuba, the Canary and Cape Verde Islands, and are also recent immigrants from the Hawaiian Islands and eastern Polynesia westward to the Andamans in the Indian Ocean, and south to northern New Zealand and Australia. Others have been found north as far as Formosa.

In this country, Monarchs wander from Canada to the United States, and they are found nearly everywhere certain types of milkweed occur. However, no one knew whether they actually migrated, as do the birds, or whether the butterflies seen in Canada and elsewhere were local populations that were hatched in the various locations year after year.

It was to determine this knotty problem that Dr. Urquhart devised his system of banding.

Each insect is marked with a tiny gummed paper tag, about half an inch long by one quarter broad.

First the bander catches his butterfly, then gently rubs a few scales from the front edge of one wing, on both sides, and then folds the tag over, half on each side of the wing, where it sticks so tightly that the band will stay on for thousands of miles.

"You sure have to be careful, though," said Mrs. Hagar, "Their wings are so fragile." Pupils at the Dover School, according to Miss Dix, broke a couple, but they patched them up with Scotch tape, and the insects went merrily on their way.

The tag does not impede the butterfly's flight, and on it are the instructions "Return to the Museum - of Toronto, Canada," along with a number.

These numbers are entered in the book of records at the museum, along with the name of the bander, and where the banding was done, so that when a tagged butterfly does turn up, Urquhart knows all about it.

Oil News

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. No. 1 State Tract 260, Aransas County wildcat five miles east-south-east of Rockport in Aransas Bay, was making hole below 7962 feet on a 9100-foot permit.

Union Producing Co. No. 12 Taton, wildcat nine miles north of Lamar in A. Carrera Survey, has been plugged and abandoned at 8712 feet. The duster recovered the 1400-foot water cushion and 180 feet of oily muddy water on a 15-minute drillstem test through 3/4-inch chokes from 8667-87 feet. There was no working pressure, 1825 pounds bottomhole flowing and 2900 pounds shutin pressure.

The Shell Oil Company, Corpus Christi, has applied for a permit to operate in Aransas Bay, on State Tracts 182, 183, 204, and 205, at a location adjacent to St. Joseph Island.

The company requests a blanket permit for oil well structures at the above location. The work at the well sites would consist of sinking a drilling barge on a shell fill, erecting thereon a derrick having a top elevation of 175 feet above mean low water, driving six 5-pile dolphins and two 3-pile dolphins, and erecting a protective structure. At certain locations, in addition to the above, boiler barges would be sunk on shell fills and two 7-pile clusters would be driven. The maximum area covered by this installation would be approximately 500 by 530 feet. An alternative drilling foundation would be 200 by 200-foot shell fill islands connected to shore by a 12-foot shell roadway having a maximum length of 3000 feet. Tank battery platforms would be constructed or oil barges with separators would be moored. The mooring line and 150-foot vent line laid on the bed of the bay and an additional 3-pile dolphin supporting a flare pipe. Pipe lines would be laid within the area 1 1/2 feet below the bottom of the bay except through shell reefs or beds where they would be buried 1 foot below the bottom. Channels and basins would be dredged within the area and the dredged material would be placed adjacent to the channels.

Rockport Mentioned In January Issue Of National Magazine

Rockport and its harbor development have been mentioned again in the national magazine "The Boating Industry."

In an article written by Joseph E. Choate, secretary of the National Association of Boat and Engine Manufacturers, for the January issue, he refers to development of the new harbor at Fulton as part of an expansion program for the Aransas County Navigation District.

Choate calls attention to the need for more facilities of this kind.

Marine News

The commercial fishing industry of the United States, tired of being booted around by first one and then another gang of lobbyists, and wishing to have a representation in Washington at the Federal level, has been instrumental in the introduction of a bill outlining a national commercial fisheries policy.

Introduced in the House of Representatives on January 9, by Congressman Curtis of Massachusetts, H.R. 8249 is a bill to establish the office of Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Commercial Fisheries, defining his powers and responsibilities; strengthening the commercial fisheries segment of the national economy; and for other purposes.

It has been referred to the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

The industry points out, in commenting on the bill, that under the present Fish and Wildlife Service set-up, commercial fisheries do not receive the attention they should, as an important part of the food-producing machinery of the nation.

The bigger the outboard motor, no matter what size boat, the more speed you'll get out of it. Or will you? It may be a quicker funeral, instead. Too often, amateur boatmen, with a small rig, arrive at the conclusion that all they need to fly is more horse power, never taking into consideration the fact that their boat may not have been designed for it, and that when they hook a 50 onto a little hull, they're flirting with the undertaker. Too big a motor may be worse than one that is too small. Oversized outboards on undersized boats are merely accidents looking for some place to happen.

The Ontario Departments of Lands and Forests, which is one of the biggest users of this type of transportation in its area, has given a good deal of thought to the problem, and has prepared a schedule of boat and motor sizes that is well worth studying. This is information that no outboard fan should be without for, by fitting the wrong motor to the wrong boat, he may be endangering his own life and that of his family.

The department's schedule follows:

PLEASURE BOATS

Length Ft.	Beam In.	Depth In.	Transom Width In.	Wt. Lbs.	Length Lbs.	Max. Motor	Carrying Cap.
14	50	20	46	180	36	10	5
14	53	23	48	195	50	20	6
15	60	24	51	250	60	20	6
16	55	24	47	230	60	20	6
17	57	23	48	265	60	25	7
18	62	25	50	235	60	50	8

UTILITY MODELS

Length Ft.	Beam In.	Depth In.	Transom Width In.	Wt. Lbs.	Length Lbs.	Max. Motor	Carrying Cap.
14	50	18	46	150	18	10	5
15	46	16	38	140	18	6	4
15	48	18	43	170	18	9	5
15	52	20	48	180	18	18	6
16	48	18	42	180	18	19	5

CAR TOP BOATS

Length Ft.	Beam In.	Depth In.	Transom Width In.	Wt. Lbs.	Length Lbs.	Max. Motor	Carrying Cap.
12	44	15	37	80	---	7	3
13	46	17	40	90	---	10	4

Of course, there are variations to this, but in general, the weights and sizes given above aren't apt to get you into trouble. More and more boat manufacturers are recognizing that this is an important factor in the popularity of the sport, and many of them are stamping on a plate attached to the hull the size motor it is designed to use.

The outboard owner need not drift restlessly through the winter just because he has been forced to trade his boat seat for an easy chair by the fire. In this country there are lots of fine winter days when you can wind up and get in a little fishing, and during those long evenings when you can't, it might be a good idea to delve into some of the off-season reading provided by the Outboard Club of America. Although Outboard Boating, the organization's official magazine, goes only to members, OBC's booklets are available on request to Outboard Boating Club of America, 307 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. "Outboard Handling" is aimed at the new boat owner; "Small Boat Launching Ramps, Docks, and Piers" is a handy item to have around if you're thinking of building your own facilities; "Plans for Organization of Local Outboard Boating Clubs" gives dope on every phase of club activities; and "Your Outboard Vacation Guide" lists outstanding cruising areas, while complete names and addresses of agencies furnishing full information are listed under each state.

One of the best things about them is that they're free.

Blue marlin range from New York at least as far south as the northern coast of South America. The name "Cuban Blue Marlin" once applied to this fish is no longer used. They average close to 300 pounds, and the rod-and-reel record is 742, but have been known to reach a length of 15 feet and a weight of 1200 pounds. Usually solitary—at least as far as is known—there are considerable concentrations of them along the north Cuban coast where commercial fishermen have been catching them on headlines for over one hundred years. Recently numbers have been discovered off the coast of Texas. Several have been caught off Port Isabel and one or two off Port Aransas. The sport fisherman catches them in much the same manner as he does sailfish, except that baits—small barracuda, mackerel, dolphin, or bonefish—are larger, and the tackle heavier. Blue marlin are great game fishes in every sense of the word.

Can fish tell color? If fly fishermen and plug casters stopped thinking so the artificial lure business would suffer a tremendous loss. Still, the question keeps coming up for discussion.

A very fine piece of research reported by Frank A. Brown, Jr., in the Illinois Natural History Survey series and titled: "Responses of the Largemouth Black Bass to Colors," proved that fish, at least largemouth bass, can definitely distinguish one color from another. Fingerling bass were kept in a series of white pans and fed out of certain colored medicine droppers. From other colored droppers they received an electric shock, while from droppers of still another color the bass received nothing. One of the first things to show up was that even before the fingerlings had become trained they showed a distinct preference for red over all other colors.

As the experiments progressed it became noticeable how quickly the little bass learned from which colored medicine droppers they could expect food. For instance, if yellow droppers consistently squirted out food, red droppers gave no food, and green droppers gave an electric shock, it took the bass but a few days to dart for the yellow droppers, to be nonchalant about the red droppers, and to avoid the green droppers. It became obvious that the fingerlings were able to learn much more quickly what might hurt them than what properly colored dropper offered food; also, that they had an excellent memory. Some fingerlings receiving several shocks could remember a week later what color dropper had shocked them.

Bass could distinguish red from any color except violet, and brightness of a color played no part in their ability to distinguish colors. A bass would choose red before any shade of gray, for instance, and it made no difference whether the red was pink, orange, or dark red.

The final conclusion of the study was that a bass sees different colors about like a human does when the human wears yellow glasses. Whether all this pertains to other species of fish, such as trout, is still in the realm of speculation. The reader who would delve further into fish lore should read "The Life Story of the Fish—His Mores and Manners" by Brian Curtis.

Crash Kills Korean Ace, Maj. Moore, Cousin of O. A. Carroll

Major Lonnie Moore, Korean ace and cousin of O. A. Carroll, was killed recently in the crash of one of the Air Force's newest supersonic fighters, the F-101 Voodoo jet. His plane crashed and burned just after it was airborne at Elgin Air Force Base in Florida. Firemen extinguished the flames within three minutes, but were unable to rescue Moore.

The plane, which was undergoing extensive tests at the air proving ground located at the base, was demolished. Causes of the crash have not been determined.

The 36-year-old Moore was a double-ace in Korea, with 10 enemy MIG 15's destroyed and one probable to his credit. This was his first plight in a Voodoo.

He was the Air Force's operational test center chief project officer for operational suitability tests of the first supersonic jet fighter, the North American F-100C.

Moore had a total flying time of 3700 hours, of which more than 1500 was in jets. He had logged 328 combat hours in World War II and Korea.

He was commissioned in October 1943 and flew more than 54 combat strikes in B-26 light bombers during World War II. He was shot down twice, but evaded capture each time.

He was sent to the Korean theater by the Air Proving Ground Command to perform tests under combat conditions of a new gun designed for the F-86 Sabre jet. During the test missions he shot down the MIG's.

Moore remained in Korea after completion of the tests and flew 100 combat missions in all.

His 14 decorations included the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, with two oak leaf clusters, the Bronze Star, and the Air Medal, with 14 clusters.

Moore and his wife, the former Billie Geneva Hall, of Dallas, had made their permanent home at Ft. Walton Beach, Florida, the last five years. They have four children, Robert 16, Barbara 13, Lonnie Jr. 8, and Tina Gale.

He was the son of J. B. Moore, Houston, Texas. Other survivors include a brother, Glenn, of San Antonio; another brother, J. B. Moore Jr., Waco; and a sister, Mrs. Pauline Brooks, also of Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Nast, of Washington, D. C., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Nast, during the past week.

M. W. Cochran Jr. Marries Michigan Girl In Ann Arbor

Miss Eresmia Marianthy Kusurelis and Maurice William Cochran, Jr., were married Sunday at Ann Arbor, Mich. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kusurelis of Ann Arbor.

The groom, now stationed at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice William Cochran of Rockport. He is a graduate of Cranbrook School at Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and also attended the University of Michigan. His bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is a member of Zeta Phi Eta honorary speech fraternity.

The couple pledged their marriage vows at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church. Baskets of pastel flowers decorated the church.

For the double ring ceremony the bride wore a wedding gown of white parchment silk satin made with a fitted bodice and full pleated skirt which fell into a chapel length train. The rounded décolletage of the bodice was finished with a tracery of silk braid in a scroll outline. Her tiered veil was attached to a crown of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis centered by a white orchid.

She was attended by her sister Mrs. Richard DeMain of Ann Arbor who wore a waltz length dress of coral chiffon and carried yellow roses. Edward Cochran of Packanack, N. J., was his brother's best man.

A dinner was held at the Terrace Room of Michigan Union following the ceremony. A reception at the Small Ballroom of Michigan Union followed the dinner.

The couple is now on a ski trip in northern Michigan.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Maurice William Cochran, was a guest at the wedding.

YOUTH WEEK SET FOR JAN. 29 TO FEB. 5

Youth Week, under the auspices of the United Christian Youth Movement, is the largest Protestant youth observance on our continent. Youth Week began with 1944 when a group representing the International Society of Christian Endeavor and the United Christian Youth Movement made plans for an annual week of emphasis on youth work and unity in Christ. It is now observed annually from the last Sunday in January through the first Sunday in February.

"Our Citizenship Under Christ" is the theme chosen this year to challenge the nation's youth to discover their responsibilities as Christian citizens. During Youth Week radio stations will carry special programs on this theme.

The VCYM was organized by Protestant youth of many denominations in 1934; and serves as a channel for cooperative action, study, and worship, world-wide sharing and voluntary service to help young people become Christian world citizens and to express their basic oneness in Christ. It is important to understand that the VCYM is the denominational youth fellowships working at times apart and at times together to achieve these goals.

Mrs. John Haynes left last Wednesday for Houma, La., where she will visit until this weekend with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adams and Mickey.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Reynolds of Edinburgh visited last weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rork.

room or the Control Center drop what they are doing and make a bee-line for the weapons room. Here, they receive weapons issued by the Air Police and take up positions along the perimeter of the compound and around the vital buildings.

At a time like this, the left hand must know what the right hand is doing. Communications personnel string lines to the farthest point on the base so that each outpost has contact with the main Command Post. With this method, men can be shifted to fill any gaps and assure maximum protection.

Where there is a battle there are usually casualties which demand attention. First Aid Stations are established by the Medics with WAF assisting the regular medical personnel.

The dining hall remains open 24-hours a day during an alert. The added activity whets appetites and it's up to the dining hall to care for the men who stand by their posts.

An alert is not called at any given time. It may be for practice or it may be for real. The purpose is to take the base by surprise, night or day.

The defenders must be defended. It is the job of the men and women who are responsible for the defense of the radar site and the Combat Control Center to insure that the enemy does not pierce this "Achilles Heel" of Air Defense.

Honored On Birthday

Bill David Odell was honored Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 24 with a surprise party on his sixth birthday. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Steve Theodore with Mrs. Theodore and Mrs. W. S. Coaker as hostesses.

Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. Bob Landrum, Mrs. Fern Rethmeyer and Mrs. Barney Hobbs.

The Pilot has been authorized to announce the candidacy of A. C. Shivers for re-election to the office of sheriff, tax assessor-collector of Aransas County.

sheepshead, four reds and a flounder.

Tuesday, a lot of the boys got in on the act. Ed Whitfill, Lockney, and his son Charles, of Silvertown, brought in six reds running from two to five pounds. Stan Heath, Rockport, and Fred McElya, Houston, caught 12 medium-sized trout. Belt and Savoie fished again and strung 12 reds, seven trout, and six sheepshead.

H. E. White, fishing Wednesday afternoon, caught eight trout that weighed 31 pounds dressed, wading back in Copano Bay. None of them were less than three pounds, and two weighed so close to six pounds that only a hair would have served to turn the scales. White said he lost one that would have gone between eight and ten. All of them were caught on a gold Tony Accetti No. 5.

Johnson's Bait Stand said that everyone in their area was catching fish, and some nice strings were being brought in.

John Belt, Lockney, staying at Taylor Oaks, was reported as having caught 14 reds and a sheepshead yesterday, while Ed Whitfill got nine reds and a flounder. A Mr. Johnson turned up with nine trout and a flounder.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Glass, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Allen and Mrs. Mary Alice Gray attended the funeral of J. A. Walling at Runge last Sunday.
