A gift of $2000 to the Whooping Crane Girl Scout Council, made on application to the Aransas County United Fund by Joe Caldwell, Girl Scout Finance Chairman for the Rockport area, has raised the Council's total building fund to $13,000, and assured construction of the first units at the summer camp site on Copano Bay, in time to accommodate 50 girls this summer. In response to your request to participate in the Federal-Aid Airport Program, the Administrator has tentatively allocated $10,000 for a project at the Rockport Municipal Airport at the United States share of allowable project costs in performing the following airport development:

Austin Firm Low On Radar Bid, Says County Judge

According to a report received Wednesday morning by County Judge John D. Wendell, an Austin firm was low bidder on the construction work for Rockport's ACW station.

The bids were opened Tuesday, February 14, at the office of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, in Galveston, and the Ricks Construction Company, of Austin, was low on both the original specifications, and on an addition for air conditioning the station dining hall. They made a tender of $970,416.19 for the buildings and paving, with an additional $12,195 for the air-conditioning.

Next low was the Coastal Bend Construction Company, of Corpus Christi. They bid $992,992.30 for building and paving, and $12,000 for the air-conditioning.

As of Wednesday morning, contracts had not been awarded.

Eminent Consulting Engineer Vacationing In Rockport This Month

"Wind", said Leland Edwards, of the New York firm of Edwards and Hjort, specialists in tall buildings, "was a thing that had to be considered when buildings like the Empire State were first thought possible. It is easy enough to build a structure strong enough to reach many stories above the ground, but when they're too high and too thin, they're not stiff enough to withstand wind sway, unless especially designed, and would cause people some unpleasant sensations, at least, without careful designing."

Edwards ought to know, for he was in complete charge of the Empire State building design and construction. This was before he had his own firm, and while he was still employed by the H. D. Balcom Company, a construction firm in New York, but, since then he has been the godfather of many of the world's important buildings, either as designer or as consultant.

While still working with Balcom, he had charge of building a new library for Louvain University, in Europe, to replace the one destroyed by the Germans in World War I. The building that he erected later suffered the same fate in World War II, but this is one of the few he has been concerned with that is not still in existence.

Edwards, while at Balcom's was in charge of the design of the General Electric Building, the home office of the Irving Trust, (Continued on page 4)

Next in order of business will be the election of a new moderator, followed by an afternoon business session, which will recess at 4:00 p.m. to allow the various committees to attend to their project.

At 6:00 p.m., members of the Presbytery will adjourn to the Woman's Club, where they will be guests of the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport for a seafood dinner. This will be served by the Women of the Church, of which Mrs. Carl Osborn is president. Coffee during the session, and registration of the visitors will also be handled by the Women of the Church. Materials for the meal and its preparation will be attended to by men of the church, headed by a committee composed of Hugh Morrison, E. C. Ricks, Fred Brundrett and Clyde Hayden.

The meeting will re-convene at the Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m., for the principal address of the gathering, which will be given by Dr. David L. Stitt, president of the Austin Theological Seminary. He will speak on "Presbyterianism in America Commemorating the 250th Anniversary of the Organization of the First Presbytery in the United States."

Following Dr. Stitt's speech will be a Holy Communion Service, presided over by Rev. A. Arnott Ward and Rev. W. H. Morrison, both of Rockport, assisted by elders of the church. The public, Chairman Jackson said, is invited to this evening session.

On Wednesday, the day will be given over to a business session and the receiving of various committee reports.

At 11:00 a.m., there will be a special order, when the business session will be recessed to hear an address by the Reverend Lawrence Bottoms, Associate Director of Negro Work, Presbyterian Church, U. S.

The Rev. Bottoms is a native of Selma, Alabama, where he attended Knox Academy, a Reformed Presbyterian School. He taught school for two years, following graduation from high school, band work and manual training. Afterwards, he attended Tuskegee Institute and, later, Geneva College, Geneva Falls, Pennsylvania, where he received his A.B. degree.

He received his theological training at the Reformed Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, returning to Selma, where he was pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church for three years, going from there to the Grace Presbyterian Church, at Louisville, Kentucky, later entering the U. S. Presbyterian Church as a pastor. He served as Regional Director of the Snedcor Memorial Synod, and during the past few years has worked with members of his race in this country and foreign fields. In 1955 he visited missions in Brazil, Africa, and Portugal, and it is on this mission work that he will speak.

The business session will re-convene after his talk, concluding its business during the afternoon. Local committees of the church, besides those already mentioned are:

Hords Operating Colorado Dude Ranch At Creede

Captain and Mrs. Jimmy Hord, well-known to many people in Rockport from their long stay here, are now operating Broadacres Dude Ranch, at Creede, Colo., according to brochures received by a number of friends in the area.

In the letter accompanying these, Hord says: Here, on our beautiful 975-acre ranch, we have combined Western-style entertainment and informality with excellent fishing and hunting facilities, and feature a full program of dude ranch fun, including pack and jeep trips, horseback riding and mountain hiking over miles of adventuresome scenic trails.

Fishing is for many species of freshwater trout. Shallow Creek, says Hord, flows through the ranch and is heavily stocked with eastern brook and cut-throat trout. A lake on the ranch is stocked with brookies and rainbows, and horseback trips are available to the top of Table Mountain, where one of Colorado's highest crater lakes is situated, loaded with Yellowstone trout. Then, too, he says, Miners and Rat Creeks, and the upper reaches of Shallow Creek are good fly-fishing streams. Jeep trips can also be taken to the upper part of the Rio Grande, Bear Creek, Pole Creek, Lost Trail, and West Lost Trail creeks, where the fishing is marvelous, and the scenery tops.

The Hords have accommodation for 50 people, according to his letter.

Pirates Lose To Sundeen

The AC Pirates closed out their 1955-56 basket ball schedule last Friday night in Sundeen. The Eagles finished their district play in this zone undefeated as they won over the Pirates by a score of 67-45.

The Pirates gave the taller boys a run for their money and were leading at the halftime. Shortly after the third quarter got underway, four of the Pirate's five starters fouled out and they finished the game with reserves. High scoring Eddie Morrison was lost early in the third quarter, along with Tommy Bradshaw, Donie Fields and Jimmy Mills. Morrison had 16 points however before leaving the game. Six foot, seven-inch Johnny West had 21 with most of them coming in the fourth quarter against the reserves.

Next week we will give a run-down on the overall season with individual statistics for the entire season.

all of the buildings at the Rockefeller Center.

This last piece of construction was terrific, he said, because the builder had to contend with so many different types of work. There were two theatres included in the group, besides a 65-story office building, and each of them posed separate problems.

Incidentally, he remarked, one of these theatres was torn down not long ago, to be replaced by a new office building. This theatre, he said, was no economic success, and had to be eliminated so that property which would return a higher rental could be built.

After H. D. Balcom died, in 1938, Edwards formed a partnership with Hjort, and their firm has many of the country's outstanding buildings to their credit. In New York they designed the Esso Building, an adjunct of Rockefeller Center; the United Nations Secretariat; and the Socony-Mobil building, into which tenants are just beginning to move.

Two important works in Pittsburgh were the building of the Aluminum Company of America and the Mellon Bank—U. S. Steel office building.

Edwards' first trip to Rockport was made as the result of the firm's obtaining the contract for designing the Republic National Bank building in Dallas. While there, he called a friend whom he knew to be vacationing at Rockport Cottages, and came down to spend a few days with him. Since then he and Mrs. Edwards have been back for a month every year, to study the bird life of the area, which they believe is infinitely more varied and abundant than that of Florida.

"Of course Florida has a few specimens that you don't find here," he said, "but Rockport has so many more specialties in the bird line than does Florida, and has so many more birds of all kinds that we come here instead. Florida bird life is more apt to be concentrated in a few areas than the birds in the Rockport region. One thing we find extremely interesting is that the many birds of the desert they reach the coast at Rockport. This morning we saw several that people think you have to go far inland to see."

During his Texas trip, Edwards is casting an eye over a new building in the Dallas area that his firm is responsible for, the Southland Center, which, he was careful to emphasize, will be the biggest and best—in Dallas.

name for the organization since the present one was conflicting with another in the community. It was also voted the youth use the Woman's Club Building, if acceptable to the Woman's Club. An open discussion period followed.

The executive committee met with three representatives from both the Senior and Junior groups on February 11th. Representatives from the Senior group were Jimmy Mills, Tommy Bradshaw and Eddie Morrison; from the Junior group Guy Clark, Charles LeBlanc and Dale Barnard. A long-range program was discussed, and Mr. Norvell Jackson appointed chairman of a committee to contact service clubs, churches and other organizations in this connection.

Provided the Woman's Club is available, Mrs. Charles Ankele, Mrs. Earle Thomas and Mr. Holland volunteered to sponsor the Junior dance Friday night, Feb. 17th; and Mr. and Mrs. Cabaniss and Mr. and Mrs. Fox the Senior group dance, Saturday, Feb. 18.

Other parents will be appointed each week.

Another meeting of the board and representatives was called for Feb. 20 at the Fire House, 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adams and son, Mickey, left for their home in Houma, La., Saturday. Mrs. Adams and Mickey had been visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes, for two weeks.

Marine News

Shrimp landings in Rockport for the week ending Feb. 9 amounted to 9400 pounds of tails.

During December 1955 six vessels of 5 net tons or over received their first documents as fishing craft, according to U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This brought to 103 the total of newly documented fishing craft for the year 1955 in the Gulf area. This compares with 313 in 1954. These figures indicate a reduction of 67% of new fishing vessel construction for the Gulf area for 1955.

Total fishing vessel construction for the United States and its possessions during 1955 was 418 vessels as compared to 717 in 1954.

On February 15 the Oregon is scheduled to depart from Pascagoula to conduct two weeks of commercial scale trawling for deep-water red shrimp off the coasts of Mississippi, Alabama, and western Florida.

Night-time trawling in the 200 to 250 fathom depth range in this area last fall yielded catch rates of up to 770 pounds per night using 74-foot balloon trawls. During the present cruise, 74 and 100-foot trawls will be worked "around the clock" to obtain information on commercial potentials for red shrimp for this season.

The vessel will return to Pascagoula, Miss., on March 1.

Careful With Those Kites, Kids, They Might Bite You!

Children were cautioned today against flying kites near electric wires by Byron T. Hardeman, manager for Central Power and Light Company.

He suggested an open field, away from electric wires, as the ideal place for kite flying. Serious trouble may result if the kite becomes entangled in electric wires, he pointed out.

"If a kite gets caught in electric wires, a child may receive an electrical shock, or at best may lose his kite," Hardeman warned.

The CPL manager made his pleas for safety as warm temperatures and steady breezes signalled the beginning of the spring kite-flying season.

He also suggested kite-flying enthusiasts use only dry cotton string. Wet string and wire are good conductors of electricity and increase the danger of electric shock, either from electric wires or from atmospheric conditions. Metal shouldn't be used in the construction of kites, either.

Hardeman also warned model builders against flying planes near electric wires, or climbing poles in an effort to retrieve kites.

"If a kite does become caught in the wires, don't try to get it down. Either leave it alone, or call the CPL office," he said.

4,600 Texans Enter Armed Forces In January

AUSTIN, Texas—A total of 4600 Texans entered the armed forces in January, with 5,017 being separated during the same time, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, announced Thursday.

"This is the same general trend experienced in 1955," Colonel Schwartz said. "More than 46,000 Texans went into all the services the past year, but during the same time, more than 54,000 got out."

Of the 4600 Texans who went into uniform during January, 4174 entered by enlistment or other volunteer means. The remaining 426 were drafted.

Texas draft boards forwarded a total of 2370 men for pre-induction mental and physical examinations during January. Of this number, 1537 were accepted as fit for military service, and the remaining 833 were rejected.

Eight physicians were examined by the Army for draft boards under provisions of the doctor's draft law, with one found unacceptable for service. Three physicians received commissions in the armed forces during January after orders to report for induction were issued.

Of all the services, the Air Force reported the largest number of entries in January, 1956. At the same time the Air Force separated 1660.

A total of 1308 Texans entered the Army by enlistment and draft in January. During the same time, a total of 2384 Texans were separated from the Army.

U. S. Army to Strengthen Armed Forces Under New Reserve Act

The "Spirit of 1776"—still is with us.

Today's "Modern Minute Men" are the U. S. Army Reserves.

Although Congress authorized the establishment of the U. S. Army in 1789, it was 123 years later, 1912 to be exact, before the U. S. Army Reserve, as it is known today, came into being.

Every war demonstrates again and again the great importance of maintaining adequate reserve forces. Every war points up the fact that lack of a Ready Reserve force means loss of men, money and machines. Every war proves that unpreparedness—the lack of men physically and mentally trained for combat—is costly in lives, costly in equipment, and pro- longed conflicts far beyond necessary.

An untrained man can not fight. But a trained man is always ready to fight. And a nation with trained men seldom is attacked.

Wars have demonstrated that it takes time and uniform training to produce successful troops.

In 1955 Uncle Sam decided on a long-range training program for his sons, Congress passed the Reserve Forces Act of 1955.

On Wednesday, Feb. 22, Texas will celebrate R-Day. It is U. S. Army Reserve Day in Texas. On that special date, in keeping with a proclamation by Gov. Allan Shivers, the U. S. Army in Texas will exert special effort to increase its force of Ready Reserves. The big day also is the final day of National Defense Week—and Washington's birthday.

Texas is one of the first states in the nation to make an intensified campaign for Reservists. All young men discharged from military service will be contacted on Feb. 22 and urged to enlist in the Ready Reserve. High school boys, 17 to 18½ years of age, also will be urged to investigate the many advantages of the Ready Reserves offers them.

These advantages include the opportunity for a young man to fulfill his military obligation—with a very minimum of interruption to his education. Thus he will be able to step immediately into the business world—while still a very young man.

Whatever a young man's ambition may be, he will be in a much better position to plan his future by taking advantage of the special enlistment program of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955—to complete his active military service at the earliest possible age.

Then with his active service behind him, he will have a free mind in pursuing advanced education, technical or business training. He will find increasing job opportunities because prospective employers will know that in hiring him they are getting a man whose work will not be interrupted by a call to long-term military service. Employers are aware, too, of the development of responsibility and leadership that a young man receives in his Army training and consider it an additional asset in a young employee.

By enlisting in the U. S. Army Reserve a young man has an opportunity to select the unit and the men with whom he wants to serve. Furthermore most of this military service will be performed in his home community.

The Reserve Forces Act of 1955 wisely allows him to defer his active training until he finishes high school . . . to the benefit of himself, the Nation and the Reserve.

"This is my reserve training night" is rapidly becoming a familiar by-word in homes, offices and shops.

It means a chance of LIVING for America, rather than the prospects of DYING for her.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

She Knew It All The Time

Chances are, long ago your grandma knew how to keep you from catching cold. Mine did. "Stay out of drafts," she'd warn. "Bundle up. Don't get wet."

Then, maybe, when you grew up you found that the old lady's theories were considered old fashioned. Germs were the thing—and the way to avoid a cold was to avoid infection by somebody who already had one.

Now I read where scientists aren't so sure. Germs carry a cold, of course, but they now believe something else "sets it off"—something like drafts, wet feet or going without your muffler. Grandma, take a bow!

From where I sit, there's liable to be sound reasoning behind the old customs people believe in. "Early to bed, early to rise," for instance—or the practice of drinking hot milk or a glass of beer at bedtime. I'm not saying you ought to hold with these beliefs yourself . . . but you'd better get the facts before giving them the "chill"

YOUNG MEN WANTED

UNCLE SAM needs young men for his peacetime Army of Reservists. YOUNG MEN need what Uncle Sam has to offer.

Strong nations seldom are attacked. It is only when a nation becomes weak, when its military strength is at a low ebb . . . when its men are untrained for battle . . . that an enemy strikes. To keep peace—keep strong. For a nation to maintain military might it must have a large, well-trained Ready Reserve—well versed in the latest in military know how and equipment.

It is up to the young men of America to provide this manpower. Under the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 American youth may continue in school with a minimum of interruption, while serving in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Routine business was conducted and reports were heard from the Camp Development Committee, Public Relations Chairman, Program Committee, Training Committee, Council Treasurer and Council Registrar.

The regular monthly meeting of the Rockport-Fulton Neighborhood Association was held on Friday, Feb. 10 at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

It was announced that an institute for Council Board members, Neighborhood Chairmen and Council committee members is to be held in Corpus Christi at the Nueces Hotel on March 8 and 9.

The purpose of the institute is to share and discuss trends, current thinking and new projects that are emerging to bring all Girl Scout Troops the service to which they are entitled.

Eligible to attend the institute from Rockport are: Mrs. N. F. Jackson, Council Board Secretary, Mrs. A. L. Holland, Chairman of Council Troop Organization Committee, Mrs. N. B. Jackson, Neighborhood Chairman, Mrs. Ellis L. Clark, Council Publicity Committee, Mrs. Kathryn McLester, Council Camp Planning Committee, Mr. Chester Johnson and Mr. Tom Kitchens, Council Camp Development Committee, Mrs. Walter Stryker, Council Troop Organization Committee, Mr. Joe Caldwell, Council Finance Committee and Mrs. F. As a result of the Council Board agreeing to allow the Rockport-Fulton Neighborhood to pay for remaining Girl Scout Nuts as they are sold in this neighborhood, the motion was rescinded that this neighborhood purchase nuts that have not been sold.

The Neighborhood Chairman appointed Mrs. Ellis L. Clark as Program Chairman for the forthcoming Girl Scout Week, March 11-17 and skeleton plans for the week's activities were presented to the group. Girls and Leaders will be notified as to their parts in the activities.

Mrs. F. L. McCord asked that leaders make requests to her on desired training specifying type, dates, and time preferred. Local requests will be presented at Training Committee Meeting on Feb. 16 when the Training calendar will be set up.

A discussion was held concerning the possibility of some night Neighborhood meetings to accommodate leaders who are engaged in teaching or other jobs and Troop Committee members who are unable to attend daytime meetings. Concrete information and plans on this subject will be offered for voting at the next regular neighborhood meeting.

It was voted to purchase a World Association Flag, to be owned by the Neighborhood and available to any troop desiring to use it. Individual troops may contribute to the purchase if they so desire.

Mrs. Allison Nichols, Council Executive Director, was a special guest at this meeting.

Any leader desiring to work with Mrs. Harrington may make arrangements to do so by contacting Mrs. J. B. Jackson.

THINKING DAY — (taken from the Girl Scout Handbook)

Thinking Day falls during International Month on February 22. This day is the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell, Founder of all Scouting. It is the same as the birthday of George Washington, the first president of our country, which is a national holiday. It is celebrated also by Scouts and Guides in memory of Lord Baden-Powell. Lady Olave Baden-Powell, the World Chief Guide, was also born on this day.

Thinking Day reminds us of the friendship that exists among the countries that have Scouts and Guides. On this day members of the movement send their greetings to other members all over the world.

Due to the Council Training Institute being held in Corpus Christi on March 8 and 9, the regular Rockport-Fulton Neighborhood meeting will be held on Friday, March 2 at 1:00 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Audubon's Caracara Is The Symbol Of Mexico

Audubon's caracara is the symbol of Mexico, just as the bald eagle is the national bird of the United States. In 1325, according to legend, the Aztecs entered the Valley of Mexico and settled where they saw an eagle perched in a cactus with a serpent in its talons. This bird, actually a caracara, became their totem, and today, along with the cactus and the snake, appears on the great seal of that republic, being called El Aguila Mexicana, or the Mexican eagle.

They draw the name by which we know them from a South American source. Although ordinarily silent, if wounded or excited, a caracara will often stretch its neck, throw back its head until the ebony-hued crest feathers almost rest on its shoulders, and give the strange, prolonged, raucous cry after which Brilians named a similar species. Our bird was discovered by Audubon, and to this it owes the other half of its title.

They are a sort of kissing kin to the falcons, but not really of the family, for the falcon's beak is sharply hooked and serrated along its edges; that of the caracara, while hooked, is smooth-margined. Moreover, the falcon's talons are long and piercing, well-fitted for grasping prey, but the short-toed caracara prefers food that is lifeless, much of its bill of fare being furnished by carrion.

Audubon's bird is a big, husky bruiser, standing about 21 inches high, with a wing spread that may reach to four feet, and a distinctive coloration. The tops of its head and the crest are black, offset by a whitish collar and waistcoat, the latter flecked with brown. Its back and belly are dark brown or black; the white tail feathers are tipped with jet; and the face is red. Jutting from it is a strong, steel-gray beak.

Besides carrion, caracaras utilize a great deal of other food, catching mice, rabbits, cotton rats, prairie dogs and other rodents, as well as snakes, lizards, frogs, turtles, crabs, crayfish, fish and large insects.

However, they are not above a bit of highway robbery and have been seen to attack hawks, buzzards, and pelicans, forcing them to drop or disgorge their prey, which the caracara seized and promptly ate. The big, black Mexican vultures are also victims of this black and white highjacker, which will sail down to the ground near the vulture's meal—crest erect—and strut up, stiff-legged, frightening the scavengers away from their unsavory feast.

Caracaras are said to mate for life and in the areas that they inhabit each pair picks out a commanding site, from which they have an excellent view of the surrounding brush land and prairie, to build their home, to which they return, year after year.

In Texas their nests have been found in hackberries, elms, mesquites, oaks, ebonies, and Spanish daggers. They are large and bulky structures, made of small tree branches, and lined with sticks, grass and roots. In the top is a shallow depression, where the two, or rarely, three white eggs are laid.

After these hatch families often live and hunt together until the young birds are nearly grown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson of Katy, Texas, visited during the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Little and Laurie Sue. While here the Johnsons and the Littles attended a reunion of the 373 MP Company. They had been in the Air Force together three years ago. The reunion which included a supper was held at the Trade Winds Motel in Corpus Christi. Fifteen were present for the reunion.

Mrs. A. Arnett Ward, recently operated upon, is convalescing nicely.

Fur, Feathers & Fins

By JACK BAUGHMAN

The mermaid, half-fish, represents a particularly tenacious myth, which still persists among ignorant people at the present day. In certain cases dugongs, sea lions and the sea cow or manatee, with their somewhat human heads and fish-like bodies, have been taken for mermaids, but the persistence of the belief is due partly to the dried specimens brought home by travellers in Africa and Asia. On examination these are found to consist of the head and shoulders of a monkey cleverly united by wire to the tail-end of a fish (often the Nile Perch). These are manufactured in some numbers by the Egyptians and Chinese, who sell them at a handsome profit to credulous tourists, together with documents purporting to be signed by witnesses of the capture of these creatures in the sea.

Few pleasures exceed that of attracting song birds to our yards and observing at close range the beauty of form, color and song of the masterful music makers.

Song birds may be attracted to the yard in town or country if four things are provided. These are cover, food, water and homes. In this program trees are essential. If your yard is barren plant a few trees and shrubs. A mulberry, planted where its fruit will not fall too near the house, will provide an abundant supply of food for birds of all kinds. A few shrubs like the multiflora rose will provide favored nesting places for cardinals, catbirds, brown thrashers, mocking and humming birds.

Next on the list is food. A piece of raw beef suet, fastened to a tree or post about six feet above the ground will attract several species. An automatic bird feeder, filled with weed seed, or a mixture of white millet, grain sorghum and sunflower seed will attract many of the songsters.

Water is also important in winter as well as summer.

Although a woman's influence is not a new thing by any means, it's just about the newest thing in boating for 1956.

Translated into practical terms, this means that boat and motor manufacturers are engineering their products with plenty of emphasis on color and styling design with the view of satisfying the taste of America's 3,000,000 women boaters.

This became plainly evident last autumn when most of the major outboard manufacturers unveiled multicolored, chrome-plated products for the coming year.

The new awareness of fashion represents a minor revolution in the marine industry which, up to this time, has concentrated its efforts on improving the utilitarian aspects of its products.

However when they began making sweeping mechanical advances, the motor manufacturers in particular were unconsciously opening up a new recreational field to the gals and creating a new market at the same time.

Electric starting eliminated the need for strong-arm tactics to start the engine, remote controls made it as easy to drive as the family car and quiet operation made for steady nerves. All of which resulted in bringing women into the boating field.

And now comes fashion to please the woman of the house. According to Brooks Stevens, industrial designer, "Horsepower and operational advantages are taken for granted by women purchasers.

Experience in many industries has shown that design and color are the two major influences on women buyers."

It was bound to happen to the outboard, just as it did to automobiles, washing machines and television sets.

The urge for more speed on the water in 1956 is apparent in rakish hulls with new and more powerful inboard and outboard motors. Comfort also is stressed, however, especially in the cruising craft and highly stylized inboard and outboard runabouts. No radical departures in design or construction are in evidence and a variety of materials are used. There are steel hulls, boats shaped of fiberglass, of aluminum, plastics and sheet plywood and of mahogany planking laid over sturdy oak frames.

Inboard gasoline marine engines are becoming more powerful, and diesels lighter and more compact. Outboard motors can now be had with greatly increased horsepower and models of 30, 33, 35 and 40 h.p. added this year in the more popular makes. These big fellows have electric starters and there are much smaller units with improved hand starting mechanisms.

An English fish firm now uses polyethylene bags for icing dry lobster and crabs, to get them to market in good shape. The method overcomes the drawbacks of free ice used in the containers. The bags are supplied in the form of a lay-flat tube which may be cut to the required length, heat sealed at one end, filled with water, and then sealed at the other. The bags of water are then frozen solid and a layer of ice bags is placed in the carton. The lobsters or crabs are then placed on this and padded with wool. When the ice melts, the water is retained within the bags. Extra life is given to the cartons by this method. Formerly dampness rendered them hard to handle and air companies in particular were reluctant to take them. The British firm reports favorable comments on the method by their customers as well as transportation companies.

Channel squatters are the main reason large boat owners aren't more considerate of fishermen. They have the whole ocean to fish in, but anchor in the channels instead, ignoring the fact that these are necessary traffic routes.

How sailfish obtain their food has been a subject of much discussion, and anyone who has been sailfishing with several charterboat captains will have found that there is disagreement even in the manner in which the fish takes a trolling bait. One school of thought maintains that the fish strikes the bait with its bill to kill it, and the other school maintains that the striking action of the bill is a delusion and that the fish crushes the bait in its jaws. Both probably are right in certain cases. In taking the bait, usually trolled at several knots on the surface, the fish rises behind the bait, and, after looking it over, approaches from the rear. When within striking distance, the bill is seen to rise above the bait and appear to strike at it with a downward or often a sidewise motion. At times this may actually be an attempt to stun or kill the bait with the bill, but more often the sailfish is probably attempting to take the bait directly into its mouth. An examination of hundreds of baits which have been struck by sailfish indicates that in nearly all cases they had been partly crushed between the jaws. Scales were missing from both sides of the body where the jaws had closed over the bait. Observations of sailfish feeding showed schools of from 6 to 30 individuals milling about small groups of "pilchards" forcing them into compact schools. At short intervals, while the pilchards were kept bunched up by the circling sailfish, a single sailfish would break out of the circle and swim rather slowly directly through the pilchards, thrashing vigorously sideways with its bill, hitting numbers of the small fish and stunning or killing them. After thrashing through the school the sailfish would then turn, swim slowly downwards beneath the school where it would then swim about picking up the dead fish as they sank. Besides such methods of feeding as that described above, sailfish are frequently taken while fishermen are fishing the reefs in deep water with live bait. That this could be a very productive method of catching sailfish, can be inferred by the fact that in the stomach analysis the false albacore, a favorite live bait, accounted for 7.6% of all the food found.

Seniors Plan Trip

The Seniors have received information about the reservation from Prade Ranch. At the present time the class has written for reservation for the weekend of May 5.

Ladies' Choice

In Scotland, about 1288, there was a law that gave any unmarried woman the right to propose marriage in leap year. If the eligible man didn't accept the proposal he was made to pay a maximum fine of one pound. Later similar laws were passed in France, Genoa, and Florence.

This is the way that the famous legend of Leap Year got started. As far as we can tell there was never any such law in the United States.

Do you think it is about time we made one?

Problem

In Health class recently it was found out that a person breathes an average of 12 times a minute. One of the students went a little further and found out that a person breathes approximately 17,280 times in 24 hours. In a year the approximate number is 6,307,200 times and in the average life of 65 years a person breathes approximately 409,968,000 times.

This was figured out by Jean Mullinax.

Valentine Queen Crowned At Assembly

Thanks

The Senior class sent telegrams on Valentines Day and made a clear $10.00. The class wants to thank Mr. Beasley for the telegram blanks, Mr. Coleman for his help, and all others who helped.

A.C.H.S. Student Ill

Stephen Weber, Sophomore, has been absent from school for quite a long time. It is reported that he has been in the hospital and will be coming home either the last of this week or the first of next week. We hope it will not be long until he is up and back at school with us.

Mrs. Horton has been casting the junior play, the next assembly play and the Interscholastic League play. The casting for most of these plays have been completed, but there are still a few vacancies left.

Senior Get Scare

This gave most of the seniors a big scare and most of them have started working harder.

Musicales Held At Bruhl Home

Miss Nancy Millar of San Antonio, was the guest artist presented by the Woman's Club at the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bruhl.

Miss Millar, a niece of Mrs. Bruhl, who was introduced by Mrs. Jack Hagar, is a piano senior at Trinity University and presented a portion of the recital she will give for graduation later in the year. She is not a stranger to the Rockport people as she gave a musicale last year for the Woman's Club. Her program included "Sonata in D Major," by Haydn; "Gardens in the Rain," Debussy; "Two Intermezzi—Opus 118, no. 1 and Opus 76, no. 7," by Brahms; "Scherzo in B. Minor," Chopin.

Following the current trend of combining the compositions of the modern artists with the classics of the old masters, her program presented sharp contrasts in style, thus producing a very versatile program. Her flawless technique, brilliant performance and charm of manner delighted her audience. Mrs. James G. Millar of San Antonio, mother of the artist, was also a guest.

A large arrangement of pink gladioli and carnations was in the living room and yellow jonquils were in the entrance hall.

Mrs. Fred A. Bracht, president of the club, presided at the silver coffee and tea service. The tea table was laid with a red linen cloth edged in white chenille. With the recessed window for a background, the Valentine motif was developed with a cluster of hearts in ruffled maline, flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra. Matching tapers were on the buffet.

In a brief business session, the organization voted that the teenagers continue to hold two dances each week, Friday and Saturday nights, each dance to be chaperoned by members of the Youth Adult Sponsors Association, this to continue for a period of one month, until definite plans can be worked out.

Rebekah Lodge Met Tuesday

Those delegates elected were Miss Katie Lee Clark, Mrs. Loreta Raulerson, and Mrs. Marion Barnes, with Mrs. Neva Sorenson, Mrs. Pearl Wright and Mrs. Ella Mae Ebert as alternates. Twenty-two members were present.

A Valentine party followed the business meeting. The table was laid with a lace cloth with a runner and red crepe paper in the center. An arrangement of Valentine hearts, made by Mrs. Somerville Ballou, was used as the centerpiece. Punch, mints and heart-shaped cookies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Lucille Earp, Mrs. Myrtle McLester, Mrs. Somerville Ballou, and Mrs. Joe Suttles.

Mr. and Mrs. Cody Thomas and children, Bill and Judy, of Taft, visited Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes.

the total kill at St. Charles Club amounted to only 3600 birds as against 4931 last year. The goose kill for both years was about the same, he said.

Guy Jellison, of Los Angeles, staying at Taylor Oak Trailer Park and John Belt, Lockney, Texas, of the same place, brought in 15 nice trout and 2 reds Saturday. Bob Townsend, of Saskatchewan, and Luther Cooper, of Lockney, caught 10 trout and a red Monday; Jerry Hodges, Crosbyton, fishing the same day, strung 3 reds and Mr. and Mrs. Art Oblander and friends caught 3 trout and 3 flounders.

Tuesday Charles Whitfill, of Silvertown and Belt, fished with their friends from Lockney and caught 30 pounds of trout, red and flounders.

Frazier Cantrell went fishing by himself on Monday and Tuesday. The first day he came in with 25 trout, the second he had 27 more.

Down at Curly Floyd's Sunday, C. R. Richardson went out and fished below the old shipyard, catching one red that weighed 8 pounds, another that weighed 6, and a 2-pound sheephead. Believe it or not, all of them, including the sheephead, were caught on a spoon. Wednesday Richardson was at Copano, and caught a 4 1/2-pound red, a 3-pound trout and 8 rat reds.

Carl Kutzer fished Wednesday, also, and caught one 3-pound and several smaller trout.

Curly, himself, and H. G. Nichols, waded out in front of Curly's place Tuesday and caught four nice trout, running from 2 to 3 1/2 pounds, and Wednesday Curly bagged a 3 1/2-pound speck and a 2-pound red.

A few trout were caught off the pier last night also, despite the fog, as an occasional fish came in under the lights.

Several fishermen caught some off the concrete breakwater in front of town yesterday, one nice string of about a dozen sizable trout among those seen.

Fred Christilles had Mr. and Mrs. Muller, of San Antonio, out last Sunday, and they caught lots of little ones they threw back, but no keepers.

Over at Mills' Wharf Harry reported some fairly good catches. On Saturday he had a party out that came in with 49 sheephead and a trout. The sheephead weighed between 3 1/2 and 4 pounds. Sunday Harry fished R. P. John-

The Hines fished again Tuesday, and came in with 3 sheephead and 97 trout. One kicker boat went out yesterday, also, Harry said, and came in with a nice string of reds and trout that he didn't get a count on, from St. Charles Bay. Another brought in 73 trout.

Flying Squirrels Are Creatures of the Night

A member of the shadow world of living creatures that become active at night, the little flying squirrel is so secretive and retiring that it may be fairly numerous in a locality where people do not even know it lives. Widely distributed over the wooded portions of eastern Texas, both in the piney woods and post oaks, flying squirrels come to light only when some woodchopper scares one out of a hollow tree, or some unusual circumstance discloses their presence. Yet, shy as they are, they are not averse to civilization, for at least two nests are known to have been found on city lots in Huntsville!

They make their homes in woodpecker holes, knot holes, and hollows in limbs, trunks of trees and stubs and, in addition take possession of many odd places for their residence. Among these are bird-boxes, dove-cotes, attics, cupboards, boxes, and other nooks in occupied or unoccupied houses located at or within the borders of the woods.

Denied any of these places, they will make nests of leaves, lining them with fine, fibrous bark, grass, moss, fur, or other soft material, placing them securely in the branches or forks of trees.

As a rule these nests are small and hold only one pair with their young, and sometimes only an individual, but occasionally several families may occupy the same tree trunk apartment. In southern Illinois fifty were discovered in one nest; an old stump in Indiana produced fifteen; and a bird house near Philadelphia disgorged thirty that had invaded it and were making their home there!

No one can see a flying squirrel without being charmed by its delicate grace of form and velvety fur, nor fail to notice the great black eyes, which give it an air of lively intelligence. These members of the squirrel family are distinguished from all others in the group by extensions of skin along their sides which are attached to both the front and hind legs. When the animal leaps from some elevated point with its limbs outspread, this membrane and the underside of its body present a broad, flat surface to the air on which it glides from one tree to another, banking and turning with more ease than human pilot.

Flying squirrels make the most delightful of pets, because of their extraordinary playfulness and readiness to accept man as a friend, forming affectionate attachments for their human hosts. By day they prefer to sleep, curled up like a furry ball in some dark corner, but in the evening their curiosity about strange things and their mischievous antics are often extremely entertaining.

They are easily raised in captivity, if one has the know how, and L. E. Greeson, of Arlington, Va., has taken advantage of this fact to establish a most unusual farm. He advertises it as "The Largest Flying Squirrel Ranch in the World," a claim that no one seems to dispute, for there are times when he has as many as 2000 of the little gray rascals on hand in the big airy cages where he raises them.

St. Peter's Church To Hold Mid-Week Services During Lent

Midweek services throughout the season of Lent are being held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church each Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., comprising a shortened form of evening prayer, followed by an address by Harry Carter, lay minister.

The subject of his discourses will be "Manners and Customs of Bible Lands."

In these sermons, Mr. Carter hopes to throw new light on the meanings of many texts and incidents recorded in the Scriptures that are not readily understood by the western mind because of the difference in background.

The topic for next Wednesday will be "Shepherds and Peasants."

All services are open to the general public.
