Second Baby Whooper Dies at Audubon Park

NEW ORLEANS — Audubon Park's baby whooping crane No. 1, about whom there was so much whooping, is dead.

Doctors said the chick, found dead yesterday in its cage, died of an extensive lung infection. The bird, widely celebrated after its emergence into the world last month, had been given a good chance for survival.

A second baby crane hatched three days after the first, but it disappeared within a few days. Park Supt. George Douglass theorized that an owl, rat or snake got into the cage and made off with it.

Special precautions had been taken at the New Orleans Zoo for the safe survival of crane No. 1. The cage was enclosed with wire, canvas and a wooden floor.

Doctors identified the fungus in the bird's lung tissue as aspergillus, a form of pneumonia common in some birds.

Yesterday zoo employees noticed the baby crane lying motionless on the ground. Attendants had to fight off the parents, Josephine and Crip, to get into the cage.

Douglass said the chick had been thriving well with a healthy appetite for shrimp, bugs and worms.

Douglass had hopes the parents would lay other eggs in the shelter next spring. Before the arrival of the two little cranes at Audubon Park, there were only 30 whooping cranes known to exist in the world.

Dove, Duck Shoot Set

AUSTIN, Texas—The Game and Fish Commission recommended that duck and goose seasons open simultaneously in Texas this fall and acknowledged a slight Federal Fish and Wildlife Service increase in the mourning dove season.

Meeting in Austin, the Commission implied an anticipated curb in waterfowl hunting this fall by stating a preference that if the Federal authorities do reduce shooting privileges that the season's length, rather than the bag limit of five and ten birds, be cut.

Last year, the duck season was increased from sixty to seventy-five days. The goose season was kept at sixty days and did not open until fifteen days after the duck harvest began.

The Commission also authorized antelope harvests in both the Panhandle and West of the Pecos and voted the usual seasons for the various state areas which, through the Legislature, granted the Commission permission to set harvest regulations according to current conditions.

Public hunts to reduce surplus game on four demonstration experimental wildlife management areas in key state regions were authorized, and antlerless deer hunting to reduce deer overpopulation in Hill Country areas was again sanctioned with the exception of Kerr County which was exempted by request of Commissioner Hal Peterson of Kerrville.

The Commission decided to keep the whitewing dove season in the Rio Grande Valley closed for another year and approved purchase of the two hundred acre Longoria tract at $300 per acre as a nesting area to expedite the whitewing dove comeback.

Adopting its annual budget, the Commission recognized coastal sentiment by authorizing $150,000 for repairs to Rollover Pass, connecting East Galveston Bay with the Gulf. Tentative sanction was given to another $300,000 for 1957-58. It reactivated the closing of Galveston Bay to oyster power dredges and ordered shell dredgers to begin belated conserving of fine shell.

A request by the city of Bowie in Montague County to close Amon Carter Lake to the use of nets and seines for taking fish was granted.

The Commission petitioned the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service to increase the limit of snow geese from five per day and five in possession since overpopulation of this species in the coastal marshes is reducing feed supplies ordinarily available to the more desirable species.

One change in regulations for the twenty-eight county Panhandle bracket requires plugging of shotguns to a limit of three shells for hunting quail and wild turkey.

Marriage Does Not Change Property Ownership

June is traditionally the month for weddings, and many couples will be taking marriage vows within the next few weeks. But, while a certain symbolic transfer of "worldly goods" is often associated with the wedding ceremony, under Texas law, the act of marrying another does not give you the authorization to take control of his property.

Generally speaking, each spouse has the right to control and dispose of his or her own separate property. The separate property of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired by either after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Aside from the ordinary community estate, there is a class of property known as the wife's "special community," which includes all the income from her separate real property, and probably the interest on bonds or notes, and dividends on stocks owned in her separate right. While the husband may have similar assets, the law accords them no particular distinction from ordinary community property.

Although the history of the matter is somewhat confusing, it appears that under present day law the husband has control of ordinary community property; but control of the wife's special community property is reserved to her.

Certain restrictions are imposed upon both husband and wife in exercising such control. For instance, the husband cannot legally dispose of community property in such a way as to defraud the wife, nor can he sell the homestead without her signature and acknowledgment. And the wife's sale or mortgage of her separate real estate, stocks or bonds is not valid unless her husband joins with her in the transaction—he must sign and execute the necessary legal papers along with her.

There are laws exempting the wife's separate and special community property from liability for debts incurred by the husband. Such liability is restricted to his separate property and the ordinary community property.

On the other hand, debts incurred by the wife in obtaining necessities for herself or the children all property belonging to either party, including the husband's separate property. For other debts which she has power to incur, only her separate and special community property are liable.

All of these distinctions emphasize the advisability of keeping proper records. By doing so the various classes of community and separate property owned by married couple will always be easily distinguishable. Each category will then receive the special protection afforded to it by our laws.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Vessel "Oregon" Makes Good Haul of Reds

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Exploratory Vessel Oregon returned to Pensacola recently after a two weeks cruise in the Gulf of Mexico with approximately 2700 pounds of tails from the deep water red shrimp, caught in from 1500 to 1700 feet of water, and with a number of specimens of a large striped shrimp, as yet unidentified.

Fishing was carried out with a variety of nets, but, because the Oregon's crew is by now expert in this deep water fishing, only two nets were lost.

Highest catch rates on the red shrimp, which look as though they were already boiled when they come from the water, was obtained west and southwest of the Dry Tortugas in depths of 1260 to 1320 feet of water where catches averaged 225 pounds of heads on shrimp per drag. It was in this area, also, that the striped shrimp were caught in amounts varying from one to 45 pounds per drag. Drags were from two to four hours in duration, and resulted in 3145 pounds of heads on red shrimp from this particular area.

Drags made off Mobile and between there and the Mississippi Delta were also successful, and 2,055 pounds of heads-on reds were taken. Three drags made southwest of Tampa were unsuccessful.

A smaller deep-water shrimp was mixed with every catch.

Big Game Fishing In Hawaii

HONOLULU—Big game fishing has become one of the most popular vacation pastimes in Hawaii. This is pointed up by the impressive record of catches this year, including a world record 796-pound blue marlin taken off the Kona coast of the island of Hawaii.

Hundreds of Hawaii visitors are discovering that island waters abound in game fish and are taking time out from the busy schedule of beach sports and inter-island touring to put a line out for the big ones. There are more than 650 species of fish in Hawaii waters, including the giant marlin, big tuna and dolphin.

Big game fishing headquarters are at Kewalo Basin in Honolulu and the village of Kailua on the Kona coast of the island of Hawaii. Charter cruisers are available at each place with experienced fishermen-skippers and crews.

The world record blue marlin was brought to gaff off the Kona coast by Pablo Hiberio, a crewman on the fishing cruiser Kumu. It first was reported to have been hooked by an Idaho sportsman, but he advised the International Game Fish Association, which recognized the record, that he had allowed a more experienced angler to boat the giant.

Another king-sized Hawaiian marlin still is a candidate for a world record. That is the 1,002-pounder caught by Kona fishing captain George Parker in 1954. At issue is the matter of whether the fish was a blue or striped marlin. Others up to 2,500 pounds have been caught by commercial fishermen.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Pady and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sivells have had as guest in their homes, Mrs. Pady's and Mrs. Sivells' brother, Bill Kelsay and family from Can- nelton, Ind.

Good Duck Crop Seen for 1956

Broods are "popping like popcorn" throughout the Canadian prairie waterfowl region with late nesters and re-nesters contributing to a high now approaching its peak. Average size of broods is exceeding the long term average of six and a good duck crop is in sight.

This bright picture of waterfowl nesting is painted in the July issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duck-ological," prepared by Chief Naturalist Bert W. Cartwright. He states that "If the weather behaves from now on, a duck crop comparable to last year's excellent outturn is assured."

The report reveals that heavy rainfall has temporarily erased the threat of drought in southern Alberta and western Saskatchewan. It mentions scattered hail storms in Saskatchewan and Manitoba and some flooding from excessive rain in Manitoba's important potato area, but does not envision this seriously affecting the overall duck crop.

Cartwright also points up the fact that Canada geese have made an excellent showing, particularly in southern Alberta where broods of five to seven have been observed. The big geese continue to spread and increase on DU projects in the Brooks and Hanna districts of Alberta and have also become reestablished as breeding species on numerous projects in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Ducks Unlimited biologists are now running brood count surveys in cooperation with Canadian and U.S. Wildlife Service and provincial game department staffs. DU Kee-men will be in action about the middle of the month. Cartwright concludes, "By the end of the month we should have a comprehensive picture of the degree of success of the current breeding season."

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hayden left Sunday for a two-weeks vacation to Watumka and Holdenville, Okla. and also to Cutoff and Houma, La. In Louisiana they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce Hayden and son Cloyce Clyde and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Jones and children, Randy and Cynthia Ann.

Gene Wagner flew in Thursday from New Orleans, La., and was met in Corpus Christi by his wife and son, Dana. Mr. Wagner visited during the weekend with his family before returning to New Orleans where he is employed by Shoreline Drilling Co.

John Young County Judge
Nueces County, Texas

There's no politics in these messages. They were written by JOHN BELL'S opponent before he decided he wanted to try to be a Congressman.

The efficient service and invaluable help which JOHN BELL rendered the people of Nueces County in obtaining a substantial federal appropriation for a port enlargement program is typical of the forceful representation JOHN BELL has provided our entire district in Washington.

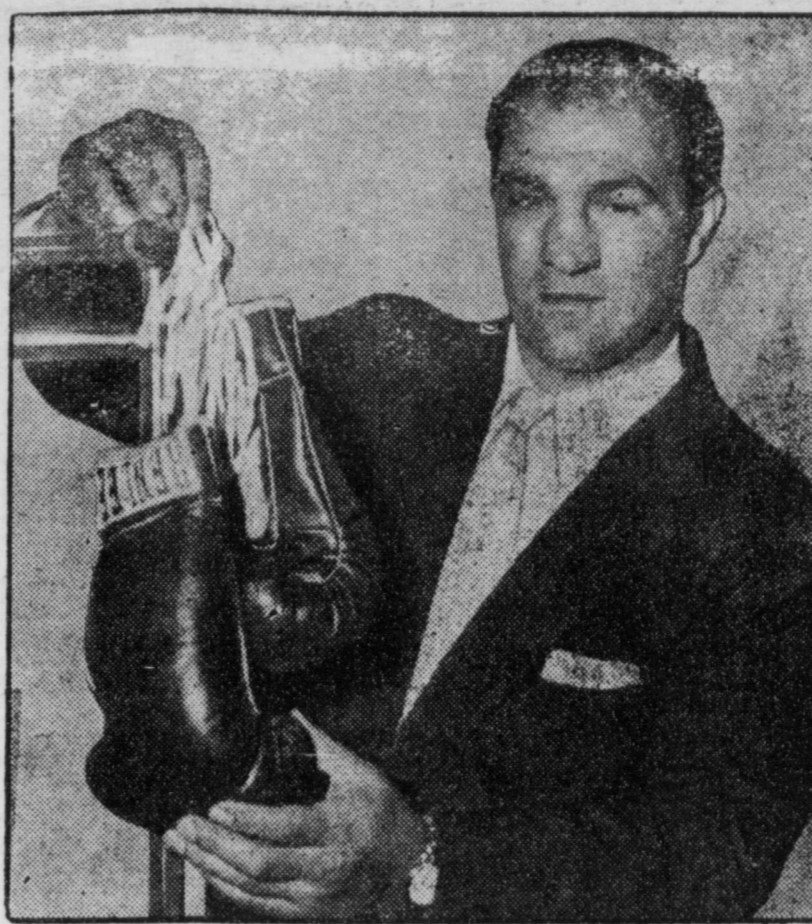

JOHN BELL'S record as our Congressman is a record of constructive accomplishment. It is a prime example of area progress in action. It is the kind of representation we must continue to have in the years ahead as our current projects expand and as new horizons of development and growth come into view.

We need to continue this great era of progress and area co-operation. We need to keep JOHN BELL on the job for us in Washington.

Corpus Christi-Rockport Now Separate Division In Phone Company Change

Corpus Christi and Rockport now form a major center of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, following a reorganization which left only these two towns in the same district.

"This puts the two towns in the class with Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio as a district all to itself," Stan Bell, district manager, said. "The change means that the company will be able to devote the activities of the entire district staff just to Corpus Christi."

The 15 other cities now in the Corpus Christi district, together with 10 from the Uvalde district, will form a new district with headquarters at Victoria, Bell said.

Rockport will remain in the local district because it is a community dial office with no local operator. Corpus Christi operators handle long distance calls and information for Rockport subscribers. Rockport does have a business and maintenance office, however.

Although Bell did not say so, one probable reason for the reorganization was that telephone maintenance in the area will, without doubt, be tremendously increased by the installation of the 813th Aircraft Warning Squadron at Rockport.

Bell said the change had been under consideration for some time and was made necessary by the tremendous growth of Corpus Christi since World War II.

Bell said that five years ago the city had 42,000 telephones and now has nearly 62,000. The new Victoria district, which will be formed "right away" will have about 50,000 phones.

Business Firms Subject To Floor Stocks Tax

Business firms subject to the new floor stocks tax on products included in the recently passed Highway Act may now obtain copies of Form 2265 from the district office of Internal Revenue at Austin, District Director R. L. Phinney said today. Returns, with payments, are due by Oct. 15.

Floor stocks taxes will have to be paid on inventories in the hands of dealers (defined to include a wholesaler, jobber, distributor or retailer) on July 1, 1956, the starting date of the new or increased taxes under the bill. These taxes will fall on the following kinds of inventories:

1. Trucks, truck trailers, busses, etc., held for sale by a dealer on July 1. The dealer will have to pay the tax either on the price he paid or on the price for which the article was sold by the manufacturer, producer, or importer.
2. Tires of the type used on highway vehicles and held for sale by dealers on July 1. The floor stocks tax would also apply to such tires installed or held for installation on such date by manufacturers, producers, or importers of highway vehicles.
3. Tread rubber held by any person (other than the manufacturer, producer, or importer) for sale or use in the recapping or re-treading of tires of the type used on highway vehicles on July 1.
4. Gasoline held for sale on July 1 by a dealer (but not retail stocks of gasoline held in tanks at the place where they are intended to be sold at retail through pumps directly to the consumer, nor gasoline held by a producer or importer).

The floor stocks tax rates would be equal to the difference between the present rate and the new July 1 rate. The new tax on tread rubber is three cents a pound.

An instruction sheet accompanies the new form, Mr. Phinney said. It further explains and defines inclusions and exemptions in the products listed as taxable on the form itself. Two million copies of the form have been printed to meet the needs of affected businesses. Of these about a third are being distributed directly by trade associations and manufacturers, and the remaining two-thirds are available through district revenue offices.

Continuing taxes called for under the Highway Act will be paid as part of regular quarterly excise tax returns. A 16-year road-building program to cost about 33 billion dollars will be financed by the taxes set forth in the new act.

Returns and payments should be sent to the district office, and checks of money orders should be made payable to the Internal Revenue Service, Mr. Phinney reminded business firms.

2,000 YEAR OLD DISEASE STILL WITH US TODAY

Austin, Tex. — A disease 2,000 years old is still with us according to Dr. Henry A. Holle, commissioner of health. The disease is tetanus or lockjaw and is caused by bacteria found in earth, garden mold and manure. The bacteria are normally found in the intestines of animals, such as horses, cows, sheep and goats.

Tetanus bacteria thrive where there is no free air or oxygen. That is why a puncture wound such as that caused by nails, splinters, or gunshot is the most dangerous. Especially is this true when the injury occurs in a barn yard, cow pasture, or where field manure has been used.

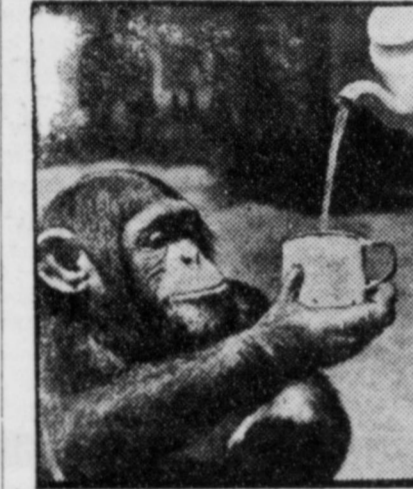

All such wounds should be taken seriously. They should be opened, cleaned, and dressed by a physician.

If tetanus develops, such signs as restlessness, stiffness of the neck, a tight jaw and beginning stiffness of the arms and legs may be observed. Usually such symptoms develop about five to eight days after the injury. Children may have convulsions and there will be fever.

It was not until late in the 19th century that a preventive measure was developed. At first, this protection against lockjaw was given separately. As years passed and research continued, doctors perfected a vaccine or preventive measure to protect the person early in life.

Now this protection is given at the same time that immunization is given for diphtheria and whooping cough, and the combination is known as the "triple vaccine." It is given to a child in the last half of its first year of life, or earlier. Booster doses should be given at intervals to keep up the protection and especially after any puncture wound.

QUITE, QUITE—You'd jolly well better fill up when it's time for afternoon tea in England. Lady "Jane", politely holds her cup for a refill. The chimp's tea party at the London Zoo, the first of the season, was a smashing success with both chimps and visitors.

Crane Men Seek Test for Pairs

AUSTIN, Texas — Authorities are considering a plan whereby at least four Whooping cranes would be established in captive confinement in a final desperate effort to save the rare birds, according to reports to the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

The proposal, which originated with Canadian conservationists, apparently developed from conflicting observations of pen held whoopers. While mating of the giant birds in captivity seems possible on the basis of two such occurrences, ordinary precautions of such arrangements do not seem adequate since both efforts were marked by loss of young.

Two birds conceived one young whooper at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge a few years ago but the baby crane disappeared mysteriously a few days later. Two whoopers were hatched at the New Orleans zoo this spring but one was missing shortly afterwards, apparently the victim of a predator.

The pen reared plan calls for capturing some of the few remaining birds and giving them maximum security, away from public and predators alike, under a career aviculturist.

This proposal marks a new migration season when northern reports indicate that the whoopers are scattered from Saskatchewan to northwest territory with a yearling member of the main flock even summering on the Aransas refuge wintering grounds. The Executive Secretary said that since the fight to save the Whooping Crane has become symbolic of the public's interest in conservation of our natural resources, authorities consider it potentially bad psychology not to exhaust every restorative effort.

"This decision on pen raised Whoopers is one for the bird people to make," he added. "But it all points up to the common problem of improvising and planning to meet with the ever increasing pitfall for all wildlife."

Mr. and Mrs. Wally Sloan of Sinton visited during the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Brundrett.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Brundrett were Mrs. David Rich of Corpus Christi and Mrs. Fred Mires of Taft.

Americans Have High Regard for Speed

The Texas Safety Association has found that the Americans have a high regard for speed. The fact that we make things faster and distribute them faster than other nations has a great deal to do with our economic strength. In sports we like fast moving games. For most of us life is geared to a pretty swift tempo.

But there's a place for everything, including speed. And the staggering toll of traffic deaths and injuries plus the fact that speed is involved in the vast majority of them makes it plain that speed has no place on the highway.

It's rather interesting to note that safety authorities don't limit the speed menace just to exceeding the speed limit. They list failure to yield the right of way, passing without caution, driving too fast for road and weather conditions and driving too close to the car ahead as symptomatic of the "hurry complex" that causes accidents.

That "hurry complex" is the target of the "Slow Down and Live" campaign on the highways of the nation this summer.

The sponsoring National Conference of State Safety Coordinators believes that if that message can be implanted in the minds of drivers everywhere it can effect a reduction in the traffic toll.

Sixteen of the states participating in a similar campaign last year did record reduction in traffic deaths on the highway.

Of course, it always is difficult to trace the exact reason why an accident didn't happen.

But certainly the continually growing menace of the highway death and injury toll to every highway user warrants the cooperation and support of everyone in this national effort to have all of us keep speed in its proper place and accept "Slow Down and Live" as our slogan for the highway.
