Postmasters Hear Region Chief Saturday

J. D. Martin, regional controller of the post office department from Dallas, told about 60 postmasters from surrounding towns that if the post office was to live up to its most recent slogan: "Move today's mail today in a businesslike way," it might be a good idea to set up a sort of mental balance sheet, listing some of the assets and liabilities of their own post offices.

Pointing out that the post office had accumulated an enormous amount of goodwill after 183 years of safe delivery of the mail as expeditiously as possible, Martin said that it was possible to lose that good will in a hurry through carelessness, delayed mails, or some similar dereliction.

"If everybody along the line moves today's mail today," he said, "we can practically eliminate delayed mail, at least where it is the fault of the postal service."

Martin said that Postmaster General Summerfield's announced major goal, service so improved that a letter mailed anywhere in the United States can be delivered anywhere else in the United States the following day is not idle words. It may be some time off, Martin pointed out, but he believes it can be done.

The regional controller said that one of the post office liabilities is real estate.

"We have some post office buildings that are so ancient and decrepit and overcrowded and outmoded that they are liabilities rather than assets. We have some that are almost fire traps. Congress has not had an organized building program with appropriated funds since 1938. Since then the population of this country has increased by over 50 million people.

These antiquated buildings should be replaced with buildings of modern functional design, instead of the monumental type of architecture we used to have."

The quarterly gathering included postmasters from Taft, Gregory, Rockport, Odem, Placedo, Mathis, Riviera, Edroy, Goliad, Orange Grove, Falfurrias, Robstown, Sinton, Refugio, Beeville, Dinero, Alice, Fulton, Tivoli, Woodsboro, Aransas Pass and Clarkwood.

Getting underway at 3 p. m. Saturday, the visiting postmasters were taken for a boat ride along the Rockport and Fulton waterfronts before returning to the Aransas County Woman's Club Building for a two-hour seminar on postal problems.

A seafood dinner was served at 6:30 p. m., followed by Martin's speech. Music was furnished during the evening by Miss Janet Grant of Rockport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Grant, and Miss Helmi Strahl, of Corpus Christi, who played duets and solos on their accordions.

The dinner consisted of shrimp, fish, crab gumbo, deviled crabs, hush puppies, potato salad, cole slaw, beans and all the trimmings, and was served buffet style.

It was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Simmons, Mrs. J. Reid Simmons, and Mrs. Cleo Smith, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Buddy McElveen, and reached a new high in Rockport entertainment, everyone, beguiled by the variety and deliciousness of the food, going back for seconds and even thirds.

Mrs. Simmons and her helpers were ably aided by the Misses Julia Fox, DeRema LeFevre, Janice Garrett, and Sue Hackett.

Sacred Heart Barbecue Plans Completed

According to Father Thomas Meany, final plans have been made for the annual Sacred Heart Parish Barbecue to be held at the Lions' Pit next to the Rockport Yacht Basin on Sunday, August 9, from 11 a. m. until 6 p. m. or later.

This barbecue is a joint effort on the part of all the parishioners of Sacred Heart Church and is always open to everyone in the area or for outside that wants to attend. Proceeds go to the building fund of the church.

This year attendance prizes will be offered as well as barbecue to the holders of three lucky tickets. The man, woman or child whose name comes out of the hat first will receive an eight-transistor radio, Father Meany says; second prize is a 24" barbecue grill; and third prize is a pair of aluminum lawn chairs. Tickets are $1.25 each.

The barbecue committee is made up of the following members of Sacred Heart Parish:

Jack McCready, chairman; Harold Picton, vice-chairman; Travis Johnson and Fred Bracht, tickets; meat, Dick Picton and Joe Johnson; cooking, Dick Fox; wood, Rudy Nava; grounds, Leonard LeBlanc; serving, Jack McCready; soft drinks, Robert A. Shivers; potato salad and coffee, Sacred Heart Altar Society and Mothers' Club, with Mrs. Willie Close acting as head of this department; supplies, Vernon Kleypas; meat cutting, Dewey Iles.

The Commissioners are Ross Demory, Bill Jones and Tom Dannelly. Chester Barre is in charge of the Concession Stand. The managers are as follows—Junior League: Braves—Jimmy Hayden, Kasper Kutach and Bill Edwards; Dodgers—J. N. May and C. E. Nickerson; Cubs—Rex Davis and Bill Kelsay; Giants—Charlie Smith and Bill Parker; Indians—Thomas Lee and Mike Hernandez; Cardinals—"Frenchie" LaBorde and Santos Lopez; Big League: Red Sox—Ed Beasley; Orioles—Valentine Florez; Bombers—Manuel Florez; Dodgers—Richard Sharp. DALLAS NEWS EDITORS HERE

Tom Simmons editor of the Dallas News and Jean, his wife, travel editor for the same paper, along with their little daughter, Susie, were in Rockport Wednesday for an extensive tour of the region's facilities.

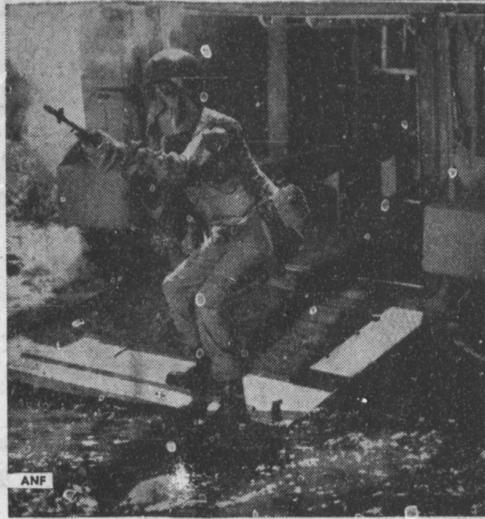

Through courtesy of Simon G. Michael, the Simmons were given a boat ride along Rockport's entire waterfront, with Hugh Morrison as skipper, Bob Conwell of the Coastal Bend Tourist Association, as guide, and Mr. and Mrs. Home Faber along to help point out places of interest.

After their trip along the bay front, they were shown the Little Bay beach and basin, Fulton basin and facilities, Goose Island, the Big Tree, the A C & W station, the county airport, and Michael's School of Fine Arts, before touring the marine laboratory and stopping by for a call on Mrs. Mary Juergens, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The Simmons left Dallas last Saturday morning, stopped off in Houston for a short period, and are now on their way to visit the Valley. They expect to return by way of Corpus Christi and Fort Worth, where Mr. Simmons has a speaking engagement next Monday morning.

JAYCEE-ETTES SPONSORING JUNIOR HI DANCE

The Aransas County Jayceettes are sponsoring a Junior High Dance at the Youth Recreation Center on Friday night. Out-of-town visitors are invited.

MARTIANS BEWARE—Should interplanetary warfare ever become a reality, the American Space Soldier sent against the outer world would probably look something like this. While improving its personal clothing and equipment for today's modern force, the Army also has its eye on the future. Pictured here are some prototypes that have already proven practicable. Note the 2-way radio helmet for control of troops in attack, the infra-red binoculars to see clearly at night or in the blackness of outer space, the thermal mask and gloves for protection against the deadly heat of atomic blast or space radiation, the armored vest and groin armor to deflect fragments, and the new M-14 rifle which in effect is a miniature machine gun. Not shown, but under consideration are the new one-piece welded shoes that reduce absorption of radioactive particles on the ground.

Another Letter From Mr. Carter

To be sending shipping news to a Gulf coast town like Rockport is like "sending coals to Newcastle."

However, not everyone on the coast is connected with maritime affairs, nor has everyone traveled as a passenger on a freight ship. So, here are a few impressions of life on the S. S. Hastings of the Waterman Steamship Corp. bound from New Orleans to London with a mixed cargo and nine assorted passengers, who also mix very well though comprising some five nationalities.

To the tourist looking for excitement, lots of company, shuffleboard, movies, bingo and all the hullabaloo of a passenger ship this way of traveling would be a disappointing experience, but to those who love the sea, who want to catch up on their reading, study, meditation; to the traveler who likes a lot of deck space or room space, the freight ship is ideal. Furthermore, if a person cannot find congeniality amongst nine people it is a moot question whether the same individual could be happy in a crowd of nine hundred.

The Hastings, 10,800 tons, driven by its single screw, steam turbine engine, is heading north, many knots off the coast of Georgia, making for Norfolk, Va. Her normal speed of 16 knots is being exceeded as the Gulf stream is helping her along.

The sea is a restless panorama of gorgeous sapphire tipped with opal. Flying fish dart from wave to wave. Cloud effects are impressive. Yesterday thin grey shower curtains connected sky with sea at three points of the compass, simultaneously, attesting the squally type of weather then prevailing. As one squall hit the ship visibility rapidly decreased

Shrimp Small for Aug. 15 Opening Date

AUSTIN—Shrimp in the bays along the Texas coast still will be too small for economical harvest when the season reopens Aug. 15, according to the executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Coastal bay waters are closed to shrimping, to reopen on Aug. 15. However, recent experimental drags of Commission biologists show the shrimp to be undersize. In one area a sample taken by the biologists showed 70 percent to be white shrimp, measuring only 105 mm or approximately 4 inches. Another area showed the shrimp to be only 87 mm or a little more than 3 1/2 inches.

"When these small shrimp are taken by netters and graded there will be a tremendous loss," the executive secretary said. "It also will seriously affect the entire shrimp harvest and be harmful to next year's crop."

"Shrimpers would do better to wait at least another 15 days before going out with their nets. Their hauls would be much more productive from a revenue standpoint; their catches would be of much better quality and the loss of young shrimp would be materially reduced."

Solution Offered Water Problems

As a partial solution of the water problems of the Coastal Bend and particularly of the towns of Refugio, Rockport, Fulton, Aransas Pass, Sinton and Taft, Homer C. Innis, of Lockwood, Andrews and Newnam, has this to say:

"It appears that there is an excellent location at the confluence of Mission Bay with Copano Bay for a large reservoir that would make maximum beneficial use of the Mission River."

Innis' firm, much interested in South Texas water problems, have done considerable field work on a method of water conservation that will add many millions of gallons a day to the potential water in the region.

"Our brief field explorations have shown that there are at least two locations on the Aransas River as well; one just west of the causeway between Rockport and Bay-side, and the other upstream on the river about four or five miles.

"It may not be possible to store and conserve sufficient runoff in this area of those two rivers to provide a firm and dependable yield for the population and industrial needs of the region. However, these fresh water resources, augmented by groundwater supplies and supplemented at times of low water with supplies from the Nueces, may well develop a scheme of regional water resource conservation to serve those towns."

Harrell Resigns As Court Reporter For 36th District

Harvey Harrell has resigned as official reporter for the 36th Judicial District, a position he has held nearly 36 years—under four judges.

"I'll still do reporting, but no longer as an official court reporter after July 31," he said. Judge John H. Miller, presiding judge of the district, was expected to name Harrell's successor within the next several days.

Harrell started court reporting nearly 50 years ago, when court reporters were employed by the case and not considered official. During his service, he has written into history some of the district's most sensational criminal and civil trials.

Harrell moved to Beeville from Live Oak County in 1898, when he was five and one-half years old. After several years of unofficial legal reporting, the Beeville man went to Huntsville in April, 1917, and worked for the chairman of the Texas prison commission until February, 1918, when he was drafted into the Army. He served in the quartermaster corps.

In the summer of 1919 he was employed by a firm of lawyers and later he worked for the Sugarland industry at Sugarland. From there he went to Houston for employment by the Texas Company. He came back to Beeville in 1921, and later reported several hearings in the Texas Legislature.

In September, 1923, he was made official court reporter for the 36th Judicial District. He served under District Judges F. G. Chambliss, T. M. Cox, and W. G. Gayle, all deceased. He has served under Judge Miller two years and three months.

The longest civil trial he remembers working in was an estate partition proceeding in Bee County in 1925. The trial lasted nearly two months and was settled by agreement.

School Dollar Only Costs Taxpayers 16c

People that live in Aransas County are getting a dollar's worth of taxes for 16c, according to Superintendent J. D. Gray, who says that out of every buck garnered in the school's tax agency, 84c comes from oil and utilities, and only 16c from the pockets of property owners.

And out of the total budget proposed for the school next year, amounting to approximately $484,400, the state will contribute 24% or $115,000; oil, gas and utilities will contribute 60%, or $289,440, and from local property owners the contribution will be $77,184.

The tax rate this year will remain the same as last, Gray said, namely $1.75 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation.

There will be a public hearing on the budget in Gray's office on Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 8 p. m.

Students Must Be Immunized As School Opens

The Aransas County Independent Schools will open Aug. 31, according to Superintendent J. D. Gray, who said that all children entering the system for the first time, either in the elementary grades or in high school, must show evidence that they have been immunized against small pox, diphtheria and whooping cough.

Pre-school conferences for the faculty are scheduled for Aug. 28, Gray said, and the first holiday of the year comes the week after school opens, when Labor Day will be celebrated.

Thanksgiving holidays will be November 26-27; Christmas holidays start Dec. 18 and run through Jan. 3. Mid-term exams are slated for Jan. 11-14, and Jan. 15 is a work day for teachers, although there will be no classes. The second semester begins Jan. 18.

On March 11, school is closed, while teachers attend the District 12 Texas State Teachers' Convention in Victoria.

Easter holidays come on April 15-18; the baccalaureate sermon will be preached May 22; final examinations run from May 23-24; the following two days the teachers work while the students take a holiday, and the night of May 26 is commencement.

Pupils will attend school 86 days the first semester and 89 days the second, and faculty duty days number 180, including the TSTA convention.

Postal Survey Lagging, May Be No Mail Delivery

According to Mrs. Mary Juergens, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, the survey requested by the Post Office Department, before deciding on city mail delivery for Rockport, is almost completed.

Directors of the Chamber have been making a house to house canvass to sample public opinion on the matter. Mrs. Juergens says, despite this, some people have not been contacted and she asks them to get in touch with her before Friday.

Cards are also available at the postoffice for anyone wishing to express an opinion on the matter, Mrs. Juergens said. They may be obtained and filled out there and dropped in the mailing slot.

Mrs. Juergens said Wednesday morning that the survey was not going as well as the Chamber of Commerce directors would like and expressed some doubt that enough expressions of local opinion would be given to obtain mail delivery at this time.

This contrasts strongly with the actions of other coastal towns eager for mail delivery and co-operating in every way. Placios, much smaller than Rockport, is the latest addition to the list of those having mail delivered to local homes every day.

City Council Refuses To Revalue Property

The City Council, at its regular meeting, refused to take any action on a revaluation contract with Thomas Y. Pickett and Company, although the county and school tax agencies had offered them a bargain rate of $2700 if they wanted to participate.

Councilman Jack Horton moved for adoption of the contract, after Mayor Hollis Collum had asked what action the Council wished to take. None of the other councilmen, V. A. Dully, Jimmy Hunt, or Ernest Harriet would second the motion, which died for that want.

Other business was routine, and largely confined to discussion of various street and drainage problems.

Melon Crop Short This Year Says Perry Zapantis

The melon crop is short this year in Rockport, says Perry Zapantis, and his Greek cucumbers, planted next to the muskmelons in his garden, can't make up their minds whether they want to be cucumbers or muskmelons.

Perry, who lives in the south end of town, tried something new for Rockport a year ago, when he raised Greek cucumbers, two to three feet long, with fluted sides, and a greater variety of melons than had ever been seen here before.

He had Persian melons, yellow-meated watermelons, conventional watermelons, ice box size watermelons, muskmelons, honeydew melons, and, last but not least, casaba melons. These last, if you've never eaten them, are a feast for the Gods.

This year Perry tried it again, and got his beds under way in plenty of time. And the casaba bed burgeoned with hundreds of the green globes, ready to turn in golden spheres later on. Then disaster struck. The late rains hit the melon crop, and now all Perry has is memories of what would have been the best crop ever.

Howard Dodgen of the Game and Fish Commission.

The questions and answers: "Must a bay-bait shrimp boat operator hold a bait dealer's license before being entitled to sell bait shrimp to a bait dealer?"

Wilson said the selling of bait shrimp to a bait dealer by a bay-bait shrimp boat operator is a necessary element in commercial bay-bait shrimping and the operator does not need a license.

"Is a bay-bait shrimp boat operator required to hold a bait dealer's license if he sells bait shrimp, caught with the use of said boat, from the boat to fishermen in retail trade?"

He said when bait shrimp are sold from a boat to fishermen in retail trade, the boat becomes a bait dealer's place of business requiring a license.

"May bait dealers behead and hold in a fresh or frozen state, for sale as fish bait, shrimp that were taken for bait purposes and which are qualified by size for bait purposes only?"

The attorney general held that the bill provided no limitation on the quantity of bait shrimp which can be held in the possession of a licensed bait dealer.

"In the event that an amount of bait shrimp in excess of the daily limit of 250 pounds is taken, may the state seize and hold and dispose of the shrimp in excess of the daily catch limit?"

Since the ownership of illegally taken shrimp remains with the state, the right to hold the shrimp exists as would the seizure of stolen property. "What disposition should be made of shrimp taken during the closed season or otherwise illegally taken?"

Wilson said the commission should dispose of the shrimp however it decides and the method is "a matter of internal administration."

"If a person holds a valid shrimp trawl license on the effective date of the act but does not hold a commercial fishing boat license, may he purchase the commercial fishing boat license and take shrimp until the commercial bay-bait shrimp boat license may be issued?"

The opinion said such a person could.

"May a wholesale fish dealer purchase, behead, and sell bait shrimp for bait purposes under his wholesale fish dealer license?"

Wilson said handling bait shrimp for bait purposes would not be activity permitted under the authority of a wholesale fish dealer license.

"If the answer to question No. 7 is negative, may a wholesale fish dealer purchase a bait shrimp dealer license and buy, behead and sell shrimp as described above?"

The opinion said the dealer could purchase a shrimp dealer license.

The highest and lowest points in the United States are within 85 miles of each other and are both in the state of California. Mt. Whitney, 14,495 feet, is the highest point, and Death Valley, 282 feet below sea level, the lowest.

HISTORY

Rockport, Fulton,
St. Mary's, Lamar
and El Copano

By
Mrs. Will W. Wood

(Editor's Note: Last Thursday, in the first installment of this history, credit was given to Mrs. John H. Wood, Sr. However, this was a mistake. The history is the work of Mrs. Will W. Wood, whom many people in this area know as Mrs. Alpha Kennedy Wood. Our attention was called to this fact by John H. Wood, Jr., who made the history available to the local Chamber of Commerce and the Pilot. This is the second installment of the work which will be published every week until the manuscript is completed.)

CHAPTER III Spanish Colonization

The Texas Coastal Bend was first carefully explored and charted by the Alonzo Alvarez de Pineda Spanish party beginning in 1519. There is very little doubt that San Antonio, Aransas and Copano Bays were included in this itinerary. He stopped and landed at several points along the coast to take "formal possession" of the country in the name of the King of Spain, as well as to trade with the Indians.

The labor of conquering and colonizing the coastal area was committed to Colonel Jose de Escandon in 1746. The territory assigned extended from Tampico to the San Antonio River, hence included this area. Escandon executed his commission with wisdom, success and a minimum of bloodshed and violence. Escandon's landing was established below the junction of the San Antonio and Guadalupe Rivers. A mission ranch was established at the landing, and probably at one time was a part of the grazing lands of Espiritu Santos Mission. It would appear also that as a result of Escandon's efforts east of the Nueces, the Fort of Aranzazu was built at Live Oak Point and another at the Aransas Pass end of St. Joseph's Island. It is certain that many Spanish ranches existed in our section of Texas as early as 1766. The empresario, Martin de Leon, established ranches on both the Nueces and Aransas Rivers, as did Captain Felipe de la Partilla, where de Leon lived until 1824.

Lieutenant Jose Maria Cobian, Inspector of the port of El Copano for several years, located his "La Luz" ranch near de Leon's, and dated from the early 1800s. Many old Spanish and Mexican families had taken up ranches in our section, all of them subsequently received their titles through the Powers and Hewetson Irish Colony. Most, if not all, of Martin de Leon's colonists originated in Tamaulipas, and a great many of these families eventually returned to Tamaulipas between 1835 and 1870.

The mission of Nuestra Senora del Refugio, the last of the Spanish missions to be established in Texas, was moved into the limits of then Refugio County in the year 1794 by the impetuous Father Manuel Julio Silva. Unfriendly Indians, territorial and climatic conditions forced the mission to be moved from place to place in the area. Of course, the mission was created, as the others in Texas had been, to civilize the Indians and afford them a religious background. The mission was first formally dedicated at a point on a high bluff in Calhoun County. The Karankawas and the Copanos were either apathetic or antagonistic toward the mission from the beginning. Thereafter, the mission was moved to Mesquite Landing, and later to Mission Bay, and finally to the present city of Refugio.

CHAPTER IV Buccaneers

In the administration of this far-flung piratical empire, Jean LaFitte made use of the islands off the coast of Texas. One of the bases was Culebra Island, composed of Matagorda and St. Joseph's, separated only by Cedar Bayou.

For the purpose of protecting commerce against depredations of the freebooters and of safeguarding the port of Copano, the Spanish, and after them the Mexicans, maintained the small fort of Aranzazu on Live Oak Point. In retaliation, LaFitte maintained a fort of his own on the southwest part of St. Joseph's Island. The village of Aransas was later laid out near the site of the pirate fort. LaFitte, after being ousted from Galveston Island in 1821, is said to have gone to Yucatan where he died in 1826. After the breakup of the pirate stronghold at Galveston, many of his followers settled in this area. The final meeting of the great buccaneer and his men is reputed to have taken place at False Live Oak Point, after they had been cornered by the British and American Navies. Here the booty was divided and LaFitte supposedly cached most of it at False Live Oak Point in heavy chests among the oak trees. This done, the pirate and his remaining followers and ships attempted to slip through the American and British blockade.

For three days and three nights a cannonading was heard by the residents in the direction of Cedar Bayou, and it is presumed that LaFitte eluded these fleets.

CHAPTER V American Colonization

Generals Augustin Iturbide and Vicente Guerrero concurred with each other in the famous Plan of Ingula, in February of 1821, thereby bringing to an end the bloody revolution which had ravaged Mexico for 10 or 12 years. The Treaty of Cordoba, of August 21, 1821, gave Mexico her freedom from Spain and ushered her into the family of nations. Therefore, for a period of several years, the country was locked in bitter internal struggles for power. While Mexico was in these political throes, negotiations were underway with a view of opening Texas to colonization by North Americans. On January 17, 1821, the Royalist government of Mexico granted to Moses Austin a concession to introduce a colony of North Americans into the wild province of Texas. Austin never saw a copy of the grant, and he died in Missouri on June 10, 1821. Prior to his death, he had associated his eldest son, Stephen F. Austin, with him in the project, and had sent him to Texas to conclude necessary legal formalities in his behalf.

The first visit of Stephen F. Austin to Texas, besides opening the way to all colonization which was to follow, had a direct influence on the founding of the Irish colony at Refugio. Some time prior to leaving Missouri, Austin had formed an acquaintanceship with a young Irish doctor named James Hewetson. The two young men were mutually attracted to one another and soon became close personal friends, so much so that the Austins usually referred to the doctor as their "most intimate friend."

Dr. Hewetson accompanied Stephen F. Austin from St. Louis (Mo.) to New Orleans. At the latter place Austin was the house guest of his partner, Joseph H. Hawkins, who financed the Austin Colonial venture. Dr. Hewetson, who had decided to go to Mexico to seek his fortune, was invited by Austin to become one of the small party which was to accompany him to Texas. Hewetson accepted the invitation. Living at New Orleans at this time was another young Irishman who was then engaged in the mercantile business. He was James Power, and is said to have been a kinsman of Dr. Hewetson. Power met up with Austin and Hewetson, and became afflicted with the Texas fever. He entertained a notion of going with the Austin party to Texas, but quickly abandoned it.

The Austin party, which included Dr. Hewetson, left New Orleans for Texas on June 18, 1821. It proceeded up the Red River to Nachitoches, where it arrived on the 26th. After a delay, which was occasioned by the receipt of news of Moses Austin's death, the little group continued on its way to Texas. Hewetson and most of the party crossed the Sabine on July 10. Austin himself entered Texas six days later. In the meantime, Austin had met up with Erasmo Seguin and J. M. Veramendi, who had been sent to meet and escort him into the province.

Mrs. Delmar Taylor of Sapla, Okla., and children, Rynd and Daniel, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Snyder of Aransas Pass, visited the Reeses at Aura Maris recently.

Aransas County High on Bond Purchases in June
 Aransas County is leading all the other counties in District 7 in sales of savings bonds for the treasury, having reached 88.9% of the $62,000 quota set for it this year and far outstripping most of the 28 counties in South Texas that go to make up the Corpus Christi area, Fred Eracht, local chairman, said today.
 In District 7 only one other has approached Aransas County. In Kennedy County, under leadership of Judge L. H. Lytton, 88.4% of the county's goal has been attained, but Bee, Kleberg, Nueces, Brooks, San Patricio, and Live Oak are lagging, with none of them having reached half the quotas set for them. District 7 average is 43%.
 In District 6, the record is lowest of all, with a 30.2% overall average. Calhoun County leads there, with 40.7% of its quota accounted for, and the other counties follow in this order: Jackson, Refugio, Calhoun, Victoria, Matagorda and Wharton.
 Willacy County in District 8 has the best average of all so far, having oversubscribed its quota by 127.5%. The other three counties in the district, in the order of their sales, were Starr, Hidalgo and Cameron. The overall average for this district is 49.7%.
 District 9 has seven counties, with Duval leading all the rest, having bought enough bonds to reach 100.7% of its quota. Maverick is second in the district, which has a 37% overall average, and then in descending order are Webb, Jim Hogg, Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zapata, which has purchased no bonds at all.

 Purchases in Aransas County during June amounted to $10,930, Bracht said.
AUGUST DRAFT CALLS FOR 344 TEXANS
 Austin — The state quota for Texas draft boards in August calls for 344 men, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, announced Wednesday.
 The state's August call of 344 compares with a quota of 382 for July and 283 for June. The August call is the state's share of a national quota of 7,000 men, all for the Army. The July national quota was 8,000.
 Colonel Schwartz also announced that the local boards would send around 1,500 men for pre-induction physical and mental examinations. These men return home after being examined at examining stations.
 Local board quotas for the August call already have been figured and are scheduled to be placed in the mails to the boards Wednesday.
 The August quota will be filled with men who are at least 22 years old on August 1, with the exception of volunteers or delinquents, who may be younger.

In Texas

a decade of dynamic development with
ALCOA PEOPLE AND ALCOA PRODUCTS

Texas' first pound of primary aluminum came out of an Alcoa smelter just ten short years ago.
 Since then, an inspired research and development program . . . climaxed by remarkable progress in power plant and potline construction . . . has skyrocketed Texas to number one spot as today's top aluminum-producing state for Alcoa—oldest and largest aluminum producer in America.
 Now, a great new plant's on the way! In Point Comfort, an alumina refining plant has begun to process ore brought from South America and the Caribbean. This newest development requires a deep-draft channel into Matagorda Bay. The channel will open a whole new and vital section of Texas to world trade.
 Growth in this area is unlimited. With all these facilities in operation, over 3300 Alcoaans are Texas taxpayers and community builders. Their wages total almost $20 million. These wages, along with the company's annual purchase of Texas goods and services, add more than $75 million to the Texas economy each year. Here's to more new markets and continued teamwork—so that you and Alcoa and Texas find a future full of bright prosperity.

ANOTHER LETTER

and the fog horn howled. Fifteen minutes later the sun was shining.

Soon after leaving New Orleans the Hastings passed along the line of anchored vessels at Nine Mile Point. Once out of the busy Mississippi and in the Gulf we saw no ships except the Lykes freighter, "Dick Lykes," at Panama City. Since we rounded the Straits of Florida though many craft have been seen.

The "Santa Paula" of the Grace Line passed quite close to us yesterday—seemingly a ghost ship—not a soul on deck! The time was 4:00 p. m.—sorry, eight bells. Could it be that all aboard were taking tea?

The full moon has been our cheerful companion all the way. Steaming south in the Gulf the ship followed its luminous path until it became necessary to turn to port in order to round the Florida Keys.

Our speed up the east coast has been excellent. 426 knots is the recorded run for the 24 hours ending at noon today. Average speed, 17 1/2 knots.

The morning sun yesterday lit up the tall buildings of Miami. Since then we have seen no land.

On this type of ship there is a common dining saloon for officers and passengers, so one gets to know and respect the men "who go down to the sea in ships and have their business in great waters."

Harry Carter.

ment of attorneys just before it was to be submitted to the jury.

Harrell's pencil wrote down the testimony in five of the court's most sensational death penalty cases.

Back in 1926, Frank Leahy, tried in Live Oak County, got 50 years for murder. The judge granted motion for new trial and transferred the case to Williamson County, where the defendant got the death penalty. Harrell reported the trial in Live Oak County and was a witness in the Williamson County trial.

In 1927, Garrett Thomas, a Negro, was sentenced to die under charges of murder in connection with a Live Oak County axe slaying.

Twenty-one years ago, Genaro Lugo was tried at Sinton for killing an Odem constable and got the death penalty.

Harrell was the official reporter when Felix Lewis was brought to trial in Live Oak County for rape, and wrote the final proceedings on a Saturday morning in 1949 when Judge W. G. Gayle sentenced Lewis to die in the electric chair.

There was another death penalty case in 1945 in which the defendant, in a new trial the following year, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Christiano Salazar was assessed the death penalty for murder of an officer in Cameron County. In a re-trial in Bee County, he was sentenced to life.

Thirty-four years ago, Harrell reported the trial of Beverly Borroum charged with murder. Last April, he reported another murder trial involving Borroum as the victim. His wife was the defendant.

Harrell praised judges of courts in which he has worked for the dignified manner in which they conducted the proceedings. But there have been exceptions.

Back in 1911, in a Corpus Christi trial, the judge ignored the outburst of a colorful participant who rose abruptly to curse his sister for testimony she had given.

Later in the trial when one of the attorneys called his wife to the witness stand, he informed the intruder:

"I'm putting my wife on the stand. If you say the things about her that you did about your sister, there's gonna be a killing in this here courtroom."
