HISTORY

of
Rockport, Fulton,
St. Mary's, Lamar
and El Copano
By
Mrs. Will W. Wood

In 1847, Wood made a trip to New York to receive the first of a series of inheritances which were estimated to aggregate around $60,000.00, which he eventually converted into more land and cattle. He brought the first inheritance consisting of gold, to Texas in wooden kegs. Major Wood's vast ranching interests were virtually all acquired before 1890, and for prices ranging from 10c to $10 per acre. Until 1849, Major Wood carefully avoided the litigation-riddled coastal area. However, on August 15, 1849, he bought out all of the holdings, land and cattle of Peter Doren near Black Point. Since Doren held under Powers, the Major was required to make his peace with Joseph F. Smith, who gave him a quit-claim deed to 144 acres, including the Doren house and curtilage of 14 acres. Wood shortly razed the Doren place and replaced it with a long, rambling residence, built partly of lumber and partly of natural stone or shell-concrete. There was a garret under the roof, which was used as sleeping quarters. The place was surrounded by a palisade of oak logs, and made a good fort against the Indians. Within the enclosure were concrete barns and silos. This was the Wood ranch home until 1879, when the palatial mansion, now standing at Bayside, was built on the identical ground.

The Major's brothers-in-law, Henry, John and William Clark, were then living at Black Point. On September 25, 1849, Wood traded William Clark 1200 stock cattle, taking a fifteen-year-old negro girl named Jane in payment. John Clark had been a Power colonist. The three Clark brothers were Texan veterans and all were experienced frontier fighters.

The town of Lamar had waned with the Texas Republic. There was still some population left there, but Captain Byrne and his associates beheld greener pastures for promotion in St. Joseph's Island. The settlement known as Aransas, at the west end of the island was replaced by the village of St. Joseph. Captain Byrne seems to have spent considerable time on the island, if he did not in fact live there. The years 1847 and 1848 were the heyday of the island until the Johnson families moved to St. Joseph. There was a large and active population on the island, as we have seen. Captain James B. Wells seems to have been the principal citizen.

About this time the prospects of the town of Lamar began to look up. Colonel Pryor Lea, who had been a congressman in Tennessee, moved to Goliad after annexation. His purpose in coming to Texas was to promote railroads. He found that a West Texas port was greatly desired, and he believed that the Aransas Bay area was the most logical for such a port. In 1847 he made preliminary surveys for a railroad connecting Goliad with Lamar. From Goliad the railroad would be extended to San Antonio. He shortly became associated with Captain Byrne and his partners in the projected building of a great western port at Lamar (which was renamed Treport), and the railroad line to Goliad. The fate of this venture will be told later. Captain Byrne then transferred his affections back to his first love and induced a number of his islanders to leave St. Joseph's and move to Lamar or Treport. Among these was Moses Simpson, who had some to Texas with Taylor's army and had been discharged at Corpus Christi.

The most substantial development in the county, during this decade, was at the town of Refugio. After annexation, the town government was re-organized under the congressional charter of February 1, 1842. Captain Isaac W. Johnson became Mayor in 1847, and between frontier services with his ranger company, found time to have the sub-division of the four-league grant into farm tracts begun. The area on both sides of the Mission River, below the town, was surveyed by George Lyon in 1847 or 1848; and the first auction of farm timber lots was held in 1848. The first sub-division was immediately sold out, and David Snively was employed to make further sub-divisions. Auction sales of farm, timber, prairie and postoak lots were held annually until about the time of the Civil War.

Beginning with 1847, concerted efforts were made by Colonel Pryor Lea to bring a steam railway system to connect with the various ship channels. Various charters for railroad corporations were issued by the Legislature. On February 14, 1854, the Aransas Road Company was incorporated by the Legislature. The incorporators were: John W. Hodges, Barton Peck, Robert W. Lott, T. P. C. Lott, Dr. Joseph H. Barnard, Jackson L. McKenney, James W. Byrne, Samuel Holliday, Alexander H. Cromwell, Major John H. Wood, David Shelton, James S. Bailey and Colonel Pryor Lea.

On February 16, 1852 (two days after Lea's charter), the Legislature incorporated the Texas Western Railroad Company. The incorporators were Colonel Henry L. Kinney, Colonel James Power, Captain James W. Byrne, General Ebenezer Allen, Judge Milford P. Norton, General Hugh McLeod, Colonel Forbes Britton (future) General Hamilton P. Bee, General William L. Cazaneau, Judge William G. Hale, Judge Robert Hughes, Rufus Doane, James McGuffin, Hugh Stephenson, William Mann, Nathan Mitchell, B. M. Browder, Simeon Hart and T. F. White.

Colonel Power, who seems to have been the leading spirit of this project, died August 12, 1852. However, Judge Milford P. Norton took up the torch and was balancing it in June 1860 when he also died. In its final years one General Duff Green became the active promoter. We find him at Washington, D. C., and in the east, in the late 50's, attempting to interest finance. The Texas Western Railroad Company never got beyond the "ways and means" stage. While many thousands of dollars were expended in promotion, planning and in navigation surveys, the Aransas Road Company never materialized. The entire project died with Colonel Lea.

Colonel Power was so confident of the success of his new town of Copano that in 1850 he constructed a fine two-story shell-concrete residence at Powers Point, in front of the three-room, one-story concrete home built by Joseph E. Plummer.

Lamar also did a good port business, and, as we shall see, St. Mary's for a time portended to be the great western port of Texas, and during its heyday, eclipsed Copano and Lamar in volume of imports and exports.

In the spring of 1856, Samuel Colt and his brother, James B. Colt, founders of the Colt Patent Fire Arms Company, became interested in Lamar Peninsula and the townsite; and with them, General Marcy, Erastus Williams, of Norwich, Connecticut, and Samuel E. Tuttle of Hartford. The Colts and Williams purchased about a quarter interest in 14,000 acres of land, including the whole of Lamar (Lookout) Peninsula and Goose Island, with the exception of certain townsite properties and Captain Byrne's salt works on St. Charles Bay. The Colts, who invented the revolver pistol, intended to engage in large scale land promotions in the area acquired; however, plans never materialized after Samuel Colt died, on January 10, 1862.

CHAPTER XI The Founding of St. Mary's of Aransas

The Joseph F. Smith townsite at Black Point, conceived in 1839, marked time until 1857, awaiting the outcome of the litigation with Power. In 1856 the courts decided

Smith and Williamson's junior surveys to be paramount, and this obstacle to the development was removed. On the other hand, Smith found himself short on funds, his long and costly litigation having taken all his cash and placed him heavily in debt. He now had good land titles and the best port locations. Major John H. Wood had large amounts of money and was interested in the plan. These factors led to the formation of the Smith & Wood Development partnership.

The Major had an aristocratic background and his early training at the hands of the DeCantillon, Von Stoutenburg, and Teller families, his progenitors in New York and the Wood and Howland families of Boston, endowed him with a gentility and diplomacy lacking in Smith. Smith was a relentless and driving force, noted for his tenacity, determination and ability to execute great plans against seemingly insurmountable odds. At all times between the bitter and trying litigation between Powers and the Smiths, Wood was able to maintain close, cordial relationships with all the parties involved. The attributes of Smith and Wood, complemented one another in their undertakings. The papers of the Wood and Smith heirs disclosed that Wood's funds were used to plat, develop and promote Smith's townsite. The exact character of the financial interest Wood had with Smith in the founding of St. Mary's is uncertain, although it is known that he contributed financially to this and other land speculations in which Smith and he were involved. They were full partners in the later founding and development of the present city of Rockport, along with another partnership composed of J. M. Doughty and Tom H. Mathis.

Fort Ringgold Celebrates 111th Birthday Oct. 26

Rio Grande City—Old Fort Ringgold, at the eastern edge of the city, celebrated its 111th birthday Monday, October 26, and the story of its transition, from a cavalry post protecting the Texas frontier to the center of education for Starr County is a long and interesting one.

Still a show spot which will repay the visitor amply for the hour's drive between Rio Grande City and McAllen, the 343-acre tract on which the buildings stand abuts on Highway 83 and is easy to find.

The old fort, established by Captain J. J. Lamotte, on October 26, 1848, at Davis Landing, a steamboat stop on the Rio Grande, was named after Major David Ringgold, who died of his wounds at the Battle of Palo Alto, during the Mexican War. Later the post came to be known as Ringgold Barracks.

The establishment of the fort greatly influenced the development of Starr County, formed the same year, with Rio Grande City as the county seat. Soldiers intermarried with the civilian population, and brought a new culture to the county.

Besides serving as a bulwark in dealing with the Cortina raids before the Civil War, with Indian depredations in the 1870s, with bandit raids under Catarina Garza in 1891, and the tense Ranger incidents from 1913 through 1920, Fort Ringgold benefited Starr County economically.

Three years after it was founded, the fort consisted of a few comfortless frame houses, situated half a mile below Rio Grande City, where life could be rugged. Mrs. Egbert Viele, wife of a young cavalry officer stationed there about that time, accompanied him to his post and later said:

"At one period, which I shall never forget, the quartermaster's supplies were reduced to moldy flour and rancid pork. . . A long drought had lowered the river . . . so as to render it unavigable, and had parched the country, making it more than usually sterile and unproductive.

"The steamboat with the monthly supplies could not get up the river. Even frijoles became scarce and butter, milk and bread were unknown to us for weeks. At last the news arrived that the Corvette was a few miles down the river, stuck on a sandbar."

Two men from the post rode down and brought Mrs. Viele some supplies, but shortage of food was not the only thing that bothered her.

"Under the most favorable circumstances the food was flavored with red ants. They tasted something like caraway seed, and were not as disagreeable as the novice might suppose. . . . The butter was almost unpalatable from its soft liquid appearance, and was kept in stone jars underground, with bricks laid over them. It came from cows and goats, promiscuously milked in the same pail."

She concluded that the vermin, the famine, the hot winds and dry soil almost made her think that to have remained in New Orleans and kept a thread and needle store would have been more judicious than to accompany her husband to Texas!

But these discomforts were gradually overcome, although in one dry spell during this century, when the government had turned down a request to install a sprinkler system, officers' wives were in despair over their yards and gardens.

However, Captain John Peters, in charge of the post fire department, came to their rescue.

"We had to hold fire drill every day," Captain Peters said, "and, oddly enough, the water always seemed to fall on the yard or garden that needed it the most desperately. Thus the ladies were saved from tears and the vegetables and grass from desiccation, although it would have been a lot cheaper for the sprinkler system."

One of the most effectively-planned military installations in the South, many famous men have served at Ringgold. General Robert E. Lee, then only a colonel, spent some time there between 1856 and 1860, and other officers whose names occupy a place in history were also stationed at the post.

The old fort was landscaped with tree-lined drives and streets; well-kept, massive stucco homes which formerly were officers' quarters and now are occupied by Rio Grande City School faculty members and their families; and vast stretches of green lawns.

In the center is the parade ground, where Starr County residents customarily terminate political rallies and other parades held in Rio Grande City.

On January 23, 1948, the federal government relinquished control of the historic old fort to the Rio Grande City Independent School District, which gave the Federal Works Agency a check for $205,889 for the property.

At the time of the transfer, the fort consisted of 46 permanent and 40 temporary structures. These included barracks, hospitals, garages, stables, a veterinary hospital, theater, swimming pool, service club, telephone office, a complete sewer system and other utilities, including electricity, gas and water.

Many of the buildings are being used as classrooms and administrative offices by the school system, while others are being rehabilitated for similar use.

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE RECEIVE SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS

More than 395 of Aransas County residents are receiving monthly payments of retirement, disability, and family insurance under provisions of the Social Security Act. H. M. Cleveland, Manager of the Corpus Christi District of the Social Security Administration, says that total payments to beneficiaries in this county will exceed $269,172 this year.

The social security insurance provides financial protection for a worker and his family when earnings are reduced or cut off in older years, disability, or death.

The payments are all based on a worker's average monthly earnings for work on social security jobs, Cleveland pointed out. Payments to a retired worker with no dependents average about $67.50 a month; for a retired couple, the average is around $119.40 a month. The monthly average for a widow with two young children is $165.00. Maximum payments to a family can go as high as $254.00 a month.

For the entire State of Texas, a monthly amount in excess of $26,093,144 goes to some 488,026 beneficiaries. Social security benefits totaling $283,466,000 were paid to Texans in 1958.

Cleveland says that in this area, eligible persons should get in touch with the Social Security Administration, 530 South Water Street, Corpus Christi, to file their applications for benefits.

SAVINGS BOND SALES IN ARANSAS COUNTY REACH 122.5% OF QUOTA

Mr. Fred Bracht, Chairman of the Aransas County Savings Bonds Committee announced today that Savings Bonds sales for September totaled $2425. "Sales for the first nine months of 1959 were $5,951 or 122.5% of the yearly goal," Bracht said.

E and H bond sales in Texas amounted to $115,170,663 during the first nine months of this year. This figure represents 63% of the yearly sales goal.

"The new improved interest rates on E and H bonds will aid thousands of Americans who are already buying savings bonds and will help induce others to purchase the new 'best ever' Savings Bond," Bracht pointed out. "All bonds purchased since June 1 of this year now earn an attractive 3 3/4% interest when held to maturity and old bonds earn at least 1/2% more than before. Considering the safety, ease of purchase and the new attractive interest rates, savings bonds are truly the 'best buy ever'," he concluded.

Pirates Top Dog In Conference For Championship

The Aransas County High School Pirates grabbed a handful of Woodsboro Eagle tailfeathers last Friday night and hung on, to come out winner by a score of 21-14, making them chief contenders for the 30A championship.

Halfback Jo Mays started the scoring when he intercepted a fumble in the first quarter and ran 25 yards for the touchdown, with Carl Snyder kicking the point after. And this was the break, for play after this gallop was very even, with both teams coming up with a couple of touchdowns.

Mike Johnson passed to Dale Barnard for eight yards and six points in the second quarter, while Richard Happer ran 35 yards for the last Pirate score in the fourth and added a couple of extra points by his carry after the touchdown.

Woodsboro scored once in the first quarter, on a beautiful 70-yard run through center by left halfback David Bell, and in the second on a one-yard carry by fullback David Gillespie. A two-point conversion run by right half Allen Pullin after the Gillespie score was successful.

Woodsboro kicked off and Warden took the ball on the ACHS 40. Happer went around right end for 19 yards.

From the Eagle 41, Warden passed to Snyder for 28 yards. Happer lost 5; Warden got nowhere on a keeper; Barnard was smeared; then Johnson passed to Pena for 3 and the Eagles took over on their own 4-yard line.

Pullin, the right half, made four; Gillespie picked up short yardage; then, on the next play, Gillespie fumbled on the Eagle 21-yard line, but recovered. Bell made four; Harrison made a couple; then Bell broke through center and galloped 76 yards for the Eagles first touchdown.

Happer received the kickoff and ran it back for 25 yards. Pena made three, then lost two, and Mike Johnson was smeared. Snyder punted and Monte Rouquette clobbered the receiver where he stood. A penalty was refused by Woodsboro and Gillespie carried. However, Woodsboro was penalized fifteen yards to the Eagle 25 for holding, and in the next two carries Gillespie lost ten yards more to the Eagle 15. Then Harrison carried and fumbled, and Jo May grabbed the ball in the air on the Eagle 35 and ran for a touchdown. Snyder kicked the extra point.

The Pirate kickoff was returned 25 yards to the Eagle 40; then Pullin went through center for four; ACHS was penalized five yards for offside; Harrison made three; Gillespie dived for two; David Bell carried for six; then Gillespie went through center for two. Bell made five just before the first quarter ended, then, on the first play of the second quarter Gillespie made 11. In the next two plays he made 17 more; then Pullin went through center for a yard; Gillespie made a yard; Harrison made a yard on a keeper; and Gillespie went over for the touchdown from a yard out.

No PAT.

Happer ran the Eagle kickoff back for 30 yards to the fifty; Pena failed to gain Happer made 25 but was called back and the Pirates penalized fifteen yards for clipping. Rouquette made a yard on the end around play; Happer galloped for 25 yards; then Warden picked up the rest on a quarterback sneak.

On the Eagle 13, ACHS lost five on an offside penalty; Happer made three, then eight, and then Mike Johnson flipped a pass to Dale Barnard for eight yards and the touchdown. No PAT.

The Eagles retained possession of the ball for four plays, punting on the last down and the Pirates took over on their own 28, from where Happer tore through the left side of the line for 20 yards and a first down. From the Pirate 48 Happer made four and then Warden's pass to Rouquette on the Eagle 38 was ruled complete because of interference.

Johnson was smothered for a loss of five yards; Warden to Huff was incomplete; then Warden to Barnard was good for 13.

On the next series, Johnson's pass was intercepted by Walter Hester and the Eagles wound up in possession of the ball. Gillespie made nine; Pullin made three; Bell made one; and the half ended.

The Eagles took the kick off after the half on their 28, and Gillespie picked up eight yards in two carries, while Welsh made four. In two more carries Gillespie made another first down; then Pullin made 4, Harrison 5, and Gillespie 1. On the next series, Bell made three; Gillespie three, and the Pirates were penalized fifteen yards for holding. Bell made four, Gillespie lost three, and then after the Eagles tried two passes, the Pirates took over on downs on their own 12, punting on their fourth down to the Pirates 46.

Gillespie made five; Bell made eleven, and the ball wound up on the Pirate 34. However, four down later, Woodsboro lost the ball and the Pirates took over once more. Happer made 24 in two carries; Warden made three, Pena one, and then Warden was smeared for a four-yard loss and Snyder punted. Harrison took it on the Eagle 34. Gillespie made five in two carries and then fumbled and the Pirates had the ball once more on the Eagle 39. Happer raced this distance on his first carry, and then ran for two points after the touchdown.

The Pirates kicked off and then just as the quarter ended and at the beginning of the fourth quarter Bell carried for three yards from the Eagle 37. Gillespie failed to gain; Harrison made three on a keeper, and then Woodsboro punted to Happer on the Pirate 20. Pena, Barnard and Happer made seven between them, then Snyder punted. Pullin carried for the Eagles and made a yard; Gillespie made two; Harrison's pass was incomplete and Woodsboro punted to the Pirate 20.

Pena made a yard; Warden made nine; Pena made four, and Kelly Huff made six. On the next series, after three downs had failed, Snyder punted to the Eagle 26, where Woodsboro took over. Gillespie carried for two, then the Eagles fumbled and Warden recovered for the Pirates, running the ball back to around the 20-yard line in the Eagle end of the field. However, the Pirates lost the ball again, and Woodsboro took over on their own seven. The game ended with the ball in Woodsboro's possession, about five yards out from their goal line.

By Teresa Johnson

Are you enjoying high school? If you are, you're giving and getting in return; if you aren't, you aren't giving. We, the students of Aransas County High School, have every opportunity to learn and enjoy learning. I think we have the best teachers since A.C.H.S. had its beginning. I hope you agree with me; if you don't, you aren't meeting your teachers halfway.

If every student in our school would give a little of himself or herself, he or she would truly enjoy going to and being part of A.C.H.S. When students contribute to their school, they not only better their school, they also better themselves.

If some students feel too important to give, they had better look into their mirror twice. What would they see? They probably would see a face that really isn't too significant or important.

We have a good school but your contribution would make it even better. If you're now saying, who are they trying to kid, please try to alter your attitude and your way of thinking.

Every organization in A.C.H.S. is worth while. Join a club if you don't belong to one. You will be glad you did. Be a part of A.C.H.S. and give!

Senior Class News

On November 3 the Senior Class chose their invitations which will be ordered during the second semester. Each student was urged to make an invitation list in advance as a guide for ordering purposes.

Also the class decided where they would like to go on their senior trip. Everyone was in favor of going to Prade Ranch near Leakey. Reservations will be made as soon as possible.

On November 4 the seniors had their pictures taken for the 1960 annual. Pictures were not taken in cap and gown, but they were uniform. All girls wore a drape with a string of pearls. The boys wore black bow ties, a white shirt, and a light sports coat.

Pictures for individual use were also taken and different poses were available.

Library Receives Books
This week Mrs. DeForest reports that 17 new books have arrived and these will be ready to check out in a few days. This order includes such selections as "Teen Theater," "A City of Bells," "Broken Arrow," "The Friendly Persuasion," "The White Tower,"

"Good-bye My Lady"
During the month of October, a total of 786 books were checked out. Junior High students checked out 459 in all and Senior High students 327. These figures indicate that there is a continuing interest in reading.

Light Crust Doughboys Present Program

On October 30, the Light Crust Doughboys entertained Junior and Senior High School students with a 45-minute assembly program which consisted of both popular and country music. Each member did a solo number on his instrument and several sang vocal numbers.

The group received a tremendous ovation from the audience.

Junior Class Meets

The Junior Class met October 30 in the auditorium with President Dale Barnett presiding. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss selling mums for the homecoming football game.
