ACT FOR DISTRESSED DEBTORS HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The Supreme Court of the United States in an opinion just rendered, has held the Texas counterpart of the "Frazier-Lemke" Act unconstitutional. The law, declared invalid, was passed by the Forty-Third Legislature in 1933, and is entitled "An Act for the Reorganization of Debtors". The Court held that the law impaired the obligation of contracts in violation of the Constitution of Texas, and of the United States.

The opinion is the first interpretation of the statute by an Appellate Court construing the Act, and it is stated that "this Statute turns contract and security for debts over to the courts for it to make a contract for the parties and to take the assets of the debtor as it may deem advisable. It strips the rights of the creditor under the contract, and unlawfully at the time of the execution of the contract, in the event of default, to have the property described in the mortgage and the real estate in the deed of trust sold and the proceeds applied to the debt, and the further the property did not sell for enough to satisfy the debt, to obtain final judgment against the debtor for the deficiency therein, only delayed, but are perpetually taken from him. This can only be done."

War Almost Certain

Students of European affairs have no lack of material these days—material that is both absorbing and appalling.

Top in interest is the Italian-Ethiopian imbroglio, which progresses steadily toward war—most observers think actual hostilities will start in the fall. Premier Mussolini does most of his speaking from gun-carriages at present—and his remarks are the most warlike in post-war history. On the other side of the fence, black Emperor Haile Selassie pledges the life of every one of his subjects to the defense of Ethiopian independence. In the meantime, foreigners are exhuming Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital, on the advice of their consular representatives.

If war comes, Ethiopia will have two advantages—it will be able to muster an army of several million men accustomed to the almost incredibly hard country in which they live. (A recent book on Ethiopia bears the title, "The Hell Hole of Creation," and visitors to Ethiopia say that description is not exaggerated.) On the other hand, it has no artillery worthy of the name, only a few out-of-date airplanes, and even lacks modern repeating military rifles.

Italy is of course equipped in up-to-the-minute military style, with the latest in machine guns, tanks, field guns, rifles, gas, etc. Military authorities are confident she will win though at a terrific cost of life, and over a longish period of time.

The problem is further complicated now by the appearance of Japan with a warning to Italy that Nippon intends to keep her Ethiopian markets. Japan is as much a first class military power as Italy—and Mussolini does not want trouble with her.

Are Your Children Ready for School

Now is the time, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, that every parent should ask himself if his child is physically ready for school. A visit to the family physician and dentist will answer this question and give time for correction of minor defects before time for school to open.

A child with defective vision can not be expected to do the required work in school until this handicap is removed. Inflamed, watery eyes, granulated lids, chronic styes, nervous actions as habitual winking, may be caused by defective vision and should be attended to immediately.

The far reaching effect of infected tonsils on the system has been recognized by health workers for many years. Many of the ills of later life, as heart disease, arthritis, deafness, etc., are directly traceable to tonsils that became infected during childhood and were allowed to remain untreated.

Dental defects are found in more children than any other imperfection, and for this reason children should be taken regularly to the dentist for examination and cleaning of the teeth. This precaution keeps the mouth clean and makes it possible to discover dental defects as soon as they appear.

Postural defects appear in the life of a child much sooner than we formerly suspected. Have your family physician see if your child's shoulder blades project and if his arches are low. Simple exercises, diligently adhered to, when the child is young, will prevent later serious developments in many cases.

WHIPPING THE WRONG MULE

Several times in our life we have noticed some off spring of Adam driving a team along the road, one of which was a willing animal the other a sluggish one. Possibly the driver had in time tried making the lazy mule step up, only to tire of the job, so now when desiring a little more speed, he tickled up the willing brute with his whip and let the other collar carrier drag along.

This seems to be the present way of the tax collectors from the state officials down to the collectors in the little towns and schools.

The willing tax payer, or we might say the faithful tax payer, is made to bear the burdens of the tax delinquents and tax dodgers.

The yearly assessment of property is placed before the equalization boards. The boards are told we have collected so many dollars in taxes this year. Next year we have just got to have so many dollars and to get this money the property values must be raised so much.

The board will invariably ask—What have you coming in in DELINQUENT TAXES? Oh, so many thousands of dollars. "Why don't you collect them? And the answer is about a thousand 'wells' and not a darn drop of water in any of them. Therefore the board of equalization is told to raise the valuations and perhaps those willing faithful payers will again kick in enough to keep the old ship of state, city or school sailing.

It is not right; it is legal robbery on one hand and favoritism, laziness, politics indifference and lack of the proper sense of appreciation of the oath of office taken by the tax collecting agencies of the various political subdivisions of the government.

As Mayor of the Town of Jayton we here and now pledge the tax payers of this town this:— If they will come across and pay up their taxes we will guarantee to lower their valuations thereby lowering the taxes. If they will not pay, without forcing collection, then we are going to urge on the city officials that the law be evoked and the taxes collected if possible. If the tax payers will not pay and cannot be made to pay then we will know we have done our duty and will resign and let the bond holders and property owners fight it out the best way they can. . . We are not going to continue to whip the paying mule.—L. F. Wade, Mayor

Homemade Dollars

Salesmen for local firms not infrequently are met by the statement "We can buy that cheaper out of town." Occasionally this is literally true. More often the cheaper-out-of-town price contemplates a different quality of merchandise or, in many cases, the cheaper price is f.o.b. factory; and at other times it does not provide for the prompt delivery which would be required of a local firm and which is advantageous to the buyer.

However, for the sake of argument let us grant that in some purchases a lower out of town price can be obtained. Does such a purchase necessarily mean an ultimate saving for the local buyer—a firm let us say, which has a large investment locally and whose employees have their homes here?

In this connection let us consider merely one factor that of local taxes. We will agree that the town must have a certain amount of money with which to provide the various municipal services which we, as citizens demand. This money must be acquired from taxes.

These taxes are levied against you and me and all other citizens who declare the value of their taxable holdings. However, the sum required to run the town government comes solely from those who care to pay. So it is evident that if more individuals had the money to pay taxes the taxes would be lower. Money spent at home means among other things, more people able to pay their share of the taxes, more people willing to render their property for taxation which materially lowers our own tax burden.

Before we jump to the conclusion that certain out of town prices are cheaper, let us consider not only this matter of taxes but the several other angles of this subject. Especially let us remember that to build better local markets and stronger local industries there must be a large degree of support from the home folks.

It is generally true that we best serve our own interests when we serve those citizens of our community, the business firms and the individuals with whom we deal and who have common interests with us.

Homemade dollars have the delightful habit of circulating more speedily in the locality where they know their way around.

Nobody's Business

(By Julian Capers Jr.)

Austin.—Members of the forty-fourth legislature, who were criticized bitterly for their failure to enact much of the new tax program advocated when the session convened, took comfort from the action of the state automatic tax board in fixing the state tax rate for 1936 at 62 cents, a cut of 15 cents from the present maximum constitutional rate of 77 cents. Excellent condition of the school fund permitted the reduction, this fund absorbing all the cut. The auditors showed the anticipated September 1 balance of the school fund to be $2,678,978 with an estimated income for the new year of around 22 1-2 million dollars. The board anticipates a net deficit September 1, 1935, of about 7 1-2 millions, but the estimates are ardently pessimistic. The actual figures closely approximate the summary published in this column last January, which were used as a basis for the statement that no large sum of revenue from new or higher state taxes were necessary.

The Works Progress administration, newest baby of the federal alphabetical agency family, is the center of interest among public officials of Texas today. Thru it, the government hopes to get employable relief rollers permanently off relief, and back on payrolls. In Texas, 140,000—25,000 women and the remainder men—will be eligible for the work. Political minded local officials have been quick to see in WPA projects a golden opportunity, and they are going after the liberal federal grants vigorously.

The extent to which Texas benefits permanently from the enormous spending of tax money which the WPA program involves, depends upon how closely local officials observe—or are forced by P. H. Drought, state WPA director, to observe—one provision of the law which says that all approved projects, whenever "practical and feasible," shall be done under the contract system.

If contracts are let on construction, road building and similar WPA projects, under which responsible contractors post bonds guaranteeing to complete the jobs at stipulated prices, using relief labor, of course, local communities will finish the program with many roads, buildings, sewage disposal plants, and other permanent improvements, paid for out of the huge federal relief appropriation, that will serve them for generations to come. If, on the other hand, local authorities are unwilling to be satisfied with the political capital they can make by obtaining liberal Wpa appropriations for their communities, but are greedy and want to parcel out the jobs on a day labor basis for political purposes, the Texas landscape is almost certain to be decorated for years to come with the skeletons of half-finished projects which will do no good for anybody except the people who collect wages for a few weeks or months.

The efficacy of the Contract system, as opposed to the political force-account system, was beautifully demonstrated last year by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which had a $200,000,000 road building appropriation to spend, and made an actual test in every state in the union. Thomas H. MacDonald chief of the bureau, testified before a house committee that the 48 test jobs, where a contract job and a force account job were done side by side in every state, showed it cost an average of 30 per cent more to build roads by the political system than it did by the contract system. Citizens and editors who hope to see their communities profit by the WPA program should investigate the method favored by their local officials before the money is spent.

Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the railroad commission, is a master of gentle sarcasm. He likes to exercise this gift when he takes the opposite view to that of public utility officials, as he frequently does. At the recent hearing in Austin to fix an allowable gas production for Texas wells, following enactment of the law to halt gas waste, a gas company attorney was cross-examining "Cap" Stanley, ex-chief chief of the commission's oil and gas division. Stanley had filed a long and technical affidavit, containing his findings concerning gas potential in the Panhandle field. It disagreed with the claims of

Chuck Wagon Dinner

The Methodist ladies are going to serve a regular old fashioned Chuck Wagon Dinner, Saturday. The dinner will be served in the shade of the trees on the square in Jayton. If you enjoy a good substantial feed—this will be your opportunity to do things up. It is a chance to get a dollar feed for the small sum of 35 cents. Of course you can hand them a dollar and say "keep the change" if you want to, they will appreciate it. But whether you do so or not make it a point to eat with them—you will be entertained while you eat by the Chuck Wagon Gang. These boys have played in towns all over West Texas and New Mexico also over the radio; they are truly good entertainment. Let us every one be there and help cut on a good cause.

JAYTON DEFEATS GIRARD

Last Tuesday the Jayton Softballers made a trip to Girard to play them a game. Jayton took the game by a score of 7 to 1. Their one score was made on an error.

The high light of this game was a nifty play pulled by the pitcher Richard Jay and the catcher. It was some like this: One of the players of the opposition was lucky enough to hit a liner into the pitcher while a man was in scoring position at third but due to the quick thinking of the pitcher from Jayton, the man was put out at home plate. How? Oh, Jay just kicked the ball back to the catcher instead of catching it and throwing which would have taken too much time.

30,000 TO C. C. CAMPS

Young men throughout Texas eligible for Civilian Control Camps.

State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy to make themselves known to their county administrator if they are interested in being among the 16,000 to be enrolled by August 31. Guy advised county administrators of their quotas and asked that they examine their relief rolls for probable enrollees, with the possibility that quotas will be increased when administrators show enough CCC-candidates to warrant.

An eligible candidate is any single man between 18 and 28 whose family is on the relief rolls.

Approximately 16,000 Texans are to be enrolled by August 31, with about 10,000 expected to be sent to out of state camps, Guy said. Out-of-state assignments are made because Texas camps already have their quotas, while camps in some of the other states have not, he explained.

the gas companies, and the attorney tried futilely to get Stanley to admit the affidavit meant certain things that it didn't say. Everybody was tired and bored by the cross-examination. Finally Thompson asked Stanley:

"Is the affidavit written in the English language, Mr. Stanley?"

"It sure is, Colonel," answered Stanley.

"Well, then," remarked Thompson, "Let's end this cross-examination. If it is in English, as Mr. Stanley says, it is quite possible the commission can read the affidavit, and understand what it means."

The hearing broke up promptly.

This column salutes John Boyle, of San Antonio, who has proved over and over again that he is the friend of the press of Texas. He did it when the Texas senate tried to penalize a reporter who printed secrets that a member of the senate revealed to him by a brilliant speech in defence of the reporters right's right to print news that he had a right to print. Boyle did it again, when he resigned from Water Woodul's Centennial commission of control, declaring he would not remain a member of a commission of that appointed an advertising advisory committee, "without a newspaperman on it." To the press gallery in Austin, John Boyle is the No. 1 hero, and he reserves to be.

Success In Life

(By R. E. W.)

There have been many discussions about that important subject, "success." How are you going to tell whether you have succeeded or not? Can you tell by the amount of money you have amassed? What measurement are you going to use in measuring your success?

If a person has made quite a sum of money, we usually call that person a success. Apparently that person has made a success of getting money, but is money all there is to success? We do not stop to consider how a person has made all of that money. Has that person set aside his standards so that he might make a few dollars? In some of the Latin American Countries they speak of our money as the "All American Dollar." They call it that because it is the most important thing in our lives today. Sometimes we speak degradingly of a person who has little money.

Money is an important element but not as important as we believe it to be nowadays. The number of true friends that a person has is one of the best ways of judging a person. Of course, financial success can go parallel with success in life; but it is usually inimical.

Do you have your own standards and ideals? Are you going to be a success in life? These are questions that we should consider now, not next year or ten years from now. "The power which resides in man is new in nature, and none but he knows what that is which he can do, nor does he know until he has tried."

Amendment No. 7, Swat It!

What is the measure to be acted upon by voters on August 24, 1935? Briefly, it is this: During its recent session the Texas legislature submitted to the people a number of proposed amendments for them to adopt or reject. Among them is the proposed amendment which, if adopted, will enable the "children of sectarian schools to tap the public funds for the purchases of their school books."

The gravity of this question can not be over estimated, for some observers even now say a name has already been suggested for the schools whose children are thus to be supplied with text books, and later with other essentials of education from state funds. These schools are to be known as "Religious Public Schools." What a pleasing and euphonious name to the unsuspecting and unthning public!

Alas! In America, the way is marked out for a very basic connection between State and Church, these observers declare. The way is through the education of sectarian school children out of public funds!

The answer of the Texas voters on August 24 to the proposed amendment to supply free text books to all the school children of that state, irrespective of the private or public character of the school they attend, is most important. The principles involved in this amendment are as sacred to the liberties of a free people as were the causes for which the patriots of the Lone Star State fought at the Alamo, Goliad, and San Jacinto.

Last year very few folks in Jayton could afford a vacation and few indeed took one. This year it is different, any how most everyone but the editor has found the means to hie away to some spot particularly blessed by nature and spend from a few days to a week or more resting and enjoying themselves. We are glad of this, and it leads us to hope and believe that eventually our time will come and when it does—won't we celebrate.

VISITED CARLSBAD CAVERN

Several days back, L. O. Mayer and family took time off and motored over into New Mexico and spent a day going thru the wonderful Carlsbad Caverns. L. O. tells us it is a wonderful place for a visit, and the folks that fail to see it are missing the sight of their lives. Larence frankly admitted to us that it was the first time he was ever out of the state and this added additional thrills to the trip.

It Sounded Different

Recently a girl we know found an old love letter which her father had written to her mother when they were courting. The daughter copied the letter, signed a man's name to it and mailed it to her self. Then she showed it to her father. There was an explosion like that of an erupting volcano. The father could scarcely express himself. He blurted out: "That fellow is the biggest fool I ever heard of. You better not let him come poking around here or I'll make mincemeat of him. We don't want such a simp in our family. Any ding-busted, fat-headed idiot who would write such a mess of silly, sickly hog-wash to any girl deserves to be ducked in a mudhole—and I'd like to do it."

On Texas Farms

(M. F. Cunningham)

Trench silos are getting filled this month in Texas. Corn, red top cane, seeded ribbon cane, hegari, kafir, milo, and a few more such crops are going into them.

E. R. Eudaly, Extension dairyman, says these crops had better be ripe because if they are cut too green the silage will contain a surplus of acid and as a result scour the cattle if fed liberally.

He says that the leaves on the upper half of the stalk should be green but the riper the crop the greater the feed value of the silage.

A trench silo six feet wide at the top, four feet wide at the bottom, five feet deep and 100 feet long will hold 30 tons of silage. That makes three tons per cow for a ten cow herd. Eudaly says three tons is just about what a dairy cow needs.

But that is not all. Each cow should be supplied with one ton of hay and one ton of feed per year. He says cannily, "Remember the more roughness the cow will consume, the less of grain mixture will be required. Hay and silage are cheaper than corn and cottonseed meal."

On a recent trip to the Gulf coast territory spreading the gospel of trench silos or "canning the cow's winter food supply", Eudaly found that R. W.ugio county had only one trench silo. Since he spoke there two months ago, 100 silos have been dug and filled.

Modern girls are alright, and when they also possess some old-fashioned sense they're irresistible.

Church of Christ Revival Continues

The revival led by Evangelist Luther Norman and being held in the Methodist tabernacle is being largely attended. The sermons have been plain and simple, the preacher believing that a message intended for the masses should be presented in the very plainest English.

Sunday 11 am the service will be held in the Presbyterian church building and the last service of the series will be in the tabernacle in the evening at 8:30.

Quite a number of people have responded to the invitations and the church has been strengthened during the week. The public is cordially invited to attend each service.

EMPHASIZES RURAL WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION PROJECTS

Efforts to employ the country's surplus on government jobs and to turn them into available private work will not miss the country's small towns, Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, said.

There is urgent necessity to the Nation's rural and small town unemployed is shown by the fact that approximately 40 per cent of the 5,000,000 families on relief are to be found in the open country and towns under 5,000 in population, Mr. Hopkins said.

"The city used to be the giant magnet drawing unemployed labor from the country" Mr. Hopkins pointed out. "This is no longer true. For a while after, the beginning of the depression, the flow reversed, going from city to country. Now even this movement has slowed. Employed needy people are in both city and country."

"Work is largely the answer for both areas," he said.

This is borne out by the fact that contrary to the general belief, a majority of the families on relief in the open country are those whose economic heads, whether men or women, are not farm operators. They comprise a group of workers who maintained themselves in the past by working at a great variety of trades and jobs.

"It is plain that the country and small town problem is not predominantly a farm-operator problem but essentially one of finding work for non agricultural workers, just as it is in the city," Mr. Hopkins declared.

"Plans are being made under the $4,000,000,000 Works Program to take care of the rural unemployed who were on the relief rolls as of May, 1935," he continued. "One of the main features of this program will be an extensive secondary road-building project. A substantial sum will be spent by the Works Progress Administration for this purpose."

About two-thirds of the roads in the United States are not State or Federal.

These roads which will come under the Works Progress Administration. In addition to the secondary road program, other measures designed to alleviate the unemployment problem in the rural areas include the following:

Construction projects of various kinds, such as small dams, levee building, rebuilding streets, waterworks and sewage disposal, extension of fighting systems, community sanitation projects, recreational projects, stream pollution control, and sanitary surveys. The Resettlement Administration will also have a program for rural areas to aid the farm families.

Mr. Hopkins pointed out that attempts were being made to provide employment for as many types of skills as possible.

"We have found that to meet the employment needs of the rural relief population," Mr. Hopkins said, "the Works Program must provide for a wide range of occupational skills. That is, we must as nearly as possible put people to doing the work they have been used to. This is important to keep human talent and abilities from deteriorating."

"When they get opportunities to resume private employment we don't want them demoralized from the dole. Our people don't want a hand out. They want something to help them hold their heads up. This is what the Works Program is attempting to do."

Figures from the research studies of the Works Progress Administration show that there are nearly 2, 100,000 rural and small town households receiving relief. Of this number, a total of 1,500,000 families, or 71 percent, were families with other than farm operator heads. This number includes farm laborer families.

About 600,000 households, or 29 percent of the total, were families whose heads were classed as farm operators. Of this number, about 48 percent were tenant families, 38 percent were farm owners, and 14 percent were families of farm croppers living in the southern states.

The great majority of the 1,500, 000 non farmer heads of rural and town households on relief are unskilled laborers. One third of them are unskilled industrial laborers, while more than 350,000 are farm laborers. Another 350,000 are skilled and semi-skilled industrial workers. "White collar" workers, including professional, proprietary, and clerical workers,
