These crashes resulted in no persons killed and two persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first five months of 1971 shows a total of one accident resulting in no persons killed and two persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for May, 1971 shows a total of 543 accidents resulting in 23 persons killed and 345 persons injured. This was 89 more accidents, six more fatalities, and 78 more injured than during April.

The 23 traffic deaths for the month of May, 1971 occurred in the following counties: Montague and Parker with three each; Archer, Palo Pinto and Oldham with two each; Dickens, Haskell, Wise, Young, Armstrong, Cottle, Deaf Smith, Gray, Potter and Randall with one each.

SCHOOL WILL PAY HALF OF CLINIC COSTS

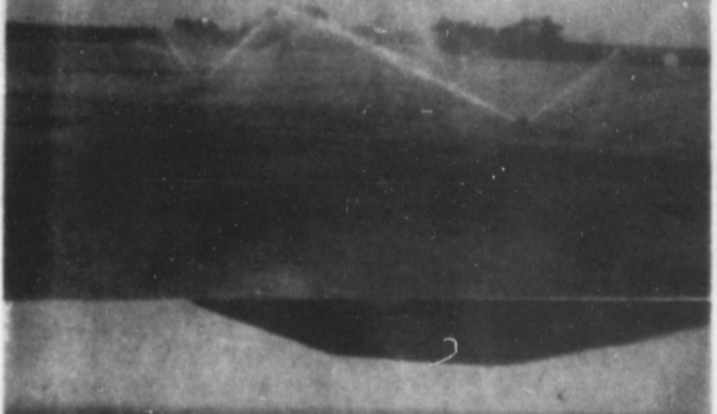

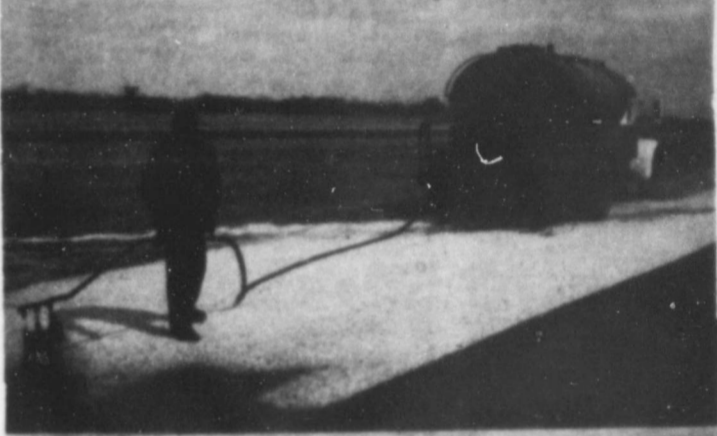

At a regular meeting of the Jayton School board Thursday night it was voted to pay half of the cost of speech students to the Clinic at Tech, which would amount to $50 by the school and $50 by the student.

The school board also voted to sell one of the teacherages in Girard and to place insurance coverage on the home-making cottage at Girard.

Work is progressing on the new building program with concrete being poured.

A number of the teachers are now in college. Rick Smith, the band teacher is in summer training.

COMMUNITY PROGRESS

This series of pictures depicts a great degree of Kent County progress.

Top picture, workmen are pouring concrete for a supporting pillar for the new library and community center.

The airstrip was built with State Money. The library, community center, and golf course improvements came from money raised by citizens voting a bond issue last year.

Planes Now Landing At Kent Co. Airstrip

The first airport to land on the new Kent county Airport arrived at 9:22 a. m. Saturday. The pilot of the first plane to land was Bob Harrison of Knox City with his wife Bobbie as Co-Pilot. The next plane arrived at 9:44 a. m. piloted by Larry Cox from Cranfills Gap accompanied by a friend.

On hand to greet the visitors were Lloyd Rudder, County Road Superintendent, Leroy Lipham of Aspermont, the paving Contractor, Gordon Hamilton, and Howard Freemyer.

Harrison and Cox were very complimentary of the new Airport and stated this airport is a nother milestone in the progress of Kent County.

They emphasized the use of General Aviation planes such as the ones they were flying are rapidly increasing in numbers each year and this Airport brings Kent County a lot closer to the metropolitan areas. It also indicates to the rest of the world that Kent County is truly a progressive County and this will certainly be an important factor to any manufacturers that might be looking for a place to locate a new plant.

Harrison went on to say that Kent County Citizens should be especially proud of this airport because there are many towns in Texas that do not have an airport that will equal this one.

This Week In Jayton

The people of Texas now know for sure, the thing they have all along--Lt. Governor Barnes will be running for Governor of Texas next year. He announced it the first of the week.

Governor Preston Smith, whom friends believe will seek a third term, made the remark that "He's got a long way to go in front of him."

Barnes, billed the fair haired young politician, who, at age of 33 already has quite a bit of experience behind him as member and Speaker of the Texas House, and two terms as Lt. Governor. He will be expected to have the backing and financial assistance of former Governor John Connally and former President Lyndon Johnson. This means a lot of political muscle where it will count the most.

Another announced candidate is Dolph Briscoe, a ranchman and banker down in the country.

A dark horse in the race is former United States Senator Ralph Yarborough. If Ralph can get the financial support he needs, he is almost certain to be in the race. However, financial backing failed to show up in the 1970 campaign, and against millionaire Lloyd Bentsen, he sputtered and died.

It is widely rumored that the U. S. CIO leader Hank Brown will not have any money for Yarborough this year. If this is true Ralph may not be able to make it.

Yarborough could add a lot of color to the race, and make it very interesting.

The last time he was elected in 1964, he was the one who had to defend himself.

A Small Raindrop Is A Powerful Thing

A raindrop is a tiny thing. But small as it is, when it falls on bare soil, it moves a few particles of soil as it strikes. A lot of raindrops toss around a lot of soil particles. The pounding raindrops seal the pores in the soil. Then water accumulates faster than it can enter the soil and runs off, carrying with it the soil particles that have been dislodged by the raindrops. And moving water has force and cutting power itself. That is what soil erosion is--the detachment and transportation of soil materials. The process tears the soil apart in a hurry, after it took nature hundreds of years to put the soil together. Wind does the same thing to bare soil--tears it apart and moves it. But neither wind nor water does any harm if soil is covered with dense growing vegetation and litter or mulch, of dead leaves and stalks. The snow of March 11, 1968 was an example of the way snow will move soil particles around. Land that is covered will keep the snow from blowing; uncovered land will not hold snow. This snow will

Weeds Take Precious Moisture From Grass

Weeds are heavy users of soil moisture. They use 4 to 11 times more water for growth than do the good native grasses, reminds County Agent Mark Geeslin.

A heavy growth of weeds is tough competition for grass seedlings, retards range improvement and furnishes little forage for beef cattle.

Some weeds are poisonous to livestock. Others can cause mechanical damage to an animal's eyes and other parts of the body.

Weed control, the county agent says, is of major importance on grazing lands in the county. On rootplowed and seeded areas, he suggests that

Cowboy Brakes

While automobile manufacturers have in recent years experienced trouble with brakes on various models, cowboys have usually avoided such trouble. However, Rex Allen, Hollywood's singing cowboy, recently came up with brake trouble himself.

Appearing at a rodeo in Canada, he made his usual darkened entrance at a gallop, white hat held high. But his horse suddenly stopped;

Allen continued airborne. Fortunately, he was unhurt.

Which reminds one of the agonies of young heroes back in the thirties when Hollywood first inflated singing cowboys on as suspecting young America. This was for the girls, of course, and sold tickets, but the wails and groans of banjo pickin' was a terrible ordeal. Many a shell-shocked youngster couldn't recognize such "idiocy" with the blue cowboy stuff.

Cattle Grubs Rob Beef Industry Of Millions

Cattle grubs cost the Texas livestock industry several million dollars each year. Losses to this pest are an important economic consideration in Kent County, according to

M. A. Geeslin. Losses occur at all levels in the production and marketing chain, he says. The cow-calf producer is concerned about reduced milk production

"For we have long felt that the romance of our common history makes our region one of the most attractive magnets on the domestic travel scene. And, increasingly, regional promotion is necessary if we are to compete successfully for our share of the $45 billion travel market."

From the Tucson-Phoenix-Grand Canyon area on the west, the trail extends as far east as Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Austin, and Fort Worth.

by the mother cows and resulting reduced weaning weights of calves. The feeder suffers losses as a result of reduced gains and lowered market price for grubby animals. The packer who buys and slaughters grubby animals realizes hide losses, carcass trim, increased handling costs and lowered carcass value. Therefore, cattle grub control deserves the attention of the entire beef industry.

Cattle grubs can be effectively controlled through the use of systemic insecticides. Depending upon the operation, systemics can be administered as dips, sprays, backline pour-ons, mineral mixes or feed additives. Costs of these treatments vary with the methods and chemical selected, but generally, ranges less than 50 cents per animal in most instances.

A listing of chemicals and methods of treatment for systemic cattle grub control is available at agents office.

It's Such a Big World

Some folks say that as we grow older the world grows smaller. Is that because of the wonders of modern communication and transportation? Or is it because when some folks grow older they become preoccupied with their own little orbit of life?

Junior certainly enters life completely preoccupied with himself. But once he begins to walk and talk—gosh how his world balloons!

That's why he needs the religious training our churches provide. His faith must keep pace with his burgeoning world.

And as grown-ups, in worship and Christian devotion, we need likewise the spiritual gifts our churches offer.

For it really is a big world. Full of challenges, opportunities, and promising tomorrows. It always looks that way to a growing soul.

weeds be controlled with herbicides to reduce competition and insure establishment of the seeded grasses.

Herbicide solutions for weed control must be applied to obtain full coverage when the weeds are 4-6 inches tall, growing vigorously with plenty of soil moisture. The temperature range can vary from 55 to 85 degrees and the wind should be less than 10 miles per hour at the time of applied per acre with a broadcast (boomless) nozzle with 10-20 jet openings, 300 pounds of pressure and a tractor ground speed of 4 to 5 miles an hour.

Annual weed control is a paying proposition, in areas where rainfall averages above 25 inches, forage increases from 1,900 to 5,500 pounds per acre can be expected. In lower rainfall areas, the increase should be in proportion depending upon the range condition.

The county agent adds that he has available at his office publications dealing with range and pasture weed control, including suggestions and recommendations for herbicide use. Interested persons are invited to either call or come by the office for a copy of the materials.

against the corruption of office label. Now, can't you just see how he would sink his teeth into the recent scandal that surrounds many of the Texas political leaders?

Financial wheeler and dealer, Frank Sharp of Houston received a slight slap on the wrists this week, and was then turned loose by the federal courts.

We are told that the Sharp lawyers made a deal with the feds that he would be let off the hook very lightly, if he "told the truth" against Texas politicians.

After being sentenced, he was carried immediately before a federal grand jury to tell his story. So far his juicy story has not been made public, but you can be sure the AP and UPI boys, along with the daily press of the State are going to get access to his story, some way. And when it hits the news stands, it will sure have its bearing on the up and coming political picture in 1972.

As it has already been pointed out, 1972 is going to be a very interesting year.

KENT H.D. CLUB HAS REGULAR MEETING

The Kent Co. Home Demonstration Club met in the court house for its regular meeting, with Mrs. Hobert Lewis giving a book review, "In My Fathers House".

It was wonderfully relieved by the speakers, making the minister and all the things that happened in his years as a Methodist minister come to light. You felt that you knew him and his good works. These that did not get the opportunity to hear this review surely missed a treat.

Washington--The Government has proposed marine waste treatment standards that was estimated would cost pleasure boat owners $200 to $300 each. These standards would require that human wastes discharged from boats meet the same secondary treatment standards prescribed for municipal wastes.

Cattlemen Should Watch For Vitamin A Deficiencies

Cattlemen should be keeping a closer eye out for vitamin A deficiencies where drought conditions have reduced the quality of the hay and forage they normally feed their livestock.

Breeding cows that are vitamin A deficient will probably give the stockman his most costly problem. While breeding cows that are deficient in the vitamin may continue to have estrus periods, fewer cows become pregnant. If the pregnant animal is severely deficient, she may abort the calf or give birth to dead, weak or blind calves.

Cattle can store the vitamin, but calves at birth have practically no body storage of carotene (vitamin A) and they must depend on a supply from the colostrum or milk.

Younger animals tend to show signs of vitamin deficiency in less time than older ones, but there are differences among individuals of the same age who receive the same treatment.

Calves weighing between 250-400 pounds may show deficiency symptoms in 40-80 days and older cattle show signs in 100-150 days.

To have sufficient vitamin A to be able to save their calves, cows must have good hay, ample silage, vitamin A fortified concentrates or synthetic vitamin A.

Synthetic vitamin A can be mixed with feed, injected intramuscularly and/or administered in controlled drinking water.

Products containing vitamin A should be stored in cool, dark places because the vitamin loses its potency when exposed to sunlight, air and heat.

Alfalfa and silage are two of the better natural sources of the vitamin. A bright pea green color is usually a good indicator of vitamin potency in hay, but it isn't completely reliable.

Hays that contain molds as a result of heating have probably lost some or all of their vitamin A potency. Chemical testing procedures give the most reliable determination of the vitamin.

One symptom of the early stages of vitamin A deficiency is night blindness, but other signs such as watering eyes and some swelling joints are easier to recognize.

In the latter stages cattle become less alert and lose their appetites. Other symptoms of prolonged vitamin A deficiencies are nasal discharge, rapid breathing, staggering gait, convulsions, or complete blindness.

Another sign that is characteristic of the vitamin deficiency is sluggishness. A staggering gait has also been noted. If this condition goes unremedied, the cattle will become unmarketable and will eventually die.
