District Agent Retires

Her replacement will be Virginia Wirges, who is currently Wichita County Home Demonstration Agent. The announcement was made by Extension Director John E. Hinchison.

A native of Graham in Wichita County, she received her B.S. degree in home economics from North Texas State University. Additional studies have been done at Texas Tech University, Texas State University and Texas A&M University.

Miss Hodge is well known by all the ladies that have worked in Home Demonstration work for many years.

Special New Plates For Disabled Veterans

The 62nd Legislature passed and Governor Preston Smith signed into law an amendment to Texas Motor Vehicle Registration Law which provides free license plates to certain disabled veterans, according to County Judge Bob Gallagher.

To qualify for the free plates, an applicant must 1. Be a Texas resident. 2. Be a veteran of the armed forces of the United States. 3. Have a disability rating of 70% or more. 4. Be drawing compensation from the federal government as a result of service-connected disability.

Under the new law, a qualified veteran is entitled to register, for his own personal use, one passenger car or light commercial vehicle having a manufacturer's rated capacity of one (1) ton or less, without payment of the prescribed annual fee. Specially designed license plates will be issued, with the letters "DV" appearing as either a prefix or suffix to the license number. The words "Disabled Vet" will appear on the plates, also, Rankin added.

Vehicles displaying the "Disabled Vet" plates will, also, be exempt from the payment of parking fees, including those collected through parking meters, charged by any governmental authority other than a branch of the federal government.

Application forms may be secured locally, along with instructions, from the county tax office and from the County Service officer.

School Board To Face Heavy Agenda

The Jayton School board has a meeting scheduled for Thursday night, at which time a hearing will be held on the budget for the new school year. Supt. R.N. Pierce says there will be no major changes in the budget. The tax rate will be down from 1.60 to 1.52.

At the meeting, also the board will be expected to open bids for butane, oil and gas, milk, metal shop equipment, carpet for the elementary school and auto mechanic equipment.

A new lunchroom program will be adopted, which will liberalize the free lunch program. This is a federal plan. A plan will be considered for the county to take over supervision of the Girard football field and use it for a roping arena.

In the superintendent's report, he is expected to discuss with the board such matters as a dress code, tax report, finance, immunization policy and the lunch room report.

At the July meeting of the board, they approved a contract with Tommy Waggoner as auto mechanics instructor with a salary of $7,900.00 per year. Also they approved a bid of Taylor Mfg. Co. of $9,125.00 for Arts and Crafts furniture.

LETTERS to EDITOR

Mr. Richards, I showed the following writing to some friends and they asked me to ask you to please print it in the Chronicle. Adolphus

JESUS CHRIST HAS THE ANSWERS

It seems that Madalyn Murray O'Hair was invited by the Student Christian Association to speak at a certain college in Ohio. Mrs. O'Hair will go down in history as the one who knocked prayer and Bible reading out of the public schools. She also tried to stop them from putting a Bible on the moon, but her influence fell short.

According to The Masonic Bulletin, published in Canton, Ohio, 350 students, faculty and townspeople gathered to hear Mrs. O'Hair discuss her views in opposition to God, Jesus Christ and religion. She lambasted religion with her usual unadvisable language and swore with oaths and vituperative remarks. She made fun of church pastors, ministers, leaders and church officers. She said the Bible was not infallible and it didn't amount to anything anyway; she harassed the students and professors; she harangued the foolish thinkers who believed what they read. She referred to God as "Daddy" and to Jesus Christ as "J.C." and to the Holy Ghost as the "Spook."

The audience was stunned by her speech, and as questions were put to Mrs. O'Hair she further attacked Christianity. As the meeting was about to break up, a tiny voice of a little college girl came from the back of the auditorium. She spoke quietly and lovingly and her voice was full of compassion. Here is what she said:

"Mrs. O'Hair, I am so happy you came to speak to all of us here at our college tonight! We have listened with attention to your tirade on our beliefs. We thank you for showing all of us what an atheist is; we express gratitude on your challenge to our faith; we appreciate your concern for us - but now we in turn must be ever grateful for your visit - because - now and forever we have been strengthened in our Christian beliefs. We really feel sorry for you and we'll pray each night and day for your conversion to our Christian beliefs and again we thank you for coming and I know that you have strengthened my faith in our church, in our religion and in our Christ! Now I'll have more faith in "Big Daddy," in "J.C." and in the "Spook!" Again I say Thank you and bless your soul!"

The speaker of the evening was flabbergasted. She had no answer. It was the first time in her history that she couldn't open her mouth to say something. There was a riot of noise. The applause for this response was deafening. The meeting broke up with people experiencing an unbelievable Christian conviction of love for Jesus Christ, the Father and the Holy Spirit.

Jurors' Names To Be Drawn Bingo Style

The new jury wheel will go into operation for District Court August 30, 1971. All registered voters names, 21 years of age and older, will be typed on 1 1/2 by 2 inch cards and placed in a hopper. The name "Jury wheel" comes from the handle that turns the hopper.

The sheriff and the County Clerk both carry the key to the wheel. To open the hopper the judge, sheriff and the County Clerk must all be present.

All the cards are placed in the hopper and the handle is turned, mixing the cards up. The cards are then drawn and the names drawn are sent a card informing them they are to be there for possible jury service.

To be exempt, one must be 65 years old or older or a woman with children under 10 years of age, but these can serve, if they so desire. There will be no economic excuses that will exempt one from jury duty. To be excused, one must have the consent of both attorneys and the presiding judge.

There is a $100 dollar fine and/or three days in jail for not being present for jury duty.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

"What do I need when I go in to file for my social security?" This is a question asked daily of the social security office according to John G. Haffner, social security manager.

Most people know they will need their social security number and birth record. However, one record frequently overlooked but usually required is the W-2 forms and copy of the tax return for the last calendar year.

Timely advice from your social security office is this. If you plan to file your claim for social security benefits this year, take your W-2 forms and copy of your 1970 income tax return with you.

By having the necessary records with you when you file for your social security, you will be assured of receiving your benefits at the earliest possible date.

President Nixon Approves Federal Support for Arts

In a major call for broader government support for the arts, President Nixon in a recent address affirmed his stand in favor of full $30 million federal funding for the arts in fiscal 1972. The President coupled his appeal with a directive to the heads of all executive departments and agencies to strengthen their assistance to the arts.

It is estimated that the American people spend more than $2 billion each year on the arts. The Business Committee for the Arts estimates that $90 million in cash and services was provided by American corporations to the arts in 1968, and a new study is nearing completion to determine their present contributions.

The President demonstrated his commitments to wider government participation.

From Where I Sit

By OMAR BURLESON
U. S. Representative
17th Texas District

It sounds a little strange and certainly unchamber-of-commerce when a town decides it does not want more people.

This seems to be the case in quite a few places. One Florida resort area spent a lot of money printing color brochures advertising "the good life" but now they say that is the trouble.

The "Good Life" is evidently slipping away in a good many places. When a town becomes bumper-to-bumper, filled curb-to-curb with traffic, it is hardly a place for a pleasant drive.

When the wonderland advertised is filled with carbon monoxide, bridges over waterways often clogged two miles back, some places are a little worried about attracting people.

Some city leaders are talking about a "selective growth." How that is to be arranged is something else. An organization even in Arizona is recommending zero growth because the Colorado River just can't furnish much more water for more people.

Southern California is considered a tragedy in a good many places because the slopes of Old Baldy can't be seen many mornings because of the smog.

More recently, the governor of Delaware has signed into law a bill passed by the legislature banning new chemical plants, oil refineries, steel and paper mills from the whole Delaware coast. This is what every city has been after to make it grow and prosper. It seems the "bigger and better" and "the more the merrier" time has passed. That time was probably created in the days of the old West when merchants, saloon keepers and the gamblers counted the wagon trains leaving town and coming to town as a way to count their blessings.

Much attention is now being given by the planners in developing towns and cities that will preserve and restore the pleasantness of living. The good living was supposed to have been furnished when blocks and blocks of close together public housing was built in the cities. Here in Washington, for instance, it has been found that most, if not all, those concentrated projects become slums faster than the slums they were supposed to have cleaned out. It is felt that people occupying great projects thrown together, do not create any community of interest, hardly anyone takes any collective pride in upkeep and soon they have as many rats as were there when older buildings were replaced.

There is something wrong about all this. In Europe and in other older countries, old houses which have been there two centuries still appear neat, clean and are well kept.

The development of suburbs with miles of houses jammed as tightly as the traffic will bear lay flat some of the prettiest hills and trees to be found any place--still this is progress.

For the well-heeled, there are whole communities being built around club houses, golf courses and swimming pools. For those a little less better off, new towns are being built where kids can walk to school and ride their bicycles with safety but the old parts of inner cities are the cores of what is left and the problems not only continue but become worse.

There seems to be a lot of engineering in everything except people. Instead of the "bigger and better" and "the more the merrier," the problem is what is to be done with people, of which there are going to be plenty for a long time. The question is the quality of life and how to preserve that quality instead of quantity, that no one has yet come up with a very satisfying answer.

NOTE: Since the Congress is going into a Recess for the remainder of the month of August, the next three weeks of this column will be vacated and resumed in September.

He deeply embraces many instinctively held ideas and seeks to justify them. He tends Female Cancerians are often drawn to domestic life. Powerful feelings about preserving the family unit and the home are common among male Cancerians who frequently beautify their home throughout the year with colorful flowers.

Cancerians must continually guard against the misuse of those traits which can lead to fussiness and restlessness. The spoon chrysanthemum is their flower, according to FTD florists, who add that moss agate is their birthstone.

UNKLE ZEKE SEZ

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Our Government moves in wondrous ways, its works to perform. That was what the discussion at the country store was about Saturday night, Mister Editor, and the fellers give it a good going over.

First off, there was Clem Webster with his expert opinion about giving the airplane outfit a $250 million loan to keep it from going bankrupt. Clem said a company that far under would do better to declare itself a foreign country and put in for aid, but he was of a mind that the loan was just another makework project.

If Lockheed's managers is so bad to let the company git in such a fix while working mostly for the Government 80 year, Clem was of the mind that the outfit ought to be took over by the Welfare Department and be done with it. This way, went on Clem, all the folks that depends on the company for a job could git on welfare and keep on working at their same job, and that really would be a new idea.

Serious, said Clem, running to the Government for aid, loans or advice ain't proved to be the best remedy for what alls you. He said Penn Central Railroad went busted, lost a bunch of boxcars and done all kind of wild investing in other business right under the nose of federal regulators and guidelines that may be the cause of most of railroad problems everwhere.

If the idee of making the Lockheed loan is to keep folks from gitting laid off from work, allowed Democrat Clem, we might as well call it a New Deal WPA project. That's what happened at Cherry Point Marine Base in North Carolina, reported Clem. He said the Marines wanted to close a repair shop that worked 3,000 civilians, cause they didn't need it any more, but politicians and businessmen in the area got the Government to keep the shop going for the good of the economy, if not the Marines.

Personal, Mister Editor, I am agreed that the Government goes too far in perfection and services. It is bad when a feller can't feed his own slop to his own hogs, but now I see where federal agencies is worried cause dog food sold as "fortified" ain't a complete or balanced diet.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

SHORT OF A MIRACLE

Rome's Coliseum, partly tumbled into ruin, is considered one of the wonders of the world. It was built in 80 A. D.--and that is a long time ago, to be sure. Yet it is but a second when measured against the ages that have passed since God created the world.

The Coliseum--wonder that it is--is also visible proof of the limit of man's accomplishments. We consider it nothing short of a miracle that something built by man has endured that long. Yet those things created by God remain endless and eternal.

God's works should, indeed, fill even the wisest of us with wonder, with awe, and with gratitude. We tend to take them all too much for granted. We tend, at times, to forget them--and even to forget Him--entirely.

Discover God again, in the church of your choice and in the presence, rediscover yourself.

POP-UP POPPIES

Few flowers are as easy to grow or produce as many blossoms as California poppies.
 No flower pops up much faster than the California poppy. Broadcast the seeds where you want the flowers and, almost before you know it, there they are.
 This flower is the perfect answer to what to grow in that hot, sunny spot where the soil is clear sand.
 You don't even have to plant seeds each year because California poppies seed themselves.
 And they're so striking in their brilliant colors that the place you selected to plant them will be one of the beauty spots in your garden.
 There are single, semi-double and double-flowered California poppies. Those with the additional petals are, perhaps, a bit more effective, especially at a distance.
 The traditional colors are yellow and orange but nowadays to those must be added pink, copper, scarlet, rose, amber and white.
 Aurantica is the original California poppy. A good mixture

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Free Speech: The Outer Limits

At a large public meeting not long ago, about 25 dissenters stationed themselves near the back of the hall to heckle the speaker. Shouting slogans in unison, they made him almost inaudible to many members of the audience.

Someone asked an usher whether anything could be done.
 "Not a thing," he replied gloomily. "They're just exercising their freedom of speech under the Constitution."
 But the usher was wrong about the Constitution. He was making the all-too-common mistake of thinking that whatever is oral is lawful. The freedom of speech guaranteed by the Constitution does not mean that at all. Many kinds of oral conduct are unlawful.
 Here are some examples:
 1) a moviegoer, just for kicks, yells that the theater is on fire;
 2) an envious spinster falsely informs the man next door that his wife is having an affair with the milkman;
 3) a hardware dealer, selling a stepladder he knows is defective, tells the customer it is safe;
 4) a drunk warbles "Sweet Adeline" outside a hospital window at midnight.

Each of these actions is oral—and each is unlawful. Furthermore, they were unlawful when the Constitution was adopted. So is the deliberate disruption of a public meeting, whether by shouting slogans or blowing whistles or ringing cowbells.

What the Constitution does guarantee is the freedom that really counts: the freedom to express and advocate ideas, however unpopular.
 In fact, it is to safeguard this primary freedom that the law imposes reasonable limits on the time, place, and manner of speech. Judge Curtis Bok once put the matter in a nutshell:
 "In the whole history of law and order, the longest step forward was taken by primitive man when, as if by common consent, the tribe sat down in a circle and allowed only one man to speak at a time."

It is this kind of common sense that enables a free society to function. It is what the law is all about.

Poem Of The Week By FLORA SMITH DEAN

EARLY SETTLERS
 There's uncle Em, and Lise and John
 And Uncle Bud, they've journeyed on;
 Old Aunt Mary, and Uncle Fan,
 Dear Aunt Teck, and Grandma Van;
 Uncle John Sawyer, and Grandma, too,
 Have gone to a land, forever new;
 Don't forget Joe, and aunt Lucy, so dear,
 Uncle John Noble, we miss you here;
 And Aunt Ophelia, and Mother Cone,
 Grandmother Ragle; all these are gone;
 We miss your dear remembered faces
 From their old familiar places;
 Uncle John Kerlin, your beautiful life,
 Will live forever, thru time and strife;
 They left old ties, and settled here,
 And made their children, in honor and truth,
 Won the love of the aged and the youth;
 They left their mark upon the land,
 Their old landmark shall always stand;
 Dear Old-Timers, 'tho you are gone,
 To a beautiful land, your deeds live on;
 We remember you always, in deep love;
 When WE are Old-Timers, We'll meet you above!

"Why is it? A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised blanket, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub and wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, drink advertised coffee after his advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in his advertised toaster), put on an advertised clothes and an advertised hat.

He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk, smoke advertised cigarettes and write with an advertised pen. Yet this man hesitates to advertise, saying that advertising does not pay. Finally, when his unadvertised business goes under he will then advertise it for sale."

Farmers Union Says "No Shortage Of Cotton"

The Texas Farmers Union governing board has accused the Department of Agriculture of falsely representing that there is a shortage of cotton.

The eleven-member Executive Committee, meeting in Waco last week, adopted a resolution condemning USDA for "aiding and abetting the cotton trade" releasing information that would disadvantage cotton producers in planning for the future.

The resolution stated that present conditions do not justify the expansion of cotton production. It pointed out that the parity price of cotton is in excess of fifty cents a pound, while the producer is currently receiving less than fifty percent of parity.

The general farm organization, representing several thousand Texas cotton farmers, protested that textile mill margins indicate increased profits to cotton manufacturers, while cotton farmers are being called upon to sell for less than the cost of production to "preserve markets that are not worth preserving."

"There is no indication that higher cotton prices will put cotton in an unfavorable market position with manmade fibers, and cotton farmers have the responsibility of managing their production so as not to produce in excess of what can be sold at profitable prices," the Farmers Union statement said.

The resolution stated that a "prime function of USDA is to assist farmers in managing their production and to provide accurate information as to supply, demand and commodity pricing." It called upon the secretary of agriculture to direct its officials to "disengage" USDA from the propaganda program in partnership with "organizations that pose as spokesmen for cotton producers but are in fact front organizations for the textile manufacturing and processing industry."

The Farmers Union asked Secretary of Agriculture Hardin to see to it that the officials of USDA carry out their commitments to cotton producers by assisting them in balancing supply with demand. It also asked that USDA's public affairs and educational agencies, such as the Extension Service be directed to accurately portray the true facts relative to cotton prices, supply, textile mill profits, and net cotton producer income.

In further action, the Texas Farmers Union Executive Committee protested a regulation in the cotton program which reduces payment yield when a cotton farmer loses a crop because of a drought disaster. "The payment yield reduction provision, presently in the law is 'punitive and discriminatory when applied to areas which do not produce a crop because of a drought disaster," according to the resolution adopted.
