David Geeslin Wins Football Contest

Geeslin won the chronicle football last week, missing the game. Actually, every guess right, did not mark the record and Paducah and Gus third.

Coaches Ralph Newton and Kenneth Judy each missed only three games. The average was about five.

The guesses will get better, as the teams play a few games, and get reputations.

If you enjoy these little games, thank the merchants who sponsor this contest.

Texas has invested about $40,000 in the County Air Strip.

There are those who talk lightly about the airport, but one day they will see how much help it is, and this state money is a pretty good thing to get. Especially when you have to pay the taxes, whether you get any of the money back or not.

The Jayton Jaybirds went in at the half of their game in Roscoe Friday night with a minus yardage from scrimmage, but they held a 15-14 edge on the scoreboard, and this proved to be the ball game, as it was all defense in the final half of the contest.

Just before the half, Dibrell got off a good kick on a punt, backing the plowboys up to the five yard furrow. But in a cagey move, Roscoe's Grady Miles rolled 95 yards for a Plowboy TD.

Parker Kidd made some good runs up the middle, but basically the Birds could not put together a sustained drive. But Dibrell was sharp with his passes, hitting Tommy Parker several times with his bomb, and also hitting Tommy Johnson and Keith Cave with good passes.

Both teams made the usual amount of first game mistakes and fumbles, but the Birds withstood several Roscoe drives trying to get back on top of the score board.

The Jaybird defense was good when it had to be good in the last half, which enabled them to keep the one point margin they had.

The Birds take on Spur here Friday night.

Kent County Farms Get Hatchery Fish

A number of Kent County residents gathered in Clairmont Monday morning, Sept. 11, with one thing on their mind. FISH.

The U. S. Department of Interior made it's semi-annual delivery of fish this time distributing channel catfish and blue gill.

Those receiving fish were Jim Baker, Jess Daughtery, John Mayer, Bill Parks, Harold Ship, Billy Stanaland, Bobby Stanaland, and Wayne Stanaland. These people received a total of 2000 channel catfish.

During the fish delivery a number of questions were asked concerning fish pond management. How can we grow the most fish?

There are a number of management practices that the fish grower can follow to give this fish the best habitat for growing and reproducing. First, the pond should be stocked according to its production potential. This is usually no problem if the fish are ordered from the state or federal hatchery because they send you the number of fish recommended for your pond based on your application. Second, you can increase your pond production by fertilizing the water much as if you were fertilizing your crop land field. Third, you can feed your fish, especially catfish, and by doing so, raise many more fish as well as allow them to grow at a rapid rate. Under a feeding situation, 1000 to 1500 catfish per surface acre will produce 1 pound fish in one year. This is under an intensive feeding program which requires careful attention of the fish grower.

If you desire to fertilize your farm pond or feed your fish, the Soil Conservation Service personnel will be glad to assist you in setting up your program. Also fish application forms are available for ordering fish.

Jayton Student Council Holds Annual Election

The Student Council elected officers for the 1972-73 school year. They are as follows: Bill Parks, vice president, Hobette Hamilton, secretary; Brad English, parliamentarian; Mike Wilson, treasurer.

Tom Hanke read thank-you notes from several of the teachers thanking the Council for buying their lunch. Paula Mayer was appointed to change the marquee downtown. The council then discussed the suggestions from the student body. Among the suggestions were the following: longer lunch hour, open campus, exemption program, dress regulations, dances at the Community Center.

Each of these suggestions was discussed, these are the results.

Longer lunch hour-The only way to lengthen the lunch hour is to either cut out the breaks or take away some subjects such as band and athletics.

Open campus- This will be taken under advisement by the administration.

Exemption program - This will be taken under advisement by the administration.

Dances at the Community Center- This is not in the hands of the school, the student council. Just to the individual.

The Council also discussed ways to encourage school spirit, and suggested having pep rallies at the Community Center until able to use the gym.

Member 1972 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

As It Looks From Here

By Rep. Ornat Burleson
Member of Congress, Texas

In January of 1799 the Congress passed what is known as the Logan Act. In essence the law forbids private citizens from engaging in diplomatic negotiations with foreign governments without official sanction. It carries a maximum penalty of 3 years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine for violation. At intervals in our history some prominent and well-known people have been accused of violating the Act but it turns out that, although frequently least used laws on the books. The law came about in a rather curious way. Ordinarily, legislation bears the name of the Congressman or Senator who authored it. In this case, George Logan, a wealthy Philadelphia Quaker and physician, was an early leader of conscientious objectors. In 1789 he was worried about the outbreak of war between the United States and France. The French were angry over American reluctance to support her as repayment for her help in the American Revolution against England. In 1789 France has placed an embargo on U.S. shipping and seized several merchant ships and crewman.

With a letter of introduction from Thomas Jefferson, then Vice President, Mr. Logan went to France to confer with her Foreign Minister, Maurice de Talleyrand, and obtained the release of the ships and crews. Even Federalist President Adams was impressed with Logan's success but the Congress was not passed the law bearing Logan's name since his acts were resented by the legislative branch. Logan became popular in Pennsylvania and was elected to the United States Senate in 1801. Undaunted by the law named for (or against) him, Logan left the Senate in 1807 and 3 years later went to England in an effort to negotiate better relations and try to avoid the War of 1812. In this effort, obviously, he failed. The Act was not invoked against him. Apparently the only indictment ever returned under the law was against Francis Flournoy. Mr. Flournoy was a Kentucky Farmer with a very great interest in foreign affairs.

In 1803 he wrote an article urging that a separate country be established in the American West, allied with France. Officials in Washington directed the U. S. Attorney for Kentucky to seek a Grand Jury indictment. Flournoy was indicted but charges were dropped when the United States made its Louisiana Purchase from France and the separation issue faded. In more recent years such nationally prominent people as Henry Ford, Senator Joseph McCarthy, Vice President Wallace, Harold Stassen and Cyrus Eaton have been verbally cited as being in violation of the Federal Law. It is now being questioned in some quarters as to whether Ramsey Clark, Pierre Salinger and Jane Fonda violated the Act by their talks with the North Vietnamese communist in Hanoi and Paris.

It seems that the lawyers in the Justice Department are saying that if any action is to be taken, it should be recommended by the State Department. The State Department says that it is the Justice Department who should act if there were law violations.

Probably the best explanation at this time is that neither want to pick up a hot potato because (1) they would be accused of political sledge-hammering, which the law has seemingly always been, (2) they seem to think it would be difficult to prove "negotiations" and (3) prosecution would tend to make a martyr out of the defendants.

So, as it has always been, the Logan Act is something more to talk about than to prosecute under. But in reviewing the Logan Act's history, Harvard law professor Dellev F. Vagts wrote in the American Journal of International Law: "Who can tell when a new administration, thinner skinned or harder pressed than its predecessors, may in irritation, call into play this sleeping giant?"

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence. "You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer." This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer siren a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged. "Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights.

But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will. What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary"? Hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.

But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations. In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

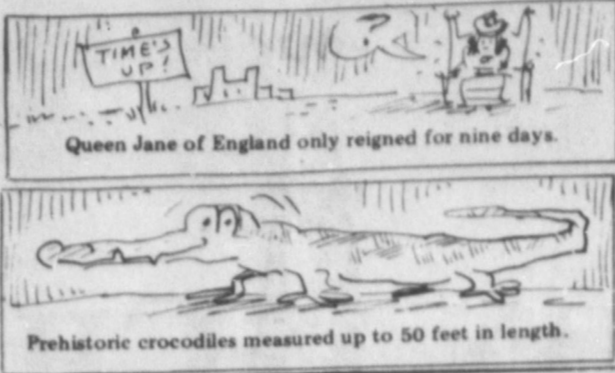

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law: It was all too likely to be false.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY Survival

Medieval knights felt invincible when they strode forth to battle in a suit of armor. Unfortunately, more protection meant less mobility. Finally armor became so cumbersome that it was relegated to museums—the useless antique was discarded—not the man under the metal coverall. He had to adapt to the change!

How many of our ideas and customs have become useless? The world is not static and even some values change. What we cherish must be genuine. That goes for faith, too. A shallow faith cannot survive the twentieth century—or any era for that matter. But the Christian faith is not superficial, or outmoded! It survives, and continues to reach millions each Sunday—proof that Christianity is not destined for the museum.

Cherry Salad Supreme

(3 oz.) raspberry gelatin
 (2 1/2 oz.) cherry pie filling
 (3 oz.) lemon flaved gelatin
 (3 oz.) cream cheese salad dressing crushed pineapple un-drained whipping cream, whipped tiny marshmallows
 chopped nuts
 1/2 cup raspberry gelatin
 1/2 cup boiling water
 9 x 2-inch baking dish
 Chill until partially set. Dissolve lemon gelatin in 1 cup of boiling water. Beat together softened cream cheese and salad dressing. Gradually add lemon gelatin to cream cheese mixture. Stir in undrained pineapple. Fold the whipped cream and marshmallows into the lemon mixture. Spread this mixture over the cherry layer; sprinkle with chipped nuts. Chill until set. Makes about 12 servings. This is a very pretty salad. It may be used as a dessert, if desired, and is most attractive in parfait glasses.

A mirror tray is an ideal background to enhance the transparent delicacy of individual molded salads. A garnish of fresh green leaves and ripe whole berries adds the final touch of beauty.

SPARKLING FRUIT MOULD

- 1 package lime gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 orange
- 1 cup canned pineapple cubes
- 1 cup sliced peaches
- Chicory
- 2 small clusters grapes

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and chill until it begins to set. Pare orange, leaving none of the white skin. Cube. Add orange and drained pineapple and peaches to gelatin, reserving a few peach slices for garnishing. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold on bed of chicory and garnish with peach slices and grapes. Serves 8.

You and your pet

By TED KAVANAUGH, DIRECTOR, ALPO PET NEWS BUREAU

America's 45th Annual Salute to Dogs

"Deserve to be your dog's best friend." That's the slogan millions of America's dog owners from coast to coast are preparing to demonstrate in a week-long celebration of National Dog Week starting September 24th.

Hundreds of dog clubs throughout the U.S. will stage colorful pet parades, dog shows and demonstrations of dog obedience work. Animal shelters will hold open house and puppy adoption campaigns. Schools and libraries plan displays and special programs. Fund raising events are held to benefit veterinary research, humane societies and guide dogs for the blind. Many veterinarians serve as school and civic club speakers for National Dog Week, a non-profit educational project.

What Can You Do? Here Are Some Suggestions

Bone up on the history of dogs. You and your children will appreciate your own pet more when you learn about the important role dogs have played throughout the ages; how they have influenced mankind's history and folklore.

Remember a health checkup. If your dog hasn't been checked by a veterinarian lately, do it soon. Regular health care extends a dog's life span. A veterinarian can spot small troubles before they become big ones.

Be a good neighbor. Train your dog not to soil sidewalks or your neighbors' property. For suburbanites, mop up your pup's first mistake, stake the rag to his outdoors spot you've chosen and take him there regularly. A week's time should train him.

Purebred Alaskan Malamute

Take care of your dog. Plenty of exercise and brushing the coat regularly is important. Proper nutrition is essential. Good health and disposition requires more than just table scraps. Use a commercial dog food to provide a scientifically balanced diet; check the can's label to be sure it contains all the necessary vitamins and minerals.

Visit your local animal shelter. National Dog Week is a fine time to adopt a homeless puppy if you don't have one. Owing a pet teaches children valuable lessons in kindness and responsibility. It helps them develop respect for all living creatures.

For more details and material, write National Dog Week, 111 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Top-of-the-Line '73 Monte Carlo

Featuring beautifully sculptured side and rear-quarter metal, new grille, and an optional Landau or opera-type vinyl roof, the Monte Carlo is a styling classic. Many months of advanced chassis and suspension engineering work have given the Monte Carlo handling and roadability said to equal or surpass that of Europe's most expensive personal touring cars. Introduction date for all 1973 Chevrolets will be Thursday, September 21.

Dessert Loving Dieters Have Slim Chance

"You can have your dessert and keep your waistline too." Luscious sweet tooth-satisfying desserts do not have to be loaded with calories. The major ingredient in all of these desserts are slim cookies, vanilla wafers, which contain only 18 calories per wafer.

Whole wafers make great refrigerator cakes. For the Cookie Dome, they are layered with lemon flavored whipped dessert mix prepared with skim rather than whole milk. Or layer and frost the wafers with coffee or almond flavored whipped topping.

Wafers, broken into small pieces, add flavor and crunch to fruit parfaits. To make Mini Trifles, top with grapes and custard made with skim milk. For a 'splurge', top the trifles with whipped topping before sprinkling with crumbs.

Finely crumbled vanilla wafers make a delicious crust for a low calorie pie filling, a tasty garnish for fruit compotes or low calorie sherbets. Try stirring them into this orange cheese sauce for topping fruit.

COOKIE DOME

- 1 (3 1/2-ounce) package lemon flavored whipped dessert mix
- 1/2 cup cold skim milk
- 1/2 cup ice cold water
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 1 cup sliced fresh strawberries and a few whole berries for garnish
- 28 NILLA Vanilla Wafers

Prepare lemon flavored whipped dessert mix as directed on the package, using skim milk and water. Add lemon rind. Chill until mixture will mound. Fold in sliced strawberries. On a flat serving dish, with at least 9-inch diameter, mark an 8-inch circle and spread with a thin layer of dessert mixture to hold wafers in place. Using the circle as a guide, arrange 10 wafers on the outside and 4 wafers in the center. Spread a third of dessert mixture on top, leaving half of each of the outside wafers uncovered. Chill 5 to 10 minutes. Make a second smaller circle, using 7 wafers for the outside and 1 in the center. Chill 5 to 10 minutes. Carefully spread a third of the mixture over top, leaving half of the outside wafers uncovered. Top with remaining wafers and filling. Chill about 3 hours. Garnish base and top with whole strawberries. Makes 8 (approximately 2 1/2-inch) servings.

MINI TRIFLES

- 1 (3-ounce) package egg custard mix
- 1 1/2 cups skim milk
- 24 NILLA Vanilla Wafers
- 1 cup seedless green grapes, halved

Prepare egg custard mix according to package directions using 1 1/2 cups skim milk. Cool completely, stirring frequently. Break 2 1/2 NILLA Vanilla Wafers into each of 8 (2 1/2-inch) wax coated fluted paper cases. Top each with 1 tablespoon grapes. Spoon custard over top. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Roll remaining wafers finely and sprinkle on top. Makes 8 (1/3 cup) servings.

FRUIT TOPPED WITH CRUMB SAUCE

- 4 ounces Neufchatel cheese, room temperature
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1/2 cup fresh orange juice
- 9 NILLA Vanilla Wafers, finely rolled (approximately 1/3 cup crumbs)

Mixed fresh, canned or frozen fruit, thawed

Soften cheese; blend in sugar. Gradually blend in orange juice. Stir in crumbs. Let stand 10 minutes. Serve over chilled, drained fruit. Makes 8 servings (approximately 8 servings, 2 1/2 tablespoons each).

America's Love Affair With The Outdoors

Public awareness of the wonders of nature has caused a huge interest in camping. Whether over-night, over the week-end, or on an entire vacation, people are flocking to the various camp-sites throughout the country. The variety of equipment matches that of the campers themselves. Investments can surpass those for a luxury automobile.

One company has found a way to combine a lightweight, fiberglass trailer designed for both long and short-term camping trips. Only 13 feet long, less than 7 feet wide, and weighing only 850 pounds, the Boler American can easily be towed by a compact car. It is large enough to sleep four.

Clean-up chores present no problem. Utilizing Ensolite insulation which was designed originally for aircraft and space vehicles, the insulation material is a closed cell vinyl foam with a carpet grained finish easily cleaned with a damp cloth. Vinyl flooring is also utilized.

With the current trend towards personalization, the Boler American can be ordered in a choice of colors. The interior appliances and fixtures compliment the exterior color.

As a safety feature, the windows are shatter-proof plexiglass. The frame is constructed with a steel frame, with roof and side-walls made of fiberglass. Investment in this camping system is under $2,000.00.

For further information, including a four-color brochure and dealer listing, send 25¢ to Boler American Corporation, 412 Union National Building, Wichita, Kansas 67202. Information on obtaining dealerships is also available by writing to the same address.

Uncle Zeke Sez

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Say this for Zeke Grubb's preacher, he can speak on any subject at the drop of a hat or the rattle of a collection plate. He stopped by the country store during the session Saturday night, and he talked just long enough for the fellow that runs the store to find a fresh case of his pipe tobacco. But that was more than plenty to keep the fellow going till closing time.

Zeke allus allowed his preacher can wrap up the weather, the United Nations, terrors of booze and the high cost of living in one sermon. Well, Saturday night he threw in his idea of fighting a war. The preacher said he had saw where the Vietnam war has got more American veterans than any other war in this country's history except World War 2, and he was of a mind civilized man can come up with a better plan for controlling one another. What we ought to do, he said, is stage some game like them part, so much the better. Probable, Josh said, the preacher had in mind the story of David and the giant in the countries would agree that the winner's country would have say so in certain affairs.

As soon as the preacher left, Zeke said he must of had his pipe in his mouth, cause he shore was talking thru his hat. All the fellers except Josh Clodhopper was agreed with Zeke. Josh was of the mind that one kind of war makes as much sense as another, and if you can cut down on the folks taking part, so much the better. Probable, Josh said, the preacher had in mind the story of David and the giant in the Bible. The giant was picked to fight for one side, reminded Josh, and David was fighting for the other.

"That might be, declared Ed Doolittle, but the only thing anybody learned from David flinging the rock up side the giant's head was to duck. Folks and countries was fighting afore and they've been fighting ever since, was Ed's words. We have worse fights nowadays over a friendly game of cards than that little run-in of David's, Ed said. Most of the time we don't even git to play the games, cause we fall out over the rules, declared Ed, and he recalled last year where one man killed another over whose younguns was first in line to see Santa Claus.

Actual, Mister Editor, it was Bug Hookum that final made some sense of what the preacher said. He said wars between countries is fought by people, so if we can git the folks playing games instead of fighting, the governments won't have nobody to fight their wars.

Personal, I'm agreed with Ed that the preacher must've been speaking in parables, cause they ain't no chanc of countries getting along till people git along. You even find some that say we need war to keep the economy humming, and that God uses wars, car wrecks and disease to his greater purpose. Mister Editor, I figger the Lord must be awful suprised at some things he gits credit fer.

Sincerely,
Uncle Zeke

This Will Floor You!
What a shame--after using your best decorating judgment--to have to throw away the fabric that's left over after your carpet is laid.
Well, you don't have to. Instead, you can use the remnants to further enhance the rooms in your home.
If there's a fair amount left over, for instance, you can attach it to 5 sides of a wooden cube with small nails or heavy staples. It's the simple way to make a truly unique and interesting coffee table or bench that seems to grow right out of your floor.
Or, you can make a carpet wall hanging by cutting out the carpeting to meet your design ideas, and then attaching it with nails or staples to a thin sheet of plywood or plaster board cut to size. Once mounted, it can be hung on the wall as your own "original" piece of art.
What to do with small remnants? Use them to decorate the backs of picture frames, either in solid or collage form, and hang the pictures

Kent County farmers are encouraged to nominate candidates for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) County Committeeman, reports Joe M. Favor, County ASCS Executive Director. Petitions, to be signed by a minimum of three qualified voters, must be filed by Oct. 27th at the Kent County ASCS Office.

"We are hopeful a slate of at least six candidates will be nominated by farmers petitions, including representatives of the minority group(s) in Kent County," said Favor. ASCS programs are non-discriminatory and administered without regard to race, color, creed, sex or national origin.

Eligible farmers may sign as many nominating petitions as they wish. No special petition form is required, but the petition must include a statement that the nominee is willing to serve if elected. Most persons eligible to participate in ASCS programs are eligible to serve as ASC committeemen. This includes producers, sharecroppers, tenants,
