Rolling Plains Track Meet In Jayton March 16th

The Annual Rolling Plains Relays are scheduled to be run on the Jayton track Saturday, March 16th.

Coach Bruce Land said Tuesday, already about 35 good Class A and B teams are entered and he hopes to get more.

Rule and Roscoe won the meet last year, and they are both expected to be back strong this year.

This is getting to be one of the best events in the area, and there are now hanging up some very good records for the individual boys to shoot at.

More details on the meet will be in the paper next week.

Fuel Shortage Cleared For Agri. Products

The county ASCS has been informed by the Regional Director of the Federal Energy Office that farmers and ranchers and ranchers are to receive 100% of their fuel needs as they pertain to agriculture.

It was further stated that it will be the responsibility of the fuel distributor to furnish this fuel. However, the farmer or rancher should inform his dealer of the amount of each type fuel needed for the year on a monthly basis.

If the distributor does not have a sufficient allocation to handle the needs of the agriculture producer, then he may file a Form 17 requesting that his allocation be increased.

Each agriculture producer needs to have a conservation fuel plan and certify that he will use the fuel for agriculture purposes only.

In extreme emergencies where the distributor is unable to furnish an agriculture producer his needed fuel, then the producer may file a Form 20 with the State Fuel Allocation Office in Austin and receive an emergency allocation.

It was urged that each producer try to work out his fuel problem with his dealer. The ASCS Office will be glad to help any agriculture producer if he finds that his dealer cannot furnish needed supplies.

Senate Candidate Visits Stock Show

Ray Farabee, Democratic Candidate for State Senator visited in Kent County on Saturday, February 23rd. Farabee attended the Kent County Junior Livestock Show in Clairmont. He expressed astonishment that Kent County had such an outstanding facility in which to hold their annual livestock.

It is obvious from observing the fine job being done with this livestock show that the people of Kent County invest a lot of their time and money in activities for their children. What amazes me is that so many people who do not have children directly involved are willing to give so much of their time to this project." Farabee stated he felt it was essential to preserve a strong rural America and if elected he would make every effort to accomplish this goal.

Farabee is running for the State Senate seat vacated by Democrat Jack Hightower when Hightower decided to run against Republican Bob Price for the U. S. Congress. Farabee stated that Jack Hightower had done an outstanding job representing this Senatorial District, and if elected, he would attempt to continue in the same fine tradition.

Farabee stressed he was a lifelong Democrat, but he had never before run for public office. Farabee said he felt it was very important at this point in time that each individual become active in forming governmental policies, and because of this feeling he decided to run for public office.

Farabee will return to Kent County, and expressed the hope he would be able to meet all those who he failed to meet on this trip. Beryle Murdoch, Jr. is coordinator for Farabee in Kent County.

The Easter Seal Campaign will continue through Easter Sunday, April 14.

New Federal Grant For Neighborhood Center

Continuing operation of five neighborhood centers is being funded through an Office of Economic Opportunity grant that Governor Dolph Briscoe announced Friday.

The $11,247 grant to Community Action Council of Floyd, Crosby Dickens and Kent Counties is for General Community Programming effective retroactively from Feb. 1 through April 30, 1974. It is funded under Title II of the Economic Opportunity Act.

James T. Karr, executive director of the community action council, says that the five centers are located in Crosbyton, Lockney, Floydada, Ralls and Spur.

The centers are offering classes in typing, bookkeeping and driver's education; sponsoring immunization clinics; providing transportation to the doctor for some of the target-area residents; and offering outreach and referral services.

The Spur center is co-operating with the Texas State Technical Institute in providing a welding class; and both the Spur and Ralls centers are offering classes in arts and crafts.

Grant processing for the state was performed by the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity, a division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Heatly To Stay In Austin For Convention

AUSTIN--"My primary obligation and responsibility to the 101st Legislative District is to stay in Austin as a Delegate to the Constitutional Convention to represent the people who elected me as their State Representative and that I am doing," said Representative W. S. "Bill" Heatly here today. "When the Constitutional Convention is recessed or adjourned, I will then be able to return to the 15 County district and campaign for re-election and that I will do," continued Mr. Heatly. He is a candidate for re-election in the May 4 Democratic Primary. As a State Representative, Mr. Heatly is a Delegate to the Constitutional Convention which convened in Austin on January 8, 1974.

"This Convention is attempting to re-write the State Constitution, which has served the State well since 1876 with amendments approved by the people, and I am deeply concerned that this Convention is apparently oriented to weakening the basic Constitutional guarantees of the people and supplant them with tenuous statutory authority, subject to change every two years by elected officials rather than the people," said Mr. Heatly. He added "the basic concept of separation of legislative, executive and judicial authority is being diluted under the guise of need for 'flexibility' whatever that is."

Mr. Heatly declared, "It is my foremost responsibility to do all that I can to see that this new document, which will be presented to the people for final approval, creates or continues a government that protects the people it proposes to govern. It must contain safeguards essential to the preservation of local government and courts-rural as well as urban-and afford stability and solvency in our state's economy which will be as important in the years ahead as it has been during the growth years of the past." His daily work schedule as a Delegate requires attendance and participation in committee or debate in Convention when various articles are brought to the floor. What time is left is spent learning what other committees are proposing beside the Judicial Committee, of which he is a member.

TO ILLINOIS
Mrs. Dorothy Judy accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson to Champaign, Ill. recently. There she joined Mr. and Mrs. Dale Judy on an eight day tour of Hawaii.

FOOD SHOW IS PLANNED HERE

This show will be open to the public at 3:30 p. m.

Everyone is invited and will be welcome to attend a spokesman said.

George Wallace, Governor of Alabama, announcing plans to run for another term: "I've got a new wheelchair to start campaigning with, and it rolls pretty fast."

John J. Sirica, U.S. District Judge:

"Continued public comment on the grand jury's work by those who have association with the investigation is inappropriate."

New Arrivals

Buy At Home

Every resident of this community has a stake in its future, an obligation to join with others in making it a better place in which to live.

In this connection, dollars spent at home have a tendency to recirculate in the community, to be spent and enjoyed by other local citizens. Dollars sent out of the community seldom return.

Likewise, contributions to good causes, deserving unfortunates, charities, youth and educational programs, are best made here at home, where results can be seen and appreciated, and which benefit the community.

Civic pride and cooperation among citizens of this community can and will make this a better place to live in.

Richard F. Vanderveen, Democrat elected to fill Fogg's congressional seat:

"I promise to do all I can to remove Nixon, with resignation as a first preference."

George Meany, President of AFL-CIO:

"If Ford were President a lot of troubles could be approached in a more constructive way."

Richard Nixon, President: "We have a lot of work left to do, more than three years left to do, and I'm going to stay here until I get it done."

THIS WEEK IN JAYTON

It seems the more modern the postal service gets, the worse the service gets. Back in the middle 40's they started taking the mail away from the railroads, and immediately the service began to deteriorate. The old mail trucks on the passenger lines could really work mail. Back in those days they had overnight mail from this area to Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, El Paso, and some times to Houston, and El Paso, and even Oklahoma City. You are not even getting overnight service to Lubbock Children's. The two cent stamp in 1931 purchased at better mail service than the 10c stamp you buy tomorrow will purchase.

Keep hearing and reading about the prices of gasoline being set, and that it is being made by certain groups to get a better price schedule. This is great, but one I don't understand, that is how is the general public going to know what the establishment price is, and whether the retail station is bidding that price? Discussing the set price that can be charged, they always seem to question whether or not it is old oil, or new oil, imported oil? Gasoline seems each has its price. Maybe the local station could post on their pumps what kind of oil they are selling, and whether it is old or new? But they don't know.

People are asked by government officials to pay any overcharge in line prices. But who is what an overcharge for one, sure don't.

This business of kidnapping, and skyjacking of planes for ransom is getting to be real serious—in fact a national crisis. Every person that takes the hand out of food in the California case becomes an accessory after the crime, in the Hearst kidnapping. There is one thing about kidnapping, and why they are pulled off so easily, and that is the

Big Oil

The moguls who make strategy decisions for big oil might be underestimating the little man in America. If it's true, as reported, that the major companies have cut back on imports because they are dissatisfied with federal oil policy, if the excessive profit reports of many firms in late 1973 are accurate and if the oil companies are, in general, maneuvering primarily in this time of crisis for millions to jack up prices rather than bring in, and refine, all the oil they can, they're inviting Congress to set up a permanent and stringent regulation of their industry.

That would in this case be in the national interest and would have been brought on by the short-sighted behavior of the industry itself. What industry leaders seem to be underestimating is the degree of disapproval of industry methods by the general public—and this, in the end, will translate itself into congressional action.

Ford's Seat

Vice President Gerald Ford's former congressional seat was won recently by a Democrat in a close contest in Michigan. Democrats immediately hailed the triumph as a signal November's national elections would produce a Democratic sweep.

That may be. But the Republican in the Michigan race predicted defeat, and in the final tally lost by the slimmest of margins, so nothing is certain, never is in politics. That being said, however, the result is unmistakably a sober warning to Republicans.

Michigan's G.O.P. party chief blamed Watergate for the defeat and national party chairman George Bush admitted concern. Traditionally, a Republican is favored in Michigan's 5th District, and no Democrat had held this seat since 1910. That is why the narrow Democratic victory is significant.

In the past, Republican victors had often polled about sixty per cent of the total vote and Democrats less than forty per cent. In the recent election the Democratic victor received 51 per cent, apparently a voter switch of better than ten per cent. In politics ten per cent is a very substantial, usually decisive, shift—and thus the significance of the vote in Michigan's 5th District.

Skirts & Kites

March is traditionally the windy month, with flying skirts and kites, which old and young notice in their respective leagues.

Kite flying has been a popular sport in many countries longer than flying skirts. Youngsters should be cautioned to avoid electric power lines, especially against using wire or cord with tinsel wound into it; each year accidents occur because of carelessness on this score.

Oldsters ought, by now, to know the dangers of flying skirts.

Getting someone else to do your work is the recipe for success. The happiest people go to church; there must be something to it.

Growing up

Look at your lanky, teen-age son! It's hard to believe that he once wore these shoes. It seems only yesterday that he was a baby, yet he himself is the best testimonial that the years have passed. Now he stands almost as tall as you. He is a fascinating maze of contradictions—an eager, lovable youngster one minute, a scowling, angry adolescent the next.
It takes patience to understand a teen-ager—patience, and a lot of love. Though he strives to be adult, he is still a boy. Though he clings to childhood, he is almost "grown-up." You may not always be aware of it, but he still looks to you for many things. And he sees in you an example that he will, almost unconsciously, follow in many ways.
Are you setting a good example? How about church, for instance? If you haven't been going lately, start again next Sunday for your son's sake, as well as your own. And don't forget to take him with you!

As It Looks From Here

By Rep. Omar Burleson
Member of Congress, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In a recent news conference in Mexico City Cuba's ambassador said that Castro was "ready to discuss" renewed relations with the United States if Washington is ready to end its nine year embargo against them. The Cuban Ambassador is reported to have said that Castro is willing to "permit" the U. S. to resume diplomatic relations, provided we show sufficient servility in the process. (Now this is real nice of the Russian supported Castro Government).

There are rumblings, despite the Administration's disclaimers, to indicate a softening of our Government's attitude toward Cuba. This attitude is also reflected by some Members of Congress, particularly in the U. S. Senate. It is disturbing that there should even be considerations for the reversal of our nine year policy, and particularly at the time of negotiations to yield sovereignty over the Panama Canal to another regime hostile to the United States. These two Governments could combine their efforts to damage the safety of this Nation by controlling the Canal or even its destruction.

Nine years ago the whole of North and South America were swarming with Castro sympathizers bent upon spreading revolution and celebrating the demise of the Monroe Doctrine. At that time they were excited with the real expectation that other countries of Central and South America would topple to the left and leave the United States and eventually Canada in an isolated position. Of course it did not happen and Cuba shortly became bankrupt and a puppet of the Soviet Union at a cost of a million dollars a day dole to the Russians. Che Guevara was spreading "the word" in Bolivia where he finally met his end but the only Country to succumb to the Communists' side was Chile.

The organization of American states, lead by the United States, disturbed by Castro attempts to foment revolution in Venezuela, the prime target in South America, put Cuba on its list of "no-go".

Since our policy is now one of "detente" with the Soviets and our renewed acquaintance with Communist China, some of our friends to the South see an inconsistency in the treatment of Cuba by continuing her isolation. There are overtures to ease the nine year Cuban treatment.

There is no indication that Castro is prepared to turn from his $1 million a day hand-out from Russia and to cease his revolutionary efforts to destroy governments in the Western Hemisphere. Until real change occurs it is difficult to see what possible advantage could accrue to the United States by recognizing Cuba as a member of the family of Nations of the West. Not only has she not shown any abandonment of fomenting revolution wherever there might be a chance but harbors Russian military forces which pose a threat to our security.

Let the Soviets pay a million a day to prop up Cuba's economy and, at the same time, let her be an example to her neighbors, who have the good fortune of not living under the Hemisphere's only Communist Government.

6 WAYS TO CONSERVE AND SAVE

ON HOME LAUNDRY

1. Wash and dry a full load, but never overload... it is essential for each item to move freely for proper cleaning and drying.

2. Choose the correct cycle for washing modern materials. Perhaps hot water isn't needed, and only a gentle drying temperature.

3. Too much detergent can clog machine and drains... always measure, don't guess. Follow the manufacturers recommendations for your equipment. Mixing brands of detergents can cause graying of clothes.

4. Many manufacturers of permanent press garments recommend machine washing and machine drying for best results. Following instructions on the garment tag can preserve the life of your clothing and give you wrinkle-free clothes without need for ironing. A big savings!

5. An important maintenance function for you to do is to clean the lint trap and lint filter on both washer and dryer after each load of a full day's use of your home laundry.

6. Never-never pour bleach directly into the washer with clothes in it. Always dilute bleach before adding it to wash water. Also, timing is important. Bleach should be added after the clothes have washed at least 5 minutes.

RECORD YEAR ON PRICE--The 1973 crop of Texas onions sold for $51,480,000, a jump from $14,379,000 the previous year. It was a record year for onions, brought about by crop failures in Europe and a lack of storage onions in the United States. Prices shot from $4.85 per hundred-weight to $16.90. According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White a moderately high market is expected this year, depending on the availability of storage stocks.

placed on human life in America. In some countries we live, where any human life is counted to be valuable, this would work at all.

Imagine the inner turmoil of the officers working on these cases, whose hands are tied, who can do nothing about the matter, simply because of the human life involved.

So long as the saving of a precious life is involved, there is really nothing that can be done to slow this matter down. Aren't you glad we live in a country where a human life is valued at a lot more, than say a million dollars? This is what makes it great to be an American.

This, in spite of the human scum, like the people in California who are taking the food hand at the jeopardy of life of a young innocent.

Here we see the best of the worst of human nature. The father and mother who are willing to sacrifice millions in an effort to save the life of their daughter.

And the human scum fighting for the food is being doled out at point. How depraved people get, anyway?

The will to live is the important factor in determining the lifespan of man.

Information About Your Social Security

"Every day people come in to our office, or telephone us, because they haven't received their social security check," said Glyn Hammons, district manager of the Abilene Social Security Office. "Upon questioning, we are likely to find that the person has moved recently and failed to notify us of their new address. "It is impossible to over emphasize the importance of promptly notifying the Social Security Administration, as well as the Post Office, of any change of address," Hammons said.

He said a check which is not received on time can create an unnecessary hardship and one that can be avoided if prompt notification of the new address is made.

Notice can be given by mail, telephone, or in person at any social security office. The caller should be able to furnish his social security claim number (the social security number of the person on whose account he gets benefits) as well as his new address--which includes the zip code.

The mailing address for the Abilene office is P. O. Box 3258, Abilene zip 79604. The office is located at Room 2321 in the Federal Building, North 3rd and Pine. Telephone number is 915-677-5262.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--Every consumer has seen or heard advertisements that say something like "regularly $10, now only $8.99," or "Two for the price of one."

These are types of price comparison, a widely used and effective method of advertising.

In price comparison advertising, the merchant compares his current prices for goods or services with past or future prices or the prices offered by others in order to show cost savings to consumers.

Accurately used price comparisons can assist consumers in making purchasing decisions, since they show exactly how much can be saved on a particular item during a special period.

Most merchant use price comparison to advertise legitimate cost reductions. A few, though, may base their price comparison advertising on inflated or arbitrary prices, which is misleading to the consumer.

For example, an ad may say "Lawn mowers reduced from $129.95 to $99.95--you save $30 during our special pre-season sale!" If the lawn mowers are normally priced at $129.95 this is an accurate and helpful use of price comparison to advertise a sale. However, if the lawn mowers always sell at $99.95, this is misleading and illegal, according to lawyers in my Consumer Protection Division.

It is also misleading and illegal if the retailer boosted his price to $129.95 for just a few days prior to the sale, because the former price at which an item is advertised must have been in effect for a reasonable time on a regular basis before the sale. It may be deceptive if the merchandise advertised at the "lower" current price differs from the merchandise previously sold at the indicated price.

The call of duty, it seems, coincides with the highest salary available. ****
Most Americans will join anything that promises to pay dividends in cash.

Good Definition
If someone would ask you why a ship is always referred to as "she or her" you might give this explanation. "It costs a lot to keep her in paint and powder, she'll drift off if you don't keep her tied down, she makes her best showing in a high wind and it takes a man to handle her."

PRAISE THE PETUNIA

Petunias make excellent hanging baskets, as the picture above testifies. Best for this purpose are the hybrid grandiflora single varieties, especially pink, red and white.

Did you know that there was no such flower as a red petunia until 1950 when an American breeder developed one, and that double petunias did not exist until a Japanese breeder found the secret of creating double petunias? These breakthroughs in petunia breeding set off a furious activity among breeders to create new colors and forms so that today the list of new petunia varieties by far exceeds any other class of annual flowers.

Basically, petunias are classified under four main groups—single grandifloras (largest flowered), single multifloras (smaller flowered, but more of them), double grandifloras, and double multifloras.

Single grandifloras are the most popular and White Cascade petunia is perhaps the most spectacular example of this class. It creates a magnificent bedding effect and it is exceptional as a container planting as in hanging baskets. Individual flowers measure up to 4 1/2 inches across. Apple-blossom, an All-America Winner, is another superb grandiflora.

Multifloras are small-flowered and not frilled, but their abundance of bloom gives a greater density of color than other petunias. Outstanding varieties recognized by All-America Selections, the national seed trials, are Comanche and Coral Satin. Many good mixtures are also available.

Double grandifloras include a spectacular bi-color red-and-white called Circus, which won an All-America Award, and among the multifloras Sugar Plum is especially good.

Petunia seed is tiny and must be handled with care, sowing seeds thinly in a seed starter six weeks before outdoor planting. The double-flowered need extra care, and a good way to get them started is to sprinkle the seed sparingly on a wad of paper tissue. Make the tissue into a loose roll, and keep moist until the tiny seedlings germinate. Then you can carefully transfer them to individual peat pots until ready for transplanting outdoors. Alternatively, peat pellets are an excellent way to get petunias started.

For instant color petunias are also available as bedding plants.

Following the wedding reception was held in the parlor of the church for friends and the families. The couple will be at home at Apt. 23, 2013th St., Canyon.
