George Taylor To Face Carlos Dickerson in June Runoff

Carlos Dickerson, veteran commissioner in Kent County's District No. 2, will be faced by George (Heck) Taylor in a runoff held the first Saturday in June.

In a light vote, Dickerson led the ticket with a total of 62 votes. Behind him was C. C. Scott, and Jimmie Bural, both of whom failed to get in the runoff.

Taylor and Dickerson were in a runoff eight years ago, which Dickerson won. Then four years ago, Dickerson won over Scott in a runoff.

This will be an interesting race to watch.

The Jaybird Band Was A Successful Year

The Jayton High School band last week completed a flawless year by obtaining the highest honor possible for a high school band—the coveted Sweepstakes Award.

It is symbolic of a top rating in concert, sightreading and marching.

On a rating basis of I to V, the Jaybird Band obtained a I rating in both concert and sightreading contests—which, added to the I received in marching contest last November—makes it a perfect band.

Directed by Rick Smith, Jayton's band is one of only four or five schools in Class B state UIL competition to be named Sweepstakes Band.

Earlier in the school year, the Jaybird band received first trophies in parades at Abilene, Lubbock and San Angelo. The numbers the band performed at contest were "Chester March," "Two Moods," and "Overture in B-flat," which they will play, along with others, for the hometown folks Saturday.

The Five Elections

There have been five special congressional elections since the thunderstroke of Watergate. Democrats have won four, Republicans one.

Polls show Watergate has had an effect on the outcome. All five of the seats involved had been held by Republicans, who won with sizeable majorities in 1972.

The four-of-five sweep by Democrats, some of it in traditional G.O.P. territory, has led political experts to predict a disaster for Republicans in November's congressional elections; Vice President Ford fears a one-party dictatorship.

A close analysis of the five races, however, in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and California, shows they were very close. The Democratic candidate squeaked by with 50% of the vote (to 49.8) in Pennsylvania's 12th district.

In Michigan's 5th, the margin was greatest—50.9 to 44.3. In Ohio's 1st the Democratic win was 51.9 to 48 per cent. The Republican won in California's 13th, 53.2 to 46.8 for all Democratic candidates. And the recent Democratic victory in Michigan's 8th was 51.4 to 48.6 per cent.

Considering that the party in power traditionally suffers in off-year elections, that these races were quite close, and that 1972 was a G.O.P. landslide year (when the G.O.P. won all five seats), one cannot yet say they are trustworthy as a forecast of the election result in November.

Do It Yourself TV Series To Take Up Painting

Kent County television viewers can learn how to paint the outside of their home during Friday's "You Can Do It!" program on KTXS-TV, 12. It will be shown at 11:30 a.m.

This week's program will teach selection of paint and materials, as well as surface preparation and paint application. For example, viewers will learn that a good paint brush is essential to a satisfactory paint job.

In choosing a paint brush, the do-it-yourselfer will need one with full-bodied bristles—it should feel full-bodied. Also, it should have bristles or filaments of different length, which will create a tapered shape. And nylon brush filaments should be tipped or flagged (split) at the tip.

"You Can Do It!" a 13-part educational series which will run through June 28, is sponsored locally by the Kent County Family Living Committee and KTXS-TV. It is currently seen in Kent and surrounding counties.

Created and produced by home economics specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, the weekly series was funded through a special grant from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Program in upcoming weeks will include lessons on wall repairs, interior painting, care and maintenance of wood finishes, carpets, ranges and refrigerators, along with a program on how to make storage space.

Persons wanting more information on painting or any other home care and maintenance subject in the series may call or write the local county extension agent at 237-3345 or Box 4, Jayton, Texas, 79528 for bulletins at no charge.

THIS WEEK IN JAYTON

By the time you read this the Democratic first primary will be a matter of history.

This election, more than any, since the advent of television, the politicians have been using the newspapers to get their messages over to the voters.

In the first place, the newspaper is just the best medium. The readers of a newspaper are not captive. They can read what they want, any time they want. This gives them freedom that they enjoy.

To the contrary, the message on television comes on, and you must be right there at the time it hits, or it is missed.

Another thing, politicians like prime time when they get on television. Also the housewives, and other have their favorite times, and an office seeker may lose votes rather than make them, if he pre-empt the time of a favorite program.

This year, they have been making 15 second short appearances on the tube, and they get in and out between programs.

But, by the time they pay for these shorts, they still have spent a lot of money, because the TV ads, if not being else, certainly are not cheap.

Year by year, they are gradually learning, you can't beat the good old hometown newspaper—people read every word in them, at a time of their own choosing—and a lot of people have learned this fact.

President Nixon has pulled a major political move.

He chose not to deliver to the Congressional committee the tapes that had been subpoenaed. Rather he had his staff to transcribe the tapes, and leave out items that he considered to be of a secret nature, and not to be revealed. Also, he had taken out of the tapes, what has been described as a lot of very salty language—swearing, obscene, and ridiculously vulgar. This by their own admission.

And, rather than giving this material to the committee to study, he made them public.

This means he is appealing his case to the public. It means to me that he thinks the Congressional committee may vote to impeach him, and he wants his case, rather to be judged by the public.

The thing that appals me is the fact, that the leaders of our nation,--the president and his top advisors, when they get together, as a matter of every day conversation, use such evil, obscene, and vulgar language. Why is this a way of life with such men?

I am in company with groups of men from time to time, with no women present, and everything completely informal, and seldom do you hear any conversation that would be classed like this.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Command" Performance

Three days before concert time, a rock singer informed the promoter that he had changed his mind about doing the show. The promoter hastened into a local courtroom for help.

"I want a court order commanding him to perform," he said. "That is what he agreed to do when he signed his contract."

But the court denied the promoter's request. The court said it had no authority to force an unwilling man to sing.

This is the law's usual attitude with regard to contracts that call for personal service of one kind or another. Although the courts may award dollar damages for breach of contract, they generally won't force a singer to sing, a painter to paint, or a baseball player to play baseball.

Why? Because, say the courts, it would be too hard to tell whether the performer—acting under compulsion—was really doing a good job or was only going through the motions.

Furthermore, a forced performance is considered too close to involuntary servitude. Courts are reluctant, said one judge, to "turn contracts of service into contracts of slavery." (In that case, he refused to force a dancer to dance.)

Sometimes, however, a court will put indirect pressure on the performer by at least forbidding him to "do his thing" for anybody else. Thus, a basketball star who broke his contract was ordered by a court not to play for another team.

But even this lesser form of pressure is used only if the performer's services are unique—that is, if his employer cannot find a reasonably satisfactory substitute. For example:

A piano company went to court to prevent a disgruntled salesman from going to work for another firm. But the court decided that the circumstances did not justify such a drastic order. The court said the company was not facing any "irreparable harm," since it could hire another salesman to do pretty much the same job.

SANDY LAND RANGE SITE—This tract of land west of Jayton is in good condition following three months' deferment. Plants are in good vigor and have attained maximum growth.

Range Plants Need A Vacation Too

Native range plants, like people, need a summer vacation. People take a vacation to rest up. They have been working continuously for a number of months, using up their energy. They need time to just rest and think about something besides their work. Not always do people get to take this needed rest. They keep going about their regular business but not functioning as well as they could if they had freshened up with a vacation.

Most range plants work during the summer. It is at this time that they manufacture food, make leaf and stem growth, replenish old roots with new ones, produce a seed crop or two and establish new seedlings. If a plant works like this year in and year out without a vacation, the plant becomes weak or just gets tired. It is difficult for the plant to carry on any of the aforementioned life processes if a grazing animal is standing beside it, eating the leaves as fast as the plant produces them. The leaves are the only source of food for the plant to use to carry on the life processes as all food is manufactured in the leaves.

The plant probably will go on doing as good a job as possible under the circumstances but will produce far less than it is capable of doing under more favorable conditions. But it may die out from overwork after a number of years and allow less desirable plants to take its place.

Plants, like people, can use that vacation we were talking about. But there is one difference. A man can rest up in one or two weeks but a plant needs three or four months during the growing season. It takes a plant that long to complete a life cycle and store up food for fast and hard work.

By taking this three or four months vacation, a plant can build up its vigor, produce a seed crop, store food and make its greatest amount of forage production possible, according to the rainfall for that period. Then you can harvest this growth and your plants will be in better shape to work for you.

See your local SCS office for further information on how plants grow and produce.

Why should business meetings, sales meetings and business calls sometimes be planned in consideration of prevailing weather conditions?

We have suggested in an earlier piece that salesmen can profitably take advantage of high pressure periods for making calls and do their "homework" during low pressure periods.

This is true because low pressure automatically affects the nerves by causing dehydration of the tissues. Some people begin to ache and others feel a mental depression. This is not imaginary; it is quite real.

BANDITS LEAVE TRAIL

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—A fresh fallen snow helped trail two alleged bank robbers, which led to their arrest in 30 minutes. Officers had no trouble following the two in the fresh snow.

CATS & HOSPITALS

SALIDA, COLO.—Most everyone thought Jesses Newcomb was only interested in cats and his plumbing business. When he died at the age of 77, he left his entire estate of $84,864 to the Shriner's Hospitals for children.

LINER FRANCE BOWS

PARIS—Transport Minister Aymar Achille-Pould has announced the France, biggest in a vanishing fleet of world passenger liners, is to be taken out of service due to ever-rising deficits.

Stockmen Need To Watch For Screwworms

Livestock producers should be aware that 1974 has the earmarks of an extremely bad screw worm season, and should make every effort to reduce the number of outbreaks from the county Extension Agent Mark Geeslin.

Program officials are asking producers to refrain from livestock surgery or other man-made wounds to prevent screw worm infestations.

The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has pointed out that at least 30 percent of this season's cases have resulted from dehorning, branding, docking and similar practices.

The County agent urges all livestock producers to support the screw worm eradication effort by carrying out three key practices:

1. Inspection of their cattle frequently.
2. Treating all wounds found with an approved product, and
3. Collecting and sending worm samples from wounds to the USDA screw worm laboratory at Mission for identification.

The post office box of the Mission Laboratory is 969.

As cases are confirmed, sterile screw worm fly treatment is initiated by the USDA. "It is virtually important for the program officials to know where cases are happening, in order to begin the sterile fly treatment before cases are too numerous," the county agent is pointing out.

Tornadoes

Much has been written about the devastation caused by recent tornadoes in the Midwest and South, but relatively little about minimizing danger in case one of these intense, cyclonic funnels approaches one's home.

There are some things one can do in minutes. All windows should be opened. This sometimes prevents houses from exploding—which is what often happens in a tornado, since the swirling suction-like pressure sucks up all air, greatly reducing barometric pressure inside the small funnel, often only a few hundred feet across.

When this funnel descends on a home or moves over it, the pressure indoors, if windows and doors are closed, becomes so much greater than outside, walls are literally blown outward. Of course, the tornado's swirling winds are often moving at one or two hundred miles an hour. A strongly built house will usually stand against hundred-mile gusts, even stronger winds.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

EMBLEMS OF IRELAND ATTRIBUTED TO ST. PATRICK'S FIRST SERMON

Today all loyal Irishmen (and which one is not?) wear the shamrock or something green in honor of St. Patrick and their native land. This national custom is attributed to St. Patrick's use of a three-leaved blade of grass to illustrate a Scriptural point during his first sermon in Ireland. This is the story of Ireland's emblems.

At the beginning of the fifth century the Irish were pagans who practiced their traditional religion of Druidism. Celestine, then Pope of the Roman Church, decided that the time had come to convert the Irish to Christianity. To this end, he dispatched a priest named Maewyn to Ireland in the year 432. In conformity with the importance and dignity of his mission, Maewyn was granted the ecclesiastical name of Patricius. It was he whom the Church later named St. Patrick.

When the Irish learned that an attempt was to be made to convert them from the ways of their ancestors, their minds were aroused. They prepared to greet St. Patrick with hostility, and to stone him if he attempted to come among them. When St. Patrick landed on the shores of Ireland, he received the unfriendly demonstrations of the people with courage and forbearance, and in the face of hostility proceeded at once about his task of preaching the doctrine of Christianity.

The calmness and assurance of St. Patrick's bearing quieted the people, and gradually they gave their attention. At one point in this first Christian sermon in Ireland, St. Patrick wished to illustrate graphically the doctrine of the Trinity. What more suitable than a trefoil grass, which was right at hand in the fields where he was preaching? With this as a symbol, his explanation of the Trinity won converts on that first day, and the great saint of Ireland soon became respected and revered for his kindness, his good nature, and his piety.

It is thus the Irish show their affection for St. Patrick by wearing the three-leaved shamrock and the color green.

Cancer Hope

Cancer will claim the lives of thousands of Americans this year. Despite progress made, the American Cancer Society and cancer specialists stress the necessity of educating the public to the fact that early cancer is curable.

What scientists would like to discover is a single key test which would simply and surely detect the disease, such as the blood test used to detect syphilis. But no such test is yet available. And some forms of the disease are almost incurable.

Because the cause is not yet thoroughly understood, cancer checkups are the only sensible precautions one can take. These checkups usually result in early discovery of the disease—when it can be cured.

STUDENTS & RUSSIA

MOSCOW — The State University of New York has signed an agreement with the Soviet Union to exchange 20 undergraduate students next summer.
