Little League Baseball

The Jayton Red Sox Little League team lost its second game in a row Monday, June 3, by bowing to the Spur Giants 8-14.

A home run by Joe McMeans in the bottom of the third inning appeared to give the local boys a lead of 8-3, but the Giants came back with 6 runs in the 4th and 6 more in the fifth from a series of walks and errors.

McMeans was the batting champ knocking in seven runs from three hits with three times at bat. Wes Fincher made an excellent play in defense, in the second inning, pulling off a n unassisted double play.

The Red Sox had 6 hits, 4 runs and 9 errors. The Giants had 15 runs, 11 hits and 5 errors.

Sox scores came 1 in the first; two in the second; five in the third, five in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Giants scored three in the first; six in the fourth and six in the fifth.

Minette Geeslin and Paula Mayer competed in the Field Crops contest at Roundup and placed fifth out of nine. They gave an illustrated talk on the boll weevil program in Kent County.

Minette and Paula also won first in the district III Field Crops contest held at Wichita Falls this spring.

The Kent County Rifle team placed ninth out of 26 teams at Roundup. The members of the rifle team are: Richard Stewart, Bruce Stewart, Jaan Kimmel, and Don Wayne Jones.

Mrs. Betty Cravey is their coach. The team won first place at the district contests held at Wichita Falls.

Outstanding Students Attend Symposium

Twenty outstanding students and teachers from the area served by West Texas Utilities Company attended the 13th annual Nuclear Science Symposium at the University of Texas in Austin.

The conference got underway Monday, June 3, and ended Thursday.

The symposium was jointly sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, and the University of Texas. West Texas Utilities is one of the sponsoring companies.

The 500 selected high school science students and teachers who attended the session were off to hearing lectures by some of the nation's outstanding nuclear scientists.

The foundation was formed for the primary purpose of conducting the world's first and largest privately financed research effort in the field of nuclear energy.

Currently, the Foundation and the University is sponsoring a program in nuclear fusion research aimed at controlling the nuclear reactions for the production of electric power. Fusion is the energy process of the sun and the moon.

The goal of the Foundation and WTU is not research alone, but to also assist in the advancement of the knowledge of nuclear science in Texas schools.

Of special interest to the students and teachers is a realization of the privileges, responsibilities and opportunities which scientific discoveries in the field of nuclear energy presents.

WTU paid all expenses for the 20 students and teachers attending from schools in the area served by the company.

Lectures at the Symposium were chosen from top men in their field. There are over 1000 accredited senior high schools in the State of Texas.

Jayton can be justly proud of its high school for having been chosen as one of the 150 high schools in the state invited to send students and teachers to the symposium.

The Fulbright Lesson

One of the truisms of American politics is that members of Congress must retain the support of constituents and not stray too far from the mood and manner of the folks back home.

The recent defeat of an admittedly able Senator, J. William Fulbright, in Arkansas, demonstrates anew that principle. Fulbright, a former college president turned legislator, was not only an able legislator but headed the most prestigious committee in the upper body. Yet he was soundly beaten by a popular Governor closer to the people.

That was because many of the voters of Arkansas felt Fulbright was in the world of foreign affairs, an intellectual world, and not as close to their interests, or working as actively in that area, as his opponent. Actually, Fulbright's seniority and prestige offered the state's voters many advantages.

Politics still come down to the classic example; a former President halted his train in a small town and was expounding on the state of the world and his foreign policies. Finally, a farmer in the audience shouted: "But what's that got to do with the price of oats?" It may have had something to do with the price of oats, but when the voters can't see it, incumbents are in trouble.

Acupuncture

Dr. Samuel Rosen, one of four American physicians who visited mainland China as a guest of that government in 1971, has sounded a warning about the growing fascination with acupuncture.

Dr. Rosen, of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York, doesn't depreciate acupuncture; in fact, he finds it a promising approach to many medical problems. But he feels that too many false claims, and too much exploitation of a gullible American public, is now underway by quacks practicing what he calls, "quackupuncture."

For example, he says acupuncture is no proper method to treat deafness in children—though some are being lured by those claiming to improve children's hearing with six or eight treatments.

Acupuncture, Rosen reports, is a field deserving study, and impressive in what it has done. But in becoming an American fad in the last few years, it has also opened up a fertile field for quackery among irresponsible practitioners out to make quick money easily. Thus Rosen's is a timely warning potential victims should heed.

The Longest Days

June gives us the longest days, more total daylight, than any other month of the year. On the 21st summer arrives, to extend into late September.

The freshness of June is special. The new leaves and growth all around are fresher and brighter than at any other time of year. (By August and September the new rich green has begun to yellow or brown.) Because these are the first long, hot, blue-sky days the contrast is greater than later in the summer.

Because it is the first summer month free of school for millions of youngsters June has a special exhilaration. Because so many are married in this month, it has special hope and idealism.

Also, June offers the first of the new crop of many vegetables and fruits. And so it may not be mere fancy when writers claim nothing is so rare or splendid as a night in June.

Kennedy Ahead

The latest polls show Senator Ted Kennedy (D-Mass) still the first choice among Democrats for the party's top nomination two years hence. The danger in running a scandalized Democratic candidate, thereby losing a possible "Mr. Clean" image in the campaign against the Republican candidate in 1976, apparently doesn't deter most Democrats in favoring Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy's assets include his name and the martyrdom associated with it, plus the many friends and supporters of his brothers, who tend to be repeat supporters. They also include the feeling among many Democrats that because his name and family image are so well known he is certain to attract a large vote.

This urge to win, sometimes overlooked by more idealistic souls, is perhaps the most powerful political motivation affecting party pros, for the party faithful lose their influence and patronage without a winner. Having a winner, or a potential winner, means more to many than the qualities and views of the candidate. That may be the most valuable force working for Kennedy today; it is one any challenger will have to answer, and conquer, if he is to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

Cattfish Farming Is Becoming Very Popular

Cattfish farming is big business in Texas, a recent USDA Soil Conservation survey shows.

The study shows that 96 producers sold nearly two million pounds of cattfish raised on Texas farms last year. Dale Butler, district conservationist at Jayton says.

Kent County farmers might be wise to consider this type of operation.

The two million pounds of cattfish sold last year were raised in ponds covering a total of 2,282 acres. While most fish were retained locally, 41 producers sold at least part of their fish by letting customers catch them at farm ponds.

About 35 percent of the cattfish farmers have 5 acres or less in fish ponds while only 18 percent have 20 acres or more.

One reason for the popularity of fish farming is that cattfish have an extremely high growth to feed ration. Cattfish in well managed ponds can often gain a pound of weight to every two pounds of feed. That compares with a pound of gain for 5.5 pounds of gain for beef cattle.

SCS has published a booklet on cattfish farming which tells how to get a cattfish farm going. The booklet outlines methods for commercially producing and harvesting channel and blue cattfish.

A well designed fish farm includes separate ponds for breeding, rearing, and holding fish and at least one holding vat. Help in pond design and location is available from SCS conservationists, who give technical assistance to land users through local soil and water conservation districts.

Since there are several hazards to raising fish producers should plan the operations carefully.

In the still of the summer morn, the river is calm, the surface rippled slightly by the whisper of a breeze. But the currents are deep, hidden from view, working, as for centuries, to channel a course through rock and loam. As the river moves ever onward, so does the human life, a series of summers and springs. When trouble comes, serenity is often lost, in the torrential rains of spring, in the adversities of life. The river has no thoughts. Man has the God-given right to choose, to change direction, to hold firmly to the serenity of true faith.

Farmers Face Many Problems In Replanting Cotton Hailed Out

Heavy rains and damaging hail storms in the east of Lubbock the few days will require important decisions replanting cotton, says Robert Metzger, area agronomist.

Planting in June seems extremely short-growth season, yet many farmers indicate they will plant their cotton produced the fields dry out time and no further rain is encountered due to additional rainfall.

Metzger, area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, this week surveyed the damaged cotton fields in the path of the weekend storms.

"Since we can expect less than normal yields with ideal weather, the remainder of the season," he explains, "decisions about which cotton varieties to use and other practices to follow will be critical."

First producers should select varieties that mature fast, such as Earl 31, Paymaster Dwarf, 90, Broadcot 31, Tamcot SP 21. Also slightly later maturing varieties that could be used are Lockett 4789A, Paymaster 101B, Stripper 31, Paymaster 18. Some varieties such as Stripper do not mature early, they do have an inherent high yield.

"Many farmers have been about what early varieties to use that are tolerant to verticillium wilt, Metzger reports. Fortunately, we don't have a variety that combines both verticillium toerance and earliness. However, early maturing varieties with at least some verticillium tolerance are Tamcot SP 21, and Stripper 31 and Paymaster 18.

Although Paymaster 90 has excellent verticillium tolerance, it should not be used for replanting due to late maturity. We need to remember that verticillium wilt is generally not as serious in late planted cotton and the need for wilt tolerant varieties is not as critical," he said.

The cotton specialist emphasizes that any practice that encourages earliness is the key to profitability in late planted cotton. Furthermore, earliness can be achieved by replanting cotton on double rows or some narrow pattern rather than the standard row width. Of course, he says, this will require some arrangement for harvesting it with the broadcast stripper, but any of the recommended varieties will mature faster by simply planting in double rows.

A few days gained in earliness becomes vitally important in the late planted cotton.

"As far as planting rates in late planted cotton, research has shown that 60,000 plants per acre is an ideal population for late cotton. This requires a planting rate of 20 to 25 pounds per acre. For double row cotton, 30 to 35 pounds of seed per acre is sufficient," he says.

Herbicide residue is frequently a problem in replanting, Metzger says. Generally, when replanting cotton on land treated with Caprol, seedling injury can be avoided by busting down to about four inches or more below the soil surface. Most soils in the hail area are heavy enough to avoid excessive movement of herbicide downward.

Similar conditions exist when replanting grain sorghum, he adds. On soils treated with Milogard, busting down at least four inches below the surface should get out of the herbicide treated area. Both Caprol and Milogard do not move very far in heavy soils.

Later decisions concerning irrigation must also be considered after late cotton is up and growing, the agronomist points out. Because the yield potential for late planted cotton is reduced, fields receiving a good preplant irrigation and a full soil profile of moisture at replanting will not likely require additional summer irrigation. In fact, he cautions, yields of late cotton can be more easily reduced by too much water. So when yield potential is down, the need for water and fertilizer is reduced.

Metzger says that the latest practical date for planting cotton is June 15-20. Alternative crops such as soybeans and grain sorghum should be considered if field conditions prevent cotton planting before this date.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Estate prices Up... Peanuts More Popular... Demand for Cotton Increases... Watermelons on Market... Hay Cutting Underway.

FARM REAL estate prices jumped over the United States by 21 per cent during the past year, from $233 to $280 an acre. Although the per-acre prices may be higher in some areas of Texas, latest figures show Texas farm real estate prices climbed by a more modest nine per cent. The jump was highest in Colorado, 33 per cent, and Pennsylvania was second with 31 per cent, followed by Alabama, Iowa and South Carolina with 30 per cent.

PEANUTS AND PEANUT BUTTER are being consumed by Americans more than ever, the USDA reports. There were 524 million pounds of shelled peanuts used in edible products from August through December, 1973, an eight per cent increase over the same period for 1972. Experts think the increased demand for peanuts came because of the higher prices for beef, dairy products and poultry. Growers received about two cents a pound more for peanuts in 1973 than they did the previous year... Peanut planting in Texas is more than 35 per cent complete, but moisture is short for planting in the Cross Timbers area.

COTTON CONSUMPTION is up over the world by about two million bales, to about 59 million. The carryover in the United States August 1 is expected to be 3 1/2 million bales, below a previous USDA estimate because export volume now is expected to increase. Cotton planting in Texas is about 70 per cent complete, compared to 75 per cent at the same time last season. Planting is making rapid progress on irrigated fields on the High and Low Plains, but more rain is needed on the High Plains to complete planting. Boll weevils and flea hoppers are reported in cotton in the southern half of the State.

WATERMELONS are ripening in the Coastal Bend area where labor and truck shortages have been reported. Watermelon harvest is expected to begin in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area, according to Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, and vines are in the bloom stage in East Texas... Sweet corn and tomatoes are beginning to ripen in Central Texas, and harvest of peppers, eggplant, squash, potatoes and cucumbers continues on the Upper Coast.

Know THE Weather

Where is the greatest danger from lightning? Do most discharges of lightning strike the ground?

The summer thunderstorm, the greatest producer of lightning, features maximum lightning danger in its later stages, not as the low, dark leading-edge squall passes above.

It's after the dark leading edge passes overhead, and after the rain is at least half finished, that maximum lightning danger occurs. It's still a danger after the rain has ended and the thunderhead has apparently passed on.

The leading squall line overhang of a thunderhead is sometimes a producer of lightning so it cannot be ignored. It does constitute a danger and precautions are in order. But maximum danger comes later, during the last of the rain and for time thereafter.

Interestingly, most lightning discharges do not strike the ground, but strike oppositely charged cloud areas.

The McMeans - McAteer Wedding

Miss Donna Lynn McMeans and James Overton McAteer were married Saturday at the Jayton community center with Joe Barina of Rotan, a Church of Christ minister officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wayne McMeans, and Mr. and Mrs. Z. L. McAteer.

Maid of honor was Linda McAteer, sister of the bridegroom, and bridesmaids were Billie McMeans, Vickie McMeans and Kathy McMeans, sisters of the bride.

Joe Wayne McMeans, brother of the bride was candle lighter.

Organist was Barney Murdoch.

Best man was Lanny Barbee of Austin and groomsmen were Bobby Dibrell of Lubbock, and Whit Coffield of Austin, and Kim Nichols of Jayton.

Bill Parks, Jr., and Kim Nichols seated the guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Edwardian gown of ivory silken organza with silk floss embroidered flowers and fashioned with gathered skirt.

Her attendants wore pastel floral print organza gowns with scoop necklines edged in ruffles and large ruffles at the hemlines.

Reception was at the community center.

Both are graduates of Jayton High School.

The bride is a junior student at Texas Tech University where she is on the dean's list.

The bridegroom received the bachelor's degree in accounting and finance from Texas Tech University where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

The parents of the bride groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Spur Inn.

Father's Day

American fathers make more money than those of most nations and give their families a higher living standard. But in spite of such plenty, American families are not much of an example to the world as to permanence, child behavior, juvenile behavior.

On the contrary, American children are pushing the juvenile crime rate to record highs, the nation's divorce rate is constantly increasing and the breakdown in the rate of stability and endurance of the American family seems to parallel the breakdown of paternal authority in the home.

One of the major reasons for this turn of events is the "dunce" role so often played by the American father these days. Whether the average American father is brainwashed by television programs constantly stressing female dominance (selling women the products being advertised) or whether he has simply abdicated his role as the rock of stability, security and authority in the home, is a question.

Psychiatrists tell us wives want a husband they can respect, look to for guidance and the maintaining of discipline in the home. Too many of them aren't getting much of it from American fathers and husbands.

As wives and children remember them Sunday on Father's Day, this is something they should be thinking about.

If you run out of your water softener, substitute one-half cup of vinegar. It will give the same results.

To prevent small children from leaving the towel on the bathroom floor, drape one edge of the towel over the rack and pin with two or three safety pins.

Did you know that equal parts of turpentine and ammonia will remove paint from clothing even if the paint has hardened?

Fashion

One halter dress, by a designer, is the ribbon dress made of narrow ruffles of ribbon or of light fabric, outlining panels up and down the dress.

Short dresses are coming back for evening wear, except for very formal occasions. Hemlines are just below the knee.

Family's grocery cost down $20 a year.

ON AIRLINE FARES

ON FOOD PRICES

The Agriculture Department has released figures that retail prices of farm-produced food dropped 1.1 per cent from March to April which means a $20 drop in a year's supply of groceries.
