Good Rain To Help The Fallow Land

With the rains which recently, Kent County farmers now have an opportunity to plant crops in land which was previously left fallow due to weather. The Soil Conservation Service encourages farmers to plant fallow land to soil improving, high residue producing crops. These crops can provide a possible grain yield, grazing, or hay and will provide excellent protection against wind and water erosion.

The art of saying something to please both sides what explains the way people vote.

Democracy, like religion, suffers from its careless advocates, not from its enemies.

THIS WEEK IN JAYTON

At the last general election the Texas voters expressed themselves as desiring a new State Constitution. I expressed myself then I thought it was a stupid thing to do. The further along we get the more stupid it looks.

The members of the Texas Legislature, sitting as a constitutional committee, have spent 3.2 million dollars of the Texas tax money, without coming up with a proposed new constitution. About all they did was to get a few of political debts paid. Several members of the Legislature still held grudges against other members, for actions surrounding the Sharpstown incident. They took the occasion of the constitutional convention to pay a few of the old grudges back--in other words--to get even.

This points out a political philosophy that a few people long have held, and that is that long tenure is not good. When a man stays in the Legislature for a long time, he seems the most of the time to want to take care of his political friends and enemies, more than he is concerned with the best interest of the voters and taxpayers back home. New members may not have the political savvy and know how, but they are for a fact much closer to the people, and more concerned with putting in conscientious effort.

The way things are shaping up now, Richard M. Nixon may resign just any day. Did you read the newspaper in the paper a day or so ago, about the finances involved? If Nixon is impeached, he will have a great lot of financial consideration, that he would keep if he resigns. His pension would be cut off, his right to attorneys, and to protection, and his wife's pension she should outlive him--all would be cut off if he were when he is ejected from office. But if he made a negotiated resignation, what ever arrangements made with Congressional leaders would carry over after his resignation.

All along, I have predicted that he would not stay out his term. Now I am predicting that he will resign, possibly within the next two months, but certainly by the end of the year. This just goes to show you how quickly people forget the voters. Nixon was elected with the largest vote ever in the history of the nation. Now he is the most disgraced and humiliated president ever.

Soon after his reelection, he was threatening Congress with a suit in the supreme court over the impounding of funds. And he was very sassy about it. Now, he is getting all of the supreme court he wants, and maybe more than he wants. Vice President Ford at first stood to get in a very good position. But he has dilly dallied around now. It is very unlikely that he will even get his own party's nomination.

Did you notice that Texas' own Senator Bentsen is making a play for the presidential nomination? Do you suppose he would accept the second place vote behind Jackson or Kennedy? Or Wallace? Time will tell.

Statement Made By Mary Kerchhoff

Mary Kerchhoff of Plainview, candidate for the State Senate's 30th District, described as "deplorable" the failure of the Constitutional Convention. "This shows us just how far the big union bosses will go to get what they want," she pointed out. "They were determined to railroad through the Constitution they wanted--in spite of the majority of public opinion. For this reason, they rejected compromise again and again. "West Texas has been dealt a severe blow in that we will not be able to vote on a new Constitution in November. As a law-abiding citizen, I believe in the supremacy of those rights which the Constitution gives. The most important of these is freedom of choice."

August, 1914

There was an August this century that changed the lives of almost every human being on earth--August 1914. The war that erupted in that month, exactly sixty years ago, ended a way of life, a style of living, an idealism that was partly romantic and partly chivalry, and introduced communism into the world through Russia.

America, it is now known, went into that war against Germany largely on misinformation and propaganda. The famed liner "Lusitania" was indeed carrying contraband when torpedoed and sunk. And Germany had a valid claim to conduct unrestricted submarine warfare in view of the fact that the British Navy was starving the German people systematically with its worldwide blockade.

But the German Emperor (Kaiser) was a blustering, proud and pompous man, not very effective in the field of public relations. In addition, the Germans thought they could win a war in central Europe. Of course, American sympathy went out to its mother country because of the common language and heritage.

But the question remains whether the defeat of Germany in 1918 produced anything good. The treaty of 1919 embittered Germany, made a new war certain and also produced Adolf Hitler. And Germany, to help bring about Russia's surrender in 1917, helped Lenin to power and thus planted communism in the western world--so the 1914-18 war is responsible for communism.

Many believe the Kaiser's Germany, had it not been destroyed, would have been less troublesome than Russia's communism. France was bled white in the First World War, has never really recovered. Britain was seriously weakened. So the fabled war to end wars actually produced another greater war twenty-one years later--and few would argue today that it produced results worth the awful cost to the world.

They Did It---

Well, it happened, the mail service fouled up on us.

In six years, since the Chronicle has been put together in the Ralls office, the mail has been very dependable, and we usually get one day delivery. But this week, material put in the mail at 3 p. m. Monday, failed to arrive in the Ralls office either Tuesday or Wednesday.

This means that all this news which Mrs. Parker put in the mail Monday, will not get in this issue of the Jayton Chronicle.

We are sorry. Maybe it will show up in a day or two. --Publisher

College Football Recruiting

The New York Times recently concluded, after a survey of scandals involving college sports recruiting, that pressure on colleges and college athletic departments, to get the best high school athletes, is growing.

The most frequent violations of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules concern football recruiting, and the analysis indicates--high school football stars are offered all kinds of inducements to sign with the various colleges, including cars, cash, jobs for parents, girls, etc.

Surprisingly, the Times found that nine out of ten of the big football colleges are losing money, even though carrying on a multi-million dollar football program. Yet the pressure grows, with an emphasis on winning.

Probably the worst practice in the recruiting business is the falsifying of grades, the winking at failure, the substitution of others to stand exams for star athletes, etc. This produces many uneducated athletes who have been deluded and used for public amusement, in effect, since only one in a thousand makes a pro league.

Last year the NCAA turned down a proposal from the University of Texas to beef up the ridiculously small enforcement staff of the organization (five investigators). The NCAA rules for football continue to allow excessive and brutal physical contact--causing many permanent injuries each fall.

In general, the scandal is a growing one and many are beginning to ask whether professionalized sports programs carried on at so many educational institutions are worth the high cost in money and lost educations.

Land Bank Announces Interest Rate Hike

E. H. Flournoy, Jr., Manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Spur, announced today that the Federal Land Bank's billing rate on farm and ranch variable interest rate loans would be increased from 7-3/4% to 8-1/2% effective August 1, 1974.

The billing rate on rural residence loans will be increased from 8-1/4% to 9% on the same date. The variable interest rate loan plan was introduced by the Houston Bank in July, 1969 with a billing rate on loans outstanding to "float" with the variations in the money market.

In making this announcement, Flournoy states, "The bank's decision to make this change was necessary because of the increased cost of bonds sold which had increased with every issue since the beginning of the year, with the most recent issue selling at an all time record high of 9.21% average effective rate. The bank had delayed action in raising the billing rate in order to assess the duration of present high interest levels, and there is nothing in the present monetary situation to indicate any improvement in the immediate future."

Useful "Have you done well with your bees this year?" "Yes and no. They haven't given much honey, but, on the other hand, they stung my mother-in-law"

Fixed Hubby--Well, darling, I've just had my life insured for $5,000. Wifey--That's nice. Now I shan't have to keep telling you to be careful, every place you go.

Tips on Avoiding Criminals

By Bernard E. Nash

When people who have lived long enough to be called "senior citizens" have to live their lives in virtually constant fear, there's something drastically wrong.

That something is called "crime in the streets." While it is all very well to inveigh against it and make it an election campaign issue, it will take more than defiant declarations and political promises to deal realistically with the situation—and, at the same time, to eradicate some of the myths about crime which create unnecessary and unfounded fears in the minds of many citizens.

"Crime is a problem for everyone," notes Mary Herrick, 78, who broke her hip when thrown to the pavement while being robbed outside a Chicago bank. "But I think it's a greater one for old people because they're sitting ducks—they're less able to defend themselves."

Throughout history, criminals have preyed upon the weak and the elderly because they are usually least able to resist. Far-reaching social strategies that deal with the root causes of crime are essential and laudable, but these are long-term solutions. What is needed now are practical interim measures that prevent crimes from being committed by protecting the potential victims.

For example, the most common crime against the elderly is theft: Purse snatchings, pickpocketing, mugging or holding-up people on their way home from cashing their Social Security or welfare checks, and even stealing bags of groceries from those who have to count every penny before they can plan a meal.

An increasing number of communities are currently experimenting with mobile check-cashing services that bring the bank closer to older peoples' homes on the days when Social Security checks arrive. Others are providing special escort services—either through police or private volunteer agencies—to accompany residents on regular check-cashing and occasional shopping trips. Some municipalities are intensifying police patrols in areas with large older populations.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams (D-N.J.) has introduced a bill called the Housing Security Act which, if passed, would help develop crime protection programs for residents of federally sponsored senior housing. The benefits could conceivably extend in time beyond the Federal housing projects to the greater community.

In the meantime, what can you and I do to protect ourselves and our neighbors against crime?

We can call upon our local governments to initiate innovative measures such as those described above. Perhaps even more importantly, we can work together to assist the police in guarding our homes and streets against violence and robbery. I am not suggesting vigilante-type patrols, but am referring instead to the old-fashioned custom of keeping a watchful eye on our neighborhoods and alerting the police if anything is wrong.

As individuals, we do not have to surrender our freedom of movement in order to place reasonable barriers between ourselves and those who might victimize us—whether violently as a mugger might, or through fraud as a con artist might. Advice on how to accomplish this is contained in "Your Retirement Anti-Crime Guide" by Carol Powers. For a free copy, please write to the American Association of Retired Persons, 1909 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

The key to personal crime prevention is making ourselves and our homes less tempting to criminals. We can do this by learning how criminals operate, and then not providing them with the opportunities they need.

For instance, the best deterrent against the common burglar is a firmly locked door. Despite everything you've heard about how no lock can keep out a determined thief (and, in fact, none can) a very large percentage of burglars wouldn't be in business if it weren't for the unintended kindness of people leaving their homes and apartments unlocked, thus making burglary easy.

At the same time, don't invite trouble by carrying your keys on a ring with an identification tag. "If you lose your keys," advises Miss Powers, "it's better to have them lost and gone forever than in the possession of somebody who now has the key to your front door, your address and telephone number."

When you're out, you can convince a would-be burglar you're still there by leaving a small light on and a radio playing.

Away from home, you might stop carrying a purse when traveling in areas you consider dangerous. Instead, place your money, keys and other essential valuables in an inside pocket. Again, you'll have eliminated temptation and opportunity—and that's the key to keeping yourself and your home safe.

(Mr. Nash is the executive director of the non-profit, non-partisan American Association of Retired Persons.)

Did Not Exist

A study prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, just released, indicates the winter oil shortage in the United States didn't actually exist, that it was largely manipulated by oil companies as a means of gaining higher profits.

This report, prepared by Robert Stobaugh of the Harvard Business School, comes at a time when financial statements show the oil companies making record, rising profits.

Obviously the national welfare and the best interests of the people are not being served or protected when such a pattern of behavior exists. (Congress even refused to enact an excess profits tax on the oil companies this year.) The average citizen expects something more in the way of protection or regulation, if necessary, from Congress.

IT NEVER FAILS

What is the difference between a waterspout and a whirlpool?

A waterspout is nothing less than a tornado over water. It is a fearsome sight but one which, fortunately, is rarely encountered. Contrary to the common belief, the waterspout does not suck water up great distances from the ocean, or lake.

Rather, the spout is composed of moist whirling air, which gives off a dark appearance, but which is not really water being sucked upward into the air.

A whirlpool is a circular movement of water caused by currents, sometimes by wind. They are almost always harmless. Exceptions are whirlpools caused by very strong natural or artificial currents, which can quickly endanger a swimmer, and which should be carefully avoided.

SOME FUN!

"ANOTHER GOOD THING ABOUT THIS JOB....I RUN INTO SO MANY INTERESTING PEOPLE!"

Economic Myths Seen As Threat

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent has warned that "economic myths" can undermine the strength of the nation's economy and turn it in the wrong direction.

Unfounded rumors result in consumer buying sprees that create temporary shortages overnight, he told delegates at the National Cotton Council's recent annual meeting in St. Louis.

Dent also said there was no basis for scare talk of dollar-a-loaf bread and dollar-a-gallon gasoline. Despite inflation, he said 1973 witnessed an expanding economy that brought higher living standards, rising employment, a stronger dollar, and a surplus of trade.

He acknowledged that 1974's first quarter will be "the tough one," but said improvements should come in the second quarter as adjustments are made to new living styles brought on by the energy shortage. Dent praised cotton farmers for "responding constructively" to worldwide demand for their fiber by increasing planting intentions for the 1974 crop. He also said American business is expressing confidence in the future by increasing capital investments for plants and equipment by 13 percent.

Lyman C. Ogilby, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Philadelphia: "The ordination (of women) is in violation of the constitution and canons of our national church."

Fashion

Long slinky dresses of polyester knits are popular for summer knits. Many of these are flower prints and can be worn later on with scarfs or capes.

Colorful plaids and prints are used for the youngsters fall clothes as well as for adults. Pants suits for preschoolers are comfortable and attractive. Sweaters come in a great variety of styles and colors. Some are sleeveless slipovers--others have turtle necks and long sleeves.

In some places in England, school children are switched with willow around the borders of the town to teach them to know the bounds of their parish!

He that hears much and speaks not at all shall be welcome both in bower and hall.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

Avoid tipping off burglars that you're on vacation by using electric timers to turn house lights on at dusk and off at bedtime.

Those who are allergic to molds should beware of molds which thrive on books, especially old books, during long spells of damp weather.

August is the month when insects, borers and worms do great damage to fruit trees and shrubbery--spraying is a must.

It's time to severely cut back your petunias and you'll be rewarded with new growth and blooms in the early fall.

Tomorrow's Housekeeping

By Samantha of Lestoil Homemakers Service

Before Benjamin Franklin said, "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes," he should have asked a woman's opinion! I think he should have included

"laundry." It's certainly just as inescapable and while I can manage to ignore the other two most of the time, laundry is always with me. It knows no season and it shows no mercy...as soon as I get it clean, it's back again just as dirty.

There are several ways to approach this situation. You can sulk and try to ignore it, you can have a temper tantrum and refuse to do it, or you can run away and desert your family. But none of these would really solve the problem. So it's much easier on everyone if you just face up to it, organize your forces and try to make washday as painless as possible.

How do you do this? The trick is to learn as much as possible about your enemy and how to cope with it. In this case, the enemy, of course, is greasy dirt. There are two things certain about greasy dirt--whether it's motor oil on your husband's work shirt or bicycle grease on the kids' jeans--it always seems to be ground-in and hard to budge.

In fact, I can think of only one nice thing to say about dirt. No matter how greasy and grimy, no matter how ground-in, it always gives up when it meets Lestoil. Ever since the day I tried Lestoil on these tough laundry problems, my favorite all-around household cleaner has become my favorite washday ally, too. It takes all the guess-work out of coping with hard-to-remove stains because it works as well on permanent press as it does on regular fabrics. I just pour it right out of the bottle, full strength, on the stains, let it stand for five or ten minutes, then wash as usual with my regular detergent. It's as easy as that! I let Lestoil's oil and grease solvers do all the hard work for me. Another nice thing about Lestoil--it doesn't contain phosphates or enzymes and it's biodegradable, too, so I have a clear conscience about the pollution problem.

If you haven't tried Lestoil for laundry yet, give yourself a break. Buy that new book you've been wanting to read, sit back and relax and let Lestoil take care of all your washday problems--you can depend on it.

HOW TO CAN TOMATOES AND BEANS

Shown above are two stages in canning beans and tomatoes. Top picture shows sealing a jar of beans with a screw band, while the bottom picture shows whole unblemished tomatoes being washed for a canner load.

With today's cost of food so high, there is more reason than ever to consider canning garden-fresh vegetables. Some of the most worthwhile vegetables to can include tomatoes, beans, beets, broccoli, brussels sprouts, carrots, cauliflower, peas, pepper and zucchini squash.

The most widely canned vegetables are tomatoes and beans. Here are some hints on canning these successfully:

Tomatoes

Choose only fresh, firm ripe tomatoes. Those with decayed spots or cracks are unfit for canning. Wash and drain enough tomatoes for one canner load. Place tomatoes in a wire basket or cheesecloth and submerge in boiling water about 1/2 minute to loosen skins. Then dip into cold water and drain. Next, cut out all cores, remove skins and trim off any green spots. Cut tomatoes into quarters or leave whole.

Fill hot canning jars, adding 1 teaspoon of salt per quart, and filling air spaces with juice. Run a table knife between tomatoes and sides of jar to release any air bubbles. Wipe the mouth clean, then seal tightly with lid and screw band. As each jar is filled stand it in a canner of hot water, covering jars 1 to 2 inches. Place cover on canner, bring to boil and leave for 45 minutes in the case of quart jars (35 minutes for pints). To test for a successful seal remove the screw band, and press down in the center of the lid.

Beans

Thoroughly wash freshly gathered beans, which must be young, tender and crisp, then drain. Trim the ends, remove any strings, and cut beans into pieces. Cover the beans with boiling water and boil for 5 minutes, or pack raw into a heated pint or quart jar. Add 1 teaspoon of salt per quart, and cover beans with boiling water. Wipe top of jar clean, then seal with lid and screw band.

Put jars into a steam-pressure canner containing 2-3 inches of hot water, place canner over heat, and lock cover. Leave canner vent open to allow steam to escape for 10 minutes, then close vent. Keep pressure steady at 10 pounds for 25 minutes in the case of quarts (20 minutes for pints). Stand jars to cool for 12 hours, and test for a successful seal by removing the screw band and pressing down in the center of the lid. If lid stays depressed, jar is sealed. Store jars without the bands in a cool dry place. Before tasting, bring the beans to a boil and simmer for ten minutes.

Some people believe that white cats are deaf and stupid!

The wedding vows of Miss Rhonda Gaye Jackson, and Larry Dwian Richards were exchanged Friday, Aug. 2, at 8:00 p. m. in the New Salem Primitive Baptist Church in Floydada. Officiating at the candlelight ceremony was the bridegroom's father, Elder Afton E. Richards of Ralls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim H. Jackson of Floydada. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Afton E. Richards of Ralls.

The bridal scene was massive arrangements of white gladioli, lavender mums, powder blue carnations, and emerald foliage placed on brass tiered and arched candelabra. Palms of woodwardia ferns and emerald foliage completed the wedding background.

The wedding altar was flanked by hurricane type candelabra holding garlands of white daisies and foliage.

The pews and aisles of the church were lit by hurricane type candelabra wrapped in garlands of white marguerite daisies. A three-lit memory candle was placed adjacent to the kneeling bench.

Wedding selections were rendered by Miss Pam Brandes of Lockney. She sang "Annie's Song," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Penny Bertrand of Floydada.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose a Victorian style gown of white organza with accents of peau d'ange lace. The fitted bodice was designed with a portrait neckline with a berth collarlet of scalloped lace ruffling highlighted by tiny seed pearls. Long tapered sleeves repeated the scallop lace ruffling with cuffs falling over the hands. The full circular skirt was sprinkled in beaded lace medallions and swept to a chapel train. The entire hemline was encircled in a circular flounce of self fabric attached with the lace scallops. A lace bonnet highlighted in seed pearls held her veiling which fell in three tiers and each tier was edged in lace scallops.

The bride carried a classic bridal bouquet formed with a cascade of mystery gardenias, stephanotis, and showered with baby's breath and garlands of English ivy fronds.

A hand made blue lace garter made especially for the bride by Mrs. Lyndell Pearson of Lubbock was the bride's something blue.

Her attendants were gowned identically in floral printed voile in shades of blue and lavender over summer sky blue taffeta. Picture frame necklines and short puffed sleeves accented the formal gowns set in cummerbunds marked the near natural waistlines of the softly shirred skirts and self fabric sashes.

The maid of honor, Miss

Nesa Jackson of Floydada, a sister of the bride, wore a lavender picture hat encircled with lavender flowers. She carried an old fashioned colonial type nosegay of white and lavender daisies and orchid pixie carnations showered in powder blue baby's breath and sea foam statice.
