Jayton 4H Youths Attend The State Roundup At A&M.

Texas 4-H Roundup brings together the top youth talents in the state in judging contests and various demonstrations and skill events. Their goal is to be the best in Texas.

Some 2300 4-H boys and girls and adult leaders will be converging on the Texas A&M University campus June 1 and 2 for the annual event which has become a highlight of the 4-H year. Competition is keen in the more than 30 events which range from public speaking and livestock judging to demonstrations on safety and use of electricity.

A major event of 4-H Roundup is the State 4-H Food Show on June 1, with judging of entries beginning at 9 a.m. All other competition will be on June 2, with some events beginning as early as 6:30 a.m.

Roundup headquarters will be the Rudder Center, and Activities will officially get under way with an opening assembly at 5:30 p.m. on June 1 in the Center auditorium, points out George McArthur, 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Roundup coordinator.

Featured at the assembly will be special salutes to the American Bicentennial and the Texas A&M Centennial along with an awards program recognizing 10 individuals, businesses and organizations that have made outstanding contributions to 4-H. Winners of numerous scholarship awards will also be announced.

Extending a welcome to the visiting 4-H'ers will be newly elected Texas A&M student body president Fred McClure.

In addition to the various contests and demonstrations on June 2, a special luncheon will be held in honor of 28 outstanding 4-H adult leaders in Texas. These leaders are selected on the basis of two from each of the 14 Extension Service districts, notes McArthur.

Wrapping up Roundup activities will be a special recognition program at 8 o'clock that evening at which winners in the day's competitive events will be presented.

State 4-H Roundup not only attracts a host of youth but also brings together some 600 adults, including county Extension agents, 4-H leaders, friends of 4-H, mass media representatives, contest donors and members of the board of directors of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, the service organization of 4-H in the state.

Footless Remark: Among the rasher words of tongue or pen are "I'm not in the least afraid of the power mower." -Appeal, Memphis.

A big national political football is the matter of gun control. A lot of the do-gooders have picked this issue as to get on the soap box and crusade. But the real issue is not there.

notice a big state church group has gotten into the My opinion is that we had better leave with Caesar which belongs to him, and not mix church and state. In West Texas, the matter of guns is a touchy issue. years ago this writer did a small survey, and found is an average of six guns in each home.

Most homes have a hand gun, a 22 rifle for small hunting, a shotgun, and also a high powered rifle for hunting. This is sort of fundamental ownership guns. Then, on top of this many householders have guns.

There is an old cliché, the truth none the less, that don't kill people, but people kill people.

To outlaw the gun, because it is used as a weapon of war, to be consistent, then we would need to outlaw all other weapons of death, the most common of which is automobile. Then, we could outlaw large bodies of water, fire, athletics etc. And then besides this, there are people killed in the home than anywhere else.

When guns are outlawed--then only the outlaws will remain--this is an axiom within itself.

Then, if people are required to register all firearms, the crooks and criminals, would need only to check registry, and find the people who do not have guns--and there you are.

So far, the nation has avoided the passage of unrealistic laws because the president, down through the years has taken a realistic approach to the issue. Let's hope this situation continues.

The people of the nation are often made to wonder, in fact really goes on in Washington. From time to time the truth will come out, and we learn that some members of Congress really are living far out in left field so far as morality is concerned. When these few bad cases come to the surface, like the case of Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, or Congressman Hays of Ohio, then we wonder how many cases there are that do not come to the surface.

It's bad enough for the duly elected officials, which the public looks to, to pass good laws, live wicked, immoral lives, even though in private. But then the truth is that Congressmen are spending the tax money, for the public gives sweat, blood and tears, to be able to pay their taxes, and then the taxpayer learns this money is being spent to hire people paying them huge salaries, and the only return received for these taxpayers is simply to buy sex satisfaction for Congressmen, then the public has a right to be angry.

Like Watergate, a lot of truth surfaced there about stealing and other forms of misconduct by federal employees and federal elected officials--but how much more on, before and since Watergate, that never did get out, and about which the public never learns? It's good not to think of this very often, because it does not help ones bloodpressure.

One of my granddaughters, Kathy Sudduth, who is a sophomore student in Conway (Ark) high school, recently had an article published in her local high school paper. She sent me a copy of her article. In it she brings a new idea on how to win while losing:

A LOSER CAN WIN

Why am I here? I'm standing on a block, my toes curled over the edge ready to swim my most dreaded freestyle. The starter shouts "Timers ready?" Timers take your mark...Bang!!! I dive off and splash, I hit the water flat on my stomach. I never know why because I am so busy thinking "I want to get over with." I know that when I get to the other end I have to do a flip turn. I never think of anything in the middle of my turn. Then when I'm back on course after push off, many thoughts rush back into my mind. As: Yeah I did it, or Oh, no my nose is full of water. I'm not halfway finished yet, and I am so tired. Finally I get to the bank. I can barely get out of the pool. When I get out I realize I have beaten my record by four seconds. I feel victorious even though I came in last.

Here is an interesting bit that a friend has turned in:

SIMPLE

A simple formula for staying solvent was developed in the 18th century by Dr. Samuel Johnson. He said, "Whatever you have, spend less." He wasn't advocating a miserly life though, because he also advised, "It is better to live rich than to die rich." Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System reports.

GOOD LOOKS

Choose dresses with multiple possibilities for different looks. Uncluttered necklines are adaptable to various scarves and jewelry while undefined waistlines can be changed with different belts and scarves. Little League Plans 4th Annual Summer Camp In Waco

In anticipation of a very successful Little League Baseball season about to burst upon the scene, Little League officials at the Texas State Headquarters at Waco, have announced plans for the fourth annual Summer Camp program.

The Summer Camp program at Waco, on the campus of Baylor University, is quite naturally oriented to baseball and the correct way to play the game, according to Jan Cochran, Coordinator of the camp program.

However, she noted that the program also offers a variety of recreation such as swimming, basketball, volleyball, table tennis and other team and individual activities. "We also stress the point that a boy need not be a member of Little League to attend our summer camp," she said.

Open to boys 9 to 15 years of age, the camp sessions are supervised by carefully selected and experienced instructors and counselors, many of whom are chosen from the ranks of college coaching staffs, the field of physical education and from school guidance personnel, Little League officials said.

Campers are housed in air-conditioned dormitory units and meals are served in fully modern dining room facilities amid the intellectual and academic influence of beautiful Baylor University Campus.

According to the coordinator, three camp sessions will be held: June 20 to July 2; July 4 to July 16 and July 18 to July 30.

Applications are being accepted on a first-come basis. The Little League spokesman said information and Summer Camp applications can be obtained by writing to: Little League Summer Camp, TSTI Box T 1999, Waco, Texas 76705 Phone: 817-799-1961.

CANNING

When purchasing a pressure canner, be sure it has a safety feature that allows steam to escape if pressure goes above 15 pounds or the maximum pressure for which the canner is manufactured, Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, advises.

Harry A. Blackmun, Supreme Court Justice, on druggists advertising:

"Those whom the suppression of prescription drug price information hits the hardest are the poor, sick and aged."

The man who knows it all is as dangerous as the man who knows little.

It's strange how some people can tell you what's best for you.

Edmund Muskie, Senator (D-Me):

"Today's lack of confidence comes not from government attempting to solve human problems, but in not solving them."

SELECT CATTLE ON GROWTH PATTERNS

An animal scientist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station says to consider lifetime growth patterns for weight and other factors in beef cattle selection programs. Such measures as weight at weaning, post-weaning average daily gain and yearling weight are commonly used. Since selection for weight at one age will affect weights at other ages, cattlemen should consider the lifetime growth pattern in deciding upon a specific selection program. Once the best growth patterns are identified, breeds should be chosen and combined, breeding stock selected, and the cattle managed to correspond to the optimal growth patterns.

RADIOACTIVE WASTES

The safe management of radioactive wastes given off in increased nuclear energy production is feasible, according to a recent federal government report.

W. Averell Harriman, former U.S. Ambassador to Russia, on Democratic platform:

"We cannot and should not attempt to be a world policeman, but should give the world inspiration."

COURT & CONGRESS

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has complained that Congress often ignores the Supreme Court when considering judicial legislation.

Self-interest has always been the foe of national security, the destroyer of patriotism.

This Week . . .

appeared in an issue of Sunshine Magazine and then was used in The Notes and Quotes section of the South Gate Press recently.

"Since this our Bicentennial year, I'm sending this along as a reminder to all how grateful we should be to be privileged to live during these years of modern housekeeping aids that we so often take for granted," she wrote.

We feel sure that there are some around who still remember the days of which Grandma wrote her "receipt" for doing the family wash.

It wasn't so bad on sunny days but rain and cold weather often delayed the washing a bit longer than desirable.

Of course, you could always bring one of the tubs inside and "bile" the clothes on the cooke stove that burned wood.

And then came the problem of drying the clothes.

You just hung 'em on chairs around the fire place or stove and hoped they got dry before you had to cook again or everybody wanted to sit around the fire and rest a spell before going to bed.

Some folks were lucky enough to have big back porches and they could do the wash there and then hang the clothes but on lines they had strung on the porch.

But, there was always the chance of a good freeze but the clothes were clean again.

Protect Your Heart

A happy heart is a healthy heart—or so the age-old saying goes. But if you are a typically sedentary American, your heart may be nappy and not necessarily healthy.

According to the American Heart Association (AHA), exercise could be one of the keys to a healthier heart. Through exercise, one may help reduce the risk of heart attack or stroke. And exercise can be fun and healthy if you put your heart into sports. April was designated "Put Your Heart Into Sports Month," a national public service program sponsored by the National Sporting Goods Association for AHA to encourage individuals of all ages to engage in sports and regular exercise for the sake of their hearts.

Every month is a good month to keep your heart happy and healthy. Participate in any sport which is rhythmic, repetitive and involves motion such as: tennis, vigorous walking, stationary or regular cycling, swimming, jogging, running, rope jumping, badminton or golf (pulling cart).

Almost any sport will keep you in top-notch shape if you have always remained physically active. But if you are out of shape and undertaking an exercise program, AHA recommends that you get medical clearance from your physician, as well as exercise tolerance testing for those over 35.

So have a happy and healthy heart by putting yours into sports!

Despite the jokes about budgets, most people would be better off if they stayed on one.

Eternal Vigil...

Salt air, the beating of heavy waves, and rains... these are just a few of the elements that a ship must face constantly. With all of these things, it is little wonder that the crew must be alert, looking for rust and other damage. New paint to protect the ship must be applied regularly.

An individual faces many things in this world, that would rust and corrupt his life, therefore it is good to begin each week with a renewing of spirit, that can be obtained only through worship in the Lord's house.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

JON NEWTON Texas Railroad Commission

The Railroad Commission is one of the most powerful regulatory and conservation agencies in America. Two candidates are in the June 5th Democratic runoff election:

JERRY SADLER, 68, who entered politics in the 1930's, was defeated as Land Commissioner in 1970 after an official reprimand from the Texas House for refusal to cooperate in an investigation . . . bad absentee record in public office . . . investigated by a grand jury for using a state employee to run his private motel . . . sued for civil tax fraud by the IRS . . . in 1969 the Dallas Times Herald declared "Sadler has made Texas government a universal target of ridicule and derision," and in 1976 the San Angelo Standard echoed, "Under Sadler, the Railroad Commission just might become the laughing stock he once made of the General Land Office."

JON NEWTON, 34, three-term House member with solid record of public service . . . authored the law regulating strip mining . . . fought for a Public Utility Commission . . . serves on Interstate Oil Compact Commission, Mining Council of Texas, Governor's Energy Advisory Council, House Energy Resources Committee (vice chairman) . . . endorsed by major newspapers throughout Texas . . . described by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal as "the resident expert on energy matters in the State Legislature" . . . in the first Democratic primary his Bee County neighbors gave him an 85% majority over his seven opponents.

Texas' energy and utility rate problems can be solved only by vigorous, responsible leadership and fresh approaches.

VOTE FOR THE QUALIFIED, RESPONSIBLE CANDIDATE. VOTE JUNE 5 FOR JON NEWTON.

Burleson Reports From Washington

Omar Burleson, M.C. 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. -Remember Mehitabel, the fun-loving cat who claimed to be Cleopatra in an earlier existence.

It seems Mehitabel was perpetually producing kittens which were promptly forgotten about. An inquiry made as to the well-being of her offspring was met by blank stares of innocence, "what kittens?"

Like Mehitabel, the Congress has for years been happily producing programs--health programs, education programs, energy, environmental, transportation, welfare of one kind or another--all sizes, shapes and prices.

These trends came out of a time when the horn of plenty seemed inexhaustible. Like Mehitabel, the Congress never checked very far into the success or well-being of its progeny. Each new program is sent into the world to fend for itself and grow willy-nilly. During the last dozen years the number of Federal domestic programs multiplied from 50 to nearly 1,000. The Federal budget climbed from $158.2 billion in 1967 to an estimated $413 billion for the coming fiscal year of 1977.

It is being recognized that the good old days are over. Vietnam, inflation and recession and all these programs have gotten the Federal budget all out of shape. There is no longer money in the Treasury to feed all the ambitions of a Congress bent on taking care of everybody and everything.

Now there are moves to look into every program to see what they are accomplishing, rather than to continue to pour money on failures to try to make them work. Proposals are in motion to look into this vast bureaucracy; to look at performances and to try to evaluate what is being accomplished under them. All programs would be reviewed every three years and automatically abolished unless specifically re-authorized by the Congress. All expenditures would be brought under budgetary controls with a limit on how much could be spent. This would force the Executive Branch and the Congress to examine the total Federal effort and when an evaluation is made, the Government would apply what is called "zero-based budgeting" which is a fancy way of saying the program managers would be required to explain what would happen if no funds were provided for its continuation.

This legislation has been dubbed "sunset" meaning at end unless found justified for continuance--a concept which has the prospect of catching on across the country.

Some states are already in the process of looking at their regulatory boards and commissions for the same purpose. If they make it work it should be a pretty good signal to Washington that it better work here before this Country goes totally broke. By this it is means, before the Nation's credit runs out.

Federal Agencies have never been required to justify their existence and they never will unless forced to do so. When this effort is seriously underway, special interest groups with a stake in their existence will descend upon Congress to plead their cause. One needs only to look at the protest presently under way in opposition to efforts to cut down on the food stamp program. Suits have been filed in the Courts to prohibit reforms and we will see whether the Courts will run the Country or if needed changes can be effected in this particular area.

In Other Words

By DON RICHARDS

We would like to be able to go a complete year without finding something wrong with the government about which to complain.

But trying to believe that would be like thinking that Kojak could go a whole television show without a tootsie roll pop.

It seems that almost every day we find out about something new. Lately we've heard a lot about Rep. Hayes of Ohio who is reputed to have been paying his mistress $14,000 of public money to keep her on his payroll.

This week we picked up a couple of other facts we thought might be interesting about how our government is saving us money. These seem almost too ridiculous to believe but we felt we needed to pass them along.

We can't remember the dollar figure which was quoted in describing the cost of this special government program, but the intent of the project was to discover the danger involved and the accidents which occur when people are taking a bath.

Hard to believe that thousands of your dollars went to fund such a project? We couldn't believe it either. But now let's take a look at the results found by this highly-paid team of government researchers working on this life-or-death matter.

The government team's two main results found were (1) that most accidents connected with the bathtub happen when the person is either getting in or out of the tub; and (2) that second-most number of accidents occur when the person is changing from a sitting or standing position in the tub.

I've got a 10-year old nephew who lives in Arkansas who could come up with a better answer than that. After weeks of study and thousands of tax dollars spent (and we should not forget the importance of such a study in the first place) their answer is like saying that the main cause of injury in most airplane crashes is a result of the plane hitting the ground.

Now we have another one for you; And alas, also true.

The National Observer this past week gave a "Faint Fanfare" to the Commission on Federal Paperwork. The commission was created in an effort to reduce the amount of paperwork needed to run the government.

Recently the Commission sent each member of Congress a letter asking help in reducing paperwork. That's fine we praise them for seeking new ideas. However, the letter sent out had a misprint in that two lines of printing instructions had been inadvertently left on the letter. So what was their solution?

Simple. Just send out a second letter deleting the two extra lines.

However, it looks pretty stupid for an efficient arm of Congress to make such a mistake. So what do they do next?

Again, the answer is simple. The Commission to reduce federal paperwork sends out a third letter to all members of Congress apologizing for the first letter.

So in order to convey the one message asking for help in reducing paperwork the agency sent out 1,605 sheets of paper.

About Vacations

Millions of Americans face summer with the unshaken conviction the entire family must be carted off, somewhere, on a two-week summer vacation at the beach, in the mountains and or with Aunt Hattie.

That's often needed by all and refreshing to all. But in recent years with traffic, costs and congestion what they are today, vacations have sometimes left participants more depleted at the bitter end than in the beginning.

Travel experts are now beginning to tell us vacations needn't be far from home; in fact, they can be taken at home--if the routine can be broken. And if vacations are to include travel, it's best not to undertake too much of it, or long-travel tied to speed and strict schedules.

Even on European vacations, settle for one or two countries per trip. Go in spring or fall, if possible, when the crowds are thinned out. In this country, good advice is to avoid crowds, holiday weekends and heavy traffic. If one can decide to rest, rather than push, the end result should be more enjoyable and recuperative.
