Animal Loss Heavy To Poisonous Plants

Poisonous plants are responsible for the death of many cattle and horses each year, according to Joe Adams of the Soil Conservation Service in Jayton.

Livestock losses are heavier in periods of prolonged drought when ranges are overgrazed. Also, an animal that is not watered regularly will more readily graze poisonous plants after being watered.

For many plant poisons there is no known treatment. With certain plants, drugs are helpful if used as soon as animals show signs of poisoning. However, it is better to prevent poisoning rather than relying on treatment.

Losses can be kept small by proper management of livestock and range. First, learn to identify the poisonous plants in the area. Then check for these plants before turning animals in to graze. Maintain a good cover of grass on the pasture. Do not let animals overgraze. Remove livestock during periods of the year when the plants are most dangerous.

Several poisonous plants common to this area are alfaloburr, as shown in photo, threadleaf groundsel, perennial broomweed, shinnery, and bitterweed. Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service can help identify these plants. Call or come by the office in the Courthouse at Jayton.

Chairmen Are Named For West Texas Roundup

Area chairmen have been announced for the second annual Cotton Round-up for Crippled Children to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene.

General chairmen in the Round-up are Herman A. Propst of Anson and State Representative Elmer Martin of Colorado City.

Area chairmen are: Pat Hale, Haskell, Leon Johnson, Lamesa; Max Von Goeder, Snyder; J.B. Cooper, Roscoe; Foy Mitchell, Roby; Bobby Emmons, Colorado City; and Mrs. Charisie Poe, Winters.

The first Cotton Round-up last year got off to a late start but still raised more than $8,000.

Propst and Rep. Martin said they hope this year's Round-up will be much better because of better cotton prospects and farmers being better acquainted with the project this time.

Propst said a special letter will be mailed soon to encourage farmers throughout much of Texas to take part.

He said farmers wishing to pledge a bale of cotton to the Rehab Center should contact Martin, himself, their area chairman, or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Both Propst and Rep. Martin, who are on the WTRC Board of Directors, stress the importance of the Cotton Round-up for Crippled Children this year. They noted that with less than two months remaining in the year, the Center is counting on $128,000 in general donations, $6,300 in group donations, $18,000 in memorial gifts, and $42,000 from Trusts and Foundations for the rest of 1976.

The donations, $194,300 altogether, must come in for the Center to end the year without a deficit.

About 4,000 persons were served by the Rehab Center in 1975, and patient loads went up dramatically in the first ten months of this year.

In October, more than 400 treatments were given per day on seven separate days.

Record high admissions and re-admissions were in July when there were 197 compared to 130 last year; August, 175 to 128; September, 210 to 189; and October, 207 to 157.

The Haynes Family Singers To Be In Jayton Sunday

This Sunday, December 5, the Haynes Family Singers will be at the Jayton Assembly of God Church for both the morning and evening worship services.

They have appeared at camp meetings and churches throughout this and other sections of Texas. The Haynes Family is a family who is close-knit in its love for God and for each other. They share their love in song and in testimony. In a day when everything seems to be tearing at the Heart of the American family, they have put God first. In a day when the world clamors for new young talent, they have dedicated theirs to God.

Those who attend the services Sunday at the Jayton Assembly of God, will be blessed as they present the message of the Gospel in song.

Timothy, the youngest, eleven years old, sings solos with feeling and anointing. A blessing will come as he sings with a maturity and understanding unusual in a child this age.

Douglas, age twelve, also sings with the anointing of the holy spirit.

Kristi, age 14, sings solos with clarity and inspiration. She accompanies the Family on the piano, as God enabled her to learn very quickly, when she dedicated her talent to Him.

Keri, age 17, sings harmony in her own lovely way as she and her mother, Doris, blend with the rest of the group as they sing.

Dwane, in his role as father and manager, has the greatest responsibility. He not only counsels and encourages, but as the spiritual head of the family, continually emphasizes the importance of giving the Lord Jesus Christ all the glory and thereby drawing all men unto Him.

The Rev. J. C. Owen, pastor of the Jayton Assembly of God Church, urges all members and friends of the church attend these very special services next Sunday.

Farmers Union Calls For New National Legislative Program

Development of a state and national legislative program and groundwork on a state farm policy for 1977 will begin when the Board of Directors of the Texas Farmers Union meets in Abilene December 3 and 4. The eleven-member executive board and the nearly eighty county presidents composing the full board assemble to organize the general business of TFU prior to the annual convention calendared for late January in Amarillo.

A separate program drafting committee meets in conjunction with the board on December 2 and 3 to compile county resolutions into a state and national legislative program for agriculture. The proposed draft will be presented to the delegates at the general convention.

"The Texas Farmers Union is anticipating dynamic growth and forceful effects on farm programs during this our 75th year of service to state agriculture," says Jay Naman, State President of TFU.

In addition to the administrative business needed to coordinate the eight thousand plus state members, the Board of Directors will be electing two District Directors to fill expiring terms and one resigned seat in the TFU's nine-district makeup. Determination of the top county organization for 1976 will also be made for recognition at the January convention in Amarillo.

Serving on the 1976 Executive Board are: Jay I. Naman of Waco, President; Joe Rankin of Ralls, Vice President; A. G. Flippen of Vega, District I Director; W. R. Sage of Lubbock, District II Director; Billy Bob Toombs of Merkel, District III Director; Lee Starr of Cisco, District IV Director; A. J. Wleczyk, Jr. of Richmond, District V Director; Jerry Blacketer of Trenton, District VI Director; Ronnie Pitts of Bartlett, District VII Director; Alfred E. Perry of Big Spring, District VIII Director; and Mrs. David Samuelson of Coupland, District IX Director.

Farm Bureau Asks President Ford To Change Farm Laws

WACO--The Texas Farm Bureau has asked President Ford to rescind an executive order so that ranchers can use chemical toxicants to control coyotes.

"Texas sheep and goat ranchers have suffered and continue to suffer tremendous losses of stock due to coyotes," Carrol Chaloupka, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, said in a telegram to the President.

"Rescission of the order is a necessary first step in securing registration of chemical toxicants essential for predator control," the Dalhart grain and livestock producer said.

Chaloupka said that Allan Grand, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and the presidents of state Farm Bureaus where coyotes are a problem have also urged President Ford to rescind the order.

"Sheep numbers in the United States have declined 46 percent in the past ten years," Chaloupka said.

"Coyote depredation has become so serious that many sheep producers have been forced out of business," he said.

Night is the mother of thoughts.

Crosbyton Justice of the Peace Clyde Davis ruled he died of self-inflicted wounds.

An insurance salesman, Smith moved to Lubbock from Brownfield in 1967.

His funeral was held at 10 a.m. Monday in Sanders Memorial Chapel in Lubbock.

He formerly resided in Girard for a number of years.

Survivors include his wife, Bessie; four stepsons, Jack Ervin Brown, Ray Brown, Fred Brown, and Donald Brown, all of Eugene Oregon; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Janie Berryhill of Brownfield, Mrs. Allene Cary of Lindale and Mrs. Beverly Andrews of Grapevine; a step brother, Charles Holmes of Bonham; and a sister, Mrs. Jean Bolf of Fort Worth.

Cotton Harvest Gains Short Momentum After Cold and Snow

High Plains cotton harvest regained momentum after fields dried this past week, according to Paul R. Dickson, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office.

Several days of poor drying conditions following heavy snow the week-end of November 13 and 14 prevented much harvest activity until this week, Dickson said.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported cotton trading was moderate to active the week ending November 26. Growers offered cotton in moderate to heavy volume.

Mixed lots of mostly grades 32, 42, 33, 43, and 53; staples 30 through 33; all miked brought 63.00 to 64.00 cents per pound.

Grades 32, 42, 52, 33, and 43 were predominant in classings at Lubbock this week. Grade 32 was 10 percent, grade 42 accounted for 20 percent, 52 was 10 percent, 33 made up 15 percent, and 43 claimed 23 percent. Bark reduction was assigned to 38 percent of the samples classed.

Predominant lengths were staples 30, 31, 32, and 33. Staple 30 was 23 percent, 31 accounted for 23 percent, 32-20 percent, and staple 33-13 percent.

Mike readings in the desirable 3.5 - 4.9 range amounted to 60 percent of the total. Mikes 5.0 - 5.2 registered two percent, 3.3 - 3.4 was 10, 3.0 - 3.2 accounted for 16 percent, and 2.7 - 2.9 claimed nine percent.

Veteran Newsman Joins WTU Staff

ABILENE--A veteran West Texas newspaperman and journalism education has been named director of Information Services for West Texas Utilities Company. Sherwyn McNair has resigned as chairman of the Journalism Department and as director of Public Relations at Hardin-Simmons University to join West Texas Utilities Company after the current academic semester which ends December 16.

As director of Information Services, McNair will fill a newly created staff position at WTU. He will report directly to the president and assist the executive supervisors. His responsibilities will include preparation, coordination and dissemination of information.

McNair was reared at Gilmer, in East Texas, and attended Hardin-Simmons from 1940-43. He served in the Navy during World War II, with duty as an officer on an amphibious ship in the Pacific.

He was released from service as a lieutenant (j.g.), and continued his education at the University of Missouri where he earned bachelor's and master's degrees in journalism.

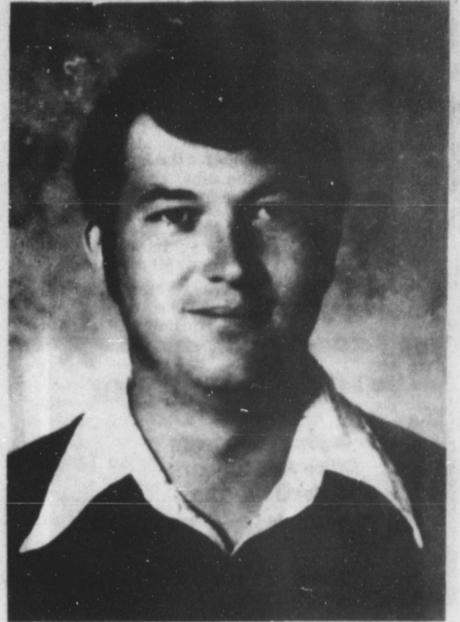

McNair was city editor of the Gainesville Daily Register before joining the staff of the Abilene Reporter News in November, 1948. He served as a reporter, wire editor, and oil editor before becoming city editor in 1962. He resigned in January 1967, to join the faculty at Hardin Simmons.

At Hardin Simmons he taught journalism, headed the department and was director of students publications until 1973, when he assumed additional duties as director of public relations. Since then he has continued to teach while serving as an officer of the university administration.

Two other members of his family have been linked with West Texas journalism. An older brother, Wacil, is editor of the Snyder Daily News, and a younger brother, Dalmón, was managing editor of the Midland Daily Telegram before joining the staff of Southeast Louisiana State University eight years ago.

McNair's wife, an Hardin Simmons graduate, is the former Chere Livingston of Marfa. They have two children, Nancy (Mrs. Jim Jones) of Lampasas, and

MANAGING YOUR FAMILY'S FINANCES

By Dr. Carl F. Hawver

Q. My granddaddy believed in paying "cash-on-the-barrel head" and I find myself wondering if he wasn't right. Isn't all this credit pretty dangerous?

A. Credit is something like fire. Fire can keep your house warm or burn it down—depending on how it is used. Credit can make a budget work, or ruin it—depending on how it is used.

Unless we have married money, or inherited it, most of us have to depend on income for our needs. Some needs, however, are greater than we can meet out of a single paycheck, and needs won't always wait until we can save up money to meet them.

Suppose your car breaks down and you need it to get to work. It will cost $85 to repair it and you don't have that much left in the paycheck after you pay for the rent, food, and other necessities. Credit will help you get the car fixed and spread the cost over several paychecks.

The function of credit is to allow families to purchase big ticket items or handle major emergencies by spreading the cost over a period of time. Most of us would not be able to purchase cars or homes if credit were not available. Credit adjusts the peaks and valleys of our needs to the more stable level of our income.

Remember, however, credit is not a scheme to spend more than you earn. It should be used only when you are spending less than you earn (so you will have the money to make the payments). Remember, too, that credit costs money. Be sure you know how much, and that having the goods or service now, is worth the extra cost.

Dr. Carl F. Hawver, Executive Vice President of the National Consumer Finance Association, is a widely recognized counseling expert in family money and credit management

PROTECTION FROM THE ELEMENTS

It has been said in the Lone Star State that there is nothing between Texas and the North Pole but a barbed wire fence. That certainly gives you the idea that in Texas you're not given much protection from the cold North wind.
 There are times when you might think there is no protection and comfort afforded from the hardness and cruelty of the world. But there is a buffer between you and the world. This help and protection is the church. As members of the church, you are with good people of like minds who love you, pray with you, comfort you and assist you. They are the ones who "by love serve one another." (Gal. 5:13)
 We invite you to attend the church of your choice this week. You will find a warm welcome there.
 "And this commandment we have from him, that he who loveth God love his brother also."
 1 John 4:21

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society as way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

DORIS DAY - HER STORY

By A. E. Hotchner... This unusual collaboration in the form of an autobiography brings together a highly skilled professional writer and the film superstar who never enjoyed being thought of as Miss Goody Two-shoes. For the first time, Doris Day tells the story behind the headlines of her private life - three marriages, real and rumored affairs, and professional triumphs countered by personal tragedies.
At thirteen Doris was in a car hit by a train, and for a while she expected to be crippled for life. At sixteen she was earning her living on the road singing with bands. At seventeen she married a man who turned out to be a psychopathic sadist. She talks of many other things she never told anyone before, and her book is as compelling as it is honest. Hotchner, the author of PaPa Hemingway: A personal memoir, has enriched her story with candid interviews with her son, Terry Melcher; her mother; her friends, and many of the people she has worked with including Bob Hope, James Garner, and Jack Lemmon.

ABOUT YOUR HOME
By April Rhodes

Trim branches from your evergreens for Christmas greenery.
Clean gutters and drain-spouts often to remove falling leaves.

A real mark of fashion this season is the scarf-wrapped head. Some new dress creations feature a scarf of the same material.
Keep your bird feeders filled--especially when the ground is covered with snow. Some birds need suet also.

Keep two half-gallon plastic bags in your pocket book and if you're caught without galoshes--pull the bags over your shoes and secure with rubber bands.
Hang necklaces on a tie rack to avoid tangles.

It's not too early to begin making holiday cookies (ones that can be frozen) for the Christmas holidays.

Fashion

Caftans are quite fashionable now for hostess gowns. They are also easily made by anyone who sews. Some of the newer ones have set-in sleeves.

Braid has come back as a favorite trim. We see it on yokes and sleeves of dresses and also on jackets.

If his members don't show up for church Sunday, don't blame the Rev. James Thompson.

The pastor of Elba and Oregon United Methodist Churches in Michigan will be observing "No Excuse Sunday."

And he's doing so by taking away every reason he can think of for not showing up to worship.

At both of his small churches there will be: Blankets for those who say the church is too cold.

Fans for those who say the church is too hot.

Cots for those who like to sleep in on Sunday mornings.

Hearing aids for those who say the preacher speaks too softly.

Cotton for the ears of those who say the minister preaches too loudly.

TV dinners for those who say they have to stay home to fix the Sunday meal.

Trees and grass for those who like to worship God in nature.

Sports equipment for those who are used to using it on Sunday mornings.

Steel helmets for those who say the roof will fall in if they ever show up at church.

Christmas poinsettias and Easter lilies for those who have never seen the church without them.

It may be fun, but the Rev. Mr. Thompson says he's not altogether kidding either.

"Let's call No Excuse Sunday a serious event tinged with humor," he smiles.

What does 23 skidoo mean?

Old telegraph operators say that operators at lonely stations conversed with each other in Morse Code to pass the time or to stay awake at night. When someone needed to break in to get a message through, he'd tap out 23, meaning, "get off the wire."

There's the story about the wife who went to her pastor with the complaints that she was upset because her husband was carrying on something terrific.

"Pastor," she sobbed, something has to be done about my husband. He doesn't come home to me and the kids at night anymore. Instead he spends his time drinking, playing cards and chasing women."

"You have my deepest sympathy," the minister declared. "Your husband is a miserable sinner."

"A sinner he is, Reverend," replied the distraught woman, "but miserable he ain't--he's having the time of his life."

Contrary to popular belief, owls can see in the daytime.

Barney Murdoch

If you want to really attract attention, and get a lot of wild stares, I can tell you just how to do it. Drive down a busy street, or pull up to a stop sign, on a warm sunshiny day, with your windshield wiper running away. Everyone looks at you like you are crazy—and you stare back at them with a nonchalant look.

Recently my jallopy (made by GM) the wiper took a notion to go crazy, and be different. When the windshield was dry, it would wipe away, and there was no way you could turn it off. But if the windshield got wet, it would quit wiping—that's true—believe it or not.

I don't know what he did, but finally a local mechanic fixed it. But not after I had created a lot of excitement.

There are quite a few people, both men and women, who at one time or another have toyed with the idea of learning how to fly.

Well, right now it might be possible for a number of people to realize this idea. Larry Mann at the Crosby County Flying Service near Ralls is offering to teach flying lessons. How about that?

The idea of capital punishment (People being killed by order of the courts, for a crime committed) is one that is highly controversial. There are many things connected with this that I do not understand.

When a person has been convicted of a capital crime in court and ordered to be put to death, then the court and its officers work feverishly to keep the person alive, and not let him take his own life—they want to do it. But yet, very few people actually want to perform the act.

Up in Utah, there is a man in prison awaiting to be put to death. He says he is ready, but the courts are halting in their efforts to bring him before the five-man firing squad. And they are planning to pay the five members of the firing squad the sum of $1,725.00 each for their actions.

He has tried to take his own life, and they have had a battery of fine doctors working to keep him alive, and not let him cheat the firing squad.

Also the members of the firing squad will be standing behind a shield so no one can tell their identity.

I have never been very strong for the death penalty. It may be a deterrent to crime, but that is debatable. It may be that people may become so incorrigible that they should not ever be turned loose on the society again—that is true. But, in the first place, there is no room for making a mistake—no place for correction, if a mistake is made, and all courts are subject to human error, just like people in other areas of endeavor.

It is very strange indeed, that people will sit on a jury and hand down the death penalty, but no one wants to watch the execution, or actually push the button.

I think it would have a sobering influence on the acts of the court if the prosecutors and the members of the jury were required to witness any execution which they order. That's enough said on this subject.

One day next week the nation will observe the 35th anniversary of the tragic bombing of Pearl Harbor. You are an old timer if you can remember it, and remember where you were, and what you were doing at that time. I will remember—next week I may tell you about it.

Harold Hudson at the Perryton Herald penned the following article.

Machines are replacing people more and more because employers are finding it is easier to get mechanical device to do a day's work than it is to get people to do so.

Sometimes it is a machine that is given to a worker to step up the output and perhaps take the place of another human worker.

Whatever the reason, it is obvious that machine energy has been long replacing people energy for a long time.

In fact, looking back, you have to wonder how things get done in the days when most jobs depended upon a lot of muscle power and downright hard work.

A lot of young farmers would recoil at the idea of scooping wheat from a truck into a granary all day long while their fathers thought this was the only way to do it the days before machine loaders.

Carpenters used to saw by hand instead of by electric saw. Lumberjacks used to chop a notch and saw trees by hand instead of with a chain saw.

The list is endless of how machines have replaced human labor.

But we are apparently just beginning. A business report we saw the other day offers the disturbing news that secretaries, long regarded as an essential business occupation, now may become "Technologically obsolete." A supplier claims that a company can invest $150,000 in "word processing machines" and eliminate six or more secretaries.

Even bosses might learn to operate machines built to compose error-free letters from previously dictated and coded sentences, store on magnetic tape.

Already, in the newspaper profession, there are electronic marvels that allow a reporter to write his story, stick it into a slot of a machine and out comes the story set in type, ready to be placed in a page.

Computers already do a lot of work for bookkeepers and banks now provide around-the-clock teller services for most transactions without having a human teller on duty. Around-the-clock devices will issue cash, take deposits, and do other services, in the middle of the night.

Supermarkets are using magnetic markings on packaged products to activate cash registers and deliver printouts of purchases.

The electronic calculator has revolutionized things, too. These devices are now being used by children of lower grades as well as college students. A major oil company has developed self service pumps that can be activated by a valid credit card.

We are moving in a cashless and maybe workless
