

What's it All About?

It's Christmas, or almost. And, in the paper business, like many others, we are scrambling around for every ad and subscription we can in order to make enough money to see us through another year.

In all that scrambling and scabbling, in all this working until midnight, and trying to shop in between, it's really easy to lose sight of the real reason we are doing all this.

But there have been several things lately that made me stop, take a deep breath and really celebrate the season.

The first came when Sunny Whitney and I were repainting some of the wooden figures for the park.

The nativity was set up in the park and looked beautiful with the stable trimmed in real hay. I was asked to paint a sign that would say "Pray for the peace this birth promised". I worked on that sign until one in the morning, and as I carefully measured, lettered and painted, I thought about what that sign meant. Wouldn't it be a true miracle if all of us found that peace, and every nation practiced it?

Then, Mike Francies had an idea that I would love to see practiced from town to town, from yard to yard. On Christmas eve in downtown Deport, all the spotlights on Santa, on the toys, trains and on the sleigh will be turned off. Only one thing will be left to light the night...the Nativity. Isn't that a wonderful idea? On that most special night, we can turn our minds from all the frivolous things (which I love, mind you) and focus on the birth that is our true hope for peace.

I hope other places and people will adopt this idea, for it sounds like a great one to me.

And, among all the Santa letters we set each year, asking for all kinds of things, two shine through

I would like to personally recognize "Skye" whose Santa letter said "I don't care what I get for Christmas, just think about the puppies and kittens at the pound and give them a nice home for Christmas". How beautiful!

And, to the other letter writer who listed what he or she wanted to see their mom and dad get, I say "Congratulations, you have discovered the secret of Christmas, that giving is more fun than getting!"

Things seem dark indeed at times, with war threatening, economic slowdowns, crime and problems in abundance. But there is hope, my friends, there is hope, and a light in that darkness.

I hope your light this year emanates from the Nativity, and that it shines all year long.

The cigar box barn

Christmas time for me growing up was absolutely wonderful. My Daddy came from a ranch, where we lived, and my Mom's folks were from town. While I got baby dolls, pretty dresses and the such from Mom's side of the family for Christmas, Daddy's side showed me with cowboy boots, saddles, horses and the like. It was absolutely fabulous!

My Daddy and I had one chore to do pre-Christmas, and that was to build the barn for the nativity scene.

It was always a big project for the two of us. We could only use a cigar box that we got from my Uncle Dick, the only one in the family who smoked cigars.

Then my Daddy would get out his pocket knife that I had watched him carefully sharpen a million times with his whet rock. He would meticulously cut through the folds on the cigar box.

Then we would put the pieces together with the tiniest little nails and tack hammer. Then we painted it, always brown, and used glue to attach the small clumps hay that we had gotten during a special trip to the barn.

Of course, my main job was hanging the angel from the top of the barn. Once that was done, we would add the other figures, the farm animals and then Baby Jesus, always last.

Daddy died December 21 and we buried him Christmas Eve quite a few years ago.

Since that time I have always had a nativity scene, there just isn't any barn.

Galen and Baby Jesus
Get ready, here it goes. Jesus never wears out, he never gets tired, he never leaves us. We leave him, pack him away, but Jesus is with us always. Everyday of the year. Thank you Lord for Galen and Nathan. Amen.... Teddy Mach Igo

Newspapers will not publish Christmas, New Years week

The Bogata News, Talco Times, Blossom Times, Deport Times and Detroit Weekly will not be publishing an edition the week of December 26th or January 2nd.

Trying to get out an edition, spend time with family, celebrate the holiday and find a printing slot at the printers is nearly impossible with the holidays coming on a Wednesday. Please be patient, the regular schedule will be back on track the second week of January.

And remember, we don't like missing editions either. Next year, Christmas will be on a Thursday, a much more manageable publication date. Happy Holidays.

Third Place

From the darkness..

Dad's major surgery in the spring of 1957 gave him five and a half more years with us. When he had recuperated a few months, he felt it necessary to relocate our family closer to "relatives". Loading our possessions into a trailer, we started our journey east.

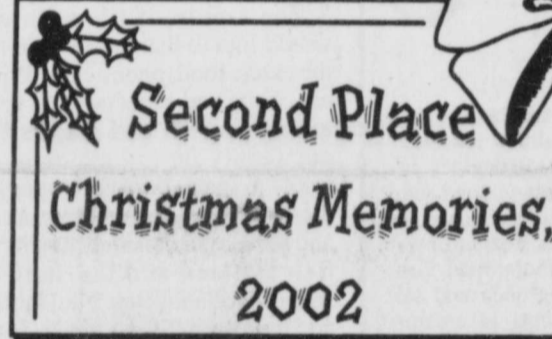

Dad always preferred driving nights, maybe because we three children were less demanding, less traffic and he and Mother could converse without interruption. That late December night found us finally in the state of flat West Texas, three slumbering in the back seat, when Dad's anxious voice penetrated the night.

"Oh no! There's a fire!! Something is burning up!!"

I began waking with the thought prayer, "Oh please LET them ALL get OUT ALIVE!" My heartbeat became a rapid thump when I spotted the red glow ahead. I feared a Christmas tree overheated and children being disappointed, hurt, misplaced when it should be a happy season.

I visualized a Mother distraught over locating children, escorting them to safety, and then reacting to the loss of favorite mementos, priceless irreplaceable photos and her home. A frantic father fighting with a water hose what he had provided for his family, or had been his childhood home full of memories. It seemed we traveled for miles and the glow did not diminish. May be a whole city was flaming. As our minds raced with various thoughts, sometimes audible, FROM THE DARKNESS we focused on what had troubled us for several months.

On the flat plains of West Texas stood an old two story house I dubbed "House of Seven Gables". Around every gable was strung red lights to guide Rudolph's sleigh, or a beacon to travelers or neighbors that a special birthday is being celebrated here. Illumined by dash lights, the five faces showed relief and was touched by strangers Christmas Spirit.

Galen and Baby Jesus

A few days ago, I was reminded of a Christmas memory of my oldest son Galen who is now twenty years old. I looked up on top of our refrigerator and there was a nativity scene that my sons mother and I bought when we first married.

I was working at Campbell Soup at the time and cashed a savings bond to buy Christmas decorations and tree. In my parents home was a nativity scene placed on top of their Zenith television console cabinet. My sons mother and I admired it and wanted one of our own. We drove to Wal-Mart in Paris and shopped for our decorations with care. We saw nativity scenes that were very expensive, but thank God for Wal-Mart, we found one for around ten dollars. We gave it a place of honor in our home.

That first Christmas came, and went. I asked my sons mother if we could leave the scene out all the time. We both agreed that was what we would do. Two years later in our marriage our first son Galen was born. Time just flew by and before I knew it our son was starting to stand, walk, to explore and get into everything.

At Christmas time my sons mother would tell him that this is "Baby Jesus" in the nativity scene.

Galen would look at her and repeat "Baby Jesus" point and touch Baby Jesus with joy.

On evening I was drawing Galen a bath and noticed "Baby Jesus" was missing. Galen had removed "Baby Jesus" from the manger and had the most important member of our nativity in the tub with him. Each evening Galen would go to the manger scene and with the face of an angel ask me if he could get "Baby Jesus" out of the manger. I always said yes.

After many times of "Baby Jesus" being in the tub, I noticed he was looking a little worn and losing his swaddling clothes. This made me remember that at Christmas we tend to unpack our decorations, our nativity scenes place them on a table or shelf, then pack it away till next year.

A "first" this year

This Christmas will be another "first" for our family. This will be the first Christmas in my life without my dad, Elvis Wright. Daddy died November 19, 13 years to the day after my mother died.

With this in mind, the most remembered Christmas this year will be the Christmas after Mother's death. We always spent Christmas with Mother and Daddy. Plans were made for Daddy to spend the Christmas holidays with our family. Then on December 18, my brother Kerry had a near fatal car accident on an icy road close to his home in Louisiana. Daddy visited him as he lay in a coma in a Shreveport hospital. I met Daddy and my brother-in-law, Robert Taylor, at the last toll gate on the Indian Nation Turnpike on a bitter cold December day. I had driven on ice and snow packed highways for at least 100 miles. We had to reurn over these same highways. I think the high temperature that day was 11 degrees with a harsh north wind blowing. After getting to our house in Enid, Oklahoma we settled him in a recliner with a blanket. He was still cold and wished for a nice warm opened flamed butane heater. He had to settle for an electric space heater. Soon he was asleep, taking a much needed nap. His little great-granddaughter was arriving shortly. Our family attended the Christmas Eve services at our church.

I cannot know just how much sorrow and heartache Daddy felt during this time but what he showed us was his courage, hope, love and most of all his faith. He never faltered in his belief that Kery would fully recover.

How appropriate that his gifts to his children and grandchildren that year were Bibles. Stephanie, his great-granddaughter received a little cross necklace.

Silas and I hope that we are also good examples of the loving, caring and faithful parent that Daddy was to us. This Christmas after the traditional Christmas Eve family dinner at my cousin's home we will gather around and read the Christmas Story and sing Christmas Carols.

Under our tree will be many brightly wrapped gifts this year, but the ones we hope will mean the most will be the Bibles that will be given to them "In Memory of Granddaddy or Great-Granddaddy" as the case may be. Yes, Kerry did recover after many months in the hospital.

Country Cooking

By guest columnist Nanalee Nichols

Cookies, cookies and more cookies! That's what those of us in the Bocky Norman Cookie Club have each Christmas season. Years ago, this group of seven women heard about a party where each person baked 7 dozen of the same cookie (plus some for tasting). Dressed up in fancy paper, or on a special plate, or with a trinket or ornament on each one, they grace a table while everyone shares covered dishes of other foods until well-stuffed. Then each person carries home 7 dozen different varieties of cookies! The cookies are used for various things. Some people use them to make up pretty plates of goodies to give to neighbors, others just share with friends and family. This year, many of them were used for the Depot Community Christmas church service.

This year's party was held at one of the newer member's shop, Sunny Whitney's Crazy Quilt and Patchwork Lunchees. The cookie club idea can be adapted for church groups, kids or seniors. Give it a try, it's a great excuse for a party. There is always a lot of laughter and good food. Because of space, all the recipes weren't included. All were delicious, though. HAPPY COOKING CLUBBING!

None quite as special as this Christmas

A favorite Christmas memory of mine was in 1967 or 1968. I was pretty young, four or five.

My father had been shipped off to Vietnam earlier that year, so we were all missing him terribly, especially me since I was Daddy's girl.

Anyway, my father would send money to mother every month to take care of all of us. Somehow the check he sent home for Christmas got lost between Vietnam and Fort Knox, KY.

My mom was frantic not knowing what she was going to do. I was awful little as I said but I assume being the wonderful mother she was, she sat us all down and explained to us that there would probably be no Christmas that year.

But on Christmas day, a Salvation Army van pulled up and unloaded six brand new bicycles, one for each of us.

We were all very happy and excited.

I lost my wonderful father June 11, 2001 but will always have these precious memories of all the Christmases we spent together, none quite as special as that one though.

A well remembered Christmas

I was born during the Depression days and it was a time when love was very often the only thing families had.

My first seven years were spent in Kentucky where the winters are cold and the snow is deep. And every Christmas looks like a picture post card.

My father passed away when I was only an infant, leaving my mother with three small daughters to rear.

Somehow she always managed to make Christmas a special time, and it was looked forward to with great excitement.

There would be a cedar tree cut down and carried into the house and put up by my mother. This was no small task, since she wasn't quite five feet tall and weighed less than 100 pounds.

Once the tree was up and securely fastened, we began to decorate. There was popcorn and red berries which had been strung on a thread and made ready for the occasion.

The smell of cedar filed the warm room and my mother's voice would lull us to sleep as she told us stories.

Times were difficult, but we knew our mother would somehow make sure there would be something under the tree on Christmas morning.

I remember so well the Christmas when I was 5 years old. Even though we were very young, we knew there was "no money" in the house. In those days "no money" really meant no money.

I went to bed holding on to the thought that maybe there really was a Santa who brought gifts to those who could not afford to buy their own.

I awoke early Christmas morning to the quiet sound of a new fallen snow. The fire in the stove had burned low and I knew the room would be cold. I could barely see the outline of the Christmas tree standing in the corner and it was still to hard to see beneath it.

As the room began to get light, my faith and hope overcame my doubts. I quietly slipped out of bed and ran to look.

Underneath the tree were three of the most precious "corncob" dolls ever to behold.

My mother had made them, using the corncobs for their bodies and she had made clothes for them. Their heads were made from a piece of white material and their faces drawn on with a pen.

To my childhood eyes they were beautiful. I cherished mine as though it were the fairest doll in all the land.

I have never received a present since that I appreciated or enjoyed more.

My mother had given us part of herself in each doll she had created. She was hoping we would understand that gifts of love are to be treasured more than gifts bought with money.

This was written by my sister who was killed in 1999 in an auto accident along with her husband. She was two years younger than me.

Boll weevil referendum results tabulated

Cotton producers in the Northern Blacklands Boll Weevil Eradication Zone have voted against establishing a boll weevil eradication program in the 36-county area.

Final results were 190 producers voting "for" and 138 voting "against" establishing the program, but the measure failed to receive the necessary two-thirds vote of 50% of the zone's total cotton acreage. The total percentage of all the zone's acreage voting in favor of the eradication program was 34.69%

At least one year must elapse before another referendum on establishing a boll weevil eradication program can take place.

The Texas Department of Agriculture issued 797 ballots to cotton producers in the Northern Blacklands Zone who were eligible to vote in the referendum. A total of 330 valid ballots were received by the December 9 deadline and counted.

The Northern Blacklands Eradication Zone consists of approximately 70,000 acres of cotton in the following counties: Bosque, Bowie, Cass, Collin, Cooke, Dallas, Delta, Denton, Ellis, Fannin, Franklin, Grayson, Hamilton, Henderson, Hill, Hood, Hopkins, Hunt, Jack, Johnson, Kaufman, Lamar, Montague, Morris, Navarro, Parker, Rains, Red River, Rockwall, Somervell, Tarrant, Titus, Van Zandt, Wise and portions of McLennan and Limestone.

Road sign theft costing county taxpayers

Precinct One Commissioner Rufus Ward is asking for help in stopping Road Sign Theft. Ward reports that he is losing a large number of signs in the county.

"These signs must be replaced, and that money comes out of our road budget....that means that people are hurting themselves...the more money taken from that road fund, the less there is to spend on fixing the roads", Ward said.

Anyone who has information about road sign theft may call Rufus Ward at 632-4262 or the Red River County Sheriffs Department, at 427,3838.

When it rains, it pours

by Nancy Brown

When it rains, it pours is an old saying used to describe bad luck or hard times and it's been raining at my house since September. I am using this column as an apology and explanation for my absence at the Bogata Office, and during the SALE time of year!

My husband suddenly came down with back problems. He was sent by his regular physician to the Texas Back Institute in Plano where every appointment has been on Tuesday since it is the only day his doctors are there. So my balancing act began. Get everything done on Monday and Tuesday afternoon sometimes. Leaving for Plano at 3:00 a.m., visiting the doctor and flying back home and to work has taken its toll. I'm tired, behind and folks are very aggravated at me.

To add a little more rain, my daughter, who is a nurse, hurt her back and was down for 3 weeks which added to my load. Trying to help her with her 3 year old son who is all boy (in other words a handful) has been a job.

To add to the now flood I'm already under, I caught the "crud". Coughing my head off, not getting enough sleep at night (nor did anyone else in my home due to my hacking). I visited the doctor and had 2 shots but got little relief. My voice was so bad last week, people I called thought they were getting an obscene phone call!

Over this past weekend my voice did not improve and I was sure I'd broken a rib (I did last year coughing so hard). So back to the doctor I went on Monday morning for an EARLY appointment. Yeah Right! I made it to Bogata between 12:30 and 1:00 p.m. after stopping at the schools. My diagnosis, Pneumonia, come back Tuesday for another shot on my lunch hour. Again, yeah right. It was nearly 1:00 when I got back.

So now you know I have not been just goofing off. Thank you for your patience and please accept my apology if my absence has caused an inconvenience for you. But it's been pouring at my house.

The office will be open on Monday, Dec. 23 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and on Tuesday, Christmas Eve, from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. to give you a chance to call or stop by for your renewals. The office hours will be the same New Year's week. Remember, we will not publish either week because of the holiday schedule. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Canned food donations are being taken by the coaches and players or they will be glad to come by and pick up any donation you would like to make. Everyone is

We were happy kids!!

I was raised during the Depression and times were hard and money scarce.

There were nine children in my family. We all had to work picking cotton to help our parents make a living.

After all the cotton had been picked, we then pulled boles and that is where we made enough money to have Christmas so we worked extra hard at that time.

We didn't have decorations for our tree like we do today. We made our decorations by stringing popcorn and holly berries.

We also gatered sycamore balls and covered them with the paper we would get off candy and gum of different colors. We would take notebook paper and color it with crayons then cut it on the lines and make a chain by gluing the ends together with a paste made of flour and water because we never had real glue.

My brothers always got a cap pistol with one box of caps and a little car or truck.

The girls always got this little doll about 3 inches tall and wrapped in a blue or pink blanket. They were dolls that had no moving arms, legs or eyes. Once I got too big to get a doll, we girls got a big doll. Mama always cooked a lot of pies and cakes.

We always hung our stockings and they were filled with fruit, candy and nuts. We munched on our stocking stuff all day.

Then we would go to my Mother's parents for a big dinner where everyone gathered. We didn't get big gifts, but our family was close and there was love and we were happy.

I wish kids could be that happy today.
 Mrs. Dorothea Riddle

The black sock doll

Almost too far back for me to remember, but we were living in Red River County near a small place called Bruester. There we went to school though our mother had passed away. This was 1921.

Times were hard as our Papa was a sharecropper. So we were wondering if Santaa would visit at our house.

A neighbor by the name of Terry just a few days before Christmas brought a large box to our house. Our Grandma was with us at that time so she hid the box in our kitchen on top of the safe.

We had to wash supper dishes every night, so I badgered my brother to see what was in the box. One special thing was a doll made from a black sock. I thought that doll was ugly, my younger sister loved that doll till it wore out.

First Christmas- "MWL"

Many times we sit and remember Christmas' of the past, "and forget the first gift ever given. I remember my first Christmas, after I got married, and all those Christmas dinners. One at the mother-in-laws, one at mom and dads, one at my sisters and one at home if we could work it in.

Those first Christmas' together were special. We did not have a lot of money to spend on gifts, there were so many in our extended families. My wife was the kindest lady I've ever known. We sat down and talked about what we could do to let these people in our lives know we wanted to give them just a little something. My wife said "Why not bake Christmas cookies?" We looked at our budget, and went shopping for ingredients.

Christmas Eve we baked all day. She had bought baskets and inexpensive trays to make them appealing to the eye, but her cookies were the best I have ever had, because they were "MWL", Made With Love.

My Dad loved cookies but he loved brownies more. She cooked him some brownies, Duncan Hines, with a pecan half on each brownie. The custom was to draw names, and exchange gifts. We all wanted Dad's because he was the easiest to shop for. New coveralls, gloves, warm cap or socks. Just simple gifts, but the gift from us he liked the best was the brownies.

Years went by, both our salaries went up and we finally were making some money. So one Christmas we decided to go all out, and buy everyone gifts. I honestly don't remember what I got Dad that year, but I do remember what he said after all the presents had been opened. "Where's my brownies, you know I love those from you two the best?" My heart dropped, this man loved the brownies more than our expensive gift. We had driven to Dallas or Plano, who knows where, to find his gifts, and all he wanted was our brownies, "MWL", made with love. Isn't that how Christmas is for some of us, that we are out running to the mall looking for this gift for Dad or Mom. That special toy for a son or daughter, forgetting the first gift of Christmas, and why He gave this gift to us.

The greatest gift God made with love, his son Jesus "MWL". A simply couple, Mary and Joseph, he did not chose a king or queen, a president or first lady. A virgin named Mary, and Joseph, a carpenter. The first gift his son, who would give his gift by dying on the cross for us so we may have eternal life with him, and his Father.

I don't know about you, but I think I'll go make some brownies, Duncan Hines, with a pecan half on top.

The Redbird is still singing...

I just heard the most beautiful Christmas story of our day and time. It is the story of "Reed" (Margaret) Wood! How she touched people's lives here! The story continued through the approximately fourteen years she spent in a nursing home. Through these last years, "Reed" kept a constant flow of letters to friends in four states, which held her beautiful writing skills. For those who received these, they will also cherish them now.

Her many "friends" touched her back in the same way, but included care packages and presents! She never felt alone! The loving caring spirit of "her friends" was with her all the way to her journey home to Jesus.

Not being able to attend the funeral service of "Reed" Wood did not hamper people talking about this beautiful service. My heart was warmed. I could not help but be encouraged. I even shed some tears at the thought of losing such a tremendous Christian soldier as she was. The words of Dr. Ralph Brown, Rev. Lee Everett (who wished he had of known this lady), family and friends resounded like a "mighty revival" in my soul. What a testimony of God's love! This is the best "revival" I've experienced in a long time.

Yes, she "came for her last visit home" and we know she is now with Jesus totally healed and cared for in every tender way imaginable. This "service" was truly a "Celebration of Her Life". It was said to me of the example of how she lived. "When we are born, we cry and the world rejoices! We should live our lives in such a way that when we die we rejoice and the world cries." (Awesome)

For the two the dedication was made for--the redbird is still singing "a song of peace".....

CHRISTMAS

A Christmas I remember

This happened when I was about four years of age. We were poor as so many people were back then.

I had a new baby brother and he was sick. Although my Dad had a job, it was hard to make ends meet, especially with sickness in the family.

He told us kids that Santa Claus could not visit us that Christmas. If my Daddy said it, then that was the way it was with no questions asked. We kids knew that he had a reason for this so we, though disappointed, accepted it.

On Christmas morning, he came in our room and awoke us to come have breakfast. When the four of us went to the dining room, we saw places set with each of our names on a bowl which was filled with candy, fruit and nuts.

Since we did not expect anything, and since we did not even have these luxuries often, we were very happy and considered that we had had Christmas after all.

I remember looking at the smile on my Dad's face and sensing the love and concern he had for each of us.

I think, even after these many years, that I never felt my love for him any more strongly in my entire life than I did that Christmas morning.

Honorable Mention Christmas Memories 2002

The two-sided Christmas gift

This memory came in too late for the judging, but we thought it was worth printing in the paper. I didn't know at the time that this was going to be my best Christmas ever, but it has a very special meaning to me. We found out in November 1997 that my grandpa, Rufus, had cancer. Christmas was his favorite time of the year because he loved children. Rufus has a heart as big as Texas and loved to play jokes on people. Even though he was sick, he kept his spirits up. When you looked at Rufus, you thought of Santa Claus. About two weeks before Christmas, Rufus would load us up and take us looking at Christmas lights. he always sang "Rufus the Red Nosed Ballplayer" to us while we were riding and looking at the lights. He always seemed to make us laugh at whatever he did. He always thought laughter was the best medicine. He was just that kind of person. I remember Rufus bought me this present and I was so excited about it. He kept telling me that it was very special and how I would love it. He had it wrapped with my Granny's present and he kept saying that we both would have to race to see who would get to it first. Finally, it was Christmas day and we were headed to my Granny's house to open gifts. The whole time he was still nagging me about the gifts. How I couldn't want to open it. Then, it was time! We opened gifts and the last one left was the special one. My Granny and I raced to see who could get it first and we both got it at the same time. We didn't know that the gift had two sides so I opened one side and she opened the other. The side I opened was what I'd wanted for a long time which was a beautiful goat cover that had my name embroidered on it. The other side that my Granny opened was a pretty black leather jacket. So as you can see, Rufus was the most loving, friendly and kind Grandpa that a kid could ever have. Christmas had a very special meaning that year because this was the last Christmas we had with Rufus because he passed away last December.

We still had a wonderful Christmas!

This happened to me when I was a small child, not yet in school. We lived around the "old town Loop" in Cunningham. I don't think the loop is still open, but it may be.
 Just before Christmas our house burned to the ground. We were fortunate to get out before we burned. Uncle John Temple, Uncle Max Temple, Uncle Ira Temple and many families in Cunningham supplied us with clothes. But the most important thing to us was that we had a beautiful Christmas and plenty of toys.
 We also had food provided and not only for our relatives but the entire community of Cunningham.
 I shall never forget that Christmas!

Don't Shiver, We Deliver!

It was December 20, 1952. The weather was cold, and the first snow had fallen. I was excited because Mutti (mother) and I were going to take the train to go to Omi's (grandma's) house for Christmas. Omi lived in Merseburg, normally about a 6 hour train ride away, but because we had to cross the border into East Germany, it would take us about 10 hours to get there.

We left the little town of Rotenburg an der Fulda at 5 PM. Our first stop was Bebra where we had to change trains to get on the train that came from Frankfurt and went to Berlin. The train was already full of holiday travelers, and the only place we found was in the gangway, where we had to sit on the suitcase.

I remember I was already very tired, but a six year old boy does not have to have a bed to sleep in. I knew I would be asleep very soon. But people kept going back and forth, keeping me awake. After what seemed to be like days, we finally got to the border, where everybody had to leave the train.

Crossing the border from West Germany into Communist East Germany was very hard at this time. Every suitcase was searched. Each person had to declare how much money he or she was bringing into the east. The West German Mark was much more valuable than the East German Mark. Travelers from the West had to declare how much money in West Marks they were taking into the East, and on their return from the East they had to have the same amount with them. West Marks were not permitted to be used in the East. Travelers were required to exchange their West Marks for East Marks at the border at a rate of 1 to 1 to be used for their purchases while in East Germany. However, the exchange rate for East Marks in West Germany was one West Mark for 10 East Marks. So travelers from the West tried to find ways to smuggle East Marks that they had gotten prior to reaching the border at the more favorable rate into East Germany. The penalty for being caught smuggling money into the East was prison, but that didn't deter Germans from trying to sneak money in that they had gotten at the better rate--10 to 1 rather than 1 to 1.

As a six year old, I was completely unaware of political ideologies or currency exchange rates. When we got back on the train, we finally had a bench to sit on and I was able to go to sleep. After about 2 hours, we had to change trains again. We had to wait for about 1 hour to get on the next train. I was hungry and asked Mutti to get me something to eat. She said she had no money, but I was smarter than that. I had watched her before we left home when she put the money in a tube of toothpaste so the border patrol could not find it. I told her so, but she nervously told me to be quiet because there were police and Russian soldiers in the train station who might overhear what I was saying. That would mean big trouble for Mutti. It could lead to her being arrested. So I had to be quiet with my growling stomach. Our train finally came, we found seats, and after a couple of hours we were in Merseburg. My aunts and my Omi picked us up from the station. It was already daylight and I was very happy to be with my aunts and Omi.

The next days went by very slowly because I was waiting for Christmas. The weather was nice and I played with other kids in the snow and we had fun. Finally, Christmas Eve was here. In Germany, east or west, the tradition is that the tree is put up on Christmas Eve, not a month before. We kids did not see the tree being put up. All afternoon we could not go into the living room; the door was always locked. The time did not pass. Every five minutes I asked, "Is it time yet?"

"No, you will hear the bells when the Christkindle comes, so wait."

That was very hard for a little boy. First, we all had to sit down in the kitchen and have supper. Really, tell me who is hungry when there are presents to be opened and a Christmas tree to look at. But Omi always made such good food, that even if you were not hungry, you would sit down and eat. We had potato salad, sausage, and bread. That was a good meal.

My Best Memory of Christmas

This Christmas I had no shoes. I had good warm winter clothes, but no shoes. There was an Aunt Vera in the family that had been left a widow. Aunt Vera was spending the night, so when I hung my cotton stockings up on the fireplace shelf, so did Aunt Vera. she said, "I'm an orphan, maybe Santa will put something in them."

Mama had raised a big crop of purple onions and Aunt Vera loved onions, any and every way they could be fixed.

Next morning, I had a brand new pair of shoes and a baby doll. It was my first bought doll, but nothing was so important as my new shoes.

Aunt Vera was so thrilled about her onions, she poured them out into a big paper bag and took them home with her. Mama thought she would take a few onions and leave the rest, but Mama didn't have enough onions left to last the winter.

A grandparent on Daddy's side of the family made me a stool for Christmas. I was so happy. Now I could sit on my own stool, hold my bought baby doll and enjoy my new shoes.

Kids now think they have to have a pair of shoes at least once a month.

My Christmas was in the hills surrounding Liberty, Tennessee and I was only four years of age.

Annie Franklin

The Christmas that stands out most in my memory is the Christmas of 1922.

Finally, the time had come. I heard the bell ringing. As fast as my little feet would carry me, I wanted to storm into the living room, but Omi held me back and told me to slow down. When I got into the room, my eyes went big and I could not close my mouth. There was the Christmas tree with all its beauty and lights. The light of the candles (yes, they used real candles on the tree) were so bright that the whole room was lit up. Under the tree were a lot of boxes all wrapped up in Christmas paper with bows and ribbons around them.

I wanted to tear into them right away, but again Omi stopped me and I was told we first had to sing some Christmas songs. I remember very well I always sang the last word of each line. When the singing was done, the big moment finally arrived. It was time to open the presents. I did get a lot, but only one present really sticks in my memory. I got my first electric train. It was a big box and I could hardly wait to open it and set up my first train. But setting it up was not that easy. My uncles were there to help me. They took all the pieces out of the box, laid them out on the floor, and put them together. Then they set the engine and the cars on the track. Then they played with it (while I was forced to watch) until it was time to go to the Christmas Eve Service. My Grandma always went to this Service, even though she had to walk about 5 miles to church. The Service started at 12:00 AM, and lasted for an hour.

The next day we had roasted goose, potato dumplings, and red cabbage for our Christmas dinner, but before dinner all the men of the family went out for Frueh Schoppen (a German tradition to get the men out of the house so the women can prepare the feast). When we returned, dinner was ready, and we all sat down to eat. That Christmas is one of my most memorable, since most Christmases we were unable to be in East Germany with Omi and my aunts and uncles.

To all I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Hospital begins clean-up phase

CHRISTUS St. Joseph's Medical Center, South, has begun an effort to spruce up its patients rooms, a project that includes re-texturing and repainting walls and replacing baseboards and missing shower tiles as needed.
Doors and door facings in the halls are also getting a touchup.
Tom Brunette, director of facilities, said patient rooms on the third and fourth floors are receiving priority treatment, but that all patient rooms will eventually be redone. "We're just going to chisel away at it," Brunette said, explaining that only a few rooms will be done at a time and as they become available. Members of the CHRISTUS St. Joseph's facilities staff will do most of the work, he added, as a cost saving measure.
Patient rooms on the fifth floor were redone last year.

New certification programs at PJC

Applications for the two new medical certification programs at Paris Junior College will be accepted in February.

Meanwhile, Sheila Jones, Coordinator of Surgical Scrub Technologies and the Medical Coding Program, said there are some courses being offered at PJC this spring that will apply to the certification of these programs.

The two new programs were created through partnership with CHRISTUS St. Joseph's Health System. The medical coding program can be completed in a 12-month time frame, while the certified surgical technologist program will take 10 months for completion. "Although applications for the two program won't be taken until February, prospective students can enroll this spring in some courses that will help them in either specialty," Jones said.

She recommends that persons interested in either of the programs contact the PJC Health Occupations office at 903-782-0734 prior to spring registration Jan. 8, or visit the Health Occupations advisory table during registration.

"We can help them prepare for the programs and advise them for the February application procedure," she said.
