I only thought it ended
Okay, I only thought it was over. I swear since my column last week I have received enough congratulations over our bear sightings than I ever did for anything else!

I have heard tales of bears sticking their noses down into glasses of milk, climbing into pop up camper trailers, yanking open garage doors and breaking into freezers.

I have heard about cinnamon colored bears, grizzly bears and black bears of every size, every age.

Proudly, I may say that most people DO say they have no photos to compare with ours.

At any rate, we have loved each and every story about the bears. The saga of bear search has been lots and lots of fun.

Now, on to things a tad more serious.

I need to explain something about how photographs or articles appear in these papers.

We take lots and lots of pictures and accept many stories. We must budget our space. If there isn't enough advertising for a twelve page paper...we must have a ten page paper. It's a simple matter of economics. This limits the number of stories and photographs we can run in one week.

Especially, right now when there are SO many events going on, we sometimes have to hold a photo or article (if it is not time-sensitive) for a week or two. We promise, if the photo came out we WILL get it into the paper sooner or later.

Which leads me to "coming out". Sometimes a photograph just isn't any good. Occasionally we have someone in the photo bent over or laughing and it wouldn't endear us to them if we did run the photo.

Occasionally, we have lost an item, or on rare occasions we have not received an item. If you don't see your story appearing, please don't hesitate to call.

And now, to the last item on this subject. Who decides what photo runs and when? I do. No one else.

It isn't Liz Irwin, it isn't Nancy Brown. It isn't Cindy; or my husband, or Mike or anyone else in the organization. I do. If it's wrong I must take the blame. One thing I can assure you...I have never, nor will I ever, be "personal" about that selection. I don't care who someone is, who their parents are, or anything else. I can honestly say that I have not used these papers as a weapon, to get even, or to irritate anyone.

So, if you need to talk to me, call me at the office at 652-4205, or even at home at 652-5823. I'll listen, I promise.

Hand made thank you cards delight volunteers

Sometimes it is amazing the joy that children can bring. The Deport Junior High art classes have sent out thank you notes, hand made and worded, to the Deport, Pattonville and Cunningham Volunteer Fire Departments. These notes have meant more than the students can ever know.

Some of them simply say "Thank You".

Others say things like "I just wanted to thank you for being watchful for bad weather, fires and for being a good person".

"If I was a fireman I would say 'pay me' but y'all don't get payed, y'all just do a very good job, so thanks again".

During last Friday's storm my teacher said she was listening on the scanner and heard somebody call somebody else and said "your house was struck by lightning. I thought you were superb."

"I remember sometimes when that big storm came. I was scared, but then I felt better after my mom told me you were watching the weather for us. I would like to thank you, once again. You've made a big difference".

These cards are decorated with some good art work, from pictures of the World Trade Center to the Star of Life, many have fire trucks, or firemen drawn on them. The American flag is rendered in careful detail. Hearts, stars and many other beautiful symbols of their love and trust totally captivated the volunteers who looked at them time and again.

It is doubtful that the children who spent so much time carefully creating these cards will ever know how much these cards meant to those who received them.

THRILLED-members of the Deport Volunteer Fire Department look over hand made Thank You cards from the Deport Seventh Grade Art Students. The students at Deport Junior High have sent the cards to the Deport, Pattonville and Cunningham Fire Departments to express their appreciation for all the fire, medical and storm watch work they do. Aurora borealis seen this week

For those who may have noticed the eerie red glow in the northern sky Monday night, it wasn't the end of the world (obviously).

The aurora borealis, or northern lights, were visible because of a large solar flare on Sunday. They are not often seen this far south, and appeared as a band of pulsating red light just above the horizon.

Eighth grade scores big

The Prairiland 8th graders defeated the DeKalb boys with a score of 42 to 6.

The boys played exceptionally well with three boys literally stripping the ball from the Bears. These boys were Cody Flatt, Jay Curt McKee, and Dusty Cheney. Landon Woodall got a quarterback sack and the whole defense was awesome. Several boys carried the ball with Cody Upchurch and Josh Allen leading the pack. I apologize for not having more details. You just should have been there to see these young Patriots play.

This past Thursday, the Patriots put Chisum away with Cody Flatt sacking the Quarterback the first play of the game. The offense didn't get to play as much this week because they scored so quickly when they took possession. Cole White, Darren Lane, and Cody Upchurch scored in the first half. upchurch and Cody Withers continued to score in the Second half raising the score to 34 to 0.

Chisum fumbles were recovered by Justin Wright, Lucas Morgan, Jay Curt McKee and Josh Dooling. Tackles were made by Withers, Upchurch, Flatt, Wright, Morgan, and Cheney. After the #1 defense was benched in the 1st quarter, the Mustangs finally scored in the last quarter of play making the final score 34 to 8.

These young Patriots final game of the season will be this Thursday at Hughes Springs.

Bank Repossessed & Other Used Cars to be Sold to the Public

Sulphur Springs Dealership Disposing of 75 Bank Repos & Other Used Vehicles for Only $59 Down Payment then Take Delivery, With Qualified Credit*

SULPHUR SPRINGS, TX - Bank Repossessed cars and trucks are among the most hunted-for bargains in the automotive industry. Unfortunately for John Q. Public, they're also the hardest to come by.

Banks often unload repossessed vehicles to car dealers at rock-bottom prices - allowing dealers to re-sell them for retail value. But bargain-seekers can take heart: This week, Gober Merrell Auto Group is going to change that.

This Wednesday, October 3rd through Saturday, October 6th, Gober Merrell Auto Group will offer 75 bank repossessed, fleet, lease return and other used vehicles direct to the public, and pass the savings on to their customers.

"These vehicles have been acquired at incredible savings from auctions and other sources, including bank repos, lease returns and other used vehicles," Terry Blount of Gober Merrell Auto Group said. "Management has been instructed to eliminate this inventory immediately. And if that means selling these vehicles for just a $59 down payment* and take delivery, then that's what we'll do."

With qualified credit, every bank repossessed and other owned vehicle will be available

"This is the opportunity Texas bargain hunters have been waiting for! Customers may never see savings like this again."

TERRY BLOUNT, GOBER MERRELL AUTO GROUP

for just a $59 down payment then take delivery.* "It's that simple," said Mr. Blount. "To make these bargains even easier, we'll mark the payments right on the windshield. You won't find a faster, easier way to get a great deal on a pre-owned vehicle."

Almost every type of vehicle and price range will be available, from luxury 4x4s to basic transportation. Many are still under warranty. "With our pre-owned inventory near an all-time high, chances are we have what you're looking for in stock and ready to drive home," Mr. Blount added.

Gober Merrell Auto Group will be fully staffed with sales and finance professionals to provide customers prompt, quality service and the bank's best finance terms possible. Mr. Blount said, "We'll have over $4 million in financing available for this event, so its possible we can arrange financing for just about anyone who is employed, regardless of past credit history."

Trade-ins will be accepted, and customers are encouraged to bring their title or payment book to expedite delivery.

"The opportunity Texas bargain-hunters have been waiting for happens this Wednesday through Saturday at Gober Merrell Auto Group. With qualified credit, every bank repo and other used vehicle is available for a $59 down payment then take delivery.* Customers may never see savings like this again," said Mr. Blount.

After the $59 SuperSale ends at 6:00 p.m. on Saturday, October 6th, many of these vehicles will be sent to auction. Any questions can be directed to 1-800-JOE-MACK. Gober Merrell Auto Group is located at 1230 S. Broadway in Sulphur Springs.

Limit two vehicles per household. *All offers with approved credit. Additional Down payment may be required for credit approval. See dealer for details. Example: 1992 Honda Civic, Sale Price $3174, $39/mo for 48 mos. @ 10.0% APR, $59 down plus tax. Total amount financed $3115 plus tax. Total of payments $3,792 plus tax. What Is A Patriot? Veteran's Day

November 11 is Veteran's Day. The Stars and Stripes will wave from buildings and in front yards, definitely including mine. It seems to me a good time to think about our ideas of patriotism.

In my opinion, there's a lot more to patriotism than showing the flag, repeating the pledge of allegiance, honoring our heroes, and enjoying parades and holiday fireworks. These are worthy things to do, and we are expressing our patriotism when we do them. Let us proudly wave Old Glory, but without forgetting that for some of us "flag waving" may be an empty gesture.

Patriots, like other worthy people, are finally being judged by what they do, not just what they say. Here are some of the things that appeal to me as examples of patriotism in action.

Patriots demonstrate their loyalty to the American constitution by obeying the law, even when they disagree with it or find it burdensome. They answer any call to the colors, pay their taxes without cheating, and respect the rights of other citizens, whether they like them or not. (I promise that some day I'll become patriotic enough never to hurry through yellow lights at intersections!)

Patriots do their civic duties, even those duties that are not required by law and are sometimes regarded as mere privileges. We are privileged to take part in the political process that is our constitution at work, and in my book we are not being truly patriotic if we fail to do so. Not to vote in local, state and national elections is legal, but not very patriotic. I think real patriots register to vote, even when doing so exposes them to the risk that they will be called upon to support--patriotically--the American system of justice by serving on juries.

Patriots remember that "the government" is made up of citizens like ourselves, led by people we voted into office and can vote out. Our democracy is one of the attractions that has led millions of people to come here and take part in making ours the most powerful and imitated nation on earth. They remember that, for all its faults, our government is widely regarded as the best that has yet been tried, and that our constitution allows us to make it ever better.

Patriots are aware that, despite ups and downs and the warts that clearly remain, our system of government has never been more honest or more democratic than in the present generation. In a democratic society like ours, we can regret particular changes, but in my opinion we demonstrate our ignorance of history if we claim that it was better overall in "the good old days."

Patriots know that it is our government which has created and enforced the freedoms our heroes have risked and sometimes given their lives to preserve. It is our government whose laws and regulations, however much they cramp our style, have preserved the free enterprise system that has made us the richest society in history.

Patriots realize that while "the market" has given us more and better goods and services than anyone else has enjoyed, it does not provide education, health services and protection of the environment, nor assure basic human rights for us all, including the weakest and least provident of us.

And patriots keep in mind that to trash our government or to demonize those who differ from us and disagree with us is not patriotic behavior. If I am to call myself a patriot, I must accept the possibility that those who lack the good sense to agree with me today may in the end prove right. I must accept the fact that all of us are patriots who try to make our nation--our economy and our government--even better.

---John M. Howison

When I read this story on "What Is A Patriot" I didn't know who wrote it. but, after reading it, there just wasn't a better thing to use on our cover of this very special edition. When I came to the author's name, I was not surprised to find it was our good friend, John M. Howison. Howison is a Purple Heart Winner (he may kill me when he reads this), a World War II Veteran who was shot down, taken prisoner by the Germans, and subsequently has gone on to achieve many interesting and successful things in his life.

Interestingly, while working on the Veterans Edition we received an e-mail from him, from Bratislava, Slovak Republic. He and his family were re-visiting the site where he was shot down and taken prisoner. We haven't had a chance to hear about it since his return, but are looking forward to it!

Dorothy Smith Rogers recalls days in Navy and since

By Nanalee Nichols

Dorothy Louis Smith was nineteen when she enlisted in the U.S. Navy Waves on November 12 of 1943. When asked why she did so she replies with a determined, dedicated gleam in her eye "because I really, really wanted to serve my country". She continues "the service was really good for me. In fact, I think everyone should be in the service. Not during war time necessarily, but for the discipline."

Dorothy is the only female member of the Deport American Legion Post, and is the District One Head of the Finance Committee.

Just out of high school she took some nurses training, but it was many years later before she completed that training.

Although she went into cooks and bakers school and boot camp, when she came out of boot camp they put her in ships service in Washington D.C.

"The boys would come back from overseas, they were so homesick, and often just sick", Dorothy says.

"They would break your hearts, those missing arms or legs. They all wanted ice cream, they were just starved for it" she recalls. She also recalls that for those boys if they wanted four dips of ice cream, four dips was what they got.

"We were in charge of ice cream, candy, cigarettes, planning dances and all kinds of things" she remember.

Dorothy says that when she left the service in November of 1945 she would have remained if she hadn't been so homesick.

She was born in Post, Texas, and admits Washington D.C. was a big change for a country girl!

She was in times Square on VE day, on leave, and says it was the most exciting day of her life.

"Policemen would grab us up and hug us, because we were in the service" she says, "it was just amazing".

She says there was no problem being a woman in the service back then. She recalls one officer that wasn't very gung ho about us girls, but everyone else was great".

Right after she enlisted Bill Stamps was at the base and taught people to sight read music. Her first Christmas she was part of a choir singing carols, as thousands sang along with the tears streaming down their faces.

"We never went out on dates alone, it was always a double or triple date" Dorothy smiles. "There were three of us that finished boot together. Two of us could be sent to Hawaii or all three of us to Washington, so we all went to D.C."

In Washington they would often see the First Lady.

"Mrs. Roosevelt would look at you and smile and it was just so warm, so special. Every morning that we saw her she would tell us 'good morning girls' and we would dip our heads" Dorothy remembers.

She remembers that she was apprehensive about Washington D.C. being bombed, because there really wasn't anywhere to go.

Dorothy married Jack Rogers December 6th in 1946, and they moved into this area in 1953.

She had a beauty shop in Blossom for 17 years, then finished nursing school.

"Nursing was the best thing I ever did, the most rewarding" she says.

Dorothy still works, and volunteers, and credits staying busy with helping her through the loss of her husband.

On Saturday she can be found at the Bonham VA hospital.

She sits with hospice patients, holding their hands, talking with them and generally being there for them.

"I love them and they love me" she smiles. "I don't think I would have been so readily accepted if I hadn't been a veteran, though".

Dorothy Louis Smith Rogers is a busy, attractive woman, who takes great pride in her service to her country...as she should. Looking into her smiling, good natured and empathic face, it's easy to see why a young veteran would see her as an angel with ice cream...or a dying veteran today would see her as an angel of companionship.

Swing and Sway with Sammy Kay (1946)

By Jack Dodd

This is a true short story about a Red River County boy in Philadelphia just after WWII.

The heavy cruiser, the USS Minneapolis, was my home for nearly two years in 1944 and 1945. The USS Minneapolis was in every major Pacific campaign during WWII, thank goodness the majority of them before I came aboard. We had just left the Philippines and were on the way to the China Sea when the USS Indianapolis, our sister ship, was sunk. Only two hundred and seventy-five men survived out of over 1,100 on board. She had delivered the two atom bombs that were exploded over two Japanese cities. A few days after the sinking of the USS Indianapolis and the bombs, the war ended. We were in the China Sea by that time.

After the surrender we went up the China coast accepting the Japanese surrenders. After about three months of mine sweeping we loaded 1,100 Marines of the 1st Division aboard our ship and headed for the States. Many of these Marines had not been home for three years or so, they were what we called "Asiatic." During this sixteen day trip home these Marines held competitions to see how many sailors each Marine could whip up on. Marines were everywhere. Sooner or later you got knocked around, most of the time for nothing. So for sixteen days from China to California the contest was on.

After a weekend in California and a trip to Texarkana to see my family we went through the Panama Canal and up the East Coast to Philadelphia. We were to decommission and mothball our ship. The Minnie was not too old, commissioned in 1932. After we mothballed the Minnie a bunch of us went over to the San Francisco, also a heavy cruiser. So here I was in Philadelphia for about six months until discharge. There were lots of night liberties and only $52. a month. That is how I got to Philly and why.

My mother came from Avery, Texas went to North Texas Normal School in Denton and came to Rosalie to teach school. Immediately she met Henry Dodd, the forty year old bachelor with a mother, a brother and eight sisters with him acting as head of household. Mother had grown up with a young man in Avery named Billy Williams. Mr. Williams sang in the Methodist choir and developed into a great singer for the big band era. After working with bands in California and New York, he settled with Sammy Kay and his orchestra. Mother told me during the Christmas Holidays that if I ever saw Sammy Kay to go see Billy Williams. Well, sure enough in Philadelphia they would have a movie then the band and then some acts would perform, then another movie and so on. I remember seeing Bo Jangles Robinson there on stage dancing, was he ever good. I noticed on liberty that Sammy Kay was playing the Astor. It took all I could muster up to go to the stage door and ask for Mr. Billy Williams. The guard at the door says, "Come in sailor," but Mr. Williams was not there yet since it was about thirty minutes until show time for the band. Mr. Kay saw me standing around and asked if I played gin. I said sure but not for money. Mr. Kay and I had about a twenty minute gin game.

Playing gin with Mr. Kay was fun, but I noticed something about the men as they came in. They all had on T-shirts, then they put on shirt cuffs, just the cuffs and then a bib with a bow tie. Then when they put on their coats they looked fully dressed up. Country boy learning new tricks. Now I had never met Mr. Williams so I did not know him from the others. Finally Mr. Kay said to get Billy down here, he has a visitor. This very nice looking man from Avery came up. I introduced myself and told him I was the oldest son of Birt and Henry Dodd of Rosalie. He stuck out his hand and said, "I've visited there at your farm twice." After pleasantries about my parents he told me to stick around and we would go eat together after the show.

I was going to listen to the band from backstage but Mr. Kay came over and told me to sit out front and hold my hand up when he asked for volunteers to lead the orchestra. He also told me the left hand was for the orchestra to play loud. The right hand was for the beat of the band. Mr. Kay told me to hold the left hand high because the audience likes loud music and move the right hand fast for a fast beat. Sure enough about halfway through the band playing and Mr. Williams singing, Mr. Kay asked for volunteers to lead the band. Three service men were chosen, including me. I did as Mr. Kay had instructed me. After the three of us led the band, Mr. Kay held his hand over each one's head for the audiences' choice. I won the prize, a $25. was bond-wonder what ever happened to that bond! After the band finished performing, I went to the backstage area to meet Mr. Williams. We went across the street and ate in a bar that served Italian sausage. That night in 1946 I saw my first pizza. Mr. Williams was easy to talk to, and after about an hour he had to go back. Just a few short minutes with a fellow Red River County friend of the family, but what an experience for a sailor that was ready to go home to see what the future held. Like someone once told me, if I had known I was going to live this long, I would have taken better care of myself.

When we retired here in 1988, I met an old timer from Avery, and I asked about Billy Williams. She said sure she knows him, and the last time she heard he was in nursing home in Marshall. Thank you, Mr. Williams. I have tried to be a friend to a young person in my day for your kindness toward me that evening in Philadelphia.

Sometimes I think some of us want to go back to those paradise days. Those days just after WWII and have a soda at the Devaney or Red Peyton Drugstore. We don't want to hear today about drugs, communism, Washington D.C. interns, etc. However, the soda fountain is long gone. Paradise wasn't self sufficient after all, and I believe the attitude and belief that it ever was is part of the reason it's gone.

God Bless.

From OKC to Blossom in a P-40

The following occurrence was related to me by my brother, John Robert Rodgers, some years after the war and is a part of his account of his experiences during WWII. John Robert is the son of the late Madge Carter Rodgers of Blossom and is a brother to Joe Rodgers of Blossom. He was in a replacement training unit at Will Rogers Field near Oklahoma City and was getting familiarization training in a P-40 "War Hawk" fighter aircraft. His story is as follows:

"At Will Rogers, our local flying area extended for two hundred miles around the airfield. Paris was two hundred and five miles away and I was determined to fly down there one day. That day was not long in coming. Several days later I reported to the flight line and found that I was scheduled for a familiarization flight; that is, no specific mission to accomplish, just fly the airplane and get to know it better. I taxied out to the end of the runway and began the run-up procedure. On the magneto check, there was an excessive RPM drop so I had no choice but to return to the flight line and write up the aircraft for the discrepancy. After a wait of several hours while the spark plugs were changed, my P-40 was again released as being fit for flight.

After take-off, I headed south and about 45 minutes later arrived over Paris. After circling the town several times, I then flew to Blossom where I proceeded to buzz the place with all the enthusiasm in me. My pattern began at Uncle Robert's house (Robert Hill, who lived at the north end of N. Center St.) on the north edge of town, down the road, across the tracks, dodging the water tower and then a pull-up over Aunt Louise's house (Louise Clark, then postmaster at Blossom) on the south side of town. The pull-up was an abrupt steep climb with a wingover at the apex and reverse direction back to Uncle Robert's house. This was repeated four to five times, each time at tree top level. On finishing, I made a beeline back to Will Rogers Field and never even hinted of my escapade to anyone. I got the reaction to my stunt in the next mail. I think that Jane (Jane Rodgers Lyday, sister to John Robert) was down to Blossom at the time and she and Rachel Clark (Rachel Clark Braswell) witnessed the whole thing. It seemed that about half the town was mad as hell and the other half thought it was a good show. Luckily for me, those who were mad never guessed who it was and those who did guess liked the show and kept quiet about it. Cox Field at Reno was under construction at the time and sent some Army personnel house-to-house trying to find someone who may have noted my aircraft number. I sweated it out for the next two or three weeks." Note: Inserts in parenthesis are mine and are used to identify local residents of Blossom at that time. JNR

John Robert subsequently shipped out to the North African campaign and was shot down while making strafing runs on truck columns in a P-51 "Mustang". He was able to bail out of his airplane in a German prisoner of war camp. He later told me that one of the Germans who captured him at rifle point said "For you, the war is over", and it was. After John Robert's release from prison camp, he remained on active duty and retired from the Air force.

Military service is all in the family

James Edward Latimer

James Edward Latimer was drafted toward the end of World War II and served in the United States Army from December 1944 through November 1946. He was born the son of Hiram Alexander and Addie Lee Chandler Latimer on January 24, 1923 in the Mosley community, which has since been "gone with the wind" between Fulbright and Detroit.

During his tour of duty in the Army, James traveled to Ft. Meade, Maryland, Seattle, Washington and Tokyo, Japan. He served as honor guard to General Douglas MacArthur while in Tokyo. At the end of World War II, James was chosen to march in the ticker tape parade in New York City in August 1945.

James is not the only one in his family to come to the aid of his country. His grandfather, Josiah Marion Chandler, served in the Civil War with the Rebel forces before moving to Texas. James' great-great-grandfather and Joel Chandler, his great-great-grandfather, both served in the American Revolution. George Nolan Chandler, James' cousin, served in World War II and died on the Rhine River Bridge in Germany and is buried in Holland with other American soldiers. James' uncles, Jess Andrew Chandler and John Franklin Chandler, also served in the military.

I'm coming home to you..

My father, Chris Beaton, served in the Army Air Corps during WWI from 1942-46. He was 17 years old from the rural community of Hancock, Arkansas, and left behind a bride of a few months, his father, stepmother and two young sisters.

He trained in Wichita Falls, TX and then served mostly in the Pacific Theater.

Dad rarely speaks of his experience, but when he does, it is always something positive. He tells about a good friend he made, a Navajo Indian, Scotty Begay, from New Mexico. Dad said Scotty was a really fearless boxer.

One time we were discussing really good meals we'd eaten and my Dad said the best meal he ever had eaten was corn beef and cabbage. He'd been out in the Solomon Islands on reconnoiter for over a month living on K-rations and when they returned to base camp, the meal served was corn beef and cabbage.

My brother and I would look in a closet where mom kept Daddy's uniform and it would prompt us to ask questions. My brother was small, probably seven or eight, and he asked him if he'd ever killed anyone. Daddy didn't answer. The question was never asked again.

My most poignant memory was when mom told me she learned Daddy was coming home. She was walking to the store that her father-in-law, my poppy, owned. As she got closer, he was walking toward her waving a letter. My Dad had landed in California and had sent her a telegram. When she opened it, it simply said, "I'm coming home to you."

A Soldier's Story

From the night before Christmas, he lived all alone, in a one bedroom house made of plaster and stone.

I had come down the chimney with presents to give, and to see just who in this home did live.

I looked all about, a strange sight I did see, no tinsel, no presents, not even a tree,

No stocking by mantle, just boots filed with sand, on the wall hung pictures of far distant lands.

With medals and badges, awards of all kinds, a sober thought came through my mind.

For this house was different, it was dark and dreary I found the home of a soldier, once I could see clearly.

The soldier lay sleeping, silent, alone curled up on the floor in this one bedroom home.

The face was so gentle, the room in such disorder, not how I pictured a United States soldier.

Was this the hero of whom I'd just read? Curled on on a poncho, the floor for a bed?

I realized the families that I saw this night, owed their lives to these soldiers who were willing to fight.

Soon round the world, the children would play, and grownups would celebrate a bright Christmas day.

They all enjoyed freedom each month of the year, because of the soldiers, like the one lying here.

I couldn't help wonder how many lay alone, on a cold Christmas Eve in a land far from home.

The very thought brought a tear to my eye, I dropped to my knees and started to cry.

The soldier awakened and I heard a rough voice, "Santa, don't cry, this life is my choice;

I fight for freedom, I don't ask for more, my life is my God, my country, my corps."

The soldier rolled over and drifted to sleep, I couldn't control it, I continued to weep.

I kept watch for hours, so silent and still and we both shivered from the cold night's chill.

I didn't want to leave on that cold, dark night, this guardian of honor so willing to fight.

Then the soldier rolled over, with a voice soft and pure, whispered "Carry on Santa, it's Christmas day, all is secure."

One look at my watch, and I knew he was right. "Merry Christmas my friend, and to all a good night."

This poem was written by a Marine stationed in Okinawa, Japan. The following is his request: Please, would you send this to as many people as you can? Christmas will be coming soon and some credit is due to our U.S. service men and women for our being able to celebrate these festivities. Let's try in this small way to pay a tiny bit of what we owe. Make people stop and think of our heroes, living and dead, who sacrificed themselves for us. Please, do you small part to plant this small seed.

All over the world and back home to Bogata...

Robert Lemanuel Lewis was born January 10, 1937, the oldest son of Leroy Lemanuel and Jackie Barton Lewis, in the small community of McCrury in Red river County. He joined the United States Air Force in August of 1955 after graduating Bogata high School and served through August of 1959. He completed his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base and then started a tour of the world while he served his country.

Private Lewis spent time in Greenville, South Carolina; Rhine Maine, Germany; Athens, Greece; Tuley, Greenland; Christchurch, New Zealand; the South Pole and various other countries. He picked up a couple of pieces of meteorites when he was on the frozen continent of Antarctica. He even had two Friday the 13ths when he crossed the International Date Line. While in Greece, he toured the ruins of the Parthenon and the Acropolis to mention a few. He also visited the courthouse of Athens, Greece where he saw Greek flags flying in the breeze. (This is an inside family joke.) Private Lewis also got to spend time with his Uncle Mutt and Aunt Midge Cooper while in Germany.

Robert would have re-enlisted in the Air Force and made a career in the military if it weren't the matter of a car accident that broke his back in three places and his neck in one. He is now retired from the GTE telephone company and lives in Bogata with his wife, Jan. He can be found most days mowing yards, doing a little electrical work, doing odd jobs and "honey dew jobs" to pass the time. He also takes care of the family cars and homes. When all that is finished, you might just catch him fishing or hunting. During basketball season, you will find him at the Lady Rebel basketball games on grandpa duty where he enjoys watching his granddaughter, Britany, play ball and cheer.

Robert, your wife, daughter and granddaughter, would like to salute you on Veterans Day. We are proud of all that you have accomplished and we love you very much.

Rogers meets fellow Veteran in store

James B. Rogers of Deport reports that he had an interesting experience recently.

While in a Paris store a man wearing a "cap with lots of gold braid" bumped in to him.

Rogers asked the eighty-three year old where he got all that braid and he said "I was a Marine officer and a Corsair pilot in World War II".

In astonishment Rogers said "Well, I trained you guys in safety back then...showed you how to survive if you were shot down!".

At that point the man grabbed him and hugged him and said "I never been happier to meet anyone in my life!".

The man had fought in World War II, Korea and Viet Nam before retiring.

Papa Lowry, The Transporter

This was an English assignment done recently by Jordan Ballard, son of Jack Ballard. It is written about his grandfather, James Lowry of Blossom, and represents what he thinks his granddad might have been thinking during his service to his country.

Captain Griggs stepped onto the platform of the USS Zeilan, an attack transport APA3 and looked up at the dark sky beginning to turn pink with the dawn. In the distance was the beach of Tarawa, a small island in the South Pacific. He took a deep breath and yelled, "Seaman Lowry! Front and center!"

My grandfather, Seaman First Class James W. Lowry, a 22-year old Navy man with dark brown hair and piercing brown eyes that seemed to blend with the dark tanned skin from his days on the sea, ran up the flight of stairs of the lower deck. Standing six feet, two inches tall, he stood at attention with a slightly curious look on his face and said with a slow,

Texas accent, "Seaman Lowry reporting for duty, sir!"

"Seaman Lowry, you are assigned to deploy the first U-2 boat and transport the first platoon of Marines to the island. Those Japs have dug in on that island, and we must retrieve the land," Captain Griggs barked.

"Sir, yes sir, we will depart immediately!" Seaman Lowry turned and prepared to load the carrier. Sadly, he thought of all the brave young men that he was carrying to the shore. Many of these young men, he knew, would give their lives that day for freedom.

Six tedious hours later, the end of the shore was in sight. Before the first Marine hit the ground, the bullets began flying through the air, barely missing the servicemen. As the men jumped from the boat, their cries of pain and anguish ran out as bullets struck their bodies.

As Seaman Lowry pulled away, risking his own life to transport those young men, he began thinking about them. In the few short hours he had with them, he felt a connection between himself and them. Yes, they were fighting on the same side, but these young men were full of patriotism, fighting in a war with both of them not knowing if they would live to see the next day. With a sad look on his face, he bowed his head and began to pray...

Forty years later, Papa Lowry's name was given to me as a symbol of my mother's love and admiration for this man. He was a man of deep religious beliefs, strong family bonds and undying patriotism. I am happy for the seven short years I had to get to know him, and I am proud to have his name.

One word describes it, scared!!

December 7, 1941. Where were you, me, I heard about Pearl Harbor about 11 a.m. on December 7 in Detroit. I ran all the way home to the northwest side of Detroit to tell my family. We had no phone, no electricity, no water.

December 8, at school, we were assembled in the library where there was a radio. President Roosevelt began to speak and in his speech, asked Congress to declare war upon Japan and all of the Axis powers, Germany, Italy, etc.

These dates will always be remembered as well September 11, 2001. Tragedies such as this bring these United States together. Now this is another war that we must win.

I entered the Army Air Corps February 4, 1942 at Lubbock. That day we were loaded on a bus for Ft. Sill, OK. We arrived at 1 a.m., promptly were lined up and given shots. We were issued bedding and assigned to a barracks. At about 5 a.m. the lights came on and someone was yelling, "Get up!" at the top of his lungs. This scared the daylights out of me and I believe that was a word that stayed with me, scared. We fell out and were led to the mess hall. Up to this point I had never been introduced to SOS, very enlightening, I can assure you. Being scared, I and a few others rushed our breakfast and ran back to the barracks. We were promptly put on latrine duty, this latrine was the bathroom for about 60-70 people. To make this short, we cleaned that place until 10 a.m. We were told to fall out and line up. There was a Pfc. who smoked Prince Albert in charge of us. I still was scared this guy was undoubtedly the meanest human I had ever encountered. We were led to the hospital for more shots, led to supply for uniforms, none of which fit, we did not complain, scared. At 12 we were led to the mess hall for lunch, beef stew, mashed potatoes, English peas/carrots mixed, plus dessert. We were informed to clean our trays or face the Mess Sergeant and go on KP. I had never eaten carrots, much less English peas but I did, believe me I was as scared of that Mess Sergeant as I was the Pfc. Oh, yes, I can see him, short, dumpy, mean person with stripes on his sleeve, still scared.

By 1 p.m., soon to be known as 1300, we were in these non-fitting uniforms in our barracks making our beds up. I still am convinced that my wife should make our bed in such a manner that a quarter would bounce on it. If that Pfc. could get a finger hold on my blanket, I remade the bed. This process was repeated at least a dozen times, still scared. By supertime, we were again led (marched) to the mess hall, same routine, same mean Mess Sergeant, watching to make sure you ate everything on your plate. Led back to barracks, given a short break, at around 7 p.m. (1900), we were told to shower, bathe and be prepared for lights out at 9 p.m. (2100). We were worn out to say the least so bed was a wonderful idea, about 3 a.m. the lights came on and this fellow with the huge lungs (and stripes) was bellowing fall out, fall out, breakfast in 20 minutes. We were fed breakfast, SOS again! Ordered to strip our beds, turn the bedding in to supply, get our bags and all out in front of the barracks. These bags were 2 ducking type laundry bags, a bus, Greyhound I believe, came up, we loaded our bags, were put on the bus by the mean Pfc. We were probably as glad to get rid of us as we were to get rid of him. Our trip back to Lubbock was quiet and restful. The last quiet and rest we'd have for the next six weeks. Arriving at Lubbock Army Air Base, we were met by our drill Sgt. Now this fellow put that Pfc. to shame. Loud, mean and just plain ornery had to have everything his way and I'll tell you I was still scared and I tried to do everything his way.

I also was scared of him, I again re-learned how to make a 45° corner on my bed. Inspections were anytime, our captain decided we were not exactly in line. I still remember his name, Capt. Rose, on our first standby inspection he asked me how old I was, I answered 18. The 1st Sgt. about blew my head off when he belted "Say Sir to the Capt". Scared is the word. Capt. Rose asked me how old I was every time he saw me.

These are things that are funny now and I laugh about them but truthfully I was scared. Where but the United States can a boy be taken out of the cotton patch, put in his country's uniform and taught how to work on airplanes, develop a career, travel at his employer's expense to nine different countries, including a trip through the Panama Canal, truly amazing!

by Charles Wilkinson

Jean and I spent several days getting ready and packed for our annual reunion trip. We loaded the van Tuesday, August 28 and left about 10:00 a.m. headed for Oklahoma City and the 376th Reunion 2001. We spent several evenings reviewing the roster book and the Memory Book so that we would be able to put the correct names with the right faces, knowing all the time that we wouldn't remember.

We stopped along the way for tourist information and goodies in the gift shops. We traveled 144 which is a toll road, we had prepared ourselves with change for the three or four stops. We stopped for lunch at the Cracker Barrel in Lawton and enjoyed a good meal that a large glass of cold butter-milk would have went well with.

We arrived in Oklahoma City at 4:30 p.m. after navigational problems (taking a wrong turn off 144) we made it to our hotel near 6:00 p.m. The reunion was held in the Waterford Marriott Hotel where we had a very nice suite that Jean managed to get, somehow, for the same price as the people in our group were paying for single rooms? The reunion was to start on Thursday officially, but we were to meet friends on Wednesday for early visiting, but they didn't make it until Thursday so we helped the president of our organization and his wife set things up.

Officers are elected for two year terms. The president died before the 200 reunion and the First Vice President took over. Three weeks before the 2001 reunion, he died then in February, 1964, was sent to Texas A&M to teach AF ROTC. I took over with only two week's notice. Now, I understand, before the nominating committee will consider anyone for the office of President, they have to sign a no-tarized statement saying that they will live at least two more years. The new President and his wife did a remarkable job with the short notice they had. Two of the deceased presidents' children and their spouses were of tremendous help also. And, those of us who had not helped much in the past, pitched in this year.

Following Thursday morning breakfast, some of us loaded on two buses and went to Guthrie, OK., the original capital of Oklahoma. While touring there we saw beautiful historical old homes, buildings and such. We visited the cemetery where a guy named Elmer McCurdy was buried. He had robbed a train in 1911 that was supposed to be carrying a large government payroll. However, he stopped the wrong train and got only $40 and two bottles of whiskey. The story goes, he was so despondent that he rode a few miles and got drunk and a posse caught up and shot him. He was embalmed with arsenic and set in a room from which he was stolen. He was used in a sideshow for a number of years and then in 1977 he was discovered in a movie studio in California. After being identified he was returned to Guthrie and buried. McCurdy is buried next to another notorious Oklahoma outlaw, Bill Doolin. We enjoyed lunch at a very old restaurant named, "Granny Had One" and then returned to Oklahoma City.

Thursday night we enjoyed dinner at the hotel with friends. We invited a gentleman from the Dominican Republic to join us and it turned out he had been a member of our outfit and had lost touch with us. Someone had told him of the reunion and he decided to attend. His finding us was accidental and we enjoyed visiting with him.

Friday after breakfast we boarded buses and toured Oklahoma City visiting the stockyards, Bricktown, the canal and ballpark (a smaller version of Texas Rangers Ballpark) which has statues of Johnny Bench and Roger Maris in front. A good lunch of barbecue at The County Line was enjoyed and we boarded the buses for the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum, formerly the Cowboy Hall of Fame. From there we visited the Capitol Building which they are in the process of adding a dome to and hope to be finished by Oklahoma's 100th birthday as a state in 2007.

Friday evening Jean and I hosted our annual reunion room party. Twenty-one attended including the only other living member of my crew and his wife, plus the brother of the only member of our crew who was killed overseas. Our Squadron Commander and his wife, several young people whose fathers flew, with us, our bombardier's son and Paul Farnell, a man who flew with us and had just found out about our organization. A friend of his, Marvin, knowing Paul could not afford to attend contacted the VFW, his church and a local Wal-Mart Store and they sponsored his trip.

Larry, the artist at our party, had painted a picture of the B-24D flying and presented it to our organization at our reunion last year in Seattle. Since it is very large, with Larry's agreement, it has been hung near the restored B-24 "Strawberry Bitch" at the Wright-Patterson Museum in Dayton, Ohio. Larry is making copy that can be rolled up and carried to each reunion.

Saturday morning Jean and I stayed at the hotel to help register, guest. In the afternoon our relative began to arrive including our son, Lynn and his wife, Nancy. My sister-in-law, Helen Wilkinson and her daughter, Glenda McCormack, nephew, Paul Wilkinson wife, Sue and daughter, Heather also came. In the evening we attended the USO show. Paul wore a replica of the WWII pink officer's uniform he had made which attracted a lot of attention.

On Sunday more family joined us and we had lunch at the Bourbon Street Restaurant on the canal. In the afternoon pictures were taken for the Memory Book and in the evening we had our dinner dance where we enjoyed a special table reserved for our family. Paul who flew 160 mission over Vietnam in a B-52 wore his Mess Dress uniform and again was our main attraction.

Monday morning we loaded up and then attended the Memorial breakfast which is always very emotional. After the Color Guard had retired the Colors we said our good-byes promising to be in Omaha next year. It began to rain as we got to Anson. We had lunch there and drove on to the farm where I was happy to see 3 inches in my rain gauge.

Having relatives attend our reunion made it special for us and we look forward to next year.

FROM WAR TO R.O.T.C.

In 1941, I went from school principal to Army private. In 1945 as a high point man, I left in October and came home as a Captain, Air Corps, with a promotion to Major in the mail.

In 1951, when I was vocational director of Lamar Business College in Paris, I was suddenly recalled, against my will, to active duty with the Air Force and sent to Korea. I was with the 49th Fighter-Bomber Squadron, but I had been taken off flying due to a physical. From Korea, I was sent to the Phillipines where I was asked to start a leadership school. I did, and Col. Berryhill asked me to sign an application to teach Air Force ROTC at Texas A&M.

I signed that I would stay with the Air Force, so when I came back to the states, I was sent to Research & Development and then in February, 1964, was sent to Texas A&M to teach AF ROTC. It was a good assignment. One of the first things I did, knowing I'd be there for maybe four years, I bought a house and enjoyed being with my family. I knocked off 45 more graduate hours credit and received my Masters Degree from A&M and began work on my Doctorate. I taught AF ROTC each day as a Major, U.S. Air Force.

You do not have to be an officer to be involved with ROTC. Sergeants can sign up for ROTC duty.

A Father's Concern

By Dr. David F. Russell

On Sunday, Veterans Day, we do well to reflect on the war that has been set before us and on those who serve.

What follows is a story from a dear friend. His son is a soldier, who has been deployed in the war on terrorism. The words are especially poignant, because they speak for thousands of mothers and fathers and husbands and wives who are today anxiously waiting for word from their loved ones.

It both ends and begins with a phone call.

"Hey Dad...Just go the word that we're moving out, pronto. Like we talked before, it'll be a while before I can call again. I love you, don't worry about me. Put Mom on for a sec, will you?"

It's the end of the waiting for military orders. The end of hope that they don't come. The end of uncertainty about deployment. He's going.

The end is bad, but the beginning is worse. It's the beginning of long months of silence. Long nights of worry; Watch the news. Search the Internet. Wait for the phone to ring...but it doesn't.

He might be in Turkmenistan or Uzbekistan or a dozen other countries I didn't know existed before September 11. I knew it might happen. After all, this is what he was trained for. He's a soldier. I know he's proud to do his duty. And I'm proud of him.

I hug my wife and tell her he's going to be okay, but we need something more to cling to. Lord give him strength. Lord protect him. Still, I have to focus. I have to keep on living, despite the hollow numbness in the pit of my stomach.

My boy's gone to war. I've been there, but I've never been here. I've been the one to go to war, but not the one left behind...to wait...to worry...to wonder. I didn't want this for him.

Only yesterday he was a little kid pleading for me to go outside and play ball. Today he's a man doing his duty, defending his nation.

He's special to me, but really no different from thousands of others. Your sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters, friends and neighbors. They're all doing their duty, leaving their homes, leaving their families to fight an enemy who wears no uniform, swears allegiance to no country, and recognizes no rules of war.

America's troops may be gone for weeks, even months or years. Some may never come home, yet all will be with their family.

Not blood relatives, not mom and dad, but with other young men and women with whom they serve in the military uniform of our country. Come what may, none will fail those with whom they serve.

They are today's Private Ryans and Band of Brothers. Their platoons and air wings and ships companies are their families, their brothers and sisters.

Each has pledged his life and entrusted his safety to the other. All have forged a sacred bond that will last a lifetime, a bond none can understand, except those who share it.

We are praying as a family, because, in a very real sense, every soldier, sailor, marine, airman and coast guardsman, is a part of our family, the American Legion family, and we love them all and were proud of them.

No words are sufficient to describe our national sense of resolve or our collective feeling of concern for those young ones who have gone into harm's way on our behalf. Instead let us pray to the God of us all that we gain victory and rejoice in the safe return of our family.

Nonetheless, let us also pray that His will be done and that He give us the strength to bear it, be it sorrow or rejoicing.

God has blessed America with much bounty and many fine men and women through the years who have risked their lives, and given them, to preserve our liberty and our way of life.

So today let this be our prayer, as in ages past, God Bless America.

United We Stand

Letters home.....

The following two letters concerning the Civil War were preserved in a family Bible owned by the family of Abby Hoyce Vickers. The Vickers boys mentioned in the letters were sons of Eli and Susannah Storey Vickers. Eli Marion Vickers, the writer of the letters and Henry Preston Vickers along with Eli, Susannah and other family members are buried in the Minter Cemetery in Lamar County Texas. The Westbrook boy was a cousin (son of Nancy Vickers Westbrook). At the beginning of the Civil War, they lived near the Brazos River, at Comanche Peak, Texas. The boys enlisted in the Cavalry and were first shipped to Hope, Arkansas and then to Arkansas Post on the Arkansas River. Union forces under General Sherman besieged and destroyed the post. They were taken prisoner and transported via Chicago, Baltimore and finally south to City Point near Richmond, Virginia area where they were exchanged for Union prisoners. D. P. (David Patten) Vickers was named for Susannah's mother (Mary Martha Patten).

After the exchange, Henry Preston Vickers fought in the battle of Chickamauga where he was wounded in the right arm by a minnie ball. Transported to Atlanta, Georgia, his arm was amputated and he was discharged as unfit for further service. After the war was over, the family moved to Lamar County Texas near Minter. Henry drove a freight wagon between Jefferson, Texas and Minter for a few years until his death by a lightning strike during a thunderstorm.

The letters were in fair shape after having survived nearly 140 years but the ink was very faded in some areas making interpretation of some of the wording impossible. The spelling and grammar of the letter was not altered in this interpretation.

Letter from Eli Marion Vickers to family, Sept., 1862

Wednesday Sept. 17 1862

Dear Father, Mother, Brothers and Sisters,
It is my pleasure once more to take my pin in hand to drop you a few lines by the hand of Mr. Samuel Johnson. He landed here on Sunday last and informed us that you were all well when he left Johnson, which I was proud to hear, but today I learn from Tom Arington who left there 4 days later, that Henry was very sick but have good hopes that the report is not true.

We are all three in fine health at this time and sincerely hope these lines may find you all in the enjoyment of the same blessing. The health of the company improves but slowly. There has been no deaths in the Com. since we came to this camp. Jack Wheeler, one of our mess mates, is very sick at this time. John McPherson is very sick also. The rest of the neighbors boys are well. We are all in fine spirits at this time and doing very well. We have so much good News in camps that I fear they can't all be true. You will probably hear the news before this comes to home. If not, Mr. Johnson can give you the news better than I can by letter.

Were getting to be a considerable Army here and still coming in. Several boys from Cherokee among John Ray's son James, Marion McElroy, Henry Jay and Joel Woodall and several others too tedious to mention, they are all well we had sent by Henry for some clothing and in a letter which sent by Mr. Bell we sent for some additional ones to ??? at ??? had sent by Henry for I will here say that ??? Henry be sick and your chance had to send them you need not put yourself to any great trouble to send any clothing for I think our chance better to get clothing now than it has bane. Notwithstanding, send the clothes if you can they will be very acceptable.

Besides we would rather wear clothes that were made at home. The word house is so sacred with us that any thing coming from home? Is almost worshipped. I hope the time is not far distant when we will be permitted to return home in peace. I will bring my letter to a close by assigning my ????

Your affectionate son,
D. P. Vickers to Fathers,
E. M. Vickers, Mothers,
Brothers and W. G. Westbrook Sisters

Letter from Eli Marion Vickers to family April, 1863?

Petersburg, VA, April 28th 1863?

Most affectionate Father

Mother,

I this day avail myself of the opportunity of writing you a few lines to let you no that I am yet in the land of the living and to let you no that I am well at this time and I hope and pray that these few lines may find you all well and doing well. But also it pains me to have to inform you of the death of my beloved brother, D. P. Vickers. He departed this life the 25th of this inst. He taken the Irieopla? In the face about the first of April a day or two he left Chicago and was right poorly all the way here. After we landed here he got better for a few days but he taken cold and taken a back set. He went to one hospital and taken the pneumonia and died there.

I have no doubt but what you have heard the particulars of our fight at the Post for there has been several men made their escape since we were captured. I will not try to give you all the particulars. We were all taken prisoners, the 11th of Jan. there was not a man hurt in our company nor but two or three in our Regiment. Our whole force was only about four thousand against about sixty thousand. They acknowledge we killed and wounded as many of them as they taken of us but there has been a great many of our men died since we was taken. We have had the small pox among us ever since we was taken so

After we were taken, the Yankees put us on the boats to carry us to ??Alton, Ill. They crowded us on the boats so thick on the boat that we could not find room to lay down. They put four Regiment of us on one boat. We was on the river seventeen days. We went from Alton to Chicago on the cars. We got to Chicago on the 28 of June. We seen a pretty ruff time until we got to Chicago. After we got there we were treated as well as could be expected. They left us there until the 2nd day of April when we started for ?????? We went from Chicago to Baltimore on the cars. From Baltimore we camped the Chesapeak Bay ??? to The mouth of the Jas River and up James River to City Point about 15 miles from the place. We landed there the 10th of the instant.

Henry Vickers was left at Baltimore with the small pox. He was sent to the Small Pox Hospital. I have not heard from him since we left him. I don't think that the small pox will hurt him much. He was not very bad when we left him. Our officers was sent to Camp Chase near Columbus Ohio. They have not come yet and I am a feard that want come soon. We have been here the rise of three weeks and there is no prospect of us leaving here soon. They have been talking of ???ing us ever since we have been here. I would be glad if they would pay us ???? We are needing some money owing? bad? So turning ???? We don't no whether we will be sent back on that side of the River or not. Some think that we will and some think that we will be kept on this side. I would like for us to be sent back on that side myself. We have lost ten men in our company. I will give you the name of those that you are acquainted with; William Nolan, Henry Manly, David Barnett, William Cot???, and AB Ledbeter L?. L? Ward died with the small pox; Robert Peek also died of the small pox; Thompson Conerly? taken the oath of allegiance. Tell Billups Father and Mother that he is as fat as a pig. He has been in good health all the time. I would have written to you sooner but I have been waiting for a chance to send it across by hand so it was doubtful whether it would go by mail or not. There is a man here that will start to morrow or next day. I shall send this across by him. If I could see you I could tell a heap more than I can write. I would be glad to hear from you all but you need not write until you hear from me again. I will write again the first chance so I will bring my remarks to a close. Give my respects to all who inquire after me so no name.

Only I remain your affectionate son until death,

E. M. Vicker to Father & Mother

The struggle continues for government of the people, by the people, for the people

By Jack Dodd

Just a few years ago, we were engaged in potentially disastrous and difficult wars-World War II, Korea, Vietnam and Desert Storm to name a few. Let us not forget the thousands of our armed servicemen who remain in the Southwest area as a rear guard and are chasing the terrorists.

We remember the many men and women on Veteran's Day who did join our military forces or who were called up as reservists or were drafted into a war effort and those who gave the ultimate sacrifice. It is these brave dead who gave the last measure of devotion for our country.

Perhaps no one has been able to represent what we read here this day than the man I consider to be the greatest President this nation has ever been privileged to have-Abraham Lincoln. Let's travel back in time to a field in Pennsylvania. The year is 1863. The place, Gettysburg. Today it is a series of quiet rolling hills full of markings and memories.

But then it was a battlefield more horrible than we can imagine.

During the first days of that month, 51,000 people were killed, wounded or missing in what would prove to be the decisive battle to keep our Union together.

Anguished cries of the mourned and dying made a wailing chorus as the patients were hurried to ill-provised operating tables. Wagons and carts were filled to overflowing with the amputated arms and legs, wheeled off to a deep trench, dumped and buried. Preachers quoted the 23rd Psalm over and over as fast as their lips could say it while brave soldiers breathed their last breath.

23rd PSALM: The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; they rod and staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

The aftermath of a battlefield is always grim but this one was one of the worst. A national cemetery was proposed. A conservation service was planned. The date was set for November 19. The commission invited none other than the silver-tongued Edward Everett, to deliver the dedication address. Known for his cultured words, patriotic fervor and public appeal, the orator, a former Congressman and Governor of Massachusetts, was a natural for this historic occasion.

Predictable he accepted. In October President Lincoln announced his intentions to attend the ceremonies. This startled the commissioners who had not expected President Lincoln to leave the Capitol in wartime. Now, how could he not be asked to speak? They were unanimous in realizing how much better an orator Everett was than President Lincoln. Out of courtesy, they wrote the President on November 2, asking him to deliver "a few appropriate remarks". Certainly President Lincoln knew the invitation was an afterthought, but it mattered little. With such little time for preparation before the day of dedication, President Lincoln worried over his words. He confided to a friend that his talk was not going smoothly, finally he forced himself to be satisfied with his "ill prepared speech".

President Lincoln arrived at Gettysburg the day before the ceremonies in time to attend a large dinner that evening. With Edward Everett across the room surrounded by numerous admirers, the President must have felt all the more uneasy. He excused himself from the after dinner activities to return to his room and work a bit more on his remarks. President Lincoln extinguished the lights in his room and struggled to sleep. The next morning President Lincoln copied his address on two small pages and tucked them into a coat pocket, put on his stovepipe hat, tugged white gloves over his hands and joined the procession of dignitaries.

He could hardly bear the sight as they passed the fields where scraps of men's lives lay-a boot, a broken rifle, a canteen, a torn picture of a child. President Lincoln had tears running down into his beard. Shortly after, the chaplain of the Senate gave the invocation and Everett was introduced. At the age of 69, the grand old gentleman was in fine form after a slow start. Everett was dramatic, even eloquent. The President stood in fascination. Finally, one hour and fifty-seven minutes later, the great orator took his seat as the crowd roared it's approval.

at two o'clock in the afternoon, President Lincoln was introduced. As he stood to his feet, he turned to Secretary Seward and muttered "they won't like it". Slipping on his steel spectacles, he held the two pages in his right hand and grabbed the loop of his coat with his left. He never moved or made any gesture with his hands. His voice, high pitched, almost squeaky, carried over the crowd like a brass bugle. He was serious and sad at the beginning-but a few sentences into his speech, his face came alive. He almost broke down twice but caught himself and was strong and clear. People listened on tiptoes.

Suddenly, he was finished. No more than two minutes after he had begun, he stopped. His talk had been so prayer-like, it would almost be inappropriate to applaud. As President Lincoln sat down, someone in the crowd said "Is that all?". The President answered

"Yes, that's all".

Over 138 years have passed since that historic event. Can anyone recall one line of Everett's two hour marathon address? Read, please, with your heart for just two minutes to one of the greatest speeches of all time.

THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS: "Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place or those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. This world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us-that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion-that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Since then there have been too many other Gettysburgs in our nation's history. Our brave warriors have answered the call on every occasion. Belleau Wood-the Argonne, Bataan, Corrigidor, Wake Island, Sicily, Normandy, Iwo Jima, Berlin, Okinawa, the Pusan Perimeter, the Chosin Reservoir, Inchon, Chu Lai, DaNang, Khesahn, Hue, Saigon, Gernada, Panama, Beruit, Bosnia, Kuwait, Afghanistan, Pakistan & Somalia.

Every time the call went out brave and loyal Americans responded, sometimes with the ultimate sacrifice. It is to their splendid memories and dedication that we who read this for these few minutes pledge our lives that they, indeed, shall not have died in vain. That their government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.

God Bless Our United States!

20 years, 10 days later, Master Sergeant

As a 17-year old country boy from Pattonville, I enlisted in the United States Air Force on May 21, 1954. Actually, I was talked into enlisting by another Pattonville boy, Harold Smith. He was also going to enlist but decided at the last minute to stay at home. If only I had known...

I was assigned to Lackland AFB in San Antonio for basic training and almost immediately I wished I was back in Pattonville with Harold! I was so homesick I had never been any farther than Dallas. But after I was there for a few weeks, my late brother, James Day and his wife, Vivian, took my parents, Herman and Della Day to visit me. Then later my brother, Hammond and his wife, Betty took them to San Antonio again. I was so happy to see someone from home.

My first duty assignment was Chanute AFB, IL where I was enrolled in the Aircraft Electrical Repair School. While there I also received my high school diploma through the GED program and received a special promotion for being an honor graduate of the electrical course. At the age of 20, I was the youngest airman in the electrical field to be promoted to the rank of NCO.

During my service career, I received numerous awards for technical design and monetary savings, the highest being the Fifth Air Force Chief of Staff Safety Award for design and building a fire warning and overheat tester for the F-4 aircraft. This tester was adopted for use Air Force wide. During this same period of time, I was selected for the Pacific Air Force Honor Roll for specialty job knowledge.

Other duty assignments included Webb AFB, Texas; Johnson AB, Japan; Perrin AFB, Texas; Misawa AFB, Japan; Little Rock AFB, Arkansas and finally retirement at Sheppard AFB, Texas. Twenty years and ten days later when I retired as a Master Sergeant and Aircraft Electrical superintendent, I was glad that I had overcome the homesickness. I retired on May 31, 1974 and returned to the Sherman area. I still call Lamar County home and visit often.

Record of a brother lost in war

Donald was born November 11, 1918 in Bogata, the son of Dr. Harley D. And Florence Grant Roach. An older friend called him "Whistle Britches" when he was just a small child. The nickname was shortened to "Whis". "Whis" played football in Bogata High School and three seasons at Paris Junior College. While there his nickname was changed to "Whizz". An Aviation Club was organized at PJC. Donald joined and was the first to make the cross country solo flight. He enlisted in the U.S. Navy and was sworn in as a Air Cadet May 20, 1941. He was commissioned as an Ensign and awarded his wings March 26, 1942. Donald reported for duty at Seattle, Washington on April 18, 1942 and was in service at Dutch Harbor, Alaska from July until November 15, 1942. He then returned to duty in Seattle and sailed from the United States on Dec. 9, 1942, for duty in the South Pacific Combat Zone. After serving the Pacific a short time, Donald received the Air Medal. The Citation read in part: "for meritorious achievement in aerial flights against the enemy while serving as the pilot of a fighter escort plane attached to a Marine aircraft group in the Solomon Islands area during the period from Feb. 3 to March 6, 1943. Ensign Roach participated in eight attack missions directed against enemy ground installations at Muda Point and Vila Plantation and in one fighter sweep against Muda Point. All of these attacks were carried out in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire and on Feb. 4 he took part in an attack against a Japanese task force composed of twenty to thirty Zero type fighter planes. At this time the enemy planes were dispersed before they could impair the success of the mission. On February 12, 1942 he was the pilot of one of seven fighters escorting a patrol plane on a rescue mission to Rob Roy Island, where the patrol plane remained on the water for fifty five minutes within easy striking distance of enemy positions. On April 1, 1943 Donald was promoted to Lieutenant, Junior Grade. The Gold Star was presented to him and part of the citation read "for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as Leader of a Fighter Division in combat against enemy Japanese forces in the Solomon Islands from June 21 to July 17, 1943. Leading his four-plane fighter division on thirty-three combat missions. Lieutenant Junior Grade Roach during two of these engagements, attacked a group of Japanese aircraft and personally shot down a total of four twin-engine bombers. Donald also received the Distinguished Flying Cross. Part of the citation read: "leading his division to intercept and enemy bombing strike against our shipping, he pressed home his attack and destroyed two of the hostile bombers in the Solomon Island Area."

On July 26, 1943, Donald "Whis" was shot down over the water near Rendova Island, which is near New Guinea in the south Pacific. Mother received a War Department certificate announcing posthumous award of the Purple Heart to her son, Lt. (JG) Donald Roach, U.S. Naval Reserve e, on the 26th of August, 1944, for military merit and for wounds received in action, resulting in his death. Our father, Dr. Harley D. Roach died the 7th of July 1942. "Whis" was stationed in Dutch Harbor, Alaska at the time and could not come home.

WE FOUGHT WITH OUR FISTS

The rushing Reds were a mob of screaming demons. There was no retreat. We had to fight or die

THINGS FOUL UP in combat. Sometimes, they're little things that would be insignificant and unimportant at any other time or in any other place. But, when the chips are down and the enemy is closing in, they become fantastically important things—matters of life and death.

Korean Armistice was to be signed, yet many men would die before the firing ceased. It was 2330 hours. We occupied positions not far from the scene of the peace talks—Panunjom. My company was heavy with new, green men. We'd just received a shipment of replacements from the States.

or fighting holes with overhead cover. We were on a hill that jutted out from the main line of resistance so far, we really acted as an outpost! It was 2330. And the night was dark and moonless. The EE-8 field phone lying beside me in my CP trench jangled. "Flares—we count six." The call was from Lt. Robert E. Patterson, one of the Item Company Platoon Leaders. I grabbed my helmet and canteen and scrambled out of the trench to take a look for myself. The flares were still up. There were six of them—pale, sickly-yellow Chink flares. I stood on the lip of the trench for a few seconds. The flares hadn't even burned out when the thundering roar of the enemy guns split the night. It was as if a hundred hurtling freight trains had collided head-on. I didn't need anyone to tell me what it meant. I dived back into my trench. The first salvo of enemy artillery and mortar fire began to howl and squish through the air. "Get me Battalion!" I yelled into the field phone.

The Chinese were a shadowy flood, pouring over the hills, and rushing at the gentle slopes, that led to our weakly held lines.

to inch his way along the cliffs to reach them. One misstep would mean a plunge down to the rock-studded gorges below.

For the same reason, we would not be able to withdraw—no matter what happened. There was only a narrow, winding trail leading back to our main line. The slope facing the enemy was gentle and easily negotiable—but at our backs there was nothing but the cliffs!

We would have to stand and fight—and perhaps die where we fought!

"They're coming within rifle range, Frank," Lt. Patterson reported by field phone. "Shall we open up?"

I gave the order to fire. The officers and the non-coms passed it on—and stood behind the green replacements to insure that their fire was being well placed. We had no ammunition to waste.

The long wait and suspense—the crouching and taking the pounding—were over. The killing began. Our men reacted instantly to the command to open fire. They triggered their weapons and sent sheets of lead sweeping down into. (Continued on page 50)
