Hesston Marshall Brings Home State Gold, Silver

CONGRATULATIONS, Hesston Marshall! May I remind you, Hesston competed in four events at this meet, while his opponents most likely were entered in only one.

— cwe —

Most everyone was in shocked upon hearing of the death of County Judge Jerry Hefley. I had visited with Jerry only a few days earlier and he said retirement was considered because he “sure did enjoy spending time on the 4-wheeler with those two granddaughters.”

— cwe —

Jerry was a city employee when I was on the Council.

My sympathy to the family.

Dear Friends, Prom is so close! I can't wait! I have everything ready, except my hair and what I'm driving. I want to have fun, play games and dance all night long.

USDA Announces Listening Session

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today announced a virtual listening session for beginning farmers and ranchers to learn how COVID-19 impacted their farming operations and to get their feedback on USDA assistance. The listening session will take place on May 6, 2021, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., Eastern time.

Wheeler Chamber Planter Boxes for Sale: As part of our beautification efforts, the Wheeler Chamber is currently selling these custom metal 30” x 7” x 7” planters made by our local HL Guest Handmade. The front of the planters can be completely customizable with your logo, business name, in memory of, family name, or anything you'd like. The flowers have already been purchased by our local JC Greens and Wheeler POST Garden and will be planted and hung in a location of your choosing. The flowers include green potato vine, blue/purple petunias, red verbena, and white periwinkle. The beautification committee will also be replanting with fall flowers. If you are interested, please get with Kristen Moudy at 806.367.0084, kristen@wheeler-texas.org, or stop by Wheeler City Hall (under the water tower) to place your order. The cost is $220 for a custom planter box filled with summer flowers and then we will fill them with fall flowers. We would love to fill the downtown and around with these beautiful planters in time for Wheeler Ex-Students and the 4th of July!

Is there anything so glorious as a sunny morning that follows an overnight rain shower? It is one of the spectacles on earth which points toward the thought or belief of heaven. The grass sparkles, and is even bowed down in thanksgiving for the moisture, its lifeblood. This is particularly true late in the summer, when the grasses become top-heavy as they bear the weight of the next year's potential in the seed head. Roads and sidewalks are washed clean; the birds sing more eagerly, as a new day dawns, but one with greater potential, because rain fell – the elixir of life miraculously dropped down from the sky the night before.

The air is often cooler the morning after a rain; there are often lingering clouds, of a darker shade of white which often is imbued with gray – dense, but insufficient to completely block the rays of early light from the sun, which come through the clouds as through a filter, amplifying their brilliance. Puddles appear in any low spot that can hold water, pools that reveal the miracle that is our planet, perfectly situated within the solar system to support the necessary conditions for life as we know it.

Other people may have other ideas, but for me, a morning following a rain shower conveys more hope and promise than almost anything else we experience on earth. Perhaps newborn life, be it a baby or a puppy, would eclipse a rain shower, but it is hard to think of other natural phenomena that do. A rain is like a renewal of divine assistance; like an affirmation from on high; a ratification of the belief that all is not lost; appearing in the universal sign of hope – fresh water.

Comparables which came to mind as I was lauding the effect of a rain shower, would be seeing a brilliant sunrise or sunset, seeing a mountain range or valley, spending time by a source of live water, possibly seeing our earth from miles above; these experiences are both ordinary, and transcendental. It makes me wonder how many other happenings in our ordinary, day-to-day lives, provide the opportunity to transcend our surface-level concerns, look deeper, and acknowledge the miraculous. I suspect we all have opportunities to tap in to this sort of perspective throughout each day, if we could only see them. I suppose that is another laudable effect of rain – paradoxically, it helps one to see.

Pop called us to come over to Jennifer's. When we got there, we were surprised to see Cathi and Dorcie and Ronal and Juanita!

My mom and Victor have been working really hard to restore her mother's house in Shamrock. Victor is a carpenter from Oklahoma City. He is a good friend of our neighbor, Scott, in OKC. We are so lucky to have him. He can fix anything.

On Thursday, mom and Victor had to quit work early because my dad took us, Baba and Pop, Seth and Jennifer to Maxey's to celebrate early Mother's Day. On Sunday I took Mom to Johnny Carino's. That is the first time in over a year. It was delicious!

I did not get to leave for OKC on Friday morning as usual. I had to remain most of Friday for the installation of our Vortex Vault (storm shelter), which is above ground, under the bed. It is the dimensions of the mattress and lowers to 19". When raised, one can roll under in a wheelchair; fortunately that is not necessary for us.
