SUPT Class 94-15 graduates Wednesday

Vietnam flight leader to speak at ceremony

Eighteen members of Specialized Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 94-15 graduate and receive their Air Force pilot wings here Wednesday.

The graduation ceremony is set for 9:30 a.m. at the Simler Theater.

Guest speaker for the graduation is retired Col. John Stone, a Vietnam War veteran who was a flight leader on one of the war's most heralded combat missions.

Assigned to the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing, operating out of Ubon Royal Thailand Air Base in 1964, then Captain Stone was a flight leader in the renowned "Wolf Pack."

His flight played a key role in Bolo 1, the most successful air-to-air operation of the war. His F-4 Phantom flight downed three of the seven MiG-21 aircraft destroyed in the operation. Colonel Stone had one confirmed kill.

President nominates General Moorman as vice chief of staff

WASHINGTON (AFNS)-- Gen. Thomas S. Moorman Jr. sees the humor in his serious military heritage.

Both of his grandfathers were military officers, one was an Army general.

His father is a retired Air Force three-star general — Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Moorman Sr.

But even though he's reached four-star status, the Air Force's new vice chief of staff sounds a tad like Rodney Dangerfield when he describes his place in the family's rank structure.

"My father is known in the parlance of senior leadership as the real General Moorman," he said wryly. "He was a three-star general but he assures me that I will always be junior."

The jokes stop, though, when he discusses the monumental challenges he faces in his new job.

He views the Air Force's top priorities as taking care of people, maintaining readiness and finding better ways of doing business with less money and fewer people.

"It's much more than a cliché to say that people are what the Air Force is all about," General Moorman said Sept. 7.

In order to keep attracting and retaining high quality people, "our folks" benefits must be comparable to their civilian counterparts, General Moorman said. The importance of this equity is intensified due to the "extraordinary" demands placed on the Air Force, he said.

"There might be some thought that because the Cold War is over (More General Moorman on page 4)

General Pratt selected for USAFE post

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas -- Secretary of Defense William Perry announced Sept. 13 that the president has nominated Maj. Gen. Everett H. Pratt Jr., 19th Air Force Commander, for appointment to the grade of lieutenant general with assignment as vice commander, United States Air Forces in Europe, and director, European Air Combat Operations staff, Ramstein AB, Germany. A replacement for General Pratt has not been announced.

General Pratt assumed his current position as 19th AF commander in May, 1993.

We have all heard of someone who never quite made it in school and regretted it. We at Reese have an opportunity to make a difference in a child's life by participating in the Mentor Program between Reese and Frenship Intermediate School.

With our local schools back in session, it's time for Reese personnel and their families to continue the Mentoring Program that was established during the latter part of the 1992/93 school year.

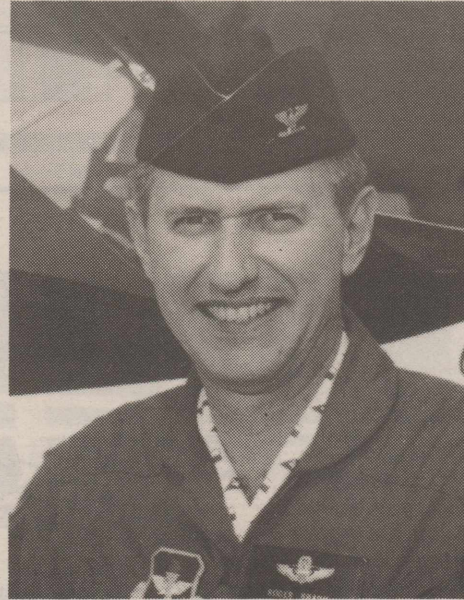

Goals 2000, Educate America Act, aims to create schools and school systems where all students can reach world-class standards. The goals in brief are:

- All Children ready to learn
- All children competent in core subjects

- Ninety percent graduation rate
- First in the world in math and science
- Every adult literate and able to compete in the work force
- Safe, disciplined, drug-free schools

The Educate America Act also relies on partnerships. Volunteer mentors from Reese and the local community have formed a partnership with Frenship Intermediate School. The mentors are matched with fifth and sixth grade students selected to participate in the program. The children may need assistance academically or just someone to talk to. The mentors are asked to provide this one-on-one support for one hour once a week.

Last school year, over 80 mentors were matched with students from Frenship. According to Betty Donaldson, the school's principal, the difference in the children's progress was amazing! Many students' grades did a complete turn around and other students' self-esteem improved immensely.

The Mentor Program has my full support. Supervisors should afford as much time as feasible to participants. Civilians, with their supervisors' concurrence, may be allowed up to four hours per pay period.

The program starts with a "Get Acquainted Mixer" to be held at 2 p.m., Oct. 6, in the Frenship Intermediate School cafeteria. In order to match the volunteers with the students, Cheryl Ortiz, Reese Mentor Program coordinator, asks return mentors and interested individuals to contact her by Sept. 30.

The mixer will give mentors from last year a chance to get reacquainted with their students. If the student has graduated to the seventh grade, or if you are a new mentor, a new match will be made.

If you are interested in being a positive influence in a young person's life, please call Ortiz at the Family Support Center, 3305.

From your perspective

"A Careline column provides one of many opportunities for a commander to find out what people are thinking, what's bothering them, what they like, etc. If you've wondered why we do something, or just want to make a comment, don't hesitate to call. You can call the Careline 24 hours a day at 3273. If you leave your name and telephone number, we'll get back to you and answer your concern by telephone. Calls of interest to the Reese community will be published, without the caller's name, in the Roundup the following week. I look forward to hearing from you."

Are youth center fees correct?

I'm calling about the pricing plan in the Reese Youth Center. Prices have increased $5 per week over the past two years. I checked with some other bases and it seems that Reese charges more for the same program. Also why doesn't the center have an hourly rate?

Thanks for your concern about the Reese

Youth Center rates. Our fees must cover the costs of nonappropriated fund employee wages, benefits, training and consumable supplies (food items) not purchased with appropriated funds. Unfortunately, in 1992 the center's income did not cover expenses incurred.

In 1993, higher headquarters tasked command youth centers to target at seven-percent profit. Fees were increased in 1993 and 1994 in an effort to attain this goal and to generate revenue for programs such as Friday Nite Live, recreational trips downtown and many more things to come.

Comparing our youth programs to others in the area, we found our staff-to-child ratio to be higher. For example, Cannon AFB, N.M., averages a 1-12 and 1-15 ratio while our ratio is 2-12 and 2-15. In addition, many other centers do not provide breakfast and other meals.

Finally, you were given incorrect information concerning hourly care. We do provide morning, afternoon and weekly care.

Our goal is to provide the best service we can for our youth and their parents, and to ensure the safety of the children while they are in the center's care. To do so requires income to cover the costs. I would be very interested in your comments on the quality of our services. If you don't think you are getting your money's worth, we need to address that. Again, thanks for your interest.

Why are sprinklers running?

I would like to know why the sprinklers come on around Bldg. 790 every day at 6 a.m. The water creates a river down the golf course road, and from the appearance of the grass, doesn't seem to be an effective use of the water.

Thanks for the call! We have checked the area you pointed out and have adjusted the sprinkler heads to spray on the grass instead of the roadway. Additionally, we have altered the length of time the sprinkler sprays to reduce runoff. I appreciate your concern for prudent use of our resources.

Drinking and driving can kill more than your career!

Tri-Care: Military healthcare reform likely to see more changes as program is implemented

The word is change and there will definitely be more changes to the military health care system as we embark on a major program of health care reform, according to Capt. Anna Kramm, Reese Tri-Care director.

Some of these changes will be encountered in the Department of Defense's managed care program called Tri-Care. Tri-Care is designed to ensure the most effective execution of the military health care mission, recognizing the need to ensure access to a secure, quality health care benefit, control costs, and respond to changing national military and health care priorities.

"At the 64th Medical Group, we are projecting to start implementing Tri-Care for active-duty service members in January 1995 and all others in November 1995. Even though it seems like a long time, there is a lot of preparation that will go into the implementation phase," said Captain Kramm.

One of the main 64th MDG goals is to provide information to our beneficiaries about their options under Tri-Care. Tri-Care increases the number of doctors serving our beneficiaries resulting in improved access because of the greater number of available physician choices.

The first choice for health care is the military medical facility. When medical care in the military facility is not available, beneficiaries need another option. Under Tri-Care, the current plan calls for a support contractor to develop a network of civilian providers and hospitals available to military beneficiaries for a fixed fee or percentage of the cost. Unless changed by national health care reform, there are three options under consideration for active-duty family members, retirees and their families and survivors.

The first option, called Tri-Care Prime, is the lowest cost option. All active duty will be enrolled in Tri-Care Prime at no cost, but there will be an enrollment fee for some beneficiaries. Each enrollee will be assigned a primary care provider. At the 64th MDG, once a patient is enrolled, he or she will be guaranteed timely appointments at the military treatment facility at no cost, said Captain Kramm.

The second option, called Tri-Care Extra, requires no enrollment, and is more costly. Beneficiaries have the choice of using a network provider, which should offer reduced rates. The third option, called Tri-Care Standard, is the most costly.

However, beneficiaries have complete freedom of choice on their providers. They can choose a network or non-network provider. Tentatively, these are just three potential provisions; they could be subject to change. The patient will have the opportunity to choose one of the Tri-Care options. Care under Tri-Care is estimated to begin November 1995.

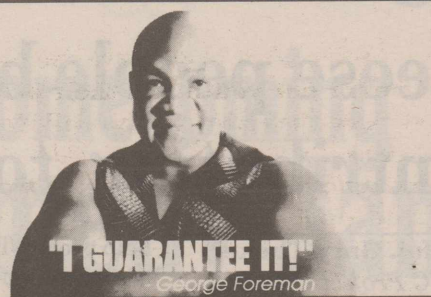

The lead agent for Reese, which is Wilford Hall Medical Center, San Antonio, Texas, should award the support contract before May, 1995. Once the contract is awarded, the process of screening beneficiaries for enrollment into one of the Tri-Care options begins. All of the 64th MDG beneficiaries should have selected a Tri-Care option by November, 1995. Again, these dates are tentative and might include some variations.

"National health care reform provides the military medical services an unprecedented opportunity to change our medical programs by giving beneficiaries a choice of Tri-Care plans and providers, the continued security of high-quality care, and the added convenience of improved access," said the captain.

General Moorman eyes increasing Air Force challenges, commitments

These concerns are justified since — in the past decade — the budget has dropped about 45 percent, the force has dwindled by one-third, yet the operational deployments have skyrocketed nearly 300 percent and include "every crisis area in the world," General Moorman said.

"We have to constantly be looking for better ways of doing things," the general said.

This applies to "everybody from the most junior airman to the most senior general. Everyone has to ask, 'How can I improve the way we're doing things?'"

This process can be enhanced by emphasizing the quality movement, he said.

If the quality movement "hadn't been developed in industry, we in the Air Force would have had to invent it," General Moorman said.

"The quality business gives us a framework to examine our day-to-day processes and figure out how to do the job better," explained the general.

General Moorman believes that two-way communication can also enhance the Air Force's ability to accomplish the job.

Leaders need to convey what their expectations are but they must listen to what their people have to say, he said.

"When I travel around, one of the things I hear from people is uncertainty about careers and uncertainties about the changes in the Air Force," he said.

"We particularly have to listen to peoples' concerns and be mindful of them as we develop programs and lead the Air Force in this particularly challenging time."

General Moorman said he brings to the job a personal philosophy that centers around a "getting absorbed" in his work.

"I'm a firm believer in professional competence for myself and for the people who work with me," he said.

"Getting absorbed" is a way to "set an example and underscore your expectations and level of commitment," he said.

He also brings to the job a wealth of experience in the space arena and he is excited about the broadening role that space has taken on in the Air Force.

And he does not mean simply expanding funding for Air Force space projects. It also means "trying to find ways of using this tremendous capability that we have on orbit to improve the way we prosecute modern warfare."

"That said, I believe the Air Force should be the executive agent to manage the space function within the Defense Department."

A proposal to designate the Air Force as executive agent for space is currently being staffed in the Pentagon, he said.

This is justified, he said, because the Air Force "owns a preponderance of DOD's space assets."

The Air Force boasts 90 percent of the people and 85 percent of the budget associated with the military's space assets.

Said General Moorman: "We are the space service."

MSgt. Louis Calderon fills out his Combined Federal Campaign pledge card, with assistance from 64th Operations Support Squadron CFC keyworker SrA. Chris Ishmael. Sergeant Calderon was the first person on Reese to contribute to the 1994 CFC. In the first three days of the drive, Reese topped $8,000 in contributions.

Reese people begin contributing to CFC

by Maj. Gary Tucker
CFC Project Officer

Do you sometimes wonder just why you should give to the Combined Federal Campaign?

I mean, you never really know where your money will go, right? Wrong!

CFC is probably one of the only sure things in this world. In fact, if you could follow the dollars you donated to CFC, you might be in for a few surprises. Only about two cents of every dollar go to administrative purposes for the CFC. The rest goes right to the target agency you listed on the pledge card.

Your money might stay right here at Reese or in Lubbock. Or it could go to many places around the country, or the world. The possibilities are endless. Why? Because there are 1,000 different agencies listed in this year's brochure — all deserving, all desperately needing your help. And the only way they can get it is through the CFC.

These are agencies that help people. They help people of all walks of life. But mostly they help people who are less fortunate than the rest of us, people who are in desperate need of our help.

Your CFC dollars will go to agencies such as homes for abandoned children, day-care centers for handicapped children, and care centers for the elderly who live at home and cannot take care of themselves. And these are just a few. The list could go on and on... aid for families who were victims of natural disasters... shelters for the homeless... food for the hungry....

The point is, CFC is the only hope for a lot of these people. And for you, CFC may be your only chance to reach out to them and show that you care.

Knowing that your donation will make it to these people might dissolve your hesitations about giving to the CFC.

Your dollars will make it to the people who need them. You can be sure of that. That's what the CFC is all about.

The colonel served in a variety of positions during his Air Force career, most associated with fighter operations. Most recently, he served as director of Operations, Headquarters, Colorado Air National Guard.

The colonel is a command pilot with more than 4,500 hours in the T-34, T-28, F-102, F-100C/D/F, F-4C/D/E and A-7 aircraft, including 250 hours in combat.

Among his military decorations are the Silver Star,

Bronze Star and Distinguished Flying Cross.

The colonel's son, 2nd Lt. Jon Stone, is a member of the graduating class.

Wednesday's ceremony is open to all base personnel and will be followed by several events in the Reese Club. A buffet is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.. There will be a parents social at 6:30 p.m. and a dinner-dance at 7 p.m.

During the ceremony and dinner-dance, awards will be presented to students and permanent party members.

The awards include the Air Education and Training Command Commander's Trophy (top overall graduates) and Top Stick Award (top flying students).

Presentations will also be made for academics, leadership and outstanding second lieutenant.

Permanent party awards will go to the outstanding academic and flightline instructor pilots, maintainers and mission makers.

Sports Day

52nd FTS places in three events, edges 35th FTS for team crown

The 52nd Flying Training Squadron rode top-three finishes in three of five scored events to capture first place in the Reese Sports Day competition here Sept. 16.

The 52nd FTS took first place in the golf competition, second in the 5-kilometer run and third in basketball for a title-winning 110 points.

The 35th FTS took first place in volleyball and in the 5-kilometer run to finish second with 100 points.

First, second and third place finishers in the five scored events were: basketball — 64th Security Police Squadron, 64th Civil Engineer Squadron and 52nd FTS; volleyball — 35th FTS, 64th Communications Squadron and 64th Logistics Squadron; bowling — 64th CES, 64th CS and 64th Mission Support Squadron; 5-kilometer run — 35th FTS, 52nd FTS and 64th Medical Group; and golf — 52nd FTS, 54th FTS and 64th MSS.

Following the scored events, the wing hosted a base picnic. During the picnic, several "for fun" events were held; including a tug-of-war, three-legged-race and a dizzy bat relay.

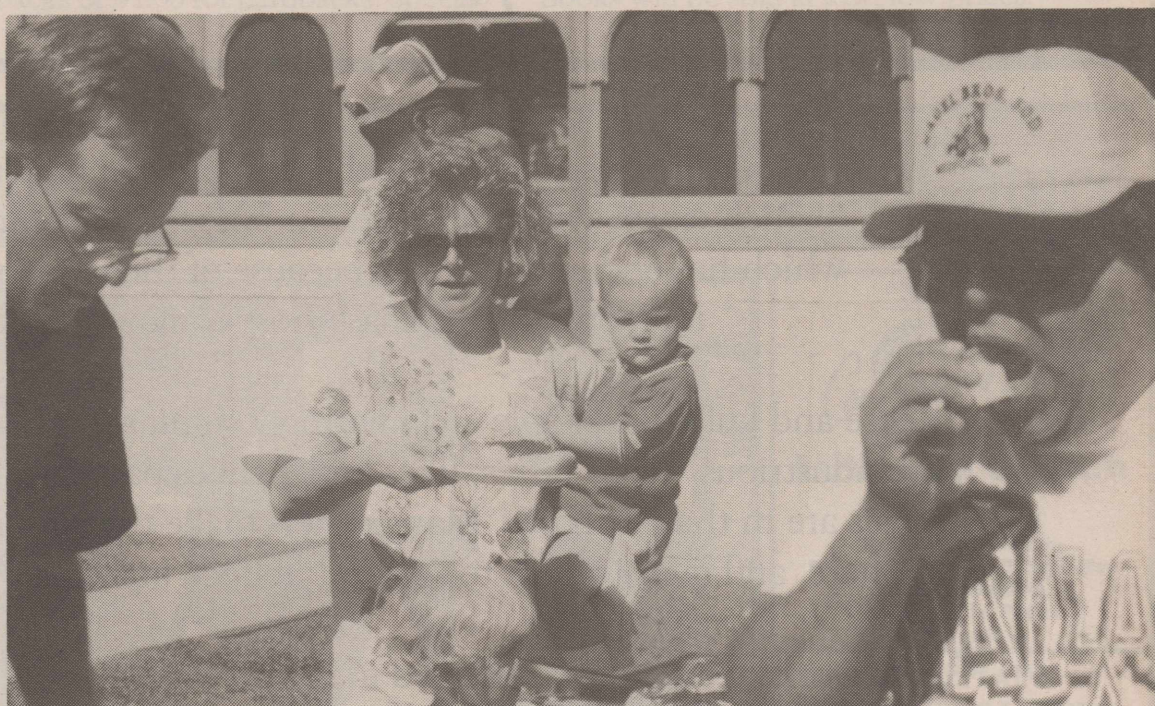

Squadron totals for the annual Sports Day competition were:

Team	Points
52nd FTS	110
35th FTS	100
64th MSS	90
64th SPS	85

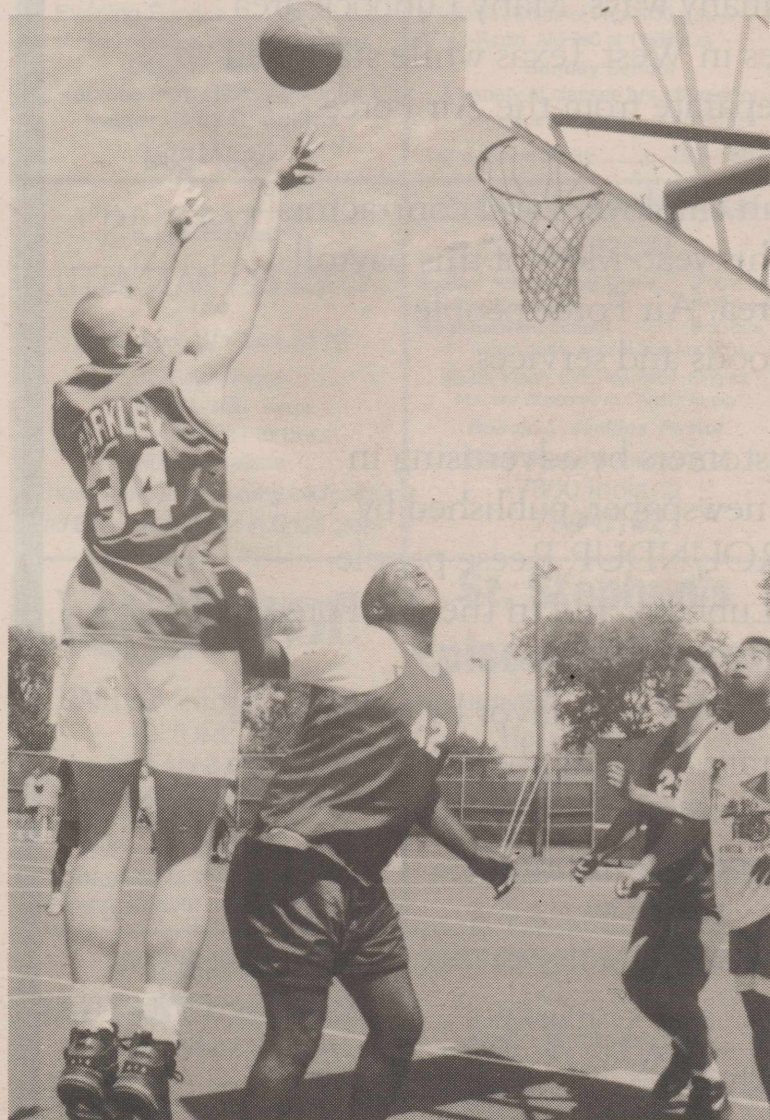

64th CS	80
54th FTS	80
64th CES	75
64th MDG	75
64th LS	55
64th OSS	40
64th SVS	10

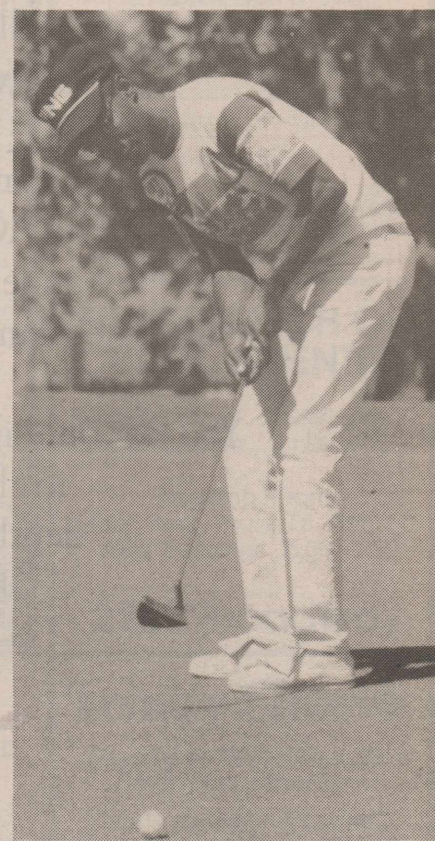

Col. Roger Brady, 64th FTW commander, presents Capt. Patrick Heflin, 52nd FTS, with the Sports Day first-place trophy.

Reese families enjoyed hamburgers and hot dogs cooked by the wing's first sergeants.

Reese and Lubbock - a Loyal Partnership

We in Lubbock and the South Plains area appreciate the model relationship which exists with the Reese Air Force Base community. This relationship which has endured for years because of the many valuable friendships made, is among the best base-host community cooperation efforts.

Reese and Lubbock people are amazingly similar. Both are inherently outgoing, friendly and industrious. Their tastes, likes and dislikes parallel in many ways. Many Lubbock area natives are in the Air Force. Many others make their homes in West Texas while stationed here, and many return to live in Lubbock after they separate from the Air Force.

Reese workers — officers, enlisted men and women, civilian employees and contractors — will earn combined salaries of more than $80 million this year. Most of this payroll will be spent in Lubbock and the surrounding area. Air Force people with their stable income can afford quality goods and services.

You can increase your chances of winning Reese customers by advertising in The ROUNDUP, the base's weekly — and only — newspaper, published by Chandelle Publications in Lubbock. Through The ROUNDUP, Reese people and their families find out what's happening on base, in Lubbock and in the Air Force.

You not only increase your chances of tipping the profit scales in your favor by placing ads in the base paper, but you also help out the military. The number and depth of articles depend on the size of the paper. Your advertising, then helps your business while it helps keep Reese people informed.

FRIENDS OF THE LUBBOCK CITY-COUNTY LIBRARY BOOK SALE TO OPEN

Tens of thousands of recycled books will go on sale Oct. 7-9 in the basement of the Mahon Library, 1306 9th Street, Lubbock.

In addition to single books, the sale includes magazines, records, tapes, encyclopedias, and even such things as ring binders, jigsaw puzzles, posters, and maps.

Friends of the Lubbock City-County Libraries (FOL) have spent the summer preparing for the annual sale which draws patrons from West Texas and New Mexico. This sale began more than 25 years ago with a few hundred volumes sold on the driveway of the old Godeke Library on 19th Street.

Proceeds have helped finance such things as the public libraries' computer automation of the catalog system, the "Reading Rainbow" program on the Public Broadcasting System, the Lubbock Area Coalition for Literacy, the speakers series, and continuing education for the staff of the public libraries. All proceeds are used to better the public library.

Items in the sale have been donated by the public or withdrawn from the local libraries. Most books sell for 50 cents for paperbacks or $1.00 for hardbacks. Special items and books sell for slightly more. This year's silent auction features rare and/or interesting books.

On the first sale day, Oct. 7, the sale is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to FOL members only. FOL family memberships may be purchased at the door for just $5.00. FOL is a nonprofit, all volunteer organization open to any person interested in better libraries. The sale opens to the public Oct. 8 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and continues on Sunday, Oct. 10, from 1-4 p.m. At the Sunday sale all items are reduced 50% or more. Bags of books will be sold at low, low prices.

Community notes

Military Day set at fair

Reese military personnel and their families will be admitted free at the South Plains Fair Sept. 30. The fair annually sets one-day each year to admit military and college students for free. Admission is normally $4 for adults and $1 for children.

According to fair officials, a valid active-duty military identification card is required for admission.

Activities scheduled for Military Day include livestock judging in the morning and a mule show in the afternoon. The carnival midway opens at 1 p.m. Recording artist Billy Dean will perform concerts at 7 and 9 p.m.

The fair, which runs from Saturday through Oct. 1, features a variety of free attractions. In addition to all of the agricultural and craft exhibits, shows such as Hedrick's Racing Pigs, Snuffy's Magical Clown Review, Wizard of Oz Review and W.C. Willy - Stilt Walker, perform daily.

OWC sets Pop-Tarts performance

The Reese Officers' Wives' Club will host the Pop-Tarts performance of "The Life of Madam X" Oct. 13. The event begins with a social at 6:30 p.m. with dinner set at 7 p.m. For reservations, call 885-4898 or 885-1914 by Oct. 10.

FSC hosts employment workshop

A federal employment workshop will be held at the Reese Family Support Center classroom, Oct. 5. The workshop will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Call 3305 for reservations.

ALS schedules graduation luncheon

Reese Airman Leadership School Class 94-E will hold a graduation luncheon at 11:30 a.m., Oct. 26, in the Reese Club. Cost is $5.50 per person. For reservations call 3147 by Oct. 26.

Embry-Riddle opens registration

Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University will open registration for a Master of Aeronautical Science Degree program Monday. Registration continues through Oct. 14. The school term begins Oct. 14 and runs through Dec. 17. For more information, contact the education.center at 885-6391.

Hispanic heritage luncheon set

Reese began its Hispanic Heritage Month observance Wednesday with a luncheon at the Caprock Cafe.

Other events scheduled for Hispanic Heritage Month include: Spanish classes, Tuesday through Oct. 11; a dance, Sept. 23, 8 p.m. at the Reese Club; fun run, Sept. 30; Catholic Mass, Oct. 2; golf tournament, Oct. 7 and luncheon, Oct. 13.

Voluntary bicycle registration begins

The 64th Security Police Squadron will begin a voluntary bicycle registration program on Oct. 1.

The program is available for all base employees and their families.

Bicycles are common theft targets and registering bicycles is one method of deterring a thief. It also helps police return recovered bicycles.

If interested, bring the bicycle to the Reese Visitor Center, Bldg. 6100, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Participants will be issued a permanent decal to affix to the bicycle. For more information, call SrA. Pam Ruhlen at 6652.

POW/MIA Day observance held

Substance abuse office moves

The substance abuse office will move operations from under Social Actions to the 64th Medical Group on Oct. 1. The new office symbol will be 64MDG/SGHMA. The new telephone number will be 3739. Social Actions will be closed Tuesday and Wednesday in order to transfer equipment. For more information call 3640.

Top 3 holds brisket sale

Reese's Top 3 Association will hold a brisket sale today. The sale features brisket, potato salad, beans and bread for $5. Unit first sergeants have details on ticket sales and delivery locations.

OPM to hold seminar

The Office of Personnel Management will conduct a one-day seminar on Retirement of Federal Employees here Oct. 5. The seminar will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Call 3803 for reservations.

Range opens for private weapon firing

The base firing range will be open for private weapon firing Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. For reservations, call 3848.

64th MDG holds classes

Breast self-examination classes are held at the 64th Medical Group on Wednesdays at 9 a.m. Call 3515 or 6369 for reservations.

In addition, 64th MDG Health Promotions has healthy heart cookbooks available free. Call 6153 or 3860 for details.

FSC has opportunities for volunteers

The transition staff at the Reese Family Support

Center is looking for an individual who has good people skills and would enjoy computer work and light typing.

Family services has several office worker positions open. Duties will include handing out base brochures, household items and assisting with welcome packets.

The American Red Cross is also looking for volunteers to take their Emergency Response Vehicle on local, state and national disaster assignments. Training is provided.

For more information on these positions please contact Cheryl Ortiz, Reese Family Support Center, 3305.

Arts and craft show set

The Reese Officers' Wives' Club Country Sampler Arts and Crafts Show is currently offering booth rentals to interested crafters.

The craft show is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 5, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Ruby's. This is an excellent opportunity to showcase handcrafted items during the holiday buying season.

Deadline for entry is Oct. 1. For details or to reserve your booth, contact Lori at 885-2241.

Club promotion continues

The Reese Club and Ruby's "4 Members Only" promotion continues with monthly drawings.

Club members can receive one of these prizes: four months free dues, four champagne dinners, four Sunday brunches or four Mamma's menu selections.

By entering, patrons are automatically registered for the grand prize drawing.

Members can enter as many times as they want. Look for complete details at the Reese Club and at Ruby's.

Hispanic Heritage Month

Annual observance catches interest of local and international audiences

Hispanic-American service members at Reese and around the world are finding new audiences interested in their culture and traditions.

At Reese, the Hispanic Heritage Committee has scheduled a variety of activities, ranging from free Spanish classes to dances. All events are open to all base personnel. (See article on page 11 for a listing of Reese events.)

Just as in Lubbock and throughout the United States, people in other nations are responding to the Hispanic Heritage Month message.

In Okinawa, Hispanic-Americans are visiting local schools, performing in city festivals and opening Hispanic club membership to their hosts.

The same thing occurs in Europe. German, Italian, Belgian and Dutch residents living near American bases sample foods, celebrate holidays and learn the customs celebrated by a small, but very active Hispanic-American population.

Each year, military installations worldwide celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month. For the 90,000 service members and 70,000 DoD civilians, it's a month to showcase their heritage.

Typical celebrations include festivals with Latin American food, traditional dance and music. Accompanying these festivals is the more serious aspect—the religious observances, family traditions and cultural remembrances felt by those whose Hispanic culture is a daily part of life.

For countries with little or no ethnic diversity, this sharing provides insight about how each culture lives and how that culture becomes part of America's heritage.

"I've found it's a unique way getting more involved in our local community," said Air Force TSgt. Carlos Santos of Kadena AB, Okinawa, Japan.

As president of the base's Hispanic-American Association, Santos said the Okinawans are very interested in America's various cultures. They encourage his and other ethnic groups to enter their communities and share their traditions.

"Here, I've found the local

"I've found it (Hispanic heritage activities) a unique way of getting more involved in our local community."

TSgt. Carlos Santos
Kadena AB, Japan

people can't get enough of our culture," said Santos. "The Okinawans are very culture-oriented and follow many traditional values. In that manner, we're the same. Our values are based on the Latin customs we each grew up with. Our common values provide us a great way to exchange culture."

Hispanic-Americans in Germany are also seeing more host nation interest, but from a different light. Army Sgt. 1st Class David Almendarez of Grafenwoehr said the influx of Eastern Europeans into Northern Bavaria spurred cultural interest in many ethnic groups.

"When the Berlin Wall fell five years ago, many people—Czechs, Poles, Slovaks—crossed the border," said Almendarez. "They brought a lot of their ethnic traditions with them. In a way, that has helped Hispanics here because we're able to explain our culture to their peaked interest. And since Americans have been here, the residents are more open to speak and learn about us."

For Almendarez, it took some initial work.

"A lot of our early jobs were getting rid of perceptions the Germans had about our culture," he said.

"They associated much of Hispanic culture directly with Spain, and that's not always the case."

Although most Latin cultures have Spanish ties, both Almendarez and Santos quickly point out each culture is more than a common language. Almendarez said the only way you can show that is to get out in the communities, make friends and hope they want to learn about your particular culture.

Santos agreed. "It's portraying that uniqueness to our friends that helps the education process," he said. "Although we have the common link of being Hispanic, we've got eight nationalities represented in our association (in Kadena). Each has customs unique to their heritage."

For Santos and the Kadena group, the education process has many outlets and is open to all. "Unlike many Hispanic groups, ours is open to everyone," said Santos. "We've got all the services represented here."

One thing the Kadena group does is learn traditions from other Latin American countries not represented in the group.

"There may be an Argentine observance that's different from what I learned in Ecuador," said Santos.

"If there's no Argentine here, we still want to show that custom. That means we have to study. It takes some work on our part, but it's worth the effort to show the differences in cultures," he said. (Adapted from Armed Forces Press Service)

Reese opens grid season

by A1C Tim Dempsey
Sports Editor

The intramural football season kicked off Sept. 13 with high scoring offenses taking to the field as teams prepare to dethrone the defending champs, the 52nd Flying Training Squadron.

In the opening game of the season, SrA. Pete Adams led the high-powered offense of the 64th Logistics Squadron as it drilled the 64th Civil Engineer Squadron, 39-12. In the second game, the offensive fireworks continued as Rob Crowder led the 64th Security Police Squadron to victory in a shootout with the 64th Operations Support Squadron, 35-29. Lockheed-B wrapped up the night as they rapped the 64th Communications Squadron/Contracting Squadron, 18-0.

The action continued on Sept. 15 as the 64th OSS evened its record as it defeated the 64th Medical Group, 24-19. The 64th SPS continued its early lead of the American League as it beat the 54th FTS, 28-20. And in the final game of the night, Lockheed-A pummeled the 64th Mission Support Squadron, 32-13.

Capt. Eric Cain, 64th OSS, stretches wide after deflecting a pass during the intramural football game between the 64th OSS and the 64th MDG. At inset, Capt. Eric Bass, 64th OSS, runs for a first down.

Wings

"The people of Lubbock take enormous pride in our relationship with Reese Air Force Base and the men and women of the U.S. Air Force whose selfless devotion to our nation and its defense continue to hold high the everlasting torch of freedom."

— Lubbock Mayor David R. Langston

The primary mission of Reese Air Force Base and the 64th Flying Training Wing is specialized undergraduate pilot training. The wing commander is Col. Roger Brady. The wing vice commander is Col. William Reynolds.

Reese is one of five flying training wings in Air Education and Training Command.

Through SUPT, Reese provides its customers, the operational commands of the Air Force and Navy, with highly trained officers who, after only a short transition period needed to upgrade to specific weapons systems, are capable of flying any aircraft in the Air Force inventory.

Initial jet training is conducted at Reese by the 35th Flying Training Squadron, flying the Cessna T-37, a subsonic aircraft built in the late 1950s. Reese has 83 T-37s.

Advanced jet training is divided into two tracks and is conducted by the 52nd and 54th Flying Training Squadrons.

Those students entering the advanced phase of training will be categorized as either bomber/fighter candidates or tanker/airlift candidates.

Those entering the tanker/airlift track will fly the Beech T-1A Jayhawk, a subsonic twin-engine jet aircraft, modified to emulate the handling characteristics of larger airlift/tanker aircraft. The wing currently has 38 T-1As in its inventory. T-1A training is conducted by the 52nd Flying Training Squadron.

Those entering the bomber/fighter track will train in the T-38 Talon, a supersonic jet built in the 1960s.

The wing has 52 T-38s. This training is conducted by the 54th Flying Training Squadron.

Reese is the only AETC base offering joint-service pilot training. U.S. Navy pilots now receive specialized undergraduate pilot training here from Navy and Marine Corps instructors as well as the U.S. Air Force.

Reese's first SUPT class entered academic training in July 1992 and those students selected to train in the tanker/airlift track began flying the T-1A in February 1993.

The 64th FTW graduates approximately 200 pilots each year.

Reese Air Force Base is located in the western part of Lubbock County, about 14 miles west of the downtown business district of the city of Lubbock, Texas.

The annual operating budget for the wing is approximately $40 million. In addition, the wing's annual payroll is approximately $49 million. The estimated economic impact of the base on the local community is more than $160 million, helping to create an estimated 1,100 local jobs.

Including military, Department of Defense civilians, contractors, military retirees in the area and family members, there are more than 8,000 people in the Reese community.

Air Force Association promotes defense

The Air Force Association is a professional society with nearly 200,000 members representing all elements of the Air Force family . . . military and civilian . . . active and retired . . . Reserve and Guard . . . cadets and veterans . . . CAP, Civil Service, and aerospace workers.

Thus, the AFA provides a national organization through which all free men and women may unite to fulfill the responsibilities imposed by the impact of aerospace technology on modern society; to support armed strength adequate to maintain the security and peace of the United States and of the Free World; to educate themselves and the public at large in the development of adequate aerospace power for the betterment of all mankind; and to help develop friendly relations among free nations, based on respect for the principle of freedom and equal rights to all mankind.

There are 19 chapters of AFA in Texas with over 19,000 members. The Lubbock Chapter of AFA was established in 1961 and currently has about 550 members. Meetings are held quarterly. The next meeting will be in late October or early November 1994. Current chapter officers are: Ernie Petrash, president (794-3672); Bob Negley, vice president (798-7721); Gary Bodensteiner, secretary; and Mike Pleskovitch, treasurer. Information about membership can be obtained from any of the officers or from Past President Joe Price, 762-3453, or Eldon Turner, 794-5786. One year memberships cost $25; a 3-year membership is only $60. Everyone who believes in the defense of our nation is eligible to join. Membership includes a subscription to AIR FORCE Magazine — recognized as the single most authoritative journal of aerospace defense issues. Each issue contains information on national, state and local military activities.

Some of the ways the Lubbock Chapter supports Reese and the U.S. Air Force include awards for the Most Outstanding Second Lieutenant at each pilot graduation, help with Camp Blue Yonder, the Enlisted Awards Banquet and supplementary furnishing of a room in the Airman Education Dorm.

At the national level, the AFA champions legislation that strengthens the national defense especially as it affects the U.S. Air Force, and is a strong advocate for improvement of Air Force quality-of-life issues that come before Congress.

"The Lubbock Chapter of the Air Force Association recognizes and supports the men and women of Reese Air Force Base in their efforts to produce first-quality pilots for the world's greatest air force. We strive to focus the awareness of our legislators on the needs of the U.S. Air Force because we believe this to be the only rational course of action for a people who value the American way of life."

— Joe Price
Past President, Lubbock Chapter of the Air Force Association

Combined Federal Campaign helps those who cannot help themselves

Reese's annual fund drive, the Combined Federal Campaign, makes a significant impact on the quality of life of Lubbock and the South Plains. The money raised during the six weeks of the campaign goes to help those who cannot help themselves through local health and service organizations. Last year, wing contributions helped more than 115,000 people in Lubbock alone.

Some of the agencies receiving help from this fund are the Salvation Army, the Rape Crisis Center, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, Boy and Girl Scouts, Reese Youth Activities, Red Cross, Catholic Family Services, Lubbock Children's Health Clinic and Women's Protective Services.

Donors can designate specific agencies, both local and national, they wish to benefit. Ninety-five cents out of every dollar raised goes directly to aid community organizations.

To show its commitment to improving the quality of life in the community this year, the wing hopes to exceed its goal of $95,000.

WE FEEL
IT'S TIME TO STAND UP AND SALUTE!

All of us at Gardski's want to extend our gratitude to all those at Reese Air Force Base for their continuing support for the last 18 years. Gardski's and Reese Air Force Base; a great Lubbock tradition since 1976.

Minority Small Business owners benefit from Reese and SBA

The U. S. Small Business Administration's Lubbock District Office says the team effort by the 64th Contracting Squadron at Reese Air Force Base has played a major role in the viability of their 8(a) Program.

This SBA assistance program for socially and economically disadvantaged small business owners was established to promote the development of such firms by providing available federal contract, financial, and technical help, as well as training in marketing and other business management subjects.

More than half of all federal contracts to minority firms is achieved through the SBA's 8(a) program. The SBA acts as a prime contractor and enters into contracts with other federal agencies, negotiating subcontracts with small companies enrolled in the 8(a) Program. Over the past ten years, Reese has awarded SBA clients 55 contracts amounting to more than $10.5 million.

SBA's Lubbock District awarded over $5.8 million to approved 8(a) firms during Fiscal Year 1993 and through the third quarter of Fiscal Year 1994 Lubbock has awarded over $3.7 million. This team effort enables RAFB to accomplish required jobs, such as construction, paving, and the like, while being a productive member of the Lubbock community by providing jobs for these minority-owned subcontractors of the SBA.

Reese personnel also participate annually in federal procurement workshops in coordination with SBA and the Texas Tech University Small Business Development Center. Those procurement workshops drew approximately 125 attendees in the Lubbock area. RAFB and SBA, working together, strengthen not only the Lubbock community by providing a variety of business and learning opportunities for local minority-owned business owners, but also as far away as Midland-Odessa and Amarillo.

Since September 1, 1993, Reese and the SBA, through the TTUSBDC, have conducted nine seminars with 106 attendees to assist departing Air Force members in making the transition from military to civilian life. RAFB refers transitioning personnel to both the SBA and the TTUSBDC for such training, workshops and counseling assistance on a continual basis including getting answers to individual questions about starting and operating their own business.

Reese AFB is also a co-sponsor (along with fourteen other agencies interested in the economic development of Lubbock and its small businesses) of the monthly Minority, Small and Woman-Owned Business Breakfast which enables business owners to network with other small business owners and representatives of city, state and federal governments.

Reese AFB also takes a leadership role in the federal community of Lubbock as they work together each year on the Combined Federal Campaign, in conjunction with the United Way of Lubbock. With RAFB's leadership and the team effort of all the local federal agencies, the CFC, year after year, helps to meet the needs of many disadvantaged people in the Lubbock community.

Lubbock, South Plains economy receives boost from Reese

Reese Air Force Base has a profound economic impact on the quality of life in Lubbock and surrounding communities. As it fulfills its primary mission of training pilots for the U. S. Air Force, the Air National Guard, the Air Force Reserves and allied countries around the world, it also provides employment for both military and civilian residents of this area and maintains a first-class installation.

About 1,200 uniformed military officers and airmen—accompanied by 1,800 family members—are stationed at Reese and are joined by another 1,000 civilian government employees and contractors. Reese also provides support to a population of some 4,000 retired military members who live throughout West Texas.

With an operating budget of approximately $50 million in addition to its payroll of $80 million, Reese AFB generates approximately 1,200 secondary jobs in the community—jobs required by local businesses to support the presence of the Air Force base—to make up the combined financial impact of more than $160 million on the local economy.

Cessna T-37B "Tweet"

Reese's T-37 Tweets are twin-engine jets used to train students in the fundamentals of aircraft handling and instrument, formation and night flying. The Tweet is the first aircraft designed specifically for this purpose.

The Tweet's twin engines and flying characteristics give student pilots the required feel for handling the larger, faster aircraft later in the course. The instructor sits beside the student pilot in an enclosed cockpit, making training easier. The cockpit has dual controls, ejection seats and a jettisonable clamshell-type canopy.

The T-37B became operational in 1959. The "B" model has new radio navigational equipment, UHF radio and redesigned instrument panels. Many foreign air forces fly the T-37.

Northrop T-38A Talon

The T-38 Talon is a twin-engine, high-altitude, supersonic jet trainer.

The aircraft is used primarily by Air Education and Training Command for undergraduate pilot and instructor pilot training. The instructor and student in tandem on rocket-powered ejection seats in a pressurized, air-conditioned cockpit.

The T-38 needs as little as 2,300 feet of runway to take off and can climb from sea level to nearly 30,000 feet in one minute. Students fly the T-38 in pilot training to learn supersonic techniques; aerobatics, formation, night and instrument flying; and cross-country navigation.

Beech T-1A Jayhawk

The T-1A Jayhawk is a medium-range, twin-engine jet trainer. It is used in AETC to train students scheduled to fly airlift/tanker type aircraft after completion of specialized undergraduate pilot training.

The swept-wing T-1A is a missionized version of the Beech 400A. It has seating for an instructor pilot and two students and is powered by twin turbofan engines capable of operating at speeds of 330 knots at low level and at Mach .75 at altitude.

The Jayhawk represents the first new training aircraft procured by the Air Force in approximately three decades. In addition to Reese, the T-1A will eventually be flown at Columbus AFB, Miss.; Laughlin AFB, Texas; Vance AFB, Okla.; and at Randolph AFB, Texas.

T-1A Specifications

Primary function ..... advanced jet pilot trainer for airlift/tanker pilots Prime contractor ..... Beech Aircraft Corp.
 Power plant/manufacturer ..... two Pratt & Whitney JT15D-5 turbofan engines

Unit Highlights

The mission of the 64th Flying Training Wing is to train top quality military pilots with the greatest efficiency and minimum possible cost for today's Air Force.

The training that officers receive at Reese enables them to fly any aircraft in the Air Force inventory with only a short transition training period needed to familiarize them with the new aircraft.

64th Operations Group

The mission of the 64th Operations Group is to train student pilots in the academic, primary and advanced phases of SUPT.

The group consists of the 35th Flying Training Squadron (T-37 aircraft), the 52nd FTS (T-1A aircraft) the 54th FTS (T-38 aircraft) and the 64th Operations Support Squadron (academics and operations management), working directly for the group commander.

The group conducts training using computer aided instruction, flight simulator and hands-on flying of T-37, T-1A and T-38 training aircraft.

The operations group also oversees the aircraft maintenance contract. Lockheed Support Systems, Inc. has responsibility for organizational and intermediate level maintenance on assigned aircraft, jet engines and associated test and ground support equipment.

64th Support Group

The mission of the 64th Support Group is to provide logistical and base support services for accomplishment of the wing mission. This includes contracting, logistics support, housing and food services, security of the installation and facilities, communications and computer support, civil engineering and military and civilian personnel support functions.

64th Logistics Squadron

The mission of the 64th Logistics Squadron is to provide supply support to Reese training aircraft; 376 customer accounts and five remote units. The squadron manages wing support agreements, War Reserve Materiel and mobility planning and deployment capabilities. They supervise operation and maintenance of all government vehicles. In addition to passenger/personal property support, they handle surface freight, packing and crating.

64th Mission Support Squadron

The mission of the 64th Mission Support Squadron is to establish, provide and manage comprehensive Command and Mission Support programs which support the 64th Flying Training Wing. MSSQ handles information management, social programs and resources to enhance mission effectiveness and support commanders at all levels. They provide the systems, services, resources and procedures to ensure maximum wartime readiness programs.

64th Civil Engineer Squadron

The 64th Civil Engineer Squadron provides support for all engineering projects for the wing.

CES includes 250 squadron members and a $12.5 million budget for the maintenance and construction of an installation consisting of 3,775 acres, 189 facilities, 398 housing units, three runways and auxiliary airfield.

The squadron ensures that all projects comply with environmental standards and provides utilities, fire protection, entomology, sanitation and custodial services and a 74-person emergency force.

64th Contracting Squadron

The 64th Contracting Squadron is responsible for solicitation, award and administration of all contract actions for the 64th Flying Training Wing. They directly support the wing mission by contracting for a wide range of base services, supply requirements and construction projects.

They implement congressionally mandated socioeconomic programs and contingency contracting directives.

64th Security Police Squadron

The mission of the 64th Security Police Squadron is to support and protect resources for all assigned.

The squadron also has a vital air base group defense mobility team, standing ready for world wide deployment.

64th Communications Squadron

The mission of the 64th Communications Squadron is to provide voice and record communications, data automation and audio/visual services in support of the wing mission. It also operates and maintains navigational aids, ground radio service facilities and meteorological equipment.

64th Services Squadron

The mission of the 64th Services Squadron is to provide facilities and leisure time activities that stimulate, develop and maintain the mental, physical and social well-being of personnel.

64th Medical Group

The mission of the 64th Medical Group is to provide comprehensive support to the flying training mission; ensure maximum medical wartime readiness and combat capability; serve as a focal point for a peacetime health care delivery system for all eligible beneficiaries; and while doing these, provide the highest quality of health care possible.

64th FTW Wing Staff

The 64th FTW Wing Staff includes a wide range of agencies. Each provides a specific expertise in support of the wing commander and vice commander. These organizations include: Safety, Inspections, Quality, Senior Enlisted Advisor, Executive, Historian, Comptroller, Manpower, Chaplain, Public Affairs, Command and Control and Social Actions.

Reese tenant units

The wing also is supported by four tenant units. These are the Commissary, Base Exchange, Office of Special Investigations and Defense FAS.

Camp Blue Yonder supports area youngsters

Camp Blue Yonder is a non-profit summer camp for underprivileged Lubbock area children between the ages of 8 and 11. The camp is sponsored and operated by volunteers from the Reese community. All children attending the camp are selected by local charity organizations through the Volunteer Center of Lubbock.

Children come from agencies such as the Lubbock Boys Club, Parkway Neighborhood Center, Big Brothers and Sisters of Lubbock, Guadalupe Neighborhood Center, Young Men's and Women's Christian Associations and others.

During the camp, actually two separate camps—one for boys and one for girls, children visit several base agencies and use wing facilities such as the bowling center, Caprock Cafe, picnic grounds and swimming pools.

Some of the scheduled off-base activities include visits to the Science Spectrum/Omnimax Theater, Discovery Zone, Joyland Amusement Park, Putt-Putt Golf and Games, Texas Water Rampage and Frito-Lay plant.

"When you draw up a list of Lubbock's assets you cannot overlook the contributions Reese makes to our way of life. Not just the economic benefits—which are substantial—but the involvement of so many bright young people with all their energy and enthusiasm. Reese Air Force Base gives us a vision of America's future—a future full of promise and hope."

— Lubbock City Manager Bob Cass

Host Family Program is a 'home away from home' for student pilots

The Reese Host Family Program is sponsored by the Women's Division of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce in an effort to provide student pilots a chance to meet Lubbock citizens and interact with them in a family atmosphere.

Student pilots arrive at Reese approximately every six weeks and stay for about 50 weeks of training. The number of student pilots in each class varies but is usually between 20 and 30. During their stay in Lubbock, they are given the opportunity to register with the Reese Host Family Program — a voluntary action on their part but one that is encouraged by Reese officials.

The Host Family Program is responsible for recruiting Lubbock families to serve as hosts for four to six student pilots during their stay in the city. Mixers are held at the Chamber of Commerce to introduce the host families to the student pilots. Refreshments are served and Chamber officials are on hand to meet and greet these new residents.

Interested Lubbock residents are invited to call the Chamber of Commerce at 763-4666 to find out more about the Host Family Program.

"I never want to pass up the opportunity to let the people of Reese Air Force Base know how genuinely we appreciate their presence and how grateful we are for their many contributions to our city. To the thousands of Air Force men and women who have come our way since 1941, we say Thank You, Reese. We salute you for what you do for our country. Each and every one of you are true Patriots."

Armed Services Committee of Chamber of Commerce provides special activities

The purpose of the Armed Services Committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is to act as a liaison with the people of Reese Air Force Base and other military operations within the Lubbock area, including ROTC units at Texas Tech, various Army, Navy and Marine Reserves, National Guard units and others.

The group is comprised of about 85 men and women from a wide spectrum of the Lubbock community.

The Armed Services Committee sponsors and presents a "Citizenship Award" at each graduation ceremony for pilots who have been trained at Reese AFB. The award is presented to the student who showed the most interest and participated in the greatest number of activities that furthered community relations.

The committee also sponsors a fall golf tournament involving members of the committee and officers of Reese AFB.

Reese Air Force Base — An Historical

Lubbock Army Air Corps Advanced Flying School was officially established by the War Department on June 26, 1941, shortly after the citizens of Lubbock County had donated almost 2,000 acres of land in western Lubbock County to the federal government for construction of a military air field. The field began operating in late 1941, and the training aviation cadets began February 6, 1942, and later Lubbock Army Air Field on April 26, 1943, then Lubbock Army Air Base on January 13, 1948, before finally being named Reese Air Force Base.

The first class of pilots graduated April 29, 1942, after training in the single engine AT-6 Texan. Class 42-H graduated on September 6, 1942, and was the first of many to train twin-engine pilots in the AT-9 Jeep and AT-17 Bobcat. Later classes also trained in the AT-7 Navigator.

FIELD DEDICATED

On June 21, 1942, the field was formally dedicated as Lubbock Army Air Field during its first open house. In 1944 both the AT-10 Wichita and the TB-25 were added to the flying programs. By the end of World War II a total of 7,008 bomber, fighter and transport pilots had been trained at the facility. With the end of the war, the base closed on December 31, 1945.

During the period it was closed, the base was used as a housing area for veterans and their families. National Guard units also used the base for training.

The base was reactivated on August 1, 1949, when the 3500th Pilot Training Wing moved to Reese from Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana. The wing was redesignated as the 64th Flying Training Wing April 14, 1972.

Reese was named in honor of Lieutenant Augustus F. Reese Jr., a native of nearby Shallowater, Texas, during a ceremony on November 5, 1949. Lieutenant Reese was killed in action during World War II while flying a combat mission in a P-38 against an enemy railroad supply train. He was lost in Cagliari, Sardinia, Italy, on May 14, 1943.

Beginning in 1949, the AT-6 was again used in the basic phase-in of the T-28A that began in 1951 but was not completed until 1953; however, the T-28 was phased out in early 1955.

TB-25 MITCHELL

The famous Billy Mitchell Bomber, the TB-25, was probably the most historic of all aircraft to fly at Reese as it served as a mainstay for training from September 3, 1945 through

"Reese leads the way in producing pilots for the world's best Air Force and its mission grows more extensive and vital every day. Specialized and multi-service pilot training position Reese on the cutting edge of today's most advanced air defense planning. America, including Lubbock, must never forget that the world is still a very dangerous place and that our tomorrows may well depend on what goes on at Reese Air Force Base today."

— Randy Neugebauer
Lubbock City Council Member

January 1959. It was the only trainer in use from January to September 1955. Class 59-E phased out the old war bird, and the last TB-25 to fly at Reese is now on display at the main entrance to the base.

The first jet trainer, the T-33A Shooting Star, was introduced on September 4, 1958. The second jet trainer, the T-37B "Tweet," entered the program March 13, 1961, and is still being used as the primary jet trainer today. Training went supersonic in September 1966 when the T-38A Talon replaced the T-33A. Training still continues in the advanced flying stages in the T-38.

In April 1961, Reese was named as one of seven Air Education and Training Command bases designated to conduct undergraduate pilot training (UPT). This brought an end to the three-phase program where pre-flight, primary, and basic training were given at three different bases. As it is set up now, UPT is conducted at Reese in three phases over a 52-week period.

AIRPORT FLYING

From 1965 through 1973, the T-41A Mescalero, a military version of the Cessna 172, was used as a preflight trainer. These flights were flown from what is now Lubbock International Airport. Students now receive T-41 training before they arrive at Reese.

The Air Force's first undergraduate pilot training instrument flight simulator (UPT/IFS) became operational at Reese on August 11, 1977, when the members of Class 78-06 began training in the T-37 simulator. Class 78-07 began training in the T-38 simulator in 1978 and was the first class using the UPT/IFS. The UPT/IFS facility houses eight T-37, four T-38 and two T-1 simulator cockpits plus their associated visual and computer equipment. The majority of instrument training is conducted in the simulator, thus reducing the number of aircraft flying

An Educational Partnership

South Plains College has been serving the educational needs of Reese Air Force Base personnel for nearly 25 years. It's a working partnership that helps college students aim a little higher. Whether it's academic courses for transfer to a university, or technical courses designed to sharpen skills, South Plains College is in the business of teaching. Flexible evening classes, faculty who care about student success, and affordable tuition and fees all add up to big opportunities for attaining a college degree. hours necessary. This training results in substantial savings in fuel, aircraft wear and tear, and maintenance expenses.

The years have brought many changes to Reese. Since 1941, more than 24,000 pilots have received their new silver wings at Reese.

Between August 1949 and September 1961, when the last cadet graduated, 4,005 Aviation Cadets were graduated.

The cadets were commissioned as second lieutenants upon successful completion of the flying training and supplemented the production of already commissioned officers who entered the program. Included in Reese's total number of graduates are pilots from more than 39 countries.

WOMEN PILOTS

On September 21, 1979, UPT classes began including women students along with the men. Women have served alongside men at Reese continually since the first contingent of Women's Army Air Corps (WAACs) personnel arrived at Lubbock Army Air Field in June 1943.

Reese entered the Specialized Undergraduate Pilot Training era with the arrival of the first Beechjet T-1A "Jayhawk" in February, 1992.

Class 93-12 became the first class to fly the T-1A in February 1993 and was also the first class in the Air Force to graduate through the specialized undergraduate pilot training program on July 29, 1993.
