From my perspective

by Col. Roger Brady
64th FTW Commander

A sign of the times in our changing Air Force is the challenge of retaining economically viable clubs. To assist us in this, we have received approval for collocation of our clubs.

As you remember, in March of this year, we talked about "collocation" in terms of combined dining at Mamma Reesione's and the officers club. This was a very transparent change to our members. The original intent was to improve club service and increase the clubs' financial strength. Since then, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Merrill McPeak has published Air Force policy allowing collocation of officer and enlisted programs in the same facility where sufficient demand does not support profitable separate facilities.

In addition Hq. AETC provided us with a staff assistance evaluation the first week in May. Although our intent originally was to keep Mamma's open, this alone will not be enough to fix the clubs as we know them.

With this in mind, on July 1 we will move Mamma Reesione's to the main lounge in the officers club. The price for the pizza buffet will remain $3.95 for enlisted and officers club members and $4.95 for non-members. The main lounge will be used as a bar in the evening. In addition, pizza will be available at the bowling center snack bar. We will also expand our flightline sandwich delivery program to include pizza, and add Bldgs. 800, 555, 250 and 1300 to the distribution points.

An important point to understand is that our existing enlisted and officers bars will remain in place. You may also notice the names coming off the facilities between now and the end of the month. We will ask the base to submit name recommendations to the 64th Services Squadron commander. We will convene the officers and enlisted advisory councils to approve the new name of our club and work on other challenges as we go through this adjustment.

This is a substantial change, but one which will ensure we continue to have the high quality clubs we all want.

ABUSERS

They may not be what you expect

by Capt. Melinda Davis-Perritano
Reese-Cannon Area Defense Counsel

When I first assumed my duties as the area defense counsel in November 1993, many persons asked me how I would react to clients who had physically or emotionally abused a child.

I have always had a strong voice against child abuse and I have been an advocate of children's rights. As a prior government prosecutor, I prosecuted numerous child assault cases but I never dealt personally with an accused — only their victims — and I was unsure how I would resolve a personal conflict.

Since becoming the ADC, I have counseled several clients for child abuse in Article 15 and court-martial forums, and to my surprise there has been no personal conflict in representing clients accused of child abuse.

The clients I have dealt with who have committed child abuse are not the emotionless, non-remorseful individuals that some perceive them to be. To the contrary, child abusers are the most emotionally charged clients I have represented. I have observed client after client cry with remorse and pain because they have hurt someone they love. These persons do not set out to harm a child, physically or emotionally. But what happens all too often is the person is in a stressful situation and reacts in an abusive manner out of this frustration.

Unfortunately, these hurtful words or physical harm and violence cannot be taken back and those few seconds of immature, irrational parental behavior can cost you your family, your Air Force career and your freedom. Child abuse is punishable under the Uniform Code of Military Justice and can lead to Article 15 or court-martial proceedings with the punishment depending on the severity of the harm to the child.

Don't be the next client to say, "If only I had waited 30 seconds before I slapped him," or, "If I had just walked around the block and calmed down, I would have realized I wasn't mad at my child; I was mad at my boss," or, "If I had put the spilt milk or broken vase into perspective, I would not have shaken him." The bottom line is — think before you react. If you become so angry at your child and you believe physical punishment is necessary, wait and think about the punishment prior to striking the child. And think about what you say. The old saying,

"Sticks and stones may break my bones but words can never harm me," is not true. Words do hurt and can be the source of emotional abuse.

For more information regarding your rights in a child abuse investigation, contact me at DSN 681-2915.

Don't get burned!

by Chuck Gerrior
Reese Ground Safety Manager

Summer is finally here (officially). With summer comes the national pastime of getting a tan. All too often, the effort turns into a sunburn.

These burns can be a mild case of redness or a series of large blisters causing the victim hours of pain and suffering. Most of the severe sunburns can be avoided by using common sense when exposing your skin to direct sunlight.

You can't avoid the sun, but you can take precautions to prevent serious problems. Some of the easy steps to getting a safe tan are:

- Initially limit your exposure to ultraviolet rays by limiting yourself to 15 minutes per day until your suntan develops gradually.
- Avoid direct sunlight between mid-morning and mid-afternoon hours when the sun produces the greatest amount of ultraviolet radiation.

- If you must work outdoors during the hours of heaviest ultraviolet radiation, wear proper clothing protection for your body, including your head, face and eyes.

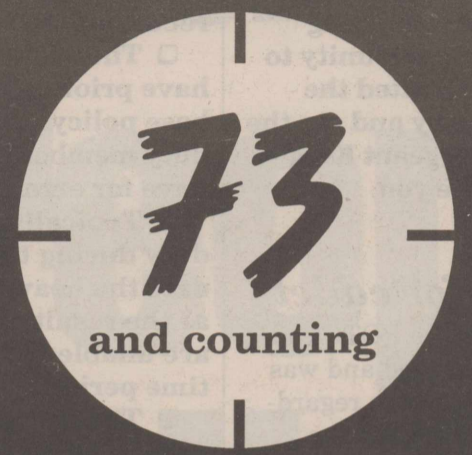

- If you receive an overexposure to the sun, seek medical attention to prevent infection.

- As a preventive measure, use a sunscreen with a sun protection factor number that will provide the proper protection for your skin:

- SPF 2-4 - for persons who seldom burn, but tan easily.
- SPF 4-6 - for those who need extra protection from sunburn.
- SPF 8-15 - for strong protection with little tanning resulting.

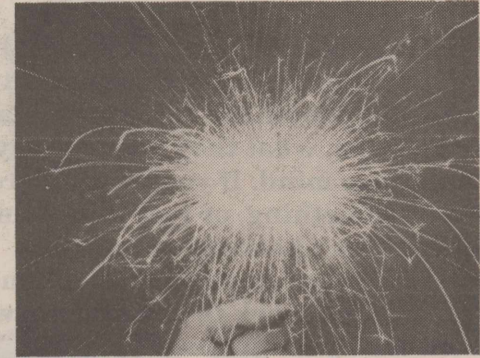

- SPF 15 and over - an ultra rating that permits no tanning; for people who never tan but always burn.

and counting

They reach 1,800° and cause third degree burns.

Here, pass them out to all the kids.

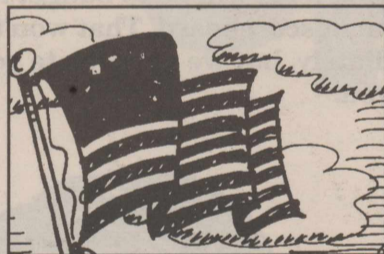

The truth is, all fireworks are dangerous. Even the "safe" ones. Use common sense this July 4th. Don't let your kids play with fireworks.

 PREVENT BLINDNESS.

From YOUR perspective

Editor's note: The following note is from wing commander Col. Roger Brady, addressing his concerns for future Carelines.

A Careline column provides one of the many opportunities for a commander to find out what people are thinking, what's bothering them, what they like, exactly what's on their mind. If you've wondered why we do something, or just want to make a comment, don't hesitate to call.

If you leave your name and telephone number, we'll get back to you and answer your concern by telephone.

Calls of interest to the Reese community will be published, without the caller's name, in the Roundup the following week. I look forward to hearing from you.

Calls can be made to the Careline 24 hours a day at 3273.

'Bowled over'

I just wanted to voice my appreciation for the management and the people over at Windmill Lanes Bowling Center. The atmosphere is absolutely fantastic, and the lane conditions are great!

I know the folks at Windmill Lanes appreciate your words of praise. Your compliment is a testament to the good work being accomplished by the members of the 64th Services Squadron.

Housing problem

I'm calling regarding base housing. I was told that all work and moving in has been stopped because they're working on the commander's house. When we got here we were told it would be anywhere from four to six months. It is now over six months, and I am told it is going to be another 60 to 90 days before we get into housing.

I wish you'd print something as to exactly what they're doing to the commander's house and why they're letting all these people live off base and pay the extra money. It's not like the Air Force pays tons of money to begin with.

Without your name it is impossible to determine what the facts are concerning the time you have spent on the waiting list. Whatever delay you experienced, however, was not caused by the repair and replacement work on the commander's quarters. Much of that work was accomplished through contractors, not by housing maintenance personnel.

Great help at self-help

I went to the self-help store Wednesday and I was helped by MSgt. Norman King. He was very willing to help and didn't look at me as if he didn't have any time; he was eager to help.

He also went out of his way to make my visit as comfortable as possible. I am a spouse and it makes me feel comfortable to know that I can go to these base agencies and get the customer service that I need, such as what Sergeant King provided. His professionalism should be commended.

I really appreciate your comments. I'm a staunch advocate of quality, and customer service is the front line in the quality arena. Our self-help center is one of the best in the entire command and I can assure you Sergeant King plays a big part in making it so.

I'm glad you had a pleasant "shopping" experience. Let me take this opportunity to invite all of you who have not visited the self-help center lately to come by and see the many things it has to offer. Sergeant King and his crew will be glad to see you.

Multiple problems for cadet

I'm a dependent and an Air Force ROTC cadet at Texas Tech University. I graduated and was commissioned May 14. My complaint is regarding the mistreatment of dependents and the rudeness of civilian personnel at both the golf course and the barber shop.

I waited an hour for a haircut at the barber shop today. Admittedly, I was there during the time when uniformed personnel receive priority. My complaint is that there was only one barber on duty during lunch time. I got there at 12:20 p.m. and left at 1:15 p.m. Every time a uniformed person walked in, they got priority and I had to get out of the chair. I realize that the sign regarding uniformed personnel is posted, but the sign doesn't say that the policy is in accordance with Air Force regulation. If it is, then I think the sign should say so. Also, would it be possible to have two or three barbers on duty during the lunch time?

When I commented that I'd been waiting an hour, one of the barbers there was extremely rude and said, "That's the rule." Then she turned away and picked up the phone. At that point I went ahead and left.

Also, the manager of the golf course has always been rude. As I said earlier, I am a cadet and I'm enlisted in the inactive reserves as an E-3. However, when I go to the golf course I have to pay O-1 to O-3 rates. The manager said that is Air Force policy. I've been out there before and other people have told me that's not true. I went over to billeting and Air Force cadets pay the E-1 to E-6 rates. I believe both of these programs come under MWR services.

Initially, let me congratulate you on your recent commissioning, and let me make it clear that all ROTC cadets with reserve identification cards and cadets on official government orders are welcome at all exchange services and activities. Now, let me address each of your concerns separately:

□ You hit the nail on the head regarding customer service — quality service is paramount. Rudeness toward customers will not be tolerated; I'll take care of it! If this unfortunate circumstance should recur, please let me know.

□ The 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. "military have priority" policy is a long-standing base policy created to cater to the active-duty members and the limited time they have for errands during the lunch hours.

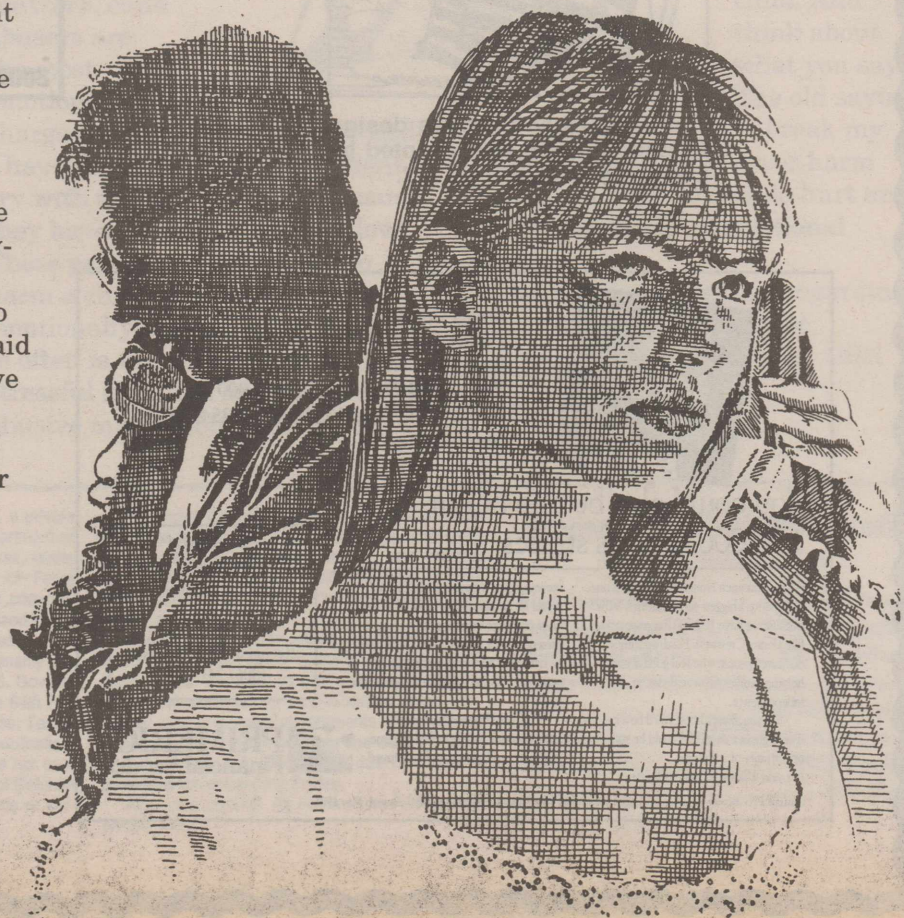

□ Typically, there are two barbers on duty during the lunch hours to accommodate the heavy customer traffic. Currently, as the result of budgetary constraints, we are unable to find another barber for this time period.

□ Thank you for your suggestion to adjust the golfing green fee for ROTC cadets. Effective immediately, ROTC cadets with reserve I.D. cards or government orders will be charged enlisted rates for golfing green fees until commissioning. Thanks for calling.

What's the score?

I'm just curious why the scoreboard in the little league park has been inoperative for weeks.

We've been working this problem for several weeks. The short-term solution has been to replace the light bulbs and repair electrical problems to the best of our ability; long term will be to budget for a replacement scoreboard. That won't happen immediately, but we appreciate your call. Thank you.

Clubs merging food service

by SSgt. Mike Breslin
Editor

A planned consolidation of food service in Reese's two clubs is expected to cut costs and improve service for members of both establishments, while avoiding price increases.

Food service operations will leave the enlisted club July 1 as Mamma Reesione's relocates to the officers club. The officers' facility will be open to members of both the officers and enlisted clubs once the change takes effect.

"What this does is make the officers club available to enlisted members for lunch and dinner," said CMSgt. David Ptomey, 64th FTW senior enlisted advisor. "We're not losing anything, even though it may seem that way to some because food service is moving. We'll have a wider variety to choose from."

The lounge in the enlisted club will continue to operate, and feature the monthly "Boss 'n' Buddy Night" and the Friday night buffet for enlisted members as usual. Other than the closure of Mamma's, it will be "business as usual," the chief said. He added that the club remains open for parties, receptions and other bookings.

As these moves are made, plans are in the works to rename the officers club. Capt. John Povelones, 64th Services Squadron commander, will collect name proposals and he encouraged wing members to submit suggestions to him by Wednesday; SVS is located in Bldg. 230 and suggestions can be sent by phone at 3006 or through distribution to "SVS/CC." A combined officers-enlisted council will select the name and plan a ribbon-cutting ceremony for mid-July.

This consolidation is in line with the policy announced in March by Gen. Merrill McPeak, Air Force chief of staff, wherein he directed that unless the demand on a base warrants otherwise, consolidation should be the direction that Air Force clubs take in the future. Under the policy, clubs that consolidate entirely will maintain separate lounges for officers and enlisted members, but food service will be done jointly.

According to Chief Ptomey, consolidating food service on Reese is a matter of financial survival for both clubs. That opinion is shared by club managers throughout the service, who recommended consolidation to General McPeak following a worldwide meeting held in January.

The chief stressed that this consolidation of food service will not mean higher dues or prices for members. He cited the pizza buffet at Mamma's as an example, saying it would remain $3.95 for members and $4.95 for non-members.

In addition, some services will expand. Pizza will be available in the officers club Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and the existing sandwich delivery will now include pizza. Delivery will also enlarge its scope sometime in July, serving civil engineering, wing headquarters, the hospital and the main logistics building. Previously, delivery had been geared to the flightline.

Other improvements are on the way as well, according to Captain Povelones. Renovations of the kitchen and social areas in the officers club are in the planning stages.

Chief Ptomey emphasized that the concerns of enlisted members and retirees have been and will continue to be paramount in this matter.

Former Cannon airman kills four

FAIRCHILD AFB, Wash. — An airman first class recently discharged from the Air Force killed four people and injured 23 others in a shooting spree here June 20 before being killed by base security police.

Dean Mellberg, 21, was reportedly discharged from Cannon AFB, N.M., in May for character and personality disorders. He had been assigned to Fairchild in April 1993 and reassigned to Cannon in March, said Fairchild officials.

Also dead are: Anita Linder, age unknown; Christine McCaran, 8; Maj. (Dr.) Thomas Brigham, 31; and Capt. (Dr.) Allan London, 30. The doctors were both assigned to the base mental health clinic. Linder is believed to have been a patient at the hospital and the little girl was being babysat by a family also injured in the shooting, officials said.

The shooting occurred when Mellberg entered the mental health clinic, located outside the base perimeter, carrying an AK-47 assault rifle. The former aircraft maintenance specialist shot and killed the two doctors and wounded several other people before crossing the parking lot to the hospital, also outside the base. Once inside the building, Mellberg opened fire on patients and staff members, officials said.

Mellberg then left the building and killed a fourth victim in a grassy area near the hospital. He was subsequently killed by a security policeman patrolling the area on bicycle. (Air Force News Service)

AF drops investigation

WASHINGTON — The Air Force has ended all actions involving a travel voucher filed by a sergeant who testified before Congress March 9 about sexual harassment in the military.

Sgt. Zenaida Martinez of RAF Mildenhall, England, will be reimbursed the $200 she paid a London taxi to return to base after her trip to Washington, said an Air Force June 13 news release.

Additionally, per her request, Sergeant Martinez will be allowed to cross-train into the social actions career field and remain in England. She is currently a security police specialist and was being reassigned to McGuire AFB, N.J.

The 27-year-old Sergeant Martinez was one of four military women invited to Washington to testify before the House Armed Services Committee in March. Recently, she filed a complaint against the Air Force for retaliating against her for testifying. The sergeant's commander was investigating her travel voucher, the news release said.

Secretary of the Air Force Sheila E. Widnall recently met with the sergeant and restated her support of the Air Force's "zero tolerance" policy on sexual harassment. (Air Force News Service)

Guam suffering measles epidemic

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas — Air Force people planning on relocating to or visiting Guam should be aware the island is undergoing a confirmed epidemic of measles.

It is vital that members receive current immunizations for themselves and their family members, say personnel officials at the Air Force Military Personnel Center here.

Members heading for Guam in the next three months will have their medical records rescreened by medical treatment facilities immunization or pediatric professionals before departing for Guam. AFMPC officials encourage members to consult with medical officials for more information and guidance. (Air Force News Service)

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

Hands-On Introduction To Sailing Available Free For The Calling

(NAPS)—When professional skippers brought their sailboats into the North Cove Yacht Harbor at New York's World Financial Center, most of the people in line wore business suits. Some were barefoot. Some wore deck shoes or sneakers. Their dress shoes...along with briefcases and attaches...were piled along a dockside wall. Strange scene? Not really. These busy New Yorkers were merely taking time out of their normally hectic schedules for a free, no-strings-attached, sailboat ride around the city's bustling harbor. The event was part of the Discover Sailing program, designed to give those who've never sailed a taste of what they've been missing.

The Discover Sailing idea was born a couple of years ago with the realization that for most Americans, sailing is a picturesque scene viewed mostly from dry land. For some, it is no more than a magazine photo or calendar illustration. For others, it's TV coverage of the America's Cup. Discover Sailing was and still is a way to show and tell people what sailing is really all about. And, it definitely means different things to different folks.

To those who race, sailing is a sport. For families, it's a weekend or vacation time moveable feast of outdoor fun and adventure...without the bugs and musty furniture that come with the creepy cabins at Desolate Dunes. For mom or dad, it's quality time away from the usual grind. For oldsters, it can be a new lease on life. For youngsters, it's a joyful learning experience. For couples, it's the perfect romantic setting. For everyone, it's where you can actually hear yourself think.

The National Sailing Industry Association has made it easy to get in on the Discover Sailing fun. One free phone call to 1-800-535-SAIL is all it takes for them to get you together with a sailing school or dealer near you or where you plan to vacation. But, remember, weather and the time of year are important. Geography, too, since you can't sail in the desert. Also remember that the ride is free...with no strings attached. The program's primary goal is to help America Discover Sailing.

Keep It A Safe Summer: Designate A Driver™

(NAPS)—In 1993, about 44 percent of all traffic fatalities throughout the year were alcohol-related. During holiday periods such as the Memorial Day weekend, however, the percentage of fatalities that involve alcohol typically increases.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and AAMCO Transmissions have teamed up to launch a 1994-95 Designated Driver Program—a simple and effective way to save lives on our roads and highways. Focused on five of the deadliest holidays—Labor Day, Thanksgiving through Christmas, New Year's Eve, St. Patrick's Day and Memorial Day—it encourages people to designate a driver for the ride home if they plan to drink alcoholic beverages. "Both MADD and AAMCO want to see drivers get home safely during the holidays and throughout the year," says MADD National President Beckie Brown. "By designating a sober driver, a person provides life insurance for the entire group."

A Safe Party Guide which can be used during the holidays and year-round is available through MADD chapters and AAMCO dealerships. It gives responsible party host suggestions, emphasizes the need to designate a driver before the party begins and includes non-alcoholic drink recipes.

To get involved with Mothers Against Drunk Driving, please call your local MADD chapter.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Tips on Planning A Family Vacation

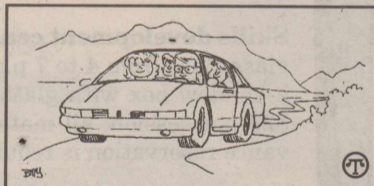

(NAPS)—Family vacations are one of the great American traditions. To help make things go smoother on your next vacation, here are a few planning tips from the experts.

- When making overnight plans, get down to details. A "double room" may mean there are two single beds, one double bed, or two double beds. Cribs must generally be requested. Consider packing a night light you can use in a motel or hotel.

- Shop around for airline, cars as well as hotel room rates. Remember, they aren't carved in stone. You or your travel agent may be able to negotiate lower than usual rates. Simply put, comparison shopping for hotels works.

- If you're renting a car, specify size. Do you need a four-door? Children's seats? Though car rental companies can't always guarantee you'll have the car of your choice, it's always better to make certain your preferences are in the computer.

- Most people know to always carry a credit card when they travel but don't forget your ATM card (if it has a logo like Visa or Interlink, it's a check card or debit card). Check cards let you access your checking account to get cash at ATM's around the world and also make purchases using the money in your checking account without writing a check. Not only is it safer to carry plastic than cash, many places will not take a non-local personal check. It's also easier to track your expenditures since you'll get a receipt plus a detailed record of your transactions on your checking account statement.

A well-prepared traveler is open to the twists and turns new places might offer. So, plan ahead and take along payment options.

Whether it's weeks long or a weekend getaway, family travel creates shared experiences and special memories that lend life grace and meaning. Planning ahead helps to avoid disappointments or confusion so that you and your family can get the most fun out of those all-too-rare excursions.

Wing members endure minitriathlon

by SSgt. Mike Breslin
Editor

Top honors in the base minitriathlon Saturday went to competitors in the 30-plus "seniors" category.

Dennis Bell (40:50) and Karen Hagner (42:37) completed the three-leg event in the top two spots overall, respectively. Third place in the event, which featured competitors from on and off base, was J.P. Gogarin (43:18).

The annual competition featured a slightly larger course than in past years, said Jake Trevino, Reese Fitness Center director. The three legs were a 250-yard swim, 8.3-mile bike race and a two-mile run. Since the course was new this year, all first-place finishers in the different categories established records for the Reese minitriathlon.

Winners in the different groupings, in order of finish within their category, were:

□ Teams: Bill Williamson, Steve Hacklehein and Jaylyn Pluntiet (46:32); Krystle, Chadd and Glen Lowe (47:24).

□ Women's open: Paula Boerwinkle (1:08:41).

□ Men's seniors: Bell; Mark Garland (44:52); Capt. Lee Scifers, 35th FTS (46:44); Dave Higgins (49:29); Mike Greer (50:11); John Harris (53:52); J.D. Monroe, Beech Aerospace Services Inc. (56:14); Capt. J.D. Stewart, 52nd FTS (57:19).

□ Women's seniors: Hagner.

IMAGINE HEROES OF AMERICA

Law Enforcement Officers

(NAPS)—The next time you see any of the 604,000 sworn law enforcement officers in America, you may like to stop and say "Thank you" for the terrific job they do helping and protecting us all.

Here are a few facts that may help make your gratitude even greater:

- While perhaps best known for their heroic efforts to combat crime, law enforcement officers' community work also includes finding missing children, directing traffic, protecting dignitaries and getting cats out of trees.

- Whatever work they do, they are often in grave danger of losing their lives. A total of 1,669 officers have died in the line of duty in the past ten years. There were 147 law enforcement deaths in 1993 alone.

- The deadliest year for law enforcement officers was 1974, when 268 officers died in the line of duty. In fact, the 1970s was the deadliest decade, with a total of 2,170 officers killed.

- More officers are killed during the two hours between 8 pm and 10 pm than at any other time of day.

- The last known year that law enforcement deaths were in the single digits was 1877, with nine.

- To commemorate these fallen heroes and to help ease the pain of their families, friends and communities, The National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial was built in Washington, DC. Engraved on it are the names of all the officers known to have died in the line of duty.

The annual Candlelight vigil at the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial gives survivors a way of paying their respect to those slain in the line of duty.

- Among the 13,516 names already on the Memorial is that of Robert Forsyth, the first officer killed, on January 11, 1794; Dotsun Sutton, the oldest officer killed, at the age of 80, in 1952; and Mary T. Davis, the first female officer killed, on May 11, 1924.

- Every year, a Candlelight Vigil is held for slain officers. The 1994 event featured U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno as speaker.

- The Memorial is supported by a private fund to which anyone can contribute.

- For information about the Memorial, call (202) 737-3400.

COAL IN OUR LIVES

Meeting Environmental And Economic Needs

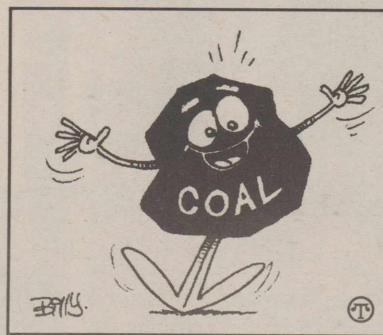

by Richard L. Lawson,
President, The National Coal
Association

(NAPS)—Helping millions of Americans hold the line when it comes to energy and electricity costs, coal is expected to play a major role in fueling this country in the years ahead.

Both the Energy Policy Act of 1992 and the North American Electric Reliability Council forecast an explosion of energy demand into the next century. Thanks to the best of new advanced coal-combustion technology, we can expect to meet it.

Coal is needed if the nation's power supply is to remain adequate and reliable. We have the technology to balance our economic and environmental objectives—the lowest cost at the least environmental impact. Modern coal-fired plants can have emissions that are way below Clean Air Act standards.

At the same time the coal industry believes America will need every kilowatt available from any source that is competitive—from natural gas, from nuclear generation, from coal, from hydro-power, from conservation, and from renewables.

In this context, coal, which presently furnishes 56 percent of America's electrical needs, will continue to play a major role. America has 268 billion tons of recoverable coal. Coal is about 90 percent of our fossil fuel reserve. Coal remains the largest energy source produced in the United States according to the Department of Energy.

The coal industry intends to continue to improve performance while remaining low cost and reliable.

54th FTS dominating diamond Flyers atop softball action on base

by A1C Timothy E. Dempsey
64th FTW Public Affairs

Editor's note: All standings are current as of Thursday morning.

The 54th Flying Training Squadron continued their domination in the American League of intramural softball by winning a doubleheader June 16 and a wild, high-scoring game Wednesday.

In the first game, the 54th FTS (6-0) bats came to life as they rallied from behind to edge the Reese Fire Department (1-7), 9-8. The momentum carried into the next came as the 54th FTS pummeled Allied Management of Texas (0-12), 15-0.

"We have a lot of composure," said Capt. Dave Cool, coach of the 54th FTS, about his team's ability to stay focused and come back to win. "Everybody comes together when we need the hits."

Captain Cool credits the team's success to a lot of good hitters who are consistent with no one individual being a standout. "We have a bunch of young guys who are having fun," he said. "There is a lot of participation on the team."

"The toughest part of our season is coming up," explained the captain. "If we can play consistently we should continue to win."

The 54th FTS faced one of their tougher games Wednesday against the 35th FTS "A" (3-3) as they just edged out their fellow flyers in a 14-13 shootout.

Other results from games played Wednesday included: the 64th Logistics Squadron (5-2) edged the 64th Mission Support Squadron (3-2), 7-6; the 64th Communications Squadron (4-1) tuned out Navy (6-4), 20-8; the 64th Operations Support Squadron (4-2) blanked AMT, 20-0; and the National League-leading 64th Medical Group (6-1) defeated Lockheed (4-5), 19-11.

In other June 16 games, the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron (2-3) defeated the fire department, 8-4; the 52nd FTS (2-2) beat AMT, 7-0; and then the 52nd FTS blew out the 35th FTS "B" (1-6), 17-1.

In today's scheduled games (rescheduled from Monday), the fire department is set to play the MSS, Lockheed will face OSS, the 35th FTS "A" and "B" teams will battle for squadron bragging rights, CES meets AMT, and Navy takes on LS.

Signing up is easy, according to 64th Service Squadron officials. When visiting the bowling center, people will receive a registration form after bowling that includes the bowl one, get one free coupon and also serves as the registration form for major prizes.

Another feature of this world wide bowling promotion is the monthly local drawings for prizes determined by the bowling center. Everyone who registers has a chance to win.
