USDA Cotton Referendum Is Now Being Held

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) will conduct a cotton referendum July 17-26, in cooperation with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Cotton producers and importers will vote on amendments to the Cotton Research Promotion Order.

The USDA amendments call for importer representation on the Cotton Board; assessing imported cotton and cotton products, as is done with domestic cotton; increasing from $200,000 to $300,000 the amount the Cotton Board can reimburse the Secretary of Agriculture for expenses incurred in conducting a referendum; reimbursing government agencies which assist in collecting fees on imported cotton and cotton products; and, terminating the right of producers to demand a refund of assessments.

"Voters may hand-deliver ballots to our polling places," said ASCS official Earlyne Hutsell, "or mail them, postmarked by midnight July 26." Eligible producers not receiving ballots should contact their local ASCS office. Eligible importers who have not received ballots may obtain them from USDA, ASCS, Attention: Cotton, Grain and Rice Division, P. O. Box 2415, Washington, D. C. 20013. Importers should include a copy of Customs Form 7501, an entry summary of cotton containing products, with their requests for ballots.

Urgent Meeting Called Tonight

A 13-county district-wide meeting, designed to emphasize the importance of the State Department of Highways and Transportation's Childress office, is set for 7:00 p.m. today (Thursday) in the Childress Junior High School Auditorium.

House Bill 9, which will go to the floor for debate next week, calls for reducing the number of districts from 24 to not more than 18.

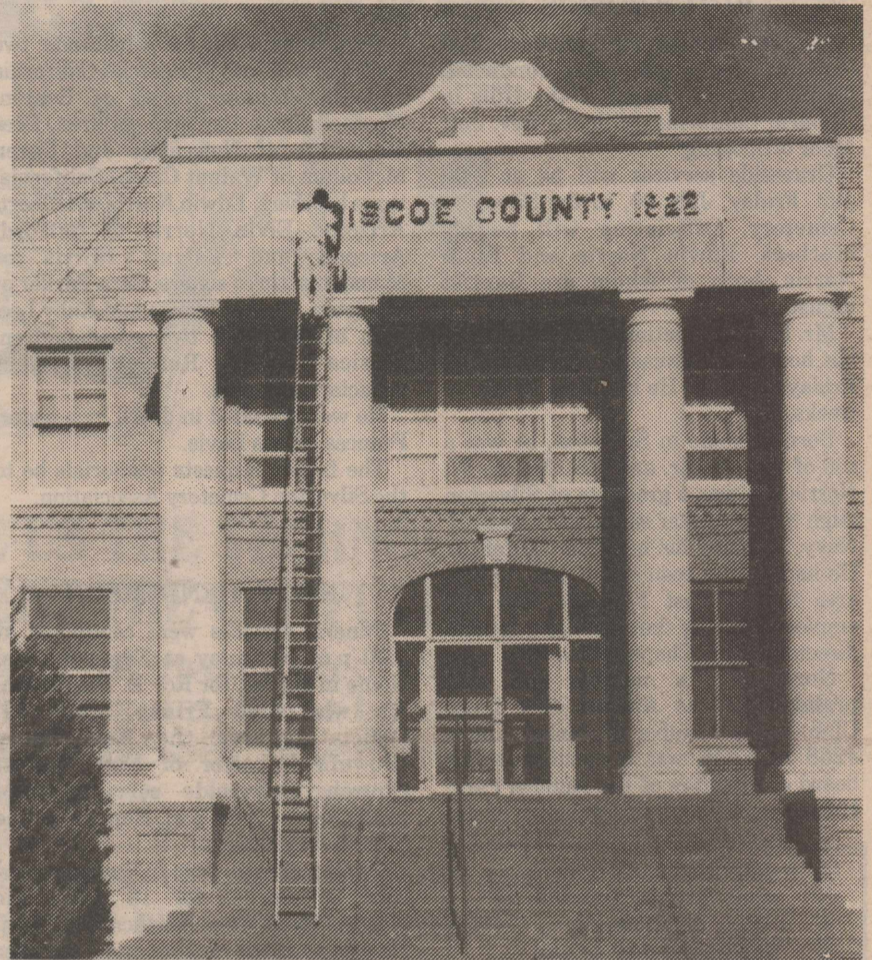

The Thursday night meeting, which seeks input in regard to keeping this district intact, is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Board of City Development Century Committee's ad hoc group.

The Childress mayor, in calling the meeting, said it is urgent and requested that everyone possible attend.

Resolutions supporting District 25 (Childress) are forthcoming from the Childress City Council and Childress County Commissioners Court as well as those in other District 25 counties—Dickens, King, Cottle, Motley, Briscoe, Hall, Donley, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Hardeman and Foard.

This district has 5,391 lane miles.

Residents throughout Texas are voicing concern for the proposed changes and make it clear that Texas has the best highway system in the nation and they want to keep it that way.

Social Security In Briscoe County

by Mary Jane Shanes
People Can Collect Social Security Even With a Full-Time Job

I received a call recently from a local resident who was just turning 65 and had a question about Medicare. After answering her question, I asked her if she was planning to file for Social Security benefits. She told me that she had not planned on filing since she was working full time and did not think she would be entitled to any Social Security.

I did some quick figuring and let her know that, even though she was working full time, she was about to lose a sizeable amount of money from Social Security by not filing an application this year. How much? Over $5,000!

How can this be? Well, the main reason is that in 1990 there was a significant change in the way earnings affect Social Security benefits for people 65 and older. Because of this change, a number of people who otherwise would not have been eligible for benefits can now receive some money from Social Security.

If you are between the age of 65 and 69, you can earn up to $9,720 in 1991 and get all your Social Security benefits. For every $3.00 you earn over the $9,720 limit, $1.00 is withheld from your benefits. Before the change in the law, the withholding rate was $1.00 for each $2.00 of earnings over the limit. This means there's a good chance you might be due some money from Social Security if you work this year even if your earnings were too high before the change in the law. (For beneficiaries under age 65 the withholding rate is still $1.00 for each $2.00 of earnings; if you're 70 or older, the earnings limits do not apply.)

Whether or not you can get benefits depends on your estimated earnings for 1991 and your Social Security benefit amount. But even people who will earn in the neighborhood of $40,000 this year might be eligible to receive money from Social Security if their monthly benefit is high enough.

Here are my suggestions if you're between 65 and 69 and have not yet filed for Social Security benefits:

First, get an estimate of your monthly benefit amount from Social Security and then multiply by 12 to find out what your yearly benefit will be. We have a form you can use to get this estimate. It usually takes about two weeks after you send it in.

Second, determine your estimated earnings for 1991.

Third, divide your earnings by 3. If the answer is less than your yearly benefits figured in Step 1, then you're probably due some money from Social Security.

Of course, we'll be happy to help you figure out if you're due any Social Security this year. More importantly, if you want to file a claim for Social Security benefits, call our office right away. The entire application process can be handled over the phone. Our number is 293-9599.

President's Decision on Peanut Imports Irks the Farmers Union

President Bush's decision to allow an additional 100 million pounds of foreign peanuts to be imported into the U. S. this year has drawn sharp criticism from leaders of the National Farmers Union.

The President's decision is expected to drive prices paid to peanut farmers down, especially since the imported peanuts will start arriving in the U. S. at about the time southern growers are harvesting their crops. "This is a potentially devastating decision for peanut growers," said Texas Farmers Union President Joe Rankin.

Bush was asked to open the import gates after last year's drought in the southeastern United States cut peanut production and allowed processors to raise consumer prices. But Rankin counters that the farm price of peanuts increased only slightly, while supermarket prices doubled. "That leads me to believe that processors ripped off consumers with prices that weren't based on the reality of the price or supply situation."

"The Presidential suspension of Section 22 for foreign peanut imports clearly demonstrates to the European Community that the United States is more than willing to remove its domestic pricing structure, at this crucial time when GATT negotiations are set to resume," Rankin said.

Farmers Union wrote Bush in April, urging him to deny a request to suspend the quotas. "There are adequate supplies of peanuts, not only for domestic use, but for export purposes as well," commented Rankin.

The National Farmers Union has long favored the peanut program and has called it "the model that all agricultural programs should strive to copy." "There are not federal outlays involved in providing the peanut support level. In the most recent referendum on the program, over 98 percent of voting producers opted to support it. This may be the first step to discredit and dismantle a very successful program for producers and consumers," said Rankin.

Rankin said the majority of American farmers wish they had a commodity program as stable as the peanut program. "We would try to duplicate the success of the programs that exist without taxpayer support rather than force more farmers into a position of needing subsidies."

The 100 million pound import level set by Bush, although a third of what the International Trade Commission had recommended, stands to damage the peanut market considerably, according to TFU. "We simply don't need any more than our present demand warrants," Rankin said.

Effect of Cool Night Temperatures on Fiber Told on Tape

Researchers' efforts to understand how cool night temperatures hamper the development of cotton fibers are the focus of a videotape produced by Texas Tech University.

Candace Haigler, associate professor of biological sciences at Texas Tech, and Norma Trolinder, plant physiologist at the USDA/Agricultural Research Service's Lubbock office, began the research in 1987 with a grant from Cotton, Inc. to find a way to genetically breed cotton to be more tolerant of cool temperatures.

Haigler's research team is using technology to grow cotton fibers in the laboratory that was developed by Trolinder and the late J. R. Goodin, former dean of Texas Tech's College of Arts and Sciences. The researchers are applying techniques of cell biology, plant physiology and molecular biology to provide a new genetic base for cotton breeding.

The six-minute videotape depicting the research and its importance to cotton producers was funded by Cotton Incorporated and produced by Pam Alspaugh, manager of Video Services of Texas Tech's Office of News and Publications.

"The tape provides an easy-to-understand approach to basic genetic engineering," Alspaugh said. "It would be useful in junior and senior high school classes."

The tape is available for $10, which covers the costs of duplication and postage, from Video Services, Box 42022, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409-2022.

America the Beautiful Grants to Aid Community Tree Plantings

Environmental consciousness is uppermost in the minds of citizens in every corner of the nation and President Bush's America the Beautiful program is designed to help meet these needs.

Americans' concern about global warming, ozone depletion, acid rain and loss of biological diversity are driving the current environmental awakening.

Society's demands for clean air and water are having an impact in urban areas as well as in the fields and forests and the America the Beautiful program has launched a massive tree planting effort toward confronting these demands.

The America the Beautiful (ATB) grants program was created through bipartisan effort in the 1990 Farm Bill.

The old Silverton Hotel, built in 1928-29, is being torn down. The building was purchased last year by Gerald and Raye Smith, and after careful consideration of its value it was decided to raze it and clear the property.

The federal dollars are to be used as seed money to help communities establish or strengthen their own tree planting and tree care programs. The grants will leverage other sources of funding for projects like drafting tree protection ordinances, drawing up tree planting plans, or creating public education plans.

Also, grants might be used for start-up funding for staffing of municipalities or non-profit organizations to develop local tree planting programs.

In Texas, the grant program is being administered by the Texas Forest Service. Grant applications are being mailed now and are due back to the State Forester's office in College Station by August 19.

"Unfortunately, the pool of money for this year's grant program is limited to $200,000 for Texas, and many good proposals may go unfunded this year," according to Bruce Miles, director of the Texas Forest Service.

"The outlook is good for more federal money in the 1992 fiscal year. The President and several influential congressmen and senators support increasing the level of funding for next year, but the budget is still being debated," Miles added.

If a community did not receive a grant application, it should contact the Texas Forest Service at 100 Research Parkway, Suite 200, College Station, Texas 77842-2136, or call (409) 845-2641.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports

AUSTIN - As a young boy, my favorite part of ranch work was shipping yearlings in the fall. That is the time you get to see the results of all of your efforts during the growing season. One day when we had a group of cattle almost to the pens, I asked an old cowboy what he thought they would weigh. He turned to me and said that he never guessed the weight of cattle when he was that close to the scales.

This special session is somewhat similar to fall cattle work. We certainly see the results of all of the efforts by the Senate Finance Committee, the House Appropriations Committee as well as Comptroller John Sharp over the last six months. Like the old cowboy, I probably should avoid making any projections as to the outcome of this special session now that it has just begun.

But I am not going to follow his advise this time. Instead I will share with you my predictions for the special session. Then we can all see how right or wrong I was when we finish our work.

According to the Texas Constitution a special session of the Legislature may last for only thirty days. If the Legislature does not finish its work in that period of time the only option is for the governor to call us back for another thirty-day special session. Therein lies my first projection. We will not finish our work within the thirty-day period. It is human nature not to make tough decisions until forced to. The hard deadline for the Texas Legislature to adopt a budget for the next biennium is not August 15, the 30th day of this first called special session. Rather, the hard deadline is August 31. That day is the last day of this biennium. The next biennium, or two year budget cycle, begins on September 1. Most agree that day becomes the hard deadline by which time we must act.

Before you breath a sigh of relief and say to yourself, "Well they've only got 45 days to mess things up," remember there are exceptions to almost every rule. In fact in a similar situation in 1969 the Legislature failed to adopt a budget for the next biennium. Much like Congress did last year, the Legislature of that time continued their deliberations and debate into the next biennium before finally adopting a budget for that cycle.

My second prediction: A state income tax is dead. While we have heard much talk about the need for a state income tax, there are simply not the votes in the Legislature to adopt such a tax during this special session. The principal reason for this is the work done by Comptroller John Sharp in his performance audits and by the Republican caucus. The entire debate in Austin has now changed from what new taxes can be imposed on the people of Texas to how we can make government more efficient and control state spending. As I write today, my sense of my colleagues in the Legislature is that they are hearing louder and clearer than ever before the cry of Texas taxpayers that enough is enough.

Preaching that we must control state spending is great political rhetoric. The reality is that to accomplish this mission there must be some pain. For every dollar spent in state government, there is a constituency that argues loudly we should spend $2. To cut that dollar of spending will assuredly create a great hue and cry. In order for the new fiscal awareness in the Legislature to become a reality, the pain of spending cuts must be spread evenly and fairly throughout the state. That means what is sauce for the goose also must be sauce for the gander. Each of us in the Legislature must turn away from the pork barrel mentality and focus on what are truly the most efficient ways to deliver state services. If we can accomplish that, it will be one of the most significant legislative achievements in many, many, years.

Church Members Gather For Cookout, Fellowship Sunday

Mother Nature provided a tranquil setting Sunday evening for the members of the Rock Creek Church of Christ as they gathered at the John Francis home for a cookout. The cool evening breeze kept away any flies or mosquitoes that might have been in the area. The trees offered plenty of shade and the rock garden, brimming with dozens of varieties of flowers, gave a pleasant view.

Games of bean-bag toss, washer pitching, four-square ball, baseball, etc. kept the younger crowd busy. (Some of the younger crowd may have been over 50!)

Those enjoying the food, fun and fellowship were Mr. and Mrs. Ashel McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Cantwell, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Burson, Zack, Dusty and Lee True, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Francis, Jared, Nathan, Andrew, Caleb and Jacob, Mr. and Mrs. Gary House and Cara, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Francis, Aimee and Matt, Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Francis, Earl Cantwell, Nina Martin and the hosts, John, Maebelle and Dave Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Olive of Petersburg and their grandson, Jeremy Olive of Midland, visited Betty Olive Saturday afternoon.

Two Courses Offered Soon

Two popular shortcourses again will be offered at the Texas A&M University System Computer Training and Education Center at Halfway. Persons wanting to improve their computer skills with spreadsheets or learn an easy to use, cash record-keeping system should sign up now because space in the courses is limited.

A computer spreadsheet is a versatile tool for basic record keeping, financial planning and budgeting, and is something no producer using computers should be without, according to Dr. Jackie Smith, Extension Service economist and management specialist at Lubbock. An introductory course will be held August 13-14 at the Computer Training Center to give producers an opportunity to learn to use the Lotus 1-2-3 spreadsheet to enhance their managerial skills. Leading computer software spreadsheet programs include Super Calc, Quattro and Excel, but the all-time best seller of such programs is Lotus.

A second important component of the computer software kit is a cash record-keeping program. Computerized cash record keeping will be the subject of the second two-day shortcourse to be offered August 15-16 at the center.

Record keeping is the highest and best use of your computer. Several high quality, low-cost record keeping options have been commercially released in the past few years. Quicken by Intuit will be taught in this session. While not specifically designed for agricultural use, Quicken is flexible and easily adapted for this purpose. It is especially satisfying for those who have recently purchased a computer and are anxious to put it to use.

These courses will run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. each day. The cost will be $100, which includes workshop materials and catered lunches each day. The necessary software will be provided for the duration of the course. No prior computer experience is necessary. Enrollment for each course will be limited to 14.

The Computer Training and Education Center is in the Moody Building at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station facility, 14 miles west of Plainview on Highway 70.

For more information contact the Extension office at 823-2131 or telephone Jane Green at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Lubbock, 806-746-6101.

LUBBOCK, Friday, July 19, 1991

The Board of Directors of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) voted to unanimously approve a budget for Fiscal Year 1991-92 at their July 10 meeting. The budget will see the organization through the upcoming year and will guarantee continued operation of the organization's research, legislative and miscellaneous services on behalf of High Plains producers.

The budget, totaling $310,125, matches PCG's 1990-91 budget but contains several adjustments that will enable the organization get "more bang for the buck." The 50-member Board approved the budget as recommended by the PCG Finance Committee.

Committee Chairman Frank Jones of Lamesa noted in his opening remarks that the PCG staff was able to cut expenses and reduce actual expenditures in 1990-91, trimming just over $30,000 from estimated overall expenses.

Included in the 1991-92 budget was a proposal to purchase computer equipment for the PCG offices. With the new computers PCG staff members will be able to improve the quality of the work they do, further enhancing the quality image projected by the organization throughout its remarkable 35-year history.

Discussion of the Research and Promotion Referendum, the current status of the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program and the activities of the Plains Cotton Improvement Program were also discussed.

During discussion of the referendum the voting dates were announced. Set for July 17 through 26, the referendum is being held to determine if there is producer support for changes in the operation of the Research and Promotion activities overseen by the Cotton Board and carried out by Cotton Incorporated. Producers were in the process of receiving their mail-in ballots at the time of the July 10 Board meeting.

Cotton Board Representative Curt Wheeler presented a short program outlining the issues involved with the referendum and answered questions from PCG Directors on the subject.

PCG President Larry Nelson urges everyone to get in contact with the eligible voters in their areas and encourage them to vote in favor of the referendum. He noted that each vote will make a big difference in how the referendum turns out with an anticipated 7,000-plus importers expected to vote no in the referendum.

Roger Haldenby, Boll Weevil Program Coordinator, reported that the 1991 program was shaping up to be relatively small. He noted that the mapping phase of the program was already started and is expected to be completed by mid-August.

Plains Cotton Improvement Committee Chairman Myrl D. Mitchell, of Lenorah, in presenting a brief rundown of their activities explained the committee is currently in the process of designing a PCIP logo. The logo is to be made available for placement on seedbags of varieties which contain traits and characteristics developed in research funded by High Plains producers through the PCIP.

"The logo will help cotton producers identify varieties that contain the improved traits developed with their funds and give them an easily identifiable mark to look for when selecting the cotton varieties they will use," states Mitchell.

In other business the PCG Board approved Larry Nelson as PCG's representative in the upcoming National Cotton Council, Cotton Incorporated and Cotton Board caucus. Nelson was given authority to negotiate on behalf of PCG at these meetings. The Board also voted to re-elect the current members of both the Nominating and Executive committees for another term.

Public Notice

On April 9, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to request that the optional feature "Call Transfer Disconnect" be available to all PLEXAR I customers by including the feature in Southwestern Bell's PLEXAR I tariff. Currently, this optional feature is available only on a customer requested basis.

Call Transfer Disconnect (CTD) is an optional feature that allows PLEXAR I customers the ability to transfer a call to another telephone number within or outside their PLEXAR I system, hang up, and permit the two remaining parties to continue with the call. The PLEXAR I user is then free to place or accept another call. CTD is not intended to be used to avoid toll charges. Therefore, CTD will not be available to PLEXAR I customers subscribing to optional Extended Metropolitan Service or Extended Area Calling Service.

If the company's application is approved, the monthly rate for CTD will be $4.00 for each PLEXAR I station line. Prior to the June 19, 1991, interim rate approval, Southwestern Bell was billing customers who receive the service $1.50 for each station line equipped with this feature. In addition, under Southwestern Bell's proposed tariff, every line within the PLEXAR I system must be equipped with this feature. The nonrecurring charge for the additional lines which must be equipped with CTD will be waived for existing CTD customers. The tariffed monthly rate will apply to all existing and future CTD customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

GOD GAVE US THE TECHNOLOGY TO INVENT THE COMPUTER

Among the greatest inventions of this century is the computer. It has become a necessity to businesses, government, medical facilities, etc., and many a home now has one. It performs a mind-boggling array of useful functions, like retrieving case histories in seconds. It serves as a typesetter, an artist, a composer, a photo processor, and a planner of achievements beyond the imagination of most of us. The computer is indeed a marvel of modern technology. Our House of Worship teaches us that God created man and endowed him with the ability to invent something like this. There is no finer example of the good that can be accomplished by human ingenuity, or of God's wisdom in making all things possible as a result of it.

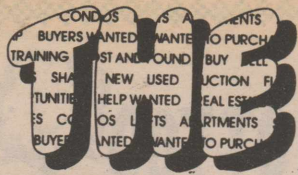

*"These things are good and profitable unto men."
—Titus 3:8*
