"Air Force people building the world's most respected air and space force ... global power and reach for America"

Top civilians

Helping yourself and others - a great combination

by Col. Randy Gelwix
64th FTW commander

Helping yourself and others can take many forms. . . career, family, finances or philanthropic pursuits. The key to it all is planning.

Many people neglect to set financial goals because it "sounds too hard," or "I don't have the money right now." What they forget is that investing in the future today, even in small amounts, can make tomorrow easier.

A popular way to enhance your financial future is U.S. Savings Bonds.

Savings bonds are a flexible financial product that is safe and convenient while offering savers competitive market-based interest yields and significant tax advantages.

Reese's U.S. Savings Bond campaign runs throughout June. During this time, all base personnel will be contacted by a Reese savings bond representative and offered the opportunity to enroll in the Payroll Savings Plan or to increase their allotment for savings bonds.

Another way to build futures — those of the less fortunate — is through charitable contributions. Charities are the community's backbone and make our nation a better place to live and work.

Most charitable organizations seek donations during the summer because the holidays and their associated expenses are months down the road. However, what's not too far away is the Combined Federal Campaign, set to kick off in September.

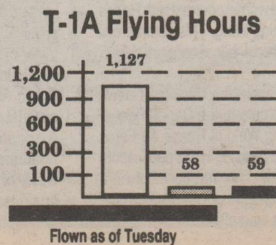

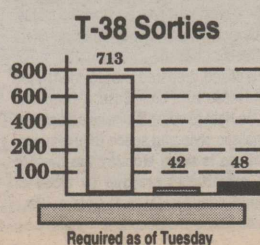

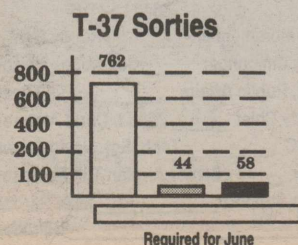

As part of your financial planning, I ask you, if at all possible, to wait and contribute to your favorite charity through the CFC, which also has automatic payroll deduction for your donation. It's a sensible way to assist those you want to help.

Your CFC contributions can provide support for a wide range of service organizations ranging from our local United Way, which provides numerous services for our community and base, to the large research associations trying to wipe out cancer and heart disease.

If we all "pitch in," we can make both the U.S. Savings Bond campaign and the upcoming CFC a tremendous success like everything else we do!

64th SPTG commander states day care policy

Col. Edward De Iulio

Reese Air Force Base policy defines Reese Village family day care as child care provided more than 10 hours per week, or provided on a regular basis.

This policy applies whether care is provided in the child's home or in the provider's home. Individuals providing family day care in Reese Village must operate with a license.

If you or someone you know is interested in obtaining a license, contact Tonya Mena, our family day care coordinator, at 885-6270. The application process is approximately one month.

Persons providing family day care without a license are violating this policy and could lose base housing privileges.

64th SPS thanks Reese for police week success

by Maj. Jennifer Perry
64th SPS commander

The men and women of the 64th Security Police Squadron would like to extend a very sincere thank you to all those personnel who made our National Police Week a true success.

National Police Week brings into focus the positive contributions law enforcement officials make in our communities. With the support of base and community personnel, we were able to reach our goal and pay honor to those who have given the ultimate sacrifice.

The memorial dedication held May 17 at the base flag pole, although a very solemn event, was truly memorable because of all the base personnel. The theme of the ceremony was "First in Harm's Way". It was dedicated to the memory of Deputy Rudy Gonzales, Lubbock Sheriff's Department, who was killed in the line of duty Feb. 25.

All those involved, along with the Gonzales family, send a very sincere and heartfelt thank you to all of you. We thank you for your time, your concern and most of all your respect.

It's a thankless job being a law enforcement officer and the more the public understands, the easier life can be for officers all around the world.

Thanks for being there for us and honoring those who have fallen. Words alone cannot express how we feel. We assure you it is deeply felt in our hearts and that is where it truly counts.

We all have a certain love for life. For the loved ones left behind, it is heart warming to know that those who gave their life sacrificed it not only for the love of being a police officer, but for the love of their fellow man.

How to eat healthy when you're away from home

by Capt. Debi Carlton
Health Promotions

The average American eats almost four meals a week away from home, and many of those are at fast food restaurants.

Many fast food restaurants have nutrition information brochures available upon request, and some even post them in the lobby area. Make some comparisons between the foods offered and make the best choices available. No matter what type of restaurant you choose, selecting a heart-healthy meal is often a challenge.

Here are some healthy tips for eating out:

□ Call ahead to ask if restaurants honor special requests and prepare food to order. Many restaurants are more than willing to do this, since they want your business. Some restaurant chain will bake or broil anything that is advertised as fried on their menu.

□ Order dishes that are steamed, garden fresh, broiled, roasted or poached.

□ Some low-fat, low-cholesterol preparations are high in sodium. If sodium is a concern, watch for foods that are pickled, in cocktail sauce, smoked, in broth, or in a tomato base.

□ You can eat bread and breadsticks, but resist high-fat spreads.

□ Limit portions of meat, fish or poultry to four to six ounces. Take home leftovers for another meal.

□ Steak is not off limits if you order it broiled without additional fat or salt. Remember to limit your consumption to four to six ounces. Choose lean cuts like London Broil, filet mignon, round and flank steaks.

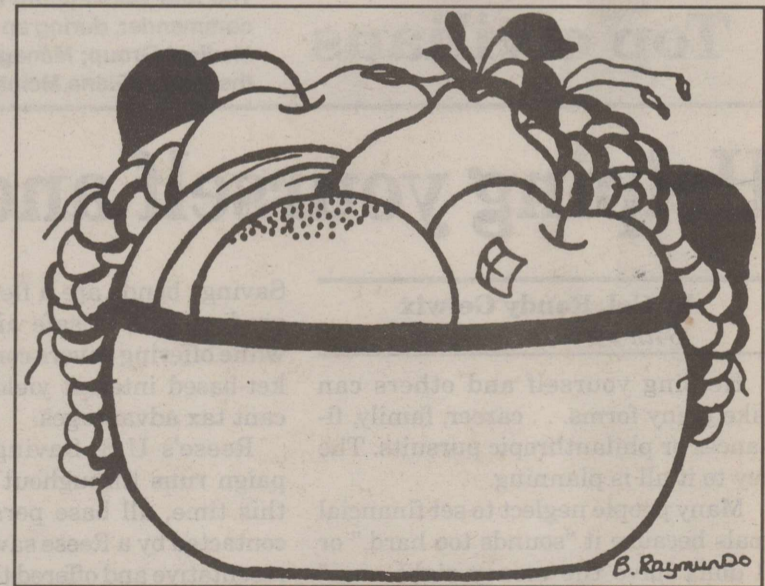

□ You don't have to skip dessert. Have fruit, fruit ices, sherbets, gelatin, or angel food cake.

□ Be wary of nondairy coffee creamers, which frequently contain highly saturated ingredients like coconut oil. Ask for skim or low-fat milk instead.

□ If you opt for fast food, look for salad bars where you can make your own meals.

Be sure to use low fat dressing. Another choice is a regular (two ounce) hamburger on a bun with lettuce, tomato and onion.

Contact Reese Health Promotions at 885-3860 for more information on how to make healthy selections when you eat out.

Cadets visit Reese for Operation Air Force

by 2nd Lt. Christine Almgren
Deputy chief, Public Affairs

Twelve Air Force Academy and Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets arrived here Monday as part of Operation Air Force.

The cadets are the first of three groups participating in the program and will be here through June 21.

Operation Air Force is a decades-old program designed to introduce cadets to the "real Air Force," according to Capt. Jeff Yevcak, Operation Air Force project officer for Reese.

This week, cadets learned about the 64th Flying Training Wing through a mission brief and got hands-on exposure to operations of the 64th Security Police Squadron, 64th Medical Group and the legal office. They will get a taste of the aircraft maintenance world on Monday when they visit Lockheed Martin Logistics Management's area.

A big portion of Operation

Air Force is Air Force specialty code specific — meaning that the cadet works in the office or area of the AFSC they will have when commissioned. The cadet is to do more than just observe what goes on, but take an active role.

Also during their stay, cadets will take simulator rides and train through the aerospace physiological unit to prepare for T-38 and T-1A orientation rides.

"Both the academy and ROTC want the cadets to see and do as much as possible," said Yevcak. "They want the cadets to be treated like commissioned officers."

Two other groups of cadets will visit Reese June 24 to July 12 and July 15 to August 2.

"Operation Air Force is a great opportunity for these cadets to see what the world's greatest Air Force is all about," said Yevcak. "And while at Reese, they'll get to see how the entire base supports its mission of training the world's best pilots."

Col. Bruce Burda, 64th Operations Group commander, welcomes cadets to Reese Monday.

CT-43 crash facts cost three command positions

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Facts revealed in the CT-43 crash investigation led the 17th Air Force commander to relieve of duty the 86th Airlift Wing's top three officers May 29.

Maj. Gen. Charles Heflebower, 17th Air Force commander, made the decision to relieve the officers because he "lost confidence in their abilities to continue to effectively discharge their responsibilities," stated a May 30 U.S. Air Forces in Europe news release.

Relieved at Ramstein Air Base, Germany, were

Brig. Gen. William Stevens, former wing commander; Col. Roger Hansen, former vice wing commander; and Col. John Mazurowski, former 86th Operations Group commander.

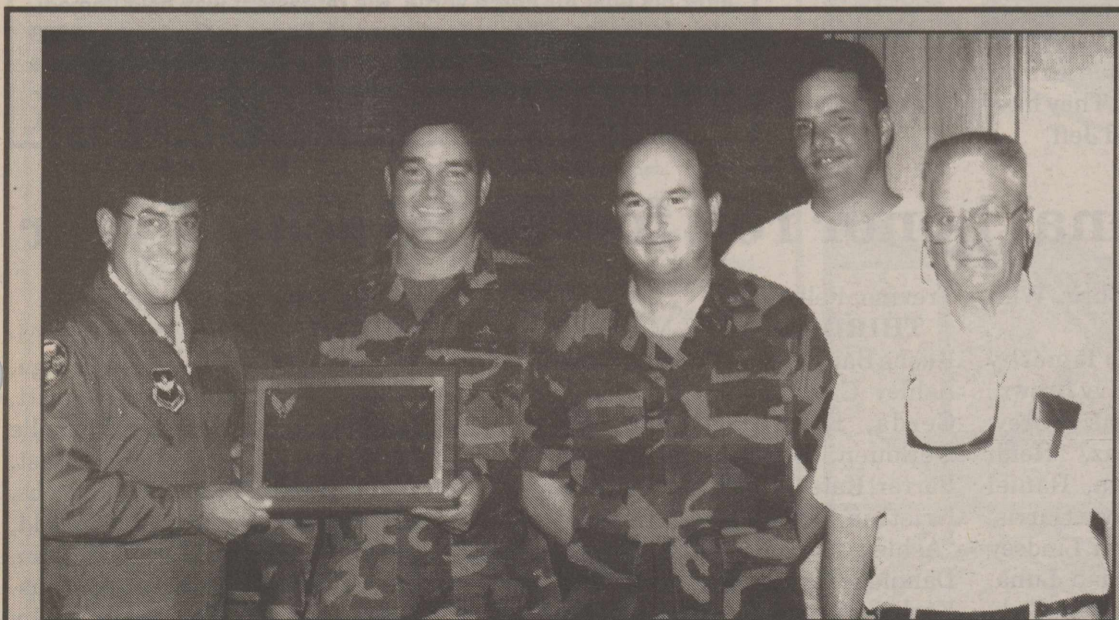

Brig. Gen. John W. Brooks, currently the commandant of the Air Command and Staff College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., took command of the wing June 3, said Air Force officials.

The action taken by Heflebower "does not infer any judgment at all regarding the cause of the accident or the involvement" of the three officers, said

Air Force Col. Doug Kennett, director of defense information in a May 30 Pentagon press briefing.

The accident investigation is in the final stages of the review process. It has been reviewed at 17th AF and USAFE headquarters. It must go through a Pentagon review before the accident report is publicly released, Kennett said.

The crash was the first Class A accident involving a T-43 — the Air Force version of a Boeing 737 — since the aircraft joined the Air Force inventory in 1974.

AF news notes

AF adds 26 skills to reenlistment bonus program

RANDOLPH AIR FORCE BASE, Texas (AFNS) — The Air Force added 26 specialties and increased 10 others as of May 28, to its Selective Reenlistment Bonus program after completing a recent review. Personnel officials will also decrease four AFSCs and remove three others on June 30.

AFSCs are reviewed at least annually, personnel officials said, with reenlistment rates and current and projected AFSC manning among the factors considered during the review.

Master sergeant promotion list coming June 12

RANDOLPH AIR FORCE BASE, Texas (AFNS) — The Air Force plans to release the listing of the service's newest master sergeants June 12 (June 13 for those units across the date line). The list is releasable the first duty hour at each duty station. The complete list of those selected for promotion will be available on the Air Force Personnel Center's home page at noon, CDT, June 13.

The AFPC home page can be reached through the Air Force's home page, Air Force LINK (<http://www.af.mil>) or directly (<http://www.afpc.af.mil>) Click on "Master Sergeant rank" to view those promoted.

Scroggins leads as wing IG

by Tech. Sgt. David Brown
NCOIC, Public Affairs

Lt. Col. Jerry Scroggins assumed the duties of the 64th Flying Training Wing Inspector General here May 30.

Scroggins replaces Lt. Col. John Shackelford who retired and will become a Federal Express pilot.

A native of Torrance, Calif., Scroggins attended Point Loma Nazarene College, San Diego, graduating with a bachelor's degree in biology in 1976. After graduation and commissioning through Air Force Reserve Officer's Training Corps, he entered active duty as a minuteman missile launch officer at Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D. While at Ellsworth, he served as an instructor and standardization/evaluation combat crew member.

Scroggins entered Undergraduate Pilot Training at Reese and received his wings in January 1982. He stayed at Reese as a first assignment instructor pilot flying the T-37 with the 35th Flying Training Squadron. He also served as a flight commander and section commander.

In April 1985, the colonel was transferred to Headquarters Air Training Command (now Air Education and Training Command) Operational Plans, where he worked the acquisition of the T-46 simulator. He also assumed responsibility as the command focal point for all simulator issues.

Scroggins' next assignment was a part of HQ ATC Stan/Eval team responsible for T-37 Supervisor of Flying and Runway Supervisory Unit programs for the command. Then it was off to HQ Air Force Personnel Center in August 1988 where he ran the T-37 assignments section and later was chief, trainer assignments branch, responsible for all trainer assignments both in ATC and outside the command.

In 1989, Scroggins earned a master's degree in business administration from Webster University.

Returning to Reese, the colonel has held a variety of positions. He was operations officer for the 35th FTS, operations officer and interim commander of the 52nd Flying Training Squadron. In August 1993, Scroggins was appointed as 64th FTW Deputy Operations Group commander and a year later as the 64th Operations Support Squadron commander.

Scroggins is a senior pilot with more than 2,000 flying hours.

He is married to the former Linda Brown of Concord, Calif. They have two sons, David and Jeff.

AF to get another operational B-2

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Under Secretary of the Air Force Rudy de Leon signed a letter of transmittal to Northrop Grumman Corporation May 24 to upgrade the B-2 flight test vehicle AV-1 to operational status.

This follows the recent decision by the Air Force to upgrade AV-1 to an operational aircraft, bringing the operational B-2 fleet to 21 aircraft.

The upgrade includes replacing the landing gear, a new avionics suite and modifications to the aircraft structure, fuel system and weapons bay doors.

The B-2 Spirit is the Air Force's low-observable bomber capable of delivering both conventional and nuclear munitions. Its "stealth" characteristics give it the unique ability to penetrate most air defenses. These stealth characteristics, combined with its long range and large payload, provide a powerful force projection capability.

Gen. Ronald R. Fogleman, Air Force chief of staff, said the B-2, with the addition of a precision conventional weapons capability this summer, "will cause us to completely rethink the way we plan attacks — instead of the number of sorties required to take out one target, our planners will decide the number of targets to take out on one pass."

The letter of transmittal obligates $150 million with a not-to-exceed value of $493 million. This is a firm fixed price letter contract with an expected contract completion date of June 2000.

Shackelford takes final sortie

Lt. Col. John Shackelford gets doused by Lt. Col. LeeRoy Martin after his final Air Force sortie. His retirement was held immediately following. Shackelford came to Reese in September 1993 and has served as an instructor pilot and assistant operations officer for the 52nd Flying Training Squadron, deputy commander of the 64th Operations Group and wing inspector general.

FROM THE ARMED FORCES TO THE WORKFORCE.

At Texas State Technical College, we think your military service experience is important. Now that you're getting ready to go back to civilian life, you'll probably need a job, right? That's where our Fast Track program comes in. You can utilize your military electronics work experience as part of your training en route to a high-tech career in semiconductor manufacturing.

Semiconductor manufacturing is one of the fastest growing industries in Texas. Salaries start at or above $30,000 a year. And this industry projects two to three thousand job openings during the next year alone. TSTC Sweetwater is one of only six semi-conductor training facilities in the country. Our Fast Track program is intense. It's designed to get you on the job as quickly as possible.

Combined with your military experience, lab and class time is minimal - about six months. And the cost of the entire program is around $1,200. So, if you're looking to get back in the workforce with a serious career in the electronics industry, look no further. Join the Fast Track program at TSTC. It Just Makes Sense.

Reese Hospital issues NAS

As of May 21, Reese Hospital is no longer required to issue non availability statements.

In the past it was necessary for the beneficiary to obtain a NAS from Reese Hospital for all non-emergency inpatient care and certain outpatient procedures. Care that was received prior to the deletion of Reese from the catchment area directory will still require the issuance of a NAS.

To obtain a retroactive NAS, the beneficiary needs to bring the explanation of benefits or any other written documentation stating that a NAS is needed when requesting a NAS application.

It will take time for the civilian providers to be fully briefed that a NAS is no longer required. Any difficulties experienced by beneficiaries during this transition will be handled on a case-by-case basis.

Call Elva Whitehead at 885-3581 for more information.

Jeffery Schrader, 64th CES, hustles to beat the the throw to Hal Harvey, Jayhawks, at second base.

64th MSS continues to win Jayhawks outlast 64th CES, 16-15

The 64th Mission Support Squadron has ripped through the first half of the intramural softball season here by crushing every team it has faced, compiling a 7-0 record.

The 64th Services Squadron was no exception May 29 as the 64th MSS won, 18-7.

The 64th MSS went around the batting order in the top of the first inning with 13 hits, scoring 11 runs. The team added two more runs in the second inning.

The defense of the 64th MSS was just as impressive as the onslaught of the team's bats. It held the 64th SVS scoreless until the third inning. The 64th SVS was able to squeeze out three runs in the inning. The 64th MSS scored another run in the bottom of the inning for a 14-3 lead.

In the fourth inning, the 64th SVS defense was able to stop the scoring streak as it added another run.

However, it wasn't enough as the 64th MSS added four runs in the top of the fifth inning. The 64th SVS scored three runs in the bottom as time expired and sealed the 18-7 victory for the 64th MSS.

In the first game of the night, the 64th Civil Engineer Squadron, playing with eight players, jumped out to an early 6-3 lead over the Jayhawks in the first inning.

After the second inning the score was knotted at nine as the Jayhawks scored six runs and held the 64th CES to 3 runs.

The game continued to seesaw back and forth but the Jayhawks secured the victory by holding off a fifth inning rally, 16-15.

In other games that night, the 64th Security Police Squadron jumped to an early lead to defeat the 52nd Flying Training Squadron, 12-11. Also the 35th FTS cuffed the 64th SPS, 11-9.
