Cross-country charity ride hits Clarendon July 6

The Fuller Center Bicycle Adventure is celebrating its 10th year of raising funds to combat poverty housing by trying to raise a record $400,000 this summer, which would put the ride's all-time fundraising over the $2 million milestone.

This year's cross-country route takes cyclists 3,600 miles from San Francisco to Savannah, Georgia, averaging about 75 miles of riding per day through the August 5 conclusion.

In addition to raising money and awareness for the nonprofit Fuller Center for Housing, cyclists will participate in six build days along with the way with Fuller Center affiliates.

The ride hits Clarendon on Thursday, July 6, for an overnight stay after a 94-mile ride from Vega. They will be hosted by Clarendon Church of Christ before resuming their journey July 7 with a 67-mile ride to Hollis, Okla.

The Fuller Center for Housing (FullerCenter.org) is an affordable housing nonprofit founded in 2005 by Presidential Medal of Freedom recipient Millard Fuller. The Fuller Center Bicycle Adventure (FullerCenterBikeAdventure.org) began in 2008 as a vehicle to raise money for and awareness about the Fuller Center's work across the US and around the world.

Chemical Brush topic of webinar

COLLEGE STATION — Chemical Brush and Weed Treatment Basics will be the topic of the July 6 natural resources webinar conducted by the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service ecosystem science and management unit. The webinar is a part of the Texas Range Webinar Series scheduled the first Thursday of each month from noon to 1 p.m., said Pete Flores, AgriLife Extension webinar coordinator in Corpus Christi.

James Jackson, AgriLife Extension range program specialist, Stephenville, will be the presenter.

"This webinar will review the proper techniques for mixing herbicides, calibrating sprayers and conducting stem and cut-stump treatments to control noxious brush plants," Jackson said.

One general Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education unit will be offered during this webinar, Flores said. Participants seeking Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education units must pay a $10 fee on the website. For all others, there is no fee.

For more information on the webinars, contact Flores at Pete.Flores@ag.tamu.edu.

Large crowd gathers to celebrate Fourth of July

Beautiful, calm weather greeted a patriotic crowd gathered on the Courthouse Square last Saturday, July 1, for the 140th annual Saints' Rost Celebration.

The Kids' Parade started the day with the youngsters peddling or driving from Third Street down Sully Street in front of the Courthouse. In the 0-4 age group, Annislee McIntosh was first, Leah Victory was second, and Kelton Herndon third. MaKynna Williams won the 5-8 age group with Cooper Henderson second and with Cooper Henderson second and Nevaeh & Zaylee third. The 9 and up age group was won by Kyndall Shields, Bryce Williams second and Billy Bond third. The Herring Bank Parade delighted kids of all ages as floats, riding units, emergency vehicles, and other entries wound their way from the baseball fields through downtown. Greenbelt Electric took Grand Champion and best float, Floyd Baxter won best car or truck, Bromley Ranch won best tractor or farm equipment, and best "other" entry went to the Community Fellowship Church. Sierra Millison took first place in the Cornell's Country Store "Show Us Your Boots" contest, and Michelle Hall was second place.

The annual Craft Fair drew a big crowd to the courthouse square with an impressive number of vendors; and the Chamber of Commerce recognized several pioneer citizens during the Old Settlers gathering. The Oldest Settler went to Johnny Leathers age 96.

The Al Morrah Shrine Club served 600 plates of barbecue, down from 749 last year. A portion of the proceeds from the annual barbecue are used in conjunction with the Khiva Shrine Temple in Amarillo to help pay for the transportation of kids to the Shriners' burns and crippled children's hospitals.

Several organizations held fundraisers during the celebration.

The winners of the Courthouse Lighting Committee Penny Raffle were Debbie Chowins and Tim Herbert, $100.00 each and Paulette Kidd and Russell Latham, $50 each.

The Clarendon Lions Club won the $2000 Community Fund raffle and Jody Berry & Chrisi Tucke won $500 each. The winners of the Lions Club Cow Patty Bingo were Brock Holland, $250, and Brenda Hill and Russell Latham, $50 each.

The Clarendon Outdoor Entertainment Association hosted a Junior Ranch Rodeo on July 4 and an open Ranch Rodeo on July 30 and July 1. Results of those events will be listed in next week's edition.

Henson's annual Turtle Race had altogether 177 participants, which was down from terpin handlers last year. Winners were Cashlyn Linqquist for the 0-4 division, Brandon Moore for the 5-8 division, Colton Benson for the 9-14 division, and Gary Chavez for the adult division. Each child division winner received $25 and a $25 Henson's Gift Certificate. The adult division brought in $260, which was divided in half between the winner and the Donley County Child Welfare board.

District Court hears thirteen pleas

The District Court heard 13 pleas, including the case of one local man, when it met in Clarendon last Monday, June 19.

District Attorney Luke Inman, assisted by Assistant District Attorney Harley Caudle, prosecuted the cases for the State of Texas, with the Honorable Judge Stuart Messer presiding.

Alan Dwayne Harper was placed on probation for a period of five years for the third degree felony offense of unlawful restraint. Harper pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Harper, 61 from Clarendon, was arrested in Donley County for the offense that took place on February 7, 2017 by Donley County Sheriff's Deputy Mike Spier. Harper was later indicted by the Donley County Grand Jury on April 10, 2017.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Harper is required to pay a $1,000 fine, $488 in court costs, and successfully complete 400 hours of community service. If Harper violates probation, he could face up to 10 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

Walter James Wheeler, Jr. was placed on probation for a period of five years for the first degree felony offense of aggravated robbery. Wheeler pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Wheeler, 63 from

Walsenburg, Colo., was arrested in Donley County for the offense that took place on October 6, 2016 by Donley County Sheriff Butch Blackburn. Wheeler was later indicted by the Donley County Grand Jury on December 12, 2016.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Wheeler is required to pay a $3,000 fine, $448 in court costs, $4,375 restitution, successfully complete 400 hours of community service, and a $500 out of state probation transfer fee. If Wheeler violates probation, he could face up to 99 years or life in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

Javaria Michelle Hodge was placed on probation for a period of four years for the second degree felony offense of possession of marijuana. Hodge pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Hodge, 32 from Waterloo, Iowa, was arrested in Donley County for the offense that took place on October 26, 2016 by DPS Trooper Darin Bridges. Hodge pleaded to an information filed by the State on January 10, 2017.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Hodge is required to pay a $4,000 fine, $458 in court costs, $180 lab restitution, successfully complete 300 hours of community service, and a $500 out of state probation transfer fee. If Hodge violates probation, she could face up to 20 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

Carolyn Emily Hicks, 33 from Arlington, pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Adjudicate and was sentenced to seven years in the Institutional Division of TDCJ for the second degree felony offense of possession of a controlled substance.

On November 14, 2012, Hicks originally pleaded to the charges from the October 30, 2012 offense in Donley County. The State filed the motion to adjudicate on July 20, 2015, alleging five violations of community supervision.

Hicks is also required to pay $443 in court costs, $2,992 in restitution and a $4,000 fine.

Antonio Alcaraz-Memije was placed on probation for a period of two years for the state jail felony offense of possession of a controlled substance. Alcaraz pleaded guilty and was placed on

City Hall held town meeting

Community members attending town hall last Thursday, June 29, were encouraging of a $1 million proposal to finance a portion of Clarendon's water recreation project and completion of the Mulkey Theatre.

The forum at the Bairfield Activity Center was attended by approximately 40 residents and included representatives of the city council, the water recreation steering and fundraising committees, and the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation Board.

Mayor Sandy Skelton welcomed the crowd and gave an overview of new businesses and other activities happening in the city over the last couple of years and noted that local sales tax revenue has doubled over the last 20 years.

"What the city is missing is recreation opportunities for people of all ages," Skelton said.

Skelton gave an overview of the water recreation project and the ongoing effort to raise funds to match the challenge of an anonymous benefactor who wants to give the city $500,000 for that purpose. Fundraising has brought in more than $259,000 toward that match in donations or pledges.

CEDC Secretary Roger Estlack gave an update on the Mulkey Theatre and on action taken by the CEDC board in May that recommended $1 million be borrowed and financed with EDC sales tax revenue to complete the theatre and help meet the challenge for the water recreation project.

City Administrator David Dockery then went over the details of the financing. Half of the $1 million would go toward the Mulkey, and the other half would go to the pool. The money would be paid back over 20 years with an annual debt service of $74,400.

The debt payment would be covered by EDC sales taxes that are already being collected. Current annual EDC sales tax revenue is about $98,500. Looking at historical data from the last 20 years, Dockery said EDC annual revenue will likely be $136,422 in 2027 and $188,945 in 2037.

The debt service would not encumber any of the Hotel Occupancy Funds administered by the EDC to fund local events and community promotional efforts.

A question was asked about borrowing more than needed to meet the water recreation challenge, but city officials said having additional funds better positions the project for upcoming grant applications.

Officials also fielded questions about parking, maintenance, management, and future needs of the water recreation project, all of which have been taken into consideration by the steering committee and the city.

As the meeting drew to a close, attendees were positive about the proposal and supported it by a show of hands as well as by comments.

Trump Cuba policy just pandering

By Doug Bandow, Cato Institute

Last month, President Donald Trump announced his outrage at Cuba's poor human rights record. On his recent Midwest trip the president did not even mention the issue in totalitarian Saudi Arabia. But of Cuba, he declared: "We will not be silent in the face of Communist oppression any longer." A cynic might observe that more Cuban-Americans than Saudi-Americans voted for him last November.

Cuba has been on Washington's "bad" list since Fidel Castro's revolutionaries took power in 1959. The island would have been of little geopolitical importance had Castro not turned to the Soviet Union for support in the Cold War. Washington feared a hostile base so near and targeted the regime.

Instead of disappearing into obscurity as his impoverished nation flourished, Castro gained international acclaim by posing as the heroic opponent of Yankee imperialism. His government relied on Soviet subsidies for sustenance, but survived, with difficulty, even after the USSR dissolved. Castro reluctantly adopted modest economic reforms to attract more foreign cash and spur more domestic enterprise.

Returning to yesterday's failed policies of isolation will not free the Cuban people.

Cuban Communism's record is dismal. When I visited (legally) a dozen years ago, I found crumbling infrastructure, homes which had "not seen paint in decades, cars held together with wire and tape, and seemingly half the population toting cages stolen from state factories. But the elite lived well: in fine homes behind high walls, with luxury cars in driveways, serving lobster and other fine foods to guests, and deploying guard dogs for security.

The U.S. economic embargo failed to overly disturb Castro & Co. Europeans invested in Cuba; I stayed at a Dutch hotel. Hard currency stores were full of foreign goods. Fidel Castro remained in charge, along with brother Raul and other aging revolutionaries. None of them had to produce a ration book to eat.

Dissidents complained that the regime covered up its economic failures by blaming the embargo. When I visited Elizardo Sanchez, Santa Cruz, who had been imprisoned by Castro, he told me that the "sanctions policy gives the government a good alibi to justify the failure of the totalitarian model in Cuba."

In the face of this reality, American policy was brain dead, determined by a diminishing number of headline Cuban-Americans who opposed any softening of sanctions. U.S. policy illustrated the definition of insanity: doing more of the same while expecting a different result. Younger Cuban-Americans, who spent their entire lives in the U.S. and had few, if any, memories of Cuba, increasingly questioned the embargo. However, rabid proponents of the half-century-old restrictions still delivered a sizeable vote in Florida, one of the nation's biggest pools of electoral votes.

President Barack Obama did little about the issue until shortly before leaving office. Then he established diplomatic relations with Havana and relaxed restrictions on travel and business, though he lacked legal authority to lift the embargo.

In his typical fact-free approach, President Trump last week criticized "the last administration's completely one-sided deal with Cuba." The U.S. had diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, Eastern European nations, and assorted Third World dictatorships throughout the Cold War. An embassy is a communication channel, not a political endorsement.

Moreover, trade and investment benefit both sides economically. Commerce with freer societies also tends to destabilize authoritarian regimes, encouraging economic and political liberalization. Trade links and economic growth helped spur democratization in such nations as Mexico, South Korea, and Taiwan.

Of course, economic liberalization does not guarantee political transformation. The (Rafel) Castro regime is aware of the risks and intensified repression of political dissidents and religious believers. But communism's appeal is dwindling.

Alas, returning to yesterday's failed policies of isolation will not free the Cuban people. The Castro government worries most about regime preservation. The elite will not end repression to satisfy Washington, even if doing so might bring in a few more tourist dollars. But President Trump's retreat will hurt the island's growing private sector. When informed of the Trump administration's plans, a waitress complained to the Washington Post: "We're the ones who are going to lose."

There will be fewer American tourists and the ones who still come will be pushed toward government-approved tours and guides, going where the Castro regime wants them to. There will be fewer U.S. enterprises and less contact between Americans and Cubans. Citizens in the "land of the free" will lack travel opportunities available to Europeans, South Americans, and most anyone else in the world. Trump's policy will end up strengthening Castro's communist dictatorship. The system will stagger on a few years longer, despite the embargo.

The presidential campaign is over. President Trump should do what is best for both the American and Cuban people, and end economic restrictions on the island. Freedom eventually will come to Cuba. Flooding the island with foreign people and money would make that day arrive sooner.

Who you gonna call for DIY help?

Not so many years ago, when children were asked to do household chores, they might register resistance with beginning letters of four jobs — "TNMJ." (That's Not My Job.)

Such requests made these days might just as well be directed to telephone poles, since most children have "buds" in their ears, choosing to listen to sounds more soothing or entertaining than parental verbiage.

But wait. The point of this piece is for yours truly, and for other men who realize that when DIY (Do It Yourself) comes up in conversations, we're better off to respond with "TNMJ." The plea this day is for "unhandy" men (like me) to top "opportunities" for DIY aside. Call someone, maybe even ABS (Anyone But Self)....

We gulp down the "Kool-Aid" from folks with something to sell. They fool us, saying we need YouTube, a few tools and an hour or so for most repairs.

Horse feathers. After all, the song reminds us of summertime, when the living is easy, etc. Mount a project, and life happens.

We take on projects that "encouragers" say any child can do. Alas, at this point we should pinch ourselves, thus reminded — yet again — that money, time and frustration can be saved by CALLING A PROFESSIONAL....

We need only recall "DIY blunders" of the past to serve as warnings to "steer clear." We should think of DIY "opportunities" as buoys — bobbing in shallow water — with warning curs of jagged edges nearby that can pull us down.

Painful as it is to admit, I recall numerous misadventures, one of attempting to increase the tension mechanism of our garage door.

Over-tightened it, and it took three people to "hold it down" until the tension could be disengaged. (Let fly, and the double door would have sailed a half-block down the street.)

Then there's the lost weekend given to laying brick columns for installation of a wrought iron gate. It worked — somewhat — and I thought the leaning columns gave our property "character." (If I'd just known to "vinegar wash" mortar from my hands properly, there'd have been fewer blisters)....

Somehow, we think that later in life we can do better with "DIY." Again, don't drink the Kool-Aid.

Earlier this year, I noticed the water in the commode in our second bathroom didn't always turn off without a "jiggle." Stupid me! I invested several hours, considerable cash and much anguish, believing the guy at the hardware store who said all the new "innards" would work fine my commode tank. Time will tell if this is correct; a new "outard" part absolutely does not. The dratted flush handle is several silly millimeters too, uh, thick — sticking out too far from the tank....

the idle american
by dan newbury

We were away 10 days of the billing period, but a springtime water bill was $322, and the next one, not much better. Plumbers, sprinkler system people and City of Burleson water department folks tried to help.

They found nothing wrong. (Hint: The commode lid wasn't "up.")

That's when I called the Mansfield plumbing people — almost tearfully — to share my plight. The lady soothed, explaining — before I could — what likely had gone wrong. "I'm guessing the raised commode lid prevents the flushing handle from resting against the tank," she purred. "Often, the wrong handle is unable to shut off the supply, and the water continues to run..."

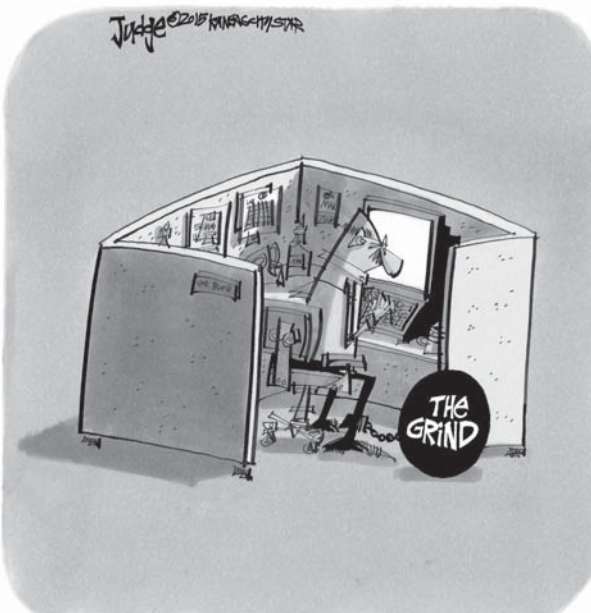

MY blood pressure shot skyward. No one had considered the possibility of the problem she immediately solved.

She lectured me about the importance of getting the RIGHT parts, and competence of the person installing them. "There's no law against some sales guy saying, 'Yeah, these parts will fit fine.'"

Much now is right with the world. A son-in-law who can fix anything will be in town soon. He'll install genuine Mansfield parts. In the meantime, the commode will be turned off. Now, my wife will turn on the sprinkler system again. The lawn is looking a bit brown....

AND NOW THAT WE'RE DONE CELEBRATING OUR INDEPENDENCE...

Teenage entrepreneur adventures

Jerry French of Lufkin had a distinguished military career as a pilot, then was an executive for three major airlines. Among other accomplishments he dispatched the Concorde on its flights between the US and Europe.

He grew up on a cattle ranch in Colorado and ran away from home when he was 14. His brother and sister also ran away from home as teenagers. "We couldn't get along with our stepmother," says Jerry.

He went to Liberal, Kansas and found an attic apartment in a private home for ten dollars a month. "I was working the wheat harvest," says Jerry. "I left home the summer between my sophomore and junior year in high school. During my junior year I washed pots and pans at Safeway grocery for fifteen cents an hour. I did that from three in the morning until nine, then walked a few blocks to school. After school I milked cows at a dairy. We'd put the milk in glass bottles with cardboard caps and deliver it to doorsteps in town for seven cents a quart. Bread was five cents a loaf. Day old bread was two loaves for a nickel."

During his senior year in high school he leased a service station. "I sold gas for twelve and fourteen cents a gallon.

I leased that station for nine months, just during my senior year in high school. I made out OK. I slept in the service station on a cot. I left the lights on all night and truckers would stop at two o'clock in the morning and wake me up with their air horns. I gave truckers a half cent a gallon discount."

He went to school only from nine in the morning until noon, and still built enough credits to graduate at the age of 16. He was doing so well with the service station he bought a 1928 Chevy convertible for twenty dollars. "It was a roadster with a rumble seat, so it was pretty popular in high school."

After graduating in 1941 he sold that convertible for thirty dollars. "Made a good profit," says Jerry.

stories of texas
by hamblesweat smith

He joined the military in June of 1941 at the age of 16. He wrote the number 18 on a piece of paper and put it in his shoe. "I knew the recruiter would ask about my age. I was big and healthy, didn't smoke or drink. I was a farm boy and had a lot of muscles that made me look older. The recruiter asked me if I was over 18. I said yes. He didn't ask me if I was over 18 years old he asked me if I was over 18. I was standing over the number 18 that was in my shoe. That's how I got into the service."

Jerry had seen some B-17's flying overhead and decided he wanted to be a pilot. He was sent to Kelly Field in San Antonio where pilots are trained. When he told a sergeant he wanted to be a pilot he was given a shovel and told to "pile it here, pile it there." Two years of college were required to become a pilot so Jerry enrolled in college and became eligible for pilot training when he was 18. By 19 he was crew chief on a B-17. He was the youngest crew member. The oldest was 23 and was known as "Pop."

House committee passes defense bill

WASHINGTON - The House Armed Services Committee passed the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018, which authorizes spending for military personnel, weapons systems, national security programs, and foreign military operations by a vote of 60 to 1.

"The threats our country faces today are more varied and widespread than ever before. While our enemies have been quickly advancing, our military has gotten smaller," said Committee Chairman US Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon). "Our service members work to protect us every day, and we owe them the best training, the best equipment, and other support our nation can provide."

The bill authorizes $63.5 billion in spending for defense needs, including a $28.5 billion increase for essential readiness recovery above the President's budget request.

The National Defense Authorization Act (NDA) also combats global terrorism by fully resourcing and authorizing counterterrorism efforts and U.S. Special Operations Forces, programs, and activities around the world.

Sheppard Air Force Base: The NDA authorizes funding for an increase in end strength of the Air Force and programs such as the training missions at Sheppard Air Force Base near Wichita Falls. It also includes language to tighten evaluation process of energy projects close to military installations to help ensure that bases and training ranges are not adversely impacted.

Pantex: The bill provides $10.4 billion in funding for nuclear weapons activities including the work done at Pantex, which is $184 million more than the Administration's budget request. All life extension programs, including the W76-1 program currently underway at Pantex, are fully funded. The bill includes $5.2 billion to begin design and construction of the Pantex Material Staging Facility, which will dramatically improve operations and security at the plant.

To help with aging infrastructure, the bill establishes the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization and Repair Program (FIRRP) with a goal of reducing the nuclear security enterprise's backlog of deferred maintenance and repair needs by 50 percent within five years. An additional $150 million is included to help with this effort at Pantex and other facilities across the enterprise. Finally, the bill provides an increase of $33 million for defense nuclear security to ensure Pantex and other facilities maintain the highest level of security.

Bell: Close to $2.6 billion is authorized for Bell's V-22 Osprey and helicopter programs, including the procurement of 10 new Ospreys and 27 new H-1 helicopters. Much of the work for those aircraft will be performed in Amrillo.

Other Highlights of the bill: Military Personnel and Pay: The bill supports the full 2.4 percent pay raise for the military.

Military Families: Prohibits the reduction of inpatient care for military Medical Treatment facilities located outside of the United States. The bill also provides resources to help families with relocation and relicensing.

Rebuilding Readiness: Makes key investments not provided for in the President's Budget Request. The NDA will begin to recover lost readiness and begin rebuilding the force.

Maintenance: Increases Navy Ship and Aircraft depot maintenance and afloat readiness, while also including additional funds for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force operation and maintenance.

Facilities: Increases funding to support military facilities.

Missile Defense: Increases the authorization of funds to procure additional interceptor missiles, increase investments in the Ground-based Midcourse Defense System, and boost phase missile defense.

Ten-year-old Ben Estlack said he supports the pool project because his family has to drive an hour away to go to a water park and he'd rather not have to go that far, and he said he also supports the Mulkey project.

Addressing a suggestion to scale back the water recreation project, Denise Bertrand urged leaders to not set the goal too low. That sentiment was shared by Howardwick resident Dusty Green, who said he had been to many communities in his travels and he and his wife are excited about Clarendon's projects.

"This is a special place with a lot of value," Green said. "Don't just meet the minimum; dare to do more."

Independence Day celebration

The weather was perfect to gather under the big cedar tree on the Court House lawn to visit with family and friends while waiting for the parade, barbeque, and turtle race to celebrate Independence Day, 2017. The parade has changed with two riding clubs and few independent riders but added a 4-wheeler or ATV club, many fire trucks, a replica of the Alamo with the famous "Come and take it" gun mounted on top, cute cheerleaders and several floats. Turtles are becoming more scarce to find for the race, one of the articles in the "Donley County Leader" told of 250 entries in 1967, possibly half that many were entered this year. It is fun and thanks Pat and Penny for sharing your find, these city kids of mine have not encountered many turtles in their lifetime. I can no longer enjoy the rodeo but all reports are it was fun also.

What do we have to look forward to for the remainder of the month other than the heat? Pretty night sky's, with the beginning of the Perseid meteor shower beginning July 13-August 26 with the peak August 12. Meteor showers are caused when cosmic debris enters Earth's atmosphere at high speeds, causing the so called shower. The summer will pass quickly and someone will wish they had visited the lake more often, made another freezer of ice cream, made new friends or visited the ones we love. Take advantage of summer and have fun, make memories.

Parades of fun at the Saints' Roost Celebration

Last Saturday was our town's Fourth of July Celebration.

The first thing that we did was the kids parade and then was the big parade.

During the big parade, I got to be the Bulldog for Clarendon College. I put the Bulldog head on and stood out of the sunroof of the college's cars and waved and the candy to the people on the street.

In the beginning, it wasn't very hard, but as we got closer to the square, there were more people on the side of the road, and it was harder to throw candy out to everyone who wanted it.

Later that afternoon was the turtle race. We had four different turbles. The fastest one was Flash. Then we had Peaches, Tractor, and Turkey. We didn't win the turtle race, but I still think I can do it.

Later that evening, we went to the rodeo and helped in the concession stand for the Boy Scouts.

I also want to say happy late birthday to my sister, Ella. She turned nine on Sunday, July 2nd!

Terrapin handlers

Henson's annual Turtle Race was held Saturday with 177 entries. Winners were (back) Jade Benson & Gracie Shadle for the 9-14 Division, Gary Chavez for the adult division, (bottom) Cashlyn Linquist for the 0-4 division, and Brandon Moore for the 5-8 Division. The adult division was divided in half between the winner and the Donley County Child Welfare board.

WHISTLE STOP LEGENDS

Whistle-Stop owners Jordan & Kimberly salute this week's legend...

LOUISA KING
A native of Ft. Worth, Louisa King was 13 years old when her family moved to Clarendon after working on area farms. Now 77 years later, Louisa has seen a lot of changes and is proud of the "firsts" that her family has set.

In 1968, Louisa became the first black nurse at Clarendon's Adair Hospital after Dr. George Smith encouraged her to pursue that vocation. Also in the 1960s, Louisa's daughter Gwendolyn became the first black girl to attend Clarendon College and became the salutatorian of her class. Then in the 1980s, King's son Kenneth became Clarendon's first athlete to play for the National Football League.

As a nurse, she cared for the patients and residents in Clarendon and Claude, she also taught nurses' aides for Medical Center Nursing Home.

She's been a faithful member of the True Church of God in Christ, serving in many capacities such as secretary, treasurer, Sunday school teacher, pastor's aide, and superintendent of teachers. Today as the Church Mother, she is laying plans to preserve the church's history for future generations.

The Whistle-Stop and the community salute Louisa King for her contributions to Clarendon and the work she has done to care for others. Thank you, Louisa!

Drugs in the News

New Drug Approved for Rheumatoid Arthritis

The Food and Drug Administration recently approved a drug called sarilumab (Kevzara) in adults with moderate to severe rheumatoid arthritis (RA). Kevzara is one of a class of drugs called monoclonal antibodies. It works by blocking a substance in the body, called the IL-6 cytokine, which is known to cause inflammation. The approval of Kevzara came after a recent study of adults with moderate to severe RA, who had a poor response to other medications. Researchers reported that adding Kevzara to disease modifying antirheumatic drugs, improved physical function, when compared to placebo. Kevzara also decreased symptoms and it decreased the progression of structural damage. Side effects may include redness at the injection site.

Rheumatoid Arthritis is an autoimmune condition where the body's immune system mistakenly attacks body tissue, in addition to the body's joints. Rheumatoid Arthritis may be caused by genetics, viruses, or bacteria. Symptoms of RA may include swollen, stiff joints.

Barbee

Roxie Mae Price Barbee, 85, died Thursday, June 29, 2017 in Amarillo.

Memorial services were held on Monday, July 3, 2017, at First Baptist Church in Clarendon with Rev. Lance Wood officiating.

Private interment followed at Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon. Arrangements were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors in Clarendon

Barbee

Born May 5, 1932, in Turkey, to Cecil Price and Merry Velma Hunter Price, Roxie was the third of ten children and eldest daughter. She was baptized at a young age at First Baptist Church Quitaque. She attended Quitaque Schools, where she met the love of her life, Earnest Wayne Barbee. They were married June 29, 1950, and celebrated 65 years of marriage before Earnest passed away in 2015.

Roxie devoted her life to being an exemplary wife and mother. Together, they raised three children. She worked side by side with Earnest in the cotton fields, raised a large garden and canned vegetables every summer and fall, while keeping the books on the family farming business and an immaculate home. Roxie was active in her church, First Baptist Church Clarendon, where she taught Sunday School, was a leader in WMU, and volunteered with funeral meals and visiting shut-ins and the sick. She was also a charter member of Donley County Young Homemakers.

She was preceded in death by her husband Earnest Barbee, and brothers Buddy and Larry Don Price. She is survived by her son E. Wayne Barbee of Clarendon, daughters Jennifer Croslin and husband Randy of Canyon and Jan Schafer and husband Barry of Hamilton, Mississippi; six grandchildren Beth Barbee Hubbert, Tommy Barbee, Jared Schafer, Colby Croslin, Jeff Schafer and Conner Croslin, and 11 great-grandchildren. Also survived by seven siblings: Bruce Price, Quitaque; AC Price, Amarillo; Margie Trent, Memphis; Hubert Price, Turkey; Bulah Landry, Amarillo; Joe Price, Amarillo; Pinky Mullin, Seminole; and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins.

The family asks that you support First Baptist Church Clarendon and the Alzheimer's Association. The family wishes to extend appreciation to Brenda Christi and the staff of Comfort Care Home (Monica, Myrna, Loretta and MJ).

DPS: Leaving children in vehicles can be deadly

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is warning residents that warmer weather places children at greater risk of injury or death if left unattended in a vehicle. Every year children die from heatstroke after being left in a vehicle or entering a vehicle unnotified. Such negligence could lead to criminal charges. A child should never be left unattended in a vehicle.

"Tragically, children needlessly die every year because they are left unattended in vehicles," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Members of the public can do their part to keep kids safe by notifying emergency personnel if they witness a child alone or in distress inside a vehicle - regardless of the weather. Parents and caregivers should be aware of the dangers." According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, temperatures inside a car can rise more than 20 degrees in only 10 minutes; and even with an outside temperature of 60 degrees, the temperature inside a car can reach 110 degrees. Leaving windows partially rolled down does not help. In addition, young children are particularly at risk since their bodies heat up faster than an adult.

DPS offers the following tips for preventing vehicular heatstroke deaths and injuries: Teach children not to play in vehicles and make sure to place the keys out of reach when not being used.

Always check the back seats or cargo areas of your vehicle before walking away.

Establish reminders that help ensure you remove children from the vehicle. For example: leave your bag, lunch or cell phone in the back seat with the child's car seat.

Call 9-1-1 if you see a child alone in a car, and emergency personnel will provide guidance.

If a child goes missing, open the doors and trunks to every vehicle in the area. Many heatstroke deaths occur when a child accesses a parked car unnotified.

Additionally, don't forget pet safety. Animals are also susceptible to heat-related injury or death - don't put your pets in these dangerous conditions.
