BETTER HEALTH

Change Your Toothbrush During Cough, Cold Season

News USA

(NU) - How often do you replace your toothbrush?

The right answer to the question might help you stay healthier during cold and flu season.

While the American Dental Association says you should replace your toothbrush every three to four months, most people buy fewer than two toothbrushes each year and are usually reluctant to replace them more often.

Independent laboratory studies show that bacteria can survive outside the body on toothbrush bristles. Toothbrushes are often kept in a humid bathroom near others, so there's a potential for germs to spread quickly.

If you want to help stop the spread of a cold or a virus, the first place to look is in the bathroom. Here are some tips from Oral-B Laboratories, maker of the new Advantage toothbrush with micro-textured bristles, as well as other oral care products:

 When you have a cold, don't use the same toothpaste tube as the rest of the family. It can spread germs from one toothbrush to another. Make sure you have your own tube and that family members know

• Don't forget to brush your tongue and the roof of your mouth.

It will help freshen breath and clean your mouth by removing bacteria.

• After brushing, soak your toothbrush in an antibacterial mouth rinse for approximately 20 minutes. Then hang it to dry, making sure it's not touching anyone else's toothbrush. • When your cold is gone, replace your toothbrush with a new one to avoid re-infecting yourself with lingering bacteria from your old toothbrush.

• Supervise your children when they brush their teeth. Sometimes children have a tendency to fool around and they may let their toothbrushes make contact with unclean surfaces.

Cold-Fighting Tips

(NU) - Some more helpful ips for fighting the germs that ause colds:

• Wash your hands often. • Cover your mouth when you sneeze or cough. • Eat a nutritious, well-bal-

• Get plenty of rest. • Use separate glasses, dishes, eating utensils and towels for each family member.

Business owners must render property by April 14 by state law

(AUSTIN)—In accordance with state law, Texas businesses must render their property with county appraisal districts by April 14. To render is to list the taxable property that businesses owned or managed as of January 1, 1997.

"While state law requires business owners and operators to render, any property owner-including homeowners, farmers and ranchers—may also list their property with county appraisal districts," State Comptroller John Sharp said.

"Property owners who render are in a better position to exercise their rights as taxpayers," Sharp noted. "They are ensuring that the appraisal district has their correct address so they will receive notices of any actions that property or tax bills./

If the tax collector cannot deliver a tax bill because of an incorrect or old address, the property owner is responsible for paying the taxes, plus late payment penalties, Sharp added.

State law requires anyone who owns or manages income producing personal property on January 1 to render with the local appraisal district. An exception is a business that receives the freeport exemption for managing cotton stored in a warehouse.

"For example, businesses must report their inventories, furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment and other tangible personal property by filing this annual report," Sharp said. "Appraisal districts use the reports to set business property values. When a business owner doesn't render his or her property, the chief appraiser estimates the value.."

Sharp also announced that property owners who had property damaged by a storm, flood or fire last year may file a special decreased value report that could lower their final tax bills. Property owners may file the decreased value report about their property's condition on January 1, 1997.

Property owners may ask the

chief appraiser for additional time through April 30 - if the owners can demonstrate good cause. The chief appraiser must grant owners of property regulated by the Public Utility Commission or the Railroad Commission an extension to April 30 to file the reports and may extend the deadline another 15 days if the owners request it in writing and show good cause.

On the renditions, property owners can record their opinions of their property's value. By stating their opinion, property owners make sure that the appraisal district sends them a notice before placing a higher value on their property. This notice allows property owners the time to gather information to protest the appraisal if they believe the appraisal district's value is too high.

If more than one appraisal district appraises a property, the property owner should render in each appraisal district office. Taxpayers may contact the county appraisal district office for the rendition forms, or they may call the Comptroller's property tax hotline at 1-800-252-9121.

December 1996 Police Report

The Knox City Police Department had another very busy month during December 1996, receiving a total of 413 calls and tasks which required attention. This total included 20 actual criminal offenses, of which 13 were cleared or otherwise handled. Eight charges were filed in regard to the above offense, with five of the offenses involving juveniles as offenders. The cases involving juveniles were referred to the Juvenile Authorities for further action.

Offenses reported include: Criminal Mischief - 2, Evading Arrest / Detention - 1, Criminal Trespass - 2, Disorderly Conduct - 2, Theft - 4, Credit Card Abuse -1, Burglary of a Coin Operated Machine - 1, Harassment - 1, Driving While Intoxicated - 1, Unlawfully Carrying a Weapon - 1, Illegal Possession of Controlled Substances - 1. Theft of Service - 1, Public Intoxication - 1, Engage in Organized Criminal Activity - 1, Traffic Charges Filed - 15, Warnings Issued - 30, Accidents - 3.

The Knox City Police Department Reserve Officers contributed a total of 27.5 hours of duty time to the City of Knox City during the month of December 1996.

Other items reported to the Knox City Police Department during December are classified as incidents. These incidents either did not occur in the City of Knox City or for some other reason were not able to be considered as a criminal offense. However, they must be investigated to determine if a record is to be made for further reference or if the case should be referred to another agency.

Incidents reported include: Domestic Dispute - 3, Disturbance - 1, Property Dispute - 1, Threatened Suicide - 1.

On December 6, the employees of the City of Knox City attended a Christmas party organized and planned by Mayor Tommie (Bud) Reynolds and his wife, Sequoyah. Each year, Mayor Reynolds and Sequoyah organize a Christmas party, which include lots of good food, games and singing of Christmas songs. Hats off to Mayor Reynolds for caring so much about the city employees and those others associated with the operation of the city of Knox

On December 9 - 11, I attended a course in Abilene at the West Central Texas Law Enforcement Academy which was intended for making better supervisors out of those in a supervisory position. The course was very informative, with many details and suggestions being made available to the students on dealing with various situations.

On December 14, Knox City had its Christmas parade. The parade was very nicelyorganized and had many good entries. I appreciate the Department of Public Safety, Knox County Sheriff's Department and the Munday Police Department for assisting with traffic control during the parade.

On January 2, Knox City officer William Curd was sworn in as Constable of Knox County. Although this department is losing its final reserve officer, Officer Curd will continue his law enforcement as Constable Curd. He has expressed his wish to continue to assist this department when the need exists, and I do appreciate the offer, which I did readily accept. I do wish him the best of luck with his new position, and do thank him for the many hours of duty time contributed to this department during the more than three years that he served with this department.

To many citizens, county wide, have the opinion that Law Officers are just kind of "under foot". Law enforcement, many times, is thought of as an another problem when an officer stops a person for a traffic violation or some other reason. Many driver's don't realize the amount of cattle that escape from their single wire electric fences, or the many times that wild hogs are seen crossing the highway. Either way, a lot of damage can be caused by contact between a vehicle and such a large animal. If you get stopped for speeding, consider that maybe the officer is attempting to convince you to at least drive the speed limit. By doing that, you may have a better change of surviving an accident or better yet, possibly avoiding the accident. You may say that you got a ticket in town for speeding or some other violation. Although you may rarely see a wild hog or a cow running loose in town, you will see many other vehicles, weighing as much or more than your vehicle, driving on the same roadway as you are traveling on. If you drive the speed limit, once again, you have a better chance of avoiding an accident. If you stop at a stop sign, you give yourself the opportunity to look around briefly, checking to see if the others at the stop sign or on the street crossing in front of you are driving safely so you can proceed without worrying about having an accident. You can see the advertisements posted in various places advising you to drive defensively. If you were to drive with the though that everyone was out to run over you,

servant of other traffic, traffic laws, and other situations that can cause a problem. Wearing a seat belt is a real pain to many, however, it can save your life, your face, and IT IS THE LAW.

This department intends to strictly enforce the child passenger safety seat law, which states that it is an offense to transport a child in a passenger car or light truck under the age of two (2), if the child is not secured in a child passenger safety seat system, according to the instructions of the safety seat manufacturer. The law goes on to read that it is also an offense if a child is between two (2) years of age and four (4), and is not secured during operation of the vehicle, in either a child passenger safety seat system or a safety belt. This law does not allow for a small child, or anyone for that matter, to be jumping around the vehicle, or to be held by the driver or anyone else, during the operation of the vehicle in which the child is riding. If you want a copy of the law, I will be much more happy to supply you with it, rather than an expensive citation if you refuse to consider the effects on the victim of an accident, which will be your child.

Most beneficiaries no longer submit annual earnings reports

Social Security has eliminated the need for most beneficiaries to file an annual report of earnings. Instead, the agency will adjust benefits as required under the Social Security annual earnings limits based on the amount of wages or net earnings from self employment posted to the worker's Social Security earnings record. The new process begins with reporting year 1996 and could save up to 330,000 public reporting hours. Under the new procedure, beneficiaries will need to file annual reports only when their earnings for purposes of the Social Security earnings test are not the same as the earnings reported on their W-2 and/or self employment tax return.

The abortion issue

Each year thousands of unwed

or reluctant mothers walk through

the doors of abortion clinics and sacrifice the child inside them to the convenience of the their will. Most of these women fear the responsibility that a new baby might bring to them; therefore, they find it somewhat easier to commit this tiny life to death than to give it the gift of life. I cannot bring myself to believe that this method is the best way out. It saddens me to imagine that millions of babies die each year and we sit by and proclaim in ignorance that it is simply an unborn fetus incapable of feeling because it is not alive. People choose to believe this lie, because it allows them to commit murder under the banner of ~political correctness." It angers me to see this nation kill murderers, thieves, and other criminals under the death sentence, yet thousands of doctors carry a license to kill millions of babies each year; and we pay them to commit infanticide. Even though I am for saving the life of an unborn child, I do not agree with the way pro-life advocates handle the issue of abortion. I disagree with their campaign tactics. They blockade abortion clinics, parade down public streets waving signs-bearing pictures of half alive fetuses, and threaten the lives of the doctors that commit abortions. Their scare tactics are not convincing; to the contrary, they turn people to the pro choice advocates. The pro-choice movement offers something they call peace and a way out of the malady. Their solution is the murder of the tiny life inside the mother. They take pride in their diabolical ways. They remove the fetus by inserting a needle into the uterus of the mother and injecting a salt solution into the fluid. This disintegrates the child and they remove the fetus by aid of vacuum cleaner. Thanks to a new abortion law, they abort by crushing or sucking the brain from the skull of the child. This method can be used up to nine months of pregnancy. I believe that if this were used on a normal human, it would be considered torture in the most extreme form.

Referral to the child as a "fetus," "tissue," or a "mass" can bring a false idea that the process the mother." will only remove the child from the mother's uterus, no life will be lost. After the process this hope is replaced by a feeling of guilt, depression, and even sadness. No mother can forget a pregnancy, no matter how it ends. Webster's Collegiate Dictionary defines "human" as, "having human form or attributes." It goes on to define it as being, "a substance, nature, or essence of anything existent, one that exists." Can anyone rationally conclude that the unborn child is not a human being? To suggest this is to imply that it does not exist. Certainly, it does exist; therefore, it is a being. Further, to suggest that it is not a human being must mean that it is some other kind of being. Would it therefore be an organic or inorganic being. I realize that this way of thinking may seem absurd, but it has to be considered. From the moment of conception, the child has the potential of being an Einstein or a Billy Graham. The best way to observe the pregnancy is simply "life." To remove that life for no reason but convenience is murder.

"Their solution is the murder of the tiny life inside the mother"

Even though a person can stand strong on his or her opinion, there are those who will argue their point incessantly. There are several different arguments that are very convincing, yet they can be proven wrong. "What about those impregnated by rape?" Rarely does this happen due to the trauma of rape; about 1/10 of 1% of abortions are due to rape, incest, or other unnatural acts; and most importantly, one violent act does not condone another (killing child because of father's crime). "Don't unwanted children usually end up being battered or abused later on?" Statistically this is not true. Besides, abortion is the ultimate child abuse. "In Roe vs. Wade, wasn't it made legal for a mother to have an abortion?" It stated that if the mother's health was in danger, and the parents agreed, then the abortion could be executed. Liberal abortionists declared that the woman's decision was justifiable due to her social rank, physical condition, psychological state of mind, emotional pain, marital status, or infant's prospects of distressful life or future. Roe versus Wade was meant to save the mother's life with the eradication of the child within her. Since then, convenience has been the number one reason for abortion. It saddens me to see millions of babies die each year. They never have a chance to crawl, speak, or laugh. It is sad to see our nation embrace infanticide in its fullest form. Every day, doctors discover new ways to kill babies more conveniently. Doctors have begun to play God taking life when it is not theirs to take. One day we will feel the repercussions of our actions if we do not change our horrid ways.

Advisory panel rejects notion that Social Security "will not be there"

People who have been concerned about the future of Social Security should note that the Social Security Advisory Council expressly rejected the proposition that Social Security will not be there for future generations, Social Security Field Representative Doug English states. The Advisory Council's report, produced after 2-1/2 years of study, presents three options for assuring the long-range financial stability of the program," he said.

All three plans in the Council's report seek to achieve more advance funding of Social Security's long-term obligations and a higher level of national saving for retirement. In addition, all three involve investment in the stock market, would revise the taxation of benefits provision, and would cover state and local government employees newly hired after 1997. Ultimately, however, as the Council indicates, "...each involves a very different vision for the future evolution of the U.S. retirement

"As the Advisory Council (and Social Security's own actuaries) reported, Social Security's revenues and trust fund reserves will permit the payment of full benefits for more than 30 years until 2029. After 2029, tax revenues would continue to support 77 percent of the expected benefits. This means we have time to make prudent and careful decisions," English stated.

"But we should not delay. We as a nation should address this challenge in the near term. The sooner we agree upon those changes that are necessary, the less difficult those changes will be and the more time Americans will have to adapt to the reforms and adjust their personal financing plans accordingly," he said.

Classic Cable establishes scholarships

With commencement rapidly approaching, Classic Cable announced today the creation of a rural scholarship fund for graduating high school seniors within its service area. The Company will award individual scholarships in amounts ranging from $250 -$500 to qualified students demonstrating both academic and extracurricular leadership skills.

J. Merritt Belisle, Classic's Chief Executive Officer, views the scholarship fund as another occasion to reinvest resources back into the local community. "I know of few business opportunities with as high a pay-back as the continued education of a child", said Belisle. "I'm hopeful that the chance of a scholarship provides students with added motivation to strive for excellence."

Specific eligibility requirements include a top 20% ranking within graduating class, demonstrated leadership in and out of the classroom as well as participation in extracurricular activities. Financial hardship or other circumstances will also be considered when deciding between applicants whose abilities appear equal. In addition to the scholarship application, students must submit three letters of recommendation from school principals, teachers, or administrators, a copy of their official high school transcript showing class rank, as well as a 300 word essay on chosen goals with an emphasis on leadership potential and ability to reach goals.

All applications will be evaluated by a committee of employees from Classic Cable and will be judged according to the overall strength of qualifications.

Scholarship applications are available through high school administrators or by contacting Adina Bahl with Classic Cable directly at (913) 434-7620 (ext. 323). The deadline for submitting applications is March 31st with the scholarship winners announced April 30th.

Classic Cable owns and operates cable television systems in 282 predominately rural communities in eight states. As of December 31, 1996, the Company served approximately 173,000 customers.
