Tax Rebates Down In Some Cities

Many city sales tax rebates for April were less than Texas cities received last year in April, according to a release this week from State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

However, 1980 rebates from the first of the year now total $162.8 million, compared to rebates of $135.2 million over the same period in 1979.

Because year-to-date payments are up over last year, it is too early to say whether the decreased monthly payments reflect a downward trend in taxable sales or simply seasonal adjustments, Bullock said.

"The next two months bear special attention and may give us a clear x-ray about what is happening and what to expect from the Texas economy," he said.

Knox City's net payment this period was $2,375.10 as compared to $1,911.08 for the same period last year. 1980 payments to date are $17,107.40, a 35% increase over 1979's $12,650.07.

Munday's net payment for the month was $1,686.06 as compared to $1,496.49 for last year for the same period. 1980 payments to date show $12,521.77, an 18% increase over $10,524.07 in 1979.

Other totals for this period were Aspermont $965.61, Crowell $545.80, Haskell $4,398.24, Seymour $3,003.26, and Stamford $3,3334.20.

Payments to date for 1980 include Benjamin $415.91, Goree $1,868.60, O'Brien $283.91, Rochester $863.03, Rule $3,558.93, and Weinert $405.96.

The city sales tax is collected by merchants and other sales tax permit holders along with the state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller's office.

The four interns selected will work in Congressman Charles Stenholm's office with two assigned during the month of June and the other two in July.

Selected as alternates were Edward "Curt" Coltharp of Abilene, a freshman pre-law major at Hardin-Simmons University; Karri Lynne Waddell of Roscoe, a freshman mathematics/accounting major at Angelo State University; and Clinton Webb Cook of Aspermont, a sophomore accounting/economics major at Texas Tech University.

Congressman Stenholm met with the recipients Saturday before returning to Washington, D.C.

The selection committee, chaired by retired former Congressman Omar Burleson, included Dr. J.W. Autry of Stephenville, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery of Big Spring, Jerry Craft of Jacksboro, J.C. Mrs. Vida Hughes, 65, of Longview was killed. She was a passenger in a car driven by Doyle Kenneth Hughes, 40, of Winnboro, who was reportedly seriously injured.

J. Tom had been on a business trip to nearby Daingerfield, where he has an interest in a local weekly newspaper.

He was selected as co-captain of the Greyhound football team and lettered in both track and football. Brett qualified for regional in track and was also a three year regional qualifier in debate.

O'Brien Happenings

By CHARLENE BROTHERS

Can you believe this kind of weather this time in April? You better believe it, because it is happening. Kinda cold for the middle of April. And during the weekend there was all kind of snow in several different places in Texas. Some not to far from home. And would you believe anyone crazy enough to be out in this kind of weather riding motorcycles? You better believe that also for it happened. There were several from out of town that came down and some from O'Brien and Knox City that were in the group. They all seemed to enjoy themselves very much and it would not have been so bad if the wind had not been blowing. They are getting lots of rain in some places, and that is what we need very badly. You know, it is about to get serious here for some moisture. You can't plant any maize and are having to keep the irrigation water going on the wheat and probably when you sell your wheat it will not be enough to pay all the expenses you have in it.

This is the time of the year we need to get busy and clean up all the outside places that have weeds and whatever else is growing on them. I noticed in the morning Abilene paper that there is a different kind of mosquito that is getting closer to us from the South that carries a new kind of fever, can't remember the name now.

Anyway they were asking everyone to keep all the weeds and places that catch water cleaned up. This mosquito bites on the ankles or lower legs. There have not been any seen this far north yet, but it is slowly moving this way. That's all we need now is another mosquito that spreads some kind of sickness.

Tourney To Benefit Rehab

LaJet Golfers Have Impressive Record

ABILENE -- Twelve of the 18 professional golfers who will compete here May 5-6 in the $165,400 LaJet Classic have won or been runners-up in 42 major championships over a span of 42 years.

All proceeds from the tournament will go to benefit the handicapped served by the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in its three facilities in Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder. The event will be played on the new 7,077-yard Fairway Oaks course.

LaJet players have won undisputed titles in 20 major events and placed second or tied for second in 22 others.

Four prestigious golf tournaments -- and only four -- constitute the "majors". They are the Masters (in April), the U.S. Open (in June), the British Open (in July) and the PGA Championship (in August).

Sam Snead, with seven championships and seven second places, leads the victory parade. The 67-year-old, Snead has won four Masters titles (1949, 1952, 1954, 1957); has been runner-up in the U.S. Open four times (1937, 1947, 1949, 1953); won the British Open once (1946); has captured three PGA titles (1942, 1949, 1951) and was runner-up in two other PGA championships (1948, 1940).

Lee Trevino has five major championships to his credit -- two U.S. Opens (1968, 1971), two British Opens (1971, 1972) and one PGA title (1974). He has also won two Canadian Opens (1977, 1979).

Ten other LaJet players have fared well in the majors, as follows:

Hale Irwin: two U.S. Open championships (1974, 1979).
Gene Littler: U.S. Open champion (1961); second place in Masters (1970).

Don January: PGA champion (1967); second place, PGA (1961); tie for second place, PGA (1976).

Jerry Pate: U.S. Open champion (1976); tie for second place, PGA (1978); tie for second place, U.S. Open (1979).

Others in the LaJet field include:
Charles Coody, Masters winner (1971).
Fuzzy Zoeller, Masters champion (1979).

Ben Crenshaw, second place, Masters (1976); tie for second place, British Opens (1978, 1979); and second place, PGA championship (1979).

J.C. Snead, second place, Masters (1973).

Tom Kite, tie for second place, British Open (1978).

CLEAR UP 'FOG' BETWEEN SLIDING-DOOR PANES

Do-it-yourselfers can remedy "fog" between the two panes of double-glazed sliding glass doors.

Usually, dead air space between the two panes of glass serves to insulate the glass area and the home against heat loss and heat gain.

However, prefabricated double-glazed doors are subject to condensation between the two panes of glass.

The most common type of double-glazed door is two panes of glass separated by a hollow aluminum mullion.

Usually the mullion is filled with a desiccant, such as silica-gel granules so air between the panes is continuously dried.

CAUSES OF THE PROBLEM

Problems with condensation generally occur after long-time use of the unit. Breaking of the seal causes the desiccant to become waterlogged and condensation forms between the panes of glass.

Do-it-yourselfers can correct the problem for the cost of a tube of sealant and about two hours of actual labor.

REPAIR PROCEDURES

Solving the problem involves taking the unit apart, drying out the silica granules and putting the unit back together with new sealant.

DISASSEMBLE UNIT

Follow these steps:
First, remove screen and then the sliding section of the door by turning screws to relieve tension on rollers.

Pry the door up and, with a helper, lift the heavy panel out. Place on a flat surface resting the unit on the metal edges rather than the glass.

Remove metal edging from the sides, top and bottom by tapping gently with a mallet and wood block.

Carefully remove the rubber or vinyl gasket and save for reuse.

To cut through the old sealant, run a razor-type knife around the perimeter between the top glass and the mullion.

Then, lift off the top glass.

DRY OUT DESICCANT

Cut loose the mullion containing the desiccant, remove end caps, and pour silica into a baking dish. Avoid contact with the silica gel.

To drive off moisture and to restore moisture-absorbing properties, heat the granules in a 400 degree F. oven for at least three hours.

CLEAN SURFACES

Clean old sealant from glass and mullion by using a razor scraper and a solvent-saturated cloth. Clean and polish the glass.

Then, pour the dried desiccant granules back into the mullion and reassemble.

REASSEMBLE UNIT

Place a thin bead of clear silicone sealant around inside edge of the bottom sheet of glass, and position the mullion onto the sealant. Press down lightly.

Run another bead of sealant on the top side of the mullion and lower the top sheet of glass onto it.

To reset the vinyl gasket, run a medium bead of clear sealant around the edges of the slides and top of the glass.

Positioning the gasket so the splice is at the top, press the gasket into the still-wet sealant.

Finally, replace metal edges of the door and set it back into the frame.

TIPS FOR A FIRE-SAFE HOME

Fire, one of nature's greatest resources, becomes a deadly enemy when it burns out of control.

In order for fire to start, you must have three things: something that burns (fuel), air (specifically oxygen) and something to ignite them (heat). A home is filled with air and contains plenty of things that burn. But, a fire will not occur until a source of heat ignites them.

Overloaded electrical wiring is a source of heat which causes many home fires. Homeowners may unknowingly overload their electrical wiring when using many of today's high-powered electrical conveniences. It is a good idea to have a professional check your electrical system to make sure your wiring has been kept up-to-date with your modern appliances.

Also, whenever you purchase a new appliance, or even an extension cord, check to see that it has been listed by Underwriters Laboratories (UL) or other recognized testing laboratory. If this tag is missing, you may be purchasing a very costly bargain in the long run if it shorts out and causes a fire. Once your new major appliance arrives, have a qualified person install it, and make sure it is used properly. If, for example, instructions for an electric toaster oven say not to use it for broiling, then use the appliance accordingly.

Flammable liquids, such as gasoline, present a danger of deadly explosion and fire. A safety container listed by UL or other recognized testing laboratory, not a glass jug or discarded plastic bottle, should be used for gasoline storage. Gasoline should not, if possible, be kept inside the home and never within reach of children.

If, in spite of your precautions, a fire still breaks out, you can slow its spreading if you have chosen the right construction materials for your home. Plaster and sheet rock walls and ceilings resist fire longer than thin plywood paneling or fiberboard. If you are adding or modernizing a room, ask your contractor or supplier about the fire rating of the materials you plan to use. This is another area where saving a few dollars may prove costly in the end.

To further protect your family by warning them of a fire while there's still time to leave the house, install smoke detectors in strategic places. Detectors are activated either by smoke, or by invisible particles that are evolved during the early stages of a fire. Whether you install a battery-operated smoke detector or one that runs on house current, it should be listed by a nationally recognized testing laboratory. Also, you should plan a secondary escape route, in the event your hall, foyer, or stairs have caught fire and prevent your family from leaving through the normal exit. If there are bedrooms above the first floor, you should consider obtaining chain, rope or similar escape devices. Once outside, count to make sure all family members are present. Then notify the fire department. Only then should you consider fighting the fire, if it is a small one. Never risk life for material goods.

Every homeowner should have some type of fire fighting equipment. The National Fire Protection Association recommends dry chemical fire extinguishers filled with a multipurpose extinguishing agent, such as ammonium phosphate.

U-100 INSULIN TO REPLACE U-80

Effective this past month, insulin preparations in the U-80 strength will no longer be certified by the Food and Drug Administration. There is no cause for alarm as diabetic patients now using the U-80 strength will switch to insulin in the U-100 strength. (U-100 is a stronger concentration than U-80.) This action is being taken to reduce the potential for patient error that results from having insulin available in two different high concentrations.

Form W-4 Holders May Get Adjustment

Taxpayers who were hit with an unexpectedly large tax bill or who received a large refund may want to file a new Form W-4 with their employers to adjust the amount of tax withheld from their paychecks, the Internal Revenue Service said.

One of the most frequent cases of insufficient withholding is the two-income family. This is due to the fact that withholding rates are based on the projected taxes due from each individual wage earner. Working couples find that when they combine their income at the end of the tax year on a joint return, the combined income places them in a higher tax bracket.

On the other hand, taxpayers who pay alimony, have large itemized deductions, or are eligible for tax credits, may find that too much is being withheld from their paychecks, resulting in an unusually large refund.

To correct for either of these situations, employees should request a new Form W-4. "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," from their employers. If not enough is being withheld, taxpayers may claim fewer allowances or request that the employer withhold an additional amount from each paycheck, or if married, indicate that they wish to be treated as a single individual for withholding purposes.

If too much is being withheld, additional withholding allowances may be claimed based on payments of alimony, large itemized deductions, and tax credits for child care expenses. The computation of the additional allowances is explained on the Form W-4.

A special withholding allowance may be claimed by taxpayers who have only one employer, or who are married, have only one employer and a spouse who is not employed.

More information on this subject can be found in IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," available free at local IRS offices or by calling the IRS number listed in the telephone directory.

Rule Man Attends FLB Meeting

O.G. Lewis of Rule, has returned from Houston where he represented the Federal Land Bank Association of Haskell at the 34th Annual Stockholders Meeting of the Federal Land Bank of Texas. The meeting, held at the Houston Oaks Hotel, was attended by members of 64 Federal Land Bank Associations in Texas with approximately 650 persons in attendance.

Thomas H. Benson, president, in his report to the stockholders, stated that there was an increasing demand for new loans in 1979. This was the largest year in the Bank's history with $337 million in loans and it appears the demand for loans will continue.

"In this time of historic highs in interest rates the advantages of our loans is apparent to the farmers and ranchers of Texas. Our borrowers have interest rates much below prime rate," Benson said.

Speakers for the meeting included Ralph L. Lewis Jr., coordinator of Corporate Communications of Gulf Oil Corporation in New Orleans, Louisiana. His speech was on "Energy - Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Other speakers were Barry Mahler of Iowa Park, vice-president of the Young Farmers Association of Texas and C.T. Fredrickson, senior deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D.C.

The Federal Land Bank of Texas makes long-term loans on farms and ranches and currently has $6.6 billion outstanding.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Haskell makes and services loans in this area. Members of the Board of Directors are O.G. Lewis, Weldon Walker, E.H. Burnett, J.E. Nix, Ralph Howe, and Ernest Beck Jr.

Eyes of Medicine . . .

When are snoops, busy-bodies, and know-it-alls among your best friends? When they are x-rays and other imaging techniques used by radiologists. Today, the radiologist—a physician with extensive training and special skills—can make "pictures" of the inside of your body with many types of x-ray equipment. Including the remarkable CT scanner. Nuclear medicine and ultrasonography are other methods of examination used by the radiologist to make a diagnosis.

All physicians — internists, pediatricians, surgeons, etc. — rely on radiologists to determine if you have an internal problem and, if so, where it is and exactly what it is. If your physician needs the professional consultation and unique diagnostic capabilities of a radiologist you are referred to this physician for examination, which may be done in a hospital, private office, or a clinic.

Assisting the radiologist will be radiologic technologists, who must complete advanced education programs. Another professional in the radiology department is the medical physicist, who develops and maintains instruments used by radiologists and is a guardian of quality assurance. This team is trained in the use and control of radiation. They carefully conduct examinations and select techniques designed to produce the maximum diagnostic information with the least radiation exposure to the patient.

One of the most common x-ray procedures is the chest examination in which the patient's chest is pressed against a panel that holds the high-speed x-ray film in a cassette. A tiny amount of radiation passes through the patient's body to expose the film. Thus, a picture (technically known as a radiograph) is made.

The differences in x-ray shadows cast by air (in the lung), watery fluids (in the heart and circulatory system), fat (in the tissues) and calcium (in the bones) are highly significant to the skilled eye of the radiologist. This physician can interpret these shadows and know if the patient has a health problem.

Images Of Health

Sometimes radiologists have to use catheters (thin tubes) and contrast material (dyes) to make pictures of portions of your body. One of these informative procedures is called angiography, a visualization of the blood vessels. Angiography is useful in diagnosing heart defects and many conditions that alter the appearance of blood vessels.

The radiologist can insert a catheter into the vessels of nearly every organ of the body, inject a contrast material that can be seen in the x-ray picture, and evaluate the structure of that particular organ. These special radiologic procedures are among the "snoops" radiologists have perfected to study the kidneys, liver, gallbladder, lymphatic system, and the heart and brain.

Recent advances make it possible to use the catheterization techniques for treatment as well as for diagnosis. For example, a catheter can be used to unplug a blocked artery or to stop internal bleeding. For example, high-speed films are used because they require minimal amounts of radiation to make an x-ray picture. Each x-ray tube has an automatic collimator that confines the x-ray beam to the area of the body that is to be studied.

Lunch Box Specials

The packed lunch is an American institution. Office employees tote sandwiches and fruit in briefcases... construction workers straddle steel girders with a thermos in one hand and a sandwich in the other... and students of all ages carry colorful lunch boxes for recess or noon.

Packing a lunch is a good way to economize on lunch costs, use up leftovers, experiment with new food combinations and pay attention to special diets. The important thing to remember is to include adequate portions of the right foods.

An Open Letter To The Voters Of Knox County, Texas

I am writing this letter out of deep love and concern for my beloved America.

America has been a land of the free and a land of opportunity. Two thirds of the Third World would sell their souls for the privilege of American citizenship. Yet we natural born citizens who are abreast of current events can sense that all is not right - something is wrong.

We have entered a year for national elections. This is a year in which major changes can be made or we can continue the downward path to chaos. The ultimate end will be a welfare State and we will find ourselves absolute dependents upon a federal head. I, for one believe the fate of these United States hinges upon the outcome of this election and what we do in regard to that outcome.

I would be classified as a senior citizen. The years lie ahead for which I have long worked and planned to make an enjoyable retirement. I thought I could sit down and enjoy some of the fruits of my labor through traveling, relaxing, and just living in general the good life.

Long ago I began to prepare for these years. I thought that I was laying aside ample provisions that would carry me through the autumn years with financial security and freedom from burdens.

Suddenly, as I enter this decade for which I have made plans, I find that my preparations are not adequate. At the present trend of this self-destructing economy people in my category and age bracket may be in for a rude awakening. Instead of having ample provisions we may find ourselves wards of the State.

After a quarter of a century of a Democratic dominated congress, there are some observations which I have made that have attributed to the sad state of this Union and I will be specific.

Number one- I find that my 1955 dollar will buy about thirty-six cents worth of today's goods. We have the highest peacetime rate of inflation in this nation's history. My savings have eroded to about 1/3 of their original worth.

As a result of this ruinous inflation, along with the other taxes we pay, we are shelling out the highest income tax ever because we have been escalated into a higher bracket. The government reaps the windfall. These taxes go into the treasury swirl through and squandering bureaucrats swig to their gut's content. They vote themselves pay raises and all manner of fringe benefits. They give away foreign aid to countries whose names they can't pronounce nor locate on a map. Back home they promise you free gifts, federal grants, welfare handouts, any federal fund that might garner a vote.

That money just happens to be mine and your hard earned tax payments. The only funds the Feds have is what they take away from you. Without fleecing you they go broke. The U.S. Government is the only known organization that can continue to function year after year after year in the red and with financial deficit. They can do this by signing your name to a federal-funded I.O.U.

I, for one am sick and tired and fed up with big government and irresponsible politicians. Let's send them all home and let them live by the same rules that they are forcing you to live under.

Number two-Our foreign policy is so weak that the weakest of nations can bully us, push us around, murder our ambassadors, and hold others hostages. All the while we, under the name of born again Christianity, smile, turn a toothful cheek and say slap it again.

Our military has so deteriorated that our chief weapon against our number one enemy is the withdrawal of a competitive high jumper and pole vaulter. We will show them how tough we are by not letting our kids play with their kids.

I say that it is time to pick up a Theodore Roosevelt stick and restore some confidence in what few world friends that we have left.

Number three-Our economy has taken the attitude that for big business to make a profit is obscene. Private competition is wrong and the free enterprise system is taboo.

Our younger people were conceived in debt, born in debt, and live in debt. They will die a debtor, having never known the wholesome feeling of financial solvency.

Number four-I wish to point out the moral condition of this nation. We have ruled God out and abandoned prayer in our schools. The result has been rampant pornography, drug abuse, legalized abortion, humanism, free sex, surfaced homosexuality, and live-together lovers. These things destroy the sanctity of the home, nations only solid foundation.

Our blood bought banner has been spat upon, publicly burned, and dishonored by a bunch of "hell no I won't go" attitude citizens. They, along with aliens flaunt all these things while living under the protective custody of our precious Stars and Stripes-God forbid that we not do something.

Many are the national ills that I have omitted, but my point follows. I am nearing sixty-four years of age and I have seen all of these things come about in twenty-five years of dynastic, democratic controlled congress.

For God and country's sake let us make a change. You have nothing to lose for you have lost the most of it already. We have sown the wind and are reaping the whirlwind. When you are on bottom the only way out is up.

Vote Republican for a change. For the first time in Knox County history a full-fledged, legal Republican primary election will be held for the county on May the third in Munday, Texas. Our thanks goes to Marcus Anderson (district committeeman), Cindy McWhorter, and other concerned citizens.

Vote what you know is right if you have to burn a little extra gasoline to reach the location of this primary, and follow your convictions through in the November general election.

TV SPECIAL INSPIRES MAGICAL SNACKS

British author C. S. Lewis was a man who delighted in life's simple pleasures. Two of his favorite pastimes were eating and writing children's tales. At age 41, he combined these interests into one pleasurable experience when he wrote "The Chronicles of Narnia," seven fantasy classics filled with descriptions of delicious foods and magical creatures.

On April 22 and 23, the return appearance of the first of these Chronicles, "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe," will be aired from 8-9 PM EST on the CBS television network. This two-part Emmy award-winning animated special is once again solely sponsored by Kraft. In the story, two brothers and sisters enter an enchanted wardrobe closet into a magical land called Narnia. There they join the forces of good led by the noble lion Aslan to overthrow the evil White Witch who has cast a spell of eternal winter on Narnia.

Throughout this delightful story, Lewis has included a number of references to food which could inspire you and your family to create your own magical eating experience. For example, as Edmund, one of the younger children, wanders off by himself in Narnia, he falls prey to the powers of the evil White Witch who tempts him with a marshmallow delicacy called "Turkish Delight." In another scene, the children encounter Mr. and Mrs. Beaver who serve them some hearty ham sandwiches and sweet rolls with marmalade, while telling them about the many wonderful powers of Aslan the Lion.

The following marshmallow candy, marmalade rolls, and ham sandwiches are tested versions of these Narnian treats. The dishes could be served for a children's tea party, a snack, or for any festive occasion.

GRILLED HAM 'N CHEESE-WITCH

- 2 cups finely chopped ham
- 1/3 cup Miracle Whip salad dressing
- 1/4 cup sweet pickle relish

STREAMS IN DESERT PLACES

By OZELLE STEPHENS

"I am going away to the one who sent me; and none of you seem interested in the purpose of my going; none wonder why. Instead you are only filled with sorrow. But the fact of the matter is that it is best for you that I go away, for if I don't, the Comforter won't come. If I do, he will-for I will send him to you." (John 16: 5-6-7).

Twice before the disciples had asked Jesus why he was going away but he did not tell them just why, but now he was ready so he told them. Their hearts were filled with sorrow; to comfort them he said, "The fact of the matter is that it is best for you that I go away, for if I don't, the Comforter won't come. If I do, He will-for I will send him to you."

The question has been asked, "Who and what is the Holy Spirit?" In 1 Thess 4:8 we find Paul teaching the believers how to live holy and pure lives, giving them God's commands. He said, "If anyone refuses to live by these rules he is not disobeying the rules of men but of God who gives his Holy Spirit to you." Also read John 14: 18-21.

Jesus wanted to tell them much more, He said, "But you can't understand it now, but when the Holy Spirit, who is Truth, comes he will guide you into all truth..." He is the most precious and greatest friend anyone can have. He is waiting for you to call for Him.

Olney Savings Now Insures To $100,000

OLNEY - Olney Savings Association, a $200+ million savings and loan association in northwest Texas, has announced a significant increase in insurance coverage of their savings accounts to $100,000.

Previously insured up to $40,000, by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, the new amount offers more protection to the customer than ever before, according to D.D. McClatchy, president.

"This also means that a husband and wife can now be insured up to $500,00," he said.

"We, at Olney Savings, are proud of the fact that in over 50 years we've never missed a dividend payment," McClatchy concluded, "and in these inflationary times, we want this, coupled with the increase, to bring peace of mind to all of our customers."

Olney Savings has twelve offices in Olney, Seymour, Jacksboro, Bridgeport, Nocona, Weatherford, and Azle. Also Ranger (Ranger Savings), Eastland (Eastland Savings) and Electra (Electra Savings), all divisions of Olney Savings. And soon in Archer City and Graham.

ROTARY TILLER MAKES GARDENING EASIER

Equipment needed for a productive home garden may vary from a hoe, shovel and rake to a small tractor. In addition, a valuable piece of equipment might be a rotary tiller, says Jim Mazurkiewicz, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Tillers are available in all sizes and price ranges and do a good job of getting garden soil in shape for planting.

Extremely hard soils may be difficult to till deep, so several trips may be necessary over the area, tilling a little deeper each time. If blade doesn't penetrate the ground easily, consider applying a small amount of water to the area. Moisture will generally loosen soil and make it easier to till, especially the first time.

However, avoid working garden soil when it's too wet, cautions Mazurkiewicz. Optimum conditions for tilling and planting the garden are about the same.

A rotary tiller should last several years for the average home gardener. Before buying a tiller, consider the total cost of owning, operating and storing the machine, how much it will be used, size of the garden, and other possible alternatives. Unless a large garden is planned on a continuous basis, renting or borrowing a tiller rather than purchasing one may be the best solution, Mazurkiewicz suggests.

When operating a rotary tiller, wear tight-fitting clothing that cannot become entangled in the tines. Of course, the first key to safe operation of any garden equipment is to become familiar with the machine, Mazurkiewicz advises.
