No Bikes Allowed On Sidewalks

City officials have asked the News office to remind readers of City Ordinance Number 1006, Article XII, Section 110, stating, "No person shall ride a bicycle on a sidewalk within the business district."

Several are violating this law daily, and because of the danger to those walking on the sidewalks downtown, it has become necessary to enforce this law immediately, city officials said.

According to city secretary Flaye Railsback, every person convicted of a violation of any provision of this article shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 nor less than $1.00 or by impounding of such person's bicycle for a period not to exceed 10 days or by a combination thereof.

T.J. Holbert Honored By TEC Assn.

T.H. Holbert of Seymour was honored August 4 in Austin for 38 years' service to rural electrification. The citation came during the 41st annual meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives. More than 600 rural electric leaders and ladies from throughout the state applauded Holbert and his wife Peggy as he was lauded as a "leader extraordinary in providing electric light and power for rural Texas."

In 1948 he joined the staff of B-K Electric Cooperative and during the years since he was assistant manager and manager before his retirement earlier this year as executive manager. He has also been active in civic and church work as well as rural electric groups at the state and regional levels. He's a member of the Seymour Chamber of Commerce, Masonic Lodge, and the Methodist Church.

Back to School & College

This Bedroom/Study Rates Honors!

AUG 81
BACK TO SCHOOL MEANS BACK TO STUDYING. For everyone at every scholastic level who needs to study at home, desk space is necessary and often at a premium. Nada Napoletan, ASID, of Hunter Douglas solves the problem neatly in this home. She makes the most of an architecturally awkward window corner by wrapping a shelf around it. Desk top, drawer space, nightstands, and headboard all become part of the one unit. Earth tones predominate in this bed/study. Wood paneling is used on the far wall for a warm, natural look. A rust, brown, and white stripe is scalloped to make an interior awning and is repeated on the armchair. Flexaluminum one-inch aluminum blinds in Ming Red add color and give a neat, clean appearance. Selected by Napoletan for good looks, the one-inch mini-blind offers the best control of light and privacy. An independent testing laboratory reported this blind to have 42 percent better closure than comparable versions. †

Hodges Descendants Gather August 9

The Hodges Reunion met in Knox City Sunday, August 9, for their 46th year. There were 46 persons present of the original families who started the reunion in 1935 in Seymour. The only original family member still alive is Mrs. Woodie Hodges, who is 88 years old. She was also the oldest to attend with the youngest being six months old Aaron Lewis, her great-grandson.

A covered dish dinner was enjoyed by all.

Family members reported that this was a very interesting group attending this year as it showed how the families had scattered over the years. At one time, they all started from Knox County. Among those traveling the farthest to attend were Joe and Connie Matlock of Hood-sport, Washington; Ray and Inez Pieper of Dallas; Lance Kilgore of Omaha, Nebraska; Gladys Darwin of Corpus Christi; Bill, Joann and Lesley Matlock, Rick, Cheryl, Shawn and Lindsey Matlock, Joey, Nikki and Dakota Matlock, and Gloria and Billy Padilla, all of Lovington, New Mexico; Jim Hubbard of Benjamin; Claydene and W.A. Strand of Smyer; Genea and Michelle Gary of Lubbock; Opal and J.T. Murdock of Seymour; Dollie and Skeet Feemster, Ida Pack, and Mrs. Woodie Hodges, all of Haskell; Goldia Smith of Wichita Falls and Luther and Marie Pritchett, of Amarillo.

Still living in Knox City and attending were George and Mozelle Hodges, Cornie King, Cyndy Feemster, Roland, Sue and Roger Marion, Danny, Patti, Brandon and Aaron Lewis, and Dorothy Jean Lain.

A good time was reported by all and it seems that none of them wanted to return home.

FROM JOHNSON CITY
Mr. and Mrs. Jay Luckenbach of Johnson City visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Grindstaff Jr., recently.

Also, their nephew Timmy Brittain of Tyler is spending two weeks here while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brittain of Tyler, are on a Caribbean Cruise.

FROM DALLAS
Mr. and Mrs. Gary White of Dallas visited his mother, Mrs. Maxine White, over the weekend. They were here to return their daughter, Caria, home who had been here visiting her grandmother.

Perk Up Student's Surroundings

Psychological tests have shown that surroundings have a marked bearing on study effectiveness. For example, the surveys have shown that one is likely to get more out of study time in a pleasant, neat room.

One inexpensive and easy way a student's surroundings can be improved is through wall-coverings. With their do-it-yourself, prepacked capabilities, the colorful wallcoverings can be installed in a jiffy by anyone, and they can be applied to everything but the kitchen sink.

For example, creative students can turn an ordinary bedroom or dormitory room into a work of art simply by applying wallcoverings to such furnishings as dressers, clothes hampers,

Back-to-School Beauty Tips:

Summer is over and textbooks beckon. It's the start of another school year. Are you ready for all those first impressions you'll be making?

If you spent much of the summer outdoors, chances are your skin is not ready for winter's harsh weather. This is the time to assess the damage and plan remedial action.

Is your skin dry and rough? Skin loses a lot of its moisture from overexposure to the sun, salt water and chlorinated pools. Sun-dried skin becomes leathery and flaky from dehydration.

Are clogged pores, blackheads or pimples a problem? Old, worn-out cells are constantly being shed from the skin, but they do not slough off completely. Particles may remain, preventing new cells from reaching the skin's surface, dulling the complexion.

Dermatologists recommend a simple, three-step skin care plan which requires just a few minutes in the morning and before bed at night—a time-saving routine that should fit into your daily schedule easily. The only items required are a good cleanser, a moisturizer suited to your skin type, a "Buff-Puff" sponge, and water.

The polyester sponge was designed for epidermabrasion, a process in which all those surface-dulling cells and other skin debris are gently dislodged by slightly abrasive action. This action sweeps away material that is detrimental to the skin's health and stimulates circulation as well as new cell growth for younger-looking skin.

After washing with the sponge, rinse with cool water, and pat off only the excess. Next, apply moisturizer sparingly.

By using this cleansing plan, your face will look fresh and healthy all year long. But, keep in mind that:

- Skin reflects diet and emotions. Adjusting to new experiences, while striving to achieve, can create stress that may cause skin eruptions or premature lines. Stay calm and don't eat fast foods—they may be convenient, but often lack nutrients the body needs.
- Drink as much water as you can—it flushes impurities out of the system and helps replenish moisture.
- Burning the midnight oil is fine, but try to balance those extended study hours with time for sleep and rest. †

STREAMS IN DESERT PLACES

By OZELLE STEPHENS

"Fear not: believe only." (Luke 8:50).

While Jesus was on earth He met people who were downcast and beaten in the battle of life, He said to them, "Look up. Have faith. Nothing is impossible to the one who believes God."

Faith is strong and powerful, aggressive, a great fighter, always on the march for deliverance, always conquering.

Faith is strong because God is strong. "This is the victory that overcometh the world", said John, "even our faith" (John 5:4).

Released faith can round out your life. Released faith can bless you with every good thing that God has for you. When you hand your faith to God, His abundance and goodness come into your life. It makes you more; it gives you more. It makes you more abundant in every way more than you are, more than you have. Christ said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." (John 10).

Suggestions For Gifting Collegiates

Having a going-away party for the new freshman? Here are gift suggestions ranging from the big-spender category to the shoestring-budget kinds.

- A typewriter is a must for those class papers. Rented or borrowed typewriters are not always available when needed, and it's probably true that typewritten papers do get better grades than handwritten ones.

- A good dictionary is a real aid to the student who wants his papers to be examples of good spelling. Other helpful reference books: a thesaurus and encyclopedia.

- Students of business or engineering will appreciate a hand-held calculator for solving those problems quickly.

- An accurate, reliable alarm is a must for students who often have early exams scheduled. Make it a clock-radio to do double duty!

- A really good reading lamp is a blessing for anyone who has to read a great deal, like your favorite collegiate.

- Postcards and stationery, including stamps, will make it easier for the busy freshman to keep in touch with the folks back home, and pens are always welcome gifts.

- You can't go wrong with the latest fashion—and if you're not up to date with what college students are wearing these days, some amusing loungewear or sleepwear for the dorm is always right.

SERVICES OF THE CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

A part of the members attended the City Wide Revival held in Knox City last week. We were blessed in the services, the preaching and singing was very good. Sunshine Band was held on Saturday evening with Missionary Wilson teaching about the life of Christ from the book of Luke. Sunday school had a small attendance with Supt. Manuel in charge. In the morning service, Pastor Bennett preached greatly from II Kings 5: 1, 14. We attended the closing service of Elder and Mrs. Major Johnson's Fifth Anniversary at the Stamford Church on Sunday evening. Overseer Bennett preached Sunday evening from I Samuel 2:30, and Proverbs 3:9. The Knox City Church will be having services for five nights of this week, Lord's Willing. Everyone is invited.

Get Back Into Routine of Study

Getting back into the academic swing of things is not easy after that summer of vacation. The time gap between semesters often causes difficulty in readily resuming a good study habit pattern.

Educational psychologists have found through extensive research that the proper distribution of time is the most essential factor in developing—or re-establishing—an effective study routine.

Diligent application of the study principles recommended by these educational authorities will improve your efficiency and learning skills. Best of all, with a carefully distributed time schedule, you will have ample leisure time—an essential part of a well-rounded education.

BEWARE OF HEAD INJURIES

Skull fractures and other head injuries need not be serious. It is only when the brain is involved that real trouble occurs. For the brain is contained within the rigid cavity of the skull. There is no room for expansion of an injury, like what happens when a cut causes the hand or foot to swell.

Anyone rendered unconscious by a head-blow requires a physician's immediate attention. Persistent headache, dizziness, excessive fatigue, or vomiting are warning symptoms of a possible concussion. Take care of your brain.

Suggestions for Collegiate Types!

The Long and the Short of Beauty on Campus:

GETTING THAT COED LOOK: (Left) Short and sophisticated, this no-nonsense hairstyle is the perfect companion to the hectic campus life-style. To soften lines and add interest, a sunny, golden blonde shade of Clairese was used. The result—an open, pert look as beguiling off campus as on. (Right) Long and straight "high school" hair is easily updated for its new life on the college campus. Add a few electric rollers for gentle waves and fullness, and for added luster and overall glow, try lightening and brightening your hair a shade or two with a shampoo-in hair color like Clairol's Nice 'n Easy; tresses will glow with rich, burnished color, just right for college and beyond. †

Staying in Shape While at College

Going away to school holds lots of surprises. Most girls find they're suddenly changing old habits for new ones, and not just in the study field. Dormitory living usually includes late-night gab fests, complete with cookies and crackers and such. And this follows a solid routine of institution cooking, which leans rather heavily toward the farinaceous in most places. No wonder so many high school figures change drastically (for the worse) when girls get into college. In fact, a girl's worst friend—if she needs to watch her waistline—is probably the first semester away from home.

Some freshmen gain ten pounds by Christmas vacation! Imagine coming home all lumpy and out-of-shape for the holidays.

Nothing will fit... and how can you slip into those fashions? To prevent such a catastrophe, the smart student will monitor her calories from the first day of school. High-protein snacks are the answer for late study sessions. Something refreshing, but non-fattening! One packet of diet food mixed with fresh nonfat milk satisfies hunger deliciously, for example, with few calories.

Time-Saving Tips for Coeds

New Year's and the new school year have one curious thing in common: they bring on a series of resolutions. Most coeds start the new school session with a determination to sign up for a variety of extracurricular activities. From chorus to cheerleading to student council, promises and pledges are frequent—and often broken because they were made without regard to the actual amount of time involved.

All of us can remember at sometime envying the girl who with seemingly effortless ease juggles a full academic workload, a batch of after-class activities, dozens of dates and still winds up on the Dean's list—all the while looking like she's just stepped off the pages of a fashion magazine!

If you'd like to be one of these girls but somehow can't seem to find nearly enough hours in the day, here are some very timely cues that will free you to stretch your own activities calendar:

1. Organize your wardrobe ahead of time. Stack blouses above skirts in your closet—it makes 8 A.M. scrambles less frantic and may even inspire some combinations you might not have noticed.

2. If drawer space is scarce, buy a few pretty baskets and keep knee socks in one, panties in another. It's much simpler than sorting through your entire wardrobe to find what you're after.

3. Make the most out of every grooming minute. While relaxing in the tub, do some quick isometric exercises. There are even some stretching exercises you can do while sitting in class! Each bit of activity will make you feel trimmer and give you the energy you'll need to handle a whirlwind schedule.

4. Demand multi-purpose products whenever you shop. Instead of your regular creme rinse, try an all-in-one after-shampoo product that conditions as it removes snarls and even acts as a setting lotion too. By doing more than one task at a time you can make time for the things you really want to do.

For Exempt Savings

Congress Authorizes Tax Certificates

STAMFORD -- As many as 750,000 families may have an easier time buying a home as a result of the funds that will flow into financial institutions because of the tax exempt savings certificates authorized by Congress recently, an area financial leader said today.

Big Country Savings President, John Harrell, said the All Savers Act -- effective October 1 -- "should immediately start more funds flowing into savings and loan associations. That will shortly translate into more money for mortgages."

John Harrell, a member of the U.S. League of Savings Associations Legislative Committee, said passage of the new law (a party of the overall Tax Bill) resulted from a nationwide "grass roots" campaign.

"With the help of a lot of people who believe it's time savers got a real tax break, we persuaded Congress -- and we won" was the way Harrell described the effort to pass the law.

Under the bill, savers will be able to obtain special savings certificates that pay 70% of the yield on one year Treasury Bills. Then they may deduct from income on their Federal tax returns up to $1,000 ($2,000 on joint returns) of the resulting interest.

Harrell said Congressional passage of the Act "demonstrates a concern about the seeming abandonment of the housing priority by the government in recent years."

"Getting more money flowing into the housing stream, he said, is particularly important when you consider how many people are out there trying to buy homes." Harrell noted that in this decade 42 million Americans will reach the key home buying age of 30 years -- 10 million more than during the 1970's.

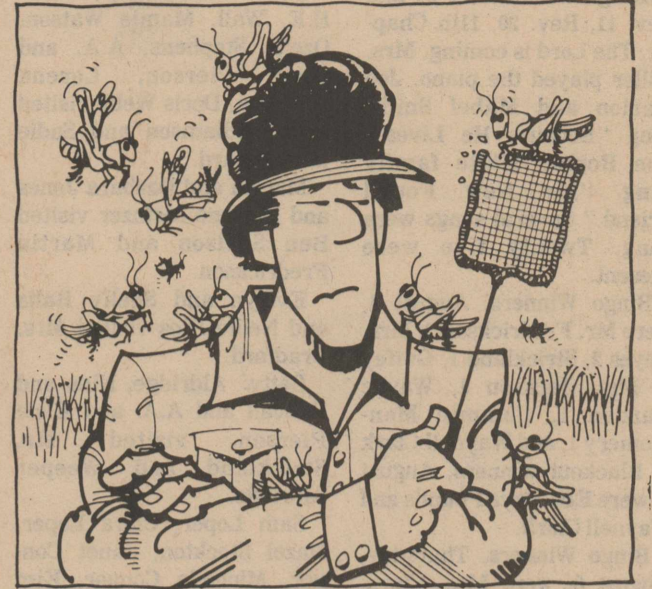

In other parts of the overall tax act the Congress provided other aid to home buyers and sellers, Harrell noted. For example he said, Congress voted to allow Americans to wait two years rather than just 18 months before investing the results of a home sale in a new house without incurring a tax obligation.

Big Country Savings is a savings and loan association with assets exceeding $87 million and offices in Stamford, Quanah, Haskell and Abilene.

School Bus Safety Tips

As the nation's students return to school, it is important that every young school bus-rider realizes he must be responsible for his own safety and that of others on the bus.

According to safety experts, youngsters should be taught these good safety practices:

- Line up in an orderly manner and board the bus in single file; fill back seats first.
- Be sure aisles are clear so nobody will stumble.
- Stay in your seat while the bus is moving.
- Don't put anything (including your head or hands) out of the window.

Gold Glints in Fall Jewelry

Like autumn leaves this fall, jewelry fashions turn to gold. One strong trend in the season ahead is the use of gold coin jewelry in pendants, earrings, bracelets, and rings, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. You can choose gleaming karat gold or gold-filled coin jewelry to complete your jewelry wardrobe.

So, be a coin collector. If you select a coin pendant, add a choker of gold beads or fresh-water pearls to enhance your sweaters and blouses with the tailored look. Or, accent outfits and other jewelry with a pair of gold coin earrings, say the experts. A mint of compliments is what you'll get when you're wearing these.

Timely Fashion

Since it's important to be on time, one of the nicest ways to make sure you will be is with a modern quartz watch that keeps time so accurately. Remember, watches, like necklaces, come in tailored and dressy styles as well. That's why there's a growing need for more than one watch. Some of the new watches have stunning coin faces, others are sparked with diamonds. Gold jewelry is proverbially as good as gold. It gives a nice look to the wardrobe, brightens the lapel, decorates the neckline, and adds eye appeal to the wrist, the Council points out. These pieces make your jewelry more versatile, and add to your attractiveness. †

Hair Care for Coeds

Whether you are a freshman just starting out, or a sophisticated senior returning to college, settling down leaves little time for beauty routines, especially hair care. But, you must look your best at all times.

You must cope with moving in, orientation, rushing, and last but not least, keep your eyes open for the most eligible man on campus. There are football games, and homecoming balls in the offing, and an escort is still a must.

So, short cuts to beauty are in order, and this is especially important when it comes to your hair. After all, isn't that your crowning glory—or shouldn't it be? Wherever the college of your choice, hair this season should look free and easy—movable and natural.

Nearly everybody is born with healthy hair, but the abuse hair takes is awesome. How hair is treated today shows up tomorrow, so it's wise to protect its future.

One of the greatest hair-grooming time savers is the creme rinse and conditioner in one. The conditioner fights brittle breaks and split ends, while the creme rinse leaves the hair shiny and lustrous.

Every head has its ups and downs, but you can have the prettiest hair on campus.

Make That Dorm Into Your Retreat

Trying to improve the look of the typical college dormitory room can be a creative challenge for some students and a disaster for others. Unless you're a born "nester," here are some suggestions that should help to ease the transformation from institutional cubicle to your own private—and very personal—retreat.

One of the simplest and quickest ways to liven up any room is by the bold use of color. While painting is still the easiest route to go, new press-on wallpapers offer an infinite number of ways to express different interest and moods. A nature-lover? Choose paper awash with flowers or greenery. Feeling mystic this semester? Try a paper with an overall paisley or art nouveau pattern and create your own little nirvana.

Draperies and bedspreads are essentials but they needn't be dull. Instead of buying the usual, shop the linen departments for colorbright striped and printed sheets, no-iron, of course. Don't be shy. Keep in mind that today's look is color-plus-pattern. If you're handy with scissors and tape, try making curtains and spreads from lightweight plastic vinyl, again thinking of color.

What's Happening in Education Today:

Tips to Help You Choose the Right Technical School

If you're thinking about a technical career, choosing the right school is a crucial decision. How do you make the right choice?

"The most important factor is knowing the school's reputation in your field of study," says Kingsley G. Bewley, president of the Bell & Howell Education Group, a nationwide network of institutes specializing in education for electronics and computer science for business. "One way to determine this is to ask companies in your field if they hire graduates from a particular school. This should give you a good idea of the quality of their education."

Bewley lists several other factors for determining a technical school's reputation:

- Is it accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools (NATTS), the main accrediting body for such schools?

- Does it have state-of-the-art laboratory equipment and facilities, including a library?

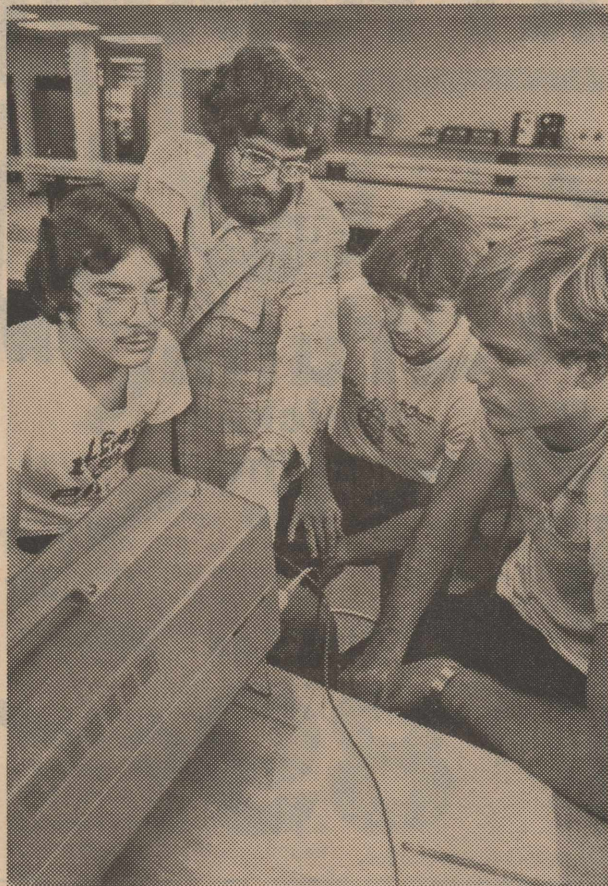

- In addition to education, do those on the faculty have "real world" work experience in the subjects they teach?

- What is its record in successful placing graduates in your field, and at what salary range?

- Does it assist students in obtaining financial aid, housing and part-time employment during the school year?

Before making the final decision, the Bell & Howell executive advises visiting the campus.

"Attend classes; ask to see the library and laboratories; and ask about programs in your career area," he suggests. "Also talk to as many students as you can. They're your best source for candid opinions about the school."

Choosing A Career?

Watch your reasons in choosing your future life's work, caution the vocational experts. Too many wrong reasons can create unrealistic goals.

They point out that many times a student will aim himself at a glamour or prestige career when in all actuality his abilities indicate another direction that will leave him more fulfilled.

Experts cite the young man who was sent by his parents to take a battery of vocational and aptitude tests.

At the final interview with the vocational counselor he said, "I want it firmly understood that no matter what you tell me I'm going to be an engineer."

He may have arrived at this choice because he wishes to emulate someone he admires.

If he is bright and industrious he may indeed become a successful engineer but never be completely happy because his real pattern of interests is more suited to another line of work.

Sometimes a college freshman chooses a certain professional field through parental pressures.

In many cases this ambition may exceed the aspirant's ability and cause him to either fail or become with great effort, only a moderate success.

Private Schools

Whether due to the problems besetting the public education system or the desire of parents to instill certain values into their children, the private school is coming into its own.

In fact, some educators foresee the possibility that someday the majority of students will be attending private schools.

No doubt discipline, seen as a major problem in public schools today, has something to do with the swing toward private institutions. Such schools generally stress discipline: since studies show that there is a direct link between discipline and learning, it's not surprising that students in private schools generally do better than their public school counterparts.

What kind of student is apt to be attending the private school? No longer is the stereotype of the affluent student accurate; more and more middle-class youngsters are making up the enrollment of these schools, with minorities and blue-collar families often making financial sacrifices to provide private education for their youngsters, too.

In selecting a private school for their child, some parents look for one that caters to certain kinds of students; others may enlist the aid of educational consultants in making their decision.

Although many educators within the public school system view this trend with concern, it is apparent that the private school is moving into the foreground.

Older Students

The face of education is changing—it's getting older! As the number of undergraduates fresh out of high school drops, colleges and universities are turning their attention to the adult seeking a degree or simply wanting to pursue special interests.

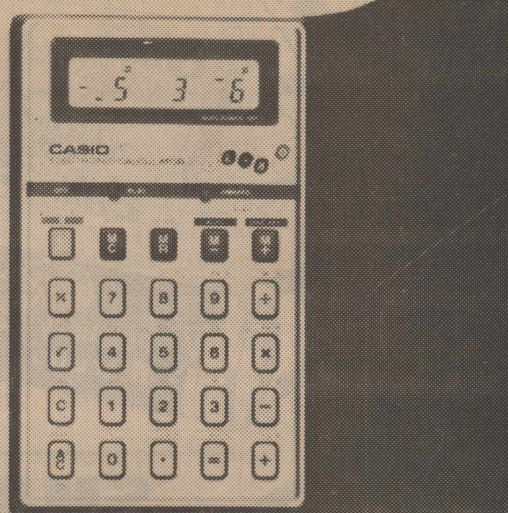

The field of continuing education varies from special workshops in specific fields to evening classes for the convenience of working adults who are enrolled in degree programs, as well as to home study programs that offer credits toward degrees.

While many older students are interested in obtaining that sheepskin, others attend university or college courses simply for the enrichment they offer. So it is that institutions are offering such provocative courses as "Memory" (aimed at improving the same), "Refinishing and Repairing Antiques," "Telephone Marketing," "Human Happiness," "Introduction to Acupuncture," "Creative Chinese Cooking Made Easy," and "Assertive Management," to name a few.

From Numbers to Notes:

MATH CLASS OR MUSIC CLASS? Students can take the Casio VL-80 calculator to either. In math, it can be used as a basic calculator to compute problems from percentages to square roots. At the flip of a switch, it can convert to a musical instrument. Students can put in the sounds of any tune they know, at their own pace, and then play it back at the proper pitch and tempo. According to Casio president John J. McDonald, "If Beethoven had had one, he might have become an accountant." †
