

City hears proposed sale of SCAT

New company profiles rates, channel offerings

City councilmen Tuesday night heard a proposal for a group called Snyder Cablevision Associates to take over SCAT TV Cable Co. here — a move that would add 12 new basic service channels and increase the monthly base rate from $11.24 to $16.95.

Dale Mathis of Colorado City, regional manager of Landmark Cablevision Associates, met with the council in a 7 p.m. work session to outline his proposal, which must be approved by the city because cable television service is provided under a franchise agreement with the city.

It was noted that a sale of SCAT is not final but that good faith money had been placed in escrow pending it being completed.

Mayor Troy Williamson told Mathis toward the end of his appearance that the matter will be broached again during the council's regular February meeting next Monday.

Mathis said he wants a $16.95 base rate, rather than a rate more in line with the $14.50 that his company will begin charging in June in Littlefield, Levelland and other West Texas cities, because a fee for additional outlets would not be levied here. The basic rate in the other cities is currently $12.50.

He said Snyder Cablevision plans, with the city's approval, to begin converting to its system in February and that the higher fees would not be charged until "at the end of our work," which should take about six months.

He said a Cablevision engineer, Kyle Shankles, has moved from Colorado City to Snyder to get a quick start on the project, possibly next month.

SCAT's 12-channel basic service would be retained intact, with the additions of the Spanish International Network, the Nashville Network, CNN, Headline News, ESPN, USA Network, the Fashion Channel, the Weather Channel, Nickelodeon, the Arts and Entertainment Network, MTV and the Home Shopping Network.

The only premium, non-basic channels under Snyder Cablevision would be HBO, Cinemax and the Disney Channel.

Landmark Cablevision also operates in Colorado City, Colman, Loraine, Brownfield, Morton, Slaton and Stanton, along with Salem and Lisbon, Ohio.

Mathis is affiliated with Sutton Capital Associates of New York City, which is the 48th-largest cable TV system in the nation with systems in numerous states, he said.

Mathis and the council discussed continuing the Channel 2 religious broadcasting in some form, agreeing that it will be continued, and discussed having local cable broadcasting from Western Texas College.

Mathis said the seven persons who are currently employed at See CABLE, page 9

A — County officials say 10 years.

In Brief

Search mine

LAS ESPERANZAS, Mexico (AP) — Gas fumes and rising waters hindered the search for seven people missing and presumed dead in a mine shaft where an explosion and fire killed at least 30 miners.

Seventeen other workers were recovering from injuries sustained in the fiery explosion Monday.

Felipe Perez Ortiz, a miner heading the rescue team, said there was little chance any more survivors could be found.

Suit settled

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The family of a Fort Worth man who died after a massive overdose of chemotherapy will receive a total of $11.1 million under a settlement in which a judge held All Saints Episcopal Hospital liable for his 1984 death.

Lawyers say it is one of the largest medical malpractice awards in Tarrant County history.

William O. Wray Jr., 45, a cancer victim, died after he was given seven times the usual dosage of Velban, an anti-cancer drug. Court depositions indicate the overdose resulted May 21, 1984, when a hospital pharmacist misunderstood a prescription given verbally.

Contra aid is criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's proposal for $36.2 million in new aid to rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist government is drawing fire in Congress with Democrats saying it will dash hopes for peace.

"This is a cynical package, constructed to win votes, not to make policy," said Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., a member of the House leadership and head of an informal group of anti-Contra lawmakers. "It is not going to sell in this Congress."

The president planned to make a formal announcement today of the four-month package, consisting of $32.6 million in non-lethal supplies such as clothing, food, communications gear and transportation, and $3.6 million in ammunition and anti-aircraft missiles.

As described by lawmakers who were briefed Tuesday by Reagan at the White House, the proposal would hold the lethal portion of the aid in escrow until March 31. The president could then decide to release the money if he determines no cease-fire is in place between the two warring sides.

While the decision to release the lethal aid beginning in April would be the president's alone, he also would meet with and consider the opinions of the presidents of the democratic governments of Nicaragua's four neighbors: Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras, said House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill.

Some lawmakers said the proposal might be changed slightly to give Congress responsibility in a subsequent vote for releasing the money.

Michel said he believed that the package could be pushed through the House, partly because of the reduced amount and partly because of fears among Democrats that they would suffer political blame if the Contras go out of existence and Managua reneges on recent concessions to civil liberties. The administration earlier had contemplated asking as much as $270 million.

A NEW CATEGORY — Snyder High School juniors James Henderson and Kim Massey won the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show's grand and reserve championships in a new "pen of three" category, in which 10 youngsters showed pens of three commercial steers each, along with complete records of the projects. ## 2nd TDC unit for Amarillo again in plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, seeking to salvage the second of two proposed new prisons, has issued an emergency declaration that should allow the state to build both maximum security units.

Attorney General Jim Mattox last week clouded the plan by deciding that the appropriations bill approved last year by the Legislature allows the issuance of state bonds for the construction of only one prison.

But the Board of Corrections on Tuesday turned to an appropriations bill provision allowing the transfer of funds if the governor decides there is an "unforeseen emergency." The board asked for the declaration and Clements responded quickly, apparently clearing the way for construction of both 2,250-bed maximum security prisons approved last November by the prison board.

"The safety of our citizens is at stake. Our children's future is at stake. And it's not going too far to say that the very well-being of our entire state is contingent on our success," Clements said in announcing the emergency declaration.

Mattox said the governor's move should end legal obstacles to building the second prison.

"I have not seen the paperwork yet, but assuming that the certification of an emergency and the bonds are in order, this office will approve the issuance," Mattox said in a statement.

The prison board voted in November to build maximum security prisons in Amarillo and Gatesville, paid for by bonds approved last year by voters.

Each of the new prisons will cost about $70 million. The 4,500 beds are part of an overall 10,500-bed building plan approved by the Legislature.

Because of Mattox's previous decision, the Texas Bond Review Board last week approved the sale of bonds to raise money for only one of the maximum security prisons.

The prison board built its case for an "unforeseen emergency" by listening to a parade of sheriffs, prosecutors and county officials who said their jails are packed with inmates awaiting transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections.

TDC, under court orders against overcrowding, is limiting admission of new inmates. "We are facing a crisis," a Randall County commissioner said.

Fewer job seekers drop TEC figures

The 12-month cycle for Scurry County unemployment estimates has been completed with the December report indicating the jobless figure here dropped a full percentage point during the month, ending the year at 5.8 percent.

Rather than an increase in more jobs, however, the loss of more than 100 persons "actively seeking jobs" is linked to the unemployment decline.

In November, the Texas Employment Commission reported Scurry County had 665 such individuals. This dropped to 559 in December.

The number of persons said employed remained approximately the same. In November, 9,170 individuals were working and, in December, 9,146.

Fewer persons seeking employment made the civilian labor force total-comprised of both the persons working and those seeking employment-go from 9,835 to 9,705. This dropped the percentage from 6.8 to 5.8 percent.

The unemployment profile for the full year indicated Scurry

County went from a high of 9.9 percent last January to the year-end figure of 5.8 percent.

The major influence on the lower unemployment rate was apparently linked again to fewer persons seeking jobs rather than more persons working.

The year saw the number of persons working increase from 8,807 in January to 9,146 in December, a rise of 339 or 3.7 percent.

Conversely, the number of persons seeking employment dropped from the year's high in January of 967 to the December figure of 559, a decline of 42 percent.

The unemployment rate itself has risen and fallen almost month-by-month to end the year in a downward trend. By month, the following figures were reported:

—January: unemployment figured at 9.9 percent with 8,807 persons said employed and 967 seeking work.

—February: unemployment figured at 9.1 percent with 8,854 See TAX, page 9

Tax payment date gains 1-day delay

January is the final month to pay taxes to Scurry County taxing entities and local individuals waiting until the last minute now have until Monday to pay without penalty and interest.

The deadline is Jan. 31, but since it falls on a Sunday this year, officials with both the county tax office and the appraisal district have extended this deadline to Monday, Feb. 1.

Taxes for Snyder ISD, the city, Scurry County and Western Texas college should be paid at the county tax office in the basement of the courthouse.

School taxes for both Hermleigh and Ira ISD are collected by the appraisal district at its offices at 2612 College Ave.

Two local entities, the county and college, offer discounted rates for early payments beginning in October.

Through the end of December, these two entities were reporting a collection total of 77 percent.

Lower returns were reported for both Snyder ISD and the city, primarily because they do not offer the incentive for early payment, according to Rona Sikes, county tax assessor-collector.

"January has been a real busy month," Sikes noted. "While we really don't know exactly what percentage we're at now, I'm sure it's much higher than See TEC, page 9

Somebody without much to do has come up with some of the "worst" and "best" of 1987. One of the worst of the year centered around the theme of the popular movie, "Fatal Attraction."

From David Brown's Guide to Growing Gray came this advice about affairs: "While having your love affair, never cheat on her with still another woman. The real crimes of passion occur when the other woman discovers the other woman."

And on affairs in general: "Never sleep with anyone who has more troubles or less money than you have."

Boy, will that limit fooling around—even in Peyton Place!

Some of the "best" names came from a collec-

Auction nets $2 million plus

HOUSTON (AP) — The sale of hundreds of items belonging to former Texas Gov. John Connally netted nearly $2.7 million, but the money raised during four auction sessions will only put a dent in the millions he owes to creditors.

Items sold during the final auction Tuesday were rather ordinary — cocktail napkins, ashtrays and wastebaskets — but the day's sales still brought in $240,000.

A terracotta cooking vessel that went for $80 and a camera that sold for $50 were among the cheapest items auctioned Tuesday. Even a used exercise trampoline brought in $250.

Connally, who sat next to his wife, Nellie, through most of the four auctions at Houston's Hart

Gallery, said Tuesday that the sales have been "emotional and draining. I go home each evening exhausted."

Watching the couple's belongings being sold is hard, he said.

"You can't just sit there, no matter how small, without evoking some memory about where we got it. It's not easy," Connally said.

"A great many of those, nearly all of those things, we had given to us or we acquired for a particular reason. All those plaques that just went through we bought in Hong Kong because we liked them."

The Connallys parted with the memories and treasures of a lifetime including artwork, china, furniture, saddles, jewelry and gun collections in an effort to pay creditors.

The 70-year-old Connally, governor from 1963 to 1969, filed for personal and professional protection under federal bankruptcy law in July, vowing to sell his possessions to repay creditors.

But the four-day auction will pay only a fraction of Connally's debts. He listed liabilities of $93 million when he filed for protection, and says his debt is now about half that.

Items sold over the weekend include a painting of an Indian chief and his pony for $120,000; a mural of Texas history for $70,000; a copy of a Amedeo Modigliani painting for $22,500; the desk, chair and other furniture Connally used when he was as governor for $24,800; and a prized saddle for $10,500.

Connally, Navy secretary in the Kennedy administration and Treasury secretary under President Nixon, started real estate and development ventures with former Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes at the peak of the oil boom.

But the boom went bust, ruining Connally, Barnes and others.

Under bankruptcy rules, Connally is selling all properties except his house and 200 of the 3,400 acres at Picoso Ranch, his homestead in Floresville south of San Antonio. The law allows Connally to keep $30,000 in personal possessions.

Connally said he was not sure of his future plans, except that, "I'll never run for public office again."

He said he has received several offers from law firms but at this point in his life would like to work at his own pace. Writing an autobiography is a strong possibility, he said.

Dear Abby

'Junior Citizen' Sounds Off On Advertising Hearing Aids

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why are all the ads for hearing aids directed to senior citizens? The manufacturers and distributors of hearing aids not only ignore a much larger market, they fail to reach many people out there who need help.

Why don't they show young athletes wearing a hearing aid so they can compete in sports? Or middle-aged men and women enjoying card games with their friends now that they can hear the bidding? Or younger people participating in school functions, taking their own notes and listening to religious services? They could also picture the same old argument that goes on in many homes when one member has turned the TV on too loud for the rest of the family.

Many employees are passed over for promotion because they pretend to understand instead of admitting that they have a hearing problem. (They don't realize that they may be thought stupid or rude.)

Why are so many people reluctant to admit to a hearing problem when eyeglasses are universally accepted by those who need help in seeing?

YOUNG AND HARD OF HEARING

DEAR YOUNG: Because a hearing loss is usually associated with older people, those who are sensitive about their age are reluctant to admit they need a hearing aid. A physical impairment of any kind is nothing to be ashamed of. Many people are still not aware that there are hearing aids so tiny and effective that they are virtually unseen, and you're right — the advertising companies are missing a major marketing opportunity.

DEAR ABBY: First you said that Frank Sinatra said, "Perry Como is the finest male vocalist in the business." Then someone wrote in to say that you goofed — Sinatra said, "Vic Damone has the best pipes in the business."

Well, Abby, you may have goofed, but so did your critic. Actually, Sinatra said, "Tony Bennett is the best singer in the business."

CHARLES NELSON REILLY

DEAR CHARLES: Grazia. Three cheers for the red, white and green.

DEAR ABBY: "Afraid to Fantasize in Chickasha, Okla." said, "Somewhere in the Bible it says that thinking lustful thoughts is as great a sin as actually committing the sin. So, if that's the case, why not go right ahead and commit the sin?"

Possibly this following piece of doggerel, which I read some years ago in an English magazine, and which for some reason, has remained in my memory, may provide an answer, some comfort, or even inspiration:

"I've oft been told by some learned friars
"That wishing and the crime are one
"And heaven punishes desires
"As much as if the deed were done.

"If wishing damns us, you and I
"Are damned to all our heart's content.

"So come, let us at least enjoy
"Some pleasure 'ere our punishment!"

The verse was anonymous, but seems to me quite Elizabethan in tone.

Farmers, state urged to attract investments of foreign textiles

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas must be aggressive in luring foreign investors to build a textile industry in the state, the chairman of the State Foreign Trade Commission says.

Foreign investors could either build textile mills or participate in joint construction ventures that would allow the state's natural fibers to be processed within state lines, Greg Letterman told a state Senate interim committee Tuesday.

As part of its study on how to enhance the Texas natural fiber industry, the Senate Interim Committee on Natural Fibers heard testimony on fiber research and obstacles to expanding cotton, wool and mohair production. The hearing was at the Texas Tech University's Textile Research Center.

"The textile industry is a perfect example of the type of industry which Texas needs to create," said Letterman, a San Antonio attorney. He noted the labor-intensive nature of textile production.

"There is a large market for woven textiles in the state of Texas, and ... a textile processing industry would aid in collateral efforts to keep all textile operations — from growing the fibers to the bulk merchandising of finished garments — exclusively in the state of Texas for some product lines," he said.

Letterman recommended formation of a blue-ribbon panel charged with the sole task of luring foreign investment into the state's textile industry.

Texas cotton growers plant about half of the country's cotton acreage and produce about a third of the nation's crop, Walter Walla of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said.

The state leads the nation in wool and mohair production and is the world's second largest mohair producer behind South Africa, he said.

But less than 4 percent of Texas cotton is processed into yarn or cloth within the state and only about 5 percent of wool and mohair is processed here, Walla testified.

See specialist about deafness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I woke up one morning about five weeks ago and could not hear. Eardrops and antibiotics help temporarily, then the deafness is back. My head also gets very cold and gets a cold sweat. I'm an active 84 and would like to solve the embarrassing problem.

DEAR READER: The most common cause of sudden hearing loss is ear wax, which can easily be rinsed out by a physician. Judging from the fact that you tried antibiotics, I assume that you are already under the care of a doctor. Since your hearing is temporarily improved by antibiotics, infection is a likely cause of your problem. Ask for a referral to an ear, nose and throat specialist for further testing and treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had lower back problems for most of my 72 years. Eighteen months ago I had a flu shot with no problems. A month later I had a second shot. The next morning I could barely walk, and could not turn my head without extreme pain. My doctor says the flu shot is not responsible, but nothing else makes sense. I'm still not back to par and am wondering if I ever will be.

DEAR READER: After receiving flu vaccine, an occasional patient will exhibit signs of influenza: low-grade fever, loss of appetite, malaise and joint and muscle pain. The muscle pain can be quite distressing. I suspect that you had an unusual reaction to the shot; if so, your initial symptoms should have disappeared in a few days. Therefore, your continuing discomfort — although improved — is more likely due to muscle spasm related to your chronic back problem. Ask your doctor to give you a checkup to make sure that you don't have an underlying, undiagnosed health problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I returned recently from a 2,500-mile car trip. Since then, I find I have to change positions several times a night, since whatever side I'm on goes numb. Should I mention this to my doctor?

DEAR READER: It's always a good idea to mention physical changes to your doctor. Sometimes inconsequential changes have great significance to a trained professional. I do not know the cause of your sensations of numbness. Your doctor — who knows you and your general state of health — is the best judge of that.

If you have questions about BIRTH CONTROL, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Birth Control.

I ne jump to four diamonds by North was special in their partnership. It said, "Partner, I have a strong hand with four-card heart support, plus a singleton diamond." Knowing that, South felt he had to show his diamond ace, and the side got to a shaky six-heart contract.
If you blot out the East-West cards, it looks as if the slam depends upon either a diamond or a spade finesse after the opening lead has forced out dummy's club ace. The principle here is to postpone a finesse if you can try some other play without risking an immediate set. Put another way, if you take the spade finesse and it loses, the defenders will cash a club; if you take the diamond finesse and it loses, the defenders also cash a club. So what unusual play can you make that is free, after which you will still have the option of finessing to make your contract? I think you have it. Why not just draw trumps and then play the ace of spades? Once in a blue moon, the king will drop gracefully on the table. When that happens, you can make the slam without risking the diamond finesse.
This play gives you a little extra chance, but there is a price to pay. On hands in which both the diamond king and the spade king are with West, you will be set an extra trick. When the spade king does not fall, you will take the diamond finesse and the defenders will set you one more. But any player worth his salt should not mind so long as he is not doubled, since he is giving himself a better chance to bring home the proverbial bacon.

200 attend funeral for assailant

DALLAS (AP) — While thousands jammed a North Dallas church for the memorial service for slain police officer John Chase, 200 filed into a small brick-and-frame chapel to attend the funeral of the officer's assailant.

Mourners who pressed into Bethany Baptist Church Tuesday for Carl D. Williams' funeral said they attended not to eulogize a killer, but to mourn a victim of mental illness.

Williams shot and killed Chase, 25, with the officer's revolver on Saturday, ignoring Chase's pleas for mercy, police said. Williams was killed by pursuing officers after he fired at them.

Chase and Williams were "victims of a sick society. There is no way we can blame one for the other," said the Rev. Marke Toles, who officiated the funeral.

Toles and the Rev. Don Bright, a longtime friend, urged his parents, Carl and Marie Williams, and other mourners to look forward, to have faith.

Many of the mourners grew up with Williams and watched him become a high school leader and promising athlete. But their friend, whom they called Dudley, got into trouble after high school, dropped out of college, was discharged from the Navy after 15 months and became a street person.

Bright remembered Williams as a loving, playful, childhood friend.

"Carl Dudley Williams was a warm, kind and thoughtful person," Bright said. "Beyond the tragedy, beyond where Carl was victimized by disease, stood a living, caring person. I never recall Dudley not being able to get along with anyone before he became victimized with this tragic disease."

IBM, AT&T donate valuable chip technology to Sematech

NEW YORK (AP) — An industry-government project to rebuild the United States' semiconductor manufacturing skills has received a major boost from the nation's two biggest electronics companies, IBM and AT&T.

The two companies said Tuesday they will turn over to Sematech all the information needed to manufacture certain state-of-the-art computer memory chips, highly valuable knowledge that they normally keep under lock and key.

The contributions will help Sematech, but the consortium's goal of achieving world leadership in chip manufacturing within five years "is going to be a tough job," said Mark Reagan, an analyst for Dataquest Inc. in San Jose, Calif.

"It's tough to predict just how all this will come together," Reagan said.

IBM and AT&T said they hoped their contributions would pay off by strengthening American companies that supply them with both chips and manufacturing equipment.

The degree of industry cooperation displayed by Tuesday's announcement "would have been unheard of just a few months ago" and was made possible only by antitrust law waivers under the Cooperative Research Act of 1984, said Charles Spork, Sematech's chairman.

Sematech stands for Semiconductor Manufacturing Technology. The organization, to be based in Austin, Texas, will build a model factory to produce the chips.

Although the Sematech-

produced chips will be ground up and thrown away, companies that belong to the consortium will be able to use the knowledge gained from the model factory for their own businesses.

International Business Machines Corp. said it would contribute an advanced kind of chip for data storage known as a 4 million-bit dynamic random access memory. The chip is so new that IBM has not yet begun volume production of it.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s contribution will be a 64,000-bit static random access memory chip, which has less capacity but is capable of storing information even when it is not supplied with electricity.

In addition to supplying the technology, the companies will supply up to 25 engineers each to help set up and continually improve the fabrication line for the chips.

Customs agent is seriously injured as man drives away

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Two customs officials were injured, one seriously, when a Mexican motorist changed his mind at a border checkpoint and suddenly sped away, striking the two agents during his flight, authorities said.

The man barreled through a U.S. Customs toll gate at International Bridge I at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, officials said.

The motorist said he decided to go back because he thought his girlfriend's 4-year-old son would be taken because the child didn't have documents to cross the border.

"When the inspector asked me for my card, I handed it over to him. Then he asked me about the boy. I forgot the boy couldn't cross. I realized I couldn't return here; that's when I attempted to turn around and come back," he told the Laredo Morning Times.

Customs Agent Joe Hernandez suffered a concussion and other head injuries and remained in guarded condition Tuesday night, said Sam Oliveros, nursing supervisor.

Agent Ruben Villareal also was injured in the incident, but was treated for a bruised right leg and released, hospital officials said.

The Mexican man said he was unaware he injured Hernandez.

"I noticed he was going to take out his pistol. I thought that he was going to try to stop me. So what I tried to do was return here (Nuevo Laredo). I didn't want to leave the child there," he said.

Authorities said Hernandez had asked the man to drive to a second inspection booth after checking his documents Tuesday.

But the man sped away from the booth, made a sharp U-turn at the end of the ramp and headed toward Mexico, witnesses said.

Hernandez jumped from a toll booth into the street and was struck by the man's car. The agent struck the windshield and was carried a few yards before falling to the pavement.

Villareal tried to close the gate of the toll booth but was struck and knocked down when the speeding car hit the gate, witnesses said.

The suspect was apprehended by Mexican authorities after crossing the bridge into Mexico.

Super Bowl VIII was held in Houston, the only Texas city to host a Super Bowl.

Varsity girls thwarted by Lady Stangs, 51-40

Nothing went Snyder's way Tuesday night. Sweetwater's nine free throws in the final 15 seconds will attest to that.

"I don't know. It's just like we weren't ready to play for some reason," said Lady Tigers' Coach Ken Housden, whose squad fell to Sweetwater 51-40 in an important District 2-4A clash at the high school gym here.

The loss knocks the Lady Tigers to 8-4 in district play and makes Friday's contest in Pecos a crucial one. Pecos lost to ninth-ranked Big Spring on Tuesday, 41-24, and is also 8-4 in loop action. Snyder, after playing Pecos on Friday, will host Big Spring next Tuesday, Feb. 2.

"This (loss) doesn't put us out of it, but it makes things harder," said Housden. "Maybe we were looking ahead to Pecos. I'm not sure."

The Lady Tigers fell behind early and could never catch up, although they pulled within two points with 1:18 left when Christi Comer picked off a steal and scored. Her effort made it a 42-40 ballgame, and Snyder got a chance to tie the game when the Mustangs turned the ball over again. Shots from a couple of Tiger players wouldn't fall, however, and Sweetwater's Juanelle Saddler came away with the rebound.

With 15 seconds left, Letha Atkins was whistled to the line for Sweetwater. She missed the front side of her one-and-one, and Snyder appeared to have a chance to tie. But the cold shrill of the referee's whistle echoed again, this time for a lane violation.

"They call a lane violation one time all night, and it's on us with 15 seconds left and a crucial situation," panned Housden.

Atkins made the next try and missed her final attempt. Teammate Pam McNary grabbed the rebound and she, too, was fouled. She made both of her shots for a 45-40 Sweetwater lead.

Then, the fireworks started. Snyder missed a desperation shot at the other end and the Lady Mustangs rebounded. With three seconds left, Comer was whistled for an intentional foul. Housden protested and was flagged for a pair of technicals.

McNary went to the line and canned all six free throws - two for the foul and two each for the technicals.

"There's no way that was an intentional foul," said Housden. "She was obviously going for the ball. I don't think Christi even touched her."

McNary, who chalked 11 free throws, led all scorers with 17. LaDawn Puckett kept Snyder off balance with four 3-pointers which added in to her 15 total, while Saddler grabbed 8.

Teri Sue Henry's 9 points paced Snyder. Shelly Tomlin scored 6, Deedra Tomlin 5, and Comer, LaFon Williams, Rhonda Echols, Melody Pickering and Evette Housden all put in 4 each.

"We tried everybody but we just couldn't get anything to click," said Coach Housden. "We played pretty decent defense. But offensively, we couldn't hit anything."

Friday's game in Pecos is slated for a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

S P O R T S

Sweetwater falls to Scott's Tigers

SWEETWATER -- Coach Larry Scott's Tigers kept their hold on second place in the District 2-4A standings with a hard-fought 61-45 victory over Sweetwater here Tuesday night.

The Tigers, now 9-1 in loop action, entertain struggling Pecos on Friday at 7:30 in Scurry County Coliseum. Pecos fell to Big Spring 80-42 on Tuesday. In other action, fourth-ranked Lamesa rapped San Angelo Lake View 108-87 and Andrews trimmed Fort Stockton 104-94.

Snyder led by only five points, 38-33, going into the fourth quarter here Tuesday. A couple of 3-point goals from Kevin Combest and some layups off the press broke the game open midway through the quarter, however, and Snyder enjoyed a 20-point margin with 2:27 left on the clock.

"I think one of the things that helped us was balanced scoring," said Coach Scott. "Before, teams concentrated on Tracy (Brazel) and Terry (Garza), especially Terry. Against Sweetwater, Lewis (Wesley) did a real good job of running the offense and we were able to spread the scoring around. We had that good mixture you want to have."

"Sweetwater was switching zones and we had to attack it two different ways and Lewis did a good job of getting us where we needed to be. He penetrated inside and dished the ball off real well," added the coach.

Brazel and Trey Tippens led Snyder scorers with 13 points each. Garza and Combest pitched in 12 apiece while Anthony Wortham scored 7 and Wesley added 4. Wesley also had six steals and Garza contributed five steals and five assists.

Snyder got 13 rebounds from Tippens, and edged the Mustangs 32 to 29 on the boards.

"We had some trouble rebounding," noted Scott. "They have a big team and they are real aggressive on the boards. Early in the game, we were getting the fast break but we couldn't convert it. Probably five or six times we had the break and turned the ball over. Finally, we blew it open in the middle of the fourth quarter."

Sweetwater, which fell to 0-10 with the loss, got 16 points from Chris Taylor and 11 from Tim Taylor.

Snyder will take an impressive 18-6 season record into Friday's game with the Eagles.

JV girls pin 20th victory

Snyder junior varsity girls won their 20th game of the season here Tuesday by slapping Sweetwater 46-31 at the high school gym.

Now 20-2, the young Lady Tigers go in search of their 21st victory when they trek to Pecos for a 6 p.m. game Friday.

Mande Henry paced the effort with 14 points. Teena Brazel bagged 12 and Anne Osborn scored 10.

Brazel also accounted for 14 rebounds and four steals while Osborn had eight rebounds and Beth Alvis contributed with five assists.

"We didn't play very well the first half," said Coach Vicki Nelms, whose Tigers still led 19-10 at intermission. "But I thought the second half we did a good job of getting back in the game and going with our game plan."

 What was hitting 20 homers and driving in 85 runs worth to Candy Maldonado? About $400,000.
 Thank you arbitration.
 Johnson, who made $297,500 last season, agreed to a one-year $695,000 contract Tuesday with the New York Mets.
 Maldonado, who made $415,000 in 1987, agreed to a two-year $1.65-million deal with the San Francisco Giants.

They were two of eight players in arbitration to agree to contracts Tuesday, reducing the arbitration field to 79.

Johnson, who hit 36 homers, drove in 99 runs and stole 32 bases last season, had filed for $775,000. The Mets offered $625,000.

Dallas citizens mourn loss of young officer

DALLAS (AP) — At a candlelight vigil and a memorial service that drew thousands, citizens mourned the slaying of a young officer and rallied to the side of their embattled police department as some called for changes at City Hall.

While officer John Chase, 25, was eulogized as a peacemaker, a few hundred citizens declared war Tuesday on city officials and demanded an end to "harassment" of the police department.

"We have a lot of police officers here. I think we're trying to show them they've got friends," said Bill Caruth, who organized Tuesday night's candlelight vigil at City Hall, which drew a few hundred residents, most of them white.

Caruth's Support Your Local Police group did a bustling business in sales of pro-police bumper stickers and posters.

"I don't know of a better place to have this than right here in front of City Hall where they have been harassed," said neighborhood Crime Watch chairman Jo Ann Karr, whose eyes brimmed with tears as she spoke to the group. During the day, thousands of residents offered a silent show of support for the police department as they drove to work with their headlights on. A group of about 25 homeless people donned black armbands showing respect for Chase.

Chase, a white officer, died Saturday when he was shot in the face three times by a black homeless man described as schizophrenic, who two witnesses said was encouraged by a few young black men who yelled, "Shoot him, shoot him."

The suspect, Carl Dudley Williams, 34, was shot and killed by two pursuing off-duty officers after he fired a shot at them, according to police.

Williams had an arrest record dating to 1978, including an August arrest for assaulting an officer, and a history of mental illness. He later was diagnosed as a paranoid schizophrenic.

Tuesday, about 200 people attended funeral services for Williams at Bethany Baptist Church. Many of those present were high school friends who had watched Williams progress from a promising athlete to a street person. Friends said they were shocked by the shootings, but believed Williams was a victim of mental illness.

Police questioned an estimated 45 witnesses in an effort to locate those who encouraged the shooting. But Lt. Jerald Calame said that only two witnesses had heard those comments and they did not have names or addresses of the young black men who cheered Williams on.

"I don't see an arrest. To be honest with you ... I don't have a lot of confidence in trying someone for (making) a statement," he said.

The shooting of Chase by the black vagrant heightened a growing tension between the mostly white department and the city's minority community, whose leaders have criticized the department for several police shootings of minorities.

Police Chief Billy Prince said the repeated criticism in recent months by city officials created an atmosphere that could provoke a mentally ill person like Williams. Though criticized by Mayor Annette Strauss for his comments, Prince refused Tuesday night to back down.

He attended the candlelight vigil along with several other officers.

Caruth, organizer of the event, who said he also is a member of the John Birch Society, an extreme right political group, called on the crowd to attend Wednesday's City Council meeting to press for abolition of a new citizens review board.

He called the panel "the most continuing, egregious insult I can think of."

"(City Council members) have said you can take 13 civilians, 13 amateurs, who know nothing about police work and yet they can tell a police officer who has been through years of experience how to do his job," Caruth said.

The panel, which has limited subpoena and investigative powers, was created to review complaints against police officers, including the use of excessive force.

Ms. Karr spoke out strongly for letting police decide when to use their guns. "I believe in the use of deadly force. I believe in carrying it all the way, officers."

One citizen drew cheers by holding up a sign that said Mrs. Strauss and two other council members "must go. We need law and order."

But others at the vigil had non-political motives. "A weeping Theresa Ybarra explained that her 8-year-old daughter, Nancy, knew Chase because he visited her school to talk about safety to the students.

"She called me today and said, 'Mom, please take me.' She moved my heart," said Mrs. Ybarra.

Chase's memorial service at a Baptist church drew thousands of law officers, their badges masked in black.

"We're hurting this morning, O God. We don't understand the tragedy of this man whose life was taken from him because of the uniform he wears," Sgt. Carroll Pruitt prayed before the lawmen, who ranged from marshals to paramedics to park rangers.

"It's our prayer this morning that we would never meet again in this place, with our badges shrouded in black."

Chase was eulogized as a peacemaker and as someone who had always wanted to be a police officer.

"He always knew how to get along with people, even as a child he was a peacemaker," said the Rev. Dennis S. Henderson, a reserve officer and senior pastor of the Marsh Lane Baptist Church.

Billionaire businessman H. Ross Perot and oilman Ray Hunt have offered planes to transport officers to Chase's funeral Thursday in Des Moines, Iowa. Fort Worth-based American Airlines was to fly the officer's body and family members, including his wife of three months, to Iowa, where her family lives.

The first box of Crayola crayons was sold in 1903. It cost a nickel and contained eight colors.

Don Shula coached in more Super Bowl Games (6), one in Baltimore and five in Miami.

'Personal word' offered by Rather

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Rather insisted he wasn't rude during his combative TV interview with Vice President George Bush, and remained unapologetic, telling the television viewers, "it goes with the territory."

However, in an unusual "personal word" during Tuesday night's "CBS Evening News," Rather acknowledged that viewers might have been made "uncomfortable," and said the abrupt ending to the interview wasn't "done as gracefully" as intended.

"However it may seem at any given time, the intention of even persistent questioning in a spirited interview is to do an honest, honorable job," Rather said.

"The fact that more attention is sometimes given to the heat than the light is regrettable, but it goes with the territory."

The nine-minute exchange between Rather and Bush, carried live at the top of the news Monday night, spurred angry phone calls to CBS affiliates across the country, headlines and political analysis of the fallout.

Bush, on a campaign trip to Wyoming on Tuesday, said the interview was "kind of like combat" but added that he has "no hard feelings about it."

"I don't want to have a big running fight with Dan Rather or anybody else," said Bush, who according to some reports was heartened by the interview and the support of viewers.

CBS News producer Richard Cohen said Bush was ready to confront Rather.

"George Bush sat there before the interview and when he heard Iran-Contra he muttered audibly, 'If I hear Iran-Contra, he's going to hear Miami.' This was all planned," Cohen said Tuesday on ABC-TV's "Nightline."

Last September, Rather angrily walked off the CBS set before a broadcast from Miami because tennis coverage cut into news time.

ABC and NBC led their Tuesday night newscasts with stories about the interview. CBS correspondent Bruce Morton did a reaction story from Iowa.

After Morton's story, Rather said, "Now, a personal word, if I may."

"Interviews such as the one last night are in some ways uncomfortable, for the questioner, for the subject and for some viewers," Rather said. "We understand that and only hope for mutual understanding that it is an essential part of our democratic process for choosing our presidents."

While some of his colleagues criticized him, Rather picked up some support from ABC's Peter Jennings on "World News Tonight."

"Reporters and their subjects often mix it up," Jennings told viewers, "and sometimes lose their tempers and sometimes lose control. You never see it happening in the newspaper. On television, especially when it's live, the camera is always there."

CBS News President Howard Stringer also defended Rather, telling reporters, "that's what Dan Rather does for a living. That's what a great reporter does for a living."

Chief executive officer Laurence Tisch was traveling in the Far East and couldn't be reached for comment, CBS said Tuesday.

Former President Gerald Ford said Tuesday his "general impression is that George Bush, once and for all, eliminated the 'wimp factor.'"

Experts recommend aspirin in fight against heart attacks

BOSTON (AP) — For many, an aspirin every other day keeps the cardiologist away, according to a major study that showed the common painkiller cut the risk of heart attacks nearly in half.

The study of 22,071 male doctors who had never suffered heart attacks or other serious illnesses found that a buffered aspirin every other day cut their heart attack risk by 47 percent.

Heart experts said Tuesday the research provides strong evidence that aspirin will be a major weapon against the nation's No. 1 killer, but some worried about side effects and said it will spur widespread use of aspirin without supervision.

"I hope this won't be given to the whole world as a panacea to stay alive forever," said Dr. Claude Lenfant, director of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, who called the study "very important."

A preliminary report on the study is scheduled to be published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

In the study, half of the subjects took aspirin for nearly ten years, while the rest received placebos that looked and tasted like aspirin.

There were 104 heart attacks among the aspirin users and 189 in the comparison group. There were also 80 strokes in the aspirin group and 70 among the others, but this difference was not statistically meaningful.

Although the study, conducted at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, focused only on healthy men, its findings are being applied to women and men who may be less physically fit than those studied.

Aspirin works by making the blood less likely to clot. Heart attacks usually occur when clots form in the coronary arteries, choking off the heart's blood supply.

In general, experts said that anyone with risk factors for heart disease should be considered candidates for routine use of aspirin. The major risk factors include elevated cholesterol levels, high blood pressure, smoking, diabetes or a family history of heart attacks. Most Americans have at least one of these risk factors.

"Anybody who finds that their blood pressure numbers exceed 140 over 90 or their total cholesterol is much over 200 probably ought to think about taking an aspirin every other day," said Dr. William Castelli, director of the long-running Framingham Heart Study.

Anybody without the heart risk factors, he said, would be unlikely to benefit from aspirin and so should not take the small but real risk of regular use.

Lenfant agreed. "I think that people who are in a high-risk situation should be considered as candidates for this drug," he said. "But as with any other drug, they should be evaluated to see if the drug is the most appropriate for them."

Dr. Lawrence S. Cohen of Yale Medical School also agreed that women should take aspirin only if they have cardiac risk factors. But he also suggested that all men ages 35-70 take aspirin regardless of risk factors as long as it does not cause digestive upset or bleeding.

"It is my belief that anyone at risk of a heart attack can benefit," Cohen said.

Among those most cautious in interpreting the findings was the study's director, Dr. Charles H. Hennekens.

Tuesday blaze involves grass

Firemen were called to a grass fire five miles southeast of Snyder off a county road at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday.

A department spokesman said the fire was minor and that the firefighters returned to the station at 8:35 p.m.

Officer saved

DALLAS (AP) — A man who had turned on his headlights during the day to show support for a slain officer said he acted on instinct when he later stepped into a tense confrontation between police and an armed teen-ager.

Scott Hadden, a 35-year-old corporate television producer, said he joined scores of other motorists who turned headlights on in the day to commemorate officer John Chase, 25, who was shot to death by a mentally ill homeless man Saturday while police said onlookers urged the vagrant on.

The Pittsburgh Steelers won 4 Super Bowls. That is the most games won by any team.

Cut your own taxes and save

New rules may affect filing status

By Robert Metz and Sidney Kess

(Second of 14 parts)

Under the new tax law, the amount of income you must have in order to file has been raised substantially. Even if you filed a return last year, you may not be required to file this year. Among those who are required to file, married couples should take special note of changes in the tax law that may affect their filing status.

If you are married, you may file a joint return, or you and your spouse may file separate returns. In the past, couples almost routinely filed jointly. This may have made sense before, but numerous tax changes may give separate filing an edge for some couples. The only way to know for sure is to compute your tax using both a joint return and separate returns and choose the method producing the lower tax.

In general, married couples with only one salaried worker, or with one partner earning considerably more than the other, will probably benefit by filing a joint income tax return. Working spouses who make roughly the same amount of money may save taxes by filing separately. This may be particularly true if the lower-income partner has high medical expenses and the higher income partner has few, or no, medical expenses. You may have a larger total deduction by filing separately.

Some individuals should file a tax return even if they don't have to. This includes anyone who had taxes withheld from earnings, but did not earn enough to file a tax return. Filing a return is the only way to have these taxes refunded. This situation usually applies to students who work part time, or retired persons who earn a modest income.

After you decide your filing status, the next step is choosing the correct number of exemptions. There are two kinds of exemptions: personal exemptions for you and your spouse, and exemptions for dependents, including children and relatives. You can subtract $1,900 for each exemption you are able to claim. You can take an exemption for yourself, unless you are a dependent on another taxpayer's return.

If you are married and file jointly, you may claim an exemption for your spouse.

You may also claim an exemption of $1,900 for each person who qualifies as your dependent. A child born any time during the year entitles the parents to a full year's exemption. Generally, an exemption is lost if the dependent has a gross income of $1,900 or more. However, income from tax-exempt municipal bonds doesn't count.

Filing status	Income at which person must file a tax return
Single, under 65, not blind	$4,440
Single, under 65 and blind	$4,900
Single, 65 and older	$5,650
Married, filing jointly and:
Both under 65, not blind	$7,560
Both under 65, one or both blind	$8,800
One 65 or older	$9,400
Both 65 or older	$10,000
Married, filing separately	$1,900
Qualifying widow(er) with a dependent child and:
Under 65 and not blind	$5,660
Under 65 and blind	$6,900
65 or over	$7,500
Self-employed	$400 (total earnings)
Dependent and:
Single, under 65 and not blind	$500 (unearned income) or $2,540 (gross income)
Single, either 65 or older or blind	$500 (unearned income) or $3,750 (gross income)
Single, 65 or older or blind	$500 (unearned income) or $4,500 (gross income)

For some taxpayers, the filing thresholds have been raised this year. So, even if you filed a return last year, you may not have to file this year. But, if you had taxes deducted from your pay, you may want to file a return even if you're not required to. Filing a return is the only way to get a refund from Uncle Sam.

Children under the age of 19 and older children who are full-time students may also earn more than $1,900 and still be claimed as dependents, as long as you continue to provide more than half of their support. Total support includes money spent to provide food, shelter, clothing, education, medical and dental care, recreation, transportation, and similar necessities.

A member of your household who lives with you for the entire year need not be related to you to be your dependent.

You would be wise to encourage a child with a fair-sized income to put as much of his or her earnings as possible into a savings account, as money deposited in a savings account is not counted as having gone toward support.

You can also claim an exemption for a parent, if he or she meets the dependency test. Amounts from Social Security spent by the parent toward his or her own support must be included in the figures used for the support test.

The support test is often a stumbling block in claiming a parent as a dependent. However, there are several remedies. You may discover at tax time that you are short only a few hundred dollars of providing chief support for your parent or parents. You can avoid losing the dependency exemption if you make a preliminary support calculation in December. Then, you have the opportunity to give your parent the few hundred dollars you are short and realize a substantial tax savings.

If you yourself are 65 or over or blind, you should note that under the new tax law, extra exemptions for age and blindness are no longer allowed. Instead, additional standard deductions are provided. An individual who is age 65 or older as of Dec. 31, 1987, or who is blind may claim an additional standard deduction of $600 ($750 in the case of unmarried individuals who are not surviving spouses). Also, the standard deductions have been raised.

December."

She said by far the largest share of the school's tax money should come in January since oil-related companies, with no incentive for early payment, normally wait until the last month.

Through December, she said Snyder ISD's tax collections were running at some 30 percent. The city's collection rate—which is not primarily tied to oil-related taxes—was some 49 percent as of Dec. 31.

Rural theft noted

The sheriff's office is investigating the theft of a plow from Darrell Bills, who lives four miles southeast of Snyder.

A deputy said Bills reported Tuesday morning that the plow, an older John Deere model, was stolen just before Christmas.

Van hits auto

A van was in collision with a parked car at 3:06 p.m. Tuesday in the 2700 Block of Ave. R, police said.

A 1981 Ford van driven by Arthur Reginald Alford of Abilene hit a parked 1986 Pontiac owned by David Sewell of Rt. 3, Box 13.
