

Bush shrugs off polls...

Dukakis wins Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Michael Dukakis, continuing his march toward the Democratic nomination with a lopsided win in the Oregon primary, touted himself as "a candidate who can win the presidency." Democratic rival Jesse Jackson, however, warned his rival not to count him out yet.

Vice President George Bush, who already has a mathematical lock on the Republican nomination, picked up all 32 delegates in Oregon. But Bush was getting less attention for winning another primary than for trailing Dukakis in a series of surveys.

And Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, who dropped out of the Republican race back in March, skimmed off nearly a fifth of the vote in Oregon. It doesn't do Dole any good at this point, but it points to weakness that could hurt Bush in November.

The primary season is now in its final phase, pointing toward the closing contests June 7 in California, New Jersey, New Mexico and Montana.

Jackson has vowed to make an all-out effort in California, which offers him a last chance to come out a winner before the Democratic convention in July. He headed to the state while the votes were being counted in Oregon, and vowed to press on.

"The support we're getting from the public is a mandate for change, and we will continue," he told supporters Tuesday night at a Hollywood hotel. "We will not surrender."

Dukakis, who was capturing 56 percent of the vote to Jackson's 38 percent in Oregon, issued a victory statement that looked to the coming primary contests — but that also tacitly assumed that he would be the one to face Bush in the fall.

"We will campaign hard for victories in California, New Jersey, Montana and New Mexico on June 7 and for the White House next fall," said the Massachusetts governor, who has won nine of the last 10 primary contests.

Gorbachev ponders troop withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev may withdraw 50,000 to 100,000 troops from Eastern Europe this year in a bid to win support for a new round of East-West negotiations on conventional forces.

A unilateral Soviet withdrawal of that scale would have "little impact strategically," said a U.S. official. But the political payoff could be immense in Western Europe, where polls show great enthusiasm for Gorbachev's foreign and domestic policies.

U.S. officials trying to anticipate Gorbachev's summit strategy have also detected hints that he will suggest a fifth summit meeting before Reagan leaves office in eight months. The projected sites are Vienna or Budapest.

Another summit would give the two sides more time to work on a treaty to cut their strategic nuclear weapon arsenals by 30 to 50 percent.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz acknowledged after making final summit preparations last week in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze that "it is now clear there is no way these questions can be shaped up in treaty form in time for the summit" in Moscow May 29-June 2.

The two sides, however, may use the Moscow summit to sign one "protocol" of the proposed

Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty, a provision under which each side would notify the other of the time, place and intended target of any planned missile tests, including those from submarines, said one U.S. official.

Because no major agreements are to be signed at the summit, U.S. officials who spoke only on condition of anonymity said they foresee it as an event to consolidate improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations since Gorbachev took office in 1985 and began the summit meetings.

At the same time, U.S. officials were preparing for possible surprises.

At Reykjavik in 1986, Gorbachev seized the initiative with sweeping proposals to slash nuclear weapons.

This time, some U.S. officials said, Gorbachev may propose a 25 percent reduction in ground forces in Europe and opening negotiations in Vienna in late fall.

Tourism is goal for city

Attempts to attract a larger segment of tourism trade to Snyder were detailed Tuesday to directors for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Offering the report was Blanche Chisum, who heads the chamber's newly formed tourism development committee.

She said she believes all of Texas will benefit from a new organization formed statewide called the Discover Texas Association.

Also, she noted a new advertising campaign to be financed by the state which will be featured in geographic locations surrounding Texas. It will profile the varied landscapes and attractions available in Texas, using the theme "a whole 'nuther country."

Regarding local plans, Chisum said efforts are now underway to have Snyder placed on tour guides distributed throughout the U.S.

These include such areas as "farm tours," tours taken to familiarize specialized groups of areas within their specific interest.

Other groups which they hope to attract to Snyder include the growing market of adventure tours as well as increased utilization here by travel groups.

In a related matter, Chamber Manager Bill Moss noted that changes will soon be effected to the sign adjacent to Interstate 20 which directs travelers to use U.S. Hwy. 84 as the "scenic route" to Carlsbad Caverns.

The new design of the sign will feature "Snyder" more prominently in its logo.

Chamber directors attending the regular May meeting include David Kattes, who presided, Gary Landes, Billy Huddleston, Bill Davies, Donna Gray, Barbara Williamson and M.L. Duke.

In other chamber-related matters, the board:

— Tabled for consideration in June the possibility of renewing the board's insurance policy which provides personal liability insurance for directors.

— Heard a report that 46 new members were added with the recently completed chamber membership drive. This included 27 new businesses and 19 in-

Welcome plans set to aid travel group

Plans by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce to "meet and greet" some 400 members of the Holiday Rambler travel trailer group were reported Tuesday.

The group of some 200 trailers are scheduled to arrive in Snyder June 12 and to be here through June 19. They will be parked on the grounds of the Scurry County Coliseum.

The chamber's project chairman for the trailer group's visit is Nelda Huddleston, and Tuesday she displayed a "merchant locator" map of Snyder's retail business community which she prepared to offer to the rally participants.

This map lists where merchandise items—those which the campers will most likely require during their week-long stay—can be purchased here.

In a separate plan designed to encourage local shopping, the chamber plans to distribute to each camper a bag containing sample items from local merchants. Each bag will contain also a prize number, and the camper can win by matching their number to the city mer-

We recently noticed a news article stating that the University of Florida has developed a new grass for subtropical climates. It may need watering only four times a year.

Most guys we know are not as interested in a lawn that requires minimum watering as much as a lawn that requires minimum mowing.

Snyder National Bank executive vice president Bruce Kallemeyn is a typical Snyder husband. Bruce thinks helping wife Vicki with the yard work is providing her with an easy-start mower.

We ran into Vicki in the garden center at Hinchshaw's recently and inquired about Bruce's zeal for lawns and gardens. Vicki did reveal that Bruce did wander into the backyard recently, looking for his misplaced nine-iron.

But the best story about Kallemeyn involves his recent attempt to treat the family to steaks cooked on the grill. It was one of those beautiful spring afternoons when absolutely nothing could go wrong—well almost nothing.

Vicki had carefully chosen choice cuts of beef for the cookout, and Bruce insisted on doing the honors.

The serenity of the afternoon didn't last long. Vicki looked out the back and found smoke billowing, well-welldone steaks and a husband that had dozed off.

That's when quick executive thinking comes in handy. You call the number for home-delivered pizza.

Good news might not boost GOP votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even good economic news doesn't seem to cheer people up these days, and that could prove to be bad news for Vice President George Bush.

The latest example came Tuesday when the stock market declined sharply — after receiving news of a substantial improvement in the latest trade figures.

That bearish response to good tidings was enough to make Bush wonder what it will take to get a favorable political bounce out of an expanding economy.

"We have an economic situation any incumbent ought to just dream about having," said Eddie Mahe, a Republican political consultant not involved in any presidential campaign.

But at the same time, he said, national polls are recording "a sense of unease, a sense that it's time for a change."

Consider the trade figures. The government reported that in March, the trade deficit dropped more than $4 billion as exports increased by 23 percent.

AP analysis

When trade figures a month earlier showed an increase in the deficit, the market dropped 101 points — demonstrating the readiness of investors to believe the worst. It was a disappointing deficit report that triggered the 500-point market drop last October.

Yet, the reaction on Wall Street to good news on the trade front was a drop of 21 points in the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks.

The same day the new trade figures came out, a CBS News-New York Times poll said Democrat Michael Dukakis was leading Bush by 10 points in a national survey of 1,056 registered voters. A poll two months earlier had the two candidates in a dead heat with Bush favored by 46 percent and Dukakis by 45 percent.

It certainly wasn't the economy that went sour for Bush in the period between those surveys.

Consider the recent statistics: — The unemployment rate in April was 5.4 percent, the lowest since June 1974.

— Business sales climbed 1.9 percent in March and construction spending climbed 1.5 percent, the biggest increases in both areas in a year.

— Even with recent increases in energy prices, the inflation rate remains below 5 percent.

Bush tried to brush off the latest poll by comparing it to surveys that showed him running behind in New Hampshire just before last winter's Republican primary.

"I was 8 points back and I won by 10," he told reporters in California. "They were off by 18 points."

"I don't worry about it. The election is 5½ months away," he said.

But, of course, he worries about such statistics. Any politician would.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Donald M. Rothberg is the chief political writer of The Associated Press.

Suppliers of American tour packages and international tour marketers were expected to put together about $650 million in travel deals, officials said.

Hosts of the first Texas pow wow said they wanted to show foreign travel agents who book international tours that, while Dallas may be glass and glitter, Fort Worth is where the West really begins.

Gunfighters roamed the streets of the Stockyards, broncos bucked in a rodeo and beer flowed.

Dear Abby

Woman Says Casual Worship Deserves to Be Dressed Down

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I live in a small suburb of St. Paul, Minn. As a child, my family was Lutheran, but after I married, I started to go to the Catholic Church with my husband.

Abby, I've seen a lot in that church, but today took the cake! Sitting in front of us was a woman with two small children in their pajamas!

I have been upset when I see people in church in blue jeans or shorts because I was taught that it was a sign of respect to dress up for church. I feel uncomfortable around all these slob. Needless to say, I don't really care to go to church anymore. I've talked to my husband about going to another church, but he thinks I'm being ridiculous.

Are there other people who think going to church like this is OK, or am I being a prude?

FROSTED IN FOREST LAKE

After my surprise visit to Atlanta, my husband told me he wanted a divorce! My lawyer isn't much help. (Mr. Marvin Mitchelson, would you like to give your legal services to a dumped housewife? I'll give you half of my $300 cash support and half of my $50 for dog support.)

I kept my sanity because I know I am better off without a cheating husband.

All you women in Atlanta, beware of a tall, balding guy with a German accent who loves to talk about his possessions and achievements and drives a Mercedes. He is a wolf in sheep's clothing, who is not able to give you material things — or love either. If you think you've got it made, check into his finances. His debts are staggering, and he has to support me, too.

DUMPED IN NEW YORK

DEAR FROSTED: Perhaps the children you saw dressed in pajamas were wearing the best clothing they had. I give the mother credit for not only going to church but taking her children. At least they were in church. I'm sure the Lord didn't care what they were wearing.

DEAR ABBY: So often we hear New York City referred to as "the Big Apple." We have asked all of our friends — many of whom have come from New York — but no one can give us an answer.

Why is New York City called "the Big Apple"? When and where did it ever get that handle?

B.F. SUTHERLAND, SUN CITY, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: I am responding to the mail you got after your appearance on the Donahue show. I am one of those old-fashioned women from the country who gave up their nursing careers to stay home and raise families.

What did I get after 29 years of marriage? I got dumped for a woman my husband met in a piano bar in Atlanta!

I foolishly paid him a surprise visit and got the shock of my life! I had stayed in New York trying to renovate our house so we could sell it. He got a job transfer to Atlanta and was living it up in a nice apartment.

During our 29 years of marriage, my husband was a student for 10 years. We fled Germany and came to the United States after he had finished his studies.

DEAR MR. SUTHERLAND: I have been asked that question before, and thought the most reliable explanation would come from the mayor's office, so I called Mayor Koch. He admitted that he didn't know either. I'm still searching. Maybe I'll hear from Mario Cuomo. Does anybody really know?

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Dallas pathologist seeks to keep from testifying DALLAS (AP) — Dallas psychologist Lucy Papillon says she does not want to testify about her relationship with former Methodist minister Walker Railey because the publicity would damage her reputation.

A hearing was scheduled today on a request by Ms. Papillon that she not be required to give a deposition in a suit filed by the parents of Railey's comatose wife, Margaret "Peggy" Railey.

The former minister's wife has been comatose since April 1987 when she was nearly choked to death in the garage of her north Dallas home.

A default judgement last month resulted in a ruling that Railey, former minister of the First United Methodist Church of Dallas, was responsible for the attack on his wife. Railey, who now lives in California and has surrendered his credentials as a minister, declined to fight the civil suit.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Railey's mother. A jury trial is set for Oct. 3 to determine how much money in punitive and actual damages should be awarded to Mrs. Railey's mother.

Judge John Whittington will consider Ms. Papillon's motion at a hearing today.

The psychologist had been subpoenaed to appear for depositions, at which she would testify and produce any documents relating to Railey.

Ms. Papillon said in a motion filed Tuesday that because the issue of liability already has been resolved, Nicolai's attorney could use her testimony to support a new argument for damages, meaning the deposition would be no more than a "fishing expedition."

play than one no-trump, tried his special two-club response. Whatever partner bid would become the final contract, including two diamonds. But North was having none of that — he doubled two clubs for the lead. West bid two diamonds. Then South, who imagined that North's clubs were better than A-x-x-x, competed by bidding three clubs.

East happily doubled. He was looking at five tricks, and maybe his partner could help. Right on! Declarer was down-two tricks for minus 500, and it's easy to see that a different layout in the diamond suit might have set him 800. So what's the point in all this? Just two suggestions for any partnership striving to play the game at a high level of competence. First, don't make haphazard lead-directing doubles. Second, agree with your partner that, when you are a passed hand, such a double never suggests that you would like to compete for a part-score.

Use and abuse of a double

By James Jacoby

Doubling artificial bids as a lead-directing device has come into vogue. Such a double is often carelessly made, with no certainty that the suit should be led. And sometimes it leads to another kind of disaster. Today East-West were playing that a two-club response to one no-trump was asking for a five-card major. Without a five-card major, opener would bid two diamonds. So West, with a weak hand, searching for a better spot to

Since 1950, Latin America's urban labor force jumped from 46 percent to around 70 percent of the total. Its annual rate of increase from 1950 to 1980 was 4 percent, as compared to 2.5 percent for the total labor force.

School district investigates complaints

KATY, Texas (AP) — After a four-hour meeting, top officials of the Katy Independent School District offered few specifics about what action might be taken in the case of a cafeteria monitor who allegedly fondled students.

"We are going to continue to cooperate with the investigation, and we certainly expect to cooperate fully with all the enforcement agencies to bring this thing to a conclusion," said district spokesman William Callegari.

Last week, Charlou Koenig, 34, was charged with three counts of indecency with a child for allegedly touching the breasts of three 9- and 10-year-old girls at West Memorial Elementary School.

The principal of the West Memorial Elementary School, Freddie Kelly, 49, has been given a temporary reassignment pending the outcome of investigation, and could lose her job.

The investigation was sparked after parents complained that Ms. Kelly failed to notify Harris County Children's Protective Services in a timely fashion after the cafeteria monitor was accused of touching the breasts of three 9- and 10-year-old girls at West Memorial.

During the four-hour meeting of the district's board of trustees, teachers at the school turned out to show support for Ms. Kelly.

"Our whole issue today is Freddie Kelly and that what is going to be determined this afternoon," said Joyce Newhouse, a teacher. "We wanted to show support."

Ms. Newhouse and other teachers carried placards expressing support for Ms. Kelly, who declined all comment.

"I just can't say anymore at this time," she said.

The cafeteria monitor, Koenig, who also teaches Latin at Taylor High School, was relieved of his elementary school duties last month. He continued to teach Latin classes until his arrest May 11. He was placed on administrative leave with pay pending the outcome of his case.

Several parents were outraged to learn about a February memo from Ms. Kelly to Koenig that warned that touching the shoulders and chests of female students could be grounds for child abuse.

The memo indicated Ms. Kelly had been aware of the allegations since September, although Children's Protective Services was not notified until April 26.

The Texas Family Code requires suspected child abuse be reported to proper authorities within 48 hours of its occurrence. Failure to report is a misdemeanor carrying a possible 180-day jail sentence and a fine up to $1,000.

In key game of playoff series...

Mavs defeat Denver, 110-106

DENVER (AP) - In the pivotal Game 5, you had to figure that Mark Aguirre, Rolando Blackman and Roy Tarpley would turn in standout performances for the Dallas Mavericks.

But one thing nobody foresaw was the Denver Nuggets - the NBA's best free-throw shooting team - launching bricks down the stretch.

The Nuggets, who shot 80.4 percent from the line to take the NBA regular-season title and who came into Tuesday night's game hitting 84.4 percent in the playoffs, missed seven straight free throws in the final seven minutes.

It proved to be the difference as the Mavericks ran off with a 110-106 victory to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal. Dallas can wrap up the series in Game 6 Thursday night at home.

A seventh game, if necessary, would be played Saturday in Denver.

Aguirre scored 25 points, including a clinching 3-pointer with 19 seconds left. Blackman scored 24 points, 18 of them in the second half. Tarpley, honored as the NBA's top sixth man earlier Tuesday, had 21 points and 16 rebounds.

The Nuggets, without two key players, were no match for that trio.

For Denver, center Danny Schayes had a career-high 33 points and also pulled down 13 rebounds, and Alex English scored 30 points.

But as guard Lafayette Lever and reserve forward Jay Vincent missed their second straight game with injuries, the Nuggets got little scoring from their backcourt and even less from their bench.

Nugget guards combined to hit only 8 of 30 shots from the floor, and the Nugget bench was outscored 40-14.

Lever and Vincent, the team's second- and third-leading scorers in the playoffs, likely will miss Thursday night's game as well.

Lever, with a strained knee, has been ruled definitely out, and Vincent, with a pulled calf muscle, is considered questionable.

"It's not something we can think about," Denver Coach Doug Moe said. "We have to go back down there and win, which will be a tremendous hurdle for our team."

"It's a disappointing loss, but we played hard. We gave it our best shot. Dallas hit some very difficult shots when they needed to, and those missed free throws ended up killing us."

The Nuggets pulled into a 95-95 tie on Michael Adams' layup with 4:05 remaining. Blackman then hit two free throws and a basket in the lane to give the Mavericks the lead for good.

Blackman canned an 18-foot jumper with 40 seconds to go for a 100-102 lead. After two free throws by Schayes, Aguirre hit his 3-pointer from the right side for a 109-104 advantage.

Aguirre, who sulked and demanded a meeting with the coaches after being benched in the closing minutes of Game 3, was inserted back into the lineup Tuesday night with 38 seconds left.

Summer leagues

LITTLE LEAGUE

Cardinals 12, White Sox 9
Brett Kennedy scattered four singles and scored four times to help the Cardinals defeat the White Sox on Tuesday evening.

Randall Thomas smacked two doubles and Craig Lang had a double and a single to help the cause. Also hitting were Brian Upton and Bryant Roberson, a double each; and Marc Sparlin and Josh Stewart, a single each.

For the White Sox, Justin White powered a double and a single, Matt Parker and Curt Rinehart plugged two singles each, and Waylon Presley popped one single.

Braves 17, Yankees 4

Shae Sisson was credited with a no-hitter in this contest, which saw the Braves improve to 5-1 on the season.

Adrian Sneed ignited the offense with a triple and a double while Sisson, Jason Pierce and Chris Mitchell rapped two singles apiece and Jimmy Henry spanked a triple. Also hitting were Jeremy Wells, a double, and Wayne Braziel and Tye Parks, one single each.

Daniel Fish scored two runs for the Yankees, 2-4.

FARM LEAGUE

White Sox 11, Cardinals 1

Marcelino Aguirre and winning pitcher Theron Taylor each clubbed a triple and Eric Roberson and Tommy Fisk added a single apiece to lift the White Sox past the Cardinals.

Brandon Rollins had a triple for the Cards while Josh Holder came up with a single.

The Sox are 5-1 now. The Cardinals are 2-4.

Yankees 12, Braves 2

Kevin Lacik cranked out a home run and Jason Stearmer slammed two triples to help the Yankees to their fifth win in six outings Monday.

Also hitting for the 5-1 Yanks were Ramsey Castillo and Chris Post, a triple each; Teddy Murray, two singles; and Corey Chester, one single. Tommy Sailor picked up WP honors.

For the Braves, 1-5, Eric Davis slapped a double and Jerry Burton, Corey Lelek and Michael Navajar contributed a single apiece.

8-YEAR OLD LEAGUE

Indians 23, Mets 12

Billy Digby was on target for a home run, a triple, a double and a single as he contributed four hits to the Indians' 27-hit attack in this game played Tuesday.

Also hitting for the Indians were David Smith, a home run, a triple and a single; Jason Presley, a home run and a triple; Dustin Fish, three doubles and a single; Joe Mac Cheyne, a triple and a single; Clayton Triplett, a triple; Ray Jasso, two doubles; Gainey Johnson, three singles; Michael Horton, two singles; Brandon Hackfeld, a triple and a double; and Cory Chesser, a double and a single.

Hitting for the Mets were Kyle Beck, two doubles; Luis Silva, three singles; Matt Preston and Ben Brown, a double and two singles each; Dwyane Robertson, Marco Hinojos and Jonathan Pennington, two singles each; and Ryan Rayborn, Chris Halbert, Jeremy Jack and Jason Bawcum, one single apiece.

Braves 30, Giants 13

Laderrick Richardson chalked up three home runs, a triple and a single and Eric Pesina hit a home run, a triple and a single as the Braves outlasted the Giants in a slugfest.

Also hitting for the Braves were Daniel Parker, a home run and a single; Jeremy Fuentes, a double and three singles; Jaime Juarez, two triples and a single; Chris Ortegón, two doubles and two singles; Jason Kenner and Seth Crawford, a double and a single each; and Kenny Hancock, a single.

Hitting for the Giants were Paul O'Conner, a home run; Todd Hall, a triple and two singles; Jason Singleton, a triple and one single; Russell Riggan, a triple; Matt Davis, a double and two singles; Zeb Alexander, a double; and Oscar Aguilar and Rene Garza, one single each.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

Dirty Dozen 23, Double Trouble 10

Billie Jones smacked a home run and a single and Tanya Gasaway added a triple and a single as the WTSB Dirty Dozen defeated the Dairy Queen Double Trouble this week.

Also hitting for the Dozen were Lochie Applin, a double; and Jennifer Northcott, Kassie Applin, Jenny Valdez and winning pitcher Mendy Winter, one single apiece.

For Double Trouble, Bianca Rocha cracked a home run, Lisa Duncan hit a double and Elizabeth Mackey added a single.

Bliss appears set to take NMU post

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Dave Bliss, no longer in Bob Knight's imposing shadow, has emerged as the heir apparent to the vacant basketball coaching job at the University of New Mexico.

Bliss, the coach at Southern Methodist for the past eight years, arrived in Albuquerque late Tuesday to interview for the job that has been open since Gary Colson resigned on April 26.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today that Bliss has accepted the job.

"He's got it," said Jerry Apodaca, a member of the university's board of regents and a former New Mexico governor. "The university is ready to put this behind us."

Another source in New Mexico confirmed that Bliss had accepted the job, contingent on Bliss' approval in a meeting today with the university's athletic council. The source, who requested anonymity, called today's meeting "a mere formality. ... I expect we'll make the announcement (this) afternoon."

Abilene High standout...

Brown latest WTC basketball recruit

Doug Brown, 6-7¾, standout from Abilene High School, has signed with Western Texas College.

"He plays good defense inside, does a good job on the boards, and he's use to playing against good competition," noted Tony Mauldin, WTC men's basketball coach.

Brown averaged 12.3 points,

11.3 rebounds and had 48 blocked shots as a senior for the District 4-5A champion Eagles. He shot 57 percent from the floor and earned all-district and second-team TABC all-region honors.

"I think if Doug works hard he can come on and help us next year," said Mauldin. "I think he has a chance to be an outstanding player in two years."

Snyder girls prepared for World Age Games

LUBBOCK - Seven Snyder girls will be among the estimated 800 competitors in The World Age Group Games, which begins with opening ceremonies this evening at Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The games - tumbling and trampolining competition are drawing competitors from all over the nation and a number of foreign countries, including Japan, Switzerland, West Germany, France, New Zealand and England.

Competing from Snyder will be Michelle Roemisch, Mikella Tidwell, Mecca McCowen, Joellen King, Neika Porter, Kristi McClure and Amber Bowlin.

Competition in the four events of tumbling, mini-trampoline, trampolining and synchronized trampolining, begins Thursday. Admission to the opening ceremonies, beginning at 6 p.m. today, is $2. Admission for the competition is $2 for adults and $1 for students. The games will be held from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Meeting becomes anti-Stoessner rally

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — Pope John Paul II, responding to Paraguayans' complaints of political oppression, told a cheering, chanting crowd that democracy is impossible without real participation by all citizens.

At a meeting with prominent citizens Tuesday night that Paraguay's authoritarian government initially tried to prevent, a capacity crowd of 3,800 interrupted the Roman Catholic leader 18 times with applause.

The pontiff spoke of human rights and fundamental civil liberties in this landlocked country that Gen. Alfredo Stroessner has ruled for 33 years in what is widely regarded as a dictatorship.

A block of 60 chairs reserved for officials of Stroessner's rightist government and governing Colorado Party sat empty during the hour-long gathering in a government-owned sports stadium.

Hundreds of policemen and soldiers, some carrying automatic weapons, ringed but did not enter the arena.

Today is the pope's 68th birthday and the last day of a four-nation tour that began in Uruguay on May 7 and also took him to Bolivia and Peru.

John Paul goes today to Encarnacion on the Argentine border — Gen. Stroessner's hometown — for a prayer service. He then makes a pilgrimage to Caacupe, site of the country's main Catholic religious shrine, and returns to the capital for a youth rally before departing for Rome.

At the gathering Tuesday night, the pope listened as actress Heddy Gonzalez Frutos said Paraguayan society is "marked by deep signs of death and violence, which are an affront to the rights and dignity of the children of God."

Last week, the government abruptly canceled John Paul's scheduled meeting with the "Builders of Society," a church-picked collection of cultural, business, education and political leaders that includes opposition figures.

It later backed down after the Vatican protested. Such a government ban would have been unprecedented in this pontiff's 37 foreign tours.

In the hours leading up to the pope's arrival, as the stadium filled, people chanted anti-government slogans and sang folk songs. Several speakers addressed the exuberant crowd, denouncing repression.

John Paul arrived an hour late. "It is impossible to speak of true liberty, and even less of democracy, where there is no real participation by all citizens in making the great decisions that affect the life and future of the nation," he told the crowd.

A small group sat through the speech wearing mock handcuffs and gags.

"May God grant that this historic meeting of the pope with representatives of the leadership of Paraguay awaken new efforts whose vigor will permit this society to grow more each day," the pope said.

Among those attending was Domingo Laino, leader of the center-left Authentic Liberal Radical Party, one of four political groups the government neither recognizes nor allows to participate in elections.

Laino drew wild cheers when he was greeted and embraced by local bishops.

As the pope departed, the crowd broke into the chant, "Dear John Paul, the people are banned."

On Monday, Stroessner told the pope that Paraguay enjoys full democracy and that its citizens flourish under its law-and-order policies.

Stroessner, 75, took power in a 1954 coup and last February was elected to an eighth straight term as head of this nation of 3.8 million in balloting opposition leaders called rigged.

Scheme thwarted

CHICAGO (AP) — Officials at the nation's 10th-largest bank say they foiled one of the biggest "almost crimes" ever, an employee's attempt to embezzle $70 million through a series of computerized cash transfers.

First National Bank of Chicago announced Tuesday that the employee, whose name was not released, tried to steal the money through a sophisticated wire transfer scheme involving banks in New York and Chicago.

The Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Sun-Times, quoting unidentified sources, reported today the money ultimately was to be channeled to Vienna, Austria, where the worker had set up accounts. The newspapers said the suspect had worked at the bank six to eight years but was not a high-ranking official.

No loss is expected to the bank or its customers, the bank said.

The worker has been identified, but may not have acted alone, said bank spokesman Tony Zehnder. He refused to give details, saying the investigation had been turned over to the FBI.

He would not say how the bank learned of the scheme.

FBI spokesman Jim Kuntzelman said his agency was studying the possibility that up to seven people were involved in the scheme, which affected the accounts of the New York-based financial firm Merrill Lynch & Co., Chicago-based United Airlines and Louisville, Ky.-based Brown-Forman Corp., the wine and spirits company.

Sikhs surrender; four reported dead

AMRITSAR, India (AP) — Forty-six Sikh extremists holed up in the Golden Temple surrendered today after a 10-day police siege, and a senior police official said he believed there were no more Sikh gunmen inside.

Police shot and killed one extremist when he tried to flee during the surrender, and three others committed suicide, said Punjab state police commander K.P.S. Gill.

"According to two men who surrendered (and) went back (inside), there is no terrorist inside the temple," Gill told reporters.

But Gill said police had not yet entered the Golden Temple's inner sanctum, the holiest part of the shrine, to confirm the report.

Earlier today, police said about 60 extremists remained in the temple complex, but that figure was only an estimate.

Those who surrendered, including one woman, emerged from the Golden Temple, whose ground floor contains the inner sanctum, Gill said. They came out with their hands in the air, he said.

On Sunday, 146 Sikhs surrendered as police, commandos and paramilitary troops tightened their hold on the walled Golden Temple complex, Sikhism's holiest shrine and headquarters for Sikhs waging a violent campaign for a separate nation in Punjab.

Since then, the security forces' sharpshooters kept up pressure on the complex with burst of machine-gun fire, incendiary bullets and smoke bombs.

The government forces had rooftop bunkers on most buildings overlooking the complex. Commandos had moved inside the walls and occupied a dining hall and two brick towers that had been used as lookout posts by the militants.

The surrender followed escalating attacks by Sikh militants elsewhere in Punjab. In the past 24 hours, Sikh radicals killed at least 38 people, including 31 migrant Hindu workers late Tuesday night, in revenge for the siege.

About 2,800 policemen, commandos and paramilitary troops surrounded the Golden Temple complex May 9 after Sikh extremists fired at police officers who were making an inspection just outside the walls.

At least 40 people have died in the siege, most of them militants.

The Indian army raided the Golden Temple in June 1984 to drive out militants, and some 1,200 people, most of them Sikhs, were killed. Five months later, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was assassinated by her Sikh bodyguards to avenge the attack on the temple.

No injuries as vehicle strikes cow

A Lubbock family escaped injury when their van hit a cow 6.4 miles north of Snyder on U.S. 84, the Department of Public Safety reported Wednesday.

A trooper said the 1984 Chevrolet van, driven by 44-year-old Maria Escobar Estrada, was northbound when the black and white ran east into its path, getting knocked back into the median.

He said neither Mrs. Estrada nor the four children, ages 1 to 19, who were passengers were injured but that the vehicle had to be towed.

The ownership of the cow was not known.

The accident happened at 10 p.m. Monday.

Reagan won't discuss terms of deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he won't strike a deal with Panamanian ruler Manuel Antonio Noriega that would "whitewash anyone," but he won't talk about a reported administration offer to drop U.S. drug charges against the military strongman.

Questions about Noriega and embattled Attorney General Edwin Meese III dominated a surprise news conference Tuesday in the White House briefing room.

The president refused to confirm reports that he has offered to drop drug-trafficking charges against Noriega if the ruler leaves Panama at least until after elections are held. U.S. attorneys handling the drug case have said the possibility of dropping the charges has been raised by the administration.

"I'm not going to back away from what we're trying to do," the president said. "And I can only tell you that we're not going to just whitewash anyone."

"We are in the midst of real negotiations. I can't comment further on this," Reagan said. He said that "at the appropriate time, I expect to have a full statement and make it to the American people."

During the news conference, Reagan also declined to disavow astrology and reaffirmed his faith in his troubled attorney general, Edwin Meese III.

The president said no decisions were made at the White House on the basis of astrological advice to first lady Nancy Reagan.

When asked whether he believed in astrology himself, however, he paused and replied, "I don't guide my life by it, but I won't answer the question the other way because I don't know enough about it to say is there something to it or not."

Of Meese, the president said, "I think that there's been a wave, and for quite a long time ... in which accusation or allegation is taken to mean conviction. And there's been too much of that."

"I think that for him to step aside would be what he himself once said — that he would then live for the rest of his life under this cloud — with nothing that had ever been proven."

The Justice Department has been rocked in recent weeks by unrest and resignations stemming from criminal investigations of Meese's affairs.

On Panama, Reagan said much of what has been written about the negotiations had been "based on some kind of leaks or misinformation, because there are no facts to sustain it."

In refusing to discuss the negotiations, Reagan said, "It would be foolish to do so. Some things you have to keep to yourself when you're arguing with someone else."

Reagan also denied the advertisement offering the prize.

To be included in the camper bags will be such things as discount coupons, personalized or copies of sale advertisements.

Businesses are still being sought to participate in the bag giveaway. Those interested should contact Huddleston at 573-4802 or the chamber at 573-3558.

The cutoff to participate will be June 1.

ministration knew long ago that Noriega was involved in drug trafficking and chose not to act on the knowledge.

"There had been some rumors ... but no one ever received or could get evidence to substantiate those rumors," the president said.

Reagan opened his news conference with a statement applauding the agreement to start

Senate debate on the U.S.-Soviet intermediate-range arms treaty. He described the March trade figures, which showed a dramatic drop in the monthly deficit in the balance of exports and imports, as "the best news on this front since March of 1985."

Reagan's last regularly scheduled news conference was Feb. 24.

Hundreds of Arabs attack Israeli force in West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Hundreds of Arabs surrounded an Israeli force in the occupied West Bank today and attacked them with stones and slingshots, the army said. The troops killed one Palestinian and wounded at least four others in the clash.

Hospital officials and witnesses said nine people were wounded by gunfire when Arab youths battled hundreds of soldiers in helicopters, army vehicles and bulldozers in two West Bank villages. Five Palestinians were taken to Ramallah Hospital after being beaten, witnesses said.

The army said the clashes occurred during pre-dawn searches in the villages of Abwein and Arura about nine miles north of Ramallah.

"An Israeli force reached the villages ... and was surrounded by hundreds of Arabs, some of whom climbed nearby hills and attacked the force with a barrage of stones and with slingshots," the army statement said.

The army said a commander fired rubber bullets, tear gas and live ammunition to extricate the force, killing one and wounding four.

Five Arabs were also injured by rubber bullets and tear gas, the army spokesman said.

The clashes in the West Bank came on the final day of the three-day Moslem feast of Id el Fitri. Underground Arab uprising leaders called for the holiday to be one of "national mourning" for the deaths of 191 Palestinians since Dec. 8. Two Israelis also have been killed in the uprising.

Witnesses said troops entered the village of Arura about 4 a.m. and began house-to-house searches.

About 300 youths gathered outdoors in the village and threw stones at the soldiers, said a 19-year-old Arura man who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

Troops rounded up and detained several hundred Arura youths, said the man, who spoke from a hospital bed.

About two hours later, troops began moving into the neighboring village of Abuwein, where they also conducted house-to-house searches, witnesses said.

DR. GOTT Fiberglass poses hazards

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend sent me a copy of your column in which you said you were not familiar with studies linking the ingestion of fiberglass particles to disease. As the chairman of Victims of Fiberglass (11143 Lakeshore North, Lake of the Pines, Auburn, CA 95603), I wish to dispute your conclusion. We have numerous studies from the World Health Organization, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor and other reputable sources which indicate that respirable fiberglass particles are indeed more dangerous than asbestos.

DEAR READER: Thank you for writing. The ingestion of fiberglass has yet to receive the attention given to the inhalation of asbestos. Inhaled fiberglass can, indeed, lead to health problems, including chronic lung disease. However, I am not aware that the ingestion (i.e., eating and swallowing) of fiberglass produces ailments of the magnitude experienced by workers who inhale the particles.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Do antidepressants have any side effects? I've been taking them and have not been able to think clearly, have mood swings and can't concentrate. Is this normal?

DEAR READER: Antidepressants are powerful medicines and, as such, have many side effects and complications. In large part, the side effects depend on the particular drug. The most common side effects of most antidepressants include anxiety, restlessness, confusion, difficulty thinking, sedation, dry mouth, constipation, low blood pressure, electrical irregularities of the heart, numbness of the extremities, seizures and abdominal pains. The list goes on and is quite long. This is why antidepressants should be administered only by physicians who are familiar with their use and are willing to monitor their patients for toxicity.

Your symptoms could be due to antidepressants — or the depression itself. Share your concerns with your doctor. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on "Mental and Emotional Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 28 and nursing my second child. My obstetrician said I had atrophic vaginitis and gave me Estrace cream to use. However, I'm concerned that the hormones in the cream will be absorbed into my bloodstream and passed on to my baby through my milk. Am I right to be cautious?

DEAR READER: Nursing mothers are always right in being cautious about substances that can enter breast milk and be passed to the infant. However, the estrogen from hormone creams is not likely to be absorbed in sufficient quantity to cause problems. I believe that your doctor is correct. Nonetheless, be sure to double-check with your obstetrician before using any medication — including alcohol and cigarettes — that could potentially affect your baby through your breast milk.

Scientists hope to save turtles which are on endangered list

ABOARD THE LONGHORN (AP) — Led by "Captain Hook," a hardened veteran of the high seas, 1,100 endangered sea turtles raised in captivity were dropped into the Gulf of Mexico in a population-boosting experiment.

The Kemp's Ridley turtles hit the water 8 to 15 miles off Port Aransas, Texas, on Tuesday, and marine biologists hope they'll return to multiply on the beaches of Texas after being decimated by exploitation and pollution earlier this century.

"It's quite a day — raising the little guys from eggs and getting to see them shuffled off," said project spokesman Donna

Shaver.

First to hit the water was "Captain Hook," a turtle that was caught earlier by a fisherman whose 3-inch-long hook and steel cable was imbedded in the turtle's throat. The fisherman turned it over to authorities.

Veterinarians were unable to dislodge the hook and had to surgically slit the turtle wide open to get it out. Captain Hook survived.

"We try not to get emotionally attached to any of them," said Tim Fontaine, project manager of the sea turtle "head start" program. "But we feel really good about him."

The sea turtle release was the 10th in as many years, and experts are still waiting to see if the experiment to increase the population is a success, said Ms. Shaver, National Park Service manager for the incubation and imprinting phase of the Kemp's Ridley Restoration and Enhancement Program.

Altogether, 13,500 turtles have been raised and released by the National Marine Fisheries Service in Galveston since the so-called "head start" program began in 1977.

The Kemp's Ridley turtles, considered the world's most endangered sea turtles, are known by their species name as Lepidochelys kempi.

After being hatched on Padre Island and allowed to crawl into the Gulf of Mexico, the turtles were recaptured and taken to Galveston for a year or two of raising in captivity.

Fontaine supervised the growth of the turtles since they were 3 to 5 days old and about the size of silver dollars weighing just 15 grams.

Now, the year-old turtles weigh about 2½ pounds each. And for the first time this year, 98 2-year-old turtles weighing about 25 pounds each were released as biologists hoped the more mature animals will stand a better chance of surviving.

Today, less than 600 turtles nest in the entire season from April through July or August.

Water aerobics classes slated

Four classes of water aerobics for students 17 and older are scheduled at Western Texas College this summer.

Group I will meet at 11:30 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays from June 1-27.

Group II will meet at 5:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays from May 31-June 23.

Group III will meet at 11:30 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays from June 29-July 25.

Group IV will meet at 5:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays from June 28-July 21.

Water aerobics classes do not involve swimming but are aerobic exercises done in the swimming pool.

Mike Harrison, WTC physical education instructor, will direct the classes. Fees are $20 per person.

To pre-register call 573-8511, ext. 240. Fees will be paid at the first class meeting.

Prisons avoid closing doors

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas prison system is close to its 95 percent legal limit of capacity, although officials say a closure isn't likely in the next few days.

"As far as releases versus admissions, it looks fairly good for the week," said David Nunnelee, spokesman for the Texas Department of Corrections. "As far as next week goes, we have to wait and see."

As of midnight Monday, when the official population tally was taken, the 26-unit state prison system was at 94.82 percent of capacity, 72 beds below the 95 percent level at which the prison would have to refuse new admissions.

The count was an improvement over Sunday, when the prison system had only 26 beds to spare, said David Nunnelee, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman. Nunnelee said 148 inmates were released Tuesday.

Barbara Slaughter, spokeswoman for the Texas State Board of Pardons and Paroles, said that if the population exceeds the limit, Gov. Bill Clements could allow more good time credits under the Texas Prison Management Act.

"We've been told every day they're going to hit it," Ms. Slaughter said referring to the 95 percent capacity. "We're doing everything we can from here."

Officials also said the parole eligibility data must be recalculated for more than 8,000 convicts whose good time was stepped up last week by court order. That was expected to take several days.

Prison officials had to halt admissions 23 times last year as its population exceeded the capacity limit, imposed by state law and federal court order, Nunnelee said.

The 26-unit Texas prison system, the nation's third largest behind California and New York, has managed to stay open all year primarily because it has been limiting admissions to roughly 150 inmates a day while about the same numbers are being released on a day-to-day basis.
