Reagan prepares to veto trade bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is vetoing a major trade bill, but White House aides say his veto message today will show he's willing to work with Congress on a less-contentious version.

Reagan's veto of the 1,000-page bill seemed likely to be sustained in the Senate, if narrowly. The House, where the trade bill has wider support than in the Senate, was expected to take up the veto immediately after receiving it today.

The veto-destined measure includes a requirement that employers at large companies give workers 60-day advance notice of plant closings and layoffs, the provision that generated the most recent opposition.

White House aides, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said Reagan's objections to the plant-closing feature and provisions restricting the export of Alaskan oil will be highlighted in the veto message.

At the same time, the veto message will express a desire to work with Congress on a pure trade bill, the aides said.

"We want a bill. Once the message goes up and the veto is sustained, we will work with the Congress to come up with a new bill," one White House official said.

Congressional leaders, however, have thus far expressed little enthusiasm for working on a stripped-down trade bill.

A 63-36 Senate vote approving the compromise legislation last month was short of the two-thirds margin needed to override a veto, suggesting the veto is likely to be sustained.

In 1986 Congress upheld Reagan's veto of another major trade bill, one that would have slapped stiff quotas on textile imports.

A vote to override was expected to succeed this time in the House. However, a presidential veto can only be overridden if both chambers vote to do it by the needed two-thirds margins.

Reagan announced his intention to veto the measure during his radio address on May 14, saying: "It is unfortunate, but I have no choice but to send this back to Congress." He said the measure "threatens to destroy jobs."

On Monday, Reagan told a group of manufacturing and export leaders in a "World Trade Week" ceremony in the Rose Garden that, "I have no doubts that the Yankee trading spirit is alive and well."

Teacher aides are latest budget item to feel school axe

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

A second Snyder ISD budget workshop conducted Monday revealed approximately $350,000 in cuts to date for next school year as trustees and administrators work to keep the school tax rate at or under the $1 mark.

A major cost cutback outlined Monday during the 3½ hour afternoon session was a reduction in Level I teacher aides for next school year with seven to be eliminated.

This will occur at the elementary school level, where each campus, with the exception of Central, will have two Level I aides next year. Central, which has a higher number of students not yet fluent in English, will have three aides.

A savings of $48,000 is expected as a result of the reductions. Of the seven to be let go, four aides were employed with the assumption that it was only for a one-year period.

Three other teacher aide positions will be terminated and the last hired will reflect the ranking of who is let go first. These three staffers will be given first opportunity for any new aide's positions which become available, it was noted.

In a related decision, the board directed administrators to explore the possibility of employing part-time help during the school lunch hour—work previously performed by Level I aides.

This will be required to insure the "duty-free" lunch for public school teachers directed by House Bill 72.

Trustees heard Superintendent Dalton Moseley detail these plans as well as cuts for the junior high, high school and maintenance budgets at Monday's workshop.

In a different budget approach this year, the board has directed Moseley and his staff to make the line item cuts, work which prompted week-long budget study sessions for the board the past two years.

As noted Monday, however, the board "set the pace" for this year's budget-cutting effort by switching back to a half-day kindergarten program next year.

This change is now projected to save the district some $147,000. See BUDGET, page 9

TOOLS, BARN LOST — Many workshop tools and this barn were destroyed by fire Monday afternoon at the farm of Surry Gillum located 11 miles southeast of Snyder. ## Workshop, tools lost in blaze

Many workshop tools were said destroyed after firemen battled a barn fire over two hours Monday at the farm of Surry Gillum located 11 miles southeast of Snyder.

Fire officials said fumes from spilled gasoline apparently were ignited by sparks from a metal saw.

Reports indicate Gillum had a welding machine with gasoline in the 25-by-40-ft. building.

The barn was used primarily as a workshop and was filled with a wide range of tools, firemen said.

The call came in at 3:56 p.m. It was one of three fires prompting runs Monday.

This 'dog's tale' has happy ending

Dog catchers not only catch dogs, they also return them, as a Louisiana man recently found out about the City of Snyder's animal warden.

During a February quail hunting trip to Scurry County, Hubert Andries of Many, La., lost his bird dog "Dummy."

Local police were eventually contacted and, since that time, Andries was in frequent contact with animal warden Jackie Jenkins.

She had sighted the dog several times, but Dummy's natural hunting skills had also helped him evade her.

The pointer is a young dog, Jenkins noted, who would run and keep running swiftly every time she approached him.

She finally caught him last week taking a nap on the front porch of Morningstar Baptist Church. By sneaking up on him, she was able to throw a snare over his head.

Dummy was covered with ticks but was otherwise in good condition.

Andries was contacted and he and his wife drove down—their second trip since the pointer was lost—to recover their dog.

The Louisiana man noted Dummy is a valuable bird dog but that he was determined to get him back more because of his emotional attachment to the animal.

LOST AND FOUND — Hubert Andries of Many, La., and city animal warden Jackie Jenkins console Dummy, Andries' young pointer, following the animal's three-month escapade of repeatedly escaping from Jenkins. The dog had been lost on a hunting trip, and Andries returned from Louisiana to reclaim him with the city staffer's help. (SDN Staff Photo)

Placing of transfers to be on 'need' basis

Transfer students living outside the Snyder school district will be assigned to elementary campuses next year on a "where needed" basis, school officials noted Monday.

Superintendent Dalton Moseley asked for permission to assign these students to campuses with sufficient classroom space rather than to the campus in closest proximity to their place of residence.

The new rule will apply only to transfer students, it was noted, those who actually live outside the boundaries of Snyder ISD.

Moseley said he expects approximately 90 such students next year, a number he said was "unusually high" when compared to other Texas districts of comparable size.

The board discussed also the district policy of not charging tuition for such transfers. If cost cutting measures become more crucial in the future, it was noted, a switch to some form of tuition might be considered.

No other changes are expected for next school year other than in the area of assignment, however.

Moseley said the change would allow officials to avoid conflicts with the 22-1 student-teacher ratio required by the state at the elementary level.

As an example, he noted East Elementary, which he expects to be at absolute capacity next school year.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A balanced lifestyle is when we have as much fear of the known as we have of the unknown."

For the past 30 years or so, most small towns in Texas have maintained an active industrial foundation or similar group charged with the community's economic development and diversity.

If you look around the state, there are a few pockets of success, but typically the major industry 30 years ago is still the town's primary industry. And in many cases, the primary industry is on the decline.

Most communities went out seeking manufacturing concerns, and few new smokestacks were ever constructed. What communities need to seek are new job opportunities—and they can come in a variety of ways.

Some recent demographics concerning Lubbock underscored this idea. Although agriculture continues to be a major factor in the Lubbock economy, agriculture provides just one percent of the total wage base.

Education and health care are major economic centers for Lubbock. Texas Tech University is the largest employer in the city with 3,824. The public school district is close behind with 3,271 employees.

Reese Air Force Base has 3,213 employees while the three large hospitals—Methodist, St. Mary's and Lubbock General—have combined employment of 4,081.

There are other major employers: City of Lubbock, 1,880; Texas Instruments, 1,649; Furr's Inc., 1,169; Lubbock State School, 853; and the postal service, 696.

The point of all this is simple—jobs are the key to a viable community. Jobs can come from a variety of sources, and every citizen can be on the alert for a new employer prospect. Just call the chamber and leave your idea.

Board meets

The Western Texas College board of trustees conducted a "performance review" at the request of WTC President Dr. Harry Krenck Monday.

No action followed the executive session, which lasted some 2½ hours.

Last show

The final hometown performance of Snyder High School's state-winning one-act "The Corn is Green" is slated Tuesday beginning at 8 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium.

Admission price will be $2.

The play marks the 11th first place win out of 20 appearances at state for the drama department.

Library closing

The Scurry County Library will be closed this weekend through Monday in observance of the Memorial Day Weekend.

Dukakis defends spending priorities; Idaho has primary

By The Associated Press
Democratic presidential front-runner Michael Dukakis defended his spending priorities and took a mild poke at rival Jesse Jackson's five-year budget blueprint, saying there's "no way" specific spending can be figured so far in advance. And Idaho was holding its primary today, but it was a fairly low-key affair.

There were 18 Republican delegates up for grabs in Idaho, but Vice President George Bush's mathematical lock on the GOP nomination has taken the suspense out of the contest. There were no Democratic delegates at stake; most are to be chosen at a state convention next month.

Officials in Idaho said a low turnout was likely. Dukakis was tending to gubernatorial tasks in Massachusetts today, and traveling to Virginia for an evening appearance. Bush was in Washington, preparing to see President Reagan off later this week for next week's super-summit in Moscow.

For Jackson, however, business as usual meant campaigning in California, where primary day is two weeks from today.

Jackson released a budget plan on Monday that would raise taxes on the rich, freeze defense spending and boost support for social programs.

The five-year proposal would hike taxes on the wealthy by $244 billion and on corporations by $104 billion. It would cut the defense budget by $164 billion by freezing projected spending hikes, and would increase spending on social programs by $344 billion.

Jackson said his plan would cut the nation's deficit from a projected $134 billion in 1993 to $49 billion.

Dukakis did not take issue with the specifics of Jackson's spending plan, but said his own experience as governor had taught him that budgets cannot be mapped out in such detail years ahead of time.

"There's no way you can prepare a budget today for 1989," said Dukakis, who is struggling to cope with changing revenue projections at home in Massachusetts. The governor also brushed aside Jackson's criticism of his own economic proposals as "radically conservative."

"It does represent a fundamental change," Dukakis said of his spending policy, which has been expressed in much more general terms than Jackson's.

Dukakis' comments came during a quick visit Monday night to New Jersey, which holds its primary on June 7, the same day as California. New Mexico and Montana also hold primaries that day.

Jackson has been stumping hard in California, whose season-closing contest offers him a last chance to demonstrate his clout as the Democratic party prepares for its convention, beginning July 18 in Atlanta.

Dukakis expects the contests of June 7 will lock in the number of delegates he needs for the nomination.

The Massachusetts governor has been raking in delegates nearly four times as fast as Jackson in the last month. In the past 30 days, Dukakis has claimed 590 delegates to Jackson's 147.

All told, Dukakis has 1,554 delegates to Jackson's 983, according to the latest AP delegate count.

Jackson is tacitly acknowledging his chances of capturing the nomination are now practically nil. But with moves like the release of his budget plan, he is working to ensure that his ideas have an impact on the Democratic platform and that his voice is heard in Atlanta.

I want to continue to provide excellent academic programs that meet the first two-year requirements for advanced degrees in senior colleges as well as courses of study in vocational/technical fields that will train students to be able to pursue good jobs. Also, I want to continue activities which meet the individual interests of students.

Since my wife and I pay city taxes, county taxes, public school taxes, and college taxes on a home, two pieces of property, and a business, we are concerned taxpayers. Because of increasing costs in higher education and declining taxable base on minerals, this is the most serious problem at WTC. There is no clear-cut solution to the problem. The board, with the assistance of the administration, must study ways to moderate increases in spending and expenses, yet maintain high-quality programs. A conservative attitude must be maintained by the board, administration, and WTC employees if Western Texas College is going to survive during tough tax years.

I would like to improve existing programs and develop new programs to meet the needs of full-time students and part-time students in Scurry County and surrounding areas. Programs should be cut that are not beneficial to students and Scurry County.

Man Mends Violent Ways Too Late to Patch Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man in the middle of a divorce because of my own stupidity. I was guilty of cheating and beating.

When my beautiful, faithful wife found out that I was cheating on her, she confronted me, and I not only denied it, I beat her up! I got to be a habit with me. Every time we had an argument, I would hit her. I don't know how she took it for so long. This went on for four years. Then she left me for good.

I went to my girlfriend's house. We got into an argument and I hit her once, and she had me arrested. It was the best thing that ever happened to me. When I went to court, I was given a choice of facing the charges of assault and battery or taking a six-week course called "How to Control Your Anger." Well, I have been through the course, and let me tell you, Abby, if I had known there was a class like the one I took, I would have sought help sooner. It really works. I have learned how to control my anger, and I don't let myself get violent anymore.

It's too late for me because I lost the only person I ever really loved. Please let people know they can be helped — that beating women is not only a crime, it's usually learned behavior. (My father beat my mother.) If I could be cured, anyone can.

CURED IN CONNECTICUT
DEAR CURED: Good for you! I called Connecticut to find out more about this course. I was told it is offered to people who are charged with violence in domestic situations. There are comparable courses in other states. Any man or woman who settles an argument by hitting should call his or her county family or domestic relations counseling office and inquire. Don't wait until you assault someone; prevent it from happening by learning how to control your anger.

DEAR ABBY: I came to this wonderful country 20 years ago, and I have nothing but the highest praise and respect for the United States. I am proud to be an American and I've never suffered any kind of discrimination. However, I do have one minor gripe that I wish you would air to your readers on my behalf, and the thousands of other people in my situation.

I have made a tremendous effort to learn the language and acquaint myself with U.S. culture. But in reciprocity, very few Americans make an effort to pronounce my name correctly. Abby, my name is part of my heritage, but people tend to make up nicknames, or else they totally mispronounce my name.

MADAR CHOAT (NOT 'MIKE CHARLES')
DEAR MADAR CHOAT (NOT 'MIKE CHARLES'): Americans often give people instant nicknames. It is considered a gesture of affection and done only with people they like. There is no offense intended.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more version of that riddle that has everybody crazy?

I am 76, and have heard it this way:
A man was in prison. He had a male visitor. When the visitor left, his cellmate asked, "Who was that?" The prisoner replied, "Brothers and sisters I have none, but that man's father is my father's son." Who was the visitor?
EDITH P. DAVIS, WOODSTOWN, N.J.

DEAR EDITH: Same answer. The visitor was the prisoner's son.

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." ### Announce joint venture with Soviets

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — With only 50,000 personal computers in the Soviet Union, a deal for that country to buy thousands of U.S.-designed systems could signal a coming boom for other companies in California's Silicon Valley.

"The potential business could be enormous, not only with this particular agreement, but for other companies that have computer products needed by the Soviets," provided trade doors open, said Cliff Lindsey of Dataquest Inc., a market research firm in San Jose.

People escape jetliner

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — A Miami-bound jetliner taxied down a runway, crashed through a fence and exploded into flames, but all 22 people aboard evacuated the plane moments before it caught fire.

The accident occurred as the Laca Boeing 727-100 tried to take off Monday carrying eight crew members and 14 passengers, including seven Americans.

"Miraculously, there were no deaths," said Juan Manuel Fernandez, financial vice president of Laca, the Costa Rican airliner.

Ten people were treated for minor injuries and released from Alajuela Hospital, airline officials said.

Laca Flight 628 was scheduled to stop in Managua, Nicaragua, before continuing to Miami.

Officials said the plane left the terminal of the Juan Santamaria International Airport at 4:55 p.m. (6:55 p.m. EDT), taxied down the runway and crashed through a fence surrounding the airport after failing to take off.

The plane came to a stop about 600 yards beyond the fence on a grassy area, where it burst into flames. The aircraft broke into three sections.

"During takeoff, for unknown reasons, the plane left the runway, stopping finally outside the airport boundary," said the Laca statement.

"After the successful evacuation of all the passengers and crew members, the plane was consumed by flames," it said.

The wreckage was still blazing 1½ hours after the explosion and wreckage was spread over a wide area.

"Thanks to the skill of the pilots, they were able to evacuate the passengers, just a few minutes before the plane burst into flames," Fernandez said.

Co-pilot Armando Rojas told reporters that the passengers remained calm.

"With nerves of steel we were able to evacuate all the passengers," Rojas said. "A few minutes later, maybe five minutes, the plane burst into flames."

In addition to the Americans, the passengers included a West German, two Cubans living in Miami, two Nicaraguans and two Costa Ricans, the airline said. The crew was Costa Rican.

Thai-born woman is crowned

LINKOU, Taiwan (AP) — A 19-year-old psychology student who has born in Thailand but lives in southern California captured the 1988 Miss Universe crown today in a pageant dominated by Asian women.

Pornpit Nakhirunkanok, the reigning Miss Thailand, wiped away tears of joy and joined her hands in a Thai sign of thanks after she was named to succeed 1987 Miss Universe Cecilia Bolocco of Chile.

Miss Nakhirunkanok, a black-haired woman from Bangkok, will receive more than $250,000 in cash and prizes, including a Maserati convertible and a mink coat.

Three of the other four finalists were from Asia, including first runner-up Yunjung Chang of South Korea. Amanda Olivares of Mexico, Mizuho Sakaguchi of Japan and Pauline Yeung of Hong Kong were finalists in a field that began with 66 contestants.

Miss USA, Courtney Gibbs of Fort Worth, Texas, was one of 10 semi-finalists.

Taiwan authorities lifted a 23-year-old ban on beauty contests in October to bring the 37th annual pageant to this island.

Figuring out the right order

Declarer won the club lead in dummy and immediately played a heart to his 10. West took the jack and played a heart back. Declarer won East's king with his ace. The queen was now a winner, but what about the lowly three-spot? Theoretically it could be ruffed with one of dummy's clubs, but if declarer tried to cash his queen, East would ruff.

"Why didn't you bid three no-trump?" North remonstrated. That of course would have worked, since the normal low diamond lead from West makes dummy's jack a stopper. But the highly unlikely lead of the diamond king would pin South's queen, and now the suit would run when West continued with a second diamond. More power to the defenders, if they could come up with that sequence of diamond plays.

But South was rethinking his play. "Even though three no-trump might make, I should make this contract." Perhaps you alert readers also saw the trap that declarer set for himself. "All I have to do," continued South, "is finesse my queen of hearts when I first lead hearts. Then I can play the ace, give up a heart loser to West, and be able to safely ruff the fourth heart with a club in dummy." South was right, and although his realization came after the fact, he is not likely to make this mistake again.

District 2-4A baseball...

Tiger six receive honors

Six members of the Snyder High School baseball team received post-season honors this week.

Van Echols, selected Most Valuable Player for the local squad, was one of two Tigers named to the 2-4A All-District First Team. The other was junior pitcher Lee Fletcher.

Also recognized were Randy Morris, a second team selection, and David Martinez, Wayne

Ware and Willie Garcia - who received honorable mention.

Echols, a senior second baseman, copped post-season honors for the second straight season. He led Snyder in hitting with a .451 season batting average. He hit .435 in district play as Snyder finished up with records of 13-12-1 and 7-7.

Fletcher, who could be among the top returning pitchers in the district next season, posted a 7-8-1 record with a 2.61 ERA. He was 4-6-1 in district play.

Morris, just a sophomore this past season, registered a .354 bat and led Snyder in home runs with three. The outfielder hit .333 in district play.

Martinez, a force at first base for the Tigers the past two years, hit just .292 in regular season action, but warmed to .344 in district competition after a slow start. He is a senior.

Ware, also a senior, was used as a designated hitter and outfielder. Ware hit .303 for the season and .364 in district play.

Garcia, a sophomore outfielder, was one of Snyder's steadiest hitters, rapping .340 for the season and .355 in district play. He cracked two home runs for the Tigers.

LA Lakers whip Mavericks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Byron Scott figures now that the Dallas Mavericks have what they wanted, it may be more than they bargained for.

"They've always said they wanted to play us in a series like this," the Los Angeles Lakers guard said. "They wanted us, they've got us."

Playoff here

A regional semifinal baseball game between Everman and Hereford will begin at 8 p.m. here today.

The 4A opponents will play at Moffett Field in Towle Park.

Dorsett could become Bronco

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett says he could be traded to the Denver Broncos as soon as this week, when the Broncos make a new proposal on his hefty contract.

A new Denver contract proposal - which would retire Dorsett's $6 million annuity - is expected in the next few days, Dorsett said Monday.

"I think we may know something, one way or another, very soon," Dorsett told The Dallas Morning News. "I'm hopeful that we're close to working something out."

The latest plan put forward by Dorsett's agent, Witt Stewart, requires Denver to purchase an insurance policy that, when cashed in, would fund Dorsett's remaining annuity payments, the newspaper said.

"We're trying to work out the deal as far as the financial situation is concerned," said Denver head coach Dan Reeves.

Stewart could not be reached for comment Tuesday and declined to speak Monday, saying he was reluctant to jeopardize negotiations.

"Now let's see what they can do with us."

In Monday night's opening game of the NBA Western Conference finals, the Mavericks couldn't do much with the Lakers.

Los Angeles, apparently returning to business as usual after surviving a surprisingly demanding second-round series against the Utah Jazz, rolled to a 113-98 victory.

"I wanted to purge Utah out of them so we didn't work out (Sunday)," Lakers coach Pat Riley said, referring to the seven-game series with the Jazz that Los Angeles finally wrapped up with a 109-98 victory Saturday.

"We are familiar with Dallas. I like the way we played defense - we were active and coordinated."

Dallas Coach John MacLeod agreed, saying, "The difference was the LA defense. Los Angeles double-teamed key people. We had good defense in the first half but not in the second half."

James Worthy scored 28 points and Scott had 23 as the defending NBA champion Lakers rudely welcomed the Mavericks to their first conference finals ever.

Dallas got 18 points and 20 rebounds from Roy Tarpley, and 18 points apiece from Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman.

The Lakers got just a one-day break between the end of the series."

Experts: school programs needed

AUSTIN (AP) — Teachers should be trained in suicide prevention because they are often the first adults to notice a teen-ager is troubled, the president of the Texas State Teachers Association says.

"The members of the education profession are in a unique position to make a significant contribution," TSTA head Charles Beard told the House Select Committee on Teenage Suicide Monday.

"School personnel very likely may be the first people to notice a change in behavior, the signs of stress that can lead to suicide attempts in young people," he said.

Suicide is a leading cause of death among people aged 15-24, second only to accidents, Beard noted.

"The statistics are horrible," he said. "If you have 10 children in your neighborhood, the odds are at least one of them is going to attempt suicide before they're 19 years old."

The education reforms approved in 1984 — including a ban on extracurricular activities for failing students — are among the causes of stress for students, Beard added.

While not recommending lower standards, he noted that "we have consistently raised academic standards, and that's a stress problem. We have to look at the tendency of teen-agers to look at self-destructive behavior when they're overwhelmed by stress or depression or rage."

Jim Crouch, executive director of the Texas PTA, also said one of his group's legislative recommendations is for suicide prevention training for school employees.

The state's teen suicide rate appears to be increasing, said Betty Phillips, supervisor of psychological services for the Austin school district and chairwoman of the district's suicide intervention plan.

Among the reasons for the state increase appear to be economic hardship that leads to family problems and a lack of counseling and hospital resources, she said.

There were five teen suicides in the Austin area this school year, said Ms. Phillips. She said students may see suicide as a more acceptable avenue than it was in the past.

"Our society used to have a taboo against suicide that was very strong. It has been gradually eroded by movies, TV," she said. "It's almost the thing to do these days with adolescents, to talk about suicide. They really do see it as a way to solve their problems."

"That's what we try to deal with, with them — suicide is not a good way to solve problems. It's foolish. It's fatal."

The Plano school district got attention when seven teen-agers killed themselves in the 1983-84 school year, noted Sandra Aikins, district counseling coordinator.

"That is a terrible way to become aware of the problem, but it did create a great awareness in our community," said Ms. Aikins. "Schools and communities must work very closely together."

"Nothing will totally prevent teen-age suicides. We have had three this year, but this is fewer than many other communities."

The Plano program includes school counselors, efforts to help teachers and students be aware of and deal with suicide risks.

Delvalle opposes negotiating tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is now facing protests from exiled Panamanian President Eric Arturo Delvalle for its handling of negotiations to get Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega to resign.

At the same time, the administration is displaying weariness with the prolonged negotiating process and said it hopes an agreement can be reached before President Reagan leaves Wednesday for the Moscow summit.

In a Moscow issued Monday from hiding, Delvalle and his allies said the negotiations with Noriega, as reported in the media, "would mortgage the future of Panama for a long time to come."

Washington (AP) — The pact banning medium- and shorter-range nuclear missiles was signed by Gorbachev and Reagan on Dec. 8 and does not become legally binding until it is ratified.

The Soviets have repeatedly indicated that they are in no hurry to ratify the treaty before the U.S. Senate does.

Viktor P. Karpov, head of the Foreign Ministry's arms control and disarmament desk, told Western reporters Monday that his country should not act until approval by the Senate is certain.

"We should be sure that we are not alone," Karpov said.

At least 67 of the 100 U.S. senators must ratify the treaty before it becomes binding on the United States, and a small band of opponents have shown no signs of allowing the pact to be put to a vote before the Moscow summit.

Ratification by the Presidium, a body of 30-odd members headed by Andrei A. Gromyko, the titular Soviet head of state, would formally commit the Soviet Union to the treaty.

Never appeared in question.

Noriega, the de facto Panamanian ruler who is under drug-smuggling indictments in the United States, has successfully resisted prolonged U.S. pressure to force him out.

There is sharp division within the administration over what kind of deal Noriega should be offered, and particularly whether the government should go ahead with an offer to drop the drug charges.

Reagan said nothing had been settled and that there was not a timetable for concluding a deal. But Under Secretary of State Michael Armacost said it would be desirable to reach a settlement before Reagan's departure for Finland on Wednesday. He is due in Moscow on Sunday.

Reagan, asked whether he was prepared to drop the drug charges against the Panamanian general, said, "Nothing's been settled. It's still in the works."

Kozak, the deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, spent the weekend in Washington after nearly a month of negotiations in Panama. Kozak briefed Reagan and other high-level officials and returned to Panama Monday morning.

Soviet parliament opens its session

MOSCOW (AP) — The 1,500 deputies of the Supreme Soviet parliament opened their spring session today with an agenda that focuses on domestic issues and does not include a vote on ratifying the superpower missile treaty.

Such a vote is not required by Soviet law, but could have been used to ratify the treaty before the Moscow superpower summit between Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev and President Reagan, which begins Sunday.

Gorbachev and the rest of the Kremlin leadership filed into an ornate cream-colored hall of the Grand Kremlin Palace shortly before 10 a.m. for the beginning of today's legislative session.

The Supreme Soviet, a rubber-stamp body that gives force of law to decisions already taken by the Communist Party leadership, then adopted an agenda that focuses solely on domestic concerns.

On Monday, the foreign affairs committees of both houses of the bicameral Soviet parliament endorsed the superpower intermediate-range nuclear missile treaty and called on the Presidium, the nation's highest executive body, to ratify it.

2-car collision here sends 3 to hospital

Two Snyder women and a 7-year-old girl were injured in a two-car collision at 3:28 p.m. Monday at College Ave. and 30th St.

Police said a 1973 Oldsmobile two-door driven by Diana Luna Sosa of 2405 30th was eastbound on 30th and a 1986 Mercury two-door driven by Maria Lopez Flores of 416 34th St. was southbound on College when the collision took place.

Both drivers and a passenger in the Flores car, 7-year-old Amanda Flores, were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder EMS Ambulance Service.

The Flores were treated and released, and Sosa was held for 23-hour observation. A hospital spokesman said none of three had any major injuries.

Both cars had to be towed from the intersection, which was littered with broken glass, metal shards and motor oil.

Thieves remove items from cemetery storage

The sheriff's office is investigating the burglary of a large amount of tools and supplies, including two expensive gasoline-powered weed-cutters, from a shed at Hillside Monument Co. off the Colorado City Hwy.

A deputy said cemetery keeper W.C. Graves reported the break-in Monday morning and that it apparently took place either Saturday or Sunday night.

Hillside Monument Co. adjoins Hillside Memorial Gardens cemetery.

The deputy said that in addition to the weed-cutting machines, two cases of Havoline motor oil, an electric drill, an impact wrench and a sledgehammer were stolen and 20 gallons of gasoline were siphoned from a truck that is used in various types of graveyard work.

Hospital Notes

ADMISSIONS: Jada Allen, Irann.
DISMISSALS: Olton Smith, Tomas Vasquez and baby.

Births

James and Jada Allen are the parents of a baby boy weighing seven pounds six and one-half ounces born at 8:25 a.m. Monday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

School views budget cuts

Board was told also Monday that an additional $20,000 in savings can be expected since the state has indicated it will fund additional bus routes required because of half-day classes during both the morning and afternoon.

Other reductions noted Monday include administrative-level cuts of some $25,000 from the high school and $12,000 from the junior high budgets submitted by principals.

Administrators are recommending also a $47,000 reduction in two planned roof projects in the maintenance budget for next year—which was to involve a complete new roof at East Elementary and a roof repair at the central administration building.

The East roof, which was said to involve two leaks, will be patched rather than replaced. Patching will take place at the ad building also, cutting these two combined projects from an expected expense of $72,000 to a $25,000 amount.

Another line item cut related to maintenance will see a $8,500 tractor cut from the budget and two fulltime posts in this department which have come vacant not replaced.

The equipment and job posts come to an estimated savings of $42,500.

During the workshop, trustees noted they would strive to keep the school tax rate in the $1 per $100 value range. The current rate is 93 cents, but it has been noted that the drop in tax value for the district would require a tax rate of $1.13 just to raise the same amount of taxes as needed last year.

Fires prompt runs Monday

A 12:55 p.m. Monday grass fire on property owned by Jimmy Sterling 21 miles southwest of Snyder was started by an electric line transformer that had apparently been hit by lightning over the weekend.

Fire Terry McDowell said the transformer took that long to spark out and start dropping sparks to the ground. Firefighters were occupied there for two hours.

A parked trailer loaded with trash and owned by Todd Bollinger and somehow caught fire and burned for about an hour beginning at 1:40 p.m. Monday at the East Hwy. traffic circle.

The fire chief said the cause of that fire was still being investigated.

Oath serves as doctors' guide

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is the name of the oath doctors take today and what does it consist of?

DEAR READER: The Hippocratic Oath is traditionally taken by young doctors when they receive their M.D. degrees. It serves as an ethical guide to new healers and consists of many prohibitions and guidelines by which the doctors agree to abide. These include to honor patients, to teach the art of medicine without fee, to do no harm to patients, to give no deadly drug or advice about suicide, to give no abortion, to avoid seduction of patients and to guarantee confidentiality.

This oath dates back to about 400 B.C. and much of its wording is antiquated. However, the principal aspects are firm: to do good, to respect the rights of patients and to be honorable. Some doctors believe that the oath is outdated and that certain parts of it have been rendered inoperable by modern technology and changing social customs. Other doctors believe that the oath remains valid after centuries and that more physicians (and surgeons) ought to take it seriously.

Unfortunately, most of today's doctors take from the oath what is convenient and leave the rest. For example, medical-school teachers are paid for their services; doctors do perform abortions, hasten death in some terminally ill patients and become romantically involved with patients. Perhaps the vicissitudes of modern medical practice have made the Hippocratic Oath more of an ethical standard than a covenant.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm in my 70s. Right after meals I get nauseated, have diarrhea, feel weak and my legs won't hold me up. What causes this?

DEAR READER: Your symptoms could have many causes, most of them due to malfunction of the intestinal tract. Peptic ulcer, hiatal hernia, irritable bowel, pancreatic deficiency and poor bowel circulation are common conditions that frequently produce maldigestion. See your doctor for an exam, advice and treatment. You may require consultation with a gastroenterologist if the cause of your symptoms remains elusive.

To give you more general information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on "Irritable Bowel." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Gun ban may trigger battle

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland has become the first state to ban the sale of inexpensive handguns, including "Saturday Night Specials," but voters probably will have the final say on whether the law actually goes into effect.

With 200 police officers from five states present, Gov. William Donald Schaefer on Monday signed the law forbidding manufacture and sale of the weapons.

"This is the first time a legislature has stood up and said, 'These guns are wrong,'" said Schaefer.

Well before the ceremony, opponents were gathering signatures to hold a referendum on the law in November's general election.

"I'm confident that we are going to have the numbers that we need for the ballot," said Fred Griisser, spokesman for the Maryland Committee Against the Gun Ban. The committee must have the signatures of 33,044 registered voters by June 30 to put the issue on the ballot.

Griisser was less confident about the outcome of a referendum, saying gun groups face "an uphill battle" in explaining the law's "true nature" to voters.

He said the statute bans all handguns, not just Saturday Night Specials, and complained it does not require that any guns be approved for sale by a review board established by the law.

Gun control supporters said Maryland's law and the expected referendum are crucial to efforts to ban Saturday Night Specials in other states.

"It's important that we win. It's critical, and I'm sure we will win," said Sarah Brady, who attended the signing ceremony with her husband, White House press secretary James Brady.

"I'd like to see other states like dominoes 'fall into line,'" said Brady, who was wounded by a Saturday Night Special in John Hinckley's 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan. Brady has been in a wheelchair ever since.

Mrs. Brady accused the law's opponents of spreading false information that the bill would ban all handguns, and said it is aimed only at Saturday Night Specials.

Lawsuit: government kept classified file on student

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The FBI kept a top-secret file on a youngster who wrote 169 countries requesting information for a homemade encyclopedia and received at least 50 pieces of mail that had been tampered with, a federal lawsuit says.

Todd Patterson, now 17, said he wants to see his complete FBI file, and wants it expunged.

His lawsuit, filed Monday, also seeks a stop to mail tampering and surveillance, and unspecified damages for violation of his privacy.

"I feel that with a black spot on my record, it works against me getting a job," he says. "They invaded my privacy, but I can understand why if there's a potential threat."

FBI spokesman James Knights in Newark said he cannot comment on the suit, "same as in any investigation. We're not going to confirm or deny."

Most of the tampered mail came from the Soviet Union, according to the suit. In 1984, a year after he began the encyclopedia project as a sixth-grader, an FBI agent visited his North Haledon home and later questioned him on the telephone, the suit said.

The suit also charges that Patterson's First Amendment rights were violated on the grounds that he was being penalized for pursuing his education and expressing himself.

Eric Neisser, of the American Civil Liberties Union in New Jersey, says the case is the nation's first seeking the right to wipe out FBI files on First Amendment grounds.

A page from Patterson's FBI file, obtained under the federal Freedom of Information Act and provided by his lawyer, reads: "This communication is classified 'Secret' in its entirety."

It continues: "TODD is in the seventh grade at the Most Blessed Sacrament School in Franklin Lakes.

"Newark indices as well as local criminal checks negative on subject."

"In view of the above, Newark contemplates no further investigation in this matter."

The papers also describe Patterson's encyclopedia project, which the youth said is unfinished.

The Postal Service told him it had no explanation for the damaged mail, which included torn booklets, empty envelopes, retaped letters and even an opened package containing a letter from Sweden addressed to someone in Wayne whom the youth didn't know.

The suit says that when Patterson's father, Edgar, first made a Freedom of Information request in October, he was refused. After an appeal, the FBI released six pages, much of them blacked out and half duplicated.

"He doesn't want them to have a file in the FBI in their subservice files," said ACLU attorney Frank Askin, who is representing Patterson.

"It's not to deface the FBI," Patterson said of the suit. Patterson said he hopes to join the U.S. foreign service some day and his main concern is the effect of the file on that goal.

Patterson also said he is considering enrolling at the State University of New York at Plattsburgh, where he would need a security clearance for their government program internship with the Canadian government.

Reagan, Gorbachev inch forward on many issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Business as usual" may be the motto of the Moscow summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, a meeting expected to produce no major agreements but many smiles.

The two leaders will be smiling not just for the television cameras, but in recognition that they are inching forward in serious negotiations on many issues, in contrast to the trans-Atlantic shouting matches that characterized the early years of the Reagan administration.

Reagan's visit to Moscow, the first by an American president in 14 years, is not so much a victory for the policies of either power as a "triumph of logic," as both sides realize they cannot afford to continue the current pace of military competition, said John Steinbruner of the Brookings Institution.

One of Gorbachev's advisers, Georgi Arbatov, agreed, telling a Washington news conference May 5, "We have synchronized phases of our development."

Reagan and Gorbachev have met three times, most recently in Washington last December when they signed a treaty to eliminate medium-range nuclear weapons.

That treaty is being debated in the Senate, and it still is not clear whether it will be ratified before the May 29-June 2 summit in Moscow.

If Reagan and Gorbachev can part company in Moscow without arguing about the Strategic Defense Initiative, better known as Star Wars, or other contentious issues, it will mark something of a victory for what Helmut Sonnenfeldt calls Gorbachev's "high wire acts in international diplomacy."

One of those high wire acts was the argument over SDI that ended the second Reagan-Gorbachev summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, in October 1986.

Gorbachev is not looking for an argument at the Moscow summit, says Spurgeon M. Keeny Jr., president of the liberal Arms Control Association.

Among the surprises that Gorbachev might have up his sleeve, say administration officials, is an announcement of a unilateral withdrawal of up to 100,000 troops from Eastern Europe.

It is more likely, according to government and academic experts, that the two leaders will use the Moscow summit to announce some progress on the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks to cut long-range nuclear arsenals by 30 percent to 50 percent. And they are likely to hail the withdrawal of the first Red Army soldiers from Afghanistan, praise the beginning of the first ever U.S.-Soviet joint business ventures, and perhaps sign protocols on fishing and culture.

All those together do not add up to the long hoped for treaty to slash nuclear arsenals.

But they are a whole lot better than the superpower growling that was going on during Reagan's first years, when 115,000 Red Army troops were newly arrived in Afghanistan, the Soviet army was threatening to invade Poland, and Reagan was accusing the Soviets of violating every arms deal they had signed.

Graduation Night

For any parent, it is a terrible thing to contemplate and an awful, impossible thing to live with—the tragedies that seem, inevitably, to accompany the excitement and pride of high school graduation week.

Parents try their best to explain the facts of life, and booze, to kids. Forbidding alcoholic beverages, preaching temperance, warning of the consequences of drinking and driving—all of it works, a little, but none of it can completely overcome the irresistible social pressures, the coercive peers, the temptations unleashed on any high school student, especially this time of year.

Some kids listen, some of them don't; but every parent knows that it only takes one time, one party, one concession to the crowd and a drunken trip behind the wheel to snuff out a life that was given so much love and held so much promise.

The next month is a period of high anxiety for thousands of parents who have invested time and money and personal sacrifice in the life of a child who is becoming an adult. They know about the beer parties, the camps, the rented motel rooms and apartments that will be crammed with drunken kids, their kids, with car keys in their pockets.

This year, parents and school administrators in a number of Texas communities who are tired of feeling powerless and able to do nothing more than pray and watch the clock on graduation night are determined to do something different. They decided to offer their child, and every child, an alternative to alcohol and other drugs. They are committing themselves to a program that will show kids they don't need booze to have a good time. Maybe they'll save a life in the bargain.

You are invited to attend a community meeting, 6-23-88, 7:30 p.m. at the Texas Electric Reddy Room, to formulate a future community plan of action, on Zero Tolerance for Adolescence Chemical Use.

This year, 15,000 cocaine users are in for a real rush.

The numbers speak for themselves. In 1985, 13,501 cocaine users in the U.S. were rushed to hospital emergency rooms for emergency treatment. Of those, 660 died.

That was two years ago. This year thousands more people, many trying cocaine for the first time, will get a similar rush — down a busy street or a narrow hospital corridor. They'll discover the truth about cocaine. Cocaine is not safe. Cocaine is not recreational. In any form, cocaine is a serious health risk with deadly side effects. And it's a drug more addictive than heroin.

So the next time you find yourself bending over a line or lifting a spoonful of cocaine, remember, you may be in for more than just a high — you may be in for a real rush.
