Hail, winds plague Texas Hill Country

Baseball-sized hail reported in Abilene

By The Associated Press

Intense thunderstorms that ad pounded Abilene with baseball-sized hail hammered their way into the Texas Hill Country, where the threat of possible tornadoes lingered today, authorities said.

The storms caused power outages Thursday night in San Antonio, where winds gusted to more than 50 mph, and hail and blinding rain pummeled the city early this morning.

nadoes were reported in several locations, but there were no reports of damage or injuries from the storms, authorities said. The thunderstorms had earlier shattered windows and uprooted trees in Abilene, and destroyed an abandoned train station.

High winds knocked down power lines and trees in Kerrville late Thursday, and a ternado was reported seven miles northwest of town.

"We've got some trees down but no major damage or in-juries," Kerrville DPS communications supervisor Sam Saxon said.

The severe weather earlier destroyed an abandoned roundhouse train station in Lometa,

An eyewitness spotted a funnel cloud in downtown Lometa at about 6 p.m., the NWS said.

However, officials and residents in the area said the tornado touchdown was not confirmed.

"Apparently we had one (a fun-nel cloud) at least that was in the air," said Elaine Ray, of Lometa.

Drowning victim recovered

Officers recovered the body of 38-year-old Hilario "Lalo" Silva from Lake J.B. Thomas Friday morning after Scurry County deputies, searching the lake shore in an airplane, saw it floating about 400 yards from the north shore.

Silva, whose boat capsized on Monday, Memorial Day, officially becomes the lake's 28th drowning victim.

The deputies Friday morning first saw something that they were not sure was the body, then after a closer inspection reported at 7:05 a.m. that the four-day search was over.

Game Warden Mel Reed of Snyder was on the ground at the lake and went to the location in his boat. He recovered the body and laid it on the north shore line, vest of Sandy Beach and just south of the old Boys Club.

Study says donated livers, hearts wasted of all donated hearts and livers obtained by a New York hospital are going to waste rather than helping to save lives, a study shows, alarming experts who say the pattern could be widespread.

'We should try in every way that we can to seek a remedy" to the inefficiency and inadequate resources causing the problem, said Dr. Carl Andrus, a transplant surgeon at the University of Rochester Medical Center.

The research by Andrus and others at the medical center was to be presented today at the American Society of Transplant Surgeons' annual meeting.

In their paper, the researchers said that most families, when approached properly, agree to donate a loved one's organs. So it's especially painful when organs that could be put to good use are buried instead.

About 475 people are awaiting liver transplants in the United States, while nearly 900 others await new hearts, according to the United Network for Organ Sharing.

"There is a problem from time to time with placing good hearts and livers," acknowledged Dr. John McDonald, president of the transplant surgeons' society and CHICAGO (AP) - Nearly half January 1985 to October 1987, when a new scoring system for allocating transplant organs became mandatory for members of the organ network.

> In nearly three years, 74 of the 203 brain-dead patients referred to the program proved medically suitable, Richard Kruk, an organ procurement coordinator at the center, said Thursday.

Relatives of the 74, were approached about the possibility of organ donation, leading to consent for the donation of 68 kidneys, 55 livers and 44 hearts.

Sixty-three kidneys were found to be suitable fo a transplant, as were 40 livers and 42 hearts, Kruk said.

All 63 kidneys were transplanted, but just 20 livers and 23 hearts were used, the study found.

Kruk said he and others in the organ procurement program made 411 phone calls to try to place the 39 unused hearts and livers, which were never removed from donors' bodies.

Many calls were unsuccessful because of inaccurate listings of potential recipients in national computer systems, including the one now run by the transplant network. Some information was outdated.

AIDS groups support Watkins ideas

It's so dry in the Rio Grande Valley that farmers are burning spines off cactuses so their cattle have something to eat, de la Garza said. The ranchlands of South Texas, where rainfall is 4 inches below normal for this time of year, are on the "borderline of major disaster."

"We're just at the danger point. If there is no rain in the next two weeks, that's the beginning of bad. If there is none in the next month, then we are in big trouble," he said.

The drought situation was apparent in Texas as early as April, yet the USDA's first offer of help did not come through until the end of May, he said.

have to make sure there's a legitimate drought there. It was early in May and it could rain the next week and change the whole thing. It's a balancing thing,"

Lyons said Additionally, the "såd reality" is that there "really isn't a good disaster program for the annual producer of crops" although help is available for livestock owners.

Lyons said South Texas and a portion of the Dakotas and western Minnesota are the two driest regions in the nation.

In response to those conditions, the USDA announced last Friday it would open its emergency feed program in selected Texas counties. As of Thursday, the requests of 38 counties had been granted and four were being considered, the committee staffer said.

The program allows the USDA to bear half the cost of feed for producers who are short because of drought.

Wilkerson paces Rangers past Sox

Wilkerson is a reserve infielder but if he keeps hitting, it may be tough to sit him on the bench.

Wilkerson led Texas' 14-hit attack with four hits, including three doubles, Thursday to lead the Rangers to a 10-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"I wasn't expecting to play this much but I'm happy I am," he said. "I want to be in there."

One reason Wilkerson is in there is his current hitting pace. He has 19 hits in his last 42 at bats, raising his average to .382. Meanwhile, 'Texas' other second baseman, Jerry Browne, is hitting .182 in his last 31 games.

"You never know in this game," Wilkerson said. "You have to be ready and take advantage of it. The way I'm hitting, I

Against the White Sox, Geno Petralli had three hits including a homer, Pete Incaviglia also had three hits and knuckleballer Charlie Hough, 5-6, pitched his third complete game after going 1-3 in May

"I'm glad May is over," Hough said. "I had a pretty good knuckleball tonight. We swung the bats well and caught a couple of breaks. The four runs in the fifth inning gave me a big lift.

PARIS (AP) - Third-seeded Mats Wilander, mixing elegant lobs with precise passing shots, outlasted Andre Agassi of Las Vegas, Nev., 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, 5-7, 6-0 today in the French Open semifinals.

Wilander, the only survivor from the top 10 seeds after a week of startling upsets, has won the championship here twice and will be playing in the final for the fifth time in seven years.

He will play Sunday against the winner of the day's second men's semifinal, matching Henri Leconte of France against Sweden's Jonas B. Svensson, the conquerer of top-seeded Ivan Lendl.

Lendl, the two-time defending champion, lost to the unseeded Svensson 7-6, 7-5, 6-2 in a quarterfinal match on Thursday. That ended his streak of Grand Slam semifinal appearances dating through the 1985 U.S. Open.

Natalia Zvereva, 17, the first Soviet female to reach a Grand Slam final since Olga Morozova lost to Chris Evert at Wimbledon and Paris in 1974, beat unseeded Nicole Provis of Australia 6-3, 6-7, 7-5 on Thursday in a match made more difficult for the 13th seed by stomach cramps that had her bent over, wincing in pain.

Explosives linked to Dapper Bandit

DALLAS (AP) — Police raided a storage warehouse rented to "Dapper Bandit" suspect Mark Reeves and recovered about 250 pounds of explosives, authorities said.

The explosives are similar to those used to make a pipe bomb that was found March 16 in the First RepublicBank building on Greenville Avenue, police said Thursday.

we can't tell for sure that it's the exact same stuff," bomb squad Cpl. Richard Dunn said. "But I personally am pretty sure that it's the same."

Police found about 250 pounds of low-grade commercial explosives, including 48 blasting agent packages, 15 boosters, 16 cherry bombs, three sacks of ammonia nitrate and 750 feet of detonator cord Wednesday night on Miller Road.

Investigators, who were led to the explosives by Reeves' attorney, said they suspect Reeves is connected to the RepublicBank incident.

"Apparently, he decided to change his (method of operation) to extortion," Deputy Chief Richard Schifelbein said. "But that didn't work out, so he went back to his old M.O. and zap, he got caught."

Reeves, 35, shot himself May 4 when officers cornered him in traffic after the robbery of a Bright Banc last month. He was listed in serious condition Thursday at Humana Hospital Medical City Dallas.

On March 16, a janitor discovered an electronically controlled pipe bomb in a stairwell at the bank. The device was removed by the police bomb squad without incident. Several days later, a threat was received that another bomb had been planted, but police found no bomb, Schifelbein said.

The explosives were taken to a police pistol range for storage and will be analyzed by the FBI, a spokesman said.

Reeves' court-appointed attorney, Brad Lollar, told police about the explosives after communicating with Reeves on Wednesday, and officers went to the warehouse about 8 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Lollar declined to comment, except to say "there is a code of professional ethics that prescribes what to do in certain situations. It was just an unusual situation, and I really can't comment on what happened last night."

Bush differs from Reagan

By The Associated Press

Vice President George Bush inched away from President Reagan on the issue of human rights in the Soviet Union, but insisted that the latest bit of distance between himself and his boss doesn't signal a "drastic change" in his game plan. Democrat Michael Dukakis, meanwhile, left the campaign trail to be with his wife Kitty, who was undergoing spinal surgery today.

Bush, returning to Washington today after a week of strategy talks at his summer home, says he's convinced his campaign is "on the right track" despite a rash of recent surveys suggesting he trails Dukakis, the Democratic front-runner.

"I'm not going to be stampeded by polls that don't mean anything," the vice president told reporters on Thursday, as he was preparing to leave his oceanside retreat at Kennebunkport, Maine.

Meanwhile, a poll in California gave Dukakis a substantial lead over his remaining rival, Jesse Jackson, in Tuesday's primary. But it suggested Jackson, who has campaigned heavily in the state, was gaining ground.

Dukakis cut short a California campaign swing on Thursday after his wife's doctors decided to perform "urgent" surgery on herniated discs pressing dangerously on Mrs. Dukakis' spinal cord.

Dukakis, who was spending the night at the hospital, visited his wife late Thursday night and told reporters afterward: "She's in good spirits, looks good and is anxious to get this over with."

Jackson was campaigning today in New Mexico and Montana, whose primaries on Tuesday have been largely overshadowed by big same-day contests in New Jersey and California. The four races, with a total of 466 delegates at stake, close out the Democratic primary season, and offer Dukakis a chance to clinch the nomiantion.

Reagan says Soviet Union must be viewed cautiously

Reagan, reporting on summit talks in Moscow, said today that Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is "a serious man seeking serious reform," but that the Soviet Union still should be viewed with caution.

"Let us embrace honest change when it occurs; but let us also be wary. Let us stay strong," Reagan said in the address.

The president also said the West must continue to speak out about human rights conditions in the Soviet Union. "In matter of state, unless the truth be spoken, it ceases to exist," he said.

Winding up a 10-day journey that included five days in the Soviet capital, Reagan gave his summit assessment in a speech before the Royal Institute of International Affairs at Guildhall, a center of civic government for more than 1,000 years.

The speech was a rhetorical highlight of the trip, offering en-couragement for Gorbachev's campaigns of "Perestroika" and "glasnost," reforms, while ex-pressing cautious hope for "a new era in history."

At the Guildhall, Reagan pass-ed along a corridor lined with the Lord Mayor Sir Greville Spratt's personal guard of tikmen and muscateers. He was preceded by ceremonial sword and mace bearers into the wood-paneled Great Hall where he delivered the speech.

After a farewell to to U.S. Embassy families here, Reagan and his wife Nancy left London aboard Air Force One, bound for Washington and a welcoming ceremony that awaited them at Andrews Air Force Base.

Reagan's four days of talks with Gorbachev did not produce any breakthrough on a strategic arms reduction treaty, though both sides said some key differences had been narrowed. Nevertheless, the two leaders displayed a warm personal relationship.

Reagan said the Soviet Union is dominated now by talk of democratic reform, in the arms negotations. economy, in political institutions, and in religious, social and ar- tions do not distrust each other tistic life - "in short, giving intheir own affairs, to control their own destinies.

LONDON (AF) - President cause for shaking head in each other," Reagan said. "So Reagan, reporting on summit wonder," Reagan said, express- equally important items on the ing amazement about an American president and a Soviet leader walking together in Red Square, as he and Gorbachev did, talking about "a growing personal friendship and meeting. He said that episode was "a special moment in a week of special moments."

"My personal impression of Mr. Gorbachev is that he is a serious man seeking serious reform," Reagan said. "I pray that the hand of the Lord will be on the Soviet people.'

He said the strategy of the West for dealing with the Soviets was "bearing fruit.

'Quite possibly, we are beginn-ing to take down the barriers of the post-war era, quite possibly we are entering a new era in history, a time of lasting change in the Soviet Union," he said. "We will have to see," the president said. "But if so, it is because of the steadfastness of the allies - the democracies for more than 40 years, and especially in this decade."

Reagan suggested he would continue to speak out against human rights abuses in the Soviet Union and elsewhere.

"We have learned the first objective of the adversaries of freedom is to make free nations question their own faith in freedom, to make us think that adhering to our principles and speaking out against human rights abuses or foreign aggression is somehow an act of belligerence

"In matters of state," he said, "unless the truth be spoken, it ceases to exist.'

Despite the impasse on a START treaty, Reagan spoke optimistically about chances for getting an agreement.

"We made tangible progress toward the START treaty on strategic weapons," the presi-dent said. "Such a treaty, with all its implications, is, I believe, now within our grasp."

However, he said, there are other elements as important as

"As I never tire of saying, nabecause they are armed; they Arkla dividuals more freedom to run are armed because they distrust ArmcoInc agenda (in Moscow) dealt with critical issues, like regional conflicts, human rights and bilateral exchanges.

Despite some progress, American negotiators say the two sides made no progress on some of the thorniest areas of dispute: sea-launched cruise missiles and the longstanding difference over Reagan's Star Wars missile defense system.

In his speech, Reagan paid a special tribute to his close friend and ally, British Prime Margaret Thatcher, noting that she had been among the first to suggest the West could "do business" with Gorbachev.

"At this hour in history, prime minister, the entire world salutes you and your gallant people and gallant nation."

On Thursday, Queen Elizabeth II entertained him with tea at Buckingham Palace, a band played tunes written by 100-yearold American songmaster Irving Berlin and Mrs. Thatcher saluted Reagan's "tremendous success" at his summit which, she said, heralds "a new era in East-West relations."

This was probably Reagan's last visit to London as president. Mrs. Thatcher, who shares his conservative beliefs, took office only a year before he did and has backed him on virtually every major foreign policy act, even those that proved unpopular in Europe. She has been his staunchest friend in the Western alliance.

Mrs. Thatcher accepted an invitation from Reagan to make an official visit to the White House after the November elections.

Diabetes drugs are powerful

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I currently take Sinequan and Tegretol for diabetic neuropathy. Do I need a vitamin/mineral supplement? I've heard that these two drugs deplete one's body of certain vitamins.

DEAR READER: Neither Sinequan, a tricyclic anti-depressant, nor Tegretol, an anti-convulsant, has been reported to cause vitamin/mineral deficiencies. They are potent drugs, however, and can induce a number of side effects, including low blood pressure, jaundice, depression of bloodcell formation and confusion. As a diabetic, you must be especially careful to obtain a balanced diet, containing adequate vitamins and minerals, and to follow your doctor's advice about general health measures.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son, 7, has been having a very vivid recurring nightmare and is now afraid to fall asleep. I've tried to reason with him and have tried to get him to "think happy thoughts" at bedtime, but my psychology has not worked. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: Nightmares are common in children and may reflect tensions and stresses of which you are not aware I suggest that you address this problem with your son's pediatrician, 'a doctor who is familiar with your son can offer the best advice. DEAR DR GOTT I'm 11 years old.

How do you get rid of warts?

DEAR READER: Warts are caused hu a narticular views infection of the skin. They often disappear on their own, without treatment. Commercially available wart-removing compounds, such as Vergo, may be useful if the warts persist. Finally, you might ask your parents to take you to a dermatologist who could remove the warts or give you further information about getting rid of them.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother says that contact lenses will scratch my eyes and blind me. Is she right?

DEAR READER: Not exactly. When properly fitted, cleaned and maintained, contact lenses are safe and will not impair vision. However, such lenses can cause problems. If they are poorly contoured to the eye or are worn too long, they can scratch the cornea and produce severe discomfort. Furthermore; people sometimes become allergic to the lens' cleaning fluid; this can cause pronounced eye irritation.

In theory, the corneal abrasions and the allergic reaction could, if left untreated, affect vision. However, for most people under the care of an ophthalmologist, contact lenses are a safe and convenient alternative to glasses. Perhaps your mother would eel more comfortable chatting about this with your eye specialist.

Perot said postal consultant

By The Associated Press Postmaster General Anthony Frank announced on Thursday that Perot has accepted a $500,000 "no-profit" contract to analyze five areas of postal operations and recommend improvements.

The Dallas computer systems billionaire announced formation of a Washington-based company, Perot Systems Corp., to take on the contract.

The deal calls for Perot's company to identify potential savings at his former company, Elec-

The Postal Service is "pretty darn good ... but I want to be better than that," said Frank, who has been in office 91 days

Bill for elderly has cleared the House

WASHINGTON (AP) - A health insurance bill intended to protect more than 30 million elderly Americans from the financial ravages of serious illness is one short step away from final congressional approval.

"It's a landmark accomplishment and it's going to remove an awful lot of fear from the minds of over 30 million seniors," Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., said after the House voted 328-72 Thursday to approve a catastrophic health insurance bill.

The measure goes to the Senate where similarly overwhelming approval is assured, probably next week. It represents the biggest expansion of Medicare in the program's 23-year history.

way to alleviate the fears that In the first half of last year, the elderly people have about being wiped out from financial costs when catastrophic illness hits," said Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., who with Stark was a major mover in the project.

tronic Data Systems, resigned Friday to join his new venture. That was the first date on which Perot was permitted to hire EDS workers under an agreement reached in 1986 when General Motors bought out his interest in the company.

That settlement also prohibited profit business that would compete with EDS prior to 1989. Hence, the no-profit postal contract.

The studies will not focus on changes in labor contracts, Frank said, although he said union leaders will be involved in discussions with Perot. Some 80 percent of postal costs are laborrelated.

Frank said he wants to find 10 to 20 areas in which the agency can save $100 million or more apiece, annually.

The Postal Service spent $32.5 billion last year, with a loss of $223 million. A rate increase that took effect April 3 is aimed at pulling the agency back into the black, but costs continue rising as volume grows.

Frank said he would like to spread out the time between postage rate increases, which have been occurring about every three years.

"My goal is one more increase between now and the end of the century," he said at a news conference

"Let the record show that room laughed," he added quickly, "but you have to have goals." "Right now," he later admit-ted, "it looks as if we're going to have to push ourselves just to keep to the three-year cycle."

Asked if the Perot deal had been opened to bids, Frank said it was not.

"It's probably safe to assume there aren't a lot of firms around the beltway lusting after no-profit contracts," he said. Perot said his new company's sole client is the Postal Service and that while it may acquire others in the future, it is not intended to compete with EDS.

Frank said he and Perot met for the first time last February, after Perot turned down the postmaster general job and Frank accepted it.

Soviet purchases account for 68 percent of the total volume increase this year. At 77.3 million metric tons, total farm exports are running 21 percent ahead of the first six months of 1987. USDA economists say

Thus far this year the Soviets have purchased 9.3 million metric tons of U.S. farm commodifies with a value of more Japanese purchases of U.S. commodities were up in the first six months of the year by more than 2 million metric tons, with big gains in wheat, corn, grain problem of nursing home and sorghum, soybeans, vegetable oils and horticultural products.
