City to draw up no-smoking rules for consideration

City councilmen Monday night directed the city staff to draw up a proposed ordinance with specifics still to be determined that would address the restriction of smoking in public buildings. Mayor Troy Williamson said he would appoint within the next week two citizens, a smoker and a non-smoker, to work with the staff on writing an ordinance for the council to discuss in future meetings.

Non-smoking proponent Wally Benson, who presented a petition with the signatures of about 150 pro-ordinance citizens at a council meeting last month, was among two dozen persons who attended the 6:30 p.m. meeting, with many of them apparently in the no-smoking camp. The proposed ordinance would specify which public buildings should be included in the smoking ban.

Williamson said at an earlier meeting he would probably oppose attempting to place restrictions on private businesses. The meeting opened with the swearing-in of new District 1 Council Member Vernest Tippens and the election of District 2 Councilman Ralph Williamson as mayor pro-tem, succeeding Fred Castillo, who See CVTY, page 9

Q. — Some of the programs on KERA Channel 13, this one dealing with African tribes, contain full nudity, both men and women. What kind of censorship rules apply to this station?

A. — Richard Myer, president of the Public Broadcasting Station in Dallas, responded that the station's basic policy is the "free expression of ideas." As such, censorship is not applied unless the station feels the subject matter is in bad taste. When programs contain "adult material," these are shown only late at night and with a viewer discretion advisory. Travel or nature films, such as the one described, are not considered "adult" since they only show aspects of life in other parts of the world. As such, they might be shown at any time.

In Brief

Officer struck

LANGLEY Va. (AP) — A U.S. Park Police officer was in critical condition today after being struck by a speeding driver while he was escorting the Kennedy family to a memorial service for Robert F. Kennedy. Sgt. Paul Johnson, 37, fractured his skull in the collision Monday, which happened as he was directing traffic on a suburban Washington, D.C., roadway the Kennedy motorcade was taking to Arlington National Cemetery, officials said.

Soviet space

MOSCOW (AP) — A Bulgarian cosmonaut rocketed into a clear blue sky today along with two Soviets in the first manned space mission of 1988, a launch televised live and featuring broadcasts from inside the capsule. Alexander Alexandrov, 36, of Ouhlag, Bulgaria, and the two Soviets blasted off aboard a Soyuz TM 5 capsule from the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Soviet Central Asia. Soviet television gave unusually extensive coverage of the liftoff.

Landfill to gain fencing

Plans to build a chain-link fence around three sides of the city landfill were revealed Monday during the regular city council meeting. The projected expense for material is now set at $40,000 for the fencing. John Short, who owns property north of the city landfill east of town, appeared to request the construction of an 8 ft fence around the landfill, producing documentation from when the landfill was approved in 1981 that said the fence would be built. The council noted that the city's engineering staff is in the process of letting bids for the chain-link fencing and metal poles to build 8,800 feet of fence. See FENCE, page 9

Dukakis said locking up nomination

By The Associated Press Democrat Michael Dukakis, poised to lock up his party's presidential nomination with today's final quartet of primaries, dropped his customary caution to exult that "victory is in the air." But remaining rival Jesse Jackson looked back with pride, calling his historic candidacy a "catalyst for growth."

Republican George Bush, who has the GOP nomination in the bag, expressed eagerness to face Dukakis in the fall. He said the two have many differences and "I am... on the right side." The four-month presidential primary season closes today with races in California, New Jersey, New Mexico and Montana. All three presidential contenders were in California today, and all were staying in the state tonight to wait out the results of the day's contests.

The biggest prize is California, and an ABC News tracking poll indicated Dukakis led Jackson in the state by a 2-1 margin, 61 percent to 30 percent. The survey, based on 415 interviews Saturday and Sunday, had a margin of error of 6 percentage points, the network reported Monday night. California officials were predicting a low turnout, however. Secretary of State March Fong Eu said she expected a turnout of 48 percent, which would be the lowest in more than 40 years. Before today's voting began, Dukakis had nearly 1,000 delegates, leaving him fewer than 200 shy of the 2,081 needed to nominate. On Monday alone, more than 70 delegates flocked to the Dukakis camp. Jackson trails with less than 1,000 delegates.

In addition, Dukakis' former rivals for the nomination were lining up behind him. Campaign sources said Dukakis would travel to Missouri on Wednesday, the day after the last primaries, to pick up Rep. Richard Gephardt's endorsement. The same day, the sources said, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois was to endorse the Massachusetts governor in Washington.

Dukakis, not noted for his effusiveness, nonetheless sounded like a happy man as he headed in to the final contests.

"I'm really overwhelmed by the good feeling, the spirit, the confidence. A sense of victory is in the air," he said as he campaigned Monday in Los Angeles.

Jackson, however, suffered a primary-even embarrassment when he got stuck in traffic and missed the first 16 minutes of a live half-hour statewide broadcast that was supposed to showcase his campaign and provide a platform for a dramatic final appeal.

The show's host, radio disc jockey Casey Kasem, was left to conduct an awkward interview with Jackson's state campaign chairman and show repetitive video montages of the campaign. When Jackson finally arrived he appeared calm.

Indictments allege delivery of heroin

Indictments were returned Monday against three individuals charged with delivery of heroin.

These indictments were among 14 returned by a Scurry County grand jury Monday. These included charges against individuals linked to a burglary of a building incident reported here in May at Hillside Memorial Gardens.

The three indicted for delivery of a controlled substance had not been arrested as of Tuesday morning. Indictments were returned against Richard Robert Mena, Manuel Fuentes and Debbie Ann Ford, ages and addresses unavailable.

They are accused of delivering less than 28 grams of heroin to an undercover agent on Feb. 24 and 25.

True bills for burglary of a building in connection with the May 22 break-in at Hillside Monument On on the Colorado City Hwy. were returned against Billy Wayne Haley, 22, of Kemp; David Granville Martin, 18, of Paducah; and Johnny Edward Adams, 17, of 1902 Coleman Ave., No. 4.

They are accused of stealing two gasoline-powered weed cutters and other equipment that was being used at the local cemetery.

All three youth were arrested Monday and were in jail here Tuesday. Martin was taken into See JURY, page 9

Damages awarded in leaky roof case

The fifth day of a civil lawsuit in 132nd District Court Monday produced a jury verdict which awarded partial damages to a Snyder couple attempting to regain expenses related to what they claimed was a defective roof system for a dome-type "kit home."

The finding was that Monterey Domes Inc. did not in full honor the warranty for the dome house — specifically a stated 30-year guarantee for its roof system. The suit cited water leaks associated with the roof.

The jury awarded a total of $43,100 to plaintiffs in the lawsuit Paxton and Lisa Beauchamp vs. Monterey Domes Inc., a California-based corporation. Of this amount, $25,000 involved attorney's fees.

The jury in the case had been seated last Tuesday and reached its verdict Monday at 8:57 p.m. The proceedings were delayed briefly Friday due to a death in the family of one jury member.

The jury award included $10,000 to the Beauchamps related to roof repairs; $3,000 for the loss of the use of their home; and $2,500 for mental anguish.

In addition, a $2,000 amount was awarded by District Judge Gene Dulaney in accordance with the deceptive trade practices act in Texas.

The couple initially sought a damage award of $100,000 to include punitive damages which would have indicated "gross negligence" on the part of the company. The jury did not find gross negligence.

The attorney for the plaintiffs were Dorrel Luce of Waco. For the defendants, the attorney was William Hicks of Abilene.

The lawsuit was originally filed on Dec. 10, 1986.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A wise person may know how to win an argument, but a genius knows how to avoid one."

Tom Machen, owner of Tom's Marine, has recently proven that he's a genuine West Texan. He is also a member of the First United Methodist Church here, serving on the congregation's pastor-parish committee which is chaired by Snyder teacher Boxy Griffin. The local church recently received word that a new minister is being appointed to serve the church in Snyder.

The committee chairman suggested that a meeting between the new preacher and some of the committee members would be in order. Tom left Snyder for Lubbock at mid-morning to make sure he would make the appointment. He arrived at the restaurant a few minutes before noon, and being on a mission for his church, Tom practiced an abnormal degree of patience.

Thirty minutes passed and no preacher appeared. By 1 p.m. Machen was getting restless. At 2 p.m., Machen headed back for Snyder. At home, Machen reported the no show incident to the committee chairperson. "You were supposed to meet for dinner, not lunch," Tom was told. "The instructions said to meet for dinner and I always eat dinner at noon," Machen explained.

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm was a guest at his establishment Friday night prior to his appearance for breakfast on the WTC campus Saturday. # Robert Kennedy remembered

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the dusk of a spring evening, with his family gathered before the simple cross that marks his grave, Robert F. Kennedy was remembered as a father who guided his children with love and understanding and as a public figure who was "always ready to stop and reach out to others."

Tourists mingled with friends and aides of the New York senator Monday evening at a Mass of remembrance for Kennedy, who was shot by an assassin 20 years ago as he left a Los Angeles celebration of his victory in the 1968 California presidential primary.

"I invite you to join us in renewing the commitment that was his life, his spirit and his hope," said Matthew Kennedy, who was not yet 3½ years old when his father died.

It was the first time the Kennedy family had invited outsiders to take part in a memorial service. All 10 surviving children had a brief part in the service. The 11th child, David Anthony Kennedy, was found dead of a drug overdose in West Palm Beach Fla. in April 1984.

His widow, Ethel Kennedy, arrived on the arms of her brother-in-law, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. She did not speak at the service, but she told NBC News in a taped interview that her husband "brought us all along with his enthusiasm ... his love of life ... his curiosity."

"He made everybody feel a part of this battle, that we're going to do better, that America can stand for something," she said.

Robert Kennedy's grave — only a few steps from the more ornate site where his brother, President John F. Kennedy, is buried — was unadorned for the service but an altar was set up nearby for the Mass. In front was a box with 400-500 pink Eveline roses ordered by Ethel Kennedy.

Six choirs sang and the United States Navy band played. Andy Williams sang "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory," as he did on the night Robert Kennedy was buried.

The sun was setting over the cemetery as the service began and as it ended, the crowd lighted candles that had been handed to them as they entered. The flickering lights cast a soft glow as John F. Kennedy Jr. read a Shakespearean quotation his uncle often recited:

"When he shall die, take him and cut him out in little stars, and he will make the face of heaven so fine — that all the world will be in love with night, and pay no worship to the garish sun."

The youngest Kennedy child, daughter Rory, had not yet been born at the time of her father's death. Now 19 and a freshman at Brown University, she quoted from a speech her father delivered in Indiana in 1968: "Let us dedicate ourselves to what the Greeks wrote so many years ago, to tame the savageness of man and make gentle the life of the world."

"Robert Kennedy was always ready to stop and reach out to others," said Joseph P. Kennedy II, the oldest son, who is a congressman from Massachusetts.

Robert, a 34-year-old son who bears his father's name, asked the crowd for a moment's prayer for a policeman who was struck and critically injured by a motorist as the Kennedy motorcade was making its way to the service.

Robert Kennedy was shot by Sirhan Sirhan and mortally wounded shortly after midnight on June 5, 1968, after he had addressed a crowd of supporters gathered in the Ambassador Hotel to celebrate his election victory of the day before. The senator, then 42, died the next day.

The Jordanian-born assassin, who said he did not know what drove him to the deed, still is in prison.

Wife Is Nurturing Anger After First Mother's Day

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have a 10-month-old baby. She is our first child and this was my first Mother's Day. My husband didn't give me anything — not even a card for my daughter to give to me. I was very hurt. I didn't say anything to him about my feelings, but he knew I was hurt.

A friend of mine at work who has a 2-year-old says her husband has never remembered her for Mother's Day either. His excuse was: "You're not my mother."

I finally told my husband (I didn't nag or yell) that I was hurt because he forgot me on Mother's Day. He didn't even say he was sorry.

I suppose the hurt will go away in time, but I wish I knew why he didn't even wish me a happy Mother's Day.

into my car, got inside and just sat there and cried. Sign me ...
GRIEVING MOM

DEAR MOM: My condolences on the loss of your beloved son. Your poignant letter serves to remind us that because we never know what battles others may be fighting, we should never make personal comments to strangers.

DEAR ABBY: A girlhood friend who had been a bridesmaid at my wedding asked me to be her bridesmaid. I accepted gladly. She asked me in April 1987 — the wedding was to take place on Nov. 7, 1987.

I found out that I was pregnant in May, and was due in January 1988. I mailed a couple of pre-wedding gifts to her — a blue garter and a silver cake knife — thinking all was well.

I was later asked not to be in the wedding because I would be seven months pregnant! Abby, I gained only 18 pounds, and at 5 foot 7, 134 pounds didn't look so big.

My real friends thought it was a tacky, tasteless thing for her to do. What do you think, Abby?

UNASKED IN HOUSTON

DEAR UNASKED: Regardless of how "big" you would be, it was small of the bride to disinvite you to be in the wedding party. Shame on her.

U.S. students don't measure up in math

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 17-year-old students are dismal at math, with only half able to cope with problems usually taught in junior high school, a testing agency reported today.

The federally sponsored National Assessment of Educational Progress also said that nearly 27 percent of 13-year-olds are lacking in basic computational skills.

More than a quarter of the 17-year-olds reported that they did not usually understand what was talked about in mathematics class, and only 6 percent could solve problems that took several steps or involved algebra or geometry.

The agency reported the results of tests it gave nearly 15,000 students ages 9, 13 and 17 in 1985-86, as well as comparative data from math assessments in 1973, 1978 and 1982.

The report, "The Mathematics Report Card: Are We Measuring Up," said all three age groups improved recently, but mostly on low-level skills, and the 17-year-olds still have not regained all the ground they lost in the 1970s.

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, commented, "Our youngsters are doing better at memorizing rules and applying them in a rote fashion — but often they don't have a clue about what they're doing or what it all means."

The report said 98 percent of the 9-year-olds and 100 percent of the older students knew simple arithmetic facts, such as 39 - 26 = 13.

But virtually none of the younger students and only 6.4 percent of the oldest could solve multistep problems and algebra questions.

An example of a more difficult question was: Suppose you have 10 coins and have at least one each of a quarter, a dime, a nickel, and a penny. What is the least amount of money you could have?

The choices were: 41 cents, 47 cents, 50 cents and 82 cents. The correct answer is 47 cents.

"Despite signs of their progress across time, the 1986 performance of 17-year-old students was dismal," the report said. "Only half the high school students demonstrated an understanding of even moderately complex mathematical procedures — material generally thought to be introduced in junior high schools."

It said black and Hispanic students, as well as those living in the Southeast, "continued to make progress in narrowing their substantial gap in performance compared to other groups of students." But formidable gaps remained.

"In 1986, 9-year-old girls and boys had identical average mathematics proficiency," the report said.

FORGOTTEN ON MOTHER'S DAY

DEAR FORGOTTEN: Some men are not sentimental — and you married one of them. Instead of hurting in silence, tell your husband that special occasions are important to you, and it would make you ever so happy if he sent you a card. And just to make sure he doesn't forget — remind him.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the person who had been approached by a total stranger who told her to smile caused me to recall that the same thing happened to me.

Just two weeks after I buried "Jimmy," my 18-year-old son who had been killed in an automobile accident, I went grocery shopping. When I saw all the favorite foods I used to buy for Jimmy, I had to fight back the tears.

As I was putting my groceries in the car, I congratulated myself on how well I had handled all those painful memories, when a woman I had never seen before came up to me and said cheerfully, "Smile, my dear, nothing can be that bad!"

I managed to get my groceries

4-year old charms boa constrictor

DALLAS (AP) — Two dozen contestants tried their charms on Carmen, but a 4-year-old boy was the only one able to spark the interest of the 5-foot-long boa constrictor.

"I can make a sound like a snake," Cole Anglin said as he looked into the serpent's eyes. "I can. Listen. Sssssssssssss."

Carmen slithered with interest. Cole backed away.

The boy was declared the winner of the Dallas Zoo's snake-charming contest because he was the only one able to coax Carmen into moving. He won a certificate worth $40 at a restaurant.

Others tried to tempt the snake from her wooden perch Sunday, but Carmen turned them down cold.

Gordhan Patel, a 51-year-old hospital worker who successfully sweet-talked Carmen last year, wasn't able to repeat the feat.

Perhaps it was because Patel used the same line: "You like pizza? Spaghetti? Oh, you like the birds — chicken."

Nicky Waters, 11, tried to make Carmen flinch. "Look out, there's a truck," Nicky said. When that didn't work, he tried, "How about a fat, juicy rat?"

Opening lead: ♦ 4

But he needed to play it a little better. On the opening lead, East played the jack of diamonds and declarer took the ace. He played A-K of spades, pleased that the queen fell. Then he played ace and queen of hearts, shedding a club from dummy. East won the heart king and returned the eight of diamonds. When West took the king, it was obvious that the only tricks remaining were in the club suit. He played the club six, and East took two club tricks to set the hand.
 As is so often the case, the contract was lost at trick one. If South simply allows East to win that trick with the diamond jack, there is no longer communication between the East and West hands. West would not be able to lead through dummy's club king, and the game would be scored up.

Early slip-up was costly

By James Jacoby

North was right to pass one heart with only four high-card points. After East had doubled in one no-trump and West had rescued to two diamonds, it still seemed right to pass since the lead of the singleton heart was attractive. When South bid two spades, it was clear to raise to three, and many players would even bid four with the North hand. Not to worry — South was happy to take it on to game.

Tips given for sharpening memory skills

NEW YORK (AP) — Contrary to popular belief, memory does not decrease with age, it only gets out of shape.

Here are a few tips from Family Circle magazine to sharpen your memory skills.

— To remember a face, look for prominent characteristics.

— To find something, mentally retrace your footsteps on the day you misplaced it. Imagine the smells, the sounds and the temperature outside at the time you last had it.

Governors of Texas are reviewed at ABWA meet

Dr. Franklin Pruitt, professor at Western Texas College, was the guest speaker for the May dinner meeting of American Business Women's Association, Deep Creek Chapter. Members met at The Texan banquet room.

"Little Known Facts of Little Known Governors" was the evening's topic. Henderson, Texas governor in 1846, took a leave of absence to fight in the Mexican War. "Happy" George T. Wood wore no socks. Sam Houston was kicked out of office.

Pruitt went on to cite that Coke Hubbard of 1863 weighed over 400 pounds and that Governor Hogg was shot in the back by an outlaw and did have a daughter named Ima.

Pruitt taught for 22 years at Snyder High School and has been a professor of history and government at WTC for 14 years. He received his BA degree from Baylor University. He was awarded his master's degree from East Texas State and the doctorate from Texas Tech.

Pruitt is married with four children and five grandchildren. He serves as an elder at 37th St.

Church of Christ.

Penny Cochran, president, presided with Mae Cole offering the invocation.

Cochran, employed eight years with Child Welfare and Human Resource Center, works in a district of 54 counties. The local office is responsible for four of those.

Cochran does typing, pays bills, answers the phone, and orders office supplies. She also babysits when foster parents meet with the referral officer.

The office handles 10 to 15 cases each month with 12 children currently in foster homes.

Cochran urged members to report any suspicions of child abuse. The law provides for a fine and six months in jail for anyone knowing about a child being abused who does not report it. Names are kept confidential.

Guests attending from the Scurry Charter Chapter of ABWA were Ruby Devers, Genetha Payne, Barbara Scrivner and Judy Bynum.

Cole was the hostess with Dorothy Dorch receiving the gag gift.

Cochran offered the benediction.

Barkley floors Hearn in 3rd

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Thomas Hearn, who built his career on a powerful right hand that earned him the title of "Hit Man," had it all crash down on him last night.

Barkley floored Hearn with a sudden, stunning right in the third round Monday night to capture the World Boxing Council middleweight title and put the four-time champion's career in jeopardy.

"Now I know how my opponents feel when I hit them,"

Hearn said after Barkley shot a tremendous right that sent the champion crashing back on the canvas late in the third round of his scheduled 12-round fight.

Hearn struggled to get up at the count of eight, but a heavy combination put him between the ropes and referee Richard Steele stopped the fight with Hearn hanging helplessly through the ropes at 2:39 of the round.

"He's a legend and he deserves to be a legend," said Barkley, a 4-1 underdog. "But I wasn't going to be denied tonight."

Hearn, who had talked before of rematches with Marvellous Marvin Hagler and Sugar Ray Leonard - the only other fighters to beat him, spoke afterward of possible retirement. All three of Hearn's pro losses came by knockout, as did 38 of his 45 wins.

Hearn, however, left the door open for a possible rematch against Barkley, who signed a contract guaranteeing the champion a rematch when he makes his second defense of the newly won title.

Hearn - paid $1.5 million to Barkley's $350,000 - had to lose a half-pound after Monday morning's weigh-in to make the 160-pound limit, but refused to blame his performance on weight problems.

It was the 16th pro knockout for Barkley, who upped his record to 25-4.

The fight capped a night of boxing that also saw World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Virgil Hill defend his title with a unanimous but lackluster 12-round decision over Mayweather win a split decision over Harold Brazier to keep his WBC super lightweight title.

Time for change; Rockets fire Fitch

HOUSTON (AP) - Good trades and bad results added up to Bill Fitch's dismissal as head coach of the Houston Rockets.

"We just felt that we didn't make progress at the end of the year," General Manager Ray Patterson said. "We were playing under .500 ball with pretty good personnel. So we felt it was time for a change."

The Rockets dismissed Fitch as head coach Monday with three years remaining on his contract, a package worth about $800,000.

The Rockets shipped Ralph Sampson to Golden State for Joe Barry Carroll and Sleepy Floyd and also got Purvis Short from the Warriors.

All owner Charlie Thomas had to show for it at the end of the season was elimination from the NBA playoffs by the Dallas Mavericks in the first round. Some fans turned on Fitch during the season that included criticism of the head coach by all-star center Akeem Olatunji.

Fitch led the Rockets to the NBA finals in 1986 but the Rockets lost in the second round of the 1987 playoffs and were eliminated by Dallas in the first round this season.

Fitch could not be reached for comment.

The Rockets will move quickly to name a coaching replacement, Patterson said. "I think we'll have a coach in place in time for the NBA draft and that's June 28," Patterson said.

Speculation about a new Rockets coach has centered around Kansas Coach Larry Brown.

Federal insurers allocate money for S&L depositors small savings and loans gambled on risky investments in real estate and such things as windmill farms, but collapsed from shaky lending that led to a record $1.35 billion federal payout to depositors, officials say.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board on Monday closed American Diversified Savings Bank and North America Savings and Loan Association, both of Costa Mesa, without arranging for a takeover of the thrifts by another institution.

"These two represented abuses," said bank board member Lawrence White. "The whole essence of being a depository institution with government-provided insurance is that there is a strong ... obligation to operate in a safe and sound manner. These two places did not."

Both institutions have been insolvent for some time. Regulators took over management of American Diversified in 1986 and of North America in 1987.

The bank board is paying $1.14 billion from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. to American Diversified depositors in the largest cash payout the agency has made, agency Chairman M. Danny Wall said. It is covering $209 million in deposits at North America.

A total of about $500,000 in both institutions exceeded the FSLIC's $100,000 liability limit. Those depositors will share in liquidation proceeds. The bank board expects to recover about $400 million from the sale of the thrifts' assets.

Nationally, only 10 of 235 failed savings and loans since 1981 have been resolved with a straight payout to depositors. Usually, the bank board pays a bonus to a healthy thrift to buy a sick S&L because it is cheaper. At the very least, the board arranges to transfer deposits to another institution.

Educators: skills focus boosting TEAMS scores

But the unique characteristics of the two California thrifts made that impractical, Wall said.

The thrifts had few retail deposits, lacked branch offices, and relied on high-cost, short-term deposits arranged through brokers. The brokers in turn lent out the deposits for speculative real estate ventures and other risky investments, Wall said.

Closing the two thrifts will help all S&Ls by reducing pressure to pay high interest rates, he said. Failing thrifts pay high rates to get the cash needed to meet expenses and some healthy thrifts have had to raise their rates to compete.

North America was paying 8.53 percent interest on deposits, 1.45 percentage points above the average for all thrift institutions. American Diversified was paying 8.64 percent.

Bert Ely, a financial institutions analyst in Alexandria, Va., said the two thrifts were prime examples of "several AUSTIN (AP) — Intensified work on basic skills is helping to narrow the gap between test scores of Texas minority students and their classmates, educational leaders say.

"We've got a lot further to go, but actually the gap has been closing for a period of years," said William Kirby, Texas education commissioner.

Kirby and other top educators were pleased by recently released results of the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills test that show a growing percentage of black and Hispanic students are mastering math, reading and writing skills in the third, fifth, seventh and ninth grades.

Minority students improved in all categories in the four grades, except in the ninth-grade reading category. Their improved scores helped raise statewide test results for the second consecutive year.

"We want to attribute the increase to better-quality instruction," said Marvin Veselka, the Texas Education Agency's assistant commissioner for assessment and evaluation.

Despite the gains in achievement, scores for both minority groups still lag behind those of white students.

For example, 82 percent of white fifth-grade students mastered all TEAMS tests, while 60 percent of the Hispanic and black students passed the test this year.

In comparison, 68 percent of the white students passed the reading, writing and math sections in 1986, compared to 43 percent of the Hispanic students and 42 percent of the black pupils.

A number of factors are thought to have caused the improved student performance.

In the 1985-86 school year, Texas for the first time implemented a statewide curriculum that told teachers not only what subject to teach but which "essential elements" to teach within the course.

"In the past, teachers would teach the areas they liked the best," said Bernice Hart, an Austin school board member and former educator. "Now you can't just skim over something."

Veselka said the TEAMS test results provide teachers with information about each student's academic strengths and weaknesses.

Ms. Hart said teachers, armed with that diagnostic information, "are utilizing better methods of getting at the kids' weaknesses."

$1.1 trillion...

Senate okays 1989 budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was fulfilling a deficit reduction agreement with President Reagan when it passed a $1.1 trillion federal budget for fiscal 1989, but a hefty deficit remains and spending priorities have already shifted.

The budget, approved by the House last month and the Senate on Monday by 58-29, shows a deficit of nearly $142 billion when not counting sales of government assets, which aren't counted under the Gramm-Rudman budget balancing law.

The president's Office of Management and Budget says higher interest rates combined with government bail-outs of banks could drive the deficit higher.

If it gets above $146 billion, OMB is required to order automatic, across-the-board spending cuts under the Gramm-Rudman law.

And the spending plan doesn't come close to meeting Gramm-Rudman's goals for the years after fiscal 1989, which are designed to force a balanced budget by fiscal 1993.

"This is a paltry, pathetic and completely meaningless reduction (of the deficit) during times of economic prosperity," complained Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo. "We're just putting the whole problem off until after the election."

Senate Budget Committee chairman Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., conceded: "We've taken some steps in the right direction, but I'm afraid there's miles to go before we sleep."

The spending plan also was nearly two months after the April 15 deadline, creating confusion over the details of next year's federal spending policy.

Within total spending levels for military, foreign aid and domestic programs that were set by last fall's agreement with Reagan, the budget envisions increased federal spending on the space program, education, AIDS research, fighting drugs, and other election-year priorities.

But the resolution itself is non-binding, acting only as a guide for production of the annual spending legislation for running the government. And because of the delays, the House and Senate have been moving ahead with the regular spending bills that stray from the budget's priorities.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted to include less money for education and space programs, shifting those funds to

"We urge the appropriations committee to follow our lead and support the nation's future through increased funding for science and space programs," said Chiles, who had pushed hard for that new spending.

Those and other details of next year's federal spending will be settled in the next few months before the start of fiscal 1989.

Shultz urges Arabs and Israelis to shed all their illusions

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, winding up a futile Middle East peace mission, said today that extremism and an arms buildup could engulf the region unless Arabs and Israelis shed their illusions.

He said the United States would not slow its efforts to prod the two sides into negotiations, adding that he would like to have another try at Mideast diplomacy before the Reagan administration ends in January.

"The underlying problem won't go away by itself and can't be wished away," Shultz told a news conference. "Nor can it be ignored. The lives and well-being of too many people are endangered by the continuation of this conflict."

During five days in the region, he met with leaders of Israel, Jordan, Egypt and Syria and found support for his plan for two-stage negotiations only from President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, whose nation is at peace with Israel.

But Shultz said he found "universal interest in finding a way to move forward."

Shultz planned to stop in Madrid for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the way home.

The trip was his fourth to the region this year in an effort to convene a peace conference, take up the problem of Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip and then move to an overall settlement.

The plan calls for trading occupied land for peace.

"I am ready to come any time that it seems there is something constructive to be done," Shultz said.

He has said he may try a different approach next time, stepping up consultations with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and other Kremlin officials. The idea would be to see if the superpowers together can accomplish what the Reagan administration could not do alone.

"We have made very considerable progress, and the Moscow summit sort of symbolizes that fact," Shultz said.

Washington has dropped its opposition to a Soviet role in a Middle East peace conference, but objects to outside powers' active participation in negotiations between Israel and its Arab foes.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir of Israel opposes any Soviet role in peace talks, but plans to meet Shevardnadze at the United Nations this week.

Shultz declined to pinpoint obstacles that stand in his way or point a finger of blame at any Middle East leader.

He said there are many obstacles, but "the most important is for people to shed illusions ... Finding dreams that can be realized is what we need to encourage."

Fielding questions in a hotel nightclub after a last meeting with Mubarak, a weary Shultz urged Arabs and Israelis alike to "recognize that the most extreme form of their dreams cannot be realized."

In a 2½-page opening statement, Shultz said, "Realism is required to prevent serious problems from becoming worse ... problems such as extremism, proliferation of dangerous weapons and more intense animosity between Arabs and Israelis.

"There will be no diminution of the American effort," he said.

around the east, north and west sides of the landfill.

City Engineer Don Osborn said the materials should cost about $40,000 and that city employees, possibly with the help of county jail trustys, will do most of the installation.

Osborn noted that the south side of the landfill is effectively blocked with a high dirt wall.

Short requested the fence be built to help contain blowing debris.

did not seek re-election in the recent city council election.

An ordinance updating regulations on the drilling of oil and gas wells inside the city limits was approved on second reading, and a first reading of the new, more modern plumbing ordinance was postponed for the engineering staff to finish work on it.

Also postponed until the next council meeting at 6:30 p.m. next Monday was an ordinance to adopt a new water conservation plan, relative to the city's application for state funding of its extension of water and sewer lines to the Texas Department of Corrections unit.

The council approved the 1988 seal-coating map, which calls for the re-surfacing of eight to 10 miles of the city's total 80 to 90 miles of paving this summer. City officials said about half of the work will be in northern Snyder, north of 1st St., with seal-coating of 23rd St. east to Milburn St. and 31st St. from Aves. A to E also planned.

Consideration of bids for a new copier for the police station was tabled for bids to be taken on reconditioned and demonstrator copiers, along with new ones.

Chamber of Commerce manager Bill Moss won council approval of a $7,250 city expenditure for advertising and scholarships related to August's annual AJRA National Finals Rodeo.

Considering a request from area citizens for the installation of stop signs on Ave. U at 33rd St. and on 44th St. at Houston Ave., councilmen voted to erect a sign at 44th and Houston and to put up "Children Playing" signs on U and ask the police department to patrol that area more heavily.

Besides the mayor, Ralph Williamson and Tippens, the meeting was attended by Councilmen John Johnson, Jack Greene, Jr. and Joe Coronado. Paul Zeck was absent.

Computer glitch linked to vanishing data

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Information on altitude, airspeed and types of aircraft is being temporarily obliterated from screens used by air traffic controllers because of "glitches" in a new computer program in use at four airports, including Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, officials say.

Federal Aviation Administration officials confirmed Monday that the sporadic problem can last 20 seconds and removes all information normally displayed on the controllers' radar screens in "alphanumeric blocks" readouts that also include the call signs and intended destinations of aircraft.

Controlers handle up to 10 aircraft, or "targets," at a time. An audible alert is sounded when the data blocks are about to disappear, and FAA officials say the controllers have up to five seconds to either write down the information or memorize it.

Officials said the same program is used at airports in Houston, Los Angeles and Atlanta.

FAA officials do not believe the glitch constitutes a safety hazard, Parrent said.

"When the program is running and it detects a glitch in the system it will remove the alphanumeric on the screen for a period of 20 seconds or less," Lawrence Parrent, assistant air traffic manager at the DFW Terminal Radar Approach Control center, told the Dallas Morning

"The radar has not failed," he said. "The primary target is still there." The radar image and a four-digit number assigned to each aircraft remain on the screen.

The man was arrested at 5:40 p.m. at the police station for DWI, driving with his license suspended, not having liability insurance and leaving the scene of an accident.

He is believed to have been involved in an 8:53 p.m. Sunday collision with Daniel Torres of Rt. 2, Box 154, who was driving a 1979 Chrysler four-door at an unreported location.

Getting down is other half of job, balloonist says

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Balloonist Per Lindstrand says soaring to a world record altitude height was relatively easy despite a few tense minutes cutting loose sandbags at 22,000 feet.

"Getting back down is the other half (of the job)," Lindstrand said Monday after he floated his butane- and solar-powered "Stratoquest" hot-air balloon to an unofficial record 59,700 feet.

"Fortunately, I landed on the only field of grass I saw between here and Freer," he said, referring to the brush-covered terrain of the South Texas area.

altitude because of the sandbag problem. Two 100-kilo sandbags that were supposed to release automatically did not and the British balloonist had to crawl outside his pressurized gondola at 22,000 feet and wield a Swiss Army knife to lighten his load.

The first was no problem because it was near the hatch, but the second was on the other side of the craft beyond the reach of his oxygen line.

"I had to take a deep breath, run around, cut it off and run back again, all the while clinging on to the outside of the capsule," he said. "That got a bit hairy," he said.

During the descent, the solar panels used to heat the air and make the craft buoyant worked almost too well.

Lindstrand opened a vent at the top of the balloon and held it open during the descent.

When he had dropped to 12,000 feet, Lindstrand slowed his descent by relighting the butane burners he'd turned off earlier when the oxygen became too thin. At that point, he was falling at 500 feet per minute.

The 12-story-high craft, which had been delayed repeatedly by bad weather, took off shortly after dawn.

Lindstrand had hoped the $200,000 flight would break the 60,000-foot barrier, considered to be technically impossible because of a lack of oxygen in the atmosphere needed for the balloon's burners.

The voyage was well beyond the previous 55,137-foot record set in 1980, said project coordinator Peter Mason.

Lindstrand, 39, said he lost about 5,000 feet of potential

But the two sandbags cost him that goal by draining fuel and forcing him to begin descending just before 60,000 feet. After a 3½-hour flight, he landed in mid-morning in a field about 60 miles from his launch site on the Callaghan Ranch north of Laredo.

Taxpayers paid for trip for Wright's book

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide to House Speaker Jim Wright was paid $2,000 from official congressional accounts for expenses during a 1984 trip to Texas to oversee final editing of a privately published book by Wright, House records show.

The book, "Reflections of a Public Man," published by a longtime Fort Worth friend of the speaker, later brought Wright nearly $55,000 in royalties.

Records maintained by the House show $2,078.27 paid to Cossolotto for hotel accommodations "while on official business," car rental and meals from Oct. 22 to Nov. 14, 1984, when Cossolotto said he was in Fort Worth to complete work on the book.

At the time, Wright was House majority leader, the No. 2 leadership post.

Cossolotto said he spent "a good chunk of time" — perhaps 150 to 200 hours — between mid-1984, when Wright assigned him to work on the book at a staff meeting, and his trip to Fort Worth. The book is largely a compilation of Wright's speeches, sayings and anecdotes.

Cossolotto said he worked with the publisher, read proofs and made final corrections on the book. He said he flew to Fort Worth on a commercial flight, but did not know how that was paid for. The House financial records for the period do not show any air fare attributed to Cossolotto.

The book deal was among cases of alleged questionable activities by Wright cited in requests for an investigation of Wright by the House ethics committee. The panel met last week without deciding how to proceed, and is scheduled to resume consideration of the matter Thursday.

"If he gave some time to try to help put together a book that would demonstrate to the public my philosophy, my basic beliefs, that wouldn't be too far afield from the public business," Wright told the newspaper.

Another Wright staff member, press aide George Mair, is collaborating with the speaker on a book looking at the history of Congress over its first 200 years and in particular at those who have held the speaker's office.

Mair was hired by the speaker on a short-term contract last Dec. 1, and his $65,000-a-year contract was renewed in May.

One news account of the contract renewal said Mair was kept on to help with a number of projects, including the book. But Mair said Monday he and Wright are working on the book totally outside office hours.

Matthew Cossolotto, who has since left Wright's staff, said in a telephone interview Monday that the Texas trip was the culmination of several months of on-and-off work in Wright's Capitol Hill office to help the Texas Democrat draft the book's manuscript.

House ethical guidelines allow wide latitude in the use of staff members, but stipulate that "Employees may not be compensated from public funds to perform nonofficial, personal or campaign activities on behalf of the member."

"It was not full time in any particular week," Cossolotto said. "I would collect some things, read some stuff, talk to the majority leader. It was hit and miss. The big crunch was down in Fort Worth."

During the trip, which was arranged by Wright's office,

In an interview with the Washington Post, which first reported the aide's work on the book Monday, Cossolotto said he was "a little uncomfortable" with the assignment and did not know whether it was proper under House rules.

Asked Monday whether he reported that uneasiness to any of his superiors, or sought assurances from them, he answered: "That's sort of a touchy one. I'm not sure if I did."

Earlier news reports have pointed out that Wright has collected nearly $55,000 in royalties from the book, receiving $3.25 for each copy of the slim $5.95 volume. It was published by Carlos Moore, a Fort Worth friend of Wright who also was paid more than $250,000 by Wright's re-election committee in 1985 and 1986, while Wright was collecting the royalties.

Wright's office would not comment on the matter Monday. In an interview with the Post, however, the speaker defended Cossolotto's assignment and said the amount of time the aide had spent was "rather negligible."

Surgery corrects nasal problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a serious deviated septum as a result of an accident. How is this corrected?

DEAR READER: The nasal septum is a thin plate of cartilage separating the nostrils. A deviated septum is one that is pushed to one side, making either nostril more narrow than the other. This can cause nasal blockage and, sometimes, sinus infection if the sinus openings are closed over by swollen tissue. People are usually born with the condition, or it can result from nasal injury, such as a broken nose.

A deviated septum can be repaired during a relatively routine operation called septoplasty, in which the septum is realigned. Some patients choose to have the shape of their noses revised (rhinoplasty) at the time of the septoplasty, but this additional surgery is not necessary to repair the septum itself.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 17 and sing in a fairly active barbershop quartet. After about five minutes of singing, my throat gets sore and tired and I lose all my power. I'm taking voice lessons and am sure I am singing correctly. A throat specialist told me to drink lots of water. Could my tonsils be the problem?

DEAR READER: Enlarged tonsils can alter the tone and quality of the voice, but they rarely affect the strength. The most common cause of the symptoms you describe is "forcing" the voice, an overuse syndrome. Try warming up more and staying within a comfortable range until your vocal cords become used to the activity. Ask your voice instructor for suggestions. Finally, consider obtaining a second opinion from an otolaryngologist who is familiar with problems that singers face.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Believe it or not, our dog was the strep carrier in our family. Once he was treated, our winter-long round-robin of strep throat ended.

DEAR READER: I received several letters similar to yours and I am grateful to readers who took the time to write. Strep throats in dogs was a new one on me when I wrote the original column. I am glad to hear that doctors are recognizing the possibil-

Are you missing out on co-op advertising funds that are available to you? Did you know that co-op advertising help from many of your manufacturers and suppliers can pay anywhere from half to all of your advertising costs? ## IF EVERYBODY SAYS IT CAN'T HAPPEN TO THEIR KIDS, THEN WHOSE KIDS IS IT HAPPENING TO?

Not yours, right?

Well, would you feel any differently if you knew 17% of all high school seniors have tried cocaine? And 40% of those are using it currently.

Not your kid? Well, how about this...54% of all high school seniors have smoked marijuana. And over half of them smoke it regularly.

Still not your kid? Or maybe you're not so sure anymore.

Well, the best way to know for sure is to talk with your child. Of course, speaking to your child like this takes a lot of courage. And to do it effectively takes a lot of homework—like reading articles, attending meetings, and talking to other parents. This way, your child will see you as a well informed source.

Listen, we're not using these statistics about marijuana and cocaine to scare you.

Then again, that's exactly what we're trying to do.

If you're afraid your child may be included in some of these numbers, get help. Contact your local agency on drug abuse for more information.
