County projecting no tax rate hikes thanks to sales tax

By BOB CAMPBELL,
SDN Staff Writer
Scurry County commissioners have started working on the 1989 county budget with any tax increases for local taxpayers now appearing to be very unlikely.
County Judge Bobby Goodwin said the county's 29.6 cents per $100 valuation property tax is a virtual certainty to be unchanged and that receipts from the new half-cent sales tax would have probably allowed it to be reduced if not for the erosion of the tax base last year.
Many of the 16 department heads in county government have already submitted their proposed budgets related to salary, equipment and supplies.

Goodwin said some new equipment purchases such as typewriters might be authorized because the current $3,028,965 budget was a $300,000 reduction from 1987 and some departments may have supplies equipment problems during the last half of this year.
Any budget decisions related to salary will be made next month, he said.
Goodwin said that the new sales tax approved by voters last August produced $121,000 in revenues through the first five months of the year.
The commissioners will have budget hearings through July toward certifying the 1989 budget on Aug. 12.

Appeal to return jury trial Defense error negates sentence

A 132nd District Court jury will be required to again assess punishment in an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon case heard here in February of 1987 following a ruling by the 11th Court of Appeals in Eastland.
The court has reversed the punishment decision of the local jury, citing "ineffective assistance of counsel." That decision was linked to a Lubbock defense attorney representing defendant Jimmy Trevino in the case.
The guilty verdict against Trevino was upheld by the appellate court.
Trevino, who was 24 at the time, was given a five year term after being found guilty of assault on Feb. 18, 1987. The appellate court overturned this prison sentence because of a procedural error by his defense attorney, James Brennan of Lubbock.
The attorney had prepared an application for probation for his client, but could not officially place it before the court since it was pointed out by the prosecution that it did not contain the seal of a notary public.
As a result, probation for Trevino was not allowed to be considered by the jury. After receiving the five year sentence, he has been free on bond pending the outcome of his appeal.
He faces a range of punishment from two to 10 years with a fine of up to $10,000.
The charge against him stemmed from an incident reported See APPEAL, page 9A

July 4 queens seek firework funding

Voting at a "penny a point" is now taking place for one of six July 4th queen candidates, a friendly contest which doubly serves as a fund raiser to alleviate costs of the annual fireworks display here.
The place to vote through July 1 is the local Kmart, where a board has been set up with photos of the six candidates, who are being sponsored by local organizations.
Four youth, ranging in age from 7 to 17, are being sponsored as well as two adult candidates.
Those student-age include:
—Becky Bynum, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Bynum and representing the Scurry County Charter Chapter of the ABWA.
—Kacy Cole, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Cole and representing the West Texas Tae Kwon Do Parents Association.
—Sheila Garza, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Garza and representing the Vietnam Veterans Association.

—Susana Rodriguez, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Rodriguez and representing Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.
The two adult candidates include Ann LaRoux, representing the Senior Citizens Center, and Jean McCormack, representing the American Legion Layne Kite Post 181.
After July 1, the voting board will be moved to the National Guard Armory, where donations for individual candidates will be accepted through 5 p.m. July 4.
The winner will be announced at 8 p.m. on the 4th and will be presented a tiara and flowers.
In addition, each candidate will be included in the Independence Day parade, which is scheduled on Saturday morning, July 2.
Planning for the queen contest has been headed by Norma Miller.
This year's July 4th celebration will be the 26th annual event held in Towle Park. See QUEENS, page 9A

Local writer to sign three-book option

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor
After 13 years of effort, Deanie Francis Mills' writing is beginning to pay off as the local freelance writer has been notified that her suspense novel "Darkroom" has been sold.
In addition, Berkley Publishers, which specializes in suspense fiction intends to sign Mills to a three-book contract. The second of the three-book package is expected to be a recently completed novel "Pitfall."
Along with this good news will come an advance check for $15,000. Mills said she and her husband, Kent, plan a trip to New York City where they will meet her agent, Anita Diamant, for the first time in person and her new publisher.
Berkley is a paperback company, but Mills said the goal is to cross over into hardcover.
"It is such a relief knowing that 'Pitfall' is already sold," Mills said. "Getting that phone call has changed everything I know now, I'm not wasting my time."
She began writing 13 years ago and moved into it fulltime eight years ago.
Mills said she likes to write about social issues and hopefully tell a "page turning story."

"Darkroom" is set in Dallas and uses as a central theme child pornography.
"Pitfall" is set in a fictional town in West Texas and concerns runaway children. It begins when a horse breeder in Texas finds a mute girl on her ranch, one that cannot be traced through normal channels.
"Pitfall" took nine months to write from start to finish and is more than 400 pages long. She said she begins with research, then develops her characters and plot.
"I always have the novel completely plotted before I start writing because I like to plant clues along the way for the reader," Mills said.
She said she always has professional people like therapists and police officers read one of her novels chapter by chapter so that accuracy is ensured.
For "Darkroom," she visited the Southwest Institute of Forensic Sciences in Dallas and watched autopsies being performed. She also watched contraband kid die porn and interviewed several Dallas police officers.
"I want my stories to be real stories that could happen in real life," Mills explains.
She said "Darkroom" could See WRITER, page 9A

Plans gearing up for Senate ballot

Scurry County commissioners Monday will begin making preparations for the special Aug. 13 election to fill resigning Wichita Falls State Sen. Ray Farabee's term for the rest of the year.
The 10 a.m. agenda calls for consideration of asking County Clerk Jenna Vee Miller to request permission for her office to have absentee voting facilities in Hermleigh, Ira, Dunn and Ruwanna.
Absentee voting has traditionally been done only at the courthouse.
Miller is also scheduled to ask the court to appoint election judges for 1988-89.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Flattery is something said to your face that wouldn't be said behind your back."
A first grader is said to have submitted the following composition on "People." The ending is a tribute to Fathers on this special day. She wrote:
"People are composed of girls and boys, also men and women. Boys are no good at all until they grow up and get married.
"Boys are an awful bother. They want everything they see except the soap.
"My Ma is a woman and my Pa is a man. A woman is a grown up girl with children.
"My Pa is such a nice man that I think he must have been a girl when he was a little boy."
There are some other general thoughts about Father's Day. "It used to be that Dad got those impossible neckties only at Christmas, and then some cynic thought up Father's Day."

Somebody else described a father as a banker provided by nature.
But this one is our favorite: "A father is a person who wears last year's hat, drives this year's car, and lives on next year's income."
And while a father in 1988 may feel burdened with all the pressures of life and rearing a family, this thought brought in by a reader is appropriate on this day:
"A man is young as long as he is a doer. When he is willing to sit back in the easy life of a spectator, it is a sure sign of approaching old age, regardless of the years spent on earth."
Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up activity wrinkles the soul. You are as young as your health, confidence, enthusiasm and energy. You are as old as your doubt, fear, despair and love for the easy chair.
So today, dads, sit back and enjoy it. But tomorrow is a day of opportunity to approach with vigor. Happy Father's Day!

Reagan says...

'Law of averages' dictates corruption

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says "the law of averages" dictates there will be corruption in Pentagon procurement and he praised how federal agents have handled what Republican senators call a bribery investigation of an unprecedented scale.

Some 275 grand jury subpoenas have been issued to companies and individuals this week, said federal law enforcement sources, speaking on condition of anonymity. Attorney General Edwin Meese III said he anticipates indictments by the end of the summer.

But Reps. Roy Dyson, R-Md., and Bill Chappell, D-Fla., dismissed reports that they had come under scrutiny in the investigation, while two more defense contractors, Martin Marietta Corp. and LTV Corp., disclosed they had been served with subpoenas in the probe.

Reagan said he was "very proud" of the investigators who conducted the probe without telling the president until this week. The secret investigation meant "there was no panicking and no leaks of anyone running for cover," Reagan said on CNN's "Moneyline."

But with about 6 million people involved in the defense procurement process, "the law of averages says that not all six million are going to turn out to be heroes," he said.

Dyson confirmed in a telephone interview Friday night from his home that he and his late aide, Tom Pappas, had met with a military consultant and former vice president of Umsys Corp., Charles Gardner, in New York the weekend Pappas committed suicide.

The FBI served a search warrant Tuesday on Gardner's home in Malverne, N.Y., as well as on Umsys plants and offices in Great Neck, N.Y. and Blagden, Minn.

"It was a very standard invitation to come to their plant, get a briefing on a number of programs Umsys is involved in," Dyson said, adding that as a member of the House Armed Services Committee, "there's really nothing unusual about that."

The congressman noted there is a Umsys facility two miles from his home and his district includes a large Navy facility, the Patuxent Naval Air Test Center.

Dyson said the defense probe had nothing to do with Pappas' suicide May 1 when he leaped to his death from a hotel room in New York City.

A government source familiar with the probe said that Dyson is not under active investigation.

The 2-year-old investigation centers on allegations that defense contractors received secret information from former government officials whom they listed as consultants. Public officials were bribed as part of the scheme, according to a search warrant.

CBS News, citing an unidentified administration official, reported Friday that seven Defense Department employees are suspected of accepting bribes or gifts in return for inside information on Pentagon contracts.

And ABC News reported that undisclosed officials said the payoffs run into millions of dollars in cash in addition to gifts and cars.

Chappell, D-Fla., chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on defense, characterized as a "bunch of bunk" a report Friday in The Los Angeles Times that he is under scrutiny in the case. Chappell's panel oversees defense spending.

A company in Chappell's congressional district, Arntec Inc. of Palatka, Fla., is one of 15 defense contractors whose offices were searched by FBI agents Tuesday.

Arntec's president, William W. Roberts, is a personal friend of the Chappell's. He said his company "is not aware of any wrongdoing" and will cooperate with investigators.

Chappell's financial disclosure form for 1987 shows that he accepted $3,000 in speaking fees from defense firms searched by the FBI.

At the center of the investigation is former Pentagon official Melvyn Paisley, whose office was bugged and telephone tapped for two years.

Paisley, assistant secretary of the Navy for research, engineering and systems from 1981 to April 1987, is now a Washington consultant to numerous defense contractors, including McDonnell Douglas Corp. and United Technologies Corp. Both companies had offices that were searched Tuesday.

English rowdies skuffle in Frankfurt, W. Germany

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Rival West German rowdies brawled in Munich and fights between English, Italian and German fans erupted for a second night in Frankfurt where thousands of police were put on alert.

English fans, on a self-proclaimed "Invasion of Germany 1988," have descended on Frankfurt for Saturday's match against the Soviet Union in the two-week, West German-hosted European Soccer Championship.

Police on Friday said the body of a 29-year-old Irish soccer fan was found floating in the Main River running through Frankfurt.

There was no immediate indication of foul play in the death, police said, and the victim apparently drowned while intoxicated. The body was discovered on Thursday night.

Soccer-related violence broke out in Munich on Friday, and police put the blame on rival gangs of West German thugs.

Munich police arrested 50 rowdies — most of them West

Germans — for street brawling or for tearing up compartments on two trains bringing fans to the Bavarian capital for the Friday night West Germany-Soviet soccer match.

One of those arrested was from England, while most of the others were West Germans, police said.

Police in Munich also said at others including West German "Skinheads" had been rounded up without being charged to prevent them from causing trouble near the city's train station.

Small groups of English, West German and Italian rowdies got into isolated scuffles near Frankfurt's main train station Friday night, police said. About 300 beer-drinking English fans had been milling about in the area since Friday afternoon.

Late Friday night in Frankfurt, police charged and dispersed dozens of drunken English soccer fans near the train station, officials said.

"They (the English) came out of a bar looking for trouble and they got it," said Peter Stakstweez, a Frankfurt police spokesman.

Man keeps vigil by sons' graves

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — For almost a month now, Floyd Choat has been lying outside on an insulated sleeping bag with only a canvas tarp to protect him from evening chills, rains and the brutal afternoon heat.

The 55-year-old, self-employed construction worker says he is not after a spot in the Guinness World Book of Records.

He says he is acting on orders from God to lie at this spot — a nook between the graves of his two sons.

In the mid-afternoon hours of May 21, Choat plopped himself down between the gray tombstones of sons Ronnie, 27, who died last year of cancer, and Jonathan, 15, who was killed in an accidental shooting in 1977.

In a solitary ritual that has confounded his family, friends and Somervell County authorities, he's remained in the same horizontal position at the same spot at Squaw Creek Cemetery near Glen Rose, the Somervell County seat about 50 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

Choat says God instructed him to lie there not to grieve for his dead sons, but, quite simply, as a publicity stunt inspired by the Almighty.

"God does strange things on occasion to get people's attention," he said as he perched beneath a sleeping bag fashioned into shelter against midday temperatures that climbed into the 90s.

According to Choat, God said, "I want you to lay there between the two graves and I want you to lay there until I tell you to get up."

So Choat did just that. When relatives found him a few hours later, "They thought I was nuts," he said.

After they were convinced he was not joking, Choat's relatives provided him with the necessary items for an indefinite stay, which for the first three weeks included only water for sustenance.

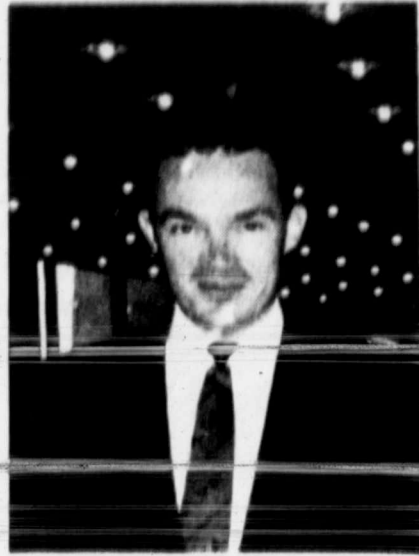

Later, when it became apparent the word of Providence might be a while in coming and after he lost about 15 pounds, Choat began easing back into solid food, culminating with a shrimp dinner on his 31st wedding anniversary.

Every few days, Choat takes a sponge bath. His wife periodically brings fresh clothes, and relatives bring water and food daily.

He gets little exercise, but says he is fit. He reads a Bible to pass the time and has several visitors to fill his days.

Although he says he is prepared for the long haul, Choat admits he is more than ready for home if God is ready to send him. The first order of business will be a long shower, followed by a haircut, he said.

His wife, Margaret Choat, says she just tries to understand.

WILLIAM C. "BILL" BASS

Bass graduates from law school

William C. "Bill" Bass recently graduated from South Texas College of Law in Houston with a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree. Upon passing the February Texas Bar Examination and being inducted into the Texas Bar as a newly licensed attorney, he immediately accepted a position as an associate attorney with the Houston-based firm of Harrell & Solomon, P. C., which specializes in business-franchise litigation.

Bass is a native of Snyder and the son of Mrs. Joyce Bass of 2802 46th Street and the late W. Prentis Bass. He graduated from Snyder High School and Western Texas College before earning his Bachelor of Business Administration degree at Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos.

Bass' 10 year high school reunion will take place this month, but he said that he may not be able to attend because he is preparing for trial.

He plans to remain in Houston for a few years, but does not rule out the possibility of someday moving back to West Texas, to open a law practice.

Rain brings little relief to nation's parched midsection

By The Associated Press

A drought that has dried up crops, pastures and rivers will continue in the Midwest for at least another month, forecasters warned while crews Saturday dredged the shallow Mississippi and Ohio rivers in hopes of freeing 1,700 stranded barges.

Showers and thunderstorms extended Friday across parts of Iowa, Kansas, Arkansas, South Dakota, Montana and the lower Mississippi Valley, as well as parts of the Southeast and the West.

But the widely scattered rain had little impact.

"The drought continues, basically," National Weather Service meteorologist Lyle Alexander said Saturday from Kansas City, Mo. "The heart of the Midwest will remain dry, the areas that are most critical right now."

The weather service has predicted a continuation of the dry weather through at least July 15, with the possibility of a 20 percent to 25 percent loss in corn yields compared with the 10 percent loss suffered to date.

Northeastern Iowa needs 5 inches of rain to restore normal growing conditions, and the rest of the state needs between 2 and 4 inches, Iowa State extension climatologist Elwynn Taylor said. Some areas received up to an inch Friday, but most parts got less than a quarter-inch, Alexander said.

Iowa ordered irrigators and other heavy water users along the Winnebago, English and Little Cedar rivers and a section of the Cedar River to stop pumping water, with officials saying similar bans are being considered to protect other low-flowing streams.

Minnesota officials also suspended river-fed irrigation by 22 farmers along the Elk River, which has dropped so low that a landowner reported hearing "fish at night trying to flop their way through the river."

Responding to the growing crisis, which could lead to higher food prices, members of a congressional task force on the drought met Friday with U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng in Washington.

Lyng has said lawmakers should wait to learn more about the full extent of the damage before writing legislation to aid farmers. Six senators planned to tour the sun-scorched wheat lands of Montana and the Dakotas this weekend.

USDA officials reiterated that much of the wheat crop in those states already is severely damaged, but that an inch or so of rain once a week for the rest of the growing season could save the Midwest's corn and soybean fields.

Hundreds of barges sat idle Friday on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers due to low water levels. Officials said Sunday would be the earliest that safe travel could resume.

The Mississippi is at its lowest levels since authorities began keeping records in 1872.

About 1,000 barges were halted on the Mississippi near Greenville, Miss., waiting for dredges to clear a channel, while nearly 700 barges were stuck on the Ohio awaiting dredging near Mound City, Ill., authorities said, adding that tow boat owners were losing about $10,000 a day.

CRMWD reports good May figures

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is coming up on the halfway mark of 1988 in excellent financial condition.

Income through five months is 2.2 percent ahead of budget, while expenses are 9.70 percent under. This translates to $365,000 on the plus side.

Revenues of $1,115,912 in May brought to $5,018,272 for five months, or $111,402 more than anticipated. Bulk of income came from sale of $1,087,665 in water during May and $4,934,955 for the five months.

Of the May expenses of $550,136, $334,373 was for electric energy; the five months total of $2,362,107 included $1,333,232 for electric power.

Water revenues were based on sale of 1,519,507,550 gallons in May and 8,146,895,560 gallons through May. Of the May total, 84,476,450 gallons was in unpotable water sold to oil companies for secondary recovery; for five months this figure was 445,757,510.

Nero, the Roman emperor whose ruthless behavior made his name a byword for cruelty, committed suicide in A.D. 68. When Claudius I died, Nero, his adopted son, succeeded as Claudius Caesar. ## Scurry Co. youths receive scholarships

Four youths from Scurry County have recently become recipients of large scholarships. Three have received an $8,000 four year scholarship from the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo and one was a $10,000 four year scholarship from the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo.

Beneficiaries of the Houston scholarships are Ben Smith of Hermleigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith; Rodney Foster of Hermleigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Foster; and Mark Hargrove of Snyder and Rotan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Hargrove.

Jana Burrow of Ira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Burrow, is the recipient of the San Antonio scholarship.

All are 1988 high school graduates and all plan to attend the college of their choice this fall. Smith plans to major in agricultural economics at Western Texas College. Foster will major in agriculture economics at Texas Tech University. Hargrove will attend Texas A&M and Burrow will attend Texas Tech.

Hargrove recently graduated from Snyder High School in the top quarter of his class. He was involved in FFA, serving as chapter president and chapter vice president. He was the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer and received the Lone Star Farmer degree. He showed prize winning Hereford steers and attended the state FFA convention.

 While in high school, Hargrove was an officer in the National Honor Society, president of forensics club and squad leader of the marching band.

He plans to major in biochemistry at Texas A&M University.

Burrow participated in FFA all four years in high school and took part in leadership and judging teams. She was the 1987-88 valedictorian at Ira High School and was named outstanding student in history, science and English. She also participated in the pep squad and UIL spelling and accounting.

Smith recently graduated from Hermleigh High School where he ranked second in his class. He was involved in FFA, serving as

Smugglers are linked to Noriega

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — International drug smugglers linked to Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega conspired to import more than $1 billion worth of cocaine and marijuana into the United States, a federal indictment charges.

The 25-count indictment unsealed Friday at Lafayette police headquarters accused 170 people of smuggling 500,000 pounds of drugs, some of it through south Louisiana, and with plotting to smuggle in at least another million pounds.

The total value of the drugs involved was placed at more than $1 billion, and U.S. Attorney Joe Cagle called it perhaps the largest U.S. narcotic smuggling ring ever. He said the organization planned to "flood" the United States with illicit drugs.

chapter president and chapter vice president. He received the Star Greenhand and Lone Star Farmer awards and showed prize winning pigs and lambs.

While in high school, he was vice president of the senior class, vice president of the Beta Club and captain of the basketball team.

Smith plans to major in agricultural economics at Western Texas College.

Foster recently graduated from Hermleigh High School in the top quarter of his class. He was named valedictorian of the 1987-88 graduating class at Hermleigh. He was involved in FFA, serving as chapter vice president and chapter secretary. He was a Lone Star Farmer and Star Greenhand and showed prize winning swine and lambs.

While in high school, he was treasurer of his junior class, vice president of the Beta Club and captain of the football and basketball teams.

Foster plans to major in agricultural economics at Texas Tech University.

Britain expels Israeli diplomat, PLO official

LONDON (AP) — Britain ordered the expulsions of an Israeli diplomat and a PLO official, and expressed irritation with Israeli spying after a Palestinian double agent was convicted of weapons violations.

The Foreign Office said Friday it was expelling Israeli attache Arie Regev and the PLO's London press officer, Zaki al Hawa, "because of activities incompatible with their diplomatic duties."

The phraseology is used as a euphemism for espionage. The ministry gave no other details of their activities.

It said they must leave the country by the end of June.

Friday's order came a day after a British court convicted a Palestinian on weapons charges. Prosecutors had accused him of spying for Israel while he did favors for the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The ministry made it clear that Britain had expressed annoyance that the Israeli intelligence agency Mossad had not kept Britain informed of its operations here.

Mossad's failure to do so cost Scotland Yard a chance to arrest a PLO member linked to the murder of an Arab cartoonist in London last summer.

The ministry also disclosed that Israeli Ambassador Yehuda Avner was told in October that a former member of his staff, attache Jacob Barad, would not be allowed to return to Britain.

Reports published Saturday said Barad, who arrived in London in 1984 and left in the summer of 1987, was suspected of coordinating the work of Mossad with Regev, who also arrived here in 1984.

It is believed to be the first time that Israeli diplomats have been declared persona non grata in Britain since diplomatic relations were established after Israel was founded 40 years ago.

In Jerusalem, a Foreign Ministry spokesman regretted that Britain "has seen fit to take measures of the kind adopted. Israel did not act against any British interests."

The PLO office said it was dismayed by the expulsion order on al Hawa and contrasted its own "constant respect for British law" with Israel's "flagrant disregard" of it.

The expulsions came a day after a 28-year-old Palestinian, Ishmael Sowan, was sentenced to 11 years in prison. He was convicted in Old Bailey criminal court Wednesday of possessing explosives, grenades and rifles.

Prosecutors said he kept the weapons for Abder Mustapha, a PLO member suspected of arranging the shooting death of Arab cartoonist Ali Najj Awad Al-Adhami. But Sowan was at the same time spying on Mustapha for Mossad, the prosecution alleged.

In its trial coverage, The Times of London said Mossad failed to tell British authorities that Mustapha was in Britain. Britain had issued an exclusion order against Mustapha and was unaware he had returned.

News reports said the exclusion order against Mustapha was issued because of suspicion about his activities — not evidence of an offense.

Sowan was arrested in August when police were investigating the shooting of the cartoonist. However, he was not a murder suspect.

Sowan testified that the weapons found in his house in the eastern port city of Hull belonged to Mustapha. Police said Mustapha fled to the Middle East after Al-Adhami was shot.

In 1789, John Adams was sworn in as the first vice president of the United States.

Financial Focus

Taxes are a concern when investing for income

If you are an income investor, perhaps one of your concerns is having enough spendable income after taxes to keep up with inflation and still get a reasonable return on your money. Because of this, taxes have become a major consideration in investment planning.

A recent study reported by XEROX Financial Services, a major fixed-income money manager, illustrates the difference in spendable income a taxpayer in a 35 percent marginal tax bracket would recognize by investing in 60-month tax exempt municipal bonds versus 12-month Certificates of Deposit. The study covered 1982 through 1986 (the reason a 35 percent tax bracket is used), a period of widely fluctuating interest rates. XEROX based the illustration on average annual CD prime rates and average annual yields for high-quality general obligation municipal bonds.

In referring to the chart, notice the wide fluctuation in average annual CD rates, 13.16 percent in 1982 to 7.39 percent in 1986. Each year, except 1984, as the CD matured, investors were faced with the decision of whether or not to reinvest at a lower rate. In contrast, 60-month municipal bonds remained stable at 8.71 percent. At the end of that time, the principal matured and was returned. Investors then had the opportunity to re-evaluate investment objectives.

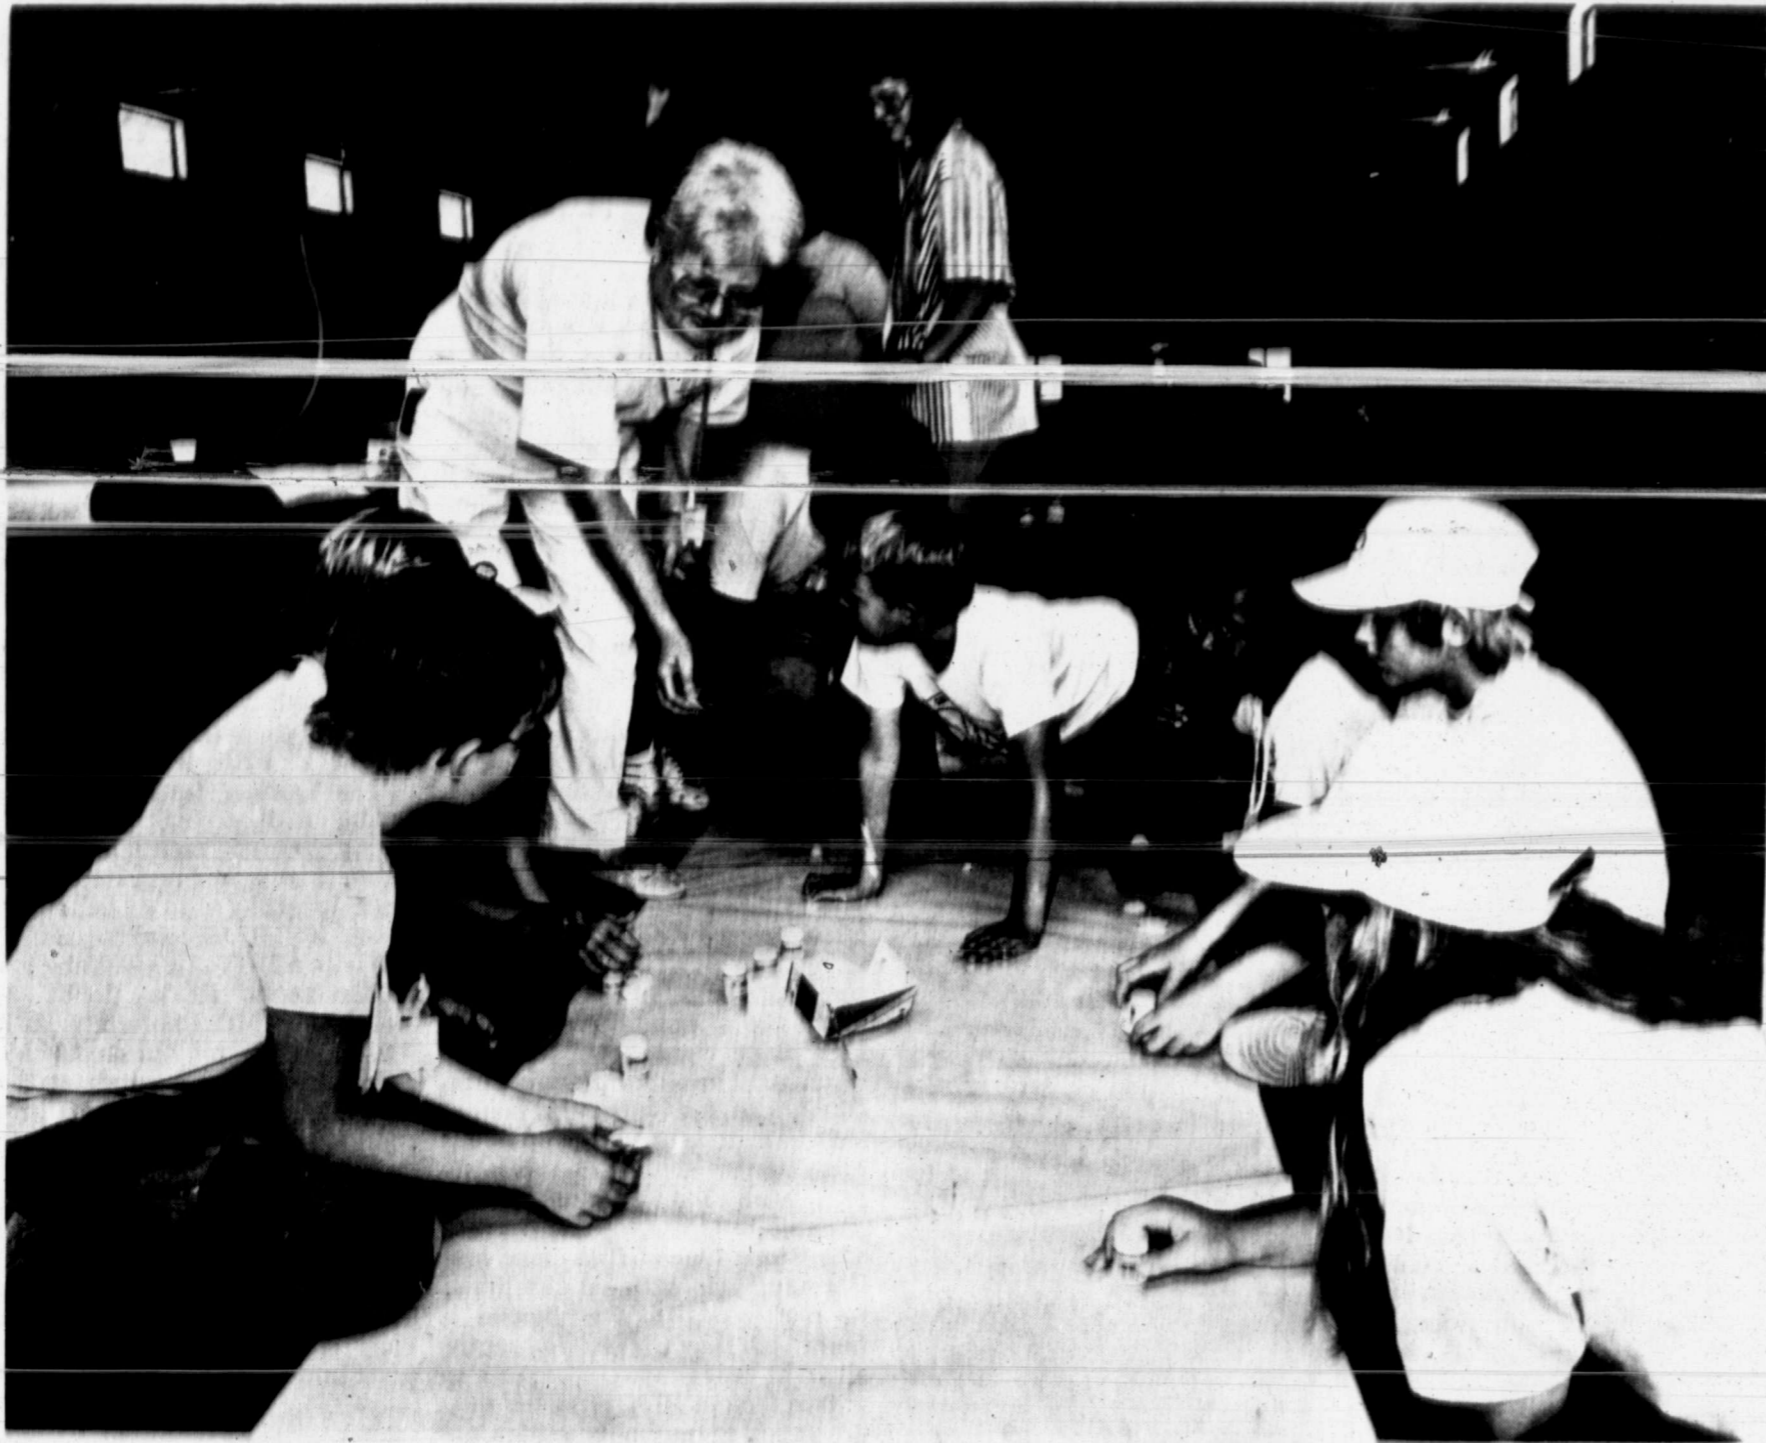

In the illustration, two hypothetical investors took different approaches to fixed-income investing. Each investor placed $100,000, for which they had no foreseeable need in the short term, into two different investments. Investor A selected 12-month taxable CDs while Investor B opted for a 60-month tax-free municipal. Over the five-year period, Investor A earned $50,360 in interest, $17,626 of which was lost to taxes. This left Investor A with $32,734 of spendable income, money he could either reinvest or use for living expenses.

Investor B earned $43,550 on his investment, slightly less than A, but since this was tax-free income, it was all his to keep. The bottom line is Investor B enjoyed an extra $10,816 of spendable income that otherwise would have been lost to taxes.

The important thing about income from your investments is only the part you are allowed to keep after taxes is of any benefit to you.

In the illustration, Investor B made certain he kept more income by eliminating the federal taxes due on it. That additional spendable income could be used for five IRA contributions, one to two years of college expenses, five great vacations, a new car or whatever else you may decide to do with it. It's income saved in taxes.

Although taxes should not be your main concern when investing, they are an essential consideration. To ignore the effect of taxes on your income could be a very expensive oversight.

City struggles with staggering budget deficit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you run short of cash at the end of the month, imagine the dismay of newly elected Mayor Art Agnos when he found San Francisco in the same boat — floundering in $179 million of red ink.

When former Mayor Dianne Feinstein turned over the reins to Agnos in January, she boasted of the city's fiscal strength and pointed proudly to nine consecutive years of balanced budgets.

When she first took office, the city faced a $120 million deficit. Once during her tenure there was a substantial surplus. Three years ago, the city faced a $76 million deficit, but erased it through budget cuts.

As Feinstein left, she warned of the toll taken on city finances by the AIDS epidemic, homeless problem, Proposition 13, and the elimination of the federal revenue-sharing programs.

Other factors contributing to the latest deficit, she said, included unforeseen costs of toxic controls, comparable worth, jail expenses, decreased water revenues and repeal of a utility tax that cut revenue by $10 million.

While Agnos acknowledges the problems Feinstein cited, he criticized her administration after arriving at City Hall to find a flood of red ink facing him for fiscal 1988-1989.

"Raiding reserves for a one-time fix that will simply roll the deficit problem into the next year does not solve our budget problem," Agnos said. "In fact, that is how we got into this deficit situation in the first place."

In a bid to partially refill the city's coffers, Agnos backed Proposition K on the June 7 ballot. The measure would have allowed San Francisco to raise strict spending limits set by the statewide Gann initiative and collect additional taxes from businesses hotels and parking.

Without that permission from voters, Agnos warned that essential city services would suffer. He called for wage freezes and forecast that 160 police officers would have to go, along with three fire stations and four library branches.

Agnos watched in dismay as voters rejected the measure, sending a message to City Hall to live within its means.

The voters did provide some help, approving a measure that will save $43 million by freezing city employee salaries.

With a July deadline looming for adoption of a tentative budget and August deadline for the final document, battle lines are being drawn.

Union leaders, city supervisors, department heads, private business executives, neighborhood representatives and city employees are making their cases in backrooms, boardrooms and rallies at City Hall. But despite the mayor's warning that there are no "magic ballouts," he appears to have found a few surprise windfalls to help fill out the $179 million shortfall.

A week after the election, the mayor announced the city had discovered it mistakenly counted court-mandated expenses when setting its spending limit.

By excluding such expenses, Agnos said, San Francisco can raise the limit by an estimated $20 million to $30 million. That means business taxes and fees can be implemented and public safety layoffs may not be needed.

Elderly angry about rising appraisals

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — About 3,000 angry tax protesters, many of them elderly and on fixed incomes, paraded through the center of this North Texas town complaining of property appraisals that have in some instances doubled.

Carrying signs that said "Down With Taxes" and "Sherman Tea Party," the protesters rallied Friday on the Grayson County Courthouse lawn.

"I don't think there's ever been that many (people) before, not even for the Santa Claus parade," said Billie Jo Walton, a police department clerk in this city about 70 miles north of Dallas. "That's the biggest parade we have."

The protest of mostly senior citizens was organized by H.K. Lyde, a retired businessman who warned city, county and school officials against using the increased property appraisals — the basis for setting each taxpayer's levy on real estate and other property — "as an excuse to hide behind a tax increase."

Lyde said the higher assessments, coming during a downturn in local real estate, tapped a general anti-tax sentiment in a county with a high proportion of retired residents.

"We're a marching tax army," said Lyde. "We're mean and we're mad. We ain't backing down from no man and no mayor."

Bob Tollison, administrator of the Grayson County Appraisal District, said some tax assessments jumped dramatically because the county was conducting its first comprehensive reappraisal in five or six years.

Although the average increase countywide was 14 percent, as

Six arrested; cocaine seized

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Federal and local law enforcement officers arrested six people and seized 72 pounds of cocaine hidden on a docked Colombian freighter during two separate raids.

"Anytime you get 72 pounds of cocaine in a very short period of time like this, you are stopping a lot of flow of illegal drugs into our country," said U.S. Attorney Bob Wortham after the raids on Thursday and Friday.

Wortham estimated the cocaine had a potential wholesale value of at least $600,000, the Beaumont Enterprise reported.

Wortham said the two caches of cocaine were smuggled into Port Arthur aboard the freighter Don Alejo from Barranquilla, Colombia, by two separate groups of people including two seamen from the vessel.

Officers arrested four people, two seamen from the Don Alejo, a Houston woman and a man believed to be a Panamanian na-many as 700 property owners saw their assessed values rise by at least 75 percent, he said.

"Some of them went up 100 percent, but that was very rare," Tollison said. "Eighty percent of our complaints are from people over 65 years of age. They're on fixed incomes, and they're concerned with taxes."

Many protesters complained that the appraisals were inaccurate.

"If I could sell my house for what they appraised it at, I'd sell it. It isn't worth that much," said Warren Bernard, a retired food processing worker who saw the assessed value of his Sherman home rise 90 percent this year, from $20,000 to $38,000.

The tax appraisal is the foundation local governments use for setting property tax rates and is supposed to be based on the "fair market value" of a taxpayer's real estate and other property.

City councils, county commissions and local school boards set tax rates — the amount of tax per $100 of assessed property value.

For example, the 1987 tax rate for a Sherman homeowner was $1.88 per $100 of assessed value. Hence, the owner of a home appraised at $50,000 paid $940 in school, city, county and junior college taxes this year.

An increase in tax assessments without a corresponding lowering in tax rates results in an automatic increase in tax revenue.

Lyde said he's demanding that local governments lower their tax rates to offset the increases in assessments.

As rodeo heads to finals...

Gaffney's 78 delights CNFR

BOZEMAN, Mont. — Michael Gaffney delighted the Colosseum National Finals Rodeo crowd with a spectacular ride Friday night, putting Western Texas College at the forefront of the attention here — if not the point standings.

Gaffney, a freshman from Clarendon, N.M., scored a 78 to win the second-go of the bull riding and take first place in the average into Saturday's finals.

What's more, the Western Texas College freshman drew well for the finals.

"Michael has a good bull," said WTC Rodeo Coach Bob Doty. "I think he can handle him on any given day, but the bull's pretty rank. If he rides, I think he'll win the go-round and the average."

Unfortunately for Western Texas, Gaffney's 120 points for winning the second-go cannot be added to the team total. Though a student at Western Texas, Gaffney is not a member of the designated six-man team. He qualified for the CNFR by finishing runner-up in the bull riding in the Southwest Region.

Western did send two team members to the finals.

Snyder native Adam Brewster qualified in the bull riding and bareback events while North Platte, Neb., cowboy Ray Brown advanced in the calf roping.

When the dust settled after the second-go round Friday, Brewster ended up tied for fifth in the second-go of the bull riding with a 71. His 146 on two was tied for second place in the average with Rex Phillips of Montana State. Gaffney's 149 led the average.

Brewster was also to return in Saturday's finals of the bareback with a 137 on two head, which was eighth in the average.

The top 10 contestants in each event after the two-goes advanced to the finals.

Brown was to join Gaffney and Brewster in the finals. The freshman clocked a quick 9.4 in the calf roping to place sixth in the second-go. He tied for ninth in the average with 20.5 on two head.

Brown also flashed a 5.1 in the steer wrestling for ninth place in the second-go. A 9.4 in the first round left him with a 20.5 total, however, and kept him out of the finals in that event.

"Ray's steer ran real hard. He made a real good run after he got a hold of him, but it took too long get him," said Doty. "He made a super run in the calf roping. He didn't have any time to spare. Another two-tenths and he wouldn't have made it (qualified for Saturday's finals)."

Western's only other competitors on Friday, Wesley Henderson and Shawn Odum, took a no-time in the steer wrestling.

Doty put WTC's chances to finish well in the team competition in perspective.

"We're way down the line. It would be almost impossible if not impossible for us to win it. We just have 45 points and that's in 17th place right now," he said, noting that Southwestern Oklahoma led with 276 points.

"We can move up in the top five, I hope. We're going to have to do real well but I think we're capable."

Western placed fifth here last year and was national champion in 1986. Doty has advanced a team to the CNFR for eight straight years.

Two former WTC students also advanced to the finals. Mike Carrillo, now competing for Sul Ross, split second place with three others in the bareback with a 74

Friday. He headed into the finals in fifth place with a 145 on two.

"He's got the favored horse and I really look for Michael to win it," noted Doty.

Also reaching the finals was former WTC student Shelly Tate, now attending Eastern New Mexico University. Tate was fourth in the second-go of the goat tying with a 6.9. Her total 16.2 time was 10th in the average.

Other Southwest Region contestants qualifying for Saturday's finals were Ty Murray of Odessa, 10th in the average of the bareback with a 134; Bubba Flores, Odessa, third in the calf roping with a 19.6; Guy Yarbrough, Odessa, eighth in the calf roping with a 20.3 and 10th in the steer wrestling with a 13.1; Patty Dixon, ENMU, second in the barrels with a 27.67 after winning the second round Friday in 13.57; and Paige McElhanon, WTSU, who tied with Texas Tech's Karen Cochran for ninth in the breakaway with a 7.1. Cochran also advanced in sixth place to the finals of the goat tying with a 15.4 on two.

Joe McKown of New Mexico Junior College and Kenneth Key of Tarleton State won the second-go in the team roping with a 5.6. They took a no-time earlier in the week and did not qualify for the finals.

Olds scramble slated June 25

Simpson 'open' for success

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) - Scott Simpson hit his drive off the 18th tee at The Country Club just into the short rough on the right side of the fairway.

Smiling and walking, as he did always while charging into the U.S. Open lead, Simpson reached his ball. He selected a 5-iron and hit it into the rough behind the green.

In a rare show of emotion, the smile left his face. It was back when he started walking as he acknowledged the applause of the gathered crowd with a timid wave.

Simpson, defending U.S. Open champion, is shooting a routinely spectacular round. And now, he finally admits there is a decent chance for him to become the first consecutive winner of U.S. Open titles in 37 years.

"I always thought I had a chance to win, but it was not very likely," said Simpson, who was willing to concede the title on Wednesday and Thursday.

"Now, I guess it's a little more likely."

and Azinger 70. Jay Haas also shot 67 to stand at 140 along with D.A. Weibring. Larry Nelson shot the day's sixth 67 but had 78 in the opening round to stand at 145.

The other first-round leader, Mike Nicolette, teed off in the next-to-last group of the day and was on the 17th hole when play was suspended by rain. He elected to finish the hole and stood at 1-under for the tournament. After getting to 5-under at the turn, Nicolette went bogey-double bogey-bogey. He was scheduled to resume his round Saturday.

Simpson shot a second-round 66, low score of the tournament, to take a one-stroke lead over Larry Mize at 7-under-par 135 going into Saturday's third round. No man has won consecutive U.S. Opens since Ben Hogan in 1950 and '51.

Simpson could have shot 65, but he finished with a bogey on 18 after chipping past the hole 25 feet for a 36 on the back nine. He shot 30 on the front side after birdies at Nos. 1, 3, 6, 7 and 8, tying the U.S. Open record for nine holes.

Mize, the 1987 Masters champion, was one of six players to shoot 4-under 67 in the second round and was one shot behind Simpson at 136. Bob Gilder, one of three who shared the first-round lead at 68, shot 69 for a 137. He was tied with Curtis Strange, who shot 67 in the late afternoon as some rain began to fall.

Sandy Lyle, who also shot a first-round 68, fell to 71 for 3-under 139 along with Fred Couples, Paul Azinger and Nick Faldo. Couples and Faldo had 67s

The tournament lost one of its perennial contenders after nine holes when Greg Norman withdrew with a damaged tendon in his left hand. He hit a rock with his club on the ninth hole, finished the hole, then withdrew. Norman flew to Birmingham, Ala., to be examined today by orthopedic surgeon Dr. James Andrews.

The injury is a recurring one. Norman, who shot 74 in the first round, said he first injured the hand as a child, "but this is the worst it's been."

For Norman, it was yet another disappointment in a major tournament, including playoff losses in the 1984 U.S. Open and 1987 Masters.

Among those missing the cut at 146, which tied the record for the lowest U.S. Open cut, were Jack Nicklaus, Andy North, Bernhard Langer, Gary Player, Bobby Wadkins and Hubert Green.

IBF will vacate title if Tyson bout goes 12

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Robert W. Lee, president of the International Boxing Federation, said Friday the IBF heavyweight title will be vacated if champion Mike Tyson steps into the ring for a 12-round fight against Michael Spinks June 27.

Lee also said there will be no more meetings on subject.

"Our position is clear, and I see no reason for another meeting," Lee said. "Either the fight is for 15 rounds as originally agreed on or he relinquishes the title."

Bill Cayton, Tyson's manager, insists that the bout in Atlantic City be for 12-rounds, noting that the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association, which also recognize Tyson as champion, and many national governing bodies have 12-round limits in the interest of safety.

The IBF voted earlier this month to reduce its limit from 15 to 12 rounds, but not until September.

"I find Lee's attitude and action outrageous and totally inappropriate," Cayton said in New York. "We'll take any legal action we can to stop it."

Lee met Wednesday with Cayton and attorneys, and they were supposed to meet again Monday.

Lee also said he is to appear at a hearing June 22 in U.S. District Court in Newark concerning a temporary injunction sought by the IBF to enjoin the WBA and WBC from stripping Tyson of his title if he participates in a 15-round bout against Spinks. The IBF also seeks damages.

Lee contends the three organizations agreed to take turns being in charge of Tyson's defenses. When the IBF was the lead organization - for Tyson's seventh-round knockout of Tyrell Biggs last Oct. 16, the fight was scheduled for 15 rounds.

Cayton said Jose Sulaiman, president of the WBC, told him his organization agreed to 15-rounds as a one-time proposition. James Binns, counsel for the WBA, also said his organization no longer will sanction 15-round fights.

Historian urges man's exoneration

MOSCOW (AP) — A leading Soviet historian said Friday that revolutionary Leon Trotsky should be exonerated of criminal charges nearly 50 years after he was driven from the Soviet Union, reviled as a traitor to socialism and murdered.

Yuri Afanasyev, in one of the boldest proposals to date in the campaign for greater openness, also called for publication in the Soviet Union of Trotsky's works, which have been banned.

Exonerating Trotsky of criminal charges would be another major step toward the rehabilitation of early Soviet leaders who were purged and killed by Kremlin leader Josef Stalin.

Publishing Trotsky's work and revoking the criminal charges against him would continue an intensifying campaign against the legacy of Stalin, who died in 1953.

It could also lead to reexamination of the key role that Trotsky played in the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution, creating the Red Army and leading the Communists to victory against counterrevolutionaries in the ensuing Russian Civil War.

That might lead Soviet historians to reevaluate and possibly diminish the role played by Vladimir I. Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state, who relied heavily on Trotsky during the early years of Bolshevik rule.

The Soviets have already taken several steps in this direction, even publishing an article mildly critical of Lenin.

The journal Novy Mir reported this month that Lenin was excessively harsh in abolishing all private property, establishing labor camps, and heavily taxing peasants. The article said Lenin later saw that he was wrong.

Following Lenin's death in 1924, Stalin defeated Trotsky in a power struggle, forcing him out of the Communist Party in 1927 and out of the Soviet Union two years later.

Trotsky was accused of leading an anti-Soviet plot and was murdered in Mexico City in 1940, reportedly on Stalin's orders.

Until last fall, Trotsky was a "non-person" in the Soviet Union, his writings and works universally condemned.

Asked whether the works of Trotsky and former Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev might be published soon, Afanasyev answered:

"I can speak on behalf of myself and think they should be republished and accessible for when professors and teachers try to criticize Trotsky while they haven't read a single word by Trotsky," Afanasyev told a news conference at the Foreign Ministry press center.

Afanasyev said that exonerating Trotsky of criminal charges and publishing his books would not constitute an endorsement of his ideas, which are out of line with the more liberal policies of Gorbachev.

Trotsky, born Lev Bronstein, was the son of a prosperous Jewish farmer. He helped direct the coup that brought the Bolsheviks to power, then became commissar for foreign affairs and later war, creating and commanding the Red Army.

He is known as the main advocate of the "Theory of Permanent Revolution," which held that the Bolshevik Revolution was a prelude to class uprisings throughout Europe.

Jackson draws enthusiastic response

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson thundered into the Texas Democratic Convention Friday looking for a plurality of the state's delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

"Democrats, how do we win?" he asked Friday night in an address to the 5,288 delegates. "We win when we expand the party and make room for people."

Jackson's Texas officials were confident he would wind up with the largest share of Texas delegates at the Atlanta convention next month.

The state will send 211 delegates. Sixty-four were to be selected at the two-day state convention that ends Saturday.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis edged Jackson in delegates awarded at the March 8 primary, picking up 43 to Jackson's 42.

U.S. Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee earned 25 delegates at the primary, and U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri won nine. Gore endorsed Dukakis Thursday, but on Friday, in a telephone call, told his supporters here to continue to back him so Gore delegates could go to Atlanta.

The Texas delegation also includes 28 "superdelegates" selected from party and elected officials.

Texas Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, Dukakis' Texas chairman, acknowledged Friday night that Jackson could wind up with the most Texas delegates. The results were not expected until late Friday night or early Saturday.

"It doesn't mean a loss," Sharp said, adding that Dukakis' officials decided to avoid a bitter battle here. "Dukakis is better served by doing that than having a totally acrimonious blood-letting on the convention floor at the state convention."

Dukakis has enough delegates nationwide to guarantee he will be nominated in Atlanta.

Jackson drew excited receptions all day.

"We are so close to the goal and so far from where we started," Jackson told his Texas delegates shortly before the convention began.

He delighted the full convention by saying, "Bush and Reagan have been living in public housing long enough."

U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth said in his keynote address Friday night that Texans are tired of the GOP administration.

"In these eight years, this administration has done to education what Jesse James did to the banks. In Texas, they have done to the banks what Jesse James did to the banks," Wright said.

During his speech, leaders of the Veterans Peace Convoy to Nicaragua, which was stopped at the border by U.S. officials, were allowed into the George R. Brown Convention Center. Texas Democratic Party Executive Director Ed Martin told convoy leaders that the delegates on Saturday probably would approve a resolution endorsing their effort to bring vehicles and supplies to war-torn Central America.

Jackson's first stop here was at a Texas Coalition of Black Democrats' luncheon where U.S. Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., and a Jackson supporter, acknowledged that Dukakis has the nomination locked up.

"Although (Jackson) may not be the party's nominee, his indelible imprint on the policies is very clear," Gray said.

Posing and answering a popular political question of the day, Jackson asked the crowd, "What does Jesse want?"

"It's such a contemptuous question and so disrespectful, as if the issue was a job or an assignment. The issue is what has Jesse built and where is Jesse going? He has built a progressive coalition," he said, adding later that he has earned "serious consideration" for the vice presidential spot on the Democratic ticket.

Jackson also drew an enthusiastic response at a gay-lesbian caucus, where he said, "The right to be one's self ... that is the American promise, American hope and American dream."

He called AIDS a "killer health crisis" that threatens all people.

Jackson had his delegates in a near-frenzy with his third speech of the day. He said their watchwords should be "details, discipline and hope."

"Our campaign started before Iowa. Our campaign will last beyond Atlanta."

Foreign debt topped agenda during visit in Washington

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican Treasury Secretary Gustavo Petricoli offered "alternative" proposals to reduce Mexico's foreign debt burden when he met this week with leaders of U.S. and multinational financial institutions in Washington, the Treasury Department said Thursday night.

Petricoli also urged U.S. Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III to place the foreign debt crisis high on the agenda when leaders of the Group of Seven industrialized countries meet next week in Toronto.

Mexico's inflation-fighting plan and a possible new bond issue to foreign creditors willing to retire Mexican debt paper also were discussed during the Washington meetings, the Treasury said in a statement.

Petricoli signed a $265 million World Bank loan for Mexico's fertilizer industry during his trip and also met with Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, World Bank President Barber Conable and International Monetary Fund Director Michel Camdessus.

Mexican Treasury Department officials who accompanied Petricoli held informal discussions with authorities from Canada, France, Spain, Japan, Britain and West Germany.

Participants in those meetings discussed the "search for more efficient formulas for the treatment of the problem of the debt and how to reach an adequate equilibrium between servicing the external obligations of Mexico and the undefeatable necessity of recuperating economic growth," the statement said.

Mexico's $105 billion foreign debt is the developing world's second largest, after Brazil.

The meetings "studied not only a proposal, but also a range of possibilities in which banks, financial authorities, international organizations and Mexico will continue working to reduce the weight of our debt," the statement said.

It added that the representatives of those nations agreed "to explore various alternative solutions" to easing Mexico's interest and principal payment schedules. The officials will meet again after the Group of Seven summit and "after those authorities visited have been able to study the Mexican proposals," the statement said.

Mexico paid between $8 billion and $9 billion in interest payments alone on the foreign debt last year.

Petricoli briefed Baker and Greenspan on the government's plans to offer a new debt-for-bonds swap program before Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid leaves office in December.

SAM SHIFFLETT

Shifflett picked for Bi-State Band

Sam Shifflett, who will be a junior this fall at Snyder High School, was one of 80 band students selected during the first week of June to participate in the ninth annual Bi-State Honor Band/Honor Choir auditions at McMurry College in Abilene.

Shifflett had to submit an audition tape of a percussion performance and based on that tape he was selected for the Bi-State Band which included band students from both New Mexico and Texas. He was nominated by his older sister, Laura Shifflett, who was herself a Bi-State band performer in previous years.

The band was under the direction of Tommy Fry who directs the McMurry band and performed in concert on June 11.

This was Shifflett's first time to audition for Bi-State Band. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Shifflett.

Woman given 99 year term for tampering with medicine

SEATTLE (AP) — A judge on Friday sentenced a woman to 90 years in prison for putting cyanide in the pain relief medicine that killed her husband and a stranger in the first case under a federal death by product tampering law to reach trial.

Stella Nickell appeared pale and unsmiling, but did not otherwise respond when sentenced. U.S. District Judge William Dwyer recommended that Mrs. Nickell, 44, of suburban Auburn, not be eligible for parole for a minimum of 30 years. Prosecutors alleged Mrs. Nickell killed her husband because she was tired of him and wanted to collect $176,000 in life insurance. They said a woman who died had no connection with the couple but became a victim of a plot to make Bruce Nickell's death appear the work of a random killer.

The deaths set off a nationwide tampering scare and caused Ex-cedrin manufacturer Bristol-

Myers Co. to recall its non-prescription capsule medicines.

The key witness in Mrs. Nickell's trial was her daughter, Cindy Hamilton, who testified her mother repeatedly discussed ways of killing Nickell, including copying the 1982 Tylenol poisonings in which seven Chicago-area people died. That case has never been solved.

Asked by Dwyer if she wanted to say anything before sentencing, she quietly replied, "No sir."

"It must be said that these are crimes of exceptional callousness and cruelty," Dwyer said, noting that poisoned capsules were left on store shelves and could easily have fallen into the hands of other people.

Mrs. Nickell, convicted May 9, received 90-year terms on each of two counts of product tampering resulting in the deaths of her husband and of Susan Katherine Snow, also of Auburn.

She also was sentenced to 10-year terms on each of three tampering counts for poisoning bottles of Extra-Strength Ex-cedrin and Anacin found in the Nickells' home and on store shelves.

All terms were to run concurrently. In addition, Dwyer levied a mandatory $250 minimum fine and said any of Mrs. Nickell's assets should be used to compensate her victims, especially Mrs. Snow's family.

However, Assistant U.S. Attorney Joanne Maida said Mrs. Nickell was indigent and the compensation issue was "academic."

Mrs. Nickell's attorney, Thomas Hiller, told Dwyer his client maintains her innocence and would appeal her conviction.

DAVID MILLER

Former resident is NSOU graduate

David Miller, former Snyder High School student, graduated from Northeastern State Oklahoma University recently and has taken a teaching and coaching position at Skiatook High School.

Miller was a high school graduate of Prue in 1983, but attended public schools in Snyder until his senior year.

He will be teaching general science and serving as varsity assistant coach for football and girls basketball at Skiatook High School, and will be girls varsity soccer coach.

Miller is the son of Bill and Dixie McClellan of Snyder.

Two are on Dean's List

ABILENE--Two students from the Snyder area are among 676 Abilene Christian University students listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring 1988 semester.

They are Rio Lee Evans of Hermleigh and Charlie McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. McCormick Jr. of Snyder.

To be listed on the honor roll, a student must be enrolled for at least 12 semester hours and earn a 3.45 grade point average or higher.

Inquiry of speaker's ethics a thorny issue for Michael Dukakis

BOSTON (AP) — Michael Dukakis insists an investigation of House Speaker Jim Wright will not affect his presidential bid, but Republicans who think otherwise are looking forward to pressing the issue during what should be Dukakis' shining moment — the Democratic National Convention.

Dukakis, the certain Democratic presidential nominee, wasted few opportunities during the primary season to lambaste malfeasance in the Reagan administration, delivering particularly harsh criticism of embattled Attorney General Edwin Meese III.

Now Republicans, who successfully sought a House ethics investigation of Wright's conduct, are firing back and trying to neutralize the so-called GOP "sleaze factor" with attacks on the nation's highest-ranking elected Democrat.

Wright is chairman of the national convention in Atlanta and as such will attract lots of national television time during the three-day gathering.

An embarrassment for Dukakis?

"I thought there was a presumption of innocence in this country," was his reply when asked Thursday.

That may be true in the courts; perhaps not in politics.

"In a politically charged atmosphere, it's going to take on a life of its own," said Bob Beckel, who managed Walter F. Mondale's 1984 presidential campaign. "The reality is that the Republicans are going to make every bit of political hay out of this — and they should."

When the Democrats huddle next month to crown Dukakis as their nominee and to set the tone for the campaign against Republican George Bush, there will be plenty of GOP strategists on hand to offer their perspective to the news media.

Wright will be in the limelight — and under the spotlight.

"He will be up there at the podium longer than Michael Dukakis or anyone else, for all to see, and that is an embarrassment," said William Schneider, a political analyst at the American Enterprise Institute.

"And every night we'll have (national GOP chairman) Frank Fahrenkopf on television talking about the Democrats and their 'sleaze factor,'" said Schneider. "Imagine if Ed Meese was running the Republican convention."

Dukakis aides say there have been no attempts to reduce Wright's visibility at the convention.

"The governor has talked to Speaker Wright and the speaker assured him that this will move expeditiously and that the outcome will be fine," said Chuck Campion, Dukakis' national political director. "We see no ramifications at all."

There may also be an independent investigation of allegations Wright lobbied improperly on behalf of oil companies with which he may have had financial relationships, questions surrounding publication of a book for which he received a higher-than-usual royalty and which was produced with the help of a congressionally paid staffer, contacts with federal officials on behalf of Texas savings and loans and the use of a condominium for which he paid no monthly rent.

On this Father's Day . . . A father's prayer

"Build me a son, O Lord"

General of the Army, Douglas MacArthur has left a spiritual legacy to his son, Arthur — a father's prayer he wrote in the Philippines during the desperate early days of the Pacific war.

According to the general's biographer and confidant, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, the family repeated this MacArthur credo many times during early morning devotions:

"Build me a son, O Lord, who will be strong enough to know when he is weak, and brave enough to face himself when he is afraid: one who will be proud and unbending in honest defeat, and humble and gentle in victory.

"Build me a son whose wishes will not take the place of deeds: a son who will know Thee — and that to know himself is the foundation stone of knowledge.

"Lead him, I pray, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under the stress and spur of difficulties and challenge. Here let him learn to stand up in the storm; here let him learn compassion for those who fail.

"Build me a son whose heart will be clear, whose goal will be high, a son who will master himself before he seeks to master other men, one who will reach into the future, yet never forget the past.

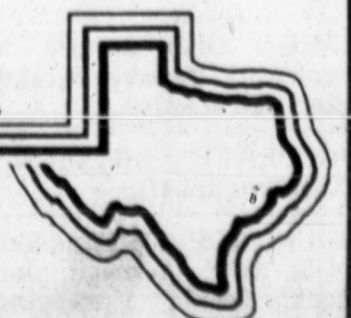

"And after all these things are his, add, I pray, enough of a sense of humor, so that he may always be serious, yet never take himself too seriously. Give him humility, so that he may always remember the simplicity of true greatness, the open mind of true wisdom, and the meekness of true strength.

"Then I, his father, will dare to whisper, 'I have not lived in vain.'"

Donna Holt of Snyder, as a commercial and free lance artist, is often challenged to come up with a design which accurately depicts a certain business or individual's interests.

Her most recent job includes a design for the city which was first used on a plaque given to outgoing mayor Rod Waller. Since then, the city has officially adopted the logo, using it as a large emblem in the council chambers as well as on all city vehicles.

Holt's design features two circles. Inside the inner circle are a pumping unit which represents the oil industry, a white buffalo which represents Snyder and a lone star for the state of Texas. Cotton plants are placed in the border.

In creating the design, Holt said she wanted something that was simplified and not cluttered. Working "on and off," she completed the design in about three weeks.

"Working with the circles was not easy for me," Holt explained. "And the lettering had to be equal distance visually."

She started with a pencil sketch and then made a black and white picture of her design.

"I was real pleased that they asked me to do it," she said, adding, "A company in Florida has also used my design in one of their ads."

Holt is no stranger to doing jobs for the city. She once designed two identical billboards, one placed on I-20 and the other on U.S. 84. The 1981-82 city budget featured her design also. In 1983, she designed a billboard which congratulated the 1983 Tiger baseball champs. She is currently discussing other projects with the city.

Before turning to commissioned work 10 years ago, Holt would occasionally sell some of her designs. She depends mainly on word-of-mouth advertising.

In addition, she sometimes does color separations for printers. She once designed an award for Texaco and logos for both SCOOP and Gel-Tec.

She designs business cards for businesses and individuals and has designed program covers for the chamber of commerce sponsored Whirligig.

Other work for the chamber included the original design for the 1986 banquet which featured Snyder natives which have gone on to success in Hollywood.

This involved character sketches of Powers Boothe, Barry Tubb, Brad Maul, Dane Witherspoon and Ann Patterson. The banquet theme for that year was entitled "Reflections...Hometown to Tinsel Town."

Afternoon vows join couple

SEYMOUR — Veronica Ann Kulhanek and Dr. Michael Ernest Wimmer were united in matrimony at 2 p.m. June 11 in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Father Henry Fisher officiated the double-ring ceremony with Father Ned Byrne assisting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie J. Kulhanek Sr. and the granddaughter of Lillie Miller of Megargel. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wimmer and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Azbill of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a luminous pink San-Martin gown with a cascading train of crystalline ruffles. Hand-rolled satin roses, trimmed the shoulders and skirt. The sabrina neckline plunged to a deep vee in the back. A large bow accented the back of the waist. A profusion of hand-beaded and embroidered lace defined the Basque bodice.

A fingertip veil of sheer bridal illusion fell from a hand-beaded and beaded tiara headpiece which was designed and made by Debra Cowan, Dawn Clark and the bride.

The cascading bridal bouquet, encircled in lace, was designed of silk in her chosen colors of white, pink and mauve. Rose buds, baby's breath, pearls, ribbon loops, netting with ribbons and strands of pearls in streamers composed the arrangement.

Rosalie Kulhanek of Olney, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Matron of honor was Teresa Ousley of Ft. Worth, also a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Annette Gentry of Wichita Falls, cousin of the bride; Lynn Youngblood of San Angelo, sister of the groom; Debra Cowan of Shady Shores; Mitzi Stripling of Bryan; Suzanne Sturgeon of Seymour; and Carla Williams of May.

The bridal attendants were attired in matching tea-length rose mauve dresses of lace galloon-covered satin. The dresses featured short flared sleeves, a scalloped lace neckline and a full flared skirt. Each attendant carried a mauve silk rose accented by ribbons and lace.

Flower girls were Meagen Sturgeon of Seymour and Stevi Stripling of Bryan. They wore matching mauve satin and lace galloon tea-length dresses. They carried baskets decorated in the bride's chosen colors and filled with various flowers and flower petals.

Andrew Youngblood, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer and wore a tuxedo matching those of the groomsmen. The ring pillow was white brocade and lace. It was needlepointed and decorated by Nancy Mathison of Dallas.

The groom wore a formal white tuxedo with a white bow tie and cummerbund and a boutonniere of pink and white rosebuds. His attendants wore grey tuxedos complemented by rose mauve bow ties, cummerbunds and boutonnieres of a carnation and baby's breath.

Serving as best man for his brother was Calvin Wimmer of Snyder. Groomsmen were Rocky Youngblood of San Angelo, brother-in-law of the groom; David Kulhanek of Dallas, brother of the bride; Tommy Tullis of Lubbock; Jay Hammond of Lewisville; Joe Lee and Russell Gafford of Snyder; and Dr. Tim Holder of Corpus Christi.

Ushers were Anthony Kulhanek of Megargel, brother of the bride, and Bobby Ousley of Ft. Worth, brother-in-law of the bride. Altar boys were Kenley and Brandon Lane, Jeremy Kulhanek and Shane Kulhanek, all cousins of the bride from Megargel.

Readings were recited by Rosalie Kulhanek and Dr. Tim

Holder. Prayers of faithful were read by Charlie Kulhanek Jr., brother of the bride. Eucharistic ministers were parents of the bride. Offertory gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, godparents of the bride.

Guests were registered by Cindy Hokamp of Dallas.

Colette Kulhanek, organist, and Zeke Kulhanek, guitarist, aunt and cousin of the bride, presented pre-nuptial selections and accompanied Fran Walker, Betty Anne Hollis, Deloris Rehling, and Peggy Kulhanek, all cousins of the bride from Dayton, Ohio as they sang "Endless Love," "Rainbow," "Grandpa's Song," and "Krasna Jsi Maria." Calvin Wimmer, soloist, sang "The Wedding Song." The entire group sang "Sunrise, Sunset" as the mothers entered.

Jennifer Brinson, trumpet player, accompanied by Mrs. Kulhanek on the organ, played the processional, "Trumpet Voluntary" and the recessional, "Fanfare in Tune," both by Purcell.

The Dayton cousins and aunt also led congregational songs during the mass. The "Wedding Prayer" was sung during the lighting of the Unity Candle. Calvin Wimmer sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the mass. Following the ceremony, a reception and a Czech Polka Dance with the Czech Harvesters Band was held in the church parish hall.

The bridal bouquet and white lace parasols accented the bride's table which was covered in white lace. The bride's cake, white with pineapple filling, was a Victorian-styled four-tiered cake accented with roses and ruffles. A lace four-armed cake stand held the sections featuring tiny silk rose bouquets and lily of the valley with dropped triple string work.

For the cake top, an ornament of bisque porcelain featured the traditional bride and groom. Servers at the table were Emily Hutchins of Wichita Falls, cousin of the bride; Danella Elliott of Lubbock; and Marguerite Christian of Ft. Worth.

The groom's table was arranged with a German chocolate cake with a caduceus, symbol of the physician, featured in the icing. Peaches and coffee completed the groom's service. Servers were Jana Hammond, Terri Holley and Dianne York.

Hors d'oeuvres prepared by Pauline Wimmer and friends along with strudels and kolaches made by Lillie Miller, Rose Kulhanek and members of the house party were also served.

The bride is a graduate from Megargel High School, Cisco Junior College with an associate's degree in biology, North Texas State University with a bachelor's degree in social sciences, and Texas Women's University with a master's degree in physical therapy.

The groom is a graduate of Snyder High School, Angelo State University with a bachelor's degree in biology, and The University of Texas Medical School in Houston with a doctor of medicine degree.

Following a Caribbean cruise, the couple will be at home in North Richland Hills. The groom has been employed by Lubbock General Hospital/Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center as a surgery intern. He has been accepted for a position at John Peter Smith Hospital in Ft. Worth.

Safe cold storage

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you ever wondered how to store important papers safely when away on a trip?

Family Circle magazine suggests you put your papers in a metal box with paper towels under the lid to absorb moisture. Then, place the box in the refrigerator. In a severe fire, the refrigerator is usually the one item in the house that is not totally destroyed.

CHILD-CENTERED APPROACH IN 4-H

The child-centered approach applies to all of 4-H.

Project leaders, organization leaders and parents find the child-centered approach helpful when working with youth.

The child-centered approach means that:

—Focus is on the interests and needs of youth.

—Members set their own goals.

—Members make plans to reach their own goals.

—Members carry out their plans.

—Members assess progress towards reaching their goals.

Goal assessment is done with help, guidance, understanding, encouragement and recognition from leaders and parents.

The child-centered approach does not mean that children should do whatever they want.

Young people need guidance, direction and help. This approach applies to general club rules, project and activity plans and operations, and special events in which 4-H'ers are involved. 4-H is a youth program, with guidance by adults.

The child-centered approach encourages the child's natural curiosity, enthusiasm, inquisitiveness, energy and willingness to do the tasks at hand.

This approach helps leaders and parents to:

—Consider individual needs and desires of youth.

—Listen to what youth are saying.

—Try to see things as a child sees them.

—Provide a chance for your child to be involved in doing something.

—Help youth decide what is reasonable.

—Make youth feel wanted and respected.

—Accept people for what they are rather than expecting them to be what you want.

Leaders and parents using the child-centered approach for the first time may need to change leadership style. Different styles of leadership are appropriate at different times. When the group is formed, it usually depends on leaders for structure and guidance. After the initial organizing, a leader can work towards increased group decision making. As the group members gain experience, the leader needs to be more group-centered to allow for maximum development of members.

Artist designs emblem for city

each of the stars invited to the banquet. Holt's only regret is that the photos provided her for the drawings were not as current as she had hoped and thus each of the faces looked slightly younger than they really were.

She also completed a design for Worsham which featured all the high school departments.

Holt also designs Christmas cards which are sold locally. She starts working on a given year about 18 months in advance and sends all her work to Evergreen Press in California. She sold the first one in 1980 and her cards are sold nationwide.

Sometimes Holt said she creates her design the exact size of a Christmas card and other times she makes a larger copy to send to the company.

"I don't take rejection well at all," she said. "The cards are like my babies and if they get rejected I can mope around for weeks."

Holt is also a pastel artist in her own right and one of her paintings was chosen in 1981-82 for the Texas Fine Arts Association All Texas Show. It was a traveling exhibit. That same painting was also included in a recent art show at the Diamond M Museum.

Now, she says she does more commercial artwork than pastels, but she hopes someday to be able to devote more time to her painting. She works at home in her own studio by day and at night her children "take over" the room.

Holt also practices calligraphy and has taught short courses at Western Texas College. She also gives private and group lessons in calligraphy and pastels.

She says she has been interested in art all of her life. She took private lessons and was an art major when she attended Texas Christian University. She has also taken art lessons through WTC and studied in Ruidoso, N.M. with such artists as Ben Konis and Albert Handell.

"I like the challenge and variety of my work," she said. "I also like commercial artwork because of all the people I get to meet."

She is married to David Holt, who operates Fluid Transports, and they have two sons: Alan is 19 and attends South West Texas State University and Kevin is 16 and will be a junior next school year.

Gestational diabetes is studied

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Gestational diabetes is the most common complication of pregnancy, according to Boehringer Mannheim Diagnostics.

The firm makes a blood sugar testing device for testing as many as 175,000 infants who are born each year to women with gestational diabetes.

These infants must be tested immediately after birth for low blood sugar levels. The device makes it possible to test an infant's blood in just two minutes and using only a single drop of blood. It previously was necessary to draw an entire test tube of blood and send it to a lab for analysis.

Tricked out of a trick

Although high drama in bridge often centers on making a difficult slam or defending brilliantly, most action in bridge is mundane — a simple play to guarantee the safety of a contract, for example, or a conservative decision to ensure that your side gets a plus score. In today's competitive deal, we admire the clever defender sitting East who made a casual play that netted an extra trick. But should his play have worked?

West led the queen of spades against six hearts. Declarer rose with dummy's king, and East won the ace. There was no doubt in East's mind that South had started with only a singleton spade — surely West would have a six-card suit for his spirited bidding. It was also apparent to East that declarer would have no trouble getting to dummy to finesse against the K-Q of hearts. So six hearts would be set only one trick. What could he do to change declarer's plan? At trick two, East returned the nine of clubs to declarer's king, but now what was declarer to do? If the nine of clubs was a singleton, and West was allowed to win a trick with a singleton heart honor, then East would be able to ruff a club lead from West. So declarer banged down the ace of hearts and was set two tricks.

Declarer should have avoided this trap. The vigorous bidding by West up to the five-spade level precluded his holding a singleton heart plus two little clubs. So how could the play by East be anything but a ploy to cajole South into playing the ace of hearts?

Reading program sharpens skills

WASHINGTON (AP) — media. It is presented by Millions of U.S. school children are expanding learning opportunities and improving reading skills that traditionally decline during the summer with the guidance of two mythological dinosaurs — of the "Readasaurus" species — that have the capacity to learn to read.

During the summer, any child age 5-12 who lists three books he or she has read will be eligible to win one of thousands of prizes to be awarded at a mid-September national Readasaurus drawing.

Children should list the following on a post card or 3-by-5-inch card: Name, age, school and address, city and state; titles of three books read during May, June, July or August 1988; parent or guardian signature.

The card should be mailed to: Readasaurus, The National Zoo, Washington D.C. 20299-0001. Children may enter as often as they read three books.

TOOTH BRUSH
Your teeth and gums will be healthier if you use a brush small enough to reach every part of your mouth. ## Combine salad and chicken for tangy summer main dish

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

When we plan recipes, we do the same kind of "just supposing" you often do when you look into your refrigerator. Suppose, we thought, we combined two favorite summer salads — wilted greens and pasta. To make it suitable for a main dish, we decided to add chicken. Suppose we marinated the chicken for more flavor. Suppose we added peppers for color and crunch. So we did all these things and here's the result — a summer main-dish salad that looks inviting and tastes terrific.

PEPPERY CHICKEN-TORTELLINI SALAD
2 whole medium chicken breasts (about 1½ pounds total), skinned, boned and cut into bite-size strips

Spicy Lime Marinade (Recipe follows)

5½ ounces spinach (about 4 cups)

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat-Magnet' Diet Pill Gives You Steady Fat Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

You Can "Eat Normally"
Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as you don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire."

It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Pills Go To Work"
The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat, with no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight "faster" if you choose to follow the fat-magnet diet plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public
If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WM95, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1-800-523-9380 ext. 313.

FLY MANAGEMENT FOR TEXAS HORSE FACILITIES

Horse owners with stabled animals will soon be joining the annual battle to keep house and stable flies under control. Warmer spring temperatures and the April showers will bring May flowers but also serious fly populations.

Several management strategies can help reduce fly numbers and find the most economical means of control once infestations exceed acceptable levels.

The first items of achieving manageable fly control is to practice good sanitation and keep stable areas as dry as possible. Spilled feed, moist hay and animal manure are the prime breeding sites for fly development. The absence of a good sanitation program will quickly lead to abundant fly populations demanding frequent and expensive insecticide applications.

The trash pile of collected garbage material should be hauled off weekly. Manure and bedding material left for periods of six to seven days should be spread thinly in field areas so that it can be sun dried or plowed under. I caution the horse owner to prevent sites of abundant fly breeding which can result in fly problems for the surrounding neighborhood.

A chemical treatment for larval control for fly breeding areas is trichlorfon and sold as Dipterex. The presence of adult flies are a fact of life in Texas during warmer months.

The second major control strategy for flies is to maintain several types of devices to kill incoming adult flies. These devices include well-maintained bait stations and fly traps. The bait stations contain a sugar bait which contains an insecticide. Dead flies killed by the insecticide should be removed and destroyed daily.

Keep ample supplies of fresh bait to maximize effectiveness. Golden Malrin bait containing methomyl is the most common bait material sold in most areas of the state. A new fly trap sold under the trade name of the "Terminator" Fly Trap has proven to work well under Texas conditions.

A water and fly pheromone (chemical attractant) mixture is used to attract flies into the trap to be killed. This is a nontoxic method of enhancing fly control for the horse owner. Dead flies must be cleaned out of the trap on a weekly basis. New attractant material must be added in the trap following cleaning. Both the fly bait and fly trap must be kept out of the reach of horses and pets. Read and follow label directions carefully.

The judicious and timely use of selected insecticides are of major importance to Texas horse owners as residual wall treatments or direct animal sprays. Owners who attempt to depend on insecticide treatments alone and not follow other control measures discussed above will be disappointed in their fly control program.

A wide range of insecticide formulations are on the market for the horse owner. Residual sprays containing one of the synthetic pyrethroids, fenvalerate or permethrin have proven extremely effective. Residual control action is good for these insecticides if treated areas are dry and dust is not abundant.

Direct animal spray treatments are of critical importance. The horses' skin can be sensitive to various insecticides. Extreme care must be taken to follow label directions. Plant derived pyrethrins plus a synergist, selected pyrethroids, some phosphate insecticides and phosphate mixtures are labeled for horse treatments. Care must be taken to follow pesticide safety directions for the person applying the insecticide and the treated animal.

The choice of the selected insecticide will depend on costs, past application, experience and abundance of the fly problem.

Try cool yogurt cream pie

Made with low-fat yogurt instead of heavy cream, this recipe was provided exclusively to the Associated Press by Dannon Yogurt.

YOGURT CREAM PIE
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
3 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup low-fat or skim milk
4 ounces (one-half of an 8-ounce package) neufchatel cheese (light cream cheese), softened

½ cup sugar
One 8-ounce container low-fat vanilla yogurt
1 cup low-fat cottage cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In a 9-inch pie plate, thoroughly combine crumbs and margarine. Press into the bottom and sides of plate. Bake 7 minutes, cool.

In a small saucepan, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over milk. Stir over low heat until gelatin dissolves, about 5 minutes; set aside to cool.

In food processor (or in bowl with hand mixer), place neufchatel cheese and sugar; process until smooth. Add yogurt, cottage cheese and gelatin mixture and process until smooth. Pour into prepared crust. Chill until firm, at least 4 hours. Cut into wedges and serve.

FOR THE RECORD. By Donald Regan.

In this insightful memoir, Donald Regan takes us down the corridors of power in Washington and into the heart of the Reagan Administration.

"For the Record" is frank and revealing. It is an analysis of the Reagan presidency and an account of the personalities of Washington's movers and shakers written by a man once called "the second most powerful man in America."

"For the Record" reads like the most engrossing of thrillers. It documents in detail what happens when radical elements in the White House run amok in a world of international intrigue, personal rivalry, and special interest. Regan has written the extraordinary story of one of the most complexly run administrations in modern times. In doing so he has created a political memoir without parallel.

Commentator says...

Afghan move was mistake

MOSCOW (AP) — A prominent political commentator has called the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan a mistaken use of excessive military force that damaged the Kremlin's international prestige.

Alexander Bovin's article in the government newspaper Izvestia was published this week and appeared to indicate a debate within the Kremlin's highest circles about the intelligence of the Soviet move into Afghanistan.

The New York Times reported in Friday's editions that the party's leadership issued a secret circular admitting errors and misjudgments leading to the Soviet military move into Afghanistan.

Citing party members whom it did not identify, the newspaper said the document implied — without stating explicitly — that the original decision in 1979 to send Soviet troops to Afghanistan was wrong.

The report said the document, which was intended to provide guidelines for publications on the subject, was read aloud to party members at closed meetings in the past two weeks.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady I. Gerasimov told The Associated Press that the party had put out a report on the Afghan intervention long ago, but he refused to discuss its contents. He said in a telephone interview that it was a "closed" document.

Nikolai V. Shishlin, a spokesman for the party's policy-making Central Committee, said he knew nothing about any party analysis of the Afghan intervention.

Bovin, in Wednesday's editions of Izvestia, compared the Afghan move to the Soviet deployment of SS-20 missiles in Eastern Europe, which was a response to NATO deployment of medium-range missiles in Western Europe.

"These, in my view, are typical examples of decisions of a subjective character, oriented toward the use of military forceful methods in foreign policy," Bovin wrote.

He said that in both cases the Soviet Union overestimated its means and failed to consider the "resistance of the environment."

"In both cases, we drove ourselves into a corner, created dead-end situations, from which in the framework of the old model of thinking, old stereotypes, there was no exit," the commentator said.

The intervention hurt the Soviet Union's international authority and brought on moral and material damage, he said.

"And in Afghanistan, we paid the most expensive price — the price of blood."

The Soviet Union's more than 100,000 troops in Afghanistan began pulling out May 15 under an international agreement signed the month before in Geneva.

While in Afghanistan, they faced fierce resistance from a Moslem guerrilla, united against the Soviet-backed regime in Kabul.

Bovin's criticism was not the first of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Oleg T. Bogomolov, a prominent economist, said in a letter published March 16 in the weekly Literary Gazette that he had warned the Kremlin about the dangers of sending troops into Afghanistan.

"In a situation report delivered to the appropriate levels on Jan. 20, 1980, the hopeless and detrimental aspects of that action were stated," wrote Bogomolov, head of the Institute of Economics of the World Socialist System.

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has called the Soviet involvement in Afghanistan a "bleeding wound." Human rights activist and Nobel Peace laureate Andrei D. Sakharov has also denounced it.

Bovin praised the "new thinking" in Soviet foreign policy for ordering the withdrawal and for agreeing to scrap medium and shorter-range nuclear missiles under a treaty Gorbachev signed in December with President Reagan.

Most media reports, however, have defended the intervention as a necessary response to the plight of a friendly government.

Soviet soldiers and hardware rolled into Afghanistan on Dec. 27, 1979, to replace one pro-Moscow leadership with another and fight a widespread anti-Communist insurgency.

Arlington officers extending long arm of law, collect fines

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Anyone who thinks they can get away without paying a traffic fine in this North Texas city simply because they live in another town is mistaken, Arlington officers say.

Officers have been going after out-of-towners in a big way for the past several months.

The Arlington Police warrant officers have extended the long arm of the law by going after people who live in far-flung places to collect traffic fines owed the city.

Since April, they have collected fines in Abilene, Waco, Weatherford, Cleburne, Springtown and Mesquite. They have five more cities where they have large groups of people who have outstanding warrants. They are Burleson, Denton, Commerce, Garland and Granbury.

"We've had pretty good luck so far," said Al Keesy, a warrant officer. "When we start saying we're going to put them in jail and bring them back to Arilington, they cough up the money."

Their best showing was in Waco where they collected $1,935 from 10 people wanted on 12 warrants. They were seeking 26 people wanted on 52 warrants.

In Abilene, they collected about

Order is restored after prison fire

DERIDDER, La. (AP) — Eight illegal aliens refused to return to their cells and set a small fire in the Beauregard Parish jail, but deputies used fire hoses to restore order within four hours, said Sheriff Bolivar Bishop.

He said some deputies, DeRidder police and the inmates suffered only minor scratches and bruises in the melee Thursday.

The eight — Haitian and Jamaican nationals — were moved to solitary confinement cells.

A total of 19 illegal aliens are being held for the Immigration and Naturalization Service awaiting deportation proceedings, Bishop said.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might attempt to do something on your own today instead of hiring an expert. Being penny-wise and pound-foolish could cost more in the long run.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you recently met may not be all they pretend to be. Give yourself ample time to get to know this person before getting involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's best not to champion a cause today that you already know is unpopular with your companions. It will only serve to produce a barrier instead of a bridge.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you could be a trifle more vulnerable where your feelings are concerned. If you misinterpret the comments of others, you might respond erratically.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your heartstrings, as well as your purse strings can be easily accessed today. Be careful they are not played upon by someone with ulterior motives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instead of thinking for yourself today, there's a chance you will let others make decisions for you. Unfortunately, their judgment may be much more impractical than yours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a possibility that something important you should attend to today might slip your mind. To be on the safe side, make a list of what needs doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you participate in a social activity today that has elements of competition, try not to take yourself or the game too seriously. Lose or win with grace.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are indications that you could have some drop-ins today who might pop in at an inconvenient time. Be ready for the unexpected.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your desire to expedite a critical family matter today, you might unintentionally contribute new complications if you do things erratically.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your present financial condition is rather delicate. Be careful you do not tip over the apple cart with extravagant spending today.

Your Birthday

June 20, 1988

Ventures you have spent considerable time developing could reap substantial rewards in the year ahead. Do not change horses in midstream.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make allowances for interruptions today instead of getting frustrated or uptight. If you stay calm you'll be able to proceed later at the same tempo. Major changes are ahead for Gemini in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Members of the opposite gender are likely to find you more appealing than usual today. Just be careful, however, you don't get involved in something you may later regret.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There are indications that any financial dealings you'll have with friends today might not work out to your advantage. Forewarned is forearmed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, an associate whose support you are counting on in a career matter may not be as reliable as you first thought. Be careful how you treat this arrangement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unless you are mentally disciplined today, you could get involved in matters that will lead you away from your objective. Keep your eye on your target.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be better off today sticking to activities that are within your budget. Costly involvements could be too upsetting for you to enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In order to get someone off your case today, you might make a promise you have no intention of keeping. Unfortunately, this person will hold you to your word.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In your dealings with co-workers today, keep everything out in the open. If they suspect you're holding something back, you're not apt to gain their support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have to use firm measures today to keep a busybody out of your personal affairs or a wrench could be thrown into your operation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A better offer may come along today that could tempt you to back out of a commitment you previously made. If you renege, it may lead to regrets.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Concern yourself more with the quality of your work than the quantity. Tasks performed hastily are not apt to live up to expectations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are still not out of the woods regarding the management of your resources. Try not to write any checks today unless they are for essentials.

Beech-Nut...
Federal judge sentences former executives to prison

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge sentenced two former top executives of the Beech-Nut Nutritional Corp. to a year and a day in prison for distributing millions of jars of bogus apple juice intended for babies.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Platt also fined Neils Hoyvald, Beech-Nut's former president and chief executive officer, and John Lavery, its former vice president, $100,000 apiece Thursday.

The case, one of the largest consumer fraud prosecutions of its kind, involved the intentional shipment of adulterated, misbranded juice to 20 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and five foreign countries between 1978 and 1982.

In federal indictments, Beechnut and the two executives were accused of shipping 5 million jars of the bogus juice between 1978 and 1983.

"The fraud was too extensive and too involved to go unpunished," Platt said before passing sentence. "I have no alternative than to do what I am going to do."

The judge also ordered Hoyvald, 54, and Lavery, 56, to pay court costs, estimated to run into tens of thousands of dollars, and a special assessment of $50 for each of the hundreds of counts on which they were convicted.

The two men, who are free on bail pending appeal, have been on full paid leave from Beech-Nut, according to a company spokesman. Court documents show Hoyvald received an annual salary of $165,000 and Lavery $82,000.

The company, which was also charged in the case, pleaded guilty in November to 215 counts of violating federal food and drug laws and agreed to pay a $2 million fine.

The juice, labeled 100 percent apple juice for babies, was actually made from a flavored concentrate that had little or no apple juice. No evidence was presented that the phony juice caused health problems.

Fort Washington, Pa.-based Beech-Nut, a subsidiary of Nestle S.A. of Switzerland, is the nation's second-largest baby food maker after Gerber Products Co.

A jury convicted Hoyvald, of Lebanon, N.J., in February of 358 counts of violating the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. Each count carried a maximum sentence of three years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Lavery, of Schenectady, who oversaw the upstate plant where the juice was made, was convicted of conspiracy, 18 counts of mail fraud and 429 counts of violating food and drug laws. Conspiracy and mail fraud carry maximum sentences of five years.

Beech-Nut's current president, Richard C. Theurer, said in a statement Thursday that the company had invested $10 million in the past five years to ensure product quality.

"Our products on the supermarket shelves today are pure," Theurer said. "We know this because we test them every day."

In May 1987, Beech-Nut settled a class-action suit involving the phony juice that was filed in federal court in Philadelphia. The company agreed to set up a $5 million cash fund for consumers and to provide $2.5 million in Beech-Nut and affiliated products to retailers.

Australia's 160 million sheep produce a quarter of the world's supply of wool and 70 percent of the wool used in clothing, says National Geographic.

Mickey Gilley is suing ex-partner

HOUSTON (AP) — Country-western singer Mickey Gilley says he's likely to miss five or six concert performances in the next few weeks because the suit against his former business partner is going to trial.

Gilley is suing Sherwood Cryer and accountant Gerard Willrich with defrauding him of $8.2 million during their 17-year business relationship.

According to the suit, Cryer was Gilley's manager from 1971 to 1984 but still represents himself as Gilley's manager. The singer also accuses Cryer of failing to pay him 50 percent of the profits from the Houston-area club that bears Gilley's name or for merchandise that carries the Gilley's name.

Cryer says the claims were filed too late to collect damages, that no written contracts existed for many of the transactions and that Gilley silently consented to Cryer's actions.

Besides damages, Gilley wants any trademarks with his name owned by Cryer revoked.

"I'm an entertainer," Gilley said Thursday outside the courtroom of State District Judge David West. "I'm not real good at standing and testifying."

The trial is expected to last about three weeks.

Galveston trolley gets off on wrong track

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Galveston's shiny new trolley car made a dubious debut, running up a curb on the very first turn out of its garage even before making it to the main trolley line.

The accident Thursday came on the initial trial run of the first of four trolley cars ordered by the city to take tourists from the beachfront on the Gulf of Mexico to the historic Strand District downtown.

The grinding stop atop the curb caused no damage to the vehicle, but jolted one battery out of place on a rack on the underside of the car, said Don Schattel, executive director of the Galveston Park Board of Trustees. The offending curb quickly was removed by city workers.

After getting off on the wrong track, testing resumed without incident. About six officials were on the trolley, but no one was injured. Schattel said representatives of the companies involved in the manufacture of the trolley car double-checked measurements on other turns in the 4.7-mile trolley system Thursday and could detect no other clearance problems along the route.

The $10.4-million trolley system has been the subject of a bitter battle in recent years and even led to an unsuccessful effort to remove Mayor Jan Coggeshall and three other city council members from office in 1987.

Coggeshall took the mishap in stride.

"That's why we're testing the trolley," she said. "If that's the worst problem we have with it, I'll be very pleased."

The testing of operators will follow and the vehicle may be carrying passengers by the July Fourth weekend, Schattel said.

Hispanic man killed when he fails to follow orders

HOUSTON (AP) — A Hispanic man's inability to understand English led to his death when a robber apparently pointed a gun at him and demanded he leave his vehicle, police say.

Jesus Roberto Mejia died Thursday of wounds suffered the previous night when he was shot in the parking lot of a convenience store.

Officers said Mejia, father of two, was carrying $1,000 in cash he and his wife had saved for nearly a year to buy a Father's Day gift — a used pickup truck.

Two teen-agers came up and ordered him to get out, homicide Detective Rico Garcia said. But Mejia, who didn't speak English, didn't understand the demand and was trying to drive away when one of the youths shot him, police said.

Garcia said the suspects then fled, apparently thinking they would be spotted in the busy parking lot.

The money still was in his pocket when he was found mortally wounded.

"If they had known he had that kind of money on him, they probably would have taken a chance at getting it," Garcia said.

Garcia said investigators are checking whether the pair may be involved in four aggravated robberies occurring the past six months within a 10-block radius from where Mejia was shot. In two of the robberies, illegal aliens were killed, Garcia said.

Bank president resigns position

DALLAS (AP) — John Stuart, president of First Republic Bank, Dallas, is the latest of the senior managers to leave the bank and its troubled parent, First Republic Bank Corp.

Stuart announced his resignation Thursday, effective July 15.

"I believe there are numerous business opportunities in Dallas and have decided this is an appropriate time to pursue them," Stuart said in a prepared statement. "I have enjoyed my 27-year relationship with the bank and am confident that First Republic will emerge from its current difficulties as an even stronger participant in the growth of Dallas and the Southwest."

A bank spokesman said Albert Casey, chairman and first executive officer of the holding company and Dallas bank, will assume the post until a replacement is selected.

Texas ranches and farmland shriveling due to drought

DALLAS (AP) — Farmers and ranchers say lingering drought conditions are drying up their resources, prompting some to think of selling out.

"I'll tell you one thing, I think this is the worst of the worst," said Alfonso Perez, who runs more than 200 head of cattle in south Texas' Zapata County.

Perez, executive director for the Starr County office of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, says it costs him $200 a day to keep his cattle alive.

Perez says he may have to sell out if he doesn't see substantial rainfall by September.

Portions of Zapata County had a scant three inches of rain since last September, Perez said, indicative of spreading drought that is threatening to match the hardest-hit Midwestern states.

"It seems like it's widening out and getting progressively worse," he said.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, some ranchers have stopped using propane burners to remove thorns from prickly pear cactus so cattle could graze on the moist plants. The cactus is shriveling up.

Agriculture officials say the drought is becoming critical just when Texas enters the hottest, driest part of summer.

"It appears that the drought is deepening in Texas," said Kraig Gallimore, of the Texas Department of Agriculture's farmer assistance program.

"I think one good indicator of that is that 120 Texas counties have requested haying and grazing on set-aside acres, and 40-plus counties have been made eligible for the federal emergency feed program," Gallimore said. "But the point here is that they're really hungry for that and really in need of that help."

The lack of rain is hurting farmers and ranchers over a wide area of the state, with Panhandle farmers sharing many of the same problems as those along the Mexico border and in East Texas.

In Crosby County, near Lubbock, George McNeil said the dry conditions threaten to end his family's 106-year-old ranch.

"It's getting bad enough that we're fixing to do something that we've never done in the history of the ranch. If things don't get better by the first of July, we're going to have to let all four of our hands go."

McNeil, whose operation has been plagued by early frosts and other problems for several years, said he will begin selling off his 500 head of cattle in increments of 100 if it doesn't rain soon.

His family last fall turned to the tourist trade to attract extra income, working through the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to offer ranch tours and barbecue cook-outs, but McNeil said that won't be enough to sustain his business.

Five Costa Rican fishermen rescued after five months

HONOLULU (AP) — Five Costa Rican fishermen whose boat ran out of gas and drifted 3,600 miles across the Pacific Ocean survived for five months on rainwater and a diet of fish, turtles and sharks, the Coast Guard said.

The men aboard the 30-foot Cadiro III flagged down a Japanese tuna boat 700 miles southeast of here Wednesday. They were in good health, Coast Guard spokesman Jeff Crawley said Thursday.

The men arrived here Friday aboard the Kinei Maru 128, which rescued the men and left their boat drifting.

The Cadiro III set out Jan. 19 from Puntarenas, Costa Rica, for an eight-day fishing trip, but was driven from land by a storm and ran out of gas before it could reach port.

"A storm came upon us so we started heading for shore, but the winds were too strong and they pulled us out to sea," Joel Omar Gonzalez, one of the fishermen, told the Coast Guard by radio. "We ran out of diesel and have been adrift ever since then."

The men collected rainwater and caught enough sealife to stay healthy, Crawley said.

"We ate anything that came near our boat, such as fish, turtles and sharks," Gonzalez said. "We got water because it rained a few days and we managed to fill a lot of empty cans we had on board our boat."

Crawley identified the other sailors as captain Gerardo

Obregon Orando, George Fernandez Castillo, Pastor Lopez Rojas and Juan Cernas Bolivar. The Coast Guard did not have the men's ages.

Helga Richardson, the Costa Rican consul in Hawaii, said her government told her of the missing boat soon after it disappeared. She then alerted the Coast Guard.

"I never heard any more, and I forgot all about it," Mrs. Richardson said.

"When the Coast Guard told me the boat had been found, I said, 'Impossible. Are they all dead?'" she recalled.

Mrs. Richardson, who planned to be on hand when the men reach Honolulu, said they would be taken to a hospital for physical examinations.

Valve may not be a problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A heart catheterization indicated that I have calcium around the mitral valve. I'm 72. What's in store for me?

DEAR READER: As we age, the body deposits calcium in the soft tissues of the tendons, arteries and heart valves. The precise reason for this is unknown, but the reaction is exceedingly common and may result in a variety of physical ailments.

The aortic valve is the most likely heart structure to become calcified; calcified aortic valves are frequently seen in routine chest X-rays of people over 60. The mitral valve, too, can become calcified. Sometimes this is the consequence of childhood rheumatic fever, when the valve became temporarily inflamed.

If the calcified valve is working reasonably normally, doctors prefer to do nothing about it. On the other hand, if the valve malfunctions — if it is slow to open or closes incompletely — it may have to be repaired.

In your question, you don't mention the reason for your cardiac catheterization. This is a sophisticated test used for the diagnosis of heart disease; it is not performed for screening purposes. If you had the test because of a murmur and diminishing heart efficiency, the calcified mitral valve may be a factor that must be addressed. If, however, you had the test because of angina or coronary-artery disease, the calcified valve may simply be an unrelated finding.

Therefore, what's in store for you depends on the role played by the calcified valve. Since you are under the care of a cardiologist (it was he or she who probably performed the catheterization), ask the doctor about the meaning and specific implications of the test findings. Then you will be in a better position about deciding how to proceed.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 63 and had a cancer removed from my nose and cheek. At least once a year I go to the dermatologist for a checkup. He usually removes moles, lumps, etc., I guess with cryosurgery. Will this kind of treatment have detrimental effects?

DEAR READER: As a general rule, removal of skin cancers or premalignant growths, using cryosurgery or standard biopsy methods, is safe. Obviously, the consequences of treating skin lesions on the face are more troublesome, because scar tissue can produce unwanted cosmetic effects. However, skin cancers should be removed irrespective of their location. Cryosurgery for other blemishes on the body is harmless.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "What You Should Know about Skin Cancer." Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Sales tactics change with time

Drug companies always have relied heavily on person-to-person contact to encourage physicians to prescribe certain medicines, especially new ones. Pharmaceutical representatives pay regular visits to doctors' offices, hoping to nail the doc for a five-minute spiel about the company's most recent development, thereby enlightening the physician and ensuring that he or she will prescribe one brand in place of competing varieties. These reps are called "detail men" for reasons that are unclear to me; perhaps this age-old title came about because these unsolicited salesmen insisted on giving solicitous details about drugs.

I have had no particular aversion to detail men. They have always been aggressively enthusiastic and genially obsequious as they go about their cardboard talks — but they are an inconvenience. They tend to materialize, unannounced, freshly scrubbed, smelling of Old Spice, dressed in shimmering polyester suits and Windsor knots, the moist palm extended, at just the time that I am trying to finish some task. They inexplicably arrive at the moment I usually have something else to do, something that is suddenly very important. Almost as a reflex, I tell my secretary: "No, I can't see the Wyeth man today. Ask him to leave some samples."

This is the major value of detail men to thousands of busy physicians: the free samples. By careful selection — that sometimes includes letting detail men actually enter my consulting room and dribble words down their wash-and-wear shirts — I usually can wheedle a satisfactory supply of free drugs for my personal self-indulgence: tranquilizers, pain pills, cough medicine, antibiotics — all useful to the practicing doctor.

You see, the average M.D. doesn't give a tinker's dam for all the chitchat, the hyperbole, the salesmanship, the promises or the scientific data cooked up by the detail men. All that business is simply ritualistic foreplay in order to obtain the free samples. As more and more healers got smart and refused to see detail men — demanding samples instead — the drug companies must have smartened up, too. They're not sending out detail men anymore; they send out detail women. This is changing the rules, and I think it's unfair.

A few days ago, my secretary stuck her head in my door and, with a sly smile, announced that the Merck representative was waiting to see me. After some grumbling, I grudgingly complied. I wish I hadn't, because I wasn't prepared for this representative. She was very tall, very blond, very confident and very pretty. Honey-colored hair cascaded down her high cheekbones and framed her wide-set limpid blue eyes. Her ear-tone makeup was impeccably applied to velvety skin. As far as I could see, her teeth were perfect, as were her pink blouse and her trim gabardine suit and all contained therein. She slid into the chair and opened her briefcase that was cradled on knees, which made my glasses fog up. She talked about a new medicine for hypertension, but I don't remember what she said. As I accepted the printed brochure, I forgot to ask for free samples. Then she was gone, leaving promotional material and the provocative scent of eau de something-or-other.

Now all I'm left with are memories — and studies of an ACE inhibitor. She said she'd be back in a month.

Drug detailing isn't what it used to be. Hiring beauty queens to sell medicine to unsuspecting, egocentric, burned-out old docs is unsportsmanlike. What will the pharmaceutical industry think up next? How am I going to have time to see patients? What about my free samples? How can I get through the next month with just the brunette from Lederle and the redhead from Parke-Davis? When can I meet the Doublemint twins? As you can observe, the modern practice of medicine is fraught with many formidable questions.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Judge sentences Ferraro's son to four months in jail

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — A judge has sentenced John Zaccaro Jr. to four months in prison for selling cocaine to an undercover police officer, rejecting Geraldine Ferraro's plea that "my son has been punished enough."

Vermont District Court Judge Francis McCaffrey also ordered Zaccaro to pay $1,500 and perform 300 hours of community service during his sentencing Thursday. Zaccaro, 24, could have faced up to five years and a $10,000 fine for selling one-quarter gram of cocaine in 1986.

Zaccaro is free during the 30 days he has to appeal the sentence. His mother, the 1984 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said after the hearing that her son had been treated differently than the average defendant.

"We are obviously very disappointed by the harshness of the sentence," Ferraro said, noting that other defendants in Vermont drug cases have received lighter penalties. Zaccaro's attorney, Charles Tetzlaff, had requested a suspended sentence with probation and community service.

Addison County State's Attorney John Quinn, who had requested a jail term, denied that he had treated the case differently.

"This was a case where we caught a person red-handed, and I mean red-handed," Quinn said. "I felt that it was important for this court to say it doesn't matter who you are, you're not going to escape the consequences of selling cocaine in this state."

"I can't in good conscience sentence you without any time to serve," the judge said. McCaffrey said that Zaccaro had grown up with every advantage, including a good education and family support.

McCaffrey suggested that the jail time be spent in special Vermont corrections program that allows convicts to be kept under house arrest with supervision by a probation officer. But Quinn said later that Zaccaro must still be accepted into the program.

In a hearing before McCaffrey's decision, Ferraro broke down in tears on the stand as she described her reaction to her son's February 1986 arrest. She was in Hawaii giving a lecture that day and had to watch the event on television.

"When I got home from Hawaii, I went home and my son put his arms around me and he cried and he said he was sorry," Ferraro recalled. "He was sorry for what he had done to us."

Ferraro, a former New York prosecutor, criticized Quinn for failing to allow a plea bargain.

"If it had been anyone else ... we would not be sitting here," she said. "My son has been punished enough. I want him back. I want him back so that we can start our lives all over again."

Government acts as drought strands boats, parches crops

by The Associated Press

Rain fell in drought-stricken sections of the nation but provided little relief Friday from the dry spell parching crops, stranding hundreds of river barges and endangering cattle farmers including a 106-year-old Texas ranch.

"If we get rain, there'll be no problem. If we don't get rain, we're going to have to cut short on groceries," cattle farmer Tim Meister of Reedsburg, Wis., said Thursday at the Milwaukee Stockyards as livestock went on the block amid the worst drought in America's midsection since the Dust Bowl.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng allowed hay-cutting on land in nearly 300 counties in 13 states set aside under a massive federal conservation program so farmers can harvest hay in areas where the weather has shriveled livestock feed. President Reagan appointed an interagency committee to deal with the crisis.

Showers and thunderstorms moved through the Midwest and from Ohio to Kentucky and the southern Appalachians on Thursday, but the rain was widely scattered, the National Weather Service said.

Rain continued early Friday in southern South Dakota and northern Nebraska. Showers and thunderstorms were expected from eastern Texas and eastern Oklahoma to North Carolina up to Maine, and from eastern Kansas to Minnesota, but the storms will be "pretty widely scattered," meteorologist Hugh Crowther of the weather service's National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said Friday.

The five-day outlook is "pretty dry," Crowther said.

The dry weather has shriveled or threatened to damage corn and other crops in many states in the Midwest and the Southeast.

Austin, Kingland banks both declared insolvent

AUSTIN (AP) — Two Texas banks, one in Austin and another in Kingsland, are opening as branches of other banks after they were declared insolvent by federal regulators.

Thursday's closings of Century National Bank in Austin and Kingsland National Bank of Kingsland by Robert J. Herrmann, senior deputy controller of the currency, brings to 35 the number of failed banks in Texas this year.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was named as receiver for both banks, said Carol Austin, an FDIC spokeswoman.

Century National Bank's deposits and liabilities will be assumed by Community National Bank of Austin. The failed bank's sole office was scheduled to open Friday as a branch of Community National Bank and its depositors automatically will become depositors of the assuming bank, Ms. Austin said.

Kingsland National Bank is being assumed by Security Bank and Trust of Fredericksburg. Kingsland National Bank's office also reopened Friday as a branch office of Security Bank and Trust and the failed bank's depositors will automatically become depositors of Security Bank and Trust.

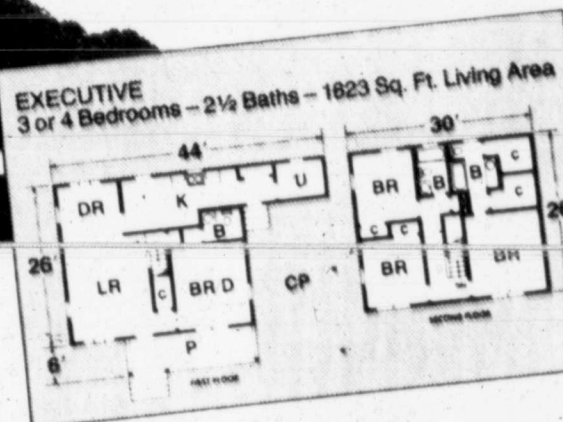

Kingsland National Bank had total assets of about $13.7 million. Security Bank and Trust will assume about $13.2 million in 1,700 deposit accounts and will purchase all of the failed bank's assets at a discount of $4.6 million.

Ethics committee in eye of storm over Jim Wright case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee's silence for the past week over the case of Speaker Jim Wright resembles the eye of a hurricane with political winds building around it. Both Democrats and Republicans have been stepping on their rhetoric with the GOP pushing for an independent counsel in the case and the speaker's supporters painting that effort as pure politics.

Wright, D-Texas, on Thursday declined to swipe directly at President Reagan's call for an independent counsel, saying "I'm going to be kinder to the president than he was to me."

Wright continued to proclaim his innocence, and said he had no objection to the ethics panel hiring outside help for the probe.

"If the committee feels its work can be expedited by the hiring of an outside counsel, then by all means," said Wright, who has repeatedly said he is innocent.

The ethics committee announced last week it was looking into six allegations of possible misconduct. But it has been silent since then, apparently contemplating in private whether to hire an outside counsel in the case.

On Thursday, the Republican Study Committee, a group of conservative members, and a group of right-wing leaders outside of Congress each called on the ethics committee to choose an independent counsel.

Democrats, led by House Majority Leader Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., came to Wright's defense.

Foley said the president's statements showed that the charges against the speaker were part of a GOP campaign to distract attention from the Republicans' own ethics woes, including the investigations of Attorney General Edwin Meese III. He pointed out that independent counsels typically are appointed to investigate criminal cases, but there are no criminal allegations against Wright.

Two of the ethics accusations against Wright surround a book publishing deal, in which Wright received 55 percent of the royalties from a paperback published by a friend who did work on Wright's campaigns.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., said Republicans have been wrong to claim that right authored an exemption on members' book royalty earnings. Obey was chairman of the panel which drafted the current ethics regulations.

The book has earned the speaker about $55,000, with several thousand of the 20,000 copies bought in bulk by supporters.

One bulk buyer, Gordon MacKay, a senior vice president of The New England life insurance company, said this week he purchased $2,000 worth of the $5.95 paperback three years ago after Wright declined an honorarium for speaking to a management group in Boston.

If Wright had accepted the $2,000 as an honorarium, he would have been required to donate the money to charity or he would have exceeded the limit on outside income in the House rules. However, since book royalties have no limit in the House rules, he could keep those earnings.

Space station...

Senate slashes funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Texas delegation say the space station may be in danger unless President Reagan intervenes and helps boost funding for the program.

A Senate appropriations panel voted Thursday to cut funding for the space center to $200 million — less than one-fourth of the $967 million Reagan had requested for the next fiscal year.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said the $200 million "provides only enough for the slow strangulation of the space station" and that Reagan's personal intervention is needed to rescue the program.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he would ask Reagan to veto the spending bill that includes funding for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration if not enough money is set aside to sustain the space station.

The NASA money is part of a spending bill that also includes funds for the Veterans Administration, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and other agencies.

"I am hopeful that we may yet in the Senate do something to correct this situation, but it is an uphill battle," said Gramm.

Gramm called the Senate action, as well as the House's version of the space station bill earlier this week, "totally irresponsible."

"In this election year, Congress is clearly looking at the next election and not the next generation," Gramm said.

The Senate committee's space station bill calls on the next administration to review the project in January and if the new president wants it to continue, he would have to ask Congress for additional funds.

In the House version, the Appropriations Committee voted this week to spend $387 million on research and development on the space station. Another $65.4 million would be held in an account, and should the next president decide not to continue with the program, those funds would be used to shut down the program.

Additionally, $450 million would be held through April 15. If the president decides to continue with the program, the money would go to the space station. If not, $150 million would be transferred to Space Flight Control and Data Communications at NASA, and the remaining $300 million would be rescinded.

"The House approach — to fence part of money and wait to see if new president wants to have a viable space program — is passing the buck to say the least," Gramm said.

Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, said he was "really distressed that the Senate has chosen not to support the future of America, but it's not over yet."

"The mood of the Congress is against the space station in lieu of cutting social programs," DeLay said. "That's sort of the choice, and the space station is getting caught in between."

"Our problem clearly is that there are other programs with large numbers of constituents more appealing politically than programs such as space and science. And we've been seeing this over and over for the last three years," Gramm said.

DeLay said construction of the space station could begin next year if it stays on schedule.

Largest ferris wheel hits insurance snag

DALLAS (AP) — State Fair of Texas officials say they hope to have the Texas Star turning by fall, despite liability insurance problems that threaten to put the brakes on the popular ride.

The Texas Star, a 212½-foot-high Ferris wheel, is a victim of increasing liability insurance costs, like the 40-year-old wooden Comet roller coaster, a fair mainstay that was shut down in 1986.

"We are waiting on the owner to get the insurance, as required by the contract," said fair spokeswoman Nancy Wiley. "But we don't anticipate that the wheel won't operate. We want it operating; he (the owner) wants it operating. So he will try to do it before the fair opens in October."

Texas Star owner BLB Panorama Inc. and its president, Buster Brown, are in the process of looking for insurance rate quotes. So far, the owner has been unable to obtain the $10 million in insurance required under a contract with the fair.

"We are sort of in limbo," Brown said. "We have been working diligently about three weeks and have five inquiries in with all the companies who would even entertain the idea."

"We have been through three brokers and 25-30 companies, and most of them are not interested in insuring just this one ride. It has nothing to do with its safety. None so far has said they could get us $10 million in coverage."

When the ride was brought to the state fair from Italy in 1985, Brown agreed to a contract requiring $10 million in liability insurance.

But Ms. Wiley said liability insurance costs rose dramatically in 1986 and ride operators began to feel the crunch. So the Ferris wheel, which is the height of a 20-story building, was permitted to operate with $1 million in insurance for two years.

"We saw some easing up of the situation last year," Ms. Wiley said. "There are signs this is true again this year."

The fair's executive board decided this spring to require Brown to restore insurance coverage on the ride to $10 million, she said.

Brown on May 24 received a letter giving him 10 days to secure the additional insurance.

"The contract is technically in default," said Ms. Wiley. "It is the original contract signed in 1985 when the ride was put up."

More than 100,000 people have ridden the wheel since it was installed, she said. Built by SDC Corp., the fair's largest attraction was disassembled and transported by boat to Houston, then brought to Dallas in 40 truckloads.

"It operates at capacity while it is open because it is a popular ride," said Ms. Wiley.
