AUSTIN (AP) — State prison officials project they will need about $11.6 million more in bonds than planned for four 1,000-bed regional prisons because the bid for the first such unit came in higher than expected.

The state Bond Review Board on Wednesday approved $83.37 million in prison bonds. The issue was delayed two weeks because a construction bid for the planned Snyder prison was 27 percent higher than estimated.

The bonds are for 1,000-bed, medium-security prisons at Marlin and Woodville, and a 2,250-bed maximum-security prison at Snyder. Bonds for the Snyder and Dayton units were approved earlier this year, officials said.

The Marlin and Woodville prisons, along with one in Dayton, are like the Snyder unit. Prison officials had asked for the delay

Edwin Meese...

Senators lobby on successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators are weighing in with their favorite candidates for attorney general, while the man who's leaving the job predicts his successor will not be "a clone of anybody else."

President Reagan launched his search Wednesday for Edwin Meese III's replacement and one of his first steps in the process was to meet with the departing attorney general.

A lightning rod of controversy because of his conservative policies and his personal legal problems, Meese announced Tuesday he would be gone in a few weeks. He declared himself vindicated by an 830-page report on his official conduct compiled by independent counsel James McKay, although he acknowledged he had not yet seen it.

The report has not been released by a special federal court. While sources have said the report recommends against a criminal indictment, its conclusions on Meese's ethical conduct remain unclear.

While no names of possible successors were volunteered at the White House, senators made sure that a steady list of possibilities kept drifting from Capitol Hill to the White House.

Two members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, ranking Republican Strom Thurmond and Democrat Dennis DeConcini, suggested former Republican Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada as Meese's successor. Laxalt was considered the president's closest Senate ally before retiring.

Tom Loranger, a spokesman for Laxalt, quoted the former senator as saying, "There is absolutely no truth to the rumors about my going to the Justice Department."

Laxalt's secretary at his Washington law office, Janene Assuras, said her boss was "not interested" in the job, but didn't know what he would do if Reagan asked.

DeConcini, of Arizona, also recommended former House Republican leader John Rhodes from his home state.

Thurmond, of South Carolina, also had other suggestions: former Democratic Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, who served under Jimmy Carter; and Reagan's first attorney general, William French Smith.

Responding to a reporter's question, Thurmond said former Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole "would make an excellent attorney general."

Her husband, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., suggested that former White House chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. and Washington lawyer Judith Richards Hope, daughter-in-law of comedian Bob Hope, would qualify.

37th St. widening proposed

To change from two to four-lane

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

The widening of 37th St. west from College Ave. to Crockett Ave.—making it a four-lane rather than two-lane traffic route—has been agreed to by state highway officials pending action by the City of Snyder.

On the city's part, this would include securing right of way from property owners along the street's northern edge to allow for this widening.

An estimated 6 ft. is said needed from the north side of 37th as it runs east and west between College and Crockett Aves. Some 4 ft. is expected to be taken from the south side.

The project has been approved as a state-funded "urban program" project for cities within the Abilene district of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The local state highway office proposed the plan on behalf of the city, and it has now been approved by the State Highway Commission.

With state approval granted, the widening plans must now go back to the city council.

The city would be responsible for providing 100 percent of right of way required to widen the street. Other city-required items will include any costs related to moving utility lines as well as expenses for curb and gutter and any adjustments to driveways and sidewalks.

After construction is completed, the city would be required to maintain the roadway also.

In all, the project involves a distance of .6 of-a-mile.

The widening would make all of 37th St. from College to El Paso Ave. the same width, approximately 56 ft. across. The street currently narrows at Crockett.

To accomplish this, according

WIDENING PROPOSED — This section of 37th St. looking west would be widened some 6 ft. on the north side (shown at right) and some 4 ft. on the south if plans are approved to widen the city roadway west from College Ave. to Crockett Ave. This photo was taken at the intersection of Ave. V. to Ed Vernon, chief engineer for the local state highway office, by far the majority of the new right of way will involve the north side. On the south side, the road will be widened to the edge of the existing right of way previously granted by property owners. All estimates are now approximate, he said, since no detailed engineering work for the project has been completed as yet. The city has a 90-day period to accept the state's offer. "Once the right of way is secured, I think we could move very quickly on it," Vernon said. He estimated the work could likely be completed some time

June construction lagging behind '87

The month produced 15 building permits issued for a new construction total of $186,409. This brings the year-to-date to $1.3 million as compared to $1.4 million in 1987.

Exact figures for each are $1,445,873 and $1,340,771 respectively.

The 15 building permits included one for a new single family residence, only the third built in Snyder since last October, and five mobile home move-ins here.

These two categories comprised more than $157,000, some 84 percent, of the month's total.

In addition, two commercial projects were applied for amounting to $19,300. These include additions at Y-Z Industries and at Dupree Motors.

The month's lone single family residence permit was issued to owner Jesse Navarette for a home built at 3303 Ave. U.

The mobile home move-in permits were issued to Ricky Ornelas, 704 N. Ave. T; Weldon Wyatt, 1201 28th St.; Eugenio Davila, 1708 Ave. M; Roger Gattis, 2509 Ave. W; and Michael Bowlin, 2208 Gilmore.

A permit to build a cover for an existing mobile home was issued also to Carl Stewart, 1209 22nd St.

Other projects issued permits include construction of a storage building, issued to Lorenzo Martinez, 707 16th St.; a garage, issued to Jesse Salinas, 512 15th St.; a boat storage facility, issued to Barry Mayo, 112 33rd St.; a patio cover, issued to Gary Roberts, 3102 Beaumont; and a shop building, issued to John Bane, 2212 41st St.

Applications held up for Windham School

Interest in the educational posts for the Windham School unit to be housed at the Snyder Texas Department of Corrections prison has to date prompted more than 40 inquiries.

Actual applications are being held up, however, as officials with Western Texas College await receiving an updated form from TDC.

"They tell me we're on the list and as soon as they receive it, we'll receive it," said Mike Thornton, WTC's liaison staffer with the TDC.

He said the names and addresses of all those inquiring are being listed and application received.

The Windham School unit will create jobs for 33 instructional personnel, to include 22 classroom teachers. The teaching posts will include 16 academic instructors and six vocational teachers.

Also to be employed will be a principal or superintendent, three vocational counselors, three substance abuse personnel, one recreational consultant, a librarian and two secretaries.

Staffers will contract for 220 work days. In addition to all state holidays, the positions include a two-week break at Christmas and a three-week break for the summer.

Salaries are based on the per-day rate provided by the state. See WINDHAM, page 9

Ask Us

Q. — Has the city any plans to repair 30th St. from College to El Paso?

A. — City officials note the street is in need of repairs due to a sub-surface problem caused by large amounts of runoff water from the adjoining residential area. They note, however, the funds required for a major repair aren't in the capital improvement budget for the city this coming year due to other commitments to include a sewage treatment plant upgrade and utility lines to the new prison.

Demos, GOP speak ill of one another

AUSTIN (AP) — In the lofty phrases of their respective party platforms, Texas Democrats and Republicans both praise liberty, justice, family and American traditions this year.

They also say some pretty ugly things about one another.

To hear Democrats tell it, Republicans "have broken faith with the American people" and "their hypocrisy and incompetence threaten basic American values and interests."

To hear Republicans tell it, Democrats are headed "down the path of complacency, liberalism and special interests" offering "compromise instead of principle ... and despair instead of hope."

And that's just for starters.

Reading their platforms might lead some to believe the two parties had at least a few thoughts in common as their state conventions met.

The GOP adopted a platform declaring that the party "is committed to basic traditional values of God, home and country. It believes in the rights of the individual; in the family; in basic education; reading, writing, arithmetic," among other things.

Democrats said they aspire to "the protection of historic American principles of individual rights and responsibilities, and those traditional American institutions of family, school and community upon which this nation was founded and has prospered ..."

But such seeming agreement was outweighed by the downright nasty things they went on to say about each other.

The GOP platform took an historical tack.

"Commencing with President Lincoln," they wrote, "and continuing through the current efforts of Ronald Reagan and George Bush, the Republican Party has done more to advance human rights than any other civil institution in history ... The Democratic Party doesn't understand these principles and it is no wonder that the people of Texas no longer understand the Democratic Party."

As for Democrats, their platform launched a contemporary volley at the Reagan-Bush administration record.

"They promised law-and-order, but an unprecedented number of top officials in this administration have been indicted or forced to resign because of corruption and unethical behavior ... They promise a balanced budget but never offered one, instead saddling our children and grandchildren with history's largest deficits, over $1 trillion in seven short years."

Republicans reminded their readers: "We ended slavery in the United States, despite the opposition of Democrats ... Inspired by Susan B. Anthony, who voted Republican, the Republican Party was instrumental in guaranteeing women the right to vote. We demanded the integration of all public schools with all deliberate speed, despite the opposition of Democrats."

Democrats told their readers: "They promise a strong national defense, but they deliver $800 coffee pots ... The Republicans tell our children to say 'no' to drugs, but they say 'yes' to Noriega. They say we should never make deals with terrorists, but they trade arms to the Ayatollah for hostages."

Both platforms also looked at the future.

Guess what? They had different advice.

Vote Democratic, that platform said, because "our children and their children ... deserve integrity and leadership for the future, not greed and government by veto."

Vote Republican, that platform said, because "we believe in excellence and prefer the risk of high achievement to the guarantee of a meaningless mediocrity."

They did agree on one thing: both conventions were held in Houston's George R. Brown Center. Different weekends, though.

Genetic venture gains impetus

DALLAS (AP) — A company created in 1986 to provide seed money for genetic engineering and other biotechnology startups in Texas has borne its first fruit.

Officials of Dallas Biomedical Corp. said $2.5 million has been raised for its first major genetic engineering startup — a venture that will attempt to make a profit from genetic testing for such inherited illnesses as diabetes, heart disease and cancer.

Dallas Biomedical Corp. president Devon Giacalone said the new venture, called GeneScreen Inc., is "a major milestone" for the Dallas biotechnology firm, which was formed two years ago to find commercial applications for local biomedical research projects, primarily at the University of Texas Southwest Medical Center.

Giacalone, formerly the director of commercial development at Biogen N.V., a prominent early startup in genetic engineering, projects that the new venture will achieve between $20 million and $40 million in annual sales within seven years, The Dallas Morning News reported Wednesday.

GeneScreen is an outgrowth of one of 12 research projects that Dallas Biomedical Corp. pursued over the past two years, Giacalone said.

The gene-screening startup will use molecular biology technologies to diagnose differences in human genes. Genes transmit and determine hereditary characteristics of human beings.

They appear as specific points on human chromosomes, which consist primarily of deoxyribonucleic acid, the material that contains the genetic code, and protein.

Differences in chromosomes or the appearance of certain pieces of deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) in human genes indicate a person could be susceptible to inherited diseases.

The company will develop its own proprietary tests, Giacalone said, marketing both its tests and its laboratories as a testing service. Giacalone said the first three tests — for muscular dystrophy, cystic fibrosis and diabetes — will be introduced this fall.

Eugene Melnitchenko, a research analyst who follows the biotechnology industry for Epler, Guerin & Turner, Inc., in Dallas, said the Dallas startup is similar to those made across the country in recent years.

"We in Texas ignored this thing" for years, Melnitchenko said.

Melnitchenko said "gene probes" eventually could lead to "dipstick tests" for inherited diseases, like other urine tests.

Protein and kidney pain

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had a kidney removed nine years ago and have been fine. Since then, I've noticed that whenever I go on a high-protein diet to lose weight, or whenever I consume a lot of products with aspartame, I get kidney pain. Why would the excess protein cause kidney pain?

DEAR READER: It wouldn't, to my knowledge. However, before giving an answer, I'd have to know the reason that you had one of your kidneys removed. Some patients with diminished kidney function are put on low protein diets to reduce the production of nitrogen, a waste product of protein metabolism. Kidney pain is not a usual consequence of excess protein. The pain you are experiencing may be due less to protein and aspartame (which contains protein substances) than to the foods that contain these compounds. For instance, your remaining kidney may be having difficulty dealing with the fluid overload that can result from eating more than usual or consuming excessive quantities of diet drinks. Ask your doctor why you are having symptoms and please let me know what he or she says.

In the meantime, as weight seems to be at issue here, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Winning the Battle of the Bulge." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend's baby has Lenz Majewsky syndrome and we can't find any information on this subject. Can you enlighten us?

DEAR READER: You really sent me scurrying to the books on this one — and still no dice. I cannot find a listing for Lenz Majewsky syndrome in any of my reference books. Any help out there?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm told that I have Frey's syndrome. What is this?

DEAR READER: Frey's syndrome (auriculotemporal syndrome) is an unusual condition seen as redness and sweating of the cheek during eating. It is associated with certain diseases of the parotid gland (the salivary gland in the cheek that swells up in mumps). Evidently, some parotid lesions affect the nearby auriculotemporal nerve; when the gland secretes saliva, the nerve is stimulated to cause skin changes. Once the parotid problem has been taken care of, the syndrome vanishes.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I live in a very dry climate and my nose is irritated a good deal of the time. What would you recommend?

DEAR READER: A humidifier in your bedroom would add substantial moisture to the air you breathe and might make your nose less dry. Some residents in dry climates maintain a large collection of houseplants; this method is also effective in raising humidity.

Wound From Husband's Affair Still Festers for Unhappy Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Twenty years ago, my husband had an affair. They were caught by the lady's husband, and that ended it. I offered my husband a divorce, but he said he didn't want one. We had children in school, so I stayed in the marriage for their sakes.

This has been on my mind every day since it happened, and it has changed the way I feel about my husband. At times I actually have feelings of hatred for him.

We are best friends and very compatible, but I can't seem to get over the hurt. Can this wound ever heal? I know I can't forget it. Please publish an answer, as there may be others in this situation.

UNHAPPY

When she noticed that I was about to be seated, she jumped into my chair. Once while I was napping, she poured water on my pillow and my head. If I try to tell her something she doesn't want to hear, she covers her ears and yells until I stop speaking. When sent to her room, she throws terrible tantrums, swears at her mother and threatens to kill herself.

Her parents divorced about a year ago after a strife-filled marriage. Do you think this child behaves this way to get attention, or is she just hostile? I am supposed to babysit with her for several months next fall. Please advise me.

TERRIFIED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR UNHAPPY: A wound will never heal if you continually pick at it. Concentrate on the present, and put away those painful memories. God made no perfect people. Believe this, and don't permit heartaches of the past to sour your future. Get professional help to guide you out of this unforgiving bitterness. You deserve better.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I visited my ex-daughter-in-law and my granddaughter in another state, and this is how I was treated by my granddaughter (she treats her mother the same way):

She kicked me, spat at me, knocked books and other items out of my hands, poked me in the abdomen and breasts with her bony elbows, stamped on my feet and screamed at me until she got her way.

Prison breakout suspect finally caught in Texas

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Acting on a tip, the FBI arrested a Kentucky prison escapee who also was wanted on murder charges following a breakout by eight inmates.

Billy Hall, 25, of Paducah, Ky., surrendered without incident to a team of FBI agents at a downtown Western Union office Wednesday, agent Terry Kincaid said.

Hall and seven others on June 16 broke out of the the Kentucky State Penitentiary in Eddyville, Ky. Only two escapees remain at large, authorities said.

Kincaid said Hall, who was serving a 20-year sentence for burglary and assault, may have been in Mexico and returned across the border to try and get some money.

"We had developed information that he may be in the area. We were alert for his presence," he said.

Kincaid said the FBI had received a tip from "somewhere else in the country" that Hall would be at the Western Union of-rice between 2:30 and 3 p.m. on Wednesday. He said he did not know where the tip had originated.

This little piggy played no-trump

You don't have to spend much time at the bridge table to see greed rear its ugly head. Here South was in an easy three no-trump, with nine top tricks available after the opening lead. But that wasn't enough.

Declarer won the king of spades in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a club back to his queen. West took the ace and switched to the jack of hearts. Now living in a dream world, declarer rose with the king East won, returned a low heart to partner's 10, and took the setting tricks when West played the three of hearts through the dummy's remaining 8-4.

Of course, even after losing to the ace of clubs, declarer can still guarantee his contract simply by playing low from dummy on the jack of hearts. He can then cover West's 10 with the king, and dummy's eight will stop the run of the heart suit. But how much simpler to just take the first nine tricks ending in dummy and then lead a club. Declarer will make an overtrick if East has the club ace or if West has the heart ace or if the defense makes a mistake.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Kill crabgrass in midsummer

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (AP) — The two most prevalent weeds affecting American lawns are the dandelion and the less noticeable but far more destructive crabgrass.

"If left unchecked, crabgrass can take over 80 to 90 percent of your lawn," says Dr. Henry W. Indyk, an extension specialist in turfgrass management at Cook College-Rutgers University.

"A smart approach to controlling crabgrass is to specifically target the weed," he says. "Wait until the crabgrass starts coming up strong, usually in midsummer, and then use a post-emergence product to deal directly with the problem."

Indyk says post-emergence products are a good alternative for many bothersome weeds. Since they target specific problems, they often are less wasteful and more economical than their pre-emergence counterparts.

Some sheep stations in Australia are bigger than Puerto Rico.

Italy's ancient Etruscans, forerunners of the Romans, combined their love of music and sports with a penchant for brutality that might have included human sacrifice, says National Geographic.
