Meese report issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent counsel James McKay concluded in a report released today that Attorney General Edwin Meese III probably willfully filed a false income tax return, failed to pay taxes on time and broke a criminal conflict-of-interest law.

But McKay said he had decided not to seek criminal charges against the attorney general because "there is no evidence that Mr. Meese acted from motivation for personal gain. ... There is no evidence that he acted out of self-interest."

In an 814-page report, McKay said Meese's 1985 tax return did not declare some capital gains from the sale of securities and that Meese did not pay income tax on his capital gains from those sales when he filed the return.

"A trier of fact would probably conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Meese violated" a section of the Internal Revenue Code by filing "a materially false tax return," said McKay, who added that Meese probably also violated a section of the Internal Revenue Code for "willfully failing to pay tax at the time required by law."

Meese also probably violated a criminal conflict-of-interest law in connection with his holdings of $14,000 in regional Bell telephone stock, but the independent counsel who investigated Meese for 14 months disclosed today that he had decided not to prosecute the case.

McKay said Meese owned the stock in the regional Bell companies in 1985 and 1986, when he set in motion a review process that led to a reversal of Justice Department policy. McKay also found that Meese participated in discussions of proposed legislation to shift regulatory responsibility for the breakup of AT&T from a federal court and the Justice Department to the Federal Communications Commission.

Jackson, Dukakis...

Candidates hold talks

ATLANTA (AP) — Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson met privately today, trying to seal a show of unity only hours before the opening gavel of the Democratic National Convention. Dukakis, the certain presidential nominee, said, "There is no rift."

Jackson, surrounded by a crush of reporters, walked into Dukakis' hotel saying little except that he was "looking forward to a meaningful meeting."

Rodeo arena action starts

Activity will get underway Tuesday at the Scurry County Rodeo Association's arena on west 30th St. as the West Texas Barrel Racing Association competition begins at 6:30 p.m.

On Wednesday at 6 p.m., the rodeo grounds will be the site for the annual stockholders roping for association members.

Both events are in preparation for the 53rd annual Scurry County Rodeo, which opens a three-day run at the rodeo arena Thursday.

The rodeo will be nightly at 8 o'clock through Saturday.

2 break-ins are reported

Police are investigating two motor vehicle burglaries that were reported over the weekend.

David Sellars of 1801 Ave. I reported at 12:57 p.m. Sunday that a stereo had been stolen from a vehicle parked in front of his home.

Markus Meek of 4515 El Paso Ave. told officers at 10:40 a.m. Saturday that six stereo tapes and some change had been taken from his 1977 Chevrolet pickup.

Sources said the two candidates were expected to negotiate several issues, including Jackson's insistence on playing a significant role in the transition to a Democratic administration if Dukakis wins in November. Dukakis aides said it would be better to deal with that idea after the election.

Dukakis, in an interview on NBC-TV, said he expected "some reasonable disagreement" on platform issues, which will come up for debate Tuesday night, but he said he didn't believe there would be a fight on a potentially more divisive matter: his choice of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for the vice presidential spot Jackson wanted.

Asked about the possibility that Jackson's name would be put in nomination in opposition to Bentsen's, Dukakis said, "I don't think that's going to happen."

He said he had not asked Jackson not to be nominated for vice president because such matters are up to the convention at large.

Dukakis said there would be an important place for Jackson in the fall campaign and added that he wanted to reach out for help in forming his administration if he wins the election.

In a conciliatory gesture Sunday night, Dukakis told a crowded party audience, "We're going to need Jesse, we're going to need all the delegates that are at this convention."

Meanwhile, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen set out to win over those Democrats who would have preferred Jackson for the No. 2 spot on the ticket. Bentsen is making the rounds among state delegations to press his case.

He made a point of including the New Jersey delegation, where there are mixed feelings about the choice of the Texas senator.

Resolution fights highway fund use

Scurry County commissioners Monday passed a resolution discouraging the state legislature's possible diversion of highway trust funds for uses other than highway construction.

The resolution also urges support for a proposed constitutional amendment sponsored by the Texas Good Roads Association that would prohibit such diversions.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin reported on a Good Roads Association meeting in Austin last week at which State Rep. Stan Schlueter of Killeen, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the Legislature is likely to divert the highway funds to ease the state's budgetary problems if the amendment is not approved.

The Legislature would then probably have to raise taxes to finance highway construction projects and would "blame it on the highway department," Goodwin said.

He noted that the 9-cent federal fuel tax funnels $800 million annually into the state highway trust fund.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting included County Treasurer Billy Wayne Thompson's quarterly report, in which he said the county earned $71,674 from its money market investments and $8,790 from its Super NOW funds during the second quarter.

Bids were taken at 11 a.m. for a used diesel truck to be employed in Commissioner Tommy Pate's Pct. 2. An $8,495 offer was accepted as the low bid from Jack's Roadboring & Pipeline Construction for a 1975 Mack truck.

Land owners offered CRP land retirement

Monday begins the seventh sign-up period in Scurry County for the Conservation Reserve Program offered through the U.S. Government's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Interested land owners may now submit bids for per-acre dollar amounts they would be willing to accept to place their farm land into reserve.

Those accepted may not use this land for a 10-year period and must agree to grow a erosion-resistant ground cover over it.

Regarding the grass, the land owner cannot harvest it, bale it or graze it while it is placed in reserve.

The current CRP sign-up period will end Aug. 5.

In charge of the local sign-up is the ASCS office located at the Ag Service Center in the Snyder Shopping Center.

ASCS director Joe Hefner notes that for the previous six signups, the highest per-acre amount paid

Party unity predicted...

Texans downplay rift

ATLANTA (AP) — Texas delegates for Jesse Jackson parted with delegates for Michael Dukakis until the early hours today and predicted that they will be a unified team by week's end.

But some Jackson backers said the onus is on Dukakis at the Democratic National Convention, which opens today, to make them feel wanted—and appreciated.

"All of us are kind of on hold waiting to see what he says and how Jesse responds to that," said state Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin and a Jackson delegate.

Dukakis should not take the Jackson supporters for granted come November, she warned.

"We want to see the things that have been articulated and the commitments that have been made followed through on. Otherwise people are going to stay home. It's as simple as that," Ms. Delco said.

Also today, state Treasurer Ann Richards prepared for her keynote address, tonight's highlight of the convention's opening day.

"I'm not trying to go down in the history books," she said Sunday. "I'll just try to communicate and deliver a message."

Ms. Richards spent the day getting acquainted with the convention floor technology. Afterward, she said Texans familiar with her rapier wit may be a bit disappointed at the humor level in her keynote address.

"I don't think I'm going to be as funny as everyone expects me to be. This is just not a place to be all that funny. You can't tell any jokes unless they are one-liners because there's not enough time to develop the punch line," said Ms. Richards, who delights crowds with her folksy yarns.

After Tuesday night's platform votes, the Democrats on Wednesday will give the presidential nomination to Dukakis. Buoyed by his selection of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as his running mate, Dukakis should get 141 of Texas' 211 delegate votes.

Bentsen will be nominated Thursday night, and the Texans who parted Sunday night at an event sponsored by the host committee, will then go home united, according to Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, Dukakis' Texas campaign manager.

Asked if there was anything that could happen here to prevent post-convention unity among Texas Democrats, Sharp said, "Nuclear war."

"Everybody I've talked to from Texas is eager for this to be behind us and get on with the campaign. The other prospect is eight more years of the same," Sharp said, referring to a GOP White House.

Jackson delegate Glen Maxey of Austin, executive director of the Texas Gay-Lesbian Caucus, agreed.

"Even though we don't like Dukakis, on some of the issues (important to the gay community), the number one thing is to elect him this fall. Anything Dukakis is bad on, Bush is worse on," Maxey said.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, a Jackson delegate, also sees unity after some possible Tuesday night platform battles.

"The feeling is let's all put a campaign together and let's go beat those Republicans," he said. "Running against Republicans is the most fun you can have with your clothes on."

Chamber breakfast set to aid clothing stores

ABOUT IN A SERIES of Snyder Chamber of Commerce-sponsored breakfast events to assist local merchants is planned Tuesday, this one geared toward businesses involved in women's and men's clothing sales.

The breakfast will begin at 8:15 a.m. at the Reddy Room for TU Electric.

Chamber staffers say representatives from some 15 local businesses are expected to attend.

The events are held to allow persons with like business interests an opportunity to discuss situations unique to their commercial operations.

The breakfast is sponsored by the chamber's Membership Services Committee. Herbie Figueredo, chairman of that committee, will preside Tuesday.

A breakfast, courtesy of McDonald's, will be served and the session is expected to last approximately one hour.

Ask Us

Q. — When did Snyder's phone prefix change from HI to 573?

A. — Several current and former staffers with Southwestern Bell Telephone sifted through their records and collective memories to come up with this date, but the nearest anyone can pinpoint it is the late 1960s, for sure after 1965. The change was from the two-digit HI, which stood for Hillcrest and was dialed using 4-4.

In Brief

Killing spree

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A man went on a shooting spree with a high-powered rifle and .38-caliber pistol in a residential neighborhood near Winston-Salem, killing four people and wounding six, authorities said.

The gunman later was shot and wounded by police and was in custody, authorities said.

"We're still trying to figure it out," said Capt. Bill McGuire of the Forsyth County Sheriff's Department. "All of our people are down there now."

The shooting apparently occurred late Sunday night, officials said.

Tours area

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — The devastation from tornadoes that turned parts of Iowa into a disaster area, damaging 10,000 homes and injuring 94 people, is drawing federal officials here today to assess the situation.

For the third night in a row, the Iowa National Guard remained on duty early today to enforce a curfew intended to prevent looting. Thousands of residents remained without power.

Gov. Terry Branstad declared Pottawattamie County, which includes Council Bluffs, a disaster area on Sunday.

"To see that kind of devastation and not have more personal injuries or more serious injuries, I think we can just count our blessings," Branstad said Sunday after touring the area.

Officials from the Federal Emergency Management Agency's regional office in Kansas City planned to tour Council Bluffs today to assess the destruction.

Dear Abby

Wife's Toothless Grin Proves Her Husband's Good Nature

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "Revolted in Maine," whose husband refused to wear his dentures. She said, "Looking at him is offensive, and watching him eat is unbearable." Believe me, if that's the only thing wrong with him, she's a very lucky woman. I think she wants out of her marriage.

I'm 71 and Abe is 78, and we've been married for 45 years. I don't wear my dentures, either, and I haven't worn any for more than 10 years. I had four sets made by four different dentists and I couldn't wear any of them, but I didn't give up. I went to three more dentists, and the last one told me to quit wasting my money because there are thousands of people like me who just can't adjust to wearing dentures, no matter what. Eating without teeth is no problem for me. There are only two items I can't eat — raw carrots and nuts.

I'm a lousy cook and a worse housekeeper, but Abe never complains. He takes me out for dinner every night and says he doesn't care how I look, as long as I feel good.

TILLIE SCHIFF, DELRAY BEACH, FLA.

DEAR TILLIE: Count your blessings, by gum!

DEAR ABBY: I know this will be too late for Father's Day, but I had to write. You advised us to write a letter to our fathers telling them how much we appreciate them, and why. Well, what do you do when your father does not speak to you or acknowledge your letters?

Ever since I made the choice to move in with my boyfriend, my father has not spoken to me. I have written to him, but my letters have not been answered. I (and my boyfriend) have tried to talk to him. He refuses to speak to either of us. We intend to get married next year. If our financial situation is such that we can afford a small wedding, we will have one. If not, we will drive to some small chapel and get married.

It hurts me to know that my father cannot even give me his best wishes. I know he thinks my move was a stupid one, but I have never been happier.

FEELING FATHERLESS

DEAR FEELING: How old are you? Are you self-supporting? How old is your boyfriend? Is he self-supporting? If you are both of legal age and are self-supporting, I would say that a pair of adults are responsible only to themselves for their actions.

Your father has every right to be disappointed in your decision and disapproving of your life-style, but in punishing you, he is also punishing himself. What a sad commentary. Time is so precious.

Richards' profile is revealed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Treasurer Ann Richards, the keynote speaker for the Democratic National Convention, says she learned how to act like a good ol' boy from the best ol' boy she knew — her father.

As a child growing up in Waco, Texas, she would sometimes make the drugstore rounds with her father, Cecil Willis, a pharmaceutical salesman who knew that small talk could lead to big sales.

"That's where I first learned how good ol' boys talk to each other. There's a lot of laughing and a lot of hurraing and a lot of back-slapping and a lot of fish stories," Ms. Richards recalled.

"It's tremendously important because it is a bond. It's a link that lays the predicate for whatever serious business you have to do. It kept women out because we didn't know how to do it. And we're still not very good at it," she said.

But those who have watched Ms. Richards' career say she has become a master at good ol' boy talk, and it is a key to her success. In 12 years she has gone from housewife to county commissioner to state treasurer to likely candidate for governor in 1990.

Texas Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, state chairman of Michael Dukakis' presidential campaign and a friend of Ms. Richards, remembers taking her to meet some oilmen friends in Midland.

"I came back from the rest room and Richards and these oil guys were sitting there on their hands and knees shooting dice up against the wall. Had there been money passing hands, those guys would still be paying debt. She had all the little scraps of paper in front of her," Sharp said.

"That little story probably illustrates the secret of her popularity. She has never met a stranger. She always fits in," he said.

Earlier in her life, Ms. Richards, now 54, fit into the traditional female role of the day. Politics played little part in it.

"I can remember a time in my life when I wouldn't give a recipe to a friend because that was the only form of power I had," she has told many audiences.

Her high school debate talents won her a scholarship to Baylor University.

University of Minnesota is plagued by many scandals

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The last-second basketball victory over neighboring Big Ten rival Wisconsin in 1986 was a proud moment for the University of Minnesota to savor. As it turned out, it was the last proud moment for quite a while.

On the morning after the 67-65 victory of Jan. 23, 1986, three members of the Golden Gophers basketball team were accused of rape in an incident in a Madison, Wis., hotel room.

The three later were acquitted in a trial filled with sordid testimony. But the notoriety was only beginning for Minnesota, which is among the nation's largest universities.

With 44,293 undergraduate and graduate students and 18,000 extension students, the Minnesota campus sprawls over both banks of the Mississippi River near downtown Minneapolis.

The misdeeds, improprieties and embarrassments over the next 31 months were dizzying.

—The men's basketball team was placed on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for numerous infractions, mostly over its recruiting of student athletes.

—University President Ken Keller resigned in a scandal over hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on his official residence.

—Keller's interim replacement, Richard Sauer, admitted plagiarizing part of a magazine article while applying for a job elsewhere.

—A former university official was indicted on charges of swindling money and giving it to athletes; the school's popular athletic director, Paul Giel, was fired.

The troubles may be unprecedented among major universities.

Robert L. Gale, president of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, recalls discussing Minnesota's skid with colleagues. "They would say, 'Those poor devils. Everything has happened to them at once.'"

The long-term effect isn't clear.

"It is going to be more difficult for the university to function in an autonomous fashion because the Legislature is going to be looking over their shoulder a lot more than it has in the past," said Gale.

After the 1986 rape charges, many people began looking over the university's shoulder.

A Big Ten report later that year said the men's athletic department had the conference's lowest rate of graduation from 1978 through 1983.

While the school was still reeling from that report, NCAA investigators arrived to investigate recruiting.

In March, the NCAA announced 40 rules violations, most of them in the basketball program under Coach Jim Dutcher, who resigned after the rape trial.

In the same month, Keller resigned after a six-week controversy over university financial management. It was sparked by his $1.5 million renovation of the official residence at more than twice the budgeted amount.

Keller also approved a $200,000 remodeling of his offices, including a $15,822 mahogany desk and credenza. He eventually paid for them himself.

Students picketed the mansion, and a local radio station's ditty referred to Keller as the "Renovation Man." His "Commitment to Focus" plan to upgrade some programs, cut others and reduce enrollment by 8,000, was mockingly referred to as "Commitment to Furniture."

A widening probe turned up a $221 million reserve fund. Critics called it a slush fund, and it rankled professors whose programs had been targeted for elimination and angered some contributors and alumni, who quit giving.

When Sauer took over the president's duties, he remained in his own home, accepted a used desk and set out to mend fences.

Then the plagiarism scandal hit him while he was applying for the presidency of North Dakota State University.

After he apologized to the University of Minnesota regents, they gave him a unanimous vote of confidence. North Dakota State since has asked him to renew his application for the presidency.

Sauer's troubles were followed by the athletic department coming under further investigation. Luther Darville, former acting director of the school's Office of Minority and Special Student Affairs, was indicted in May on three counts of felony theft by swindle.

Darville has fled to his native Bahamas and authorities have started extradition proceedings.

University officials acknowledge that the turnover among top personnel has caused problems, but they say the school is running more smoothly than might be expected.

"I think the fact is that the university is being well-governed by the interim people," said David Lebedoff, chairman of the University of Minnesota Board of Regents.

David Merkwitz, spokesman for the American Council on Education, said he couldn't recall any other university having so many problems recently.

Still, Merkwitz said, "I am absolutely sure a university like Minnesota with 45,000 students is going to survive these things."

When responder showed two suits and then removed three no-trump to four spades, he was clearly inviting South to go to slam. South had enough sound values to accept, so he asked for aces and bid six. When dummy came down, declarer could see that the success of the contract rested simply on being able to bring in the spade suit with only one loser. It seemed that East would need to hold the jack of spades for the slam to succeed, so declarer won the opening lead with dummy's jack and led dummy's spade six. When East followed low, declarer inserted the 10, losing to West's jack. Later a spade to the queen forced out East's ace, and South could eventually pick up East's guarded nine. The contract was down only one, but proper play would have won the day.

The correct technique is for South to first lead toward the spade queen in dummy. This succeeds in today's deal because West holds the singleton jack, but it would also work if West held the singleton ace. When the jack appears, declarer can later get to dummy and play East for the nine of spades. That will bring in the trump suit with only one loser, and the slam will make.

The correct way wins the day By James Jacoby

North-South had a nice scientific auction to reach a fair six-spade contract. Unfortunately declarer's play of the hand did not match his bidding science.

Asian-Americans are still facing discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asian-Americans are better paid and better educated than American whites, but a report by government civil rights experts is reluctant to declare an "Asian success story" and insists that discrimination still exists.

Presentation of the 289-page study to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, which had ordered it, prompted concern over its impact. One commissioner, Mary Frances Berry of the University of Pennsylvania, said it might lead to more discrimination when the public realizes how much more Asians are earning.

Six of the seven commissioners voted Friday to hold off on adopting the document as an official government report until more outside experts can review and interpret it.

The study, billed as the first comprehensive look at the incomes of nearly 4 million Asian-American residents, shows that native-born American families with Chinese ancestry earn 50 percent more than families in which both husband and wife are white, and Korean and Japanese families earn 46 percent and 44 percent more, respectively.

But some Asian-American ethnic groups are not faring so well.

Not dangerous—but it looks bad

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son-in-law uses the same eating utensils that his dog does. He's a very clean and nice person, but this looks terrible. What can I tell him that would stop this habit?

DEAR READER: If your son-in-law washes the utensils between uses, I see no health reason why he and his dog shouldn't share plates, knives and forks. If he doesn't wash them, I'd worry about his gastronomic preferences, because dried dogfood is not particularly tasty.

I think that your son-in-law is probably old enough to make his own decisions about hygiene. Why bother yourself about his preferences? If he is good to your daughter, brings home his paycheck, helps put a roof over their heads and doesn't lift his leg on the furniture, what difference does it make that he uses kibbles as snacks? Now, if his dog drinks out of the Waterford crystal or insists on using a linen tablecloth with a full place setting of your grandmother's sterling, you've got a problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 76, and, as a young person, was uncomfortable with anyone who had epilepsy. Five years ago I had my first seizure and was treated with Dilantin, although I did not have an EEG until last month. Please tell your readers that epilepsy is not a mental condition and that people with epilepsy can lead normal lives.

DEAR READER: People with epilepsy can certainly lead normal and productive lives. The condition — which is physical, not mental — is readily treatable with anticonvulsant medicine. You are correct in stating that epilepsy is an illness, not an emotional disorder. To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Epilepsy: The Falling Sickness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A few months ago I had a transurethral biopsy to remove the prostate gland because of a blockage. I can now sleep for five hours at night, but still urinate every 15 to 30 minutes during the day. I drink 24 ounces of regular coffee and 24 ounces of regular cola daily.

DEAR READER: You are taking in a tankcar of caffeine that is probably acting as a strong kidney stimulant. In addition, you're consuming a whale of a lot of fluid in your coffee and cola. Cut down to a maximum of two cups of coffee a day, enjoy a soft drink as an occasional snack and see if your daily urine flow diminishes to a more normal level. I think that 48 ounces of caffeine-containing beverages are the reason for your problem.

In the year ahead you might find yourself looking for ways to put your resources to work. There will be opportunities available, but each one must be screened very carefully.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People who depend upon you will be extremely disappointed and angry if you do not fulfill your commitments. Do not leave matters of this kind until the last moment. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A matter of consequence might not come off in a way that lives up to your expectations today. Treat the situation philosophically, not angrily.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial or commercial ventures could be a bit tricky today. Do not take anything for granted. What appears to be a sure thing could misfire.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be more fortunate today doing things on your own than with a partner whose opinions aren't in harmony with yours. Avoid dead weight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Although you will be ambitious and energetic today, your productivity could be affected if you try to do more than you can comfortably manage. Don't put yourself under pressure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) One of your close friends has a chip on the shoulder today, but the bark is worse than the bite. Don't take the comments to heart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) To get others to do things for you today, you must ask in ways that aren't dictatorial or demanding. If you come on too strong, your pleas will be ignored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might be tempted to retort sharply today to a guy who thinks he is right about everything. He'll be wrong as usual, so just pass it off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, be careful that another does not make a commitment on your behalf without your authorization or knowledge. It will be a person with whom you are closely involved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It could be self-defeating today if you are too assertive in dealings with associates. Try to think of everyone as part of a team rather than opponents.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let minor issues distract you from your primary target today. If they are given too much attention, they could obscure your objective.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lady Luck could be a bit fickle and impatient today. If you're not prepared to act when she is ready, she might desert you and go elsewhere. Move quickly.

Congress prepares for fight over aid to Contra rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Escalating strife in Nicaragua is sending familiar ripples through Washington, where Congress appears headed for yet another fractious confrontation over U.S. policy in the region.

Riding a crest of anti-Sandinista sentiment in Congress, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., introduced legislation last week to provide a new $47 million in aid — $20 million of it in weapons — to the Contra rebels fighting the leftist regime in Managua.

The rebels have been without new U.S. military aid since February, and have been making do with the $17 million for food and clothing that Congress provided in earlier legislation. The humanitarian aid was designed to enhance peace talks which collapsed June 9. The talks have not gotten back on track.

The Reagan administration's strategy appears to be to get some version of the Dole aid bill passed in the more favorable climate of the Senate, as an amendment to a Pentagon money bill. That could happen soon after Congress returns July 26 from its break for the Democratic National Convention.

The measure then would go to a House-Senate negotiating committee, where the Contra aid amendment would be among the items subject to bargaining. Members of the House negotiating team, such as Reps. Bill Chappell, D-Fla., and John Murtha, D-Pa., look more favorably on Contra aid than the full House, and are seen as likely to accept the Senate provision.

AP analysis

That would mean House members, who have narrowly rejected Contra military aid in the last several showdowns, would be faced with a vote on an entire Pentagon spending package that includes aid to the rebels as a small section of the bill.

Democratic strategists concede the aid is far more likely to pass in that form, since it would be easier to get a yes vote from the three dozen or so "swing" members — most of them Democrats — who traditionally hold the balance of power on the issue.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, the leading congressional critic of the administration's Contra policy, was seeking to arrange a resumption of the peace talks. He said while he would not oppose an extension of humanitarian aid to the rebels, "I don't think there exists in Congress a desire to resume the war."

Price leading rain-delayed British Open by 2 strokes

LYTHAM, England (AP) - Nick Faldo, Seve Ballesteros and Sandy Lyle all have won the British Open at least once.

Nick Price thought he had joined that group six years ago, but the dream vanished six holes too soon. Now, he said, that disappointment would help him in a final-round battle of champions, real and imagined.

"I've got more to prove. They've all won before," Price said Sunday after stretching his lead to two strokes at 7-under-par 206 going into the final 18 holes at Royal Lytham and St. Annes Golf Club.

Faldo, the defending champion, and Ballesteros, a two-time winner who took his first major title here in 1979, are tied for second at 208, with Lyle, the 1985 champion, another stroke back.

Those four were the last golfers scheduled to tee off in today's final round, the first time in 117 editions that the sport's oldest tournament has ended on a Monday. The schedule was pushed back one day after rain washed out Saturday's play.

American hopes of winning a first British Open since 1983 were fading rapidly. Larry Nelson, Don Pooley and Andy Bean were tied with Eduardo Romero of Argentina for fifth, but at 212 were distant challengers.

Price did not back into the 54-hole lead. He earned it.

After Ballesteros shot an opening-day 67 in horrendous conditions, Price took over on Friday with a 67 of his own for a 36-hole total of 137 and a one-shot lead over the Spaniard.

After Saturday's round was rained out - a day off that Price said hurt his rhythm in the early going Sunday - he withstood a day's best 67 by Lyle, a six-birdie 68 by Faldo and a scrambling, slashing 70 by Ballesteros to double his lead.

He birdied the first hole, then lost the stroke with a two-putt bogey-5 at No. 4. That's when his putting started to catch up with his short-iron work.

He chipped to one foot to save par at No. 5, wedged out of a bunker and holed a birdie putt at No. 6, putted back from the edge of the green for par on No. 7 and birdied No. 9 to pick up two strokes on Ballesteros and Faldo, who started the day two under. Lyle, starting at even par, was just beginning to make his charge.

Price had done what he said he had to do - come through the front nine unscathed.

Girls find going tough in Midland

MIDLAND - Snyder's All-Star teams were involved in UGSA Championship Tournament play here this morning.

Teams placing first or second in their respective pools were to advance to finals this evening and Tuesday.

Snyder teams posted a combined record of 4-10 through the first 14 games. Larger communities such as Midland and Odessa were dominating much of the competition.

Snyder's Division IV, Division III and Division II Gold teams were all 1-2 heading into play this morning. The Division II Black team was 0-3. The status of the Division I squad was uncertain, although the group was 1-1 after Saturday's action.

In Division IV play, Snyder defeated Brownwood 10-9, then lost to Abilene 9-3 and to Midland Blue 6-3.

Getting hits in the game with Brownwood were Tish Crumly and Teri Sue Henry, a home run each; Barbara Chapman, a double; Susan Harrison, two singles; and Annette Ramos, one single. Sandra Morin was the winning pitcher.

Against Abilene, Crumly smacked a triple; Morin and Jill Roemisch slapped two singles each; and Ramos, Chapman, Wendy Wadkins, Susan Harrison and Jennifer Spence added one single apiece.

In the game with Midland Blue,

Spence and Roemisch doubled and Harrison, Henry and Shelly LaRoux singled.

Snyder's Division I All-Stars lost to Midland 15-10, then defeated Big Spring 9-8.

In the game with Midland, Sam Trevino rapped a double and Joanie Wemken, Erica Garvin, Christy Whitney and Tabitha Dunham powered a single apiece. Against Big Spring, Trevino drilled a home run and two singles while Dunham, Veronica Hermosillo and Mandy Hess punched two singles apiece and Wemken, Garvin, Haley Huestis and winning pitcher Erin Maytubby chipped in with one single apiece.

The Division II Gold All-Stars lost to Fort Stockton 22-9, then nipped Brownwood 19-18.

Snyder got 17 hits in the game with Fort Stockton. Hitting the ball were Bianca Rocha, a triple and two singles; Monica Garcia, two doubles; Kristen Kallemeyn, a double and a single; Amanda Davis, Amy Vaughn, Jamie Franks and Marisol Rodriguez, two singles apiece; and Lee Ann Kenney and Stephanie Buchanan, one single each.

Hitting for the Gold against Brownwood were Rodriguez, a home run, a triple and a single; Kallemeyn, a triple and a single; Kenney, a double and a single; Davis and Franks, a triple each; Kayla Walker, two singles; Vaughn, a double; and Rocha and Garcia, one single each.

Snyder's Division II Black team fell to Sweetwater 10-9, to Midland 24-7, and to Odessa Blue 26-7.

Getting hits in the game with Sweetwater were Billie Jones, a home run; Meagan Mena, a triple and a single; Eva Hernandez and Haley Patterson, two singles each; and Jaclyn Morris and Jodi White, one single each.

Getting hits in the loss to Midland were White, two singles; and Jones, Mena, Stephanie Hernandez and Mandy Baker, one single apiece. Hitting in the third contest were Morris, Allen, Baker, Jones, White and Stephanie Hernandez, one single apiece.

Seniors battle Friday, July 22

Snyder's senior league ballclub, the Senior Teenage League champions, will play in Abilene on July 22-23, not July 25-26, as was earlier reported, coach Mike Montgomery noted this morning.

The team will debut at the invitational tournament at 6:30 p.m. on the 22nd against the Abilene A's. The tournament will be held at Hardin-Simmons University.

Griffith Joyner steals show at Olympic trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Two years ago, Florence Griffith Joyner was an overweight secretary. Now, she's the fastest woman in the world.

Griffith Joyner set a world record of 10.49 seconds, in winning a qualifying heat Saturday at the U.S. Olympic Trials, then showed it was no fluke by beating the previous record-holder, Evelyn Ashford, in the semifinals and the final on Sunday.

Carl Lewis, Jackie Joyner-Kersey, Edwin Moses, Willie Banks and Mary Decker Slaney also gave fans at the Indiana University Track and Field Stadium visions of Olympic gold with weekend victories.

But it was Griffith Joyner who stole the show.

Prior to her record-setting run, she posted a wind-aided 10.60 that was below the existing world record of 10.76 set by Ashford in Switzerland shortly after winning an Olympic gold for the United States.

There was controversy over her world-record performance, because the wind gauge showed an uncharacteristic 0.00 reading. At the same time, the wind reading at the triple jump area was over the allowable 2.0 meters per second for record consideration.

But she laid to rest any doubts that she was a world-class sprinter Sunday by winning her semifinal heat in 10.70 and taking the final in 10.61, with Ashford finishing second in both races.

"I don't think Florence's performance Saturday makes things easier on the rest of us," said Gwen Torrence, who also earned a trip to Seoul by placing third in the final. "10.49 is so incredibly fast that I don't think it will be broken for decades. I think we can think about 10.76 or 10.79, but I really don't see 10.49 as being approachable."

Lewis, 27, took the first step toward duplicating his 1984 feat of winning four Olympic golds Saturday by winning the men's 100 with a wind-aided 9.78 time - the fastest time ever in that event, but not eligible for record consideration.

Jackie Joyner-Kersey, 26, raised her record in the heptathlon to 7,215 points Saturday. She won the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 11¾ inches, settled for a 164-4 throw in the javelin that was third-best overall, then broke her record of 7,158 points, set in the 1986 U.S. Olympic Festival.

CONGRATULATIONS - Snyder's Division II Gold team is congratulated following a 19-18 victory over Brownwood on Saturday at the UGSA Championship Tournament in Midland. Unfortunately, the scene wasn't repeated often. As of Monday morning, Snyder's five teams had a combined 4-10 record against tough competition. (SDN Staff Photo)

Prosecutor says he'll ask for fed indictments

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The special prosecutor in the trial of three white lawmen acquitted of civil rights charges in the death of a black jail inmate said he will deliver trial transcripts to Justice Department officials in hopes they will seek federal indictments against the officers.

The only black juror in the case said she felt pressured to change her guilty vote and special prosecutor John Hannah said that although that isn't likely to affect the verdict, it may help persuade Justice Department officials to act.

"I don't think it will help set aside the verdict," Hannah said Saturday. "But it does say something about the community. That may have bearing on whether the Justice Department indicts — considerable bearing, maybe."

After the officers were acquitted Friday, Hannah said he would deliver transcripts of the trial to the federal officials.

Dorie Lee Hudson Handy, 45, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram she changed her vote to acquit former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner verdict even though she believed he was guilty of beating Louisiana truck driver Loyal Garner Jr. and depriving him of medical attention. Garner died two days after his Christmas Day arrest.

Meanwhile, Vollie Grace, president of the Sabine County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said he plans to organize a boycott of Sabine County merchants in protest of the trial.

Sabine County residents wanted it "found that these men did nothing wrong," Grace said. "I can't go with that any more. That's just blatant racism. If this trial would have been held in hell, they would have had a better chance of getting a guilty verdict. Where does that put Hemphill?"

Ladner, 41, and Sabine County deputies James "Bo" Hyde, 35, and Bill Horton, 58, were acquitted before jurors in Hemphill deliberated nearly 11 eleven hours over two days. The trio still face murder charges in Tyler in connection with Garner's death.

"I was just one black against all those people (on the jury)," said Ms. Handy, a cleaning woman and 27-year resident of Sabine County. "What could I do with all those people against me? It should have been six blacks and six whites. I knew I wasn't going to win. Everybody in that courtroom knew there was a cover-up. We all knew Mr. Thomas Ladner was guilty."

But defense attorney John Seale, who represents Ladner, said Ms. Handy's statements contradict "second- or third-hand" information he received about the jury's deliberations. He said his information showed that Ms. Handy was for acquittal from the beginning of the deliberations.

State District Court Judge Joe Tunnell of Tyler Saturday denied defense motions to drop the murder charges against the men because of double jeopardy provisions. Tunnell set Aug. 8 as the first of three separate murder trials for the men.

Ms. Handy's statements further fueled criticisms from Hannah and others who have said that the Hemphill trial may have been unfair because it occurred in the defendant's home county in East Texas, where they are well-known.

During the deliberations, Ms. Handy said, she sided with the rest of the jury to acquit Horton and Hayden because she had reasonable doubt about their guilt. But from the outset, she insisted Ladner was guilty.

Ms. Handy said although other jurors said nothing of their intentions, it appeared to her from the beginning that they were ready to acquit all three officers. She said she gave in and voted along with them when she felt there was no way to change their minds.

Garner, a 34-year-old truck driver from Florien, La., was jailed in Hemphill Christmas night on suspicion of drunken driving. Authorities said he was beaten unconscious that night.

He died in a Tyler hospital two days later.

An inquest jury in Tyler ruled that Garner died of head injuries. A pathologist testified that Garner suffered severe brain hemorrhaging after apparently being struck on the head at least twice.

A conviction on the civil rights offenses could have meant life in prison for each of the lawmen.

Prosecutors relied on testimony by Alton Maxie, who was arrested and jailed along with his brother and Garner, that Ladner hit Garner in the head with a nightstick at least four times.

Ladner acknowledged hitting Garner once but said it was a glancing blow because Garner threw up his arms to defend himself.

Store's collapse highlights uneven regulations

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Building experts, saying it is not unusual for construction records to be lost, were not surprised that key documents of the department store that collapsed are missing.

The three-story structure that housed La Tienda Amigo collapsed July 7 in a torrential rainstorm, killing 14 and injuring 47.

Brownsville officials said the plans, permits and inspection documents for the 19-year-old structure may have been put in a warehouse and later destroyed in a flood.

Building experts say it is not unusual for cities to simply discard documents because of the difficulty in storing them.

"Eighty percent (of U.S. cities) would be unable to tell you about anything more than three or four years old," said Bob Fowler, director of building services in Abilene, Texas, and an advocate of stricter building code enforcement.

Records-keeping, code enforcement, and training and supervision of inspectors are all problems of the construction permit and inspection process that need improvement in many U.S. cities, experts said.

Only 28 states have adopted building codes and only a handful make them mandatory, experts said. Texas is not one of them.

In Texas, for example, anyone can build almost anything outside city limits because no county has been authorized by the Legislature to adopt a building code.

"It's a no-man's zone," Fowler said.

The most commonly adopted model building codes specify minimum requirements for safety. But enforcement is not uniformly adequate. Many cities do not have enough inspectors and many inspectors are not sufficiently qualified or trained, officials said.

Even in the best-organized building departments, inspections often are on a spot-check basis. Even though most architects, engineers and contractors are conscientious, mistakes, oversights and even outright fraud occur, said Lester Paige, chief building official in Fort Worth.

"I think primarily we've been lucky" not to have more disasters like the one in Brownsville, Paige told the Dallas Morning News.

The only Texas building requirement is that cities with populations over 5,000 adopt a plumbing code, officials said. Otherwise, cities are free to adopt or not to adopt codes, and some don't, said Joe Edwards, building official in the Houston suburb of Bellaire.

"We'd like to see the Legislature require cities to at least adopt one of the major codes," said Edwards, past president of the Building Officials Association of Texas.

Seriously deficient staffing is a problem in 15 percent to 20 percent of cities, said Bruce Burdette, manager of education for the Southern Building Codes Congress International, headquartered in Birmingham, Ala.

Large cities tend to be better staffed than smaller cities like Brownsville, officials said.

Brownsville, which like most other Texas cities follows a model code, has nine inspectors in its building department.

"That's about the norm" for cities of 90,000, Burdette said, although Brownsville probably "would be better served with 15."

Training and supervision for inspectors are also problems for small cities.

"The profession is basically one where training is not readily available except on-the-job training or through professional seminars," Burdette said. "I don't think any trade trains a person to be an inspector."

"You're paying somebody to be steer the Harlandale School District delinquent tax collection contract to Heard's multimillion dollar firm, the newspaper reported. Transcripts of the meetings were published July 10 in The Light.

"I thought it was sleazy, and I wanted to make the public aware that these things do happen," Tejada explained.

Heard and Zamarripa maintain that Tejada misunderstood the intent and no influence buying was contemplated.

Heard said he wouldn't have approved any secret deal. "I and my law firm will not approve a contract with a local counsel unless the fact that a local lawyer is in a joint venture is disclosed to the taxing jurisdiction," Heard said.

"That is not only our policy but our interpretation of the rules of conduct regulating attorneys," he added.

Heard also objected to Tejada's conduct, saying, "If he thinks that Lupe Zamarripa is doing something unethical, then maybe he ought to pick up the phone and

call Oliver Heard."

Tejada's legislative colleagues in San Antonio say the taping episode fits into the southside politician's pattern of stubborn independence and fondness for the calculated risk.

"Frank is very much his own man," said state Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio. "He has always operated as an extremely independent legislator and public official. That was his call to make and I'm not going to second-guess him."

U.S. Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio, a long-time friend of Heard who helped the attorney land his first major delinquent tax collection contract in Bexar County, had a harsher view of the situation.

"Even though he likes to portray himself as the purist, he did set up Lupe and set him up very well," Bustamante said. "You talk about sleaze factor; that is sleazy, especially with the intent he was doing it with, under the guise of seeking employment."

State Sen. Cyndi Taylor Krier, R-San Antonio, acknowledged that the taping episode has the potential for creating rifts. But she said she does not foresee any change in Tejada's ability to be an effective senator.

"Frank and I have always dealt openly and honestly with one another and I'm confident that will continue," Ms. Krier said.

Wrestler slain in San Juan

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — San Antonio professional wrestler Frank Donald Goodish, called Bruiser Brodie, was stabbed in his dressing room minutes before a wrestling match and died later in a hospital.

Goodish, 42, was stabbed twice in the stomach during an argument Saturday night just before a match with a wrestler known as Dangerous Danny Spivey, police spokesman Tony Santiago said.

No details were immediately available on Spivey's real name or hometown or who Goodish had been arguing with.
