Emmy hopefuls revealed

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — NBC's "L.A. Law" swept the nominations for the 40th annual Emmy Awards today, while cable shows won 15 nominations in their debut as competitors against the networks.

"L.A. Law" received 19 nominations, including best drama series, best lead actor nominations for Michael Tucker and Corbin Bernsen, best supporting actress for Susan Rutan, lead actress for Jill Eikenberry and Susan Dey, two writing nominations for former producer Terry Louise Fisher and four directing nominations.

The CBS cult favorite "Beauty and the Beast" and NBC's "The Golden Girls" each received 12 nominations.

NBC once again led the field with 114 nominations, followed by CBS with 87. ABC earned 75, while PBS had 27, and Showtime, Home Box Office and Fox Broadcasting Co. garnered six each. The Disney Channel captured two nominations, with one for the Turner Broadcasting System, while syndicated shows earned 13.

NBC's "Cheers" captured 11 nominations and ABC's "thirtysomething" 10.

CBS' "Frank's Place," a so-called "dramady" which has been put in limbo by the network, got nine nominations.

Earning eight nominations each were the CBS drama "Foxfire" and NBC's "St. Elsewhere," which just completed its final season.

ABC's miniseries "Baby M," the NBC miniseries "Gore Vidal's Lincoln," and the new syndicated series "Star Trek: The Next Generation" each earned seven nominations.

Showtime's "It's Garry Shandling's Show" received four to put it on top of all the cable shows.

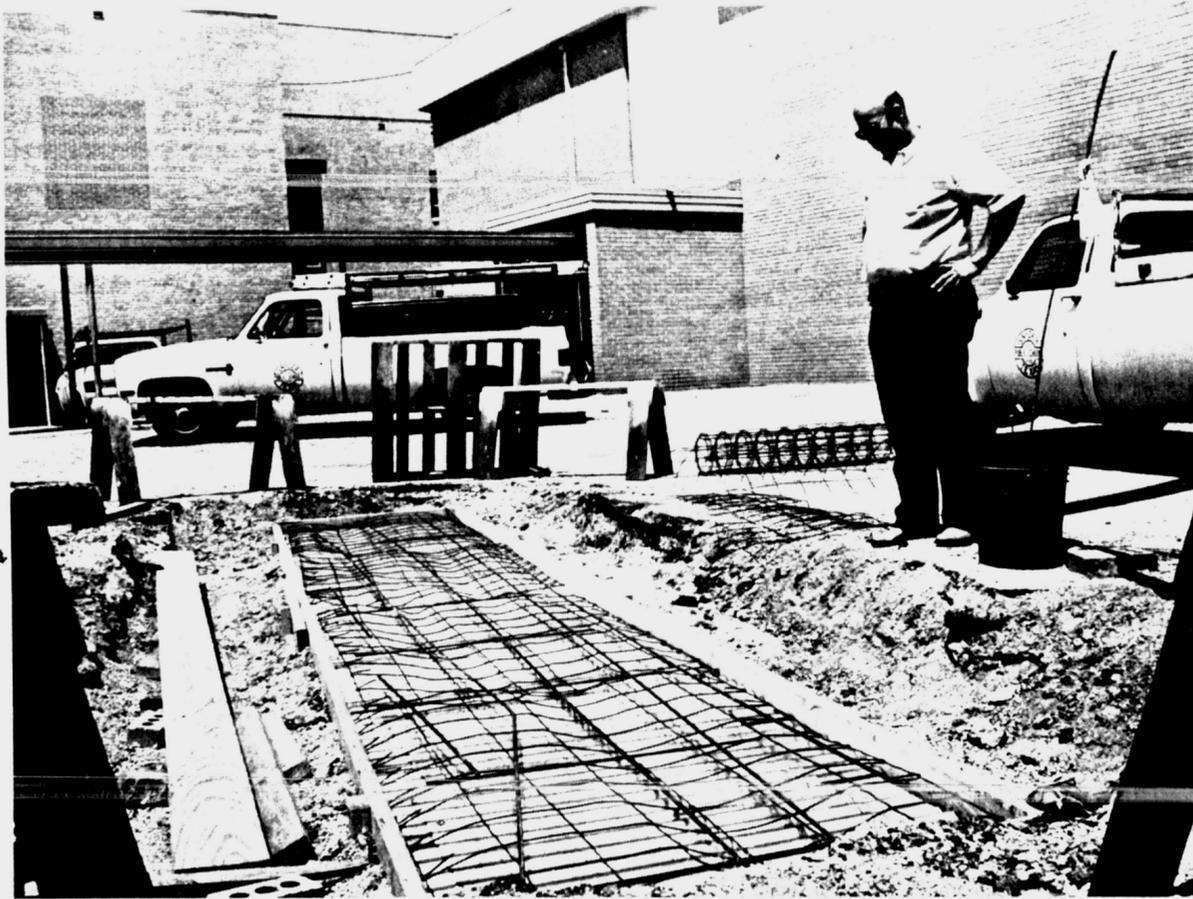

Other major cable nominations included: Shelley Duvall's Tall Tales and Legends on Showtime, for best children's program; Gilda Radner as outstanding guest performer in a comedy series for "It's Garry Shandling's Show," and Billy Crystal for best individual performer in a comedy or variety show for HBO's "All Star Salute To The Improv."

The Television Academy of Arts & Sciences decided to allow cable programming to compete with regular broadcast television in this year's Emmy awards because cable shows are now available to a wide national audience.

The nominations were announced from more than 4,500 entries.

"Beauty and the Beast" was nominated for best drama series and Ron Perlman was nominated as best lead actor for his role as the half-man, half-beast who lives beneath the streets of New York and carries on an unrequited love affair with a beautiful woman lawyer.

REPAIRS UNDERWAY — School maintenance director Lawton Taylor inspects a steam line replacement project in the patio area of Snyder High School — one of a number of paint-up, fix-up projects being undertaken throughout the school district this summer. Taylor estimated two more weeks will be required to complete the work district-wide. (SDN Staff Photo)

School completing 'fixup' repairs

Snyder teachers will officially be back in the classroom Aug. 24 and many will be greeted by freshly painted walls and other "fixup" items completed this summer by the school's maintenance staff.

Lawton Taylor, head of maintenance, said the summer work still requires approximately two weeks to complete.

On an annual basis, the maintenance and custodial staffers are divided up for "paint-up, fix-up" chores throughout the district.

In addition this summer, two major repairs projects have been contracted out, the replacement of the boiler at North Elementary and roof repairs to the Snyder High School girl's gymnasium area and Worsham Auditorium.

The roofing is now underway with Texas Roofing of Lubbock expected to be finished by Aug. 20.

The boiler replacement, being completed by Bailey Boiler Works of Lubbock, is expected to be done by Aug. 10. Dale Nolan is the district staffer who oversees boiler maintenance.

As for the local fixup work, the largest project was likely at the junior high, where all rooms, hallways and outside trim received a new coat of paint.

The junior high also gained a new teacher's lounge, where maintenance staffers remodeled two small storage rooms into one larger room. Carpeting was laid also.

The change will free up a junior high classroom which was being used, Taylor noted.

The entire interior of Stanfield, to include all classrooms, was painted as well.

Receiving paint also were 15 classrooms at West Elementary; and all the outside trim at North Elementary.

The painting is supervised by district paint foreman Jimmy Lynch.

For all campus buildings, crews have also been busy replacing seals and washers in all drinking fountains and plumbing fixtures. Eddie Bolin is in charge of plumbing fixtures for the district.

All rooms that have carpet are being shampooed and all other floors have been waxed, to include all gymnasiums. Cleaning crews also go through each campus.

Local effort to aid Paralympic athlete

Snyder-based relatives of San Angelo Paralympic athlete Randy Dorman are now involved in the effort to raise funds for the Roscoe native to send him to the Paralympic games to be staged in Seoul, Korea.

T-Shirts emblazoned with Dorman's image and with the slogan "Bound for Seoul" are now being sold for $10 each with half of the sale price serving as a donation to fund the Paralympic competition.

Dorman competes in the wheelchair racing events and is part of the San Angelo-based Rolling Rams Wheelchair Inc.

A former high school athlete, he was paralyzed due to injuries received in an automobile accident, retaining the use of only his arms and upper shoulders.

Despite his injuries, he works today as a loan officer at the Bank of the West in San Angelo and is a member of the Rolling Rams traveling basketball team. In the Olympic-style competition, he has managed to set records in such events as the 100 and 200 meter races.

This Aug. 12-13, he will be competing in an international Paralympic meet to be staged in Arlington.

A group of local family members plan to attend that contest.

Heading up the local fund raising effort is Mrs. Steve (Carol) Beck. Other cousins include Allen and Gini Grimmitt, Steven and Susan Grimmitt and Robert and Cristy Brown.

Dorman's parents are former Snyder natives Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Dorman. His two grandmothers are longtime Snyder natives also, Oma Dorman and Iva Mae Franks.

Officers arrest driver in three-county chase

A 22-year-old Crane man was arrested early Thursday by Scurry County deputies about two miles north of Snyder following an hour-long chase through three counties that involved three sheriff's departments and the highway patrol.

The chase finally ended as Sheriff Keith Collier had enlisted a trucker to form a "running roadblock." Collier said the suspect, driving a 1987 Ford Mustang, sped around the truck and two sheriff's cars at an estimated speed of about 100 mph.

He skidded into the ditch, almost turning over, and Collier in one car and Deputy Joe Cheyne in another ran into the Mustang from opposite directions to keep it from moving.

The suspect was identified as Mark Rosen, who was being sought on two unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charges and a burglary charge from Crane and Ector counties.

He was being held here in lieu of three $10,000 bonds on the three felony charges and a $750 bond for evading arrest. Bonds were set Thursday morning in an arraignment before Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway.

The sheriff's office here received a call at 12:30 a.m. from Fisher County deputies who reported that they were pursuing a man driving a stolen car.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Vacation is a summer exercise where you take along twice as many clothes as needed and only half as much money."

We're glad to see the Supreme Court making those grave decisions. Thanks to recent rulings, women can now dine in previously exclusive all-male private clubs.

And another ruling has made it possible for the gals to be part of civic club luncheons such as Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis. It's okay with us, but we doubt that any sane female will want to spend her lunch hour dodging biscuits at Lions Club.

The private club decision was based on economic arguments. Women contended before the high court that their exclusion from some of the big-city clubs gave their male competitors an advantage in the business world.

In Austin recently, the newspaper did a survey of private clubs for a reaction to the new rules. One club manager gave proof on non-discrimination: "Anybody who can pay the fee and the monthly bill is welcomed."

But leave it to the Aggies to fight back. A few years ago women were admitted to Texas A&M, and since that time, the gals have also found themselves in the corps and previously all-male band.

Hugh H. Hughes, an Aggie doctoral candidate in interdisciplinary education, has become College Station's first male member of the local American Association of University Women.

We noticed that North Dakota was scheduled to celebrate Ethanol Day last month, but that state's plant has been shut down for lack of business.

Mattox bid

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox, while not yet ready to formally enter the 1990 gubernatorial race, says he has a plan to raise the necessary funds and convince the Democratic Party he can win.

"I intend to be able to show the Democratic Party that I can carry the burden — not just for a Democratic primary but for a general election should I choose to get in there," Mattox said.

Black ranger

DALLAS (AP) — A Department of Public Safety investigator says he is the first black officer appointed to the Texas Rangers in the 165-year history of the legendary state law enforcement agency.

Lee Roy Young Jr., now assigned to DPS intelligence in San Antonio, confirmed to Dallas television station KDFW that he will report Sept. 1 to Ranger Co. B, headquartered in the Dallas suburb of Garland.

Electrocuted

DALLAS (AP) — A 23-year-old man killed Wednesday at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant construction site must not have realized metal ductwork he was trying to move had sliced through a live electric cable, officials said.

Roger Lee Keith, 23, of Waurika, Okla., died after coming into contact with 480 volts of electricity, said Texas Utilities spokesman Dick Ramsey.

Keith, an employee of Fluor Daniel, was helping install air conditioning and ventilation at the plant located near Glen Rose about 70 miles southwest of Dallas.

FBI link to stolen documents will be investigated

MIAMI (AP) — FBI files have turned up documents stolen from a television reporter who has accused U.S. officials in a Nicaraguan political bombing, but the agency denies knowing the material was taken illegally.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the FBI oversight committee in Congress, said he will look promptly into how the agency obtained the stolen documents from Tony Avirgan, a free-lance cameraman who worked for CBS-TV.

"We've been looking into over 100 break-ins over a period of several years," Edwards said Wednesday. "They all have a Central American angle, all relating to Salvador, in some cases Nicaragua."

The FBI confirmed a report in The Boston Globe on Wednesday that the agency received memos and notes taken in Costa Rica in 1985 and 1986 from Avirgan, who was investigating a political bombing in Nicaragua that killed eight people and left him slightly injured.

Avirgan and his wife, Martha Honey, later filed a $24 million damage suit in Miami federal court accusing U.S. and Nicaraguan Contra officials of responsibility for the bombing. The suit was dismissed last month for insufficient evidence.

The FBI obtained Avirgan's files from someone reporting on people who allegedly supported "terrorist operations in Central America," according to a statement released through Washington FBI spokeswoman Sue Schnitzer.

"This individual gave no indication that the documents were obtained through illegal means," the statement said.

Schnitzer said the FBI routinely inquires if such material is stolen, but refused to say if that was done in the Avirgan case. She also refused to identify the source.

The FBI will cooperate with an investigation by appropriate oversight committees, Ms. Schnitzer said.

The 39 pages stolen from Avirgan included memos to CBS and Avirgan's handwritten notes about the bombing, said Lanny Sinkin, an attorney for the liberal, Washington-based Christic Institute, which represents Avirgan in the Miami lawsuit.

"It suggests that the break-in was targeted to find out what he knew," said Sinkin.

The subject of many of the stolen memos, and later Avirgan's damage lawsuit, was the May 1984 bombing of a news conference held by maverick Contra commander Eden Pastora in La Penca, Nicaragua, just across the Costa Rican border.

Three journalists and five Pastora supporters died in the explosion, although Pastora was only slightly injured. Avirgan and later the Christic Institute blamed it on U.S. and Contra leaders who objected to Pastora's independent stance in the fight against Nicaragua's leftist government.

Edwards said the documents indicate that the FBI "could have been getting the fruits of political burglaries and break-ins."

Also Wednesday, Chris Wood, a Montpelier, Vt., political activist who has been involved in the Vermont Central America Non-Intervention Network, said he has been the target of three break-ins in three weeks that he suspects involved the FBI.

Ray McElhane, another FBI spokesman in Washington, said, "I don't think there have been any break-ins involving the FBI. ... I have no statement regarding the allegations of this person in Montpelier, Vermont."

Man's Time-Worn Tale Is Wearing Thin on His Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am about to burst. I have been married for almost a year now, and if I hear my husband tell one more person how "good" he was to his wife while she was dying, I will scream!

Yes, he was good to his wife. Yes, he did take her to every specialist in the country. Yes, he did spend lots of money trying to "save" her, but he talks about it endlessly to anyone who will listen.

Today he told me that no one ever had a loss like his. (Of course, I lost my husband, but that doesn't count.)

He doesn't talk about his wife — only the way he took care of her. He keeps saying that he has no regrets; he will never have to say he didn't do everything humanly possible for her. Why does he talk about it all the time?

If he meets anyone whose spouse is sick, as soon as it is mentioned, he takes over the conversation and does a monologue on what he went through with his wife and how he took care of her. I am tired of hearing about it. Some people have asked me to please tell him to lay off the subject. They know what he went through, and they are tired of hearing about it.

He's a good husband, but it's time that he put his tragedy behind him and got on with his life. He acts as if nobody ever lost a spouse but him. What should I do? Ignore it? Let him talk about it, or what?

UP TO HERE

DEAR ABBY: I am a female working in a family-owned business. My father and sisters are my bosses. When I was younger, I was a little on the wild side, but since then, I've settled down dramatically. The problem is that I have two tattoos. One is on my left forearm and the other is on my right upper arm.

When I first started working here, they said it was not "ladylike" and I should wear long sleeves in the summer. Abby, I cannot even wear long sleeves in the winter. It's been so hot and humid this summer I want to wear tank tops or sleeveless blouses. They say no!

I always look clean and well-groomed, and I think it's my business if I have tattoos. I'm going to be working here all my life, so don't you think they should accept me this way?

I need your opinion. Are they discriminating against me for showing my tattoos instead of keeping them covered? I do not regret getting the tattoos. I'm a very artistic person, and to me, they are body art.

TATTOOS FOREVER

DEAR FOREVER: Obviously your family does not perceive your "body art" in the same way that you perceive it. You mentioned that in your younger years you had been "a little on the wild side," so you must also realize that your tattoos make a statement.

Your family cannot be faulted for wanting their employees to create the best possible image. And if you feel discriminated against, you are free to find another job.

Problems? What's bugging you? Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Missing newlyweds found

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A newlywed says she and her husband were "blinded by love" 3½ months ago when they disappeared from Chicago, sparking a manhunt after their deserted car was found ransacked with its engine running.

Scott Swanson, 23, and his wife, Carolyn, 22, said they dashed off to San Diego shortly after they eloped because some relatives apparently disapproved of their skipping a traditional marriage ceremony. They also said they just wanted to spend time together.

"Call it shortsighted or call it what you want to, but love is blind and I know that sounds trite," Ms. Swanson said at a news conference after being reunited with her parents, Jim and Kathy MacLean of Haddonfield, N.J.

"So much has come out of it that has been great, but then to see the look on my mother's face ... and my dad's face ... I mean, I can't stand the hurt that I've caused," she said tearfully.

The newlyweds vanished April 2 without telling relatives or classmates at a suburban Evangelical college.

During a resulting three-state police investigation, friends at Wheaton College held prayer vigils, put up posters and questioned people at roadside restaurants and gas stations.

"We are tremendously sorry for the hurt and the pain we've caused to our families, to our friends and loved ones and relatives," Swanson said. "We never realized that the story would have the ramifications it has."

The couple left their car near a police station with the keys under the mat and their identification cards, Swanson said. "We didn't want to be traced."

The BMW was found ransacked in an alley, its motor running.

Lawmakers stuff drought bill with homefolks items

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawmakers are stuffing their $6.9 billion drought-relief bill full of election-year goodies for the folks back home, and some of the handouts don't even have anything to do with the drought.

One provision would provide $24 million to cotton growers in the district of Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas, whose crops were damaged by hail in 1987.

Now, Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., is saying it would be wrong to confine 1987 hail payments to Texas cotton.

"In my district it would be very unfair to the dry edible bean people, to the sugar beet people, to the potato people," she said Wednesday. She wants to expand the benefits to $40 million.

Agriculture Committee Chairman E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, says the same kind of scramble would have occurred even if there were no elections coming up in November.

"Every year is basically an election year in this place," he said. "It happens all the time. Every time you have a bill like this every member becomes provincial and protective of his interests."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a favorable day for attending to arrangements that have a direct affect on your resources or material security. Your positions in these areas can be improved.

Lawmakers say fiscal watchdogs have nothing to complain about as long as the aid does not exceed the $7.5 billion in farm program savings that economists believe will be generated by the drought.

The bill's major provision would furnish farmers with payments equal to 65 percent of earnings lost because of damage to crops in excess of 35 percent of expected yield. It also would provide expanded government feed benefits to dairy and livestock producers.

But that only scratches the surface.

Under heavy debate is a provision to increase the dairy price support level by 50 cents for each hundred pounds of milk. This boon for milk producers and dairy cooperatives is the brainchild of Rep. Jim Jeffords, R-Vt., who is running for the Senate from a state that is a major source of the East Coast's milk supply.

Jeffords says the action, which would raise consumer prices by a few cents a gallon, is needed for avert milk shortages.

Critics scoff at that claim, citing government forecasts of ample milk. But Jeffords stands his ground.

"It is our duty to assure an adequate supply of milk," he declares.

Mammoth muffins big meal with soup, salad

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Food Editor

The newest trend in muffins is BIG; the bigger, the better. You can bake supersize muffins in a standard muffin pan. Just grease the top of the pan between the cups. The batter can overflow during baking but will not stick. Also notice that the recipe calls for filling the muffin cups even with the top of the pan rather than two-thirds full. Serve these mammoth muffins for breakfast or with a salad or soup for supper.

- CHEDDAR MUFFINS
- Cornmeal (optional)
1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese (2 ounces)
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
1 beaten egg
3/4 cup milk
1/2 cup cooking oil
6 strips bacon, crisp-cooked, drained and crumbled (1-3rd cup)

Champion play

By James Jacoby

Today's East came up with a winning violation of the rule "Third hand high." The unusual three-club bid by North was a touch of super-science, intending to warn partner that the weakness in the hand might well be in the diamond suit. South then showed belated heart support with his K-J doubleton, and North bid three no-trump — no surprise there.

After this blueprint type of auction, it was easy for West to select a low diamond lead. But East realized from the bidding that declarer had to hold the king of diamonds, probably twice guarded. Should East play the ace and continue the suit, declarer would hold up and win the third round. Then, should West come on lead with a heart, he would have no more diamonds to lead. So East without hesitation played the jack at trick one. Of course declarer won the king. With nothing to go on, he played to dummy's spade

Local girl scouts set for 'wider opportunity'

Seventy-six years ago, Juliette Low founded Girl Scouts of the USA in Savannah, Georgia. Today, the Juliette Gordon Low Girl Scout Center is only one of four that exists nationally. The center is the first national historic landmark. The history of the Girl Scout movement is remembered there as young people gear for the future.

Fourteen cadette and senior girl scouts from the West Texas Council have been chosen to visit Savannah, an experience entitled, "Wider Opportunity."

Snyder girls chosen for the honor include Kellie Schlegel and Shanna Veazey, senior scouts, and Danielle Vernon, cadette scout. Local sponsor is Peggy Vernon.

The girls will be taken on a sight-seeing tour through the south and east portions of the United States. Although the main part of the trip will be spent in Savannah, the girls will also travel through Vicksburg, Miss., and tour a military park and museums. In Mt Pleasant, S.C., the girls will stay on an aircraft carrier, "The Yorktown," and will spend a day at the Space Center in Huntsville, Ala.

A portion of the trip will be paid by the girls, but money earned selling cookies and doing summer jobs have made the experience possible.

Extension agents attend conference at Texas A&M

Kathryn Roberts and Marvin Ensor, Scurry County extension agents, attended the State Staff Conference July 11-15 which was held on the Texas A&M University campus.

The conference addressed the issues for a changing Texas. It was pointed out that positive response to change is a major part of the strength of Texas.

Workshops conducted during the week included "Texans in Transition," "Building Capable Kids," "Alternate Crops for Texas," "Leadership Dynamics," "Stress Management," and "Parenting Education."

Keynote speakers were Dr. James "Doc" Blakely, internationally known lecturer and humorist; Dr. Chester Black, director of North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service; The Honorable Kent Caperton, Senator Congressional District 5; and Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, Texas Agricultural Extension Director, who gave the speech, "Director's Challenge."

College instructor cleans classrooms as custodian

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — Charles Peterson is probably one of the few college instructors in America who cleans up the same room in which he teaches.

Mornings, Peterson explains algebraic equations from a Merced College classroom podium.

But by nightfall, he changes into a navy blue uniform, grabs a mop and returns to the same classroom as a janitor.

Peterson, 44, a janitor at Merced College for 15 years, went back to school and was graduated from Merced College in 1985. He got a bachelor's degree in mathematics this June from California State University, Stanislaus.

"You sit there in a classroom and you notice that the lights are flickering, and you think, Oh no, I need to change that bulb," Peterson said of his time as both a student and custodian at Merced College, a two-year school.

He added that he often wanted to tell students to pick up paper they dropped on the floor or to be careful with their sodas in the classroom.

Peterson said he is looking forward to teaching two Math 24 courses this summer, adding that he never thought he'd be teaching in classrooms when he started working at Merced College.

Peterson decided to take his first refresher math course when his son began taking algebra in high school.

1988 Property Tax Rates in SNYDER INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

This notice concerns 1988 property tax rates for SNYDER ISD. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. Compare it to the tax rate the taxing unit proposes for this year. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 8,265,816.
+ Last year's debt taxes	$ - 0 -
= Last year's total taxes	$ 8,265,816
÷ Last year's tax base	$ 888,797,460
= Last year's total tax rate	$.93 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes	$ 8,251,305
(after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors)
÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 781,974,098.
= This year's effective tax rate	$ 1.0552 /$100
× 1.03	1.0868
= Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings	$ 1.0868 /$100

This year's rollback tax rate:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes	$ 8,251,305.
(after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors and adding taxes lost in court suits)
÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 781,974,098.
= This year's adjusted operating rate	$ 1.0552 /$100
× 1.08	1.1396
= This year's maximum operating rate	$ 1.1396 /$100
+ This year's debt rate	$ - 0 - /$100
= This year's rollback rate	$ 1.1396 /$100

SCHEDULE A: Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following balances will probably be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance
GENERAL	$3,687,000.00
THERE ARE NO DEBTS OR OTHER ENCUMBERED FUNDS.

Oilers secure Jr. Teen title

Give 'em credit. The Eastland Greenbacks were definitely money players. In the end though, it was Snyder's Oilers who took home the prize.

Les Rinehart's bottom of the seventh-inning single paved the way to state as Snyder defeated Eastland 7-6 in the championship game of the District 2 Junior Teenage League Baseball Tournament here Wednesday.

Eastland reliever Aaron Bowles had kept the Oilers silent before Mark King touched the 14-year-old for a single to lead off Snyder's half of the seventh. Bowles struck out John Wright, then walked Daniel Espinosa before Rinehart came to the plate. The Oilers' catcher was down in the count by two strikes before slapping Bowles' next offering through the gap into left field. King ran full-tilt around third and came home standing up for the winning run.

As District 2 champions, the Oilers advance to the Texas Junior Teenage State Tournament which begins next week in Palestine.

Eastland had lost to the Oilers 12-2 on Tuesday and had to defeat Sweetwater later that evening before booking a date in the title match. Apparently the whipping they had received from the Oilers a day earlier only fueled determination for the Greenbacks. They went into the contest with a never-say-die attitude, and gained momentum early by taking advantage when Snyder starting pitcher Mark King had difficulty locating the strike zone.

King walked the first three batters he faced, then gave up a two-run single to Bowles. One walk later, Leslie Holland hit into a routine ground out that forced in another Greenbacks' run.

Snyder coaches replaced King on the mound with Daniel Espinosa, but not before the bases were loaded again when Brad Underwood was hit by a pitch. Next-up Terry Honea also walked, forcing in Eastland's fourth run of the inning.

Espinosa, the hard-throwing right hander, got out of the jam by striking out Mike Black and Rojelio Bonilla.

Snyder got one of the runs back in the second inning off Eastland starting pitcher Zach Wesley. Rinehart made the excursion. He reached on a fielder's choice, advanced on a basehit from Richard Morris, and scored when Tory Garza singled.

The Oilers went in front in the third stanza with four more runs. Gilbert Hernandez got the first one when he reached on an error, stole second and scored on a single from King.

King's single was the only hit of the inning. He later scored on a wild pitch. Espinosa, who reached base on a fielder's choice after Wright had been hit by a pitch, scored on an error. And Rinehart, who made it to first on a walk, eventually came home on a passed ball.

Snyder used another one-hit inning to take a 6-4 lead in the fourth. King did the scoring honors again, gaining first base on a fielder's choice after Hernandez singled. Wright then walked.

Haynes making sure 'Pokes remember him

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - The tight end caught a pass over the middle, then was met by a thunderous hit from strong safety Tommy Haynes in a non-contact drill.

Enraged, Harper LeBel threw the ball and hit Haynes.

"What's your problem?" Haynes shot back. "This isn't badminton. This is the NFL."

Haynes was one of the heroes of the Dallas Cowboys' 1987 replacement team, and his stay in the NFL has been short but illuminating.

"I got a world of experience in those replacement games," Haynes said. "I think it enabled me to showcase my talent for the coaches."

Haynes, who played in the United States Football League for the Portland Breakers, was getting a long look by the coaches in training camp because Michael Downs was threatening to hold out.

However, once Downs signed a new contract Haynes has become expendable.

The 6-foot, 190-pounder from Southern California must show his competitive side even during the no-contact workouts.

King came in to score when the Greenbacks got Wright in a rundown between first and second base.

Snyder's fourth, fifth and sixth runs had come against Bowles, who took over for Wesley in the third.

Espinosa kept the Greenbacks on their heels for four innings, but began to fade in the sixth. Lead-off batter Jeff Morren reached on a walk, stole second and third, and scored on a passed ball. The game became tied 6-6 when Bowles reached on a fielder's choice and scored on an error.

Espinosa managed to strike out Franklin Skinner and Wesley between the scores, but when he walked Holland, coaches decided to replace him with Hernandez. The Buffs' pick-up player responded by getting Underwood to ground out to short, ending further threat.

Bowles set the Oilers down one-two-three in the bottom of the sixth and Hernandez did likewise to the Greenbacks in the top of the seventh - setting the scene for Rinehart's game-winner.

Snyder pitching allowed only three hits in the game but issued 12 walks. They struck out 11.

Espinosa had nine strikeouts. Hernandez got the other two and picked up the victory.

Black led the Greenbacks' hitting effort with a two-for-four performance. Bowles' two-run single accounted for the other Eastland hit.

Wesley and Bowles, who earned respect with sweeping curve balls, combined to give up seven hits. They walked five and struck out six. Bowles took the loss.

King had a two-for-four night from the plate for Snyder. Garza, Morris, Rinehart, Espinosa and Hernandez contributed one hit apiece.

WINNING RUN - As teammates celebrate in the background, Mark King comes in with the winning run during Wednesday's championship game of the District 2 Junior Teenage League Tournament. Les Rinehart sent the runner home with a two-strike single in the bottom of the seventh, lifting Snyder past the Eastland Greenbacks, 7-6. As district champs, the Snyder Oilers advance to state competition in early August. (SDN Staff Photo)

Following years of blue collar work Newsome may actually carry the ball

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - As usual, the Dallas Cowboys' Timmy Newsome is the forgotten fullback, but he battles it with an NFL all-pro sense of humor.

He has a standard one-liner about his responsibility.

"My job is to do two things: block and keep Herschel Walker out of the boxing ring against Mike Tyson," Newsome said, a big smile spreading across his face. "We've got to keep Herschel away from Big Mike."

Newsome is the Cowboys' consummate blue collar worker.

Need somebody to lead interference? That's your job, Newsome, and please try not to get killed by the defensive tackles and the linebackers.

Need someone to slip over the middle for a little short pass? That's your job, Newsome, and please don't let the linebackers and safeties take your head off.

"I did it seven years for Tony Dorsett, and I guess I can do it seven more years for Herschel," Newsome said.

But, wait a second. The Cowboys' braintrust has another idea. Newsome, would you like to actually be a part of the offense by carrying the ball seven to 10 times a game?

"It could happen and I'm excited about it," Newsome said. "We are going to be more run-oriented than we have ever been and we know the other teams are going to gang up on Herschel. They have to. They'll be stupid if they don't then it will open up things for me."

Newsome sat back a moment to contemplate the thought of scoring touchdowns and hearing the Texas Stadium crowd cheer for him.

"I think in the last few years I've averaged carrying the ball one or two times per game - just enough to get my name called on national television," he said.

In fact, Newsome carried the ball a grand total of 25 times for 121 yards last year. He caught more passes (34) than he had rushing attempts.

Eight years into his NFL career Newsome has carried on-

Burks slams Sox past Rangers, 10-7

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Boston Red Sox centerfielder Ellis Burks demonstrated Wednesday to family and friends why he's one of the most exciting young players in the American League.

Burks blasted a sixth-inning grand slam and started a three-run rally that eventually capped a Boston comeback to lead the Red Sox to their 13th victory in their last 14 starts in a 10-7 win over the Texas Rangers.

"It's nice being in the right place at the right time," Burks said. "We're hitting the ball, we've been getting great starting pitching and great relief pitching. That's what you have to do to win."

Burks had a small but vocal group of supporters Wednesday night. He lives in nearby Fort Worth during the off-season and went to high school in Everman, Texas.

"All of my family was here and all my friends from high school," he said. "I had about 15 on the pass list and 20 to 25 in the stands to see me. It was a great feeling to do well and win."

"Burks is a terrific player," said Rangers manager Bobby Valentine. "He can do everything you have to do in this game."

Kevin Romine, a seventh-inning defensive replacement, drove in the go-head run with an eighth-inning single. Romine has four RBIs this season, three game-winners.

Boston got to Texas bullpen ace Mitch Williams, 1-4, for two consecutive run-scoring hits during a three-run eighth as the Red Sox took the deciding game of the three-game series.

Firefighters are protecting Old Faithful area

By The Associated Press

Crews using flame throwers fought fire with fire as a blaze burned within six miles of Old Faithful, and authorities said arson caused a South Dakota wildfire that destroyed 22 buildings and forced 2,000 people to flee.

Wildfires also chased hundreds of people from their homes in Idaho, while in Alaska 1,200 firefighters battled wind-fanned blazes that consumed 1.3 million acres, an area larger than Delaware.

Large fires, many of them kindled in drought conditions aggravated during a hot, dry summer, also blackened regions in Arizona, Oregon, Utah, Washington state and Montana.

Interior Secretary Donald Hodel took a helicopter tour Wednesday through thick smoke to view 10,000 charred acres in the southern areas of Yellowstone National Park, which is suffering its worst forest fire of the century. The blaze has scorched 109,000 of the park's 2.2 million acres.

Firefighters with flame throwers and some in helicopters lit backfires in about 1,000 acres of meadow to burn fuel ahead of the fire and direct it away from Old Faithful, the park's most famous attraction, and nearby structures.

Even so, the usual hundreds of summer visitors gathered every 75 minutes or so Wednesday to watch the famous geyser erupt into the smoky sky.

"Fantastic," said Alain Dukan of France. "We're not afraid of the fires and we're not worried about it. They say fire is part of the forest."

In South Dakota, firefighters worked all day digging a fire line around a 2,000-acre blaze that burned out of control as it drew within two miles of Rapid City. The fire has destroyed 22 buildings, including seven houses, and forced the evacuation of 2,000 people.

Don Kopp, a fire commander, said Wednesday the blaze was the work of an arsonist.

"Whoever's doing it, they could burn down half of the Black Hills if they want," said Kopp, adding that authorities have been investigating a string of about 50 fires dating to May which they suspect were set by the same person.

He said a cigarette with a match inside was used to start the fire that was spotted Tuesday. Such a device would smolder for a time before bursting into flame.

"I'm not sure what we need to do to catch them, but we need to catch them," Kopp said. The suspected arsonist has set as many as to eight fires in one day, he said.

In Idaho, a temperature inversion kept winds mercifully light as crews worked to keep a 1,700-acre fire away from about 50 homes in the Boise National Forest, 35 miles north of Boise.

"The fire is pretty active and moving to the southeast," said Karen Palmer, Forest Service fire information officer. "We don't have a big handle on how much it's burned because there's so much smoke."

Winds helped Alaska's largest fire grow to 409,000 acres, said Sue Mitchell, a Bureau of Land Management spokeswoman. Most Alaska fires were in remote areas and were let alone because they don't threaten people or property.

In Washington, more than 350 firefighters battled a fire fanned by 20 mph winds and temperatures near 90, which raced across the ridge of the Cascade Mountains on Wednesday, tripling its size to 3,600 acres within a few hours. Firefighters in northeastern Utah, meanwhile, used a rainstorm to contain a 5-day-old, firework-caused blaze that charred 1,955 acres in the Flaming Gorge National Recreation Area. Firefighters also contained a lightning-sparked wildfire that burned an estimated 3,400 acres of remote terrain in northwestern Arizona. About 50 people evacuated because of a 650-acre blaze in Montana expected to go home today.

In Yellowstone, Hodel voiced confidence in the National Park Service's controversial "let it burn" philosophy for wilderness areas in which people, buildings or roads are not endangered. But he said the excessively dry conditions might make a difference.

Ben Clary, Yellowstone assistant superintendent, said park officials largely will follow the existing policy on natural fires.

Nuke plant reaches 100 percent power

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Nuclear power opponents went on the offensive with word that the South Texas Nuclear Project had reached 100 percent power, warning of rate increases that will affect nearly 2 million consumers.

"The South Texas Nuclear Project is still not an economical or safe way to generate electricity," said Tom Smith of the consumer watchdog group Public Citizen of Texas. "They keep saying that this is going to be one of the best plants in the country and I hope for Texans' sake they're right."

A plant must produce at 95 percent power for 100 consecutive hours before its owners can pursue a rate increase with the state Public Utility Commission.

The Unit 1 reactor near Bay City is expected to surpass that goal within two weeks, said Glen Walker, a spokesman for Houston Lighting & Power Co.

Walker and a spokeswoman for Central Power and Light said Wednesday they expect their companies to pursue rate increases after the plant comes on line.

The twin-reactor plant's Unit 1 reached 100 percent power after months of steadily increasing its power output. Testing will continue Thursday when the reactor is brought back down to the zero power level, Walker said.

After results of tests are evaluated, Unit 1 will be brought back up to full power for more testing, Walker said. A final review of the 100 percent testing by the plant operations review committee will clear the way for a declaration of commercial operation by the PUC sometime next month.

"As soon as a plant comes on line, normally there is an opportunity for rate relief," Walker said. "When a capital investment in a plant is made by investor-owned utilities, this is a natural reaction. I expect that will happen, but exactly when isn't clear."

Smith said Wednesday that customers of Houston Lighting & Power can expect to see eventual rate increases of 38 percent as a result of the South Texas project, about 90 miles southwest of Houston.

South Texas consumers served by CPL, another of the plant's owners, could see increases as high as 87 percent, Smith said.

Walker said he is unaware of plans for a 38 percent rate increase.

"My understanding is that this is still with our regulatory department," Walker said. "I'm not certain that a decision has been reached either with timing or amount."

CPL spokeswoman Jackie Bjorum said the Corpus Christi-based company plans to ask for a 14 percent rate increase this year as part of a lengthy rate phase-in.

"Right now we have the lowest residential electric costs of any investor-owned utility in Texas, and we believe that at the end of our seven-year phase-in our costs will be mid-range in the nation," she said.

Ms. Bjorum said an 87 percent increase may be possible, but added that it is too early to know.

The plant has so far generated more than 600 million kilowatt hours of electricity — enough power to meet the needs of almost 55,000 South Texas households for one year.

Walker said that Unit 2, which is scheduled to load fuel later this year, is almost 98 percent complete and is also undergoing tests.

The twin-reactor plant also is owned by the cities of San Antonio and Austin.

Hearings ask did officials condone drug smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel is opening hearings on whether the Reagan administration condoned drug smuggling and other criminal activities to further its Central American policy.

Chairman William J. Hughes said his House Judiciary subcommittee on crime will examine "allegations of drug smuggling, gun running and money laundering between Central American and the U.S. — and the role our government played in ignoring or even encouraging the criminal activities."

Hughes said the series of hearings will "demonstrate there were other motives driving drug law enforcement, like votes on Contra aid."

President Reagan has been a strong opponent of Nicaragua's Sandinista government and steady supporter of the Central American Contra rebels. At various times, both sides in the Nicaraguan conflict have been accused of aiding or taking part in drug smuggling.

Hughes said the first hearing today would examine allegations that members of the Sandinista regime cooperated with the Colombian drug cartel to import cocaine into the United States in 1984.

The committee is to hear testimony on flights to Nicaragua and other locations in South and Central America.

Iran pressed on hostages; Iraq insists on direct talks

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The secretary-general pressed Iran's foreign minister on Western hostages held by pro-Iranian at full day of separate truce talks with the belligerents' foreign ministers, Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar met for two hours Wednesday with both Tariq Aziz of Iraq and Ali Akbar Velayati of Iran.

Aziz said Iraq, which has continued attacks on Iran despite Tehran's acceptance last week of a year-old U.N. cease-fire resolution, still wants face-to-face talks with Iran and will not be "stampeded" into a settlement.

Iraq announced that it would honor Resolution 598 almost immediately after the Security Council passed it last summer.

Perez de Cuellar said he raised with Velayati on Wednesday the issue of the 18 foreign hostages, half of them American, believed held by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem militants in Lebanon.

"This is a question on which one has to be very discreet," he told reporters afterwards. "I raised it very, very specifically."

He did not disclose the Iranian envoy's response, and Velayati did not answer questions about the hostages.

Earlier Wednesday, the U.N. chief told reporters he thought the Iranians "might assert their possible influence in order to have this problem out of the way" for "humanitarian and political" reasons.

The Peruvian said he presented to both sides Wednesday the same ideas for implementing a cease-fire in the 8-year-old war, and was "very sober" in his assessment of progress. No formal meetings were scheduled for today.

Perez de Cuellar said he could not require direct talks if Iran objects. Iran has refused face-to-face negotiations but has left the door open to a request by the secretary-general.

Aziz said that if Iran does not accept direct talks "that means that they are not sincere about peace."

Some diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Iraq's stubbornness, its continuing military offensive and its alleged use of outlawed chemical warfare were hampering negotiations.

They noted that Aziz described his official visit with the secretary-general as a "courtesy call," while U.N. officials said it was "substantive."

Iranian Ambassador Mohammad Ja'afar Mahallati charged that Iraq was procrastinating and sabotaging U.N. peace efforts. He said Iraq was using chemical warfare, and he lodged a protest with the Security Council.

"How can we take the Iraqis seriously when ... they are using chemical weapons?" Mahallati told reporters.

The Iranians frequently accuse Iraq of using chemical weapons, which are banned under the 1925 Geneva Convention. Iraq has acknowledged their use, but contends Iran introduced chemical weapons to the war.

pus building during the summer.

Select areas which required work during the summer included remodeled restrooms at Northeast Elementary for its kindergarten classrooms; and new flooring and paint added to the cafeteria director's office.

The Snyder High School campus and its adjacent athletic facilities received work also.

A new steam line had to be replaced at the high school as well as a hot water heater for its shop building.

The main field house was repaired and flooring was replaced in gym 1. Wall joints had to be resealed also in gym 1 and 2 and the field house.

Dukakis begins seven-state tour

By The Associated Press

Michael Dukakis celebrated his Greek roots before embarking on a second campaign swing as the Democratic presidential nominee, as Vice President George Bush added former rival Jack Kemp to his list of possible running mates.

Dukakis began his seven-state tour today after attending the 30th annual convention of the Pancretan Association of America, a group of Greek-Americans who trace their roots back to the island of Crete.

The first day of his trip takes him to New Jersey and Ohio as the campaign follows its strategy of contesting all 50 states.

Before leaving the Statehouse on Wednesday, Dukakis continued his duties as Massachusetts governor by signing a number of bills, including crime legislation and the final piece of a plan to balance the 1988 budget.

Street Journal poll giving him an 18-point lead over Bush.

Running mate Lloyd Benetsen was in San Francisco after telling a business women's group in Albuquerque, N.M., that "the gen'er gap ... wasn't created by accident."

He told the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, which Bush had addressed Sunday, that the GOP record on the Equal Rights Amendment, equal pay and other issues pushed women into the Democratic camp.

Bush, the certain nominee at the Republican National Convention in New Orleans Aug. 15, remained in Washington while more feelers went out for prospective running mates.

Kemp, the New York congressman, and Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico were among those receiving requests for background information, Republican sources said.

Kemp aide Marci Robinson said the congressman met with Robert Kimmitt, a Washington attorney who is helping screen possible running mates, and would provide the material to the Bush campaign within a week.

New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu has acknowledged receiving a questionnaire from Bush campaign officials.

Bush is under pressure from the Republican right to pick a strong conservative running mate. That effort was formalized when Sen. Gordon Humphrey of New Hampshire announced Wednesday the formation of the Coalition for a Winning Ticket.

Dukakis dismissed Bush's repeated criticism of a Massachusetts furlough program that allowed passes to first-degree murderers. The program was later amended, but not until after one of the prisoners escaped from a furlough and raped a Maryland woman.

"I've got a record," Dukakis said, referring to statistics showing his state's crime rate had dropped 13 percent in the past four years. "I don't know what the vice president's record is."

turned out as their backers hoped, however. And, as resistance to the Vietnam war deepened, liberalism took on a new face — one which drew the scorn of the then-governor of California, Ronald Reagan, among others.

AP analysis

"The word 'liberal' came to be associated with costly government activities which didn't eradicate the problems for which they were intended," said Stephen J. Wayne, professor of political science and public affairs at The George Washington University.

"Secondly, the word 'liberal' got a bad connotation because of the protests over the war in Vietnam. I think the word liberal started getting a real bad rap during the period from 1968 to 1972, culminating in the George McGovern candidacy."

Marc A. Pearl, director of the liberal organization Americans for Democratic Action, conceded, "There is a recognition on the part of many liberals, of many Democrats, that to admit to being a liberal somehow is a detriment, is a negative."

Richard Moe, a former aide to 1984 Democratic nominee Walter F. Mondale, said he doesn't think it makes much difference what the Republicans or the Democrats call each other.

Liberalism remains an issue despite presidential scoffing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in 1936, Republican Alf Landon campaigned against Franklin D. Roosevelt and his New Deal by telling voters, "I believe that a man can be a liberal without being a spendthrift."

How times have changed.

The Republicans wouldn't dare call themselves liberals in this presidential campaign, and President Reagan says the Democrats won't either.

"You'll never hear that 'L word - liberal - from them,'" the president said in his radio address last weekend.

Some liberals and academics agree with the president, although they say the issues underlying the question of liberalism will still be part of the campaign just as they have been since New Deal days.

Landon's claim to being a liberal didn't do him much good. Roosevelt was re-elected in the biggest electoral landslide in the history of U.S. presidential elections.

After that the political landscape shifted, and by 1964, presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was telling fellow Republicans, "Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice and moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Goldwater fared little better than Landon, as voters gave a green light to Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society."

Not all of Johnson's programs

turned out as their backers hoped, however. And, as resistance to the Vietnam war deepened, liberalism took on a new face — one which drew the scorn of the then-governor of California, Ronald Reagan, among others.

Treatment of polymyalgia

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A cousin in Florida wants to come visit me in New Hampshire during the winter. She must be nuts, but my question isn't about her mental state. She has polymyalgia and takes medication. Is there anything I need to know about her condition in order to make her visit as comfortable as possible?

DEAR READER: Polymyalgia rheumatica is a relatively common disease of unknown cause, marked by severe muscle stiffness, especially in the morning. The ailment often is associated with fever, feeling unwell, weight loss, anemia and — in some cases — inflammation of medium-sized arteries, causing headache and heart disease.

Polymyalgia patients can be helped by avoiding cold, wet climates, a fact that your cousin ought to take into account. Short of behaving like any concerned hostess, there is nothing that I know of for you to do to make her visit to the Granite State more comfortable.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During my physical, my doctor seemed perturbed because he found a slight swelling in my liver. A CT scan showed fat, but no tumor in the liver. Now he wants me to have a liver biopsy. I'm having no symptoms and the doctors won't tell me what they are looking for, so why should I agree to surgery?

DEAR READER: In the first place, don't consent to any surgery — even a simple biopsy — without first knowing what the doctors are looking for. All surgery carries with it certain risks. The hazards of liver biopsy include hemorrhage, peritonitis and infection.

I think that you would be better served by insisting on more non-invasive (non-surgical) testing. For example, blood tests of liver function and an ultrasound examination would be helpful in delineating the cause of your fatty liver. Furthermore, the use of alcohol is a common cause of fat deposits in the livers of Americans. If you drink, give up booze — including wine and beer — and see if within a few weeks your liver shrinks in size. A biopsy may not be necessary. However, you are entitled to complete information at least, if a biopsy is being seriously considered.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 23 and male, with a relatively dark complexion. Five years ago I went to a tanning salon, where I just burned and burned. Since then, whenever I go out in the sun, I get deep lines, wrinkles and crow's feet on my face and neck within two days. You can see them actually develop. What should I do?

DEAR READER: You are evidently suffering from an accelerated form of skin damage from ultraviolet light. This may be due to sun-related accumulation of fluid in the skin, causing pronounced wrinkling. I suggest that you avoid direct exposure to the sun, use sunscreens, give up sunbathing and consider seeing a dermatologist for further advice.

Shuttle...

Astronauts practice landings

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Astronauts flying a specially modified jet make a steep 19-degree dive to the desert floor Mondays through Fridays, swooshing at 230 mph 20 feet above the packed gypsum runway. And every time, they have to deal with a malfunctioning computer, a broken landing gear, a non-working radio or some other problem generated by a sophisticated computer aboard the Grumman Gulfstream II jet.

That's the life of an astronaut training to land a space shuttle. "It would be terrible if you had a good mission and messed it up with a bad landing," said Alex Paczynski, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's project manager at White Sands Space Harbor.

So week after week, space shuttle commanders like Fred Hauck and shuttle pilots like Dick Covey practice their shuttle landing skills at White Sands.

Although the primary space orbiter landing site is Edwards Air Force Base in California, Hauck and Covey might end up touching down on one of the two dazzling white runways at the space harbor if it rains at Edwards. Hauck and Covey are scheduled to go up on the next shuttle flight in September or October.

If they land at White Sands, they will use a runway that has been leveled out a little better than the one Jack R. Lousma used when he flew space shuttle Columbia to a landing there on March 30, 1982.

Engineers used lasers to check whether they had smoothed out the minor undulations that were present six years ago, Paczynski said Wednesday as he led reporters on a tour of the 100-square-mile complex in the middle of White Sands Missile Range.

Lightning injures youths

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two youngsters were hospitalized and several others suffered minor injuries when a bolt of lightning from a cloudless sky struck with enough force to melt the tennis shoes of a softball player, witnesses said.

One of the youngsters, Hugo Arauz, 13, was in critical condition at Brooke Army Medical Center today. Kevin Epps, 15, was hospitalized for observation and was in good condition, a hospital spokesman said.

The youngsters were playing softball when the lightning bolt struck Wednesday afternoon.

Paramedics had to revive Arauz, who apparently was hit directly by the bolt, according to Bexar County Sheriff's patrolman Jesse Ambriz, who was nearby in his patrol car at the time of the strike.

Arauz' tennis shoes were melted by the lightning's intense heat and electric charge, he said. Epps complained of eye burns, Ambriz added.

Family's adoption planned

MIAMI (AP) — A millionaire who felt compelled to take direct action in the fight against poverty has offered a welfare mother a job, an education and a home for her five children.

"I kept driving by and seeing the homeless," businessman James Gisclair said Wednesday night. "It started to really bother me. ... I honestly became consumed by the urge to do something about it."

For 28-year-old Anita Hunter, struggling to raise her children, including a month-old son, in a drug-ridden inner-city Miami neighborhood dubbed "The Hole," his offer is a "fairy tale" come true.

"I can't believe this is happening to me," she said. "It's just a miracle from God. I've struggled and hoped for so long to get my children out of this neighborhood and into a safe environment."

Gisclair, a 43-year-old New Orleans native and principal owner of six Boca Raton enterprises, including a real estate management company and a restaurant, found the family through Livia Garcia of Miami's Community Development Department. He told her he wanted to help real people he could see and talk to.

"My idea is to see exactly where my money is going and be able to measure its success," said Gisclair, who has four children. "The idea is to get Anita to become self-sufficient to the point where she can pay her own rent on the house, pay her own bills and do everything on her own someday. I plan to pay for everything until she reaches that point."

He said he would find a home for the family in Boca Raton, Delray Beach or Deerfield Beach, about 100 miles north of Miami. Ms. Hunter would work during the day and attend Florida Atlantic University at night so she could pursue her goal of becoming an accountant.

It's not the first time Gisclair has tried the idea.

An earlier effort to help a welfare mother with four children failed because "she was totally unwilling to participate," Gisclair said.

"And then one day she asked me to pay half of her rent because her ex-husband didn't come through with the money. I volunteered to pay it directly to her landlord, but she said, 'No, send it to me.' That was enough for me to realize I was being conned."

That's why Gisclair's has attached some conditions.

"I just want Anita to be honest with me," he said. "I want her to become self-sufficient, and she has promised to have no more children. I will see to it that she gets medical care as well as take care of that."

Ms. Hunter said Gisclair's conditions are "tiny" compared to the chance he's giving her family. She said the neighborhood she lives now is so dangerous she doesn't let her children — Kentrail, 10, Krystal, 4, Grady, 3, Alex, 1, and Antjon, 1 month — play outside.

U. S. caravan arrives with food

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — U.S. war veterans driving 20 vehicles loaded with food, clothing and medical supplies have arrived in Nicaragua on the final leg of a journey their government resisted.

The Veterans' Peace Convoy, comprised of 44 people, crossed the border from Honduras late Wednesday, Don Reasoner, a leading member of the Committee of U.S. Citizens Living In Nicaragua, said in a telephone interview.

The Committee opposes President Reagan's policies in Central America.

The U.S. government blocked the convoy from leaving the United States at least three times.

Telephone sales calls need not be a problem

Telephone customers have varying opinions about sales calls made over the phone, but telephone calls need not be a problem if customers keep a few important points in mind when answering them, says Ralph Williamson, manager of installation and repair.

Telephone sales calls, commonly known as telemarketing, are legal. The telephone is an effective marketing tool widely used by many companies and organizations.

Telephone customers, as consumers, have the right and the responsibility to make their own judgment about each sales call received.

You have the right to verify the information you have been told. Ask for a call-back number. Check with the better Business Bureau or another appropriate neutral source.

Be careful about giving credit card numbers. Know who you are giving the number to and how they intend to use it.

The Public Utility Commission has established specific guidelines for Texas companies using a computer to make sales calls within the state.

The message must state the nature of the call, and the name and address and call-back number of the company or organization making the call.

Any call from a computer is required to disconnect within 10 seconds after you hang up.

Computerized calls may be made only during certain hours: Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 1:30 to 9 p.m. If calls from a computer are used for payment collection purposes, the calls have to be made within hours specified by federal law.

Southwestern Bell Telephone has the authority to disconnect or refuse service to any company or organization, operating within Texas, that violates these rules.

The PUC does not have any authority over calls originating outside Texas. Many sales calls are made from other states.

If you want to reduce the number of sales calls received provide your name, address and telephone number (including area code) to: Telephone Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N. Y. 10017.

There is no guarantee that all sales calls will be eliminated, but the number of calls made from national telemarketing companies will be reduced.

If you wish to report an abuse of Texas' telemarketing laws or file a complaint against a specific telemarketing organization, call the Southwestern Bell Telephone business office at the number printed in your telephone directory.

If you want to file a complaint about a sales contact with Southwestern Bell, it is essential to have the name of the company making the call.

If also will be helpful if you can give some information about the phone number or address of the company, the kind of sales offer, and the time the call was received.

19⁸⁸ Property Tax Rates in WESTERN TEXAS COLLEGE

This notice concerns 19⁸⁸ property tax rates for WESTERN TEXAS COLLEGE. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. Compare it to the tax rate the taxing unit proposes for this year. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 1,751,793
+ Last year's debt taxes	$ - 0 -
= Last year's total taxes	$ 1,751,793
÷ Last year's tax base	$ 1,103,144,408
= Last year's total tax rate	$.1588 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes	$ 1,750,345
(after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors)
÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 992,601,970
(after subtracting taxes on new property)
= This year's effective tax rate	$.1764 /$100
× 1.03
= Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings	$.1817 /$100

This year's rollback tax rate:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes	$ 1,750,345
(after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors and adding taxes lost in court suits)
÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 992,601,970
(after subtracting taxes on new property)
= This year's effective operating rate	$.1764 /$100
× 1.08
= This year's maximum operating rate	$.1904 /$100
+ This year's debt rate	$ - 0 - /$100
= This year's rollback rate	$.1904 /$100

SCHEDULE A: Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following balances will probably be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance
GENERAL	$1,200,000.

THERE ARE NO DEBTS OR OTHER ENCUMBERED FUNDS.
