Neighbors oppose 37th St. widening, city action tabled

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer

City councilmen Monday night heard an emotional group of 37th St. residents protest the proposed widening of the street and then tabled a resolution about the matter to make an on-site inspection. The group of about a dozen people presented a petition to city officials with what appeared to be about two dozen names opposing the $671,000 highway department project to widen the street from College Ave. west to Crockett Ave. They said that in many cases, the widening will infringe too far on their property and put the street too close to their houses. "We know we've got a problem," said Russell Jones of 2300 37th. "but we think this is a late date to correct a problem that we've been living with for 30 or 40 years.

Councilman Paul Zeck said he would like to walk the proposed project with city and highway department officials and see exactly what the effects would be. His motion was approved to table further action related to 37th St.

On the council's agenda Monday was a minute order from the state which would have given the go-ahead for detailed engineering studies of the project. The city has a 90-day time period to act on this motion and it extends through Sept. 26.

Highway department engineer Ed Vernon appeared to outline the project and say that a public hearing will be held for formal protests to be made if the city gives its approval.

Dallas policeman killed in shootout

DALLAS (AP) — A policeman gunned down in a shootout in which his suspected assailant was killed by other officers died this morning, bringing to four the number of Dallas policemen killed since January.

Officer Walter Williams, 47, was ambushed Monday night in the parking lot of an apartment complex as he investigated the wounding of a 17-year-old woman, said Capt. John Holt.

Williams, who was shot in the head, died at 8:06 a.m. CDT several hours after he was removed from life-support equipment, according to Lou Caudell, acting police chief. Two of his three children, his brother and his wife were with him. Caudell said.

Caudell said "to my understanding, all normal procedures were followed in the incident."

At a morning press conference at Methodist Hospital, Dr. Richard Dickerman said by the time the officer arrived at the hospital, "really, there was not much we could do."

Nicaragua not condemned...

Shultz proposal fails

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — George P. Shultz and four Central American foreign ministers called for peace and democracy in the region in a watered-down declaration lacking the denunciation of Nicaragua the U.S. envoy had sought.

In fact, the document they issued Monday during the secretary of state's eight-hour stop did not even mention Nicaragua by name.

Only at a later news conference was the country named when Shultz expressed continued U.S. support for the Contra rebels, who after nearly seven years of war reached a preliminary cease-fire accord in March with Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

Shultz left immediately afterward for Argentina, the second stop of a nine-country tour of Latin America.

The final version of the declaration — signed by Shultz and the foreign ministers of El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala and Costa Rica after a three-hour meeting — called for "peace, democracy, security, social justice and economic development" in the region.

In the statement, the parties

"reaffirmed that authentic democracy requires, among other requisites, political pluralism, freedom of association, freedom of the press, an impartial justice system that guarantees due process, an honest and open electoral system and respect for human and individual rights."

The Sandinistas have been criticized for maintaining a political monopoly and suppressing dissent and talks with the Contras on forging a lasting peace have stalled.

Tax rate proposal reduced

City assessment would still go up

The 1988-89 city budget was torn apart and put back together again, with a lower tax rate, in a 3½-hour city council meeting Monday night.

The net result was a proposed city tax rate of 31.99 cents per $100 valuation, up from the current rate of 29.22 cents. In its first budget proposal, the council had proposed a tax rate of 32.83 cents.

The changes began with an earlier proposal from Councilman Paul Zeck and Ralph Williamson that two of three proposed trash truck compactor body replacements be deleted from the new budget, saving $52,000.

Councilman John Johnson suggested that this $52,000 reduction be translated directly into a cut in property tax income.

The resulting budget income shortfall — in effect, a deficit budget — would then be made up from the city's $2 million in unassigned or reserve funds.

Following a lengthy discussion in which various possible tax rates were computed, it was decided that the city could not legally approve a deficit budget, even though the shortfall would be made up from another municipal fund.

It was eventually decided that $35,000 of the $52,000 savings would be used to offset another budget shortfall as yet unaddressed. The remaining approximate $17,000 was then applied toward a tax rate reduction.

In the council vote to certify the 31.99-cent rate, Johnson was the Vehicle theft case has 2 indictments

Among the six indictments handed down Monday by a Scurry County grand jury were two for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against two Lubbock males, ages 18 and 17.

The pair are now implicated in the theft of a local woman's 1987 Oldsmobile which had been parked at the Cogdell Memorial Hospital lot July 9. The vehicle was found in Lubbock the same day, reportedly destroyed by fire.

Indicted for unauthorized use of a vehicle were Ruben Baker III, 18, and William Davis, 17. Both are now under $5,000 bonds.

The vehicle they are alleged to have stolen was owned by Sarah Reeder, 3304 Ave. A.

Four other indictments Monday were all drug-related. Two out-of-county women were indicted for possession of a controlled substance namely cocaine.

They were initially stopped by Department of Public Safety officers June 22 for suspicion of speeding. The subsequent charges were filed based upon evidence found in their vehicle.

Indicted were Selina Dawn Hodges, 21, of Lubbock; and Holly Ann Hollingsworth, 22, of Austin. Their bond was set at $5,000 each.

Two other indictments involve charges of felony possession of marijuana, reportedly just over 1 pound.

Indicted were Shirley Ann Ballard, 34, and Dickey Joe Stewart, 32. The incident reportedly occurred July 15 at 705 16th St.

Bond for both Ballard and Stewart was set at $5,000.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Narrow-minded people are like narrow-necked bottles—the less they have in 'em, the more noise they make in pouring out."

It must be the heat. Some guy in Los Angeles suggested that the NBA season should be extended and that it would be worth city tax subsidy to pay Earvin Johnson even more money to play more games.

The suggestion came from a guy frustrated with the LA freeway traffic. He observed that during the Lakers' seventh game against the Detroit Pistons, LA freeways were almost deserted. That supports the claim that Earvin Johnson really is Magic.

Meanwhile St. Petersburg is trying to get a baseball franchise for that city.

In a campaign to keep the White Sox baseball team in Chicago, the Chicago Tribune is encouraging readers to send white socks to the mayor of that Florida city.

The city of Chicago is running ads with this headline: "St. Petersburg Wants Chicago's White Sox? So Let's Send Some!" The ad further stated, "Let's send our white socks to Florida and keep our White Sox safe at home!"

The ads suggest sending the socks "clean or dirty" to the St. Petersburg mayor. A Chicago columnist gave the campaign a boost with more publicity and the newspaper set up a collection center in its downtown building.

About 1,000 socks were received in just four days. St. Petersburg's mayor says he's received limited mail—but not enough to knock your socks off.

TV newsman David Brinkley may have the two presidential candidates figured out. Said Brinkley, "If they decided to give a fireside chat, the fire would go out."

Ask Us

Q — Who is responsible for the weeds growing up in front of local closed businesses?

A — The property owner, and city officials have been mailing letters the past few weeks notifying persons where the weeds have become unsightly to address the problem. A 10-day time period is granted, then the city may pursue such action as cleaning the property and billing the owner or seeking fines in city municipal court.

Carriker named Man of Year in Texas ag

MT. PLEASANT—Rep. Steve Carriker of Roby, a farmer and current state representative, has been named "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture for 1988" by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

One of seven Texans selected for the honor, Carriker was nominated by county agents in the Rolling Plains district of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

The award is presented annually to outstanding leaders in agriculture and related industries who have supported educational programs conducted by the Extension Service, said Syd Conner, Garza County extension agent and president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association. The award recognizes contributions made by these leaders to improving levels of living and economic growth in their communities, counties, state and nation.

Rep. Carriker will receive his award at a special banquet during the TCAA annual meeting Aug. 7-10 in Fredericksburg.

In addition to his legislative duties, Rep. Carriker is actively involved in farming cotton, wheat, milo and beef cattle on 2,000 acres in Fisher County. He joined the family partnership in this endeavor in 1973. His service to Texas as a legislator began in 1982 when he was elected to the Texas House of Representatives.

Some of his positions include election to the Democratic National Committee, Texas Department of Agriculture Farm Credit Force (chairman); Agricultural Water Subcommittee (chairman); and subcommittees for budget and oversight for county affairs and elections.

In 1985, he was elected House Majority Whip where his efforts and influence were responsible for passage of "Buy Texas First" legislation; Family Farm and Ranch Security Act; relief from taxing board errors and many others. Currently, Rep. Carriker served on the Agriculture and Livestock Committee and the County Affairs Committee.

He is a former member of the board of the Rolling Plains Co-Op compress of Sweetwater, Plains Cotton Cooperative of Lubbock and former member of Fisher County Farmers Home Administration Board.

His organizational affiliations include: member of Texas Farmer's Union, Grain Sorghum Association, Texas Sheriff's Association and National Rifle Association.

In 1983, Rep. Carriker was recognized as an Outstanding Young Man of America. He received the Outstanding Service to Agriculture Award in 1983 and 1985.

He and his wife, Kathy, are parents of three children: Jake, Karen and Stephanie. They live on a farm near Roby which was settled by his great-grandfather near the turn of the century.

NCNB Corp. not sure they would succeed

DALLAS (AP) — Although they had planned meticulously how to take over Texas' largest bank holding company, NCNB Corp. officials say they were nervous about whether they would succeed until the end.

With military-like precision and secrecy to match, 250 North Carolina bankers set up camp at a Dallas hotel and waited for the announcement that finally brought the failing First RepublicBank Corp. into their fold last Friday.

Rumors circulated earlier in the week that NCNB had a lock on a takeover and that the press conference would be a mere formality, one local bank analyst said.

But Brad Iverson, NCNB's senior vice president for marketing, said Monday the team heard no such rumors. When the site of the press conference to announce the acquiring corporation shifted to Washington, D.C., near-panic set in.

"It wasn't a done deal as far as we were concerned," Iverson said. "We were on pins and needles."

Iverson and others breathed a collective sigh of relief when news came that the North Carolina bank holding company had indeed won the bidding, conducted by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

NCNB employees were flown into Dallas late Thursday and early Friday morning, awaiting the announcement that would mark the end of First RepublicBank's Texas banking presence and the birth of NCNB Texas National Bank.

"We were all real pleased," said Iverson said. "There haven't been any hitches at all."

"We had done ads for newspapers and radio, tons of posters and customer letters," he said. "If the deal hadn't been done, we wouldn't have been able to use that for anything but scrap paper."

All of the posters, letters and advertising was secretly produced in North Carolina and then quietly shipped to Dallas on Thursday via Federal Express. There was so much material that NCNB had to rent a separate hotel room just to store it, Iverson said.

The North Carolina delegation will stay on for short time longer, officials said. Advance team members will be stationed at each of the First RepublicBank offices throughout Texas.

"They'll be there to reassure customers," Iverson explained. "Then after one week, we'll go away."

First RepublicBank's 46 Texas banks were turned over to NCNB Corp. on Friday.

The following day, First RepublicBank and IFRB Corp., its wholly owned subsidiary and intermediate holding company formed in last year's merger with InterFirst Corp., filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Dear Abby

Modern Margin for Error Is Far Too Wide for Some

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from the postal employee who thinks that a 2 percent error rate is not a bad record. That kind of attitude is ruining America. A 2 percent error rate is completely unacceptable!

How safe would you feel if 2 percent of the aluminum used to make our airplanes was flawed, or if one car in 50 was a lemon, or 2 percent of the answers in your column were wrong? No errors are acceptable!

I attended a conference recently at Stanford University titled "Manufacturing in the '90s." George Fisher, president and CEO of Motorola, stated in his keynote address that his company now counts defects a few per million, and by 1992 hopes to be counting defects per billion. The goal is 99.997 percent defect-free product.

If America's manufacturing industry condoned even a fraction of a 2 percent error rate, it would have even more problems than it has today, and would soon cease to exist. I submit that the U.S. Postal Service should rethink its quality program or its future may be very tenuous.

Abby, this is what we can expect if 99 percent is "good enough":

- At least 200,000 wrong drug prescriptions each year.
- More than 30,000 newborn babies accidentally dropped by doctors/nurses each year.
- Unsafe drinking water almost four days each year.
- No electricity, water, heat for about 15 minutes each day.
- No telephone service or television transmission for nearly 15 minutes each day.
- Newspapers not delivered four times each year.

DON McNEILL,
SEPULVEDA, CALIF.

DEAR DON McNEILL: What happened to your Breakfast Club? Thanks for some startling statistics. 'Tis said, "Figures don't lie, and liars don't figure." I say, always strive for perfection, but allow for human error.

DEAR ABBY: You have had several letters concerning the quality of mail service. Can you stand one more?

For 11 years, we lived in the small city of Palacios, Texas. About a year ago, I obtained the name and address of the postal department that Palacios station reported to. I wrote a letter commending them on their exceptionally good service, as well as the courtesy of their employees. Later on I asked one of the employees if she had ever heard of my commendation. She said she had not.

What a shame the employees have to answer to the criticism they receive, but rarely do they hear the compliments.

Thanks for letting me have my say.

BETTY FITCH,
MESA, ARIZ.

DEAR BETTY: Orchids to you for wanting to compliment the employees of the Palacios, Texas, Postal Service. Although your message did not reach them through the route you intended, will this do?

DEAR ABBY: Re the U.S. Postal Service: Two weeks ago, I sent a birthday card from Oakland to San Francisco — first class mail. It arrived eight days later.

Abby, eight days to travel a distance that I can drive in 20 minutes! A 2 percent error rate out of 100 billion means every year 2 billion pieces of mail go astray. That's intolerable!

OAKLAND

Jury selection begins in trial of suspect

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors expect to call about 100 witnesses from seven states in the capital murder trial of a man accused of killing a Beaumont police officer and indicted on charges in two other slayings in Florida and Indiana.

Prosecutors say they will attempt to prove that Michael Lee Lockhart is a serial killer who is a continuing threat to society.

Lockhart, 28, of Toledo, Ohio could be sentenced to die by lethal injection if convicted of the March 22 shooting death of officer Paul Douglas Hulsey Jr.

"We would be remiss if we didn't show the jury every bit of legal proof we have to demonstrate his previous acts of misconduct and violence," Maness said. "If he's found guilty, the death penalty is the only proper punishment due to the facts of the case and his background. But we have no idea what the Court of Criminal Appeals will require down the road in order to uphold that penalty."

A panel of 12 jurors and two alternates are expected to be seated during jury selection that is scheduled to begin today in Bexar County's 186th District Court. The process is expected to last three to four weeks.

Court officials predict the trial could last until October and cost as much as $500,000.

"It will be a long, difficult trial," District Court Judge Larry Gist told the Beaumont Enterprise. "The logistics of providing transportation and accommodations for witnesses alone will be a nightmare."

Pre-trial work already has been time consuming, court officials say.

Maness calls the state's efforts to prove that Lockhart killed Hulsey the most exhaustive, emotional and costly investigation of his 17-year legal career.

"It's been a tremendous drain on our office," he said. Prosecutors believe Hulsey's death ended a bloody trail of slayings in which Lockhart allegedly abducted, raped and killed at least three young women.

Lockhart has already been indicted on capital murder charges in the deaths of a 14-year-old girl in Land O' Lakes, Fla., and a 16-year-old girl in Griffith, Ind.

Vincennes, Ind. authorities also say Lockhart is a prime suspect in the death of a 19-year-old college student.

A Jefferson County grand jury on April 14 indicted Lockhart in connection with Hulsey's death that occurred in a motel in the southeast Texas city of Beaumont.

The trial was moved to San Antonio at the request of Lockhart's court appointed attorney Charles Carver who said his client could not receive a fair trial in Jefferson County because of extensive publicity surrounding the case.

The son of Paul Hulsey Sr., a retired police chief from the cities of Orange and Galveston, the 29-year-old Hulsey was a seven year veteran of the police force. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, 3- and 7-years-old.

Hulsey was the first Beaumont police officer slain in the line of duty since 1920.

Remembering who holds what

We quarrel mildly with North's raise to two hearts — an apparent underbid. However, it all worked out. After a series of cue-bids, South asked for aces and bid a slam. We see here a deal requiring a certain amount of skill, and yet any declarer who can remember who holds what should make this contract.

Dummy's king of clubs wins the opening lead and South plays a heart back to his queen. When the ace fails to bring down the king, declarer must bring in the diamonds without a loser. He should play the A-K of spades and ruff his ace of clubs with dummy's remaining jack of hearts. A spade ruff brings no glad tidings, since the queen does not fall. So South gives up a trump trick to East. Declarer ruffs the club return and cashes his last trump. Since West must hold the queen of spades and is playing in front of the dummy, declarer can throw away the spade jack in the North hand. When South cashes his diamond king and plays another diamond toward dummy's A-J, he should remember that West's remaining card is the spade queen. So up with the ace of diamonds, dropping the queen in the East hand and making the slam.

Home run leader hits 31st against Chicago

By The Associated Press
Jose Canseco hit 31 home runs for the Oakland Athletics last year, but his accomplishment was generally overshadowed by the extraordinary rookie year of teammate Mark McGwire, who had 49.

This year, Canseco is making some bigger news for himself with 31 homers so far — including five in the last four games. Homering in his fourth straight game Monday night, Canseco led the Athletics to a 10-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"Basically, you get in a groove. Instead of hitting line drives, you hit them out," Canseco said. "They come in bunches.

Sometimes you go a week without hitting a home run."

Canseco's 31 homers lead the major leagues. His two-run homer in the first inning Monday night, incidentally, was the 100th of his career.

In other American League action, it was Toronto 3, Minnesota 1; Kansas City 5, Detroit 3, and California 8, Seattle 4.

Canseco's homer against the White Sox not only matched his total for all of last year, but moved him within two of his 33-homer rookie year in 1986.

Dave Henderson also had a big night for Oakland by driving in four runs with a homer and a single.

Henderson singled home two runs in a four-run second inning in which Canseco also singled in a run, giving him the major league lead with 86 RBI. Henderson hit his 16th homer in the fourth inning after Walt Weiss singled.

Rookie Todd Burns, 4-0, left after six innings, giving up six hits, no walks and striking out three. Melido Perez, 10-6, took the loss.

Blue Jays 3, Twins 1

George Bell hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning, leading Toronto over Minnesota and spoiling Frank Viola's bid to become the majors' first 17-game winner.

Viola, 16-4, was lifted with two outs in the eighth after giving up consecutive singles to Tony Fernandez and Manny Lee. Bell then greeted reliever Jeff Reardon with his 15th homer of the season.

The game featured a pitching duel between Viola and Toronto starter Dave Stieb, 11-7.

Viola allowed seven hits, struck out three and didn't walk a batter, while Stieb limited the Twins to three hits, struck out six and walked one in eight innings. Tom Henke pitched the ninth for Toronto to pick up his 19th save.

The Twins scored in the fifth on an RBI single by Steve Lombardozzi.

SF knocks Astros out of 2nd place

By The Associated Press
The San Francisco Giants have lost four starters but rediscovered another.

With Dave Dravecky, Mike Krukow, Mike LaCoss and Terry Mulholland on the disabled list, the Giants turned to former All-Star Altee Hammaker for help. Hammaker, who began the season in the bullpen, pitched a five-hitter Monday night for his first victory in six starts as the Giants defeated the Houston Astros 4-1.

The Giants have won six straight and moved past Houston into second place in the National League West, 3½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost 4-3 to Cincinnati.

"I feel good about going the distance. It's been a while," said Hammaker, 5-3, who pitched his first complete game since August of last season. "I was battling the whole game. I had to have good concentration."

Elsewhere, it was Pittsburgh 7, New York 2, and San Diego 6, Atlanta 3.

Will Clark led the Giants' offense with two doubles and his 23rd homer and drove in two runs to give him a league-leading 81 RBI. But the first baseman preferred to talk about Hammaker.

"Altee pitched an excellent game. Even the mistake pitches he threw up there were outs. That's what happens when you're going well," Clark said.

The Astros, who took two out of three at Los Angeles last weekend, now trail the Dodgers by 4½ games.

"It's a very important series. We're fighting for second place and the next couple of weeks we all (Dodgers, Astros, Giants) play each other, so it's a good opportunity to do something," Houston manager Hal Lanier said.

Hammaker's outing was perfectly timed. Not only has the Giants' staff been hit by injuries, the team played a doubleheader Sunday and used relief ace Scott Garrelts in both games.

"When you have only an eight-man pitching staff, you need complete games," Manager Roger Craig said.

Nolan Ryan, 8-8, had 11 strikeouts in seven innings, the 179th time in his career he's struck out 10 or more in a game, and raised his major league-record career strikeout total to 4,703.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3

Chris Sabo's two-run single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning and Danny Jackson won for the seventh time in eight starts to lead Cincinnati.

Jackson, 14-5, allowed seven hits in seven innings, struck out four and walked one in his first appearance ever against Los Angeles.

CB Ron Francis out with injury

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — With right cornerback Ron Francis out with an injury, Robert Williams and Manny Hendrix will split the playing time in the Dallas Cowboys' exhibition game Saturday night against the Chargers in San Diego, Cowboys coach Tom Landry said.

Francis, who started 11 games for the Cowboys in 1987 in his rookie season, dislocated his left shoulder while tackling fullback Timmy Newsome in Saturday's annual Blue-White intrasquad scrimmage. Francis will remain in camp while wearing a shoulder harness for three weeks.

"It's a big blow to lose him," Landry said of Francis, Dallas' second round draft choice last year. "He needed this camp to really progress further."

Williams is a second-year veteran and Hendrix a third-year veteran. Neither has played much at the position.

"Williams will probably move up, since he's been working over there all the time. Manny's been working on the other side," Landry said.

"I'm hoping I'm going to be very comfortable with whoever winds up as the starter. ... They have to produce now that they are in that position. They'll probably split the game. I don't know who will start."

Williams, 5-10, 190, played running back at Baylor, and was in the Washington Redskins camp in 1986 as a receiver. He was moved to defensive back when signed by the Cowboys in 1987.

After being released in training camp, Williams was re-signed for the replacement games during the strike, and started all three games at cornerback. After the strike, Williams remained with the team, and was used primarily as an extra defensive back in the team's pass-prevent defense and on special teams.

"He has great speed," Landry said. "He moved from offensive back to defensive back last year and handled himself fairly well for his first year."

In Hendrix, the Cowboys have a player who made his mark as a basketball star at Utah. The Cowboys cut Hendrix during his first training camp, but re-signed him a month later. He has been used primarily as an extra defender in the pass-prevent defense and on special teams. Hendrix's lone pro start was in the Cowboys' season finale last year, when he played well in Dallas' 21-16 win over the Cardinals.

"He's still overcoming some of the basketball background," said Landry. "He's got great speed, too. He's probably one of the fastest cornerbacks that we've ever had here."

Two other veterans in camp competing for the cornerback job are second-year men Curtis Baham and Charles Wright. Baham, 5-11, 180, played for Seattle during the strike last year. Wright, 5-9, 178, was the Cardinals' 10th round draft pick in 1987 and played seven games with St. Louis before being released.

Dallas Cowboys cut 13 hopefuls

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys released 13 players, all rookie free agents, on Monday to cut their roster to 108, including 45 rookies.

Released were defensive tackle Tommy Duhart, Southeastern Oklahoma; cornerback Tony Griffin, Texas; guard James Hardman, Appalachian State; linebacker Victor Harmon, Louisiana Tech; wide receiver Alan Hooker, North Carolina A&T; defensive tackle Al Huge, Hillsdale; tight end Harper LeBel, Colorado State.

Also, kicker Derek Schmidt, Florida State; kicker Len Strandley, Cal State-Fullerton; safety Dewayne Terry, Duke; running back Chris Thomas, Miami, Ohio; linebacker Mark Wallace, Winston-Salem; and cornerback Sean Washington, Rutgers.

NEW COACHES—Snyder coaches are spending this week in preparation for the start of two-a-day workouts next Monday. Head Coach David Baugh has brought in seven new coaches. Coaches and their assignments, (front row from left) are Kenneth Parker, 7th grade; Phillip Wester, varsity receiver and defensive secondary; Joe Granato, varsity offensive and defensive line; Troyce Renfro, 7th grade. Back row from left are Roland Herrera, JV football and baseball; Jack Dorsett, varsity defensive coordinator; and Robert Wood, 8th grade. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oilers fall to Monahans

PALESTINE—Monahans, aided by balk calls, scored a 9-6 victory over the Snyder Oilers in the opening round of the Junior Teenage League State Tournament.

Snyder still has a shot at the championship in the double-elimination tournament. The Oilers will play at 9 a.m. Wednesday the loser of the Gainesville-Corsicana game that began at noon Tuesday.

Monahans got off to a two-run first inning with Snyder pitcher Daniel Espinosa being called for a balk. Both teams were scoreless in the second frame.

Monahans picked up two more runs in the third inning after two singles. With the bases loaded, Gilbert Hernandez came in to relieve Espinosa.

Snyder roared back with three runs with Jamey Morton connecting for a single and Mark King blasting a triple.

Monahans retaliated with four back-breaking runs in the fourth inning, and Hernandez was twice called for a balk, costing one of those runs. Snyder did pick up one run in the bottom of the fourth after Les Rinehart got a single base hit.

Snyder quieted Monahans on three straight outs in the fifth, and then Snyder's Mark King drove in one run with a double.

In the sixth, Jamey Morton took over pitching duties. He struck out two batters as Monahans made three consecutive outs. Snyder scored in that inning after a single by Jamey Morton and a single by Richard Morris that left one runner stranded.

In the seventh, Monahans got an insurance run off one hit, but Snyder was unable to score despite a double by Daniel Espinosa.

Other games scheduled Tuesday were Belton and Copperas Cove and Freepport and Palestine.

Oilers banking on "Untouchables"

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — It wasn't enough for the Houston Oilers' wide receiver duo of Ernest Givins and Drew Hill to be virtually untouchable last season.

Now they plan to call themselves "The Untouchables" as a group, patterning themselves after the Al Capone gang.

"I saw the movie and Al Capone was a bad man so we feel our coach (Jerry Glanville) will be Al Capone and we'll be the bad guys," Givins said.

"We won't have any guns. We'll do our damage on the football field."

Givins and Hill did quite well without a nickname last season when they caught passes for a combined 1,922 yards. Givins caught 53 passes for 933 yards and narrowly missed becoming the fourth receiver in NFL history to have 1,000 yards in each of his first two years.

The idea of "The Untouchables" came from teammate wide receiver Willie Drewrey, who thought it would help the group get recognition.

"By being 'The Untouchables,' I feel like it will give us more recognition, not for a showboat type deal," Givins said.

Snyder Tigers open state bid

The Snyder Tigers today faced a 3 p.m. encounter with Brownwood in the opening round of the Senior Division Teenage League State Tournament being played in Eastland.

Coaches Albert Lewis and Mike Montgomery said 12 teams are competing for the state crown in the double-elimination bracket.

Games are scheduled each day through Friday at noon, 3 p.m., 6 p.m. and at 9 p.m. Finals get underway Saturday at 10 a.m. with the championship game set for 6 p.m. Saturday.

Admission will be charged during the tournament. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Preschoolers will be admitted free.

Lubbock stars demolish Dixie

Lubbock Midwest Little League, All-Stars pounded Abilene Dixie 13-1 Monday night in the first game of a best-of-three series played at Snyder's Logan Field.

A second game is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, also at Logan Field in Towle Park, with the winner of the series advancing to the state tournament next week in Waco.

In Hendrix, the Cowboys have a player who made his mark as a basketball star at Utah. The Cowboys cut Hendrix during his first training camp, but re-signed him a month later. He has been used primarily as an extra defender in the pass-prevent defense and on special teams.

Hendrix's lone pro start was in the Cowboys' season finale last year, when he played well in Dallas' 21-16 win over the Cardinals.

"He's still overcoming some of the basketball background," said Landry. "He's got great speed, too. He's probably one of the fastest cornerbacks that we've ever had here."

Two other veterans in camp competing for the cornerback job are second-year men Curtis Baham and Charles Wright. Baham, 5-11, 180, played for Seattle during the strike last year. Wright, 5-9, 178, was the Cardinals' 10th round draft pick in 1987 and played seven games with St. Louis before being released.

Dallas Cowboys cut 13 hopefuls

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys released 13 players, all rookie free agents, on Monday to cut their roster to 108, including 45 rookies.

Released were defensive tackle Tommy Duhart, Southeastern Oklahoma; cornerback Tony Griffin, Texas; guard James Hardman, Appalachian State; linebacker Victor Harmon, Louisiana Tech; wide receiver Alan Hooker, North Carolina A&T; defensive tackle Al Huge, Hillsdale; tight end Harper LeBel, Colorado State.

Also, kicker Derek Schmidt, Florida State; kicker Len Strandley, Cal State-Fullerton; safety Dewayne Terry, Duke; running back Chris Thomas, Miami, Ohio; linebacker Mark Wallace, Winston-Salem; and cornerback Sean Washington, Rutgers.

Oilers fall to Monahans

PALESTINE—Monahans, aided by balk calls, scored a 9-6 victory over the Snyder Oilers in the opening round of the Junior Teenage League State Tournament.

Snyder still has a shot at the championship in the double-elimination tournament. The Oilers will play at 9 a.m. Wednesday the loser of the Gainesville-Corsicana game that began at noon Tuesday.

Monahans got off to a two-run first inning with Snyder pitcher Daniel Espinosa being called for a balk. Both teams were scoreless in the second frame.

Monahans picked up two more runs in the third inning after two singles. With the bases loaded, Gilbert Hernandez came in to relieve Espinosa.

Snyder roared back with three runs with Jamey Morton connecting for a single and Mark King blasting a triple.

Monahans retaliated with four back-breaking runs in the fourth inning, and Hernandez was twice called for a balk, costing one of those runs. Snyder did pick up one run in the bottom of the fourth after Les Rinehart got a single base hit.

Snyder quieted Monahans on three straight outs in the fifth, and then Snyder's Mark King drove in one run with a double.

In the sixth, Jamey Morton

took over pitching duties. He struck out two batters as Monahans made three consecutive outs. Snyder scored in that inning after a single by Jamey Morton and a single by Richard Morris that left one runner stranded.

In the seventh, Monahans got an insurance run off one hit, but Snyder was unable to score despite a double by Daniel Espinosa.

Other games scheduled Tuesday were Belton and Copparras Cove and Freeport and Palestine.

Oilers banking on "Untouchables"

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — It wasn't enough for the Houston Oilers' wide receiver duo of Ernest Givins and Drew Hill to be virtually untouchable last season.

Now they plan to call themselves "The Untouchables" as a group, patterning themselves after the Al Capone gang.

"I saw the movie and Al Capone was a bad man so we feel our coach (Jerry Glasville) will be Al Capone and we'll be the bad guys," Givins said.

"We won't have any guns. We'll do our damage on the football field."

Givins and Hill did quite well without a nickname last season when they caught passes for a combined 1,922 yards.

Givins caught 53 passes for 933 yards and narrowly missed becoming the fourth receiver in NFL history to have 1,000 yards in each of his first two years.

The idea of "The Untouchables" came from teammate wide receiver Willie Drewrey, who thought it would help the group get recognition.

"By being 'The Untouchables,' I feel like it will give us more recognition, not for a showboat type deal," Givins said.

Snyder Tigers open state bid

The Snyder Tigers today faced a 3 p.m. encounter with Brownwood in the opening round of the Senior Division Teenage League State Tournament being played in Eastland.

Coaches Albert Lewis and Mike Montgomery said 12 teams are competing for the state crown in the double-elimination bracket. Games are scheduled each day through Friday at noon, 3 p.m., 6 p.m. and at 9 p.m. Finals get underway Saturday at 10 a.m. with the championship game set for 6 p.m. Saturday.

Admission will be charged during the tournament. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Preschoolers will be admitted free.

Lubbock stars demolish Dixie

Lubbock Midwest Little League All-Stars pounded Abilene Dixie 13-1 Monday night in the first game of a best-of-three series played at Snyder's Logan Field.

A second game is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, also at Logan Field in Towle Park, with the winner of the series advancing to the state tournament next week in Waco.

Efforts underway to preserve home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Historian Leroy Ramsey is on a one-man crusade to preserve the memory of a black sharecropper's son who became the first hero of Pearl Harbor.

"Dorrie Miller deserves a place in history, not just black history, but a place in history — period," says Ramsey, himself a black World War II veteran from Albany, N.Y., who has contacted congressmen and governors on behalf of the Navy seaman killed in a 1943 torpedo attack.

Ramsey is fighting on two fronts — to have the Navy recognize Miller's bravery with a Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military award, and to protect the Miller family's abandoned home in Waco from the wrecking ball.

"One is a matter of justice and one is a matter of honor," says Ramsey, who through his research found that the Navy used to refer to Miller as an "unidentified Negro messman" who manned a machine gun on the USS West Virginia when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Miller shot down two enemy aircraft after dragging his mortally wounded captain to safety, Ramsey said.

Ramsey says he's now asking Texans to "Remember Pearl Harbor, the Alamo and Dorrie Miller."

A former associate professor of history at Hofstra University on Long Island, N.Y., Ramsey said he discovered while working on a book about black Americans in World War II that not one of the 1.5 million blacks who fought in the two World Wars was awarded the Medal of Honor.

He has asked Congress to waive the statute of limitations so that the award can be given to Miller and Sgt. Henry Johnson, an Albany man who served in the Army during World War I.

Johnson fought with the French army, killed four German soldiers, rescued a wounded comrade and captured a stockpile of weapons, despite severe combat wounds. He earned the Croix de Guerre, France's highest military honor, and died in 1930.

Rep. Mickey Leland and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Texas Democrats, introduced bills on Miller's behalf, while Rep. Joseph DioGuardi, R-N.Y., is sponsoring legislation for Johnson to receive the award.

The legislation is stalled in the House Armed Services Committee because of a lack of Pentagon support, congressional officials say. The Army and Navy object because the statute of limitations has run out.

Ramsey says that while he's run across many a stubborn officer at the Pentagon, his luck in Texas has been much better as he tries to convert a boarded-up house frequented by vagrants into a museum honoring Miller and other blacks.

"I have found some big hearts in Texas," says Ramsey. "Texas people have been wonderful."

He won a reprieve from the city of Waco's plans to tear down the house until Sept. 6, when he hopes to have raised enough money to begin restoration work.

Ramsey says he'll need at least $100,000 to convert the house to the Dorrie Miller Black History Exhibition Center. He's counting on Lone Star State lore that a "silver dollar is a Texas penny."

Miller's only surviving brother, Arthur Miller of Midlothian, Texas, is a disabled World War II veteran who says he can't afford to fix up the house. The family moved out in the 1950s after a fire scorched the home.

Ramsey's plans would fulfill the dreams of their mother, Arthur Miller said Monday. She died a broken and despairing woman who wanted more than anything to have a small room added to their house so that Dorrie Miller's medals could be displayed.

"She could look down from wherever she is now and her face would just sparkle that people felt so much about him to build him a room at the home," Arthur Miller said.

Ramsey said he settled on the house as a memorial because Miller's birthplace was flooded to make Lake Waco decades ago.

Although the Navy christened the USS Miller warship in the seaman's honor in 1971 and buildings have been named after him, Ramsey said the museum is still needed.

"If black people don't make an effort to preserve their own (history), they can't think badly of white people for not doing it for them," Ramsey said. "Whites have named a ship after him, and we want to do something for him on land."

Sen. Proxmire protests political noise pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Noise. Screaming, yelling, bellowing, desk-pounding noise.

Noise, Sen. William Proxmire says, is invading political discourse.

Its inspiration: Well, perhaps it may be the influence of a quarter-century of ear-blasting rock music upon the nation's young.

"Has the age of rock and roll so corrupted our generation with noise that only the loudest shouters can win?" Proxmire asked the Senate on Monday.

Or perhaps, the Wisconsin Democrat said, one can blame television talk shows which elevate rudeness to a fine art and operate under the rule of "never start talking unless you are butting in on another speaker."

"If two speakers interrupt a third speaker simultaneously, and all three keep talking, then you have the supreme thrill," Proxmire said. "With three people talking at once, it's impossible to hear a coherent word, let alone a coherent sentence."

"More and more people are catching on to this rock-and-roll oratory," Proxmire told the Senate. "They are finding it's a real winner. Content is nothing. It doesn't matter whether the speaker is logical or ridiculous."

"What matters is the loudness — the decibels," Proxmire said, his own voice rising to a shout.

"Does the speaker really get your attention?" he bellowed to the several senators on the floor at the time, and the galleries, mostly filled with tourists from around the nation.

"Does he slam his fist on the table?" the senator exclaimed, slamming his own fist on his Senate desk.

"Does he stamp and shout?" asked the senator, doing both at the same time.

"Does his voice range from a roar to a screech and back to a roar?" he asked, roaring with the best of them.

"Does he flail the air with his fists?" he shouted, flailing at the empty air next as if it were a punching bag.

"Does he slap his hands together and keep shouting?"

He waved his arms above his head, slapped his hands together and shouted: "If he does all of these things, the press will call him charismatic and more and more people will come to see him and hear his noise."

Study: therapists' sex victims often include children

WASHINGTON (AP) — Children as young as 3 years old have been sexually abused by therapists, according to a survey by an American Psychological Association committee.

Kenneth S. Pope, a clinical psychologist in Los Angeles and chairman of the American Psychological Association's ethics committee, said Monday that the committee's recent survey of what he called "distinguished psychologists" nationwide disclosed 82 instances of sexual intimacy between therapists and minor patients.

"From the 90 who replied to the survey, 24 percent said they knew of instances where therapists abused minor patients," he said. "Five percent said they knew of hearsay accounts."

Of the 82 cases reported, he said, 56 percent of the victims were female and the rest were male.

The ages of the male victims ranged from 7 to 16, with a mean age of 12.5, he said. Among female victims, the ages ranged from 3 to 17, with a mean age of 13.75.

Pope said the survey results will be published next year.

The survey is the latest attempt by the mental health profession to examine itself and to purge its ranks of therapists who take advantage of their position to have sexual relations with patients.

A report published in the July issue of American Psychologist said studies have shown "therapist-patient sexual intimacy to be a major problem for all major mental health professions" despite the threat of multimillion-dollar malpractice suits, censure by the profession and, in some states, new laws that make such practices a felony.

"This practice (sexual intimacy with patients) causes deep and lasting harm both to the clients and to the integrity of the profession," said the report in the association journal. "The scope of the problem is extensive."

In a telephone interview, Pope said studies indicate that an average of one of every 10 male therapists has been involved in at least one incident of intimacy with a patient. He said a 1983 California study showed that of those therapists sexually intimate with patients, 80 percent are involved with more than one patient, indicating a pattern of exploitation.

Among female therapists, he said, the incidence of patient abuse is far less — about 1 percent to 3 percent.

It is not known how common such sexual exploitation is in other professions, said Pope, because no other professional group has made such an effort to study and correct the problem. But he said the APA has expanded its study to include the campuses and clinics where students are trained to become mental health workers and found that sexual abuse apparently is even more common there than in the patient-client arena.

He said anonymous surveys show 13 percent of psychology professors or clinical supervisors questioned admit to sexual intimacies with psychology students. Most of the victims are female, he said. One study showed that 25 percent of the women who have received doctorate of psychology degrees in the last six years admit to sleeping with their professors.

Pope said therapy patients are particularly vulnerable to sexual advances because during the course of treatment they often come to believe they are in love with their therapists.

He said sex with patients "is always prohibited, it is always unethical and there is no instance in which this is appropriate therapy. It is always the responsibility of the therapist to assure that there is no sexual act."

Pope added that "the clients are always the victims. It cannot be a mutually consenting activity."

Pope said the psychology profession is "doing a terrible job" in policing itself.

"The field needs to do a better job in selection, in training, in identification of therapists who are impaired or who are sexually exploitive," he said. "If the field doesn't do that, then the licensing boards and the courts need to step in."

Racing delays cost state

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's tax take from pari-mutuel horse and dog racing won't be coming in as quickly as first expected because of delays in getting racing started.

"If you don't run, you don't make money," said Tony Proffitt, spokesman for Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock earlier had forecast that the state would take in $3.59 million from legalized race track gambling in the 1988 budget year, which ends Aug. 31, and $22 million in the 1989 budget year.

But in a letter to Racing Commission Chairman Hilary Doran, Bullock said Monday that he was being forced to push back his estimates by a year. His new forecast now projects $3.25 million in 1989 and $20.3 million in 1990.

"The original estimate no longer holds any water because the projections that they were going to be up and running by '88 didn't come true," Proffitt said.

Voters last November approved a referendum legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog racing in Texas for the first time in 50 years.

However, the Racing Commission that was formed in January has yet to hire an executive director, issue rules to govern racing and wagering, or license any tracks to conduct pari-mutuel racing.

"The time it's taken to get the full racing commission appointed and for the commission to develop its policies and rules means that none of the $3.5 million the state had expected to go into the treasury during the current 1988 business year has been realized, with just one month left before the state closes the books on 1988," Bullock wrote.

"This means we're pushing back our projections of revenue by a year. The state can expect racing to generate about the same amount of money in each of the years to come, but the time we've lost getting started has pushed that money another year into the future," Bullock said.

Gott, M.D.

Odd symptoms after eating

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About two hours after eating, I get strange symptoms. I feel very cold, lightheaded, weak, faint and very hungry. I get disoriented and irritable. I also have indigestion, a throbbing headache and stiffness in my neck. All of my tests are negative. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: Your symptoms sound as though you have hypoglycemia. Although this ailment has been overdiagnosed in many people, it is real and does affect some patients. In most cases of bona fide hypoglycemia, carbohydrate-rich food triggers an over-release of insulin that can abnormally depress blood sugar two to four hours after a meal.

Since "all" of your tests are normal, I assume that your doctor checked you for hypoglycemia. However, in the event that he or she didn't, you should have a blood glucose determination — and a serum insulin level — checked at the time you are having your most intense symptoms. This will rule in — or out — the diagnosis.

Other metabolic and emotional problems could cause your symptoms. For example, certain forms of liver disease can produce weakness, faintness and hunger; depression may masquerade as hypoglycemia. Perhaps you have an allergy to certain foods or food additives. If your doctor has truly tested you thoroughly, ask for a referral to a diagnostic clinic at a teaching hospital. With sophisticated equipment and a yearning to diagnose unusual cases, specialists in such a center may be able to provide an answer to your problem.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For nearly two years, my children and I have been suffering from the following symptoms: swollen and burning tongue with heavy white coating, recurring headaches, stomachaches and nausea. Several doctors have been mystified. I finally had our water tested and it was found to be "bacteriologically unsafe: 5 coliforms per 100 ml." Where do we go from here?

DEAR READER: I can't be certain that your symptoms are due to your drinking water. However, one fact seems clear: The water is contaminated. Coliform bacteria are normal inhabitants of intestinal tracts in both humans and animals. Although coliforms rarely cause disease themselves, they do act as markers. Coliforms in water means that human or animal waste is getting into the water supply. Of course, other contaminants — such as disease-producing microorganisms or hydrocarbons — may also be present in the water. Therefore, you should have a sample checked for solvents, pesticides and toxic waste, as well as for other bacteria.

If you receive your water from a municipal supply, the authorities have a problem with their filtration mechanism or chlorination. You should notify them of your findings so they can take corrective action.

In my experience, living in a rural area, coliforms in the water usually means that the well has been contaminated by septic leakage or animal waste that enters the ground water — for example, if you live near a field where cows graze and have a shallow or dug well, the excrement could be entering your drinking water. In addition to having a full analysis performed on your water, you should involve a plumber or sanitarian in your problem. Your leaching field (and your neighbors') needs to be checked out.

Once the source of contamination has been identified and corrected, you can sterilize your well by emptying a gallon of household bleach into it; run the water for a couple of days before drinking it and have another coliform count performed in about a month.

U. S. seeking explanation of West Bank declaration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is sticking to its formula for Arab-Israeli peace talks despite a decision by King Hussein of Jordan to cut his ties to the West Bank.

The U.S. plan calls for a mixed delegation of Jordanians and Palestinians to negotiate with Israel. Even before Hussein's statement Sunday abandoning the West Bank to the Palestine Liberation Organization, the United States had made little progress in trying to promote negotiations.

Assistant Secretary of State Richard W. Murphy, who was heading toward the Middle East, already was scheduled for talks in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria. Now he has the added job of seeking an explanation from Hussein and to determine if prospects for peace talks are even dimmer.

In the meantime, the State Department asserted Monday there would be no immediate change in the U.S. approach to resolving the 40-year Arab-Israeli dispute.

"Our position on how to begin peace negotiations is unchanged, and we remain actively engaged," spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley said.

Hussein's declaration Sunday severed Jordan's "legislative and administrative links" to the Israeli-held West Bank that was ruled by Jordan between 1948 and 1967. Israel has controlled the territory and the Gaza Strip since winning a six-day war against an Egyptian-Jordanian-Syrian alliance in 1967. The population is predominantly Palestinian Arab.

The king's announcement apparently did not take U.S. officials by surprise.

"We had intimations," said one official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "We did not have a text, but we had an idea in general."

Hussein made the speech after a series of moves in which Jordan seemed to be separating itself from the West Bank even though most of the Palestinians hold Jordanian citizenship and U.S. policy in the Mideast for 21 years has been based on the idea that the king wanted to recover the territory.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who made four trips to the region this year, pushed for an Israeli withdrawal while also informing Jordan that a total retreat was "not in the cards."

Murphy is due to fly to the Middle East after winding up talks today in Geneva, Switzerland, with Vladimir Polyakov, the senior Mideast expert in the Soviet Union's foreign ministry.

Department officials said last week that Murphy would like to talk to "responsible Palestinians" while he is in the Middle East, but that U.S. policy still prohibited any discussion with the PLO, whose covenant calls for the destruction of Israel as a Jewish state.

Hussein's detachment from the West Bank could be a blow to U.S. hopes to set up Arab-Israeli peace talks. The king long has supported publicly the unanimous decision of Arab governments that the PLO was the only legitimate representative of Palestinians. Still, the Reagan administration and its predecessors had tried to engage him in peace talks over the West Bank's future.

Shultz ran into a roadblock with both Hussein and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir. Hussein insisted on a commitment in advance that Israel would give up the West Bank and Gaza. Shamir refused. The Israeli leader also opposed a peace conference in which the Soviet Union might have a chance to influence the outcome.

Despite the setbacks, the United States pursued Hussein as a force for moderation. Even after Jordan said last week it would abandon an assistance program for Palestinians on the West Bank, a U.S. official said privately that the move might have been calculated to show the PLO was incapable of taking over.

With Murphy en route to Jordan, the State Department tried to strike a positive stance and keep Hussein engaged.

"We welcome the fact that King Hussein in his speech underscored Jordan's commitment to continue in the peace process," Mrs. Oakley said. "The Jordanian role in a Mideast peace process remains essential. We said repeatedly Palestinians also must participate at every stage of the process and we hope that they will meet this challenge by seeking responsible dialogue with Israel."

Her statement continued: "It's not yet clear what effect Jordan's pronouncements will have on the situation. We will maintain our close contacts with Jordan as well as the other involved parties in advancing the peace process."

Prison uprising ends peacefully

COXSACKIE, N.Y. (AP) — An uprising at a maximum-security prison ended peacefully early today after 14 hours with inmates, who had complained of being harassed by officers, releasing the last four of their five hostage guards.

One guard at the state's Cocksackie Correctional Facility was seriously injured and the others were hospitalized.

Officials wouldn't say if any of the inmates, who seized a housing unit for inmates with disciplinary problems, were hurt.

"The crisis has ended," Gov. Mario Cuomo said. "A potentially explosive confrontation has been defused without loss of life, or the surrender to any demands."

Inmates seized the guards in the housing unit at about 10:30 a.m. Monday during a recreation period, said James Flateau, a spokesman for the state Corrections Department.

The unit housed 32 inmates, but it was not known how many participated in the uprising, said Flateau.

Officials would not release details of the negotiations, which Flateau said were between about five inmates and prison Superintendent John Twomey, who was assisted by a department crisis intervention unit.

They also refused to say what the inmates had demanded.

Earlier, Flateau had said that some of the inmates had complained about verbal harassment by guards. "Verbal harassment was the (complaint) they mentioned most often, food complaints, things like that," Flateau said. But he later said the harassment was not the major point being negotiated.

Outside the prison, which houses 951 inmates, guard Ralph Scott said inmates had been warning for weeks that there might be trouble. In the last two weeks, he said, prisoners' verbal and physical assaults on corrections officers had increased.

"Every so often you hear something might happen, and I had a feeling something was going to happen," Scott said.

At a news conference in Albany, 20 miles south of here, Cuomo said he did not think the generally crowded condition of New York state's prisons contributed to the disorder because "capacity is not a problem" at Cocksackie.

How the takeover occurred was being investigated, Flateau said.

only member to vote "no," indicating that he felt the undesignated funds could have legally been used and the tax reduction should have been greater.

Councilmen Joe Coronado and Jack Greene Jr. had said they were reluctant to use reserves because of the city's possible insurance liability in various situations, debt service and other concerns.

"We have a gem in the safe," Johnson said, arguing that the construction of a Texas Department of Corrections unit near the city should be cause for optimism.

Other action in the meeting included the approval of a final plat submitted by Frances D. Sizemore and Snyder Savings & Loan Association to replat part of Blocks 10 and 11 of the Westside Heights Addition.

An ordinance was passed on second reading to establish fire lanes in the city, as was an ordinance on first reading to rezone the 600 Block of Ave. P from residential to heavy manufacturing to allow I.O. Collins of Big Spring to establish an automobile storage and wrecking yard.

A resolution was adopted to support the so-called Good Roads Amendment on the November ballot, to prevent the state legislature from using federal highway funds for purposes other than highway construction and maintenance.

The council approved an ordinance to update provisions of the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

Street project to be protested

The city had listed the widening as one of its priority projects qualifying for state urban program funding.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Brumley of 3701 Dalton Dr. had requested a place on the agenda to state their reservations about the property encroachment, and other street residents asked questions and expressed concerns informally from the floor.

The group had left, however, when Zeck made his motion. Plans are for the two-lane street to be widened to four lanes to eliminate what city officials have said is a traffic bottleneck.

The state would provide funds for the actual construction, but the city would be responsible for securing right-of-way and any expenses related to this such as adjustments to driveways and sidewalks.

The city would be responsible also for replacing curbing.

An estimated 6 ft. is said needed from the north side of 37th St. and some 4 ft. from the south side. In all, the project would involve a distance of .6 of a-mile.

Informal contacts hoped useful in ending strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producers and scriptwriters have approached each other informally after management's chief negotiator declared a deadlock in bargaining to end a crippling 22-week-old walkout, a union spokeswoman said.

The formal talks collapsed Saturday, but intermediaries made contact to determine if a basis existed to resume negotiations. Writers Guild of America spokeswoman Cheryl Rhoden said Monday.

"We are attempting to get the talks going," Ms. Rhoden said. She said "a variety of resources" were being used to accomplish that, but she declined to identify the go-betweens.

The informal contacts spurred optimism among some at guild headquarters Monday afternoon that a settlement with the Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers might be near, said two sources within the guild.

Federally mediated talks had ended early Saturday after foundering on issues including payments for television reruns. On Sunday, the alliance's chief negotiator and president, Nicholas Counter III, declared the contract talks "hopelessly deadlocked."

The 9,000-member guild blamed the collapse of formal negotiations on the alliance, while producers have charged the guild with making unreasonable demands and refusing to compromise.

The guild's main negotiator, meanwhile, asked dissident guild members to give him until Wednesday to resolve the strike, according to another guild source. The sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

Brian Walton, executive director of the guild on the West Coast, made the request Monday to members who were considering resigning, the source said.

Walton spoke by telephone to the Writers Coalition group, said Ms. Rhoden, who refused to disclose details of the conversation.

The coalition of 21 writers has pushed for a strike settlement under contract terms that the guild has strongly opposed.

The group had threatened to drop out of the strike in the past and was expected to resign from the guild this week. After a four-hour strategy conference Monday, the coalition announced it would continue to honor the walkout that began March 7.

But the dissidents will resign if the strike continues past week's end, said Lionel Chetwynd, a spokesman for the coalition.

Also Monday, officials of the Walt Disney and 20th Century Fox film studios said Monday that their companies will pay any union fines incurred by striking scriptwriters who cross pick lines.

Jeffrey Katzenberg and Barry Diller, the respective heads of Walt Disney Studios and 20th Century Fox, made the offers. Fox spokesman Michael Binkow confirmed Diller's offer. Katzenberg's proposal was reported in today's editions of The New York Times.

Guild fines against strike-breaking writers are set at 110 percent of all compensation received for unauthorized strike work, and violators are subject to lifetime expulsion from the guild, Ms. Rhoden said.

She said that she knew of no movement within union ranks to accept the proposal.

Judge warns man to stay away from buses

HOUSTON (AP) — Patrick Carl Johnson is going to have to stay away from buses for the next 10 years if he wants to stay out of prison, a judge has ordered.

Johnson says he loves buses so much that he has stolen dozens, perhaps nearly 100, since 1986, Houston police say.

Johnson has donned uniforms and managed to convince officials at Trailways, Greyhound, Kerrville and Texas Bus Lines to let him drive buses away from their lots on numerous occasions, sometimes on jaunts that took him hundreds of miles.

Visiting District Judge Randy Stout ended Johnson's bus driving Monday when he banned Johnson from coming anywhere near a bus for the next decade.

"Next time you set your foot on a bus, or go around a bus, you can go to prison for 10 years," the judge warned Johnson in the sternest of terms.

Johnson pleaded guilty to stealing a 1983 Trailways Eagle bus worth $195,000 on June 11. His punishment was a 10-year probation, 30 days in Harris County Jail, 300 hours of community service and $200 restitution for a broken window.

Houston police Sgt. David J. Klinger said that, according to a confession, Johnson's love for buses stems from early childhood. His mother dated a bus driver, and Johnson, then 11, would sit in the bus for hours at a time.

Once Johnson's bus-swiping adventures began in 1986, Klinger said, he must have realized that stealing the huge vehicles was not really that hard.

Wear the right uniform to the right places, say the right things to the people in charge, and you can drive a bus off on a "test drive" without much effort, he told police.

Klinger said Johnson told him he never sped and one occasion his stolen bus broke down after he took a group of his relatives on an outing. Johnson called the same wrecker company that Kerrville Bus Co. uses.

"I didn't want just anybody towing that bus," Klinger quoted Johnson as saying. "They might have torn it up."

Johnson said he was particular about the buses he stole, saying he gave up on Texas Bus Lines because he said they kept poor maintenance records.

But Klinger said there's another explanation. "Texas Bus Lines started using a padlock on their gate about that time, too," Klinger said.

Prosecutor Don Calvert said Johnson was careful about maintenance of the buses and washed and refueled them before they were returned or abandoned.
