

Shultz says Soviets have new airstrips

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz brought his Latin American tour to Brazil after accusing the Soviet Union of building airstrips in Nicaragua that threaten the United States.

Shultz arrived in the Brazilian capital Thursday night after a half-day visit to Uruguay, where he portrayed the leftist government in Nicaragua as a "cancer" in Central America.

"Nicaragua is a threat to the United States, not for what it might do, but because of the power of the Soviets who are building airstrips there which could pose a problem," he told a news conference in Montevideo, the Uruguayan capital.

"There exists a cancer which we have to cut out and we are going to do everything possible to stop its growth," the secretary added.

Shultz did not elaborate on the airstrips. The Reagan administration repeatedly has ripped the pro-Soviet government in Nicaragua and accused the Soviets of building airstrips there.

Hundreds of students and workers from leftist and union organizations marched in downtown Montevideo near the Foreign Ministry to protest Shultz's visit. No incidents were reported.

Nicaragua is again expected to be on the agenda during talks in Brazil, where Shultz planned to meet today with Foreign Minister Roberto de Abreu Sodre and President Jose Sarney.

Much of his visit is to focus on trade policy, a touchy topic here.

Last month, the Washington announced its intention to impose sanctions on $200 million worth of Brazilian exports because this country refuses to recognize patents on U.S. drugs.

The Brazil stop is the fourth on Shultz' nine-nation Latin American tour.

Shultz began in Guatemala on Monday, where he failed to obtain a clear condemnation of Nicaragua and its Sandinista government.

Millions may view AJRA-TV

What single event originating from Snyder, Tx. has the capability of being viewed by almost 53 million people?

It's an easy question to answer—the AJRA National Finals Rodeo during its final night of competition in the Scurry County Coliseum on Saturday, Aug. 13.

The big numbers come with the sale of the telecast to nationwide sports networks with the FNN-SCORE National Cable Network contributing some 22 million viewers alone.

In addition, five television stations, from as far away as Florida, Ohio and Arizona, will carry the broadcast live on Saturday.

Now scheduled to program the telecast live are KGCT in Tulsa, Okla.; KOKH in Oklahoma City; KDTU in Tucson, Ariz.; TV-17 in Tallahassee, Fla.; TV-54 in Bucyrus, Ohio; and, closer to home, KJTV in Lubbock.

The national telecast will actually produce two nights of filming, both Friday and Saturday.

Footage from Friday, to include the crowning of this year's Miss AJRA, will be interspersed with Saturday's live broadcast.

Producing and directing the broadcast will be Zoli Vajda of Palmer Lake, Colo. This will be the third year he will film the AJRA finals.

During the telecast, Bob Tallman will serve as commentator, and he will be joined by Pam Menick of Roanoke, a former Miss Rodeo American, and Dave Appleton, who competed on the college rodeo circuit while attending Western Texas College.

Appleton, originally from Australia, is now leading the PRCA "All Around" for 1988.

Each sports network scheduling the show will repeat it at least four times during the first month after the original broadcast.

The networks include FNN-SCORE National Cable Network, with its than 22 million viewers; Home Team Sports, covering Washington, D.C., and the Mid-Atlantic states; Sportsvision of Chicago; World Television Network and Madison Square Garden from New York City; NESN from Boston; Arizona Sports Network; Home Sports Entertainment of Texas; Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana; ACTS, a religious net-

Q. — I've heard a rumor that Snyder teachers may be facing a cut in pay next year. Is this true?

A. — No. Superintendent Dalton Moseley said such a move has never even been discussed, although teacher pay will be frozen again for the coming year.

In Brief

Quits 3 clubs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Lloyd Bentsen, saying he wants to do the appropriate thing, is resigning from three exclusive clubs, a spokesman for the Texas senator says.

Bentsen told his executive assistant Wednesday morning to write the letters of resignation from the River Oaks Country Club in Houston, the Ramada Club in Houston and the Middleburg Tennis Club in Middleburg, Va., press aide Jack DeVore said.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, faced with news of continuing rapid growth in employment.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 3.73 to 2,122.87 in the first half hour of trading.

Losers outnumbered gainers by nearly 5 to 2 in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 263 up, 637 down and 483 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 16.88 billion shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Fake gavel

HOUSTON (AP) — An attempt to restore order in a courtroom backfired when a fake gavel filled with 12-year-old bourbon broke, giving a court reporter a judicial shower of whiskey.

Bell County Court-at-law Judge Wayne Bachus, who was presiding as a visiting judge, didn't realize that the gavel was a fake and actually a secret booze container when he pounded the gavel for order Thursday.

The blow broke off the bottom and showered the front of the room with flying whiskey and shards of glass.

Al Leal, the regular judge who uses the courtroom, keeps the gag gavel on his bench as a novelty and no one had thought to warn the visiting jurist.

Unemployed percentage drops here

June and the second month of summer saw Scurry County's unemployment estimate slip from May's year-long high of 6.7 percent.

For June, the estimate was 6.4 percent as the number of persons employed rose with summertime jobs. The list of those working increased by 266 persons, from 8,644 in May to 8,910 in June.

The percentage drop was attributed also to a slight decline in the number of persons seeking jobs. This figure went from 618 to 606.

The combination of persons with jobs and those actively seeking employment through the Texas Employment Commission comprise the civilian labor force estimate for the county, which now stands at 9,516. In May, this figure was 9,262.

The county's unemployment estimate has generally stayed in the 6 percent range all year. Only during the month of April did it drop to 5.7 percent. For the year, however, the number of persons said employed here has shown a small but steady increase.

The year started with 8,414 persons employed and 8,910 are now counted.

In addition to Scurry County, figures were released for four other adjacent counties served through the Sweetwater TEC office. These include:

—Nolan County: 8.5 percent unemployment with a civilian labor force of 7,851 comprised of 7,180 persons with jobs and 671 seeking employment through TEC.

Museum show totals three exhibits

Visitors to the Scurry County Museum Sunday will see three special exhibits.

A month-long exhibit featuring photographs by J. Merrill Kayser and pottery by Barbara Jones will open with a reception from 1 until 4 p.m. Sunday.

Also on display will be art and crafts on loan from members of the Snyder High School Class of 1946. This exhibit was arranged especially for the class reunion being held this weekend and it will be taken out of the museum after Sunday.

Class members and their families who will be represented in the exhibit include LaVerne Lee, Jess Everett, Joy McGlaun, Britt Fuqua, Dot Camp Stokes, Jean Littlepage Everett, Jack McGlaun, Billie McCormick, Janie McCormick, Harold L. Wade, Jack Terry, Mildred Glenn, Bob Billingsley, Della Mason Herring and Hollie Beth Rosson Beauchamp.

Kayser has titled his exhibit "Yesterday in Scurry County," and will be showing 30 photographs made in recent years.

Mrs. Jones will display about 30 pieces of carved earthenware. Most of her pieces are small, terra cotta in color, and suitable for decorative use. They will be for sale.

HERMAN FOX
...adult probation...

Adult probation gains new officer

Herman Fox is a West Texas native who has returned to his home region from Ruidoso, N.M., to become a Scurry County adult probation officer.

The 45-year-old Paducah native earned a bachelor's degree in physical education and history, with a minor in criminology, from West Texas State University in '65 and coached football, basketball and track at Silverton High School before joining the Texas Youth Commission in 1968.

Fox worked in Fort Worth, Amarillo, Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Paducah and Vernon for the TYC until 1986, 13 years of that time out of Paducah and Vernon.

During this period, Scurry County was one of the counties in which he worked as a parole officer for juvenile offenders.

He taught and coached three sports in Ruidoso for two years before accepting the local probation office opening that was created with the resignation of Lisa Ball.

"That's what made it so easy for me to come here," he said. "I already knew everybody."

Fox's favorite hobbies are hunting and fishing, the availability of which in Scurry County, he said, also made the move attractive.

His wife, Patsy Ann, is a nursing home administrator in Loraine.

They have two children, Jennifer, 20, who is a cosmetologist in Ruidoso, and Jeff, 21, who is a junior at Angelo State University.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Don't worry about being over the hill—it is better than being under it."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: Former SDN Editor Wacil McNair, writing for the Gilmer Mirror, had this to say about changes in the political process when delegates to the national conventions actually had a role in naming the vice presidential running mate.

McNair also noted some unusual situations that occurred over the years. "For example, in the 1824 general election, Andrew Jackson out-pollled John Quincy Adams in both popular and electoral vote. Yet Congress named Adams as president.

"The issue was thrown into the House of Representatives because a third candidate, Henry Clay, got enough votes to keep Jackson from getting a majority. Then, despite the fact that Jackson led by a fair margin, Congress gave it to Adams.

"Another oddity that year was that all three candidates technically were running on the same ticket—Democrat-Republican.

"In 1888, there was an election in which the candidate with the most popular votes was not elected. Grover Cleveland got 5.5 million votes while Benjamin Harrison trailed with 5.4 million. However, Harrison had the most electoral votes, 233 to 168, and was named president.

"Four years later, Cleveland came back and won the popular and electoral vote over Harrison. There was a tie in the electoral vote between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr in 1800, and Congress gave the nod to Jefferson.

"The closest electoral vote of this century was in 1916 when Woodrow Wilson defeated Charles E. Hughes, 277 to 254.

"Mathematically, it is still possible for a candidate to win the president's chair without a majority of the popular vote, but it has not happened in the last 100 years and appears unlikely to happen in the political climate of today."

O. G. Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, says politics is a like being on the ponies.

Nieman has a friend who bought a horse to run in Ruidoso last week. The friend told Nieman, "He went off at 25 to 1. The trouble is the other horses went off at 12 to 30."

Dear Abby

Woman's Trip to Altar Has A Painful 22-Year Detour

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: For the last 22 years, "X" and I have been living together as man and wife. Please don't go into shock, but we have four sons. They are 19, 16, 13 and 11 years old. Absolutely no one knows that "X" and I are not married.

This has bothered me for 22 years, but every time I bring it up, I get more excuses than you can imagine. He won't get married in the state we live in because his friends and family might see it in the newspaper. We can't go out of state for so many reasons you wouldn't believe. We've had our share of ups and downs just like married couples — the only difference between us and them is that they are married and we're not. We are living in a state that does not recognize common-law marriages.

I've thought so many times of leaving him, but I couldn't support the three younger boys alone. (I'm on disability.) He has told me many times that he will not support them by himself. I left him once and had to come back because I couldn't support them myself.

The longer this goes on, the more upset I get. I just don't know what to do anymore. Nothing jars this man. Talking to him is like talking to a brick wall. I hope you (or your readers) have a suggestion for me. I can't sign my name, so sign this ...

LIVING IN SIN IN ARKANSAS

I understand there aren't any set rules on this subject, but I would like to have your opinion. Was I ...

RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR RIGHT: I think you were wrong. Since usually only family and very close friends attend a christening, it would have given the occasion a festive air to have opened the baby's gifts. Guests enjoy seeing what others have brought and showing what they have selected.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns your letter about common-law marriages.

I worked for the Allotment Division of the U.S. Air Force when it moved to Denver from St. Louis, and the clerks had specified criteria upon which to evaluate a claimed common-law marriage.

"Living together for a specified number of years" is not enough to constitute a common-law marriage as legal. The couple living together must be known as man and wife by friends, neighbors, associates and by the landlady. They must profess to be husband and wife and receive mail addressed to them as Mr. and Mrs. If their acquaintances, business associates and friends recognize that they are merely "living together," they do not qualify as a married couple.

Further, if a couple establishes a common-law marriage in a state where such is recognized as legal, the marriage is recognized as legal in all the other 49 states.

MARIE PERLMAN, DENVER

DEAR MS. PERLMAN: Thank you for some valuable legal information, particularly since the living-together lifestyle appears to be gaining popularity.

Not all live-in arrangements are a trial for marriage; for some, it's a matter of economics.

"How to Write Letters for All Occasions" provides sample letters of congratulations, invitations, thanks, condolences, regrets, acceptances, resumes and business letters — even how to write a love letter! It shows the proper way to address clergymen, government officials, dignitaries, widows and others. To order, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Abby's Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage and handling are included.

DEAR LIVING: After living with a man for 22 years and bearing four of his children, you are entitled to certain rights. Get in touch with your local Legal Aid office, a women's rights group or your Family Services Association and find out what your rights are. You cannot force a man to marry you, but it will give you peace of mind to know to what you are legally entitled. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question that only you can answer. I recently had a christening for my daughter and was told by my husband's family (specifically my mother-in-law) that the gifts were supposed to be opened. She said everyone opens gifts at a christening.

Well, I didn't think it was appropriate since it wasn't a shower for me, it was for my daughter. Anyway, I didn't open the gifts and my mother-in-law was very angry. As she left, she was still commenting on how wrong I was.

Military AIDS-virus infection is at 1/5 general population

ATLANTA (AP) — The screening of high-risk groups like hemophiliacs and homosexuals has kept AIDS-virus infection in the military at about one-fifth of the general population, according to the largest study yet of a specific group of Americans.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that 2,232 out of 1,752,191 military personnel on active duty on April 24 had tested positive for signs of exposure to the virus that causes AIDS — a rate of 1.3 per 1,000.

Federal health officials have estimated that 1.5 million Americans are infected with the AIDS virus; that would be a rate roughly five times the rate among active-duty military personnel.

The study is the largest testing program yet conducted in a specific group of Americans. The Defense Department began screening active-duty personnel for the virus in January 1986.

The active-duty personnel AIDS infection rate, the CDC said, "probably underrepresents the ... prevalence in the civilian population for three reasons."

First, homosexual men and injectable drug abusers are, because of rules, less common among military personnel than in the general population; second, persons with hemophilia are not eligible for military service; and finally, military recruits who test positive for AIDS infections are not enlisted.

AIDS, transmitted by blood and bodily fluids, is spread most often through sex or shared drug needles. Hemophilia patients are at risk because of the blood-derived clotting products they must take, although purification techniques have greatly lessened that concern.

Even though infection rates are different between military personnel and the general public, the military data "can be used for monitoring levels and trends of ... infection in the United States," the Atlanta-based CDC said in its weekly report.

For example, the agency noted, blacks in the military were 3.6 times as likely as whites to be infected with the AIDS virus, and Hispanics were 2.5 times as likely.

Black personnel tested positive at a rate of 2.9 per 1,000, compared with two per 1,000 for Hispanics and 0.8 per 1,000 for whites.

Although blacks and Hispanics constituted 51 percent of those testing positive, those groups represented only 23 percent of the active-duty population.

Jury awards Dallas deputy $120,750 for unfair acts

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County deputy sheriff has been awarded $120,750 in damages by a jury because he was treated unfairly when passed over for promotion to sergeant two years ago.

The jury ruled Thursday that although black deputy Adolphus Smith recorded the highest written score on his sergeant's test, he fell victim to an unfair promotion system in the sheriff's department.

Jurors also ruled the sheriff's department has had a practice of promoting white deputies faster than blacks and has a disproportionately low number of blacks in supervisory positions.

"We're tired of this, the good old boy system," said jury member Sam Dunlap. "That's the reason the punitive damages were so high."

The damages included $75,000 in punitive damages against the county, the $13,500 in back pay he would have received had he been promoted in May 1986, $13,500 in compensatory damages and $18,750 in attorney's fees.

"Some people wanted to give him more, and I was one of them," Dunlap said.

Victor Lander, a lawyer who represented Smith, said he will ask State District Judge Jesse Oliver to enter Smith's request for the title of sergeant in his judgment in the case.

College tuition goes up

NEW YORK (AP) — College tuitions will rise an average of 7 percent this fall, and students at the most expensive private schools can now expect their four-year education to cost upwards of $80,000, the College Board said today.

Average "fixed charges" at private, four-year institutions — tuition, fees, room and board — will hit $11,330 for 1988-89, up 9 percent from last fall, the board estimated in its annual survey of college costs.

Adding another $1,600, which the board estimates the average student spends on incidentals like books, supplies and transportation, the total budget for resident four-year private school students will reach nearly $13,000.

"We are, of course, not at all surprised by these increases," said Bruce Carnes, deputy undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Education and an outspoken critic of rising tuitions. "We have stated that so far as we can see the price of college is going to go up at this rate forever."

Average fixed charges at four-year public schools will go up a more modest 5 percent to $4,445 for in-state students — or just over $6,000 including incidental expenses.

At two-year private schools, tuition, fees, room and board will average $7,627, up 7 percent. Average tuition and fees at public two-year institutions are increasing 4 percent to $767. The board said the sample of such schools charging room and board was too small to compile an average.

Students at tiny, selective Bennington College in Bennington, Vt., can expect costs to reach approximately $20,590, counting estimated incidental expenses. Sarah Lawrence College is second most expensive at an estimated $20,360, followed by Brandeis University, $20,186, and Barnard College, $20,150.

Other schools where student expenses will hover near the $20,000-a-year mark include Tufts University, University of Chicago, Harvard and Radcliffe, Dartmouth College, Boston University and New York University.

"Students and their families should not be discouraged by these increases," said College Board president Donald Stewart. About 5 million students will share more than $24 billion in public and private financial aid next year, he said.

My friend Peter Nagy has helped in my effort to win the Barry Crane Top 500, a contest in which tournament players try to win the most master-points in a calendar year. When we won a team-of-four at a Chicago regional in late February, Peter had several hands similar to today's, which was played in a match in March at the North American Championships.

Nagy was South. When his partner took out the double of three hearts to four clubs and later cue-bid hearts, Peter thought there would be a good play for slam. But it was still touch and go. Eventually Peter decided to play for three heart ruffs in dummy, using the diamond suit for transportation, and then get rid of his last heart either by ruffing in dummy or by throwing it on the fourth diamond. So he ruffed the 10 of hearts, played a diamond back to his ace and ruffed another heart. Now a diamond back to his king was ruffed by West, who returned the queen of clubs. Peter had to hope that that was West's last club. He won the ace of clubs, cashed the jack of diamonds (smiling to himself when West could not ruff), ruffed a heart and shed his last heart on dummy's queen of diamonds. Playing ace of spades and ruffing a spade back to his hand let him draw East's last trump, and he had 12 tricks.

I think I'll do fine in the Top 500 race this year, particularly if I can play with Peter Nagy instead of against him.

Pardon is offered to fugitive

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — James Lewis Manuel, who reportedly led an exemplary life in Texas after escaping 34 years ago from a southwest Virginia prison camp, has been offered a conditional pardon by Gov. Gerald L. Baliles.

Manuel, who turned 57 this week, is known as Jimmie Lonnie Manuel in Houston, where he has lived since about a year after escaping from Tazewell County Correctional Unit 31 on Nov. 15, 1953. At the time, he had 10 months and 18 days remaining on a two-year term for a burglary conviction.

Baliles has offered the pardon "in light of Manuel's exemplary life" and because of "the complete absence of further unlawful activity" since his escape, the governor's press secretary, Chris Bridge, said Thursday.

Mrs. Bridge said authorities reviewed Manuel's background and took statements from his family, friends and business associates.

The governor's pardon is conditional on Manuel not being convicted of any criminal laws for 10 months and 18 days after the agreement is signed, she said.

"He is relieved this great burden is off of him," said Manuel's attorney, Jim Rose of Houston.

Rose said Manuel "never told another living soul" about his escape because he did not want his family to be burdened. "He lived with this every day for almost 35 years."

Hertz admits overcharging

NEW YORK (AP) — Hertz Corp. was fined a record $6.85 million for overcharging insurers and thousands of consumers for repairs on rental cars, in a scandal that the company blamed on low-level managers placed in the driver's seat.

A federal judge slapped the auto rental giant with the fine Thursday and ordered restitution that brings Hertz' total bill to more than $20 million, after the company pleaded guilty to bilking customers and insurance companies with fraudulently inflated repair charges.

Hertz overbilled more than $13 million between Jan. 1, 1978, and the summer of 1985, when it learned that a federal grand jury was investigating the company, Andrew J. Maloney, the U.S. attorney in Brooklyn, told a news conference.

Those who paid Hertz for auto-body damage during the period may be eligible for a refund ranging from a few dollars to several thousand dollars, according to assistant U.S. Attorney Jonny J. Frank, who led the investigation.

Maloney said the $6.85 million fine was believed to be the largest ever imposed in a consumer fraud case.

U.S. District Judge Eugene Nickerson imposed the penalty during a proceeding in which the company pleaded guilty to mail fraud and agreed to make restitution.

Nickerson said that within the next 15 days Hertz must deposit $13.7 million into a fund to be disbursed to individuals and insurance companies that were overcharged. Hertz will have to pay even more if the fund is insufficient, the judge said.

"Today's action by the United States attorney's office is deeply disturbing to me and everyone at Hertz," Frank Olson, chairman of the company, said. "We regret that improper practices took place and are fully committed to making full refunds of all overcharges."

John Martin, a lawyer for Hertz, said low-level managers in the company were responsible for the overbilling and top executives were unaware of the practices. Everyone responsible for the problem has been fired, he said.

The investigation began when a woman fired on another matter from a Hertz office in Massachusetts reported the billing practices to the Insurance Crime Prevention Institute, an organization funded by the insurance industry.

Maloney and other officials declined to identify her.

In a related state case, New York Attorney General Robert Abrams said Hertz had agreed to make an additional $2 million in restitution to some 10,000 customers who paid for repairs between June 1, 1985, and May 31, 1986.

The company consented to the order in an agreement with New York and 40 other states.

In that case, the company admitted no wrongdoing but agreed to make the refunds. Abrams said that during the period, Hertz charged "prevailing retail prices for repairs" when the actual repair cost was about 22 percent less.

Frank said that after Hertz learned in 1985 that it was the subject of a federal grand jury probe, it altered the fine print in its rental contract to show it was charging more for repairs than it was paying.

This ended the company's criminal activity, but left it open to the state civil action, Frank said.

In the federal case, Hertz admitted using phony damage claims, altered documents and inflated repair bills to charge higher prices than it paid to repair automobiles damaged in accidents.

Maloney said it was not criminal for an automobile rental company to earn a profit on repairs, but said Hertz acted illegally by failing to inform customers and by submitting fraudulent documents.

Hertz said it now bills only for its actual cost of repairs and has discontinued the other illegal practices.

Hertz in the next few days will begin running ads in major newspapers telling consumers how to file a claim for a refund. The company also was ordered to notify individually the consumers it cheated, when possible.

Jurors hear muffled tape of U.S. agent's interrogation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An exhausted U.S. drug agent pleaded "don't hit me anymore" to his captors as he disclosed confidential government information in a futile effort to save his life, according to tapes played by prosecutors.

The muffled recordings, played Thursday in the trial of three Mexican nationals, captured the cries and moans of the late Enrique Camarena as he weakly disclosed the information in a monotone voice.

At one point, Camarena said, "With the beating you have given me ... do you think that I am going to lie to you?" The Drug Enforcement Administration agent also asked to have his ribs bandaged, but the request was ignored.

Camarena was abducted in Guadalajara Feb. 7, 1985. His body and that of his pilot, Alfredo Zavala Avelar, were found buried at a remote ranch in Mexico several weeks later. They were severely beaten and Camarena's skull was shattered.

Three Mexican men are on trial for the crimes, which the government claims were orchestrated by Mexican drug kingpin Rafael Caro Quintero, 33, who is imprisoned in Mexico where he and two others are being tried for the crimes.

In the tapes, Camarena's interrogators focused on the identity of DEA informants in Mexico. Camarena named two and told where they lived. He also gave directions to the home of another DEA agent in Mexico.

Camarena groans and cries out in pain throughout the recordings, which run nearly two hours. The prosecution says Camarena's actual torture was not recorded on the tapes.

"Don't hit me anymore," Camarena declares several times. "No," the interrogator replies calmly. "No one will hit you."

But later in the tape, Camarena is heard moaning in pain. In testimony after the tapes were played, DEA agent Dale Stinson identified the voices of Camarena's interrogators as Caro and Sergio Espinosa Verdin, a former Mexican federal police commander.

Rene Verdugo Urquidez, 36, and Raul Lopez Alvarez, 28, are charged with the murders of Camarena and Zavala. Jesus Felix Gutierrez, 38, is charged with helping Caro flee Mexico after Camarena's killing.

Only one defendant, Verdugo, was mentioned in passing on the tapes, which prosecutors say were made at an estate in Guadalajara. Mexican police seized the tapes at a defendant's home in Puerta Vallarta, the government said.

The recordings were played in a darkened courtroom with jurors watching a transcript of the words projected on a huge movie screen.

Management of hemorrhoids

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Many people suffer from hemorrhoids, but very few talk about it. Please answer some questions. Can they be left untreated? Can they become malignant? Do any over-the-counter medicines help? Are they the sole source of rectal discharge?

DEAR READER: I've found that people are all too willing to talk about their hemorrhoids. In fact, a lot of TV advertising time is devoted to this common disorder. However, here goes:

The lining of the lower rectum and anus is amply supplied with blood, which drains back into the body through a system of veins. These veins are usually unobtrusive; they carry out their business without making much of a fuss. At times, due to irritation or injury — such as constipation or diarrhea — these hemorrhoidal veins become inflamed and sore. They stretch and dilate, swelling to several sizes beyond normal. At this point, we become aware that something is not right. The hemorrhoid — now a purplish, squishy lump — causes discomfort.

As the vein enlarges, however, other changes take place. Bloodflow within it is slowed and clotting takes place; this is a thrombosed hemorrhoid. If the swollen vein leaks blood that appears externally, it is a bleeding hemorrhoid. In some cases, when the dilated/thrombosed vein is inside the rectum, it can be pushed by the stool through the anus, and appear on the outside: a prolapsed hemorrhoid.

Unless the hemorrhoids are bleeding, they are not treated, except for comfort. Hemorrhage from a hemorrhoid can be a serious problem, requiring surgical intervention. However, for the most part, hemorrhoids are uncomfortable nuisances that will shrink with time. Once the acute phase is over, the hemorrhoid tends to shrivel, becoming a small protruberance of pink tissue: a hemorrhoidal tag.

Medical treatment — in the form of suppositories and creams — is designed to alleviate discomfort (pain and itching), facilitate bowel movements and reduce inflammation so that the hemorrhoid can be allowed to shrink normally. Sitz baths (sitting in about five inches of hot water several times a day) often will provide relief of symptoms.

Diarrhea and constipation may need to be treated as separate issues. Further injury to the hemorrhoid — such as might result from sitting on cold, hard surfaces — should be avoided.

Several types of surgery are used to treat problem hemorrhoids that are chronic or large. The distended veins can be injected (to aid shrinkage), removed, ligated (tied off to encourage shrinkage) or treated with lasers (to destroy them).

Hemorrhoids never become malignant. They are simply swollen, irritated, normal veins, not tumors. They are not the sole source of rectal discharge, which can be caused by any other irritation in the lower intestinal tract.

In summary, hemorrhoids are swollen veins that will usually shrink by themselves, with the help of medical treatment to promote comfort. Problem hemorrhoids or those that bleed may require surgery.

"Diverticular Disease" is a common problem, and Dr. Gott's new Health Report tells how it can be treated and managed. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Ex-businessman pleads guilty

AUSTIN (AP) — A state district judge sentenced an Austin businessman to 10 years in prison after the man pleaded guilty to criminal charges over fraudulent practices.

Jerry Pettiet, former president of Realty Based Investments Inc., had been accused of bilking thousands of dollars from oil, gas and real estate investors. On Thursday, he pleaded guilty to one count of securities fraud and one count of dealing in unregistered securities.

State District Judge Mace Thurman sentenced Pettiet to two concurrent 10-year sentences.

As a condition of his parole, Pettiet was also ordered to pay about $141,000 restitution.

State department puzzled by actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American investment in King Hussein — in peace dreams and hard weapons — is so great the State Department cannot imagine going ahead without the Jordanian as it seeks peace in the Middle East.

Despite the steps he has taken over the past week to sever ties to the West Bank, the department rests its faint hopes for negotiations on the assumption Hussein will play a role in any settlement.

The king's declaration Sunday abandoning any claim to the Israeli-held territory to the Palestine Liberation Organization has not prompted a change in U.S. policy or in Secretary of State George P. Shultz's formula for peace talks.

AP analysis

There is no place in the U.S. plan for a PLO seat at the negotiating table, nor for a separate Palestinian delegation. The State Department still would like "responsible Palestinians" to join a delegation with Jordan and to meet with Assistant Secretary of State Richard W. Murphy during his current trip to the Middle East.

But any meetings by Shultz, Murphy or other American diplomats with the PLO remain prohibited until and unless Yasser Arafat's organization accepts Israel's right to exist and renounces terrorism.

Vernon Walters, the U.S. permanent representative to the United Nations, said Thursday there should be "some sort of a Palestinian delegation" at the peace table.

But State Department officials hastened to explain that Walters was not signaling a change from the idea of a mixed delegation promoted by Shultz. "Our positions remain as they were before," spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley said.

When Murphy reaches Jordan during his current regional tour, he will seek clarification of the king's declaration severing administrative and legal links to the West Bank, his abandonment of a special fund to assist Palestinian Arabs and Jordan's announcement Thursday that 21,000 Palestinian civil servants would be dismissed or retired.

In the meantime, though, a State Department official who keeps a close eye on the twists and turns in the Middle East said, "We don't have any indication the Jordanians are going to be breaking their ties to the West Bank. Absolutely not."

The territory was controlled by Jordan from 1948 to 1967. Ever since Israel captured the West Bank and Gaza in the 1967 Six-Day war, U.S. policy has been based on the assumption Jordan wanted to run the West Bank again.

As Hussein began to make his West Bank moves last week, State Department officials suggested privately the king was deliberately putting the PLO on the spot after a series of disappointments.

In effect, the king out of frustration may be inviting the PLO to see if it can work out a better deal for the Palestinians than the one he has sought in the face of PLO opposition. Failure then could mean a call on Hussein by the Arabs to step in.

Unity in community sought

DALLAS (AP) — A candlelight vigil for the fourth Dallas police officer slain this year prompted calls for community unity, police support and neighborhood crime watch programs in a city now known for its violence.

Hundreds of Dallas residents and police officers linked arms, lit candles and sang "Let There Be Peace" Thursday at Dallas City Hall to remember Cpl. Walter Leon Williams.

Williams, 47, was shot to death when he answered a disturbance call at an apartment complex on the city's west side Monday night. His death pushed Dallas to lead the nation as the most violent city, in terms of police officers killed, outranking both New York with three, and Los Angeles with one.

"Any time you assault or abridge the authority of police officers, or God forbid, kill an officer, you're taking away a part of the community," said newly appointed Police Chief Mack Vines. "A police officer is a part of the community, not apart from the community."

Deputy Chief Marlin Price of the Southwest substation where Williams was assigned told the crowd Williams was a footsoldier in a battle against Dallas crime.

"We are in a war," Price said. "This was one small battle in that war and Walter Williams was a casualty."

But Assistant Chief J.E. Driscoll downplayed claims that the city is torn by racial tension and police-community conflict. "We have an immense amount of community support," he said. "I don't think the tension is anything that a few people (on the city council) think it is. It's a big city and we have a mixture of society here."

"It's an emotional problem, more than anything," Driscoll said. "We need to work together to work through these things."

Ministers from three area churches and representatives from two police support organizations urged those attending the vigil to work with officers to rid the streets of crime.

"I'm challenging you tonight to take our city and get involved," said the Rev. Arris Wheaton of I Am That I Am Communications. "Get involved in crime watch programs. The sins of omission are just as treacherous as sins of commission."

"Unless we all become citizen police and police our entire city and not leave it up to our men in blue, we'll be attending more of these assemblies," Wheaton said. "Let's come together Dallas and help one another and tell these criminals we are no longer going to assemble here under these conditions again."

Charles Maltese, a former New York policeman whose Dallas police officer son was killed seven years ago, agreed.

"We don't want the reputation in this city of being the most violent city in the United States," Maltese said. "We want unity ...

It's your turn to fight for this city. Don't just stand there and bite your nails. Tell your city councilmen you're not going to stand for it."

Earlier in the day, police released the results of ballistics tests and witness interviews they said showed conclusively that Joseph Charles Howard Jr. was the man who fatally shot Williams. Howard was shot at least 10 times by Williams' fellow officers and died a short time later.

Through statements from witnesses and officers at the scene of the fatal shootings, it also was determined that the 33-year-old Howard charged at a police car and fired one or more shots at officers after Williams was killed, said Capt. John Holt, who is heading the investigation into Williams' death.

Police said Howard had been interviewed by officers during two earlier disturbance calls at the apartment complex in the six hours prior to the shootings.

Holt said a forensics expert from the Dallas County medical examiner's office has no doubt that bullet fragments retrieved from Williams' head were fired from a gun found in Howard's possession.

Civilian jobless rate jumps to 5.4 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate edged up 0.1 percentage point to 5.4 percent in July as the number of jobless-Americans climbed 170,000, most of them teen-agers, the government said today.

The Labor Department's monthly survey of households nationwide showed only 41,000 more people at work last month, in contrast to an employment gain of 823,000 in June, when out-of-school teen-agers flooded the job market.

The unemployment rate for most segments of the population was unchanged last month. Teen-age joblessness, however, rose 1.6 percentage points to 15.2 percent.

Teen-agers accounted for 144,000 of the 170,000 rise in unemployment.

A separate survey of business payrolls showed a much healthier labor market, with the creation of 285,000 jobs in July — 150,000 of them in retail trade and manufacturing.

Factory employment climbed by 70,000 to 19.6 million.

Opposition calls for new election

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The three opposition candidates whose dramatic election-night stand galvanized public opinion against vote fraud stood side-by-side to call for new elections unless their demands are met.

Cuauhtemoc Cardenas, Manuel J. Clouthier and Rosario Ibarra de Piedra Thursday renewed their charges of widespread, systematic fraud by the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI.

They demanded that the government clear up the charges and they vowed — as they did during their appearance on election night July 6 at the Interior Ministry — to reject the results of a crooked election.

Cardenas said the last chance to set things right will be when the Chamber of Deputies, sitting as the electoral college, meets Aug. 15-31 to review the results and formally declare a winner.

"The electoral process isn't over," he and the other two candidates said in a statement at a news conference that was their first joint appearance since election night.

Cardenas and Clouthier, candidate of the rightist National Action Party, both announced plans for demonstrations the night before the electoral college meets.

The two have been crisscrossing Mexico since the election, mobilizing public opposition to vote fraud.

Cardenas, the charismatic candidate of a leftist coalition and son of one of Mexico's most revered presidents, says the government stole the election from him. Mrs. Ibarra, a human rights activist who ran on the ticket of the tiny Revolutionary Workers' Party, agrees.

Clouthier says there was so much cheating it is impossible to tell who won — but the combined opposition clearly outpolled the ruling party's candidate: Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

"From all the evidence, the Mexican people voted for change, rejected the political system of the ruling party and gave a majority to the candidates of the opposition," the three said.

The PRI-dominated Federal Election Commission says Salinas won with 50.36 percent of the vote, Cardenas got 31.12 percent, Clouthier 17.07 and the remaining 2.51 percent went to Ibarra and the candidate of a small, conservative party.

If the authorities "aren't willing to resolve the irregularities and cannot establish the results with clarity, they must annul the elections and call new ones," the three candidates said Thursday.

De la Madrid pledges...

No more economic surprises

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid says that his last four months in office won't be remembered for a moratorium on foreign debt payments or any other economic surprises.

"We will avoid spectacular measures ... that upset society and imply negative compromises for the next government," he said Thursday.

De la Madrid, in this northern industrial city to inaugurate the Fourth National Banking Conference, inherited a national economic crisis when he took office in December 1982.

His predecessor, Jose Lopez Portillo, had devalued the peso and nationalized the banking system in the last year of his administration as Mexico fell into an economic disaster.

It's so common for presidents to take drastic economic measures in the final years of their six-year term that the fearful period has come to be dubbed "the year of Hidalgo" in local slang.

But de la Madrid promised no surprises before his successor, Carlos Salinas de Gortari, takes office on Dec. 1. Salinas was de la Madrid's budget secretary until

San Elizario bathes in its own sewage

SAN ELIZARIO, Texas (AP) — All but two of 100 wells tested in this "colonia" yielded water so contaminated by sewage that it was rendered unusable, according to a study.

"The statement that people are bathing in their own sewage is not" overstating the situation, said Antonio Parra, public relations director for San Elizario Independent School District.

The district, UT-El Paso and Private Industry Council are studying water in 200 wells in San Elizario and released results Wednesday on the first 100 wells tested. The study found that the water was unfit in 98 of the wells his nomination last fall. "We will continue firm and serious negotiations in order to continue improving the servicing of the foreign debt," de la Madrid tested in the rural subdivision near the Rio Grande. "People should not use the water at all," said Dr. Howard Applegate, professor emeritus of civil engineering at UT-El Paso. "Many people who do not drink the water, however, use it for cooking and bathing. Water in the Lower Valley should not be used for cooking, washing or bathing."

Experts have estimated about 26,000 people live without treated, running water in San Elizario and other colonias, or poverty-stricken subdivisions along the Rio Grande in east El Paso County. Many colonia residents use septic tanks that are too close to shallow wells.

said. "But we will continue to avoid demagogic acts or irresponsible declarations in favor of a unilateral moratorium, which I can understand as a tactical argument from opposition parties, not from responsible people," the president said.

Treasury Secretary Gustavo Petricoli, who also spoke in opening ceremonies, said Mexico's economic panorama during the past five years "couldn't have been more adverse."

The foreign debt grew to more than $100 billion, inflation was "at the point of going out of control," petroleum prices plummeted, production had stopped in some economic sectors and Mexico was spending more than it was bringing in, he said.

But, he said, "Without trying to magnify achievements, it can be affirmed that Mexico has overcome the most complex problems."

Biaggi convicted in Wedtech case

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Mario Biaggi was convicted of racketeering in a far-reaching bribery and extortion scheme used to transform a tiny South Bronx machine shop into the multimillion-dollar defense contractor known as Wedtech.

After Biaggi's conviction by a federal jury Thursday, the leadership of the House of Representatives set Sept. 7 as the date for considering a recommendation from its Ethics Committee that it expel the 10-term Democrat.

"The overwhelming likelihood is that the recommendation will be followed," Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., said in Washington.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani called on Congress to expel Biaggi, who was convicted last year on an unrelated corruption charge.

Earlier this year, the Ethics Committee recommended Biaggi be expelled for the earlier conviction. But the committee held off sending the resolution to the House floor until after the Wedtech trial so Biaggi could defend himself in person.

After five days of deliberations, the jury found Biaggi and four co-defendants guilty of turning now-defunct Wedtech Corp. into an enterprise that paid millions in bribes to public officials.

Biaggi, a city policeman from 1942 to 1965 and at one time the most decorated police officer in the country, was also convicted of extortion and bribe-taking.

"We're obviously disappointed, and we're going to appeal," Biaggi, 70, said outside the courtroom.

It was the second legal blow of the week for Biaggi, whose 1987 conviction was upheld Monday by a federal appeals court.

U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley scheduled sentencing for Nov. 18. All six of the convicted defendants remained free on bail.

Biaggi's eldest son, Richard, 39, of Fort Lee, N.J., was acquitted of racketeering charges but convicted of bribe taking, mail fraud and tax charges.

Also convicted of racketeering and other charges were former Bronx Borough President

Stanley Simon, 58; Wedtech founder John Mariotta, 58, of Scarsdale; former Small Business Administration regional head Peter Neglia, 40, of Armonk; and Biaggi's former law partner, Bernard Ehrlich, 59, of Bedford.

A seventh defendant, former city police officer Ronald Betso, 40, of Brooklyn, was acquitted on all counts.

Biaggi was convicted of all but one of the 16 counts against him, including conspiracy, extortion, tax evasion and receiving bribes.

He faces up to 20 years in prison on the racketeering counts, the most serious charges. He has been sentenced to 30 months in prison for the 1987 conviction in Brooklyn for obstructing justice and taking an illegal gratuity.

Prosecutors also sought forfeiture of millions of dollars in ill-gotten gains by the five convicted of racketeering. In addition, Biaggi, Mariotta and Ehrlich face fines of more than $7 million each.

Tiger win keeps Senior's hopes alive

EASTLAND — Willie Garcia hit a grand slam home run in the top of the first inning and the Snyder Tigers topped Crockett 21-9 to stay in the running in the Senior Teenage League state tournament Thursday night.

They were scheduled to play San Angelo at noon Friday and, if they won, to take on the winner of an afternoon game between Eastland and Cameron Friday night.

Coach Albert Lewis said Thursday morning that Crockett had good pitching, "but they were throwing high and hard and we were hitting those high pitches."

He also expressed admiration for the way Crockett came back in the contest, scoring five runs in the second inning to stay in the game.

Israel Hinojos, who went 3 for 5, hit the first pitch of the game for a double.

Garcia also was 3 for 5, Bart Morton was 2 for 5 with a double and four runs batted in, and Bert Otto was 3 for 3.

Randy Morris was 4 for 5, Tracy Odom 3 for 3, Bert Merritt 2 for 5 and Tommy Lane 1 for 3.

Otto opened the game on the mound and pitched into the second inning before Lane came on to last into the sixth and notch the win.

Dixie out, Midwest wins League series

Lubbock Midwest won the best-of-three Little League playoff series here Thursday with a 13-8 victory over the Dixie Little League All-Stars.

The two teams had one win each going into Thursday's final confrontation.

Lubbock now heads for the Little League state tournament in Waco.

Midwest started off fast with three homeruns in the bottom of the 1st inning for four runs, turned in by three of the first four batters. Knocking it over the fence were Chad Reed, Cody McDonald and Doug Niehaus.

Dixie came back to tie the game, but Lubbock pulled ahead again in the 3rd with an eight-run inning. Dixie managed three runs in the 4th, but never seriously challenged the Lubbock team again.

Scramble set for Aug. 13

A four-man scramble, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, will be held Aug. 13 at the Western Texas College course.

The 18-hole tournament will feature A-B-C-D players on each team. Prizes will be awarded to the top four places in addition to a longest drive and closest to the pin competition.

There will be a shotgun start at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Entry fee is $100 per team.

To sign up for the tournament, call Joe Lopez at 573-3277 or Domingo Quintela at 573-1208.

Leonard 'in' for 3rd time

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I do what I feel," Sugar Ray Leonard says.

Once again, he feels like fighting, and once again he'll fight for a lot of money.

The 32-year-old Leonard signed a contract Thursday for his third comeback fight since 1984. This time it will be against Donnie Lalonde for the World Boxing Council light-heavyweight championship held by the Canadian and also for the vacant WBC super middleweight title.

The super middleweight division has a 168-pound limit, seven pounds less than the light-heavyweight limit.

"This fight is kind of a continuation of my lifestyle," Leonard said during a news conference. "I told you guys some time ago I was going to try to retire. I tried. It didn't work."

Leonard's last retirement came after he upset Marvelous Marvin Hagler on a 12-round split decision April 6, 1987, and won his third title — the WBC middleweight championship.

"I'm going to say officially now I will never retire again," a grinning Leonard said.

EXAMINATION — Snyder High School senior Trey Wilson missed last football season with a knee injury and was undergoing a physical by Dr. Carl Dillaha to qualify to play this year, as were all SHS athletes Thursday afternoon at the school. (SDN Staff Photo)

Banks with NFL 'outs'

By The Associated Press
If Lawrence Taylor makes $1 million a year as a linebacker for the New York Giants, can Carl Banks be very far behind?

Banks doesn't think he should be — the Giants are apt to disagree.

Banks, the Giants' All-Pro linebacker, continued his contract holdout today as NFL teams geared up for a full exhibition schedule this weekend.

And he wasn't the only one on the outs with his team, even at this late date.

Among the others still holding out for bigger contracts are Banks' teammates, All-Pro tight end Mark Bavaro and Pro Bowl punter Sean Landeta. Other unsigned notables are wide receiver Mark Duper of the Miami Dolphins, cornerbacks Tim McKyer and Don Griffin of the San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Mike Merriweather of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Banks squabble revolves around the salary of Taylor, the Giants' other All-Pro linebacker, who will make $1 million this year.

"He is financially prepared to sit out the season," said Dr. Charles Tucker, Banks' agent.

Tucker said Banks also wants for $1 million a year. And he said Banks would rather be traded if the Giants don't meet his asking price.

Apparently Duper also would leave his team for a better contract. Dan Bakst, Duper's agent, said he wants the Dolphins to release his client unless they meet his demands for a four-year, $3.1-million deal.

"We've asked them to let him go somewhere else," Bakst said. "They said they have too much money invested in him and they can't do that."

Bakst said Dolphins owner Joe Robbie offered $2.55 million to Duper, just slightly more than the initial offer three months ago.

Tough teen Oilers still in contention at state tournament

PALESTINE — A 7-1 win Friday morning over Monahans propelled the Snyder Oilers into the state finals matchup Friday night with Belton.

To win state, however, they will have to beat Belton twice in the double elimination tournament. A victory at the 6 p.m. game will mean a second game under the lights Friday.

The Oilers, playing in the Junior Teenage League State Tournament here, had to battle long and hard Thursday to get there, however.

They played a three-game schedule Thursday, the last one against Monahans called due to inclement weather when Snyder appeared headed for their third win of the day.

They got to start that game as it finished Friday at 9 a.m., however, and Snyder led all the way.

The Oilers were ahead Thursday when lightning forced the game's cancellation. They led 4-0 at the bottom of the 2nd inning with the Oilers at bat with two runners on base.

When the game resumed Friday, the Oilers picked up 3 more runs to lead 7-0 at the end of two innings.

Monahans' only run was in the fifth inning.

The winning pitcher was Daniel Espinosa, pitching four innings while giving up only one hit, to include eight strikeouts. He was relieved in the top of the 5th by Mark King.

Credited with hits from the morning game were Jamey Morton, one single and one RBI; Mark King, one single; and John Wright, one double and two RBIs.

Thursday, the Oilers had victories over Freeport 8-4 and Copperas Cove 6-3.

The Oilers, directed by manager Jack Morton and coaches Mike Morris and John Hernandez, have been in Palestine since Tuesday.

Their tournament record going into Friday was 1 loss and 3 wins.

also defeating Gainesville on Wednesday.

Thursday's series of victories began with the 8-4 win over Freeport. That game began at 12:30 p.m. and the winning pitcher was Daniel Espinosa.

Jamey Morton came in as relief in the 4th inning to save the game.

He also contributed two singles and scored two runs. Other hits were credited to Gilbert Hernandez, with one single and one run scored; John Wright, two singles, one double, two runs scored and RBIs; Les Rinehart, one single and two runs scored; Daniel Espinosa, one single, one triple, one run and two RBIs; Jason Rios, one double; and Tory Garza, one single.

The 6-3 victory over Copperas Cove began at 6 p.m. with the winning pitcher, Gilbert Hernandez. He relieved Chad Fox in the second inning.

A key factor in the victory was the pitching by Hernandez, who never faced more than five batters in one inning.

Good base running by Jamey Morton on a single by Mark King scored Morton in the 3rd for the first score of the game.

In the 7th inning, Mark King scored on two errors by Copperas Cove.

Other hits were contributed by Mark King, who tagged a single and contributed one RBI; Daniel Espinosa, one single; Jason Rios, one single, one double and one RBI; Chad Fox, one single; and Richard Morris, one double.

Dukakis, Bush are continuing their campaigns

By The Associated Press

Michael Dukakis is laying out his positions on environmental issues during a tour of the West, just as a poll indicated that region represents an untapped resource for Democrats. George Bush invoked the names of Kennedy and Truman to show Dukakis has veered "far outside the mainstream" on foreign policy.

As Bush tried to portray the Democratic presidential nominee as occupying the liberal extreme, his own Republican party's right wing was telling the vice president to avoid "establishment blue bloods" when choosing a running mate.

The warning from the Coalition for a Winning Ticket came as Gov. George Deukmejian of California took himself out of consideration.

In another campaign matter, Bush chief of staff Craig Fuller confirmed Thursday that Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III would leave his post and become campaign chief before the Aug. 15 start of the Republican convention in New Orleans.

"We don't have to make the false choice, the fool's choice, between economic growth or environmental quality," Dukakis told students at the University of California at Los Angeles. "We can have both, and in fact we must have both."

Dukakis' West Coast foray followed a trip into Mississippi, a traditionally Democratic state that helped send President Reagan and Richard Nixon to the White House. Dukakis lost the state to Jesse Jackson in this year's Democratic primary.

Dukakis spoke at the Neshoba County fair near where the bodies of three slain civil rights workers were found 24 years ago Thursday. Reagan campaigned at the fair in 1968 for his first term.

Dukakis failed to mention the killings when addressing the almost entirely white crowd, and referred only once to civil rights. "I talked about economic opportunity because that's the most important single thing that concerns people," he explained.

Bush, speaking to a Hispanic veterans group in Corpus Christi, Texas, criticized Dukakis for his support for a nuclear freeze and opposition to a new MX missile, the Midgetman missile and the Reagan administration's proposed Star Wars nuclear defense system.

"His positions ... amount to a rejection of America's role as a world leader and a repudiation of the Truman doctrine and the vision of John Kennedy," Bush said, referring to bipartisan foreign policy that evolved after World War II and focused on containing communism.

Dukakis, when asked whether he still supports a nuclear freeze, said, "Sure, and a comprehensive test ban treaty."

Later aboard his plane, Dukakis said he originally supported a freeze "because we wanted to stop the administration from expanding the arsenal."

"Now, it's turned around and we're talking about reduction. I'm for reductions now," he said. "I favor the development of certain arms systems. I favor deep cuts in strategic weapons systems."

Deukmejian said he took himself out of consideration because Democrats would gain control of the Statehouse in California if he dropped out.

Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., who heads the conservative coalition urging Bush to choose someone from the right, said Thursday:

"The problem of the Bush campaign is that it is attracted to establishment blue-bloods. What the Bush ticket needs is a transfusion of red corpuscles from the conservative wing of our party."

He said Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and Gov. John Sununu of New Hampshire would be acceptable.

$3.9 million drought proposal approved by farm lawmakers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress are expected to act next week on a $3.9 billion drought aid compromise calling for a three-month dairy price-support increase but limiting feed assistance for livestock producers.

"The bill we have completed seeks to ensure the future for our farmers and ranchers," Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., said Thursday night after a conference committee agreed to the measure.

House Agriculture Committee Chairman E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said floor action would come Thursday at the latest but that he would try for accelerated handling and final approval Monday or Tuesday.

Fast action also was expected in the Senate. Farm lawmakers in both houses were forecasting overwhelming approval for the election-year measure.

At the core of the measure is a feature that would pay farmers with 65 percent of lost earnings beyond 35 percent of the expected harvest.

Larger payments would be available for farmers very severely hurt by the fierce heat and shortage of rainfall plaguing the nation's heartland.

The bill would furnish such producers with 90 percent of losses over 75 percent of their expected harvest. It represented a compromise between the 95 percent level the House approved and the 85 percent passed by the Senate.

Conferees fenced verbally without agreeing on much in sessions Thursday morning and early afternoon. Leahy and de la Garza finally went behind closed doors with top Republican members of the conference committee.

They emerged Thursday night with a compromise that was swiftly agreed to by other members of the conference committee.

The compromise jettisoned a Senate-passed provision that would provide government feed assistance to farmers who would not ordinarily be producing their own feed even if not for the drought. Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng said Wednesday he would be reluctant to recommend the feature to Reagan because the price tag was $2 billion.

Instead, the conferees opted for a House-passed provision that would provide assistance to livestock producers who also produce their own feed. The price tag would be $800 million by administration estimate.

Livestock feed has become a key to the drought issue. Heat and a lack of rain have scorched a substantial quantity of hay and feed grains in the midcontinent, causing feed prices to shoot up.

Retained by the compromise was the one major dispute that the conferees had resolved earlier: a House provision that would raise the dairy price-support level in April through June next year by 50 cents to $11.10 for each 100 pounds of milk.

Leahy voted "aye" to the dairy plan while all of the other Senate conferees remained silent. The Senate chairman's home state is a major source of the East Coast's milk supply.

"The Senate recedes to the House by one weak aye," de la Garza chortled.

President Reagan was expected to sign the bill. Its $3.9 billion price tag represents a steep cut from levels at which administration budget officials said lawmakers would start to flirt with nasty fiscal repercussions.

Feds take gloves off in Wall Street criminal crackdown

NEW YORK (AP) — A grand jury delivered the first-ever racketeering indictment against securities traders, including a former trader for Drexel Burnham Lambert, the firm at the center of Wall Street's insider trading scandal.

The 35-count indictment returned Thursday by a federal grand jury signaled a toughened attitude by authorities, marking one of the biggest outgrowths of the massive insider trading investigation that snared speculator Ivan Boesky in 1986.

The indictment charged a multimillion-dollar racketeering, conspiracy and mail and wire fraud scheme, naming five top partners and employees of Princeton-Newport Partners, headquartered in Princeton, N.J., and Newport Beach, Calif. It also named Bruce L. Newberg, a former trader in the high-yield bond department of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.

The indictment charges there was a scheme involving the bogus sale of securities between Princeton-Newport and Drexel to create more than $13 million in phony tax losses and avoid regulatory disclosure requirements. The indictment also alleged stock manipulation from July 1, 1984, to the present.

Drexel Burnham, which was not named as a defendant, has been the focus of intense government scrutiny stemming from the insider trading investigation. U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani declined to say whether any other Drexel officials or the firm itself would be indicted. There has been persistent speculation that Drexel soon would be charged with securities law violations. The firm has denied any wrongdoing.

"Obviously, today's indictment of Bruce Newberg, a former employee of the firm, is deeply disturbing," said Drexel spokesman Steven Anreder. He declined to comment further.

The indictment was the first to charge brokerage officials under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, which originally was intended to fight organized crime and drug trafficking, attorneys said.

It carries severe penalties, including up to 20 years in prison and immediate seizure of assets. Attorneys for the six defendants denied wrongdoing, and characterized the indictment as a pressure tactic to blackmail their clients into cooperating with the much-larger insider trading investigation.

"This harmless activity has been twisted into a RICO charge solely as a device to bludgeon these reputable people into testifying against others," said Paul Grand, an attorney for one of the defendants.

"We're pawns in a much larger game," said Robert Schwartz, another defense attorney. "When the elephants fight, it's the ants that get slaughtered."

Princeton-Newport issued a statement defending the accused, and emphasized that the firm itself was not charged. It said the use of the racketeering statute against the defendants "is inappropriate and unprecedented."

Giuliani declined to comment on those allegations, but said indictment "stands on its own."

"This is a multimillion-dollar crime," Giuliani told a news conference. "It happened not once, not twice. It was a classic pattern of criminal activity."

The indictment also alleged Princeton-Newport conducted fraudulent trading activity through Merrill Lynch & Co., but Merrill cooperated fully with the investigation and was not accused of wrongdoing.

Named as defendants were James S. Regan, 46, a managing partner of Princeton-Newport; Jack Z. Rabinowitz, 41, general partner; Charles M. Zarzecki, 40, partner and chief trader; Paul Berkman, 41, partner and trader in Princeton-Newport Arbitrage Partners, a subsidiary of Princeton-Newport; Steven B. Smotrich, 33, comptroller of Princeton-Newport; and Newberg, 31, securities trader in Drexel's high-yield bond department until early this year.

Each was charged with one count of conspiracy, one count of racketeering and one count of securities conspiracy. The five Princeton-Newport defendants also were charged with 32 counts of mail and wire fraud. Newberg additionally was charged with 26 counts of mail and wire fraud.

All will be arraigned next Thursday in U.S. District Court.

U. S., Soviets preparing for monitoring experiment

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (AP) — U.S. and Soviet scientists checked elaborate detection equipment atop a picturesque mesa as the countdown continued for a historic joint nuclear weapons test Aug. 17.

"I never thought I would see the day the Soviets were involved with us here," test director Joe Behne said as he and other officials stood at ground zero Thursday.

Officials talked to reporters while standing on a platform atop a 2,200-foot shaft containing a nuclear device nearly 12 times as powerful as the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima.

U.S. Ambassador C. Paul Robinson, who helped work out the agreement with the Soviet Union, called the test unprecedented and a breakthrough in negotiations on the sticky issue of nuclear testing by the two superpowers.

Robinson called this test, and a similar shot in the Soviet Union next month, a major step in the new policy of "trust but verify."

The Joint Verification Experiments at the 1,350-square-mile Nevada Test Site this month and the Soviet site in Semipalatinsk next month are designed to measure each country's ability to monitor the size of the other's tests.

The verification could lead to ratification of treaties limiting the size of nuclear tests, which were signed in 1974 and 1976 but never ratified.

The two countries had accused each other of cheating on the size of their tests. The United States has denied exceeding the 150-kiloton limit set by the treaties.

work in Fort Worth with 6.3 million viewers; and The Sunshine Sports Network of Florida.

"All of these networks transmit to satellite, which represents a substantial addition in the home that will receive the AJRA via satellite," an organizer said.

TV stations have signed up to syndicate the show, often to show it periodically throughout the year until about a month before the next rodeo, in Phoenix, Oklahoma City, San Antonio, Tulsa, Decatur, Ill., Cheyenne, Wyo., Tallahassee, Fla., Tucson and Scottsbluff, Ariz., Sterling, Colo., Flagstaff and Kingman, Ariz., Bend, Ore., Bucyrus, Ohio, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Abilene, Lubbock, Alexandria, La., Ada, Okla., Sioux City, Iowa, and numerous other cities.

Tuesday marks the official startup of the 13th consecutive AJRA National Finals Rodeo to be staged in the coliseum.

Rodeo action is promised nightly at 8 p.m. through Saturday.

The rodeo, which traditionally draws hundreds of rodeo fans, spectators and young rodeo contestants to Snyder, is again sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Board of County Development.

Tickets and box seats may be purchased through the chamber by calling 573-3558. Box seats are $6 and general admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children.

Ruling expected later this month

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A ruling is expected later this month on a defense motion that alleges a judge was wrong when he ruled that three Sabine County lawyers will not face double jeopardy if they are tried on murder charges stemming from the Christmas night jail beating death of a black Louisiana truck driver.

The motion was filed Thursday and threatens to further delay the murder trial of the three lawyers.

Defense attorney Jeff Haas filed an amended brief Thursday asking the 12th Court of Appeals to decide whether State District Judge Joe Tunnell was correct last month when he ruled the lawyers will not face double jeopardy since they had been tried on charges accusing them of violating the civil rights of the prisoner.

Former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner and Sabine County deputies Billy Ray Horton and James "Bo" Hyden were acquitted July 15 of violating the civil rights of Loyal Garner Jr., 34, of Florien, La., who died in a Tyler hospital Dec. 27 from injuries he suffered while in the Sabine County Jail after he was arrested for suspected drunken driving.

The three men had also been indicted for Garner's murder. The first of the three separate trials on those charges was scheduled to begin Monday. Defense attorneys contend a murder trial would be double jeopardy — subjecting the men to two trials for the same crime, which is prohibited by the U.S. Constitution.

The state was given until Aug. 11 to answer the amended defense brief. The appeals court judges indicated they would not make a decision regarding the double-jeopardy issue until sometime after the state brief is received.

Both sides have promised to take the judges' decision to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals if they lose. Haas told the Tyler Morning Telegraph that the issue "has the potential to go to the Supreme Court."

The trials probably would be

District Attorney Frank Henderson said.

"The court of appeals has stayed the murder trial pending their disposition of this appeal," Henderson said. "No new date has been set." But with both sides promising to appeal whatever decision is made, Henderson said it is likely that there will be several weeks' delay until the trial date is set.

Defense attorneys alleged Thursday the district attorney's office was pressing ahead with the murder case for publicity's sake, a charge Assistant District Attorney Christian Bryan termed "so ridiculous that it doesn't even require a response."

District Attorney Jack Skeen said after the hearing that the "indictments are based on the facts, and that is my only comment."

Paul Buchanan, who represents Hyden, called the defendants "officers with good reputations" who had to "prove their innocence" in Hemphill and, if tried, must do so again in Tyler.

"They find themselves on the front pages of newspapers and on television throughout the state and the nation, and then the district attorney in Smith County, with a tenuous venue factor at best, sees this trial as a chance to get publicity and has them indicted here," Buchanan said.

Defense attorney John Seale, who represents Ladner, said the case against the three "was not one thing in Hemphill and another at Tyler... Hitting Loyal Garner Jr. with a slapstick was the issue in both cases."

"The contention by the state is that the officers knew that the conditions under which Mr. Garner was struck was unlawful. Any rational jury would know that for a law officer to hit someone without justification is unlawful," Seale said.

Much of the prosecution's presentation during the 85-minute hearing focused on the differences between the civil rights charges and the murder indictment.

Dukakis criticized at Hispanic convention

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — George Bush gained ground among Hispanics here at Michael Dukakis' expense, leaders of an influential veterans' and civil rights organization said.

"There's no question that Vice President Bush made some strong points with our people," Dr. Hector P. Garcia, founder of the American GI Forum said Thursday after Bush addressed the group's 40th annual national convention.

Garcia said Dukakis twice gave him the impression he would be there, and leaders of the organization were offended when the Democratic presidential candidate chose not to appear at the convention. The printed convention agenda lists Dukakis as the featured speaker today at a 2 p.m. general assembly.

"It was a severe political faux pas on the part of his staff," said Garcia. "This may lose him (Dukakis) the election."

Garcia, who described himself as a lifelong Democrat, said he remains undecided how he will vote in November.

"It was obviously George Bush's gain and Michael Dukakis' loss," said state Rep. Hugo Berlianga, D-Corpus Christi.

Bush's address Thursday lashed out at Dukakis' defense and foreign policy positions, describing them as dovish and deviating from the Democratic Party mainstream. Bush said Dukakis' positions would amount to an end of the U.S. role as a leader in world affairs.

Garcia said Bush touched on themes that appeal to members of the organization.

"A couple of weeks ago, you heard the phrase, 'Where is George,'" GI Forum National Chairman Mario B. Diaz said, in reference to delegates' chants at last month's Democratic National Convention, criticizing Bush's role in the Reagan administration.

"He's here at the American GI Forum convention," Diaz said while introducing Bush

Officials: only way to stop beggars is to stop giving

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Billboards urging people not to give to panhandlers haven't driven beggars away from the Interstate 10 access road. Neither have mass arrests.

Mayor Jonathan Rogers worries that only the accidental death of a beggar will persuade others to stay away from a 2-mile-long stretch of access road east of downtown.

Some panhandlers, organized and determined, even "rent" children for $1 a day to elicit more sympathy and cash. And some police and Border Patrol officials suspect that some of the beggars belong to an organization that transports them to various intersections, then shares in the day's take.

"It's just a matter of time until someone gets killed," Rogers said Thursday. "We have to hope to God it's not one of these women with the rented kids. The only way people are going to stop giving is when the first death happens. When's that going to happen? This afternoon?"

On the busiest street corners, it's common to see two or three women walking past the stopped cars, rapping on windows and asking for change. Most of the women hold young children who appear to be sedated. Young men wipe windshields with dirty rags and demand payment.

"It's certainly annoying to a lot of the traveling public," said Mike Williams, deputy chief Border Patrol agent. "I know I don't like it when somebody pushes a dirty rag across my windshield or knocks on my car window asking for money."

But simple irritation isn't the only problem, said Williams, who worries that a beggar will be run over and that the children are neglected and abused.

"I've seen babies slumped in a heap under a stop sign in the hot sun," he said.

Most city leaders agree with Rogers that the only way to get rid of the beggars is to eliminate the supply of money that draws them across the border.

An anonymous group recently paid for four billboards that read: "Please don't give to beggars — they cause traffic problems."

City Councilman Ed Eelsey, whose district includes the area where most panhandlers congregate, said Thursday that the beggars do more than tie up traffic. He said he has received hundreds of complaints from intimidated drivers.

Police spokesman J.R. Grijalva said people have complained that beggars "kick cars when they don't get enough money or any money.... They have spit on windshields so you'll have to get it cleaned."

Police cracked down Wednesday, when plainclothes officers arrested 36 people. Twenty-four beggars were turned over to the Border Patrol to be voluntarily returned to Mexico. Grijalva said the raids will continue periodically.

Plainclothes officers were used because whenever uniformed police try to approach the beggars, the panhandlers run away, sometimes onto Interstate 10. Because construction is being done one the interstate, lanes are narrow and traffic is heavy, making running out onto the highway extremely risky.

Williams said the Border Patrol has tried to arrest beggars, but that "our biggest concern is scaring them into traffic lanes."

The beggars probably would continue panhandling even if one died in an accident, Williams said.

"We're a border city," he said. "We've got border city problems."

Those problems include poverty and the ability of lawbreakers to elude authorities by slipping back and forth across the border with ease.

Most officials agreed that those who want to help needy people should give to reputable charities.

"As long as people are giving to (beggars), they're going to be there," Grijalva said. "There's many ways to give to bona fide charities. When you give to these people on the street, you don't know who they are."

City officials seek advice on copyright

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio city officials plan to seek legal advice on an attempt by a New Orleans project to copyright the name "River Walk," the name of one of San Antonio's most famous tourist attractions.

"We think it's a generic term," Assistant City Attorney Kevin Scanlan told the San Antonio Light Thursday. "It's a commonly used term. There are several of them."

City officials plan to meet with members of a local law firm to day to see what action can or should be taken about the application filed with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.

"It's (trademark law) a very specialized area. We have a lot of options. We need to see what we can do," he added. "I think we'll be successful. It's been called the River Walk since 1929."

Gayle Spencer of the Paseo Del Rio Association said she was shocked when she heard of the action taken by the Rouse Co. in the River Walk project in New Orleans.
