HOMECOMING CROWD — There was a one-hour delay in the start of Snyder High's homecoming game Friday, but local fans stayed in their seats and were rewarded with Tiger megaphones at halftime. The homecoming celebration was spoiled, however, by a Littlefield victory of 19-7 after Snyder led at the end of the first half 7-6. The single touchdown was all the scoring the hometeam could muster, and Littlefield took the lead after scoring on the first drive of the second half. Snyder goes to 0-3 while Littlefield is now 3-1. The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's not necessary to use drugs in order to lose touch with reality—just listen to some politicians."

There's a reception at Western Texas College Sunday in honor of retiring social studies professor Dr. Franklin Pruitt.

After 14 years, he is semi-retiring as he has agreed to teach a night class this fall. Pruitt joined the WTC faculty in 1974 after 22 years with the Snyder public schools.

One of Pruitt's daughters, Deborah Boyd, was in his first class at the college and, ironically, Deborah is a student in his night class this fall. Pruitt claims having a family member in his class doesn't present any unusual problems since most other students normally don't even know.

Such was the case that first year. Pruitt was giving a lecture and was soliciting comments. After one question, he called on his daughter.

"That's the dumbest answer I've ever heard," the teacher said. "You must take after your mother."

"No," said Deborah, "I take after my father." That type of dialogue continued throughout the semester. At the end of each term, the college asks that each student perform a written evaluation of the instructor.

One student, still unaware of the father-daughter relationship, wrote, "Dr. Pruitt is a very good instructor. I learned a great deal, but I do feel he was awfully hard on one student's father."

Pruitt, a historian by training, believes in never throwing away anything. His office was testimony of that, and in 14 years the maintenance department had never tried to straighten or paint it.

Several years ago, Pruitt was awakened by the doorbell in the middle of the night. At the front door he found a Snyder police officer who said, "Sir, we think your car has been vandalized."

Pruitt put on his bath robe and followed the patrolman to his car. Inside, papers and books were piled high. It was the same front and back, and the floorboard was covered.

Pruitt carefully looked through items and then concluded, "No, officer, I think everything is here."

Pickup theft prompts two 7-year sentences

Two young Kemp men have been sentenced to seven years in the Texas Department of Corrections after pleading guilty to stealing a Snyder man's pickup truck on Aug. 8.

District Judge Gene Dulaney assessed the sentences against Billy Wayne Haley, 22, and Terry G. Moseley, 20, who were apprehended the day after the theft by New Mexico state police at Las Cruces, N.M.

Haley's five-year probated sentence for a May 22 burglary of a building offense was revoked on the basis of his arrest for a separate June 30 unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charge, with the two sentences to be served concurrently.

In other 132nd District Court guilty pleas, Richard R. Mena, 35, of 2309 O'Neal Ave. pleaded guilty to a Feb. 24 delivery of a controlled substance, heroin, charge and received a 16-year TDC sentence.

Roy G. Jasso, 28, of 306 28th St. pleaded guilty to a June 4 DWI offense and was sentenced to 180 days in the county jail and fined $750.

Selina D. Hodges, 22, of Lubbock pleaded guilty to a June 22 charge of possession of a controlled substance, cocaine, and was sentenced to six years' probation.

Ruth A. Seaton, 25, of Euless entered a guilty plea on a July 8 forgery by making charge and was given a four-year probated term.

Peggy Sanchez, 18, of 1800 Scott Ave. pleaded guilty to an Aug. 28 UUMV charge and received three years' probation.

3 local Girl Scouts visit founder's birthplace

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Three Snyder Girl Scouts recently participated in a Wider Opportunity experience which took them on a 10 day trip through seven states and included a visit to the Juliette Gordon Low Center in Savannah, Ga. which is both the birthplace and home of Mrs. Low who founded the Girl Scout organization in the United States. The Girl Scout Council sponsored this trip for scouts 13 and older.

Participating in the July 31-August 10 trip were Kellie Schlegel, daughter of Zola Schlegel; Shanna Veazey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Veazey; and Danielle Vernon, daughter of Linda Vernon.

All three are members of local Girl Scout Troop 326. Peggy Vernon accompanied the girls as one of the sponsors of the trip. Fourteen scouts and four adults made the journey on two 15-passenger buses. Other scouts were from Hamlin, Abilene and Sweetwater.

Day One

The first phase of the journey took the local scouts to Vicksburg, Miss. where they saw a Civil War military park. "Monuments had been erected for every state which fought in the war," Schlegel said. "We saw a national cemetery for all the soldiers who had died in the Civil War."

The girls also visited Grey Oaks, an historical home remodeled in part to look like Terra in "Gone With the Wind."

Day Two

The second day included a visit to the first White House of the Confederacy which is located in Montgomery, Ala.

Day Three

In Savannah, Ga. they visited Tybby Island and toured a museum and a lighthouse. "There were 178 steps to the top of the lighthouse and we walked every one of them," Vernon said.

The scouts also went on an ecology walk, saw a horseshoe crab and spent the day at the beach.

Day Four

At the Juliette Gordon Low Center the scouts toured the facilities and participated in two activities. One, entitled Fashion, Fabric and Frills, found the girls dressing up in early 1900s clothing including corsets, bustles and hoops.

"While dressed in our hoop skirts we had to sit on the edge of the chair," Schlegel said.

They said the costumes they wore that day had been donated by other Girl Scouts.

For the Victorian Venture they re-enacted one of Juliette Gordon Low's finishing school experiences. Dressed in authentic costumes of the period, they tried their hand at china painting. The plaques they painted were called tiles and all of the scouts sat around a table working; however, they could not talk to the person sitting across from them. In case they needed to borrow something they had to tell the person next to them and the request was then passed around the table.

Schlegel related this tale about the founder of Girl Scouts in America. After she had married an English gentleman she was waiting in line to be received by the queen when she got tired of holding the flowers in her hand and instead placed them on the bustle of the girl in front of her.

The girls also enjoyed tea and learned how to curtsy.

Next on the day's agenda included a trip to Charleston, N. C. where they visited the USS Yorktown which was in dry dock. They spent two nights aboard the Yorktown which saw action during War War II. While there the 67 total Girl Scouts shared the quarters with some 300 Boy Scouts who were also visiting the ship.

Day Five

The fifth day of the journey found the local scouts taking a paddle boat ride to Ft. Sumner which is famous because that is where the first shots of the Civil War were fired.

Later they all went back to the Yorktown. They could also tour all of the other ships in dry dock which they wanted to Vernon said.

She chose the Laffy which is a submarine used for commercial purposes. The scouts also toured the flight deck of the Yorktown and saw World War II airplanes on its deck.

They also visited a fun park in Charleston where they rode paddle boats and later they toured the Yorktown again. They ate breakfast and dinner on the Yorktown and saw a film entitled "The Fighting Lady" which told of the Yorktown's exploits.

Afterward each group visiting the ship had to make a presentation telling the others about their trip. Schlegel made the presentation for the local scouts.

They also met girls from Japan who were there to attend Space Camp. They visited the Space Dome which Schlegel said gave them the feeling of actually being in the shuttle.

Day Seven

While in Memphis, Tenn. they visited Graceland which is the home of Elvis Presley. Concerning the latest publicity surrounding claims that Presley is still alive, Schlegel said they have no doubt that Presley is dead. She also said that Graceland is very commercialized and that you needed a ticket for everything you wanted to see. They would have liked to see the Elvis Presley Museum but that would have meant standing in line for half a day and they said they elected not to do that. "Your reaction to Graceland would de-should get to visit her home because your idea of scouting changes when you visit it," she said.

She has been in scouting nine years and this is her third Wider Opportunity Experience. Others included visiting the National Center West along with Veazey in Tinsley, Wyo. and Our Cabana Cuernavaca in Mexico. National Center West comprises some 14,000 acres of land and is owned by the National Girl Scouts organization. While in Mexico, Schlegel and Veazey took part in community service projects, folk arts, tours to Indian ruins and fiestas. Schlegel earned all but $5 of the cost of her trip this summer through selling Girl Scout cookies.

"I wish more girls would join Girl Scouts," she said. "They don't know what they are missing."

Schlegel is a sophomore. Vernon liked both the Yorktown and the space center best of all. She has been in scouting six years and this is her first Wider Opportunity. She is in the eighth grade and earned the total cost of her trip by selling Girl Scout cookies.

Since Girl Scouts now has a Wider Opportunity to Space Camp, Schlegel said that someday she would like to go.

Teenager takes fall for dad

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A teen-age girl imprisoned after confessing to the slaying of her stepmother was used as a pawn in a scheme by her father to collect $1 million in life insurance, prosecutors allege.

Orange County prosecutors said Friday the girl's father, David Arnold Brown, conspired to coerce his daughter, Cinnamon, into taking the blame for the killing, even getting her to fake a suicide attempt as part of the scheme.

Brown, 36, was arrested Thursday and held without bail, along with his slain wife's younger sister, who allegedly was part of the murder conspiracy.

Cinnamon Brown was 14 when she confessed in March 1985 to shooting Linda Marie Brown, 23, as she slept.

"We were suspicious from the outset and we looked at the life insurance right away," said Detective Fred McLean. "But Cinnamon confessed and there was no way we could prove otherwise."

Brown, owner of a computer service company, allegedly persuaded Miss Brown to confess by telling her she was too young to be kept in prison for the slaying.

Orange County Deputy District Attorney Jeffrey Robinson said Miss Brown, now 18, began cooperating with investigators when she became fed up with her plight while her father lived in luxury with his former sister-in-law, Patricia Ann Bailey, 20.

"His daughter, after sitting in prison for nearly four years, realized that her father had taken advantage of her," Robinson said, adding that she had gone to prison out of "love and loyalty ... and realized she wasn't getting the same from him."

The complaint against Brown alleges 11 overt acts of conspiracy to commit murder, including discussing the killing with Ms. Bailey beforehand and recruiting his daughter by telling her his wife planned to kill him.

Gang rape prosecution rests

SAN DIEGO, Texas (AP) — The defense opened its case by asserting that an alleged gang-rape victim who said as many as 23 men assaulted her actually began the incident as a willing sex partner.

"As we told you before, the issue of this case is consent, consent in respect to this defendant," defense attorney Albert Pena said Friday.

The trial was scheduled to continue Saturday.

Pena was defending 23-year-old Orlando Garza, the first of 10 men to face trial in the gang-rape and kidnapping case.

The lawyer said regardless of what the other men did on the night of March 26-27, "he (Garza) is the only one on trial."

Garza, 23, also faces a separate kidnapping trial in connection with the case, and Pena said he would show that the woman got into a car with him voluntarily the night she said he and others abducted and raped her.

Six men are charged with raping and kidnapping her; three are charged only of raping her; and one is charged only with kidnapping. The rape cases are set for separate trials, while the kidnapping cases will be tried in groups, officials have said.

The prosecution rested its case late Friday after bringing on a 12-year-old boy who said he saw the woman gang-raped at a ranch where an illegal cockfight was being held north of the Duval County town of 5,000.

"She was screaming and crying," the boy said. "She was kicking."

The boy said he saw Garza raping her at the same time another man accused in the case, 24-year-old Roel Torres, forced her to perform oral sex. Later, the boy said other men at the cockfight "were taking turns" sexually assaulting her on top of a car, while shining lights on her.

The woman testified Thursday that Garza was the first to rape her when he stayed alone in the car with her after he and three other men forced her to go with them to the ranch.

Defense attorney Pena, however, said he would produce evidence that she was left alone in the car at the time she said Garza started forcing himself upon her.

Pena on Friday brought to the witness stand Antonia Hinojosa, a former neighbor of the alleged victim, who said she saw the woman voluntarily enter a car that night, and earlier had seen the woman get into a truck with Garza.

Assistant District Attorney Rodolfo Gutierrez asked her why she never told police about seeing the woman that night.

"I didn't want any problems," Mrs. Hinojosa said.

Gutierrez also asked her how she knew it was the alleged victim getting into the car at a dark site 75 yards away from her house.

"The only reason you knew it was (victim) is because Iris told you later it was (victim) that was raped," Gutierrez said, referring to Iris Soliz, wife of 23-year-old Corando Perez Jr.

Perez was indicted for sexual assault and aggravated kidnapping in the case.

Gutierrez also asked her about a long-running feud between her brother and an uncle of the alleged victim's husband, which Mrs. Hinojosa acknowledged.

The defense later brought on Irene Ramirez, a secretary for Corpus Christi psychiatrist Dr. Laurence Taylor. Ms. Ramirez translated from Spanish to English during a June 28 court-ordered competency examination of Jose Carlos Briones, 29, who is accused of sexual assault in the case.

Judges react to dismissal of charges against priest

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Bexar County judges voted to end the sealing of civil lawsuit settlements related to pending criminal charges following the controversial dismissal last week of child molesting charges against a Roman Catholic priest.

County courts-at-law and criminal and civil district court judges cast the vote Friday, stopping a long-running practice of sealing civil lawsuit settlements on the request of parties in the case.

"I don't think we ought to seal anything under any circumstances ... What happens in the courtroom is public property," said Administrative Judge James Barlow, a long-time critic of sealing out-of-court civil settlements.

The action comes at the end of a week filled with controversy and criticism over the dismissal of two felony indictments charging the Rev. Federico Fernandez, former parish priest of St. Clare's Catholic Church, with indecency with a child.

Fernandez was accused of fondling two brothers — ages 10 and 16 — in July 1987. But on Monday, State District Judge Susan Reed refused to approve a plea bargain that would have placed the cleric on a 10-year probation sentence.

Her refusal prompted Assistant District Attorney Juan Chavira to have the charges dismissed. He argued that a psychologist warned the two boys would be traumatized if they had to testify.

Ms. Reed, however, said the sealed settlement of a multimillion dollar lawsuit the family filed against the church may have influenced the victims not to go along with a criminal prosecution.

The judges vote also would restrict the types of cases that could be sealed, the San Antonio Light reported.

The judges who voted to change the sealing policy said they believed some judges were taking advantage of a virtually unlimited power to close court records upon the request of attorneys and to promote the final disposition of cases.

Singlaub blasts Jim Wright

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub, who emerged as a key figure in the Iran-Contra scandal, blamed House Speaker Jim Wright for difficulties in getting humanitarian aid to the Nicaraguan resistance.

Singlaub said Friday he returned two weeks ago from a two-week trip to Contra camps along the Honduran-Nicaraguan border.

"None of the supplies have been delivered inside (Nicaragua)," said Singlaub, who contended Wright is such a hero to Nicaragua's governing inner circle that they call him "Comandante Wright."

Two hospitals treat victims

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Hospitals in McAllen braced for the worst, then were thankful it didn't happen.

Eight people were admitted to two McAllen hospitals and one was in a Mission hospital following the Friday night collision of three buses carrying Edinburg High School band and drill team members to a football game in Rio Grande City.

Trini Navarro, the night supervisor for HCA Rio Grande Regional Hospital, said it was fortunate that the accident in which 45 were injured occurred within a block of both McAllen hospitals so students were able to receive immediate care.

"We really didn't know what we were getting," Ms. Navarro said. "We mobilized a lot of people. We were just lucky because they were very close to the hospital and because it wasn't worse."

One of the bus drivers had to be extricated from the wreckage by emergency crews with a hydraulic rescue tool, according to a witness.

The accident occurred when three buses in an 11-bus caravan going to the game on U.S. Highway 83 entered an area of construction that had stopped traffic on the road.

Joe Rios, a highway patrolman in Hidalgo County, was leading the convoy in a patrol car and said he tried to slow the caravan from 45 mph as it suddenly encountered stalled traffic.

"I had to pull off on the right on the shoulder so I wouldn't hit the car in front of me," said Rios.

State directors plan meeting

TEMPLE—An array of top speakers will highlight the program of the 48th annual state meeting of the Soil and Water Conservation District Directors when they meet Oct. 3-5 in Lubbock.

Approximately 1,200 SWCD directors and other conservation leaders are expected to attend the meeting.

Tae kwon do classes slated

Adults and children over six can study tae kwon do karate in evening classes offered this fall at Western Texas College.

Students can enroll at any class meeting and will pay fees of $30 per month for the first member of the family and $25 for the second member.

Classes meet from 7-8:30 on Mondays and Wednesdays in the WTC Health and Physical Education building with Greg Gafford as instructor. He is assisted by Jim Robbins, a first degree red belt.

Tae kwon do stresses self-defense, self-discipline and self-improvement, Gafford said.

MS self-help group to meet

The Snyder MS self-help group will meet in the doctors' lounge at Cogdell Memorial Hospital from 2 to 3 p.m. on Monday.

Persons with multiple sclerosis and/or their families and friends are urged to attend. Topics will include clinical trials in MS with discussion on planning and input.

MS is a disease of the central nervous system which affects persons aged 15-50. There is still no known cause or cure for this disabling disease.

Call 699-7787 for more information.

Public Apology to Don Jenkins

I am very sorry that I hurt your feelings on the Colorado trip, but you must talk to the shortest man in Snyder. He wears 42 X 18 pants, name Craig Merritt. You must get the truth, he speaks with forked tongue.

P.S. Keep up the good cooking!

As Dallas greets Atlanta...

Young quarterbacks to duel

Late score pushes Jaybirds past Ira

JAYTON - Paul Morales' 24-yard run with 21 seconds remaining in the game held off the Ira Bulldogs and prevented an upset of the state's ninth-ranked six-man football team here Friday.

Morales' run lifted the touted Jayton Jaybirds to a 20-14 win over the fiery Bulldogs.

Ira, now 2-2, will try to get back on track next Friday, Sept. 30, when the Bulldogs entertain rival Borden County at 7:30 p.m. The game will be a part of Ira's homecoming festivities.

Morales had earlier scored on a 26-yard run. Marc Morales had the other Jaybirds' TD as Jayton improved to 3-1 on the season.

Gary Gunset and Justin Spradlin scored a touchdown apiece for Ira.

Jayton had led 8-6 at halftime, but the Bulldogs rallied to tie the game at 14-14 midway through the fourth quarter.

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Chris Miller and Steve Pelluer, two of the NFL's young quarterbacks with star potential, will duel Sunday when the Dallas Cowboys host the Atlanta Falcons at Texas Stadium.

Miller, the Falcons' 1987 No. 1 draft pick out of Oregon, played only three games last season, hitting 42 percent of his passes, throwing one touchdown and nine interceptions.

This season Miller has completed 57 percent of his passes. He's made three touchdown throws and suffered four interceptions.

"The kid shows a lot of poise and leadership," said Atlanta coach Marion Campbell. "He's a very active athlete. He's done a good job for us."

While Miller is having some growing pains so is Pelluer, who is in his fifth season with Dallas but has started only 16 games.

"There's a lot of pressure on Steve," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "It's open season on quarterbacks and head coaches. He's made some mental errors but he has to get over them."

Pelluer has thrown late interceptions in losses to Pittsburgh and the New York Giants, but his offense leads the NFL in protecting the passer, allowing only two quarterback sacks.

The Cowboys have lost to the Falcons in Texas Stadium the last two years. In 1987, Atlanta brought a 2-9 record to Irving and beat the Cowboys 21-10. In 1986, the Falcons earned a 37-35 victory.

Dallas, 1-2, which leads the all-time series 8-3, is a touchdown favorite over the Falcons, 1-2, who shocked the 49ers in San Francisco last week with a 34-17 win.

"Atlanta always seem to play us hard," Landry said. "They have a lot of young, talented players. San Francisco found out about them. I'm sure they'll have a lot of confidence when they play us."

Landry said the Falcons are in good coaching hands.

"Marion is a good solid coach," Landry said. "You can see he is building a lot of confidence into this Atlanta team."

"Things just seem to work for us there," Campbell said. "There is no magic, no secret."

Landry is concerned about stopping Gerald Riggs, who rushed for 115 yards and scored on a 1-yard run against the 49ers.

"Riggs is just tremendous," Landry said. "Running off the I-Formation like he does he is really difficult to stop."

Riggs rushed for 119 yards on 30 carries against the Cowboys last year.

"We've got to do a better job against him," Landry said. "He gives great second effort and you've got to have sharp tackling."

BREAKS TACKLE - Snyder's Lee Fletchers shoves Jerry Duenes aside to pick up good yardage during Friday's non-district game with Littlefield here. Snyder took a 7-0 lead but struggled later and

Pirates loot Cards, 64-42

HERMLEIGH - Hermleigh's Cardinals suffered their fourth loss of the season here Friday night, losing to a tough Paint Creek squad, 64-42.

The game served as the Cardinals' homecoming. Fans cheered as senior candidate Larae Farr was named homecoming queen. Football heroes were Joe Mireles and Bobby Brown.

Spirits were weakened just before halftime, however, when Mario Sanchez suffered an apparent knee injury and was transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Sanchez had only recently recovered from a hamstring injury.

Dan Morgan led the Pirates' assault by scoring five touchdowns and five conversions. Daniel Acosta got in on three touchdowns, two by air and one by land, and Johnny Hoadly added another.

For Hermleigh, Andrew Sanchez scored three touchdowns. Daniel Ramey and Wayne Reynolds tallied one each. Sanchez also ran over four conversions and Ramey kicked four others.

The win put Paint Creek at 2-2 for the season.

Now 0-4, Hermleigh will take a week off before opening District 7-1A play against highly-touted Trent on Oct. 7.

Snyder takes a 19-7 tumble...

Wildcats spoil Tiger homecoming

Littlefield's Wildcats spoiled a homecoming celebration for Snyder here Friday, scoring two second-half touchdowns en route to a 19-7 victory.

Friday's non-district ballgame was delayed for an hour after a Littlefield team bus blew out two tires 30 miles out of town. The holdup didn't dampen the spirits of the fans, who enjoyed a 7-6 Tiger lead and cheered the crowning of homecoming queen Michele Anderson.

The second half belonged to Littlefield, however, which came into Tiger Stadium with a 2-1 record and left at 3-1.

The Wildcats scored on their first possession of the second half, after forcing a Snyder punt and taking over at midfield. Littlefield rode the back of workhorse tailback Terry Davis and the arm of quarterback Gilbert Gonzales in an eight-play, 50-yard scoring march. Davis picked up 27 yards on five carries, including an 8-yard touchdown run with 6:42 left in the quarter. Gonzales, meanwhile, connected on passes of 11 and 14 yards to favorite receiver Stephen Hernandez.

Hernandez, who cradled four catches for 66 yards and had a key interception defensively, also kicked the point-after, giving Littlefield a 13-7 advantage.

Snyder bogged down on its next possession. The Tigers suffered through two delay-of-game penalties and fumbled twice, though was fortunate to fall on both loose footballs.

It appeared Littlefield would have an easy run at another score when on fourth down Jamie Goodman blocked Kevin Dollins' punt and Eddie Robison recovered at the Tiger 10-yard line. Two handoffs to Davis netted nothing, however, and on third down Israel Hinojos stepped in front of a Gonzales pass and returned the ball all the way to the Littlefield 37 before Davis finally hauled him down.

Snyder wasn't able to capitalize either. Lee Fletcher was thrown for a three-yard loss from there, and on second down, Hernandez intercepted Tiger quarterback Tracy Odom.

In a near copy of Hinojos' interception the other way, Hernandez ran to the Snyder 27-yard line before he was forced out of bounds.

Still, Snyder managed to toughen up on defense and turn the Wildcats back. Davis did score on an 11-yard run, but a penalty wiped the play out. Later, the visitors attempted a fake field goal, but Dollins, Bart Morton and Terry Snyder stopped the play at the 11 and Snyder took over possession.

"Defensively, I think we played fairly well, particularly inside. Their ability to connect with the pass hurt us," said Snyder Coach David Baugh.

For the game, Gonzales connected on 8 of 15 passes for 111 yards.

After stopping the Tigers' offense again, Littlefield began a 67-yard scoring march that would seal the victory. Davis did the honors on a 16-yard scamper with 4:12 left in the contest. The Wildcats got a break along the way when Tiger defender Terry Snyder slipped on the turf and Hernandez went past him. Gonzales alertly hit the open receiver for a 29-yard pickup.

A pass attempt on the conversion try fell incomplete, leaving the score at 19-7.

The Tigers, still looking for their first win at 0-3 on the season, will stay at home next Friday to open District 4-4A play against San Angelo Lake View. Baugh would naturally like to see more positive results on the Colts still looking for victory at B.C. Open tourney

by The Associated Press
The Buffalo Bills haven't played that well and are 3-0. The Indianapolis Colts haven't played any better and are 0-3.

If the Colts expect to repeat as AFC East champions, they need to get started soon - like on Sunday against the Miami Dolphins. They know they can't let the Bills, or any other team, get any further ahead in a suddenly strong division.

"We're 0-3 and last in the AFC East, which we won just a year ago," Coach Ron Meyer said. "We've played three playoff teams and we came very close in all three. There is no question we've dug ourselves into quite a hole."

The Colts lost 17-14 to Houston in overtime and 17-13 to Chicago, both at home, then were beaten at Cleveland 23-17 last Monday night.

"But we have 13 more opportunities, and we have to start turning the situation around Sunday against Miami. We're not devastated yet; we still have a chance."

But the Colts will have to break a September swoon that dates back to 1985.

The Bills have built their quick start on defense. Playing without suspended star end and leading sacker Bruce Smith, Buffalo has yielded just 30 points in three games. The Bills are at home against Pittsburgh on Sunday, hoping their offense, which has scored only 38 points, breaks out.

"I'm not satisfied about anything," Coach Marv Levy said. "The record is fine right now, but as far as being satisfied, we have a distance to go and things to do and we have to improve."

Levy wants that improvement to come in giveaways and takeaways, where the Bills rank even - seven lost, seven gained.

"The single biggest way we can score more is to improve on the giveaway-takeaway ratio," he said. "We're even on that count. Teams that score a lot of points are doing it because they're getting a lot of big turnovers."

The Bills aren't getting big penalties, however. They have received only eight, fewest in the NFL.

New England and the New York Jets, who are tied for second behind Buffalo in the division, are at Houston and Detroit, respectively.

In other games Sunday, the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams are at the New York Giants, and Cincinnati, 3-0, is home for Cleveland.

Elsewhere, it's Atlanta at Dallas, Chicago at Green Bay, Philadelphia at Minnesota, Tampa Bay at New Orleans, San Diego at Kansas City, San Francisco at Seattle and Washington at Phoenix.

On Monday night, the Los Angeles Raiders are at Denver.

While the Colts are trying to get untracked, the Dolphins come off their first win following two defeats. Their vaunted passing attack, led by Dan Marino throwing to the Marks Brothers (Duper and Clayton) has sputtered.

Marino, with a 94.1 rating for his five-year career, is at 81.4 this year and the Dolphins rank just 20th in total offense.

Miami is "scary, like handling a rattlesnake," Meyer said. "One bite and they can kill you. That combination (Marino, Duper and Clayton) can beat anybody."

Miami coach Don Shula knows that Eric Dickerson, the NFL's top rusher with 321 yards, can do the same thing. Dickerson needs 21 yards to pass Jim Taylor for eighth place in career rushing.

"Of course, when you think of the Colts, you think of Eric Dickerson and all he's done for them," Shula said.

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) - It's hard to believe Joey Sindelar when he says there's nothing special about the En-Joie Golf Course.

Sindelar, the defending champion at the $500,000 B.C. Open, flirted with the course record for the second year in a row while moving into a tie with Ed Dougherty for the second-round lead Friday.

Sindelar shot a 6-under-par 65 to go to 10-under-par 132 for 36 holes. Dougherty, a 10-year PGA Tour veteran seeking his first tournament victory, had a 67 after shooting a 65 for a share of the opening-round lead.

Sindelar and Dougherty held a one-stroke advantage over Roger Maltbie and Don Pooley and were two shots ahead of Bill Glasson.

Sindelar, who also won here in 1985, maintains that the narrow fairways at En-Joie make it the last place a big driver like himself should be successful.

"I've just happened to been in a pretty good slot here a couple of times when I've come through," said Sindelar, who lives 60 miles away in Horseheads, N.Y., and is a local favorite.

But just because he's been a hot golfer here doesn't mean Sindelar is ready to claim the B.C. Open is over.

"That's when a golfer is done, when he thinks he's invincible," said Sindelar.

Dougherty knows Sindelar has played well here in the past and that the galleries will be cheering for him, but he's determined to just play his game.

"I have no control over what Joey does so I'm not going to worry about it," he said.

Sindelar, who began the day two strokes off the lead, started on the back nine in the morning where he recorded five birdies. He moved to 8-under for the day when he dropped consecutive birdie putts on the fifth and sixth holes, drawing within one stroke of the record of 62, set in 1982 by Fuzzy Zoeller and matched in 1985 by Jay Delsing.

Sindelar shot a second-round 63 last year.

However, Sindelar missed a 10-foot birdie putt on hole No. 7.

Western sees mixed results at rodeo in Portales, N.M.

PORTALES, N.M. - Denny McLanahan held on to second place in the bareback and Jim Bob Custer took over the top spot in the saddle bronc as Western Texas College competed in the second show of the Eastern New Mexico University Rodeo here Friday night.

All the news was not good for WTC, however. Team members Russell Merchant, Clyde Himes and Melanie Graf all took no-times in their events.

Custer, a freshman from Wicherburg, Ariz., scored a 69 in the bareback. He also took over fifth in the steer wrestling with a 6.8 clocking.

McLanahan was second in the bareback with a 71 he posted Thursday and the score held up through Friday's show. The rodeo was to continue with a slack performance Saturday morning, a show Saturday night, and Sunday's afternoon finals. It is the first Southwest Region rodeo of the 1988-89 season.

A couple of other WTC students fared well here Friday, though none were designated team members. Gary Puckett scored a 67 to take over seventh place in the bull riding. Also, Tyler Thames' 6.0 clocking in the steer wrestling, posted Thursday, held up for fourth place.

Other results weren't on the positive side. Merchant and Himes took no-times in the steer wrestling. Merchant also no-timed in the calf roping, as did Barry Byrd, Bubba Bennight and Jamie Hannis.

Jim Blaine Kenney took a no-score in the bronc riding and Kyle Ham met with the same result in the bull riding.

Still others posted times that will not qualify for Saturday's finals. Scott Marshall was 14.5 in the calf roping, Bobby Moody 12.8 in the steer wrestling and Graf 14.8 in the goat tying. Graf took a no-time in the breakaway roping.

Western did not have any team ropers to place in the top 10.

"It wasn't as good as we would have liked but we still have a lot of team members to go," said Coach Bob Doty.

Men's team members are McLanahan, Custer, Merchant, Himes, Ray Brown and Michael Gaffney. Both Brown and Gaffney have yet to compete.

Women's team members are Graf, Tana Mahoney and Krista Jeffries. Mahoney and Jeffries were scheduled for Saturday's slack and later in Saturday's show.

"I was pleased with the effort. We need to keep giving that kind of effort. If we do, we have a chance to win," said Baugh. "But we have to give that kind of effort every time we line up."

Snyder's game plan Friday

Wilson rips Gail Coyotes

GAIL -- Wilson got five touchdowns from Ruben Garcia to bounce the Coyotes across Borden County here Friday night, 62-16 in a non-district, six-man football game.

Borden, 1-3 now, trailed only 14-8 at halftime after Shane Kemper connected with Lance Latimer on a 10-yard scoring toss, but the third and fourth quarters belonged to Wilson.

Garcia's TD's included a 42-yard interception return. Teammate Jeff Bednarz returned the second-half kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown.

Borden will test its skill again next Friday when the Coyotes bus to meet rival Ira for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

was to come out throwing and the Tigers did. On the first Tiger offensive play of the ballgame, Odom hit Fletcher on a 31-yard pass. On first and 20 from the Littlefield 41, Odom found Tommy Lane on a 5-yard toss. Lane picked up another five yards on the next play, and Snyder continued the march as Odom located Dollins for a 12-yard hookup.

It took three more plays to score, with the Odom-to-Lane connection cashing in on a 12-yard TD strike. Bert Merritt kicked the conversion and with 6:06 still left in the first quarter Snyder led 7-0.

The TD pass came on an audible from Odom, who checked off on Littlefield's safety blitz. Odom dropped quickly back and zipped the ball to Lane, who fought through two defenders to bull his way to the end zone.

"Tracy did a good job checking off," said Baugh.

The Tigers had another opportunity to roll the scoreboard two possessions later but ran out of downs deep in Littlefield territory. The drive began at mid-field after Robert Talamantez partially blocked a Wildcat punt.

Snyder pushed to the Littlefield 19-yard line before Odom missed Dollins on a fourth-down and four situation. The drive, though futile, was highlighted by an Israel Hinojos run of 11 yards and a 14-yard pass from Odom to Jayson Presley.

Defensively, Snyder enjoyed good success in the first half. The Tigers forced four Wildcat punts and allowed just three first downs. Unfortunately for the home town bunch, the fourth punt led to a Littlefield touchdown.

Julian Sierra's boot was mishandled by deep back Randy Morris and the Wildcats recovered at the Tiger 14. Three plays later, Gonzales connected over the middle to tight end Mark King on a 10-yard TD pass. Snyder kept the lead when Jody Iglehart broke through the middle and blocked Hernandez's conversion kick.

Communication problems plagued the Tigers in the second half. For the game, Snyder was flagged for four delay of game penalties and was forced to call a time out to prevent a fifth.

"The guys coming in with the plays were either forgetting or something, I really don't know," said Snyder Coach David Baugh. "But that was an awful quick whistle out there in seemed."

Johnson burns Lewis, record in 9.79 seconds at Olympics

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Three times down the stretch Carl Lewis' eyes turned with a look of fear at Ben Johnson, a stride in front and running faster than anyone in history.

Canada's "Big Ben" didn't glance back until just before he crossed the finish line, an Olympic gold medalist in the classic 100-meter dash and still the fastest man alive.

The sprint showdown was the centerpiece of an Olympic feast Saturday in which Jackie Joyner-Kersey affirmed her status as the world's best woman athlete, sister-in-law Florence Griffith Joyner twice lowered the women's 100 Olympic mark, submarine-style backstroker David Berkoff broke a world record and Matt Biondi went for his sixth medal.

It was also a day of deep disappointment for injured U.S. basketball star Hersey Hawkins, disgrace and resignation for the Korean Olympic Committee president and departure for the drug-using Bulgarian weightlifting team.

Johnson pushed the limits of human speed a little further, breaking his own world record with a time of 9.79 seconds and crossing the finish line more than a meter ahead of Lewis.

Lewis ran his fastest race, setting an American record of 9.92 to win a silver as four runners cracked 10 seconds for the first time. Linford Christie was third in a European-record 9.97, followed by Calvin Smith of the United States in 9.99.

"I did all I asked of myself," Lewis said. "I did my best. That's what the Olympics are all about. I got the American record. Now I'll take that on to the long jump."

Lewis' dream of matching the four golds he won in the 1984 Los Angeles Games is over, but he is still favored to win the long jump, 200 and 400 relay.

Johnson thrust his right fist in the air and signaled No. 1 as he crossed the finish line, possibly losing a few hundredths of a second. No matter. The record and gold were his, and he mimicked Lewis' post-race celebration in 1984 by taking a large Canadian flag and running with it around the track while a crowd of 70,000 roared. "The most important thing is to beat Carl Lewis," Johnson said. "The gold medal is more important than the world record. Anybody can break a world record, but the gold medal is mine."

A world record and a gold also belonged to Jackie Joyner-Kersey after a stunning show of versatility in winning the seven-event heptathlon.

Urged on by her shouting husband and coach Bob Kersee, Joyner-Kersey ran her fastest 800 in 2 minutes, 8.51 seconds to break her own heptathlon world record with 7,291 points. Far behind her were East Germans Sabine John with 5,875 points and Anke Behmer with 5,867 points.

Joyner-Kersey led after the first four events Friday and left her rivals behind Saturday with a long jump of 23 feet, 10 1/4 inches that also broke her own record.

Florence Griffith Joyner made it a family party by twice lowering the women's 100 Olympic mark, running 10.88 and 10.62 in qualifying heats for Sunday's final.

In swimming, Berkoff set a world record in the 100 backstroke and medal-laden Biondi was the top qualifier in the 50 freestyle.

Berkoff swam underwater on his back for about 35 meters before popping to the surface with a big lead in the final heat of the 100 backstroke. His time of 54.51 seconds beat his own world record of 54.91 set last month in the U.S. trials.

Biondi, with three golds, a silver and a bronze in five events, was the top qualifier for his sixth race, the 50-meter freestyle, with a time of 22.39. He is looking to equal Mark Spitz's record for swimming medals in seven events, was timed in 22.39 for 50 meters.

Two swimming double gold-medalists, Doug Gjertsen and Troy Dalbey, and a third American identified as swimming coach Ernest Magwni were held by police for seven hours for allegedly stealing a marble lion's head from a Seoul hotel.

Bad luck struck the U.S. basketball team, which lost Hawkins, college player of the year last season, for the rest of the Games because of a strained knee. Hawkins was injured in the second half of Friday's 108-57 victory over China. The Americans didn't need him, though, to embarrass Egypt 102-35 in the final preliminary round game.

The Bulgarian weightlifting team, stripped of two golds for drug use to lose weight, pulled out of the Games. A Bulgarian statement called drug use "a breach of fair sports play."

U.S.-Soviet talks end with limited progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union made limited progress on arms control and human rights in high-level talks that ended Friday.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said it was "quite improbable" a new treaty to reduce strategic nuclear weapons could be wrapped up before President Reagan leaves office next January.

Nor, Shultz said, is there a basis for Reagan and General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev to hold a fifth and final summit meeting. "If there were a meeting there would have to be a good reason and I don't see what it would be at this point," he said.

But Shultz was upbeat about the prospects of opening East-West negotiations to reduce troops, tanks and other mobile weapons in Europe.

He said there also were indications the Soviets were prepared to make changes in their criminal procedures and otherwise undertake "a substantial and positive treatment of human rights issues."

The United States has refused to conclude a review in Vienna of the 1975 Helsinki agreement, a 35-nation accord designed to lessen tensions in Europe, until the Soviets agreed to give "equal balance" to human rights concerns.

Shultz spoke to reporters at the White House after Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze met for an hour with President Reagan. The Soviet official also held four rounds of talks with Shultz over two days.

With only four months remaining for the Reagan administration, Shultz still described the two days of meeting as "pick and shovel work," indicating the focus was on details rather than on wrapping up accords. Shevardnadze meanwhile, told reporters the two sides had instructed their delegations to try to work out an interim agreement to place ceilings on U.S. and Soviet long-range nuclear warheads.

"This may be interpretable," he said through an interpreter. "It will require work, but one cannot be definite now."

Shultz, however, was less optimistic, saying the two days of talks on arms control presented "a somewhat mixed picture."

He said any ceiling on weapons would require extensive verification procedures to guard against violations. "It's a big undertaking, maybe too big," he said.

He said there was progress on procedures to monitor compliance with 1974 and 1976 treaties that limit underground nuclear tests to 150 kilotons and Reagan may be able to submit those accords to the Senate for ratification before Jan. 20.

But on other arms control issues, Shultz said, "I can't say there is really any substantial progress to report."

Shevardnadze said the two sides had made headway toward opening East-West talks to reduce ground troops, tanks and other mobile forces in Europe.

"We believe we have a good basis as a mandate for negotiations," Shevardnadze said.

Houston Savings to get $532 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators on Friday pledged $532 million in aid to a Michigan-based home building company to rescue a Houston savings institution.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., which guarantees S&L deposits up to $100,000, is providing the assistance in the form of a 10-year promissory note and guarantees against future loss to Pulte Diversified Companies Inc., which is acquiring Champion Savings Association.

The transaction is the latest in a spate of more than 50 S&L rescues since mid-August, to which regulators have committed more than $13 billion.

Two weeks ago, Pulte agreed to acquire four other Houston-area S&Ls with federal assistance totaling $557 million, bringing total government aid to $1.1 billion for the entire deal. The Bloomfield Hills, Mich., company is contributing $45 million to take control of all five S&Ls.

The S&L industry is suffering its worst year since the Great Depression, having lost $7.5 billion in the first six months of the year. Congress' General Accounting Office estimates it will cost $45 billion to $50 billion to restore the ailing industry to health.

Senate Banking Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., said this week that taxpayers will have to contribute $20 billion to the bailout. So far, the rescues have been funded through an assessment on the industry.

TROPHIES — 5-year-old Lacey Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Reed of 4114 Kerrville Ave., is giving 150 of the 250 trophies she has won in children's pageants over the past four years to the Special Olympics, in which they will be used as prizes for handicapped youngsters. She was the 1987 Little Miss Corsicana, from where the Reeds recently moved. (SDN Staff Photo)

Volunteer cleans monument

DALLAS (AP) — As John Koohyun Kim explained it, his labor of love for a fallen President whose ideals and country he had embraced could not wait.

So Kim got down on his knees Friday, not waiting for city officials to give their permission, and began a thorough cleaning job of the Kennedy Memorial in downtown Dallas.

Kim said he had listened to John F. Kennedy's inaugural speech as a youth in South Korea and was "impressed with his celebration of democracy." He later memorized the speech for a high school class and he credits it with helping him learn English.

"I loved him," Kim told The Dallas Morning News. Upon learning through a newspaper column that the white concrete and marble monument was in dire need of sprucing up, Kim decided to tackle the job himself.

At this time in our lives, we realize how very important friends and neighbors are. We wish to take this opportunity to thank each of you for the many gracious deeds, kind words spoken, prayers offered, food and flowers, in the death of our father, Santos Ortiz. We extend a special thanks to Cliff & Nancy Smith, Joe & Wendy Hicks, Joe & Mickey Chavez and Bell, Cypert, Seale. When sorrow comes to any of you, that such kindness be shown is our prayer.

Mr. & Mrs. Jesses A. Ortiz & Families

To all the women of the Hermleigh and Inadale areas: Thank You for all the food and prayers given during the loss of Effie Glass. All were greatly appreciated by each member of her family.
The Family of Effie Glass

The Family of Don Baremore acknowledges with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy from many friends, neighbors and relatives. From the brief hospital stay, through the very impressive funeral services, the prayers, warm handclaps, calls, cards, letters, visits, foods and flowers were innumerable, and lest we might leave someone out, we hesitate trying to name these wonderful individuals. May we please take this means, though, to reveal our sincere feelings toward Cogdell Memorial Hospital. We found them responsive, efficient and caring. In the emergency room, throughout the halls and offices, and over the entire third floor.
Elvce Baremore and Family

Conservatives take 'beating' on AIDS bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hard-line conservatives suffered a string of defeats on the way to House approval of a bill that expands voluntary AIDS testing and counseling without forcing states to test large groups of people to get federal money.

The House passed the AIDS Federal Policy Act 367-13 on Friday in much the same form as it emerged from nearly two years of hearings and negotiations.

The act is built on a $400 million-a-year testing and counseling grant program. It also would protect the confidentiality of test results and speed up research into acquired immune deficiency syndrome and the virus that causes it.

States would have to comply with a number of conditions to get the federal funds.

The outcome represents "a decisive rejection of the agenda of the conservative right on the AIDS epidemic," said Nan D. Hunter, director of the American Civil Liberties Union's AIDS project.

With some fancy parliamentary footwork, House sponsors of the measure managed to send their bill straight into a conference to be reconciled with a Senate AIDS education and research bill to which it bears little resemblance.

The maneuver enables supporters to bypass, for now, what would surely be a lengthy and acrimonious Senate floor debate on testing, confidentiality and AIDS in general. But senators eventually will be asked to approve a conference report and some may balk because they never had a chance to debate the testing elements.

The AIDS virus that causes the fatal disease most often is spread through close contact with contaminated blood, blood products or semen; its principal victims have been homosexuals and intravenous drug users.

The House bill, sponsored by Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., represented months of work reconciling the vastly differing approaches of liberals and conservatives to the AIDS epidemic.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, said the bill addresses "gaping holes" in the federal response to AIDS.

"It is good policy stripped of controversial provisions that might divide members," he said. "While people get sick and die, we can debate whether this legislation is perfect or we can act to fight an epidemic that is ravaging our people."

Conservatives had some impact on the final product, chiefly in forcing sponsors to drop a section outlawing discrimination against people with the AIDS virus and AIDS-related medical problems. But hard-liners lost a number of floor battles in a big way.

Attempts to make states test all prison inmates, most hospital patients and many marriage license applicants lost by large margins, as did a requirement that states collect identifying information on AIDS virus carriers.

And just before passing the bill Friday, House members soundly defeated 279-105 an attempt to require doctors to make "a reasonable effort" to notify spouses of carriers.

The bill as passed would give states $200 million for each of the next three years for testing programs; the remaining $200 million a year would go directly to health care facilities serving high-risk populations.

Testing would have to be voluntary and accompanied by counseling. Anonymous testing and the use of pseudonyms would have to be permitted to the extent possible under state laws.

All persons convicted of prostitution or crimes related to sexual assault or intravenous drug abuse would have to be tested. States also would have to collect demographic information about those who test positive and establish civil and criminal penalties for violations of confidentiality standards outlined in the bill.

Health professionals or others who violated the standards, whether intentionally or not, could be fined up to $10,000 for each offense. An intentional violation could result in up to a year in prison; a person harmed by improper disclosure could sue for at least $2,000.

The bill permits disclosure of positive test results under certain circumstances, including to sexual partners and needle-sharing contacts unlikely to be notified by the infected individual.

Minor injuries reported in Friday 2-vehicle wreck

A 35-year-old Snyder woman suffered a lacerated right ear in a two-vehicle collision at 1:14 p.m. Friday in the 1700 Block of 24th St.

Otilia Rios of 2903 Ave. J, a passenger in a 1985 Pontiac two-door driven by Emilia Terry of Colorado City, was taken by Snyder EMS Ambulance Service to Cogdell Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Police said the Pontiac was in collision with a 1975 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Steven G. Lee of the Clairemont Hwy.

Billy C. Voss of Rt. 2 was examined and released at 1:14 p.m. Friday after the Jeep Cherokee he was driving ran through the front plate glass window of a Skinny's convenience store at 8:45 p.m. Friday at 417 37th St.

An officer said Voss fell out of the vehicle before it went through the window, after which the driver was arrested for DWI and driving with his license suspended.

Thieves target vehicle parts

Police are investigating the theft of parts from a car at Hatley Lewis's 2506 Ave. E. carlot.

Lewis told officers at 10:17 a.m. Friday that parts were missing from a 1965 Ford Mustang and that the theft apparently took place late Thursday or early Friday.

Tim Riggan, in the Snyder High School parking lot, told police at 11:21 p.m. Friday that chrome wheel dress rings had been stolen from his vehicle.

PI arrests made

Police made two public intoxication arrests Friday night, one of a 26-year-old man at 9 p.m. at the Scurry County Coliseum fairgrounds and the other of an 18-year-old youth at 10:09 p.m. near the Snyder High School football stadium.

ed. In another Friday accident, a 1969 Chevrolet two-door driven by Coy W. Berryman of 3309 Houston Ave. was in collision with a 1982 Ford two-door driven by Kevin D. Nazworth of 410 35th St. and a vehicle and driver that had not been identified at 11:46 a.m. in the 2300 Block of 37th St.

DPS investigates 2 truck collision

The Department of Public Safety Saturday reported a 6:30 p.m. Wednesday accident 3.1 miles east of Snyder on U.S. 84 in which a tractor-trailer rig and a smaller truck collided.

A 1983 White Freightliner rig driven by Terry L. Tueck of Tripp, S.D., and a 1985 Ford driven by Tommy G. Moore of Hermleigh were both going southeast, with Moore in the lead, when the Freightliner hit the Ford from behind, a DPS trooper said.

Neither driver was injured in the mishap.

County will consider school fund interest

The game will be versus Borden County and a homecoming queen and two runners-up will be announced at halftime.

On Monday, the Ira cheerleaders and mascot will deliver "I Love the Bulldogs" ribbons.

On Tuesday, students will be having a "50's Day" and, on

Haitian leader says no elections for two years

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Lt. Gen. Prosper Avril says it will be impossible to hold general elections for at least two years but insists his new military government is provisional, a politician reported after meeting with the leader.

The government said Friday it had retired 20 more army officers, bringing to 49 the number of ranking officers fired or retired in an effort to appease rebellious troops who led a coup one week ago.

Avril, who declared himself president after the coup sent Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy into exile, met Friday with Sylvio Claude of the center-left Christian Democrat Party.

Their meeting followed a week of chaos in which soldiers and mobs rampaged through the country, ousting military commanders and attacking people linked to three decades of dictatorship in this impoverished Caribbean nation.

Claude said he presented a 10-point political proposal prepared by him and Louis Dejoie II, head of the National Agricultural and Industrial Party.

Dejoie and Claude were frontrunners in presidential elections Nov. 29 that were aborted after widespread violence in which 34 people died.

Claude told a news conference after the meeting that Avril had agreed to restore the 1987 Constitution, which calls for free elections. But, he said, the new leader said those elections "probably could not be held for another two to 2½ years."

Since the exhibition opened Thursday, fair goers have been treated to displays on the floor of the coliseum, livestock exhibits in the adjacent ag annex and carnival rides on the coliseum grounds.

Scurry County Folks...

By Shirley A. Gorman

Some people retire at age 65, content to "take it easy" after a lifetime of working 40 or more hours a week, but Dean Cochran, still going strong at age 79, has never officially retired and says he has no plans to do so. In fact, he "poo poos" and shrugs off the very idea of retirement.

Cochran is apt to present anyone he meets with a piece of chewing gum—a practice he began about five or six years ago.

"I love people. I love being around people and it just seemed like a good way to be friendly," he said. "Now people are so used to it that they sometimes ask me 'where is my gum,'" Cochran laughed.

Cochran is a hard person to catch at home. Somewhat of a "jack of all trades," he has been working part-time for Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home since it was known as Bell-Seale back in the early 1970s.

When he isn't working, he is usually running an errand for a friend or just visiting, something he admits he loves to do.

Cochran, the "baby" of nine children, was born 3½ miles northeast of Mount Pleasant in a log cabin. He has outlived all of his siblings.

When asked why he thinks he has lived so many years in relatively good health, Cochran had this to say. "I try to eat right, don't smoke or drink and sleep good at night."

Cochran has lived in Snyder since his 14th year and operated Cochran Grocery which was located where Timely Finance is today for more than 20 years. Tiring of that profession, he closed his doors in the mid 1950s and pursued a variety of other jobs.

Cochran recalled that he and his nephew and sister-in-law, Bessie Crane, arrived in Snyder via the RS&P Railroad on a cold snowy day in the early 1920s. Snyder wasn't paved in those days and the chug holes around the square were filled with snow.

"There weren't any house numbers either, and you had to know where someone lived in order to find them," he said.

Cochran had come to Snyder to join an older brother who had come here to pick cotton. For four years he lived on a farm in Polar and attended school at Polar through the 11th grade.

They owned a few head of cattle and farmed the land using a team of horses to pull either a "wiggly tail cultivator" or a "go-devil."

Cochran recalled that on either a Friday or Saturday night some family in the community would host a party for all the school children. "We played games and there was no drinking," he said.

Later Cochran moved to Snyder to live with an uncle, C.S. Perkins Sr. He had a room on the top floor in one of the buildings on the north side of the square.

His first job in Snyder was at the American Cafe which was located where Merle Norman's is today. He worked from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. for 50 cents a day. Later his pay was raised to $5 a week, then $7.50 and finally $10 per week.

Cochran said that when he first moved to Snyder it had seven big department stores and 15 good restaurants within walking distance.

Cochran later worked for the Hugh Taylor Grocery Store before he attended Draughon's Business College in Abilene. He said he attended Draughon's two different times for a total of 10 months in all and studied such subjects as commercial law, business math and banking.

Later he returned to Hugh See COCHRAN, Page 5B

WON'T CONSIDER RETIREMENT—Dean Cochran of Snyder has never retired even though he is in his late seventies and he recently reaffirmed that he has no plans to do so. For most of his life he has worked at wide variety of jobs including owning a grocery store for many years. Today he works part time for the Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home and spends his free time visiting and just being with people. His trademark is passing out pieces of chewing gum, a practice he said he began about five years ago. (SDN Staff Photo)

Garden vows join couple

HONORED GUESTS — Clemy Address (left) and Maxie McNew were honored Sept. 18 with an appreciation tea following 50 years of combined service as secretary and treasurer for the Snyder Chapter 450 Order of the Eastern Star. The reception was held in the Garden Room of First Baptist Church. (SDN Staff Photo)

Heidi Marie Lee and Bryan Odell Hibbitt were joined in matrimony at 7 p.m. July 15 in the home of the groom's mother. Reginald Bridges of Idalou officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Ralph McArthur and Clarissa Alaniz. The groom's parents are Bill and Glenda Valentine, all of Snyder.

Garden vows were exchanged before a brass archway embellished with greenery and apricot bows. A waterfall surrounded by a profusion of tropical plants completed the nuptial setting.

A tape of "Greensleeves" played on the harp accompanied the ceremony.

Escorted by usher Lowell Bridges of Lubbock, brother-in-law of the groom, the bride was attired in a formal-length sleeveless gown in white taffeta with a flower print of silver. The design featured fabric ruffles at the sweetheart neckline and shoulders. The fitted bodice featured a sash tied in the back over a full skirt.

The bridal bouquet was of white and apricot silk flowers and baby's-breath tied in long ribbon streamers of white and apricot. The bride wore white flowers in her hair.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore her grandmother's pearl ring for something old. A fresh-water pearl necklace was borrowed from the groom's sister and pearl earrings were borrowed from the mother of the bride. A silk garter decorated with white ruffles and two inlaid pearl hearts was something blue. Her wedding gown was new.

Bridal attendants were Billy Hibbitt, sister-in-law of the groom, and Belinda Bridges of Lubbock, the groom's sister. Each wore a white, tea-length dress featuring a dropped hip and ruffles at the neckline. Apricot belts tied at the side were accented by apricot corsages.

Corey Bridges of Lubbock, the groom's niece, served as flower girl while Erica Lee of Andrews, daughter of the bride, carried the rings.

The groom was attended by Brent Hibbit, his brother, and Gary Arnold.

The groom was attired in a silver grey tuxedo with tails. His white shirt was accented by an apricot cummerbund, bow tie, and boutonniere.

A reception was held in the home following the ceremony. The bride's table was accented by peach tapers in a brass candlestand accented by greenery and apricot silk flowers. A decorative egg created by the groom's mother held two doves. Colors of apricot and grey were carried throughout the appointments.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with apricot roses on white frosting. A miniature bride and groom in Lefton china topped the cake. They stood in a heart-shaped terrace.

The bridal attendants served at the bride's table.

The groom's table held a chocolate, heart-shaped cake covered in apricot roses. A unity candle decorated his table. Servers were Jo Thrower and Terri Atkinson.

A champagne toast and punch were also served.

Following a honeymoon trip to Colorado, the couple is at home in Andrews.

The bride and groom attended Snyder High School and the groom completed two years at Western Texas College.

Arizona Indians face diabetes

SACATON, Ariz. (AP) — Many Gila River Reservation residents feel bound to a destiny.

They foresee themselves rising on a silent morning, shrouded in the warm desert sun, yawning and stretching their arms — with the understanding that they must sink an insulin-filled hypodermic needle into their veins to stay alive.

More than half of the reservation's residents over the age of 35 have been diagnosed as having diabetes, according to Dr. Kermit Smith, coordinator of the Sacaton diabetes program.

"Diabetes has been a part of my family for many years, so I anticipated it in my future," said Ardell Ruiz, a 40-year-old Pima Indian.

For those diagnosed as having diabetes, the usual prescription is for drastic changes in diet, exercise and medications designed to maintain acceptable blood sugar levels.

"If approached with an optimistic fighter's attitude, sometimes patients can fend off deterioration for more than a decade," said Dorinda James, a licensed practical nurse, who cares for more than 800 diabetics on the reservation.

But ignoring the advice of the health professionals can lead to tragic consequences.

Not only are diabetics susceptible to a shorter life span, they may also acquire both acute and chronic physiological problems.

Diabetics across the nation now account for approximately 5,800 cases of blindness a year, 30 percent of all new cases of end-stage renal disease and 50 percent of all non-traumatic amputations, Smith said.

In 1984, diabetes directly caused 35,500 deaths and contributed to another 95,000.

About 4 percent of the United States' population has been diagnosed as diabetic, compared with 56 percent on the reservation.

"It's an epidemic here, and getting worse," Smith said.

Fifty years ago, diabetes was unheard of among the Indians living on the reservation.

Ruiz blames changes in the Indians' lifestyle for their heart problems.

"We are influenced by a society that encourages us with commercials to drink ... beer and eat pizza," he said.

Dr. Peter Bennett, chief of the Phoenix research branch of the National Institute of Diabetes, conceded that 20th century lifestyles are in part responsible for the problem.

A LOOK AT THE 4-H PHILOSOPHY

4-H is a distinctively American, non-formal educational, character- and skills-building youth program conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

4-H is keyed to the development of individual boys and girls so that they may become productive, contributing citizens. 4-H lays a broad and firm base for a lifetime of personal growth.

Further, the purpose of 4-H is to develop young people through the involvement of parents, other adults and volunteers who organize and conduct learning experiences in a community setting. The focus is on human interaction designed to develop skills, abilities and understandings in youth and adults as participating and influential members of their community. The central aim is for youth to acquire a set of skills for perceiving and responding to life's significant events.

Through 4-H, boys and girls discover an active method of turning their time into productive projects, identify with others their own age and other ages, acquire an interest and understanding of the private enterprise system, participate in meaningful and often physical work, and build strong family relationships.

4-H is effective because its educational services relate to youth's needs. Through informal, practical, learning-by-doing programs, 4-H helps boys and girls establish real-life goals and skills and become competent, productive citizens. The home, local club and community are the training grounds in which 4-H participants develop knowledge, skills and attitudes.

4-H, as an ever-renewing movement, takes pride in its contributions to American society for more than 75 years. It is not easy for a youngster to develop a realistic sense of his own individuality and yet have an awareness of his social role and responsibilities.

Youth who participate in 4-H will develop some capacity to function as generalists, no matter how they may later choose to specialize. A pattern of success built upon hard work spawns inner resources which permit young people to cope with unforeseen challenges and to survive as versatile, capable individuals in an unpredictable world. Youth so educated will assure the necessary flexibility, adaptability and innovation for society.

Making a splash
ATLANTA (AP) — People around the country who have arthritis are making a splash in the Arthritis Aquatic Program. The program, developed by the Arthritis Foundation in conjunction with the YMCA, provides participants with the opportunity to do gentle activities in warm water under the guidance of trained personnel. It is also a social and recreational program designed specifically for people who have arthritis. The buoyancy of water reduces the effects of gravity, making it easier to move painful joints. The water is kept at a warm temperature, which also helps to relieve pain.

it? Surely you know by now that not everybody bids perfectly, so let's forgive declarer for arriving at a contract that is a little difficult.

When the defenders took three club tricks ending in the East hand and then East played back the 10 of spades, it was apparent that West held the Q-J of spades, as well as the A-K of clubs already played. Declarer won the king of spades and cashed the A-K of hearts. When West showed up with the jack of hearts, one thing was certain — West absolutely did not hold the queen of diamonds or he would have opened the bidding as the dealer. So declarer played to dummy's 10 of hearts and led the jack of diamonds from dummy. East naturally played the queen. South won, played back to the king, noting the fall of the nine from West. He now ran the eight of diamonds from dummy, taking the ruffing finesse when East played low. That was 10 tricks. Now isn't that more fun than playing three no-trump?

Racing pigeons provides both work and excitement

WILLIAMSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — He will sit in a chair on his lawn until the birds come home.

Gayle Doyle, the birdman of Williamstown, hours ago — or maybe the day before — had sent his racing team to the starting gate. Now all he could do was wait.

Through storms and heat and head winds and killer hawks, his racing pigeons will follow their instincts and wing their way back home — sometimes from hundreds of miles away.

No one really knows how or why pigeons come home to roost, but they do. And Doyle's birds often arrive sooner than the competition's.

His birds finished first and second in a 500-mile race from White Pine, Tenn., in May. Twelve of the 103 birds racing covered the distance the first day. The win and place birds clocked in after just 12 hours.

Doyle said that after each year of preparations — breeding, training, feeding and preening — the first rush of excitement comes in spotting that little dot in the sky that flies right at you.

"It's tense. It's nervous. And, I'm sitting there waiting," he said. "Sometimes, they don't come home when you think they're going to, and you get disappointed."

Not all make it. His best bird recently was in sight, headed for the loft. Suddenly, a hawk swooped over the horizon, literally hissing past Doyle's ear, and knocked the pigeon down.

Doyle lost the bird and the race.

But hawks are only one hazard in racing, he said. Casualties can number up to a third of the birds.

FALL ARMYWORMS THREATEN LAWNS, PASTURES

Fall armyworms have already been found in some parts of Texas and if left uncontrolled, they can wipe out entire lawns and cause heavy damage to pastures.

While fall armyworms have been light this year, the pests often increase following a local or general rain. They prefer to feed on well-fertilized lawns and other lush grasses.

Frequent and careful inspections are necessary to locate infestations before extensive damage occurs. Control measures are most effective against young larvae (worms).

Fall armyworm adults are ash gray moths with mottled forewings which have irregular white or light gray spots near the tip. They lay batches of white eggs on foliage which hatch in about five days. Young larvae are light green with black heads. They become darker green as they grow older and can devour forages and lawn grasses.

Larvae are about 1½ inches long at maturity and light gray to almost black in color with several light stripes along the body. The front of the worm's head is marked with an inverted white "Y."

Worms are full grown in two to three weeks and then burrow an inch or two into the soil to pupate.

Moths emerge 10 days to two weeks later and the cycle repeats. There may be as many as six generations a year, and it's common to find various sizes of larvae infesting pastures at any one time.

Pesticides labeled for control of fall armyworms in lawns are carbaryl (Sevin® 80 percent wettable powder and Sevin XLR), malathion, diazinon (Spectracide), Dylox and various products containing Bacillus thuringiensis.

Use sufficient water for complete coverage. Also, read the insecticide label for rates and follow all directions, instructions, and restrictions.

Cochran recalls early days in Snyder

Taylor and remained there until he and Chuck Smith became partners in the Star Grocery and Market which was located on the square south of Snyder National Bank.

After two years, Cochran sold out to Smith because "I was young and wanted a change. For a while he worked for a brother who had a farm produce business and later he moved to Sweetwater to open a produce house for Swift Co.

When his brother Andy got sick, Cochran sold out and came home to help him run his business. He also worked for Fuller Gin for a while.

Sometime later, Cochran and another brother went into partners and opened Cochran Grocery on Dec. 1, 1932. "Taylor Cotton rented us the space for a store for $5 a month. He never did raise the rent but later I raised it myself to $10 and finally $15," he said.

Cochran said they borrowed $400 so they could stock their store and he paid a man who owned a truck $10 to go to Abilene for the supplies.

Cochran Grocery sold a 50 pound sack of flour for 89 cents which allowed 10 cents for profit. Crackers were sold by the bulk. Big hunks of cheese were kept on the counter and was cut off and sold as needed. Eggs were sold by the sack and long bars were just spread out on a long table.

Farmers often came to town to sell their produce, cream or eggs to Cochran. He later resold them to Swift Co. and later to Banner Co. in Abilene. He also bought and sold a few animals from farmers while in the grocery business.

Sometimes farmers would come to town and sell their products to Cochran. Then they would go to the picture show which cost 10 cents. Some left their children who would sleep on pallets placed around the old wood stove at the store. Later they would return and buy their groceries from him.

After two years Cochran bought out his brother and he later moved to Spur.

Around seven years after the grocery store opened for business disaster struck in the form of a flood on June 19, 1939 and Cochran said if not for the trust and generosity of the Walker Smith Co. he would have been put out of business.

"It rained all day and water was three feet high in the grocery store," Cochran said. "Everything got ruined. I had $700 worth of candy and had just received a big truck load of flour. Some chickens that I kept in the back yard drowned also.

"Neighbors helped me clean up the mess and I had to haul away all the ruined groceries," he said. "I had enough money in the bank to pay off my bills but not enough to repair the flood damage and restock so I was just going to close my doors," Cochran said.

However, fate stepped in and dealt Cochran a different hand. He had always been a good customer of the Walker Smith Co. who sold groceries to grocery stores and a representative of the company who happened to be there while Cochran and the others were cleaning up after the flood offered to stake him to another start. Cochran offered to sign a note but the man said it wasn't necessary. However, he said he kept an accurate record of every time he had to borrow from the company.

Cochran recalled that he "had a good fall" and was able to pay off everyone including Walker Smith Co. within a short period of time.

Once the store had been cleaned up Cochran painted the shelves, added a vegetable rack, restocked his store and opened for "business some 15 days after the "great flood."

Cochran stayed in the grocery business until 1954 when he just decided to close his doors. "I was lost for a while at first and just tried to stay busy. I guess I do kind of regret closing it down," he said. "I always liked the grocery business because I liked dealing with people."

Some years before this Cochran married Ovella Ganaway on July 28, 1934. Their only son died when he was three years old. She often helped him at the store. She died on Aug. 6, 1976.

Wedding presents included a cow and a calf and a bedroom suite. "We sold the cow's milk for 10 cents a quart at first and later we charged 12 cents," he said.

The Cochran's first home was located on 30th Street and they rented it for $10 a month he said. After five years, they moved to 1611 17th Street where Cochran still lives today.

Cochran said that when he first closed his store he had dreams of opening a "ma and pa" store near his home, but the plans never materialized.

Various odd jobs followed. For a while he worked for Earl McDow who sold TVs. His job was to climb the big, tall antennas and repair them. "I'd get on a tower, buckle myself in and on a windy day it would rock back and forth. It was very dangerous," he said.

That didn't last too long as a brother, Charlie, made him stop because the work was too dangerous. For a while he helped his brother who owned a cafe in Hermleigh. More odd jobs followed to include the Lake Thomas Lodge which employed both Cochran and his wife. "My wife cooked meals and I did whatever needed doing," he said.

By Donny Brown

Ever since we heard about the rats, we've been stewing about "labels."

A recent article correctly pointed out how differently we think just because of labels.

The example given was laboratory rats. At some unnamed laboratory, white mice were deemed "special" because of their usefulness in experiments and were given a status akin to Garfield the cat.

Simultaneously, the laboratory was invaded by field mice, hungry critters which discovered the ready availability of the other mice's food supply.

So, the scientists, those same guys who had been sucking up to the white rats, used every skill at their scientific beck and call to eradicate the "pest" field mice.

Same beady brown eyes, same teeny-tiny little feet, same method of bearing their young and same mouse-level qualities of vice and virtue.

One was labeled socially acceptable and one was not, however, and this label translated directly to life expectancy.

SDN Opinion Page

Columns-Cartoons-Look Back-Letters-Quotables

The literal fact of labeling is not what burns our feathers, however. It's how people too often don't have the gumption to look beyond it.

As folks, we tend to interpret our world anecdotally. That is, we understand things by grouping them into more easily understood categories.

This is done as a quick way to get from point A to point B, and there's nothing too wrong with that. Learning to do something the quickest and easiest way is called adaptation, and if it weren't for adaptation, the world would be an exclusive club for only bigger fish. But it's too easy to get lazy.

Too often, we categorize people based on what others tell us about them—their "labels"—rather than what we discover about them ourselves.

And once again, the innuendo is rumored to be true. When we stop giving a hoot, we let these labels become our first impression.

It is an easy method to use. Our interest is scratched, we have lost little or no hide in the tussle and we have added another specimen for the glass case.

We see magazines today called "People" and "Us." We see news features about "Newsmakers" and an infinite number of items about movers and shakers, the rich and famous and all those other trendy folk.

It could be viewed as a giant feeding frenzy as humans try to understand other humans.

But we have the uneasy suspicion that most folks would rather know "about" someone than to know them.

Because once you've secured enough details to "understand" them—regardless if these facts are true—it's equally comfortable to forget them.

We're trimming our world to a basic quota, that is a spouse, 1.3 children, two or three couples to comfortably shoot the breeze with and a bunch of folks in the nod and wave category.

After this roll call is answered, it's time to hide the welcome mat. As for knowing the rest of the world, we're becoming insulated with secondhand information.

We'd respectfully suggest that if all the folks you know are just like you, it might be time to turn on the front porch light again.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

A couple of years ago, I found a lump in my breast. I'm here to tell you, it scared the living daylight out of me.

Now, you gentlemen reading this may want to blush and turn for the sports pages or "Frank & Ernest." Please don't. Read it for the female loved ones in your life, clip it out, encourage them to read it. And you ladies, do the same.

According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is the most common cancer in women, and their most frequent cause of cancer-related death. To be specific, every 15 minutes, three women develop breast cancer — one out of every 11 — and one woman dies of the disease. It is the leading cause of death among women aged 40-49.

The mass in my breast was clearly obvious to the touch, and very tender and sore. I was so frightened that my doctor's nurse scheduled me for an immediate appointment, and he thought it worthy of an immediate mammogram. I was sent around to the X-ray department of Cogdell Memorial Hospital; they flopped my...er...appendage...onto an X-ray slab, and took a couple of shots, and that was it. It wasn't cancer after all. Not even close. Called "benign fibrocystic disease," for those of you who know anything about cattle, it was similar to when a cow gets mastitis. I was treated with Vitamin E, of all things, and the mass melted down to a little knot which only a trained professional or I can feel. Eight out of 10 lumps, I learned, are not caused by cancer.

A few days ago my doctor thought it wise for me to have a follow-up mammogram, primarily because of the new equipment which is now available for this at the hospital right here in Snyder. Let me tell you...it's a whole new thing these days. Everything is done for the care and consideration of the patient; you wouldn't believe how nice it is.

First of all, if you have insurance, the staff in that department of Cogdell's will take care of all of that for you. You don't have to fill out any complicated forms. At the Radiology Department, there is a waiting room with magazines, but you won't have to wait long when you have an appointment. (Mammograms are done on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Have your doctor make an appointment, or make one yourself.)

A smiling, attractive X-ray technician will walk you down to the examination room, and what a surprise! It's a lovely, feminine room, done up in dainty, flowered wallpaper in pink and aqua, with discreet pink fabric blinds covering frosted windows for the utmost privacy, and a comfortable matching chair. A brass-framed mirror gives you a chance to set things aright after you dress, and an ivy plant in a brass container gives a touch of home to the room. You hardly even notice the superperson machine over by the wall.

Hint: Don't wear deodorant, as that can affect the results. Carry your own in your handbag; otherwise, some is provided for your use afterward. If you forget and wear some anyway, don't worry — they've thoughtfully put out some handi-wipes to help you correct your mistake. A paper blouse is left in the room to protect your modesty.

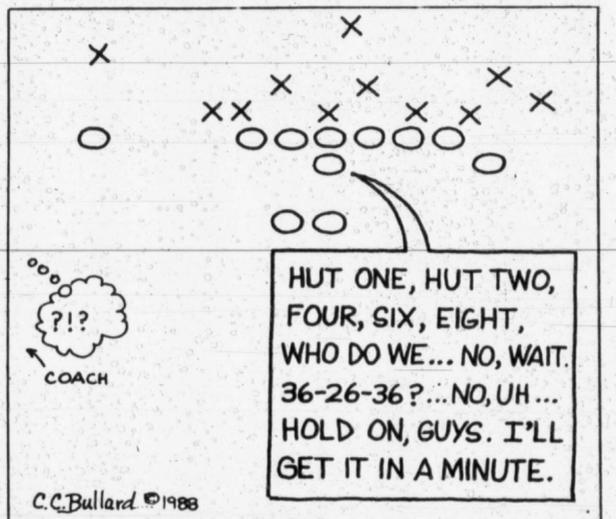

The lady technician handles herself with poise so that you suffer the least possible embarrassment. The X-rays are done while you stand — two views of each breast taken from different angles. This involves gently squeezing the breast to a uniform consistency. Be prepared — you may wonder if you are going to look like a walking pair of cymbals for the rest of your life, and there may be a few seconds of mild discomfort if your breast is tender, but the whole thing is done in minutes. The technician checks to make sure the picture is clear so that you don't have to be called back, and a qualified M.D. radiologist studies your X-rays.

The whole thing — from insurance to deodorant — takes less than 45 minutes. The cost is — are you ready for this? Only $60. (That includes the radiologist's evaluation.) You'd pay that for a couple of nights out on the town. Isn't your health worth a whole lot more? And the results only take a few days.

If you are over 35 and have never had a mammogram done — I beg you...do it as soon as possible. Two-thirds of breast cancers occur in women this age. A mammogram can discover a lump before it has spread to the crucial lymph nodes. Nine out of 10 patients survive five years or more when cancer is identified at this early stage. Only one out of you are over 50 and have never had a mammogram done — I beg you...do it as soon as possible. Two-thirds of breast cancers occur in women this age. A mammogram can discover a lump before it has spread to the crucial lymph nodes. Nine out of 10 patients survive five years or more when cancer is identified at this early stage. Only one out of two survives for that period when the cancer has been found to spread beyond the breast. And don't worry — state-of-the-art equipment keeps radiation down to a very minimal level. SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

September 18

Spokesmen for two United States senators and the 17th Congressional District congressman indicated late last week that there is a fairly good chance for an extension to be granted in the Immigration and Naturalization Service's deportation case against the Jack Pointeau family of Snyder, it was reported Sunday.

In Washington, D.C., a legislative assistant for Rep. Charles Stenholm said the congressman has notified the INS of his intention to file a bill to grant the Pointeaus a permanent visa this week.

A longtime Sun Exploration and Production Co. executive has been appointed superintendent of the company's gas and CO2 plants here, it was reported Sunday.

Larry McConkey, 44, formerly of Longview, replaces Ronnie Foust, who has been assigned to the company's plant operations in McAllen.

The addition of ammonia to the city water system has successfully reduced trihalomethane levels to well below government standards, but officials note the change has created an unwanted side effect—an increase in the water's taste and odor, it was reported Sunday.

MONDAY

September 19

Snyder received 3.2 inches from almost a constant and slow-falling rain here Saturday and Sunday, while portions of the county received up to 5½ inches, it was reported Monday.

This brought the year-to-date figure to 19.95 inches, which is approximately the amount normally recorded in Scurry County for a 12-month period.

From the weekend storm system, an offshoot of Hurricane Gilbert, rain gauges near Ira recorded 5½ inches while Dunn had some 5 inches.

TUESDAY

September 20

The six candidates for 1988 Homecoming Queen were pictured. They include Rhonda Echols, Michele Anderson, Christy Quintela, Jacy LaRoux, Amber Adams and Christy

Holmes.

Chamber directors were updated Tuesday on local efforts to stay in contact with Texas Department of Corrections officials—plans designed to secure such projects as a 1,000-man addition to the local prison unit now under construction.

Roy McQueen, head of the Economic Development Committee, said committee members learned at a recent TDC meeting of projects the TDC board will request to include three additional 2,250-man units; three additional 1,000-man units; and two 500-man psychiatric care units.

WEDNESDAY

September 21

The Board of County Development Wednesday met with representatives of the city and county governments and the Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Committee to discuss expanding the chamber's AJRA Committee.

BCD Chairman Jack Denman said AJRA Committee Chairman Ralph Miller is seeking an expansion of his group so that more of a cross-section of the community will be represented.

THURSDAY

September 22

A private bill which, if passed, would grant permanent residency status for the Jack Pointeau family was introduced Thursday by U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm (D-Stamford).

Due to the constricted time frame for the current session of Congress, however, aides for Stenholm admit there is a possibility the elected body may adjourn before final action can be taken.

"I think regardless the Pointeaus will have some indication what their chances are," an aide said.

The doors to the 23rd annual Scurry County fair opened at noon Thursday.

The net loss in operation at Cogdell Memorial Hospital for the period January through August has been reduced by 72 percent, hospital board members were informed Thursday.

The hopeful indication regarding hospital finances was offered by administrator Tom Hochwalt during his monthly financial report to the board.

August also marked the third consecutive month of "net income" at Cogdell, he noted. This figure reflects income billed versus expenses billed, and showed a net income of $8,678, he said.

Employing a physician recruitment firm to secure an internal medicine specialist for Cogdell Memorial might cost the facility some $20,000 to $30,000 initially, but the income return could total as much as $567,000 annually, hospital board members were told Thursday.

These facts were part of a presentation offered by Dane Altman, a Dallas-based representative of the firm Jackson and Coker, which headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

Hospital board members are now exploring the possibility of employing such a firm to recruit an internist.

The homecoming parade and bonfire were held Thursday in preparation for the Friday night Snyder High School homecoming football game here.

To the editor,

The Martha Ann Woman's Club board extends sincere apologies to those who came too late to have brisket at the annual fall barbecue held Sept. 16.

We give our promise that this will not happen again. The de-

We give our thanks to Hank Davis and the Westerners who provided the entertainment. A big thank you to all the ladies who worked so hard, and a special thank you to our decorating committee, La Nell Rambin, chairman, June McGlaun, Georgene Galloway, Velma Lunsford, and Doris Beaver.

Again, thank you Snyder for making the supper a tremendous success. We promise to provide enough beef next year!

Suspended term, fine given Deaver

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michael K. Deaver, once one of President Reagan's closest aides, was given a suspended three-year sentence Friday and fined $100,000 for lying under oath about his lobbying activities after he left the White House.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson, saying he doubted a prison term would deter others from committing what he called "the crime of opportunity," also ordered Deaver to perform 1,500 hours of community service.

In addition, the judge directed Deaver to refrain from lobbying the federal government during the term of his suspended sentence.

After the hearing, Deaver told reporters, "It was a very fair sentence, if I had been guilty."

Outside the federal courthouse, Deaver said he has proposed to the court that he fulfill the community service requirement by counseling alcoholics.

Although Jackson said he did not doubt that Deaver had given false answers to questions about his lobbying, the judge said imprisonment would not be the correct way to rehabilitate Deaver.

Jackson, referring to Deaver's fight against alcoholism, said that "such rehabilitation as is needed, as he well knows, must come from within himself."

In pleading for leniency, Deaver, once Reagan's deputy chief of staff, said that the investigation "has taken a terrible toll on me and my family and my friends and my business."

But Deaver said, "I can take comfort in the fact that I have had the support of friends and family in coming to grips with the worst demon that I faced, and that was alcoholism."

His realization that he had a problem with alcoholism "changed my life dramatically," Deaver said before the sentence was announced.

In explaining the sentence, however, Jackson dismissed a defense argument that Deaver's memory was clouded by alcoholism when he lied under oath to a House subcommittee and to a grand jury.

The judge said there was "no physiological explanation and excuse for the incorrect answers he gave."

Deaver was convicted of three counts of lying when questioned about whether his contacting former Reagan administration colleagues on behalf of his corporate clients was a violation of federal ethics laws.

Noting that Deaver had "honorably served the president of the United States," Jackson said Deaver had not been convicted of influence peddling.

That comment appeared to be a rebuff to independent counsel Whitney North Seymour Jr., who had urged a prison term to set an example for influence peddlers.

The judge gave Deaver suspended concurrent three-year sentences for each of the three perjury convictions, which carried a maximum possible sentence of five years each.

Loose Lips Turn Daughter's Divorce Into a Family Affair

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I was very unhappily married and had an affair. My husband found out about it, kicked me out of the house and sued for divorce. (Our son was 1 1/2 years old at the time.)

Abby, I know that having an affair was wrong, and I have suffered for it greatly since. I was in such a state of despair at the time, I confided in my mother. Three months later, I visited my parents and found out that my mother had told all the relatives and even some of my friends about my affair! I was just devastated. I felt betrayed by my own mother. When I confronted her and asked her how she could do such a thing to me, she said, "Well, you don't just get a divorce for nothing, and when people asked me what was behind it, I didn't want to lie."

Abby, I would have just let them wonder. Nobody had to know the details. I am having a hard time trying to forgive my mother. Do you think it was necessary for her to have told everybody who asked her the reason for my divorce? I believe in being totally honest, but aren't there times when people don't have to tell everything they know?

BETRAYED BY MY MOTHER

DEAR BETRAYED: Your anger is justified. Your mother betrayed you. She was not on a witness stand under oath, so she wasn't obligated to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Perhaps she was so angry with you for having messed up your marriage, she was in no mood to protect you. In any case, please let go of your anger and try to forgive her. Life is too short to harbor this grudge.

DEAR ABBY: We hear so much these days about how careful we should be with our credit cards, etc., as dishonest people may get a hold of them.

I would like to warn people to carefully dispose of personal papers, business letters, bank statements, canceled checks, etc. My husband has a bad habit of throwing such items into the trash. I have pointed out to him that anyone who goes through our trash could find out everything about us — our names, address, Social Security numbers, IRA numbers, bank balance, holdings and even our telephone number! He shrugs it off while I try to tear up as much as I can.

I wish someone would bring out a small shredder for use on home desks. It would make a good gift for someone like my husband. In the meantime, warn others to tear up everything before trashing it.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CALIFORNIAN: Good advice, but don't be so sure there aren't desktop shredders. Inquire at your local stationery shops and places selling office equipment.

DEAR ABBY: The letters about people whose family name is Hogg caught my attention, because I also have a name that causes people to comment. My last name is Nutt. It is not uncommon in the United States, but in the city where I live, there are only six Nutts in the telephone directory — my father-in-law, my husband and his three brothers. (One is named Paul, so he is referred to as "P. Nut.")

I am not embarrassed by my name, but strangely enough, it is often misunderstood, and people think I'm "Mrs. Nutt," which is just as bad, or worse. (I'd rather be considered "crazy" than an unpedigreed dog.)

My mother-in-law has a sign hanging on her front door made by one of her sons. It reads: The Nutt House. You can imagine how much fun some people have with that.

Anyway, no matter how dull life gets, I can always depend on my name to liven things up.

A NUTT IN SALT LAKE CITY

Dear Abby's Cookbooklet is a collection of favorite recipes — all tested, tried and terrific! To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: I want to express my opinion on the big controversy about whether we should keep "The Star-Spangled Banner" as our national anthem, or change it to "America the Beautiful."

When I hear "The Star-Spangled Banner," I get all choked up and feel a great pride in our country. It reminds me of the struggle our forefathers had to gain freedom, and keep it.

All I feel when I hear "America the Beautiful" is a sense of disappointment because our country doesn't match the words.

When I hear "amber waves of grain" and "the fruited plains," all I see are farmers going bankrupt and more and more of our property being sold to foreign investors.

Our "spacious skies" are so polluted already, they pose health risks. Our "purple mountains" may still be majestic, but how long will they remain that way with logging and mining and encroaching civilization bringing more pollution?

And "crowning our good with brotherhood"? With all the violence, crime and racial inequality, it seems hypocritical. Also, all the offshore drilling and spills, as well as dumping sewage into our lakes and oceans, make "from sea to shining sea" ridiculous.

Abby, even though "The Star-Spangled Banner" may be more difficult to sing, we should not consider changing it to "America the Beautiful" until we clean up our act and live up to the words of the song.

DON'T USE MY NAME

DEAR DON'T: One of our most cherished rights is freedom of speech. Your points are well taken. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: After all the discussion in regards to the Hogg family of Texas, I couldn't resist sending you the enclosed item from The Cheyenne (Okla.) Star. Here's the headline: "Hogg and Hamm Exchange Marriage Vows."

Yes, Susan Kay Hogg married Russel G. Hamm on Aug. 12 at the First Baptist Church in Leedy, Okla.

This reminds me of something that happened out in western Oklahoma where I grew up. A young fellow named Corn married a girl named Cobb. A year later, they had a baby boy, whom they properly named "Nubbin."

When the mother brought the baby home from the hospital, she placed him in a crib, and all the neighbors gathered 'round and said, "Aw, shucks!"

DALE CANNON, TEMPE, ARIZ.

DEAR DALE: You have out-punned me. However, with regard to the Hogg-Hamm marriage: I'm sure it was legal, but it could not have been kosher.

DEAR ABBY: Please hurry your answer, as the time for my mother-in-law's visit is drawing near. She is by nature a very "curious" person ("nosy" would be a better word), so what should I say when I catch her going through the drawers in my bedroom?

The last time this happened, her excuse was, "I want to know what you need for Christmas."

RESENTFUL

DEAR RESENTFUL: When your mother-in-law arrives, give her a list of "what you need for Christmas," and respectfully ask her to please stay out of your drawers.

Problems? What's bugging you? Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jetliner's door reportedly jammed

DALLAS (AP) — When the rear left exit on American Airlines Flight 135 did not open, passengers safely evacuated the Boeing 727 using other exits after the plane belly-landed Wednesday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

A similar rear left door also apparently jammed after the Aug. 31 crash at DFW of Delta Flight 1141 that resulted in 14 deaths.

Aviation experts say a wide range of possibilities could explain why some emergency exits cannot be opened after a crash. The Dallas Morning News reported in its Friday editions.

"Think about what happens when you're in a car accident," said a Dallas-area airline pilot with more than 20 years' experience. "Sometimes, even if you're in a fender-bender, the frame of the car buckles and the doors refuse to open. An airplane's not that much different."

Exits on a modern airliner are designed so the frame is smaller than the door. Structural engineers describe this as a safety feature that lessens the possibility of a door "blowing out" while the plane is pressurized, a procedure that ensures enough oxygen for passengers at high altitudes.

Federal regulations require that a commercial airliner be capable of being evacuated quickly even if some exits are inoperable.

In both the Delta and the American accidents, the rear of the plane hit the runway. The rear section of the 727 is reinforced to support the tail and engine mountings, but such ribbing is not carried throughout the plane because of the weight it would add. As a result, crinkles sometimes occur in the fuselage from impacts that could jar the door frames.

Some groups, including the Association of Flight Attendants, have argued that the Federal Aviation Administration needs to order more stringent requirements. The group also has opposed a proposal by some airlines to reduce the number of exits on the Boeing 747.

A jammed door that releases the left main landing gear is probably what forced the American jetliner to make a belly landing

Wednesday, officials said.

All 81 passengers and seven crew members on the plane evacuated safely within minutes of the landing. One person sprained an ankle when he slipped on the plane's wing. A 24-year-old Arlington, Texas, woman was treated and released at an area hospital Thursday afternoon for emotional stress following the incident.

The jet's flight engineer suffered cuts on his arm in attempts to manually crank the landing gear into place before the emergency landing. He did not require treatment.

American and airport workers hoisted the jetliner on cranes Thursday and tried for about nine hours to open the wheel-well door so the left wheel could be extended. Workers were finally forced to cut a hole in the wheel well and snap a bolt to release the door's lock, said Warren V. Wandel, an NTSB air safety investigator.

After investigators unlocked the door, Wandel said, "We've got a broken part in the landing gear door actuator assembly."

The hobbled plane was not removed from Runway 18L until

Treatment for three separate diseases

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My father, 64, was diagnosed as having thalassemia anemia. He's a heavy drinker, but has been on the wagon for seven months. He's also a diabetic, and his hemoglobin fluctuates between 7.5 and 8.6. What is the appropriate treatment for this problem?

DEAR READER: Your father appears to have three diseases: all are incurable, two are treatable.

Thalassemia is a genetically carried anemia characterized by shortened lifespan of red blood cells due to defective hemoglobin synthesis. The severe form, thalassemia major, appears in infancy and is marked by profound anemia and massive enlargement of the spleen, the abdominal organ that filters out deficient red corpuscles. Because children with the disorder often require transfusions in order to survive, they tend to develop hemochromatosis (iron overload), a dangerous disease of iron excess.

The mild form, thalassemia minor, is associated with chronic anemia that causes fatigue. Hemoglobin levels of eight (normal 13-16) are common. I suspect that your father's low hemoglobin values reflect his thalassemia. Because it is a genetic defect, thalassemia is not treatable or curable by present methods.

You mention that your father was a "heavy drinker" and that he has been sober for seven months. I think that he deserves a lot of credit for taking such a courageous step in handling what I assume to be alcoholism. Despite the recent Supreme Court ruling that alcohol is willful abuse, most medical experts believe that it is a disease. The only treatment is abstinence. The condition is incurable; once an alcoholic, always an alcoholic. However, it is treatable and your father is on the right road toward controlling it. His health and his life will improve — and so will his diabetes — as he continues to enjoy sobriety.

Diabetes is a complex metabolic disorder characterized by the body's inability to produce enough insulin — or, in some cases, to use the insulin that is available. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title. Diabetes is incurable. However, it is readily controlled by a variety of means, including diet, weight loss, blood-sugar-lowering pills, or injections of insulin.

Therefore, the answer to your question is as follows: your father needs to follow his doctor's advice regarding diet and other therapy for diabetes; he should remain abstinent because of his alcoholism; no treatment is available for thalassemia.

Finding a cure for heart disease

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Coronary artery disease, the cause of heart attacks, is a major health problem worldwide. Researchers in many laboratories are trying to discover the process by which coronary arteries age, become narrowed and eventually block off, resulting in myocardial infarction (heart attack).

This much is known: As people grow older, the linings of their arteries become roughened and irregular, a far cry from the Teflon-smooth arterial linings of children. The primary cause of this alteration has been shown to be the atheromatous plaque, a sticky hodge-podge deposit that acts very much like a grimy spot of creosote in a smooth flue. While they slowly build up over the years, these plaques — which are composed of cholesterol, protein and cellular debris — cause an irritation within the arterial lining. The irritation attracts white blood cells that attempt to dislodge the deposit, as they would try to destroy any other foreign material in the body.

Because of its rough unevenness, the plaque also attracts platelets, the tiny blood cells that form the basis of blood clots. When enough platelets adhere to the shaggy and tacky plaque, a clot forms, further blocking the artery, slowing blood flow and enlarging it to fill the arterial opening. Once the artery is severely narrowed, heart cramps (angina) can appear; once the artery is completely occluded, myocardial infarction is a certainty.

Until the last few years, scientists believed that the endothelium (arterial lining) acted primarily as a coating for the deeper, muscular layers of the artery. Being a delicate, single membrane barely one cell thick, the endothelium was regarded simply as a sheet through which hormones, nutrients and waste products passively diffused. Recent studies have shown that this view was incorrect. New discoveries have opened up a whole new realm of information that may eventually lead to a practical preventative for heart attacks.

Among other functions, the endothelium has been shown to participate actively in a complex series of metabolic reactions, all of which influence the tone or state of contraction of the artery. These functions include:

- the uptake and destruction of epinephrine (adrenalin) and serotonin, two powerful natural chemicals that cause constriction of blood vessels;

- the conversion of angiotensin I to angiotensin II, another powerful constrictor of arteries;

- the breakdown of bradykinin, a potent dilator of arteries, to inactive compounds;

- the release of a group of substances called "endothelium-derived relaxing factor" (EDRF), a vigorous dilator of arteries.

Thus, to the endothelium falls the job of balancing strong chemicals that either widen arteries or constrict them. Nature seems to have provided an intricate protective mechanism by which the endothelium of the coronary arteries reacts to injury or to blood-clot formation by stimulating the muscle layers to relax — allowing for healing as well as for a flushing out of any blockage.

When the endothelial lining is disrupted, as is the case with an atheromatous plaque, the defense mechanism is neutralized; a clot grows and heart attack ensues. This relation has been unequivocally demonstrated in a number of studies that have linked abnormal endothelial function to arterial spasm, especially in arteriosclerotic coronary arteries with fixed obstruction. In one study, the intravenous administration of a coronary dilator (acetylcholine) actually caused arterial constriction in patients with atheromatous plaques, showing that the relaxing effects of EDRF were inoperative.

At present, there is no practical application for these intriguing findings. About all we can do is to maintain healthful lifestyles: exercise regularly, reduce dietary fat, stop smoking, stay trim — in short, try to retard the inevitable build-up of atheromatous plaques in our rusting pipes.

However, doctors are hoping that before too long, scientists will develop ways of sealing the endothelium of our coronary arteries, thereby encouraging our own astonishing defense mechanisms to protect us from coronary artery disease. Of course, the implications of such a breakthrough are staggering; other vascular diseases, as well as asthma and emphysema, have been shown to depend on endothelial integrity. The secret of curing these afflictions may lie in the deceptively simple and proletarian lining of blood vessels, to which no one paid much attention until recently.

Reagan stumps for Bush; $3 million in funds raised

HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan came to Texas to give Discovery astronauts a presidential sendoff and help raise big bucks at a George Bush fundraiser where Reagan told Bush supporters to send liberals a message: "Don't mess with Texas."

The fund-raiser, entitled "A Texan Becomes President," raised about $3 million for the Bush campaign coffers.

Bush, a former Texas oilman, came to the Lone Star state, armed with a comprehensive policy for national energy security.

The plan includes tax incentives for returning stripper wells to production and more research and development, tax credits for exploration and drilling, liberalization of the intangible drilling cost provisions in the tax code, increasing the fill rate of the strategic petroleum reserve and decontrol of natural gas.

Reagan announced earlier Thursday he had signed a measure to repeal the windfall profits tax which he said was a windfall for the liberals and their government programs.

Fire ants are invading homes

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Fire ants are setting up house in homes in a big way for the first time, possibly because of the current dry spell, says a Texas A&M University entomologist.

Not since fire ants invaded American soil some 60 years ago have they behaved as badly as they have this summer. "They're behaving unusually bad this year," entomologist Brad Vinson said. "They are going into people's houses, into the kitchen, the bedrooms, even in the closets."

"They have entered people's homes in past years, but it's never been the kind of problem it has been this summer," Vinson said. "Either that, or people are just calling in a whole lot more."

Before this year's drought drove the pesky critters into our living rooms, fire ants were known mostly for entering a home during heavy showers. But they would eventually return to the outside, Vinson explained.

"In past summers when it got so hot and dry they retreated into the ground for the moisture, but this year there is so little moisture in the ground, they don't prefer it as much," he said.

The ground is so powdery it's hard for the ants to build their mounds, and the drought is killing some of them off, Vinson said. Meanwhile, as well as moving into houses, more and more of them are living in the tops of trees, in logs, on the roof, or in the gutters and most of these colonies are multiple-queen colonies, he said.

Controlling the ants will become more and more difficult as increasing numbers of multiple-queen colonies are established, Vinson said. He and other scientists from the University of Texas and the Texas Department of Agriculture recently found that as many as 70 percent to 80 percent of the state's infested counties now have multiple-queen colonies.

"That's a dramatic increase. The multiple-queen colonies are just about everywhere in Texas where there are fire ants," Vinson said. "Before we began collecting the information last spring, we thought just a few counties had multiple-queen colonies."

Increasing numbers of queens ensure their survival, says Vinson, who maintains it will be difficult to get fire ant populations under control using conventional chemical means.

"We're going to have to develop new methods of biological control to reduce fire ant populations," he said.

Part of Vinson's current research includes evaluating pathogens that thrive on insect larvae and could help reduce fire ant populations. The pathogens being evaluated include nematodes, or small worms, and the Beauveria fungus that lives on insect larvae.

"These agents would infest the larvae and keep the fire ants from developing, but they aren't as strong as the pathogens that will be needed. Right now we're just learning more about how pathogens might be used," Vinson said an ideal pathogen would be one that infests one colony and then moves on to other colonies.

"We need a more pathogenic organism," he said, "one that will spread from one colony to another."

Researchers at Texas A&M and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station headquartered at Texas A&M are working with scientists from Georgia, Florida and Louisiana as well to combat fire ants, Vinson said.

Heart-tugging letter fails to sway judge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A heart-tugging letter from an 11-year-old girl failed to persuade a judge to reduce a 99-year prison sentence her mother received for her part in the murder of the girl's younger sister.

"Please judge give us back our mom cause we miss and we need her and we love her," the girl said in a letter read to state District Judge Mike Machado during a court hearing Thursday.

But the judge said he stuck to his sentence because he said it was apparent to him from photographs of the body that the dead 5-year-old girl suffered severe beatings over a long period of time.

A defense lawyer for Gricelda Moreno, 29, had filed a motion asking for a new trial and a reduced sentence.

The mother last month was sentenced to 99 years in prison after she pleaded guilty to a charge of murder by omission in the beating death of her daughter, Yvette.

Yvette was fatally beaten with a 3-foot stick last August. Photographs introduced during the trial showed numerous bruises. The child's fingers had been pounded with a hammer, she was malnourished and there had been testimony at the trial that she had been sexually abused.

The judge denied the motions after testimony from two psychologists and the mother and the letter from the girl was read.

"I asked her (Moreno) if it (the beating) was a one-time thing, and she said, 'No,'" Machado told the San Antonio Light.

The woman's husband, Antonio Gonzales, 42, in July was found guilty of committing the murder and sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Testimony at his trial revealed that the mother was aware of the beatings in Yvette's death, but that she was too scared to report the attacks to police.

Under Texas law, a person can be charged with murder by omission if he or she fails to report to police any beatings which eventually lead to death.

"I asked her to read the letter she had written and she started to cry," defense lawyer Paul Canales said, adding he then proceeded to read the handwritten, one-page letter to the judge.

"I want to know how come you gave my mom 99 years in prison," the girl's letter said.

Burglar picked wrong victim

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A burglar picked the wrong victim in Mike Synar when he allegedly stole a pair of gold cuff links from the Oklahoma congressman's Washington home.

Synar chased and tackled the man Thursday with assistance from a passerby.

The 37-year-old Democrat said he returned home shortly after dawn from jogging to find a

"She was always nice. She used (sic) to work so she could buy us some food and some clothes. She never hit us not even Yvette."

Canales said the daughter who wrote the letter, Yolanda, did so on her own.

"She just showed up with it in court," he said.

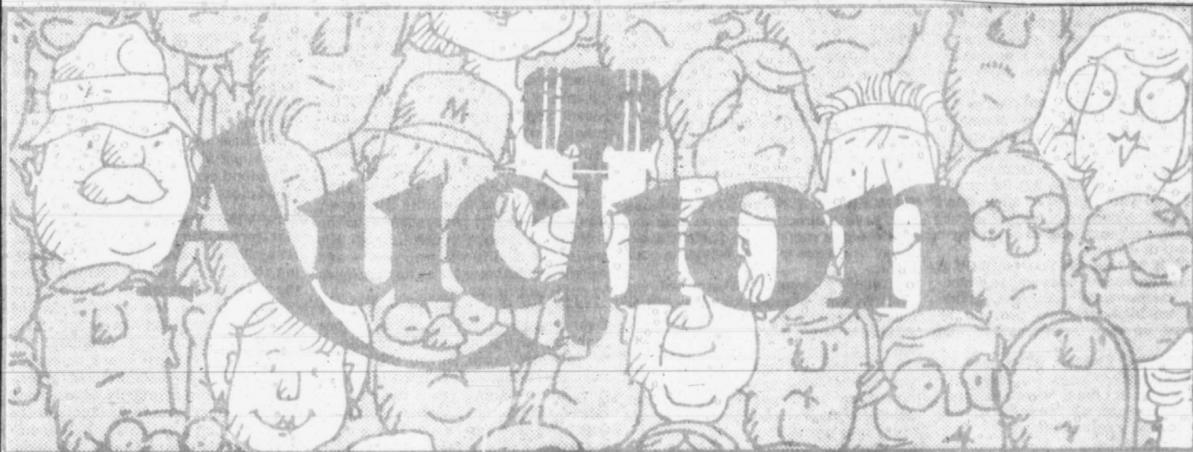

The defense lawyer said he felt the mother's punishment was too harsh, especially since she had cooperated with prosecutors by testifying against Gonzales.

burglar in his house.

"I was standing outside my house screaming, 'Call 911, call 911!' I looked like Richard Dreyfuss in the movie 'Down and Out in Beverly Hills,'" Synar told The Tulsa Tribune's Washington bureau.

Synar said when he saw the man open a second-story bedroom window and hop out, he shouted for help to a young man.

'Detour to death' said under investigation

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Officials are investigating why five buses swept away by Hurricane Gilbert made a detour from their planned route into a riverbed, putting them in the path of the disaster in which at least 140 people died.

At least 5,000 families remained in shelters throughout northern Nuevo Leon state after last week's flash floods caused by Hurricane Gilbert destroyed homes in the normally dry Santa Catarina riverbed and near other flooded rivers, the government said Thursday.

In a controversy dubbed by the local press as "the detour to death," state police said they were looking for reasons that the five buses detoured from their planned route, only to be swept into the raging waters Saturday morning.

"We're trying to understand why they were detoured there and who was responsible," said Gilbert Sanchez of the state police.
