Teacher salary 'inequities' studied

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor
Snyder school administrators are now studying ways to correct "inequities" in the pay scale levels used to categorize Snyder teachers.

Tuesday, a preview of one proposed solution was profiled for the school board—a plan designed so that no individual teacher would receive a pay cut and the majority, some 86 percent, would receive pay raises beginning next year.

These pay increases would range from as little as $165 to as much as $2,150 per year.

Second-year teachers classified in Level 1—who would be paid $19,000 per year—and Level 10—the top pay scale at approximately $29,000-plus—would receive no increases.

These two levels currently involve 36 teachers. The majority of teachers, some 206, would receive pay hikes after being frozen in salary for the past three years.

The intent of the plan—still only in the proposal stage—would be to pay all Snyder teachers the same dollar amount "above state base."

State base is the salary which school districts must pay teachers according to their year's experience. This experience is divided into 10 levels based on a state formula.

With the current method, some Snyder teachers are paid as much as $3,800 above "state base" for their particular level, while others are paid as little as $675.

The proposal discussed Tuesday would move toward paying all local teachers a minimum of $1,685 above state base. If ultimately adopted, cost to the district would be some $217,000 more in payroll during 1989-90.

Law officials call rumors of 'cults' unfounded stories

Sheriff Keith Collier said Wednesday that rumors of devil worship and potential kidnappings, apparently related to the Sept. 2 disappearance of a 7-year-old Stamford girl, are unfounded in Scurry and adjacent counties.

In a joint statement with the Snyder Police Department, Collier said rumors have become rampant of a Satanic cult in the Snyder, Colorado City, Sweetwater and Rotan area seeking school children for sacrifices.

He said one recent rumor, that young Courtney Lyn Clayton's body had been found in Colorado City with the heart cut out and that law enforcement officers were hiding the discovery, is typical of the stories that have been circulating.

"If a body had been found, it would be national news," Collier said. "We don't have any more to worry about than we have always had, with what parents have always taught their children: don't get in the car with a stranger."

"We feel that it's a bunch of vicious rumors, and it keeps getting bigger and bigger."

The sheriff said he and local police are taking the approach that "there is no more danger than normal."

Checks with surrounding towns and counties, he said, have not confirmed rumors of Satanic cult activity. "If there are any (such groups) in this area, we are not aware of it at this time," the sheriff said.

He added that the Clayton girl's kidnapping is not believed to have been related to such a group or to a ritualistic child sacrifice.

Collier said he was told that the FBI has no new leads into that case.

Firm hired to recruit physicians

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members Tuesday night chose a Houston company to aid in the recruitment of a surgeon and an internist for the hospital's medical staff.

After a discussion of the relative merits of Jackson and Coker of Atlanta and Whitaker, Fellows & Associates of Houston, administrator Thomas Hochwalt recommended Whitaker, Fellows because of various stipulations in the two proposed contracts.

Hochwalt said he preferred the Houston firm in part because Jackson and Coker would require the payment of an $8,000 fee even if the hospital found its own physicians.

Both firms would have been "retained searches" which involve upfront retainers from the hospital.

The fee for Whitaker, Fellows & Associates is $4,000. In addition, See HOSPITAL, page 9

Jury awards conclude building dispute trial

A 132nd District Court jury Tuesday night awarded a local realtor $33,543 in her suit against a Sweetwater contractor over the 1985 construction of her 30th St. office building.

In a separate judgment, the jury also awarded some $13,000 to the defendant in the case for work performed and not specified in the original contract.

The jury found that Elizabeth Potts was entitled to $20,543 for repairs, $3,000 for the costs of discovering the nature of the damages and $10,000 for attorney's fees.

Also, the panel ruled that defendant Len Dockum of Gulf Coast Construction Co. performed $8,000 in work that was not called for in the original contract on Potts' previous office building and home.

Dockum was also awarded $5,000 in attorney's fees on that issue, making his total award $13,000.

The trial began in 132nd District Court Sept. 19 with testimony heard through the 23rd. It was recessed for one week and resumed Tuesday.

School's renovation due event

A chili supper is planned here Saturday as a fund raiser for the renovation of the Dermott School, recently moved to the grounds of the Scurry County Coliseum.

The restoration is a project of the Scurry County Historical Society, which will sponsor Saturday's event in conjunction with White Buffalo Day activities at the coliseum.

A meal of chili, cornbread and cake will be served from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday. Cost of the meal will be $4 per person.

Tours of both the Cornelius-Dodson House and the Dermott school will be conducted during this time.

OATS AND TURNIPS — David Kattes, left, and County Agent Marvin Ensor inspect Kattes' field of oats and turnips for grazing livestock northwest of Snyder — one of the sites to be visited in Thursday's annual Scurry County Ag Tour, which will leave the coliseum ag annex at 9 a.m. A breakfast of coffee and pastries will be served at 8:30 a.m. and the tour is expected to conclude by noon. (SDN Staff Photo)

Former WTC artist returns to exhibit at 'Buffalo Moon'

Pam Gilbreath Watkins, a former Snyder resident who pursues her artistry amid the historic live oaks of Buffalo Gap, will again display her works here at the Scurry County Museum's new "Night of the Buffalo Moon" exhibit opening this weekend.

The works may be previewed by museum association members attending a Friday night opening reception. Reservations for this event are asked by Thursday.

The artist's inventory includes bronze sculptures, both limited and non-limited editions, mixed-media sculptures, photographs and paintings.

Watkins was named an Outstanding Art Student while she attended Western Texas College. More recently, she was a finalist in the Texas State Artist competition.

Much of Watkins' time is spent doing commissioned bronze sculptures which compound her reputation for producing art-works requested by and appealing to her many admirers. Two of her larger works include a life-sized Royal Bengal Tiger displayed at Corsicana High

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "One robin may not make a spring, but one lark may lead to a fall."

Some call us cynical, but we doubt that it really matters who is elected president. Regardless of the political banner, it will still be the entrenched bureaucrats who run this country and who write retroactive regulations.

Even if the political process were meaningful, the average voter in America isn't considered intelligent enough or important enough by most folks who seek the offices.

The Democrats, for example, have talked about party harmony ever since the Atlanta convention. Such harmony was said the result of an agreement between Dukakis and runnerup Jesse Jackson.

Jackson's top advisor, from the Institute for Policy Studies, believes that Jackson's views are very much a part of the Democratic platform.

He explained the reason for the lack of a floor fight over planks in the platform: "The Dukakis people gave us so much of what we wanted—so long as we were willing to accept language so broad and generalized that the ideas sound innocuous. Seventy percent of the platform is actually from Jackson's agenda, but you'd never be able to figure that out unless you were an expert."

Sounds like Dukakis is counting on experts—not the voters.

Just to be fair, there's no use letting Republican George Bush off the hook. Said one senator, "When he got off the boat and said Quayle, I thought he was ordering dinner."

After the New Orleans convention, a cartoon ran in that newspaper showing Bush surrounded by an image coach, posture coach, makeup artist, charisma tutor, humor instructor and speech writer.

The latter admonished the candidate, "Just go out there and be yourself."

AD board views upkeep for building

The Scurry County Appraisal District board met Tuesday evening to approve September bills and discuss the upkeep of appraisal offices.

Chief Appraiser Ray Peveler gave an estimated cost for interior painting and said he would present bids for the job at the October meeting.

In other discussion, Peveler gave cost estimates for future computer needs which the board agreed to reconsider at a later date.

The auditor's report for collections in the Hermleigh and Ira school districts showed 96.25% and 98.38% of the respective taxes had been collected.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Fort Worth police officer was killed early today when his patrol car flipped and fell 15 feet into a construction area on a dirt embankment along Interstate 30.

Deputy Chief Mike Culppepper said Officer Walter Steven Taylor, 33, was dead on arrival at Harris Methodist Hospital in Fort Worth after he was airlifted from the scene at the intersection of the interstate and what had been the Montgomery Street exit.

PTL trustee accepts sale agreement

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — PTL's trustee has accepted a $115 million bid from a Canadian businessman for the Christian ministry's assets, but the buyer, who is Jewish, hasn't said what he will do with the remnants of Jim Bakker's empire.

The decision Tuesday came down to who offered "the most money and the best terms," said bankruptcy trustee M.C. "Red" Benton.

"I'd hoped we could get a bit more for it. But this is not a bad price," said Benton, who spent nearly six months talking with bidders.

One of them was Bakker, who nearly a month ago failed to secure the financing for his $172 million offer.

Bakker gave a conditional blessing to the winning bid by Stephen R. Mernick of Toronto.

"Tammy and I remain committed to the restoration of the ministry of PTL," Bakker said in a statement. "If the present offer is agreeable to the creditors, the partners (PTL's major donors) and the court, and God's will is satisfied with respect to the ministry of PTL, we will be happy with that outcome."

Mernick, 34, will pay $50 million at closing, which the contract set at no later than Dec. 31, and the balance over five years, said his attorney, Joseph Klutz.

If approved by a U.S. Bankruptcy Court judge in Columbia, S.C., Mernick will own the 500-acre Heritage USA, a Christian retreat and theme park south of Charlotte in York County, S.C.; the PTL satellite TV network; and 1,700 undeveloped acres in York County.

PTL's religious functions have been separated from its other operations, and the Heritage USA Church is leasing back its facilities from PTL to continue on-site worship and Christian broadcasting.

Mernick, an Orthodox Jew who was celebrating the holiday Simchat Torah, did not travel to Charlotte to attend Tuesday's news conference announcing the winning bid.

Klutz said Mernick has interests in real estate, clothing, garbage collection and landfills.

"His primary interest as a businessman is to get a maximum return on his investment," Klutz said.

In a Sept. 15 letter to Benton, Mernick said he "would welcome the opportunity to meet with representatives of any group or groups that are seriously interested in exploring ways of preserving or enhancing the Christian orientation of parts or all of the existing developed assets."

Aaron Grubner, Mernick's attorney in Toronto, told The Charlotte Observer last month that Mernick wanted PTL because "it's a large tract of land, and I'm not sure those types of parcels are readily available."

Mernick, who entered the negotiations a month ago, outbid fellow Canadian Peter Thomas of Vancouver. Thomas offered $113 million, $46 million of it in cash, but not all would have been payable until September 1989.

By signing Mernick's contract, Benton agreed to stop negotiating with any other bidders and to file a motion with Bankruptcy Judge Rufus Reynolds recommending Mernick's offer by Friday.

Other bidders may still present offers directly to the court, but Benton said his recommendation gives Mernick the upper hand.

Reynolds has said a firm bid must be submitted by Oct. 14 or he would order PTL's assets sold to pay creditors, who are estimated to be owed more than $130 million. He is expected to hold a hearing on the bid in about a month.

An assistant to Reynolds, Susanne Robicsek, said the judge "doesn't have any comment" on the offer.

PTL has been in bankruptcy reorganization since June 1987.

Finding a treatment for scleroderma

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have scleroderma. For about eight years the skin on my hands, wrists and forehead has tightened and become shiny. Now I'm having trouble digesting food. One doctor says the scleroderma has moved inside but no one offers any prognosis or treatment. Can you?

DEAR READER: Scleroderma is marked by progressive degenerative changes in the skin, joints, intestinal tract, lungs, heart and kidneys. The disease is chronic, of unknown cause and untreatable. Therapy is directed toward relieving symptoms.

Scleroderma is four times more common in women than in men. It typically produces taut, shiny skin, but it commonly causes peptic disease, characterized by heartburn and disorders in the way the esophagus propels food to the stomach. In addition, lung scarring, heart irregularities and kidney failure frequently appear during the chronic stages of the disease.

When esophageal problems develop, patients are often helped by eating frequent small meals, using antacids and taking medicine that reduces the production of gastric acid.

The course of scleroderma is variable and unpredictable. Some patients experience only skin changes for many years. However, sooner or later, internal organs become affected; this requires special and individual treatment depending on which organs are involved.

Although most of the complications of scleroderma can be handled by physicians specializing in internal medicine, you and your doctor may feel more comfortable seeking advice from other specialists, such as rheumatologists, gastroenterologists and so forth, as the need arises. At the very least, you are entitled to a thorough description of your disease and treatment of your symptoms. Ask your doctor about this. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I went to a party where steak tartare was served. It tasted good, but is there any harm in eating raw beef? What symptoms should I look for?

DEAR READER: I believe that eating uncooked beef is unwise.

In the first place, meat that is commercially dressed and then ground in a supermarket or butcher shop can easily be contaminated with bacteria. These micro-organisms are ordinarily killed by heating, but can cause intestinal infections, with symptoms of abdominal pain and diarrhea.

Second, beef tapeworm (taenia saginata) can infect humans who eat undercooked beef. People who eat beef tartare may be unwittingly ingesting the taenia cysts, which then grow in the human intestine. Symptoms of beef tapeworm infection are usually mild, and can include abdominal pain, diarrhea and weight loss. The diagnosis is established by an analysis of the stool, showing segments of the adult worm. Taenia saginata infection has been reported in New England and on the West Coast, presumably because patients ate uncooked beef.

wanted South to know about the ace of clubs, he first bid four clubs. South rebid his diamonds, and North now bid five, hoping that partner would believe he had slam interest. But North had bid five diamonds without using a bullhorn (that would violate ethical proprieties), and from South's point of view that five-diamond bid might just be a decision as to the best choice of game contracts. That's why South passed.

Declarer won the ace of clubs, shedding a spade, and played A-K of hearts, throwing a spade from dummy. He then cashed his spade ace and ruffed a spade. He ruffed a club back to his hand and ruffed a small heart. His hearts were now good, with the queen still to play, so he played ace of diamonds and a diamond, angry that he had not bid the slam. And here's the good luck. Because West held K-J-10 of trumps, the defenders had to take two trump tricks and slam would have gone down.

A lucky misunderstanding

By James Jacoby

Here's an example of good luck at bridge. South pushed a bit when he jump-shifted to three diamonds, but he needed very little from North to make game or slam. Of course North got excited when he heard the jump shift, particularly since he had such good diamond support, which he could show by an immediate raise to four or five diamonds. However, since he also

Congress fails to update clean air law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Congress split by economic and regional differences has proven again that cleaning up air pollution from vehicle tailpipes and industrial smokestacks remains the nation's toughest environmental problem.

Only once since the Clean Air Act was enacted in 1970 has Congress been able to agree on major amendments to strengthen the basic law, and that occurred 11 years ago.

Two years ago, environmentalists in the House and Senate renewed the campaign to escalate the battle against urban smog, acid rain caused by coal-burning factories and power plants and toxic fumes from chemicals.

On Tuesday, they tossed in the towel, vowing to try again next year.

"There has not been sufficient willingness to compromise," said

Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, who spent much of 1988 trying to put together a consensus on a clean air bill. "As a result, we will do nothing."

Mitchell, citing this summer's smog alerts around the country, said the technology exists to control air pollution. "All we lack is the political will to do so."

Among those he cited as existing compromise were the environmental lobby and the two behemoths that would be most affected by such legislation: electric utilities and the auto industry, domestic and foreign.

Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., a veteran of clean air wars, pointed his finger at Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who held the Environment Committee's bill off the floor for 11 months while he pushed for concessions for West Virginia's coal.

ozone and carbon monoxide — chiefly from vehicle emissions — that has grown to the point that upwards of 100 urban areas are violating air quality standards designed to protect human health.

Also left in the dust was any new plan to deal with toxic fumes from chemical plants and the acid-rain chemicals produced by coal-burning power plants and factories.

Last month, Mitchell and Richard Trumka, president of the United Mine Workers union, worked out an acid rain plan that favored West Virginia's high sulfur coal industry and mandated the use of expensive stack gas scrubbers by about two dozen large utilities.

The proposal infuriated senators from Western states with cleaner burning, low sulphur coal. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., threatened to filibuster. The environmental lobby's Clean Air Coalition also criticized the plan, saying that no bill was better than a weak one.

Southern lawmakers were unhappy because the proposal would have forced some of their power plants to install scrubbers to solve what is generally seen in the Capitol as a problem of Midwest utilities polluting the Northeast.

For its part, the utilities' lobby, the Edison Electric Institute, consistently said "no" to acid rain controls. It cited scientific disagreements over the problem and said controls should await development of clean-coal technology, which is expected to be cheaper than scrubbers.

Matches tied, win on sets...

SHS netters nip Big Spring

BIG SPRING -- Snyder's Tigers aren't overwhelming opponents - just beating them. The Tigers went to battle with Big Spring here Tuesday, tied in matches 9 to 9, but eeked out yet another victory, 21-19 on sets. "This is the first time I've ever seen this many close ones," said a happy Snyder Coach Charlie Chrane, whose Tigers earlier in the season tied Fort Stockton and Sweetwater. Snyder lost to the Mustangs on sets, 21-19, but defeated Fort Stockton on games, 213-205, after sets were also tied at 40-40. The victory put Snyder at 4-1 in District 4-4A team tennis play as the Tigers head into Saturday's match with loop favorite Monahans. "We need to beat Monahans to guarantee a spot in the playoffs," said Coach Chrane. "If we get beat by Monahans we will have to count on Monahans beating Big Spring. If we can win we'd be No. 1 in the district. To beat Monahans though, we're going to have to have our best match of the season." Here Tuesday, Chrane was proud of the Tigers play against Big Spring. "We had an excellent team effort," said Chrane. "Everybody gave 100 percent and that's what we had to do to win. The kids rose to the occasion. We feel real good about that win and our effort." Kevin Winter and Brandon Martin led the boy's squad, combining for a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Binky Tubb and Wayne Simonek. Later, Winter defeated Tubb in singles play, 6-3, 6-4, and Martin ousted Eli Stoval, 6-2, 6-2. Snyder's Lori McFarland won both of her matches, defeating Tracy Owens, 6-0, 6-1, and teaming with Jennifer Harden to top Owens and Mary Kay Terrazas, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3. Harden was able to compete after suffering a sprained hand - not an ankle as has earlier been reported - on Saturday. Kim White and Gayle Henderson also won two matches apiece. In doubles play, they sat down Tammy Mason and E.D. Barnett, 6-3, 7-5. Later, White defeated Mason 6-4, 6-2 and Henderson stopped Barnett, 7-6, 6-1, in singles. Saturday's match in Monahans is scheduled for an 11 a.m. start.

Tiger girls take over second place in volleyball standings

ANDREWS -- Coach Patty Grimmert is thanking the fans who came to see the Lady Tigers whip Andrews and asking them to come out again Saturday.

Thomas, White are reinstated

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Football League announced the reinstatement of running backs Calvin Thomas of Chicago and Charles White of the Los Angeles Rams, who were serving suspensions for substance abuse. Commissioner Pete Rozelle allowed the players to return a few days earlier than their scheduled re-entry dates, the NFL statement said, as an accommodation to the players, who have missed four regular season games, and their teams.

"We want to thank the parents and fans, and the junior varsity girls, who came and cheered for us," said Coach Grimmert, whose Lady Tigers defeated Andrews 2-15, 15-3, 15-9 here Tuesday to take over second place in the District 4-4A volleyball standings. "It was a great help. Otherwise we wouldn't have had any noise in that gym. "We'd like to invite everyone to come out Saturday. We'd like to have a full house," added the coach. Snyder entertains defending state champion Pecos in SHS Gym for a 3 p.m. match Saturday. Pecos, 21-2 overall, leads the district standings with a 6-0 record. Here Tuesday, Snyder's Lady Tigers were slow to start, but warmed up quickly. "The score doesn't really reflect how close that first game was because we played a pretty good game," said Grimmert. "When the first game was over, the girls knew they were playing okay even though they lost." Snyder wasted no time in gaining control of the second game. The Tigers used only four servers. Melody Pickering served points 5 through 15 as the visitors make short work of Andrews. "Melody just did a good job," Grimmert said. "They had trouble picking up her serves." The third game stayed close for a time, but Snyder finally took control for good. "We had a couple of ace serves and we did real well blocking," said the coach. "We kept giving them offense and made them play defense. That's where they made some mistakes. Our defense did well. They hustled and did a good job picking up their hits. And our serving game was good. We had a total of seven ace serves." Scoring on serves for Snyder were Pickering 11, Teena Brazier 8, Rhonda Echols 6, Holly Fuller 4, Angie Brewster 2 and Sandra Morin 1.

Best in last six years...

Landry lauds effort

IRVING, Texas (AP) - While the Dallas Cowboys own a 2-3 NFL ledger, coach Tom Landry says as far as he is concerned they are 5-0 in hustle. "This is the best team I've had in the last six years in effort," Landry said. "This team goes out to play football with no problems. It should benefit more from its efforts. But it's not over the hump yet." New Orleans beat the Cowboys 20-17 on Monday night with a last-second field goal despite quarterback Steve Pelluer's performance in which he hit 23 of 35 passes for 271 yards and a two touchdowns. "Steve played one of his best games in the fourth quarter," Landry said. "He has done an excellent job at the end of the game the last two weeks." Landry said Pelluer reminded him of the retired Roger Staubach with some of his scrambling runs which netted 54 yards on six carries. "Steve has a great knack in the pocket," Landry said. "He's so quick. He's a lot like Roger was. Steve wants to win the game himself." Landry, who cautioned Pelluer against running two years ago, said his quarterback needs to get down more quickly and not challenge tacklers. "I didn't have to tell Roger about getting down anymore after he got knocked out by a linebacker with the (Los Angeles) Rams," Landry said. "Steve also threw a pretty good block on their end. In fact, it was our best block of the night." Landry said Pelluer will get a big test on Sunday when the Washington Redskins come to Texas Stadium for a noon meeting. "I'm sure (defensive end) Dexter Manley will check him out," Landry said. The Cowboys have allowed an NFL-low five sacks for the season. Landry said he was "very disappointed" after the New Orleans loss which dropped Dallas to a 2-3 mark. "I wish we could have gone into overtime," Landry said. "It would have been interesting." Landry said Sunday's game with Washington was critical. "You're in a hole if you lose this one with a lot of making up to do," Landry said. "Our schedule is very tough from now on. We're stepping up a notch." The Cowboys don't suffer any damaging injuries from the Saints' game. Wide receiver Michael Irvin suffered a bruise above the ankle. "We were concerned until we took X-rays but we think Mike will play on Sunday," Landry said. Landry said tight end Doug Cosbie, who missed the Saints' game, should work back into drills and play despite a sore Achilles tendon. Landry would not name a starting right cornerback for the Washington game. In successive weeks, Robert Williams and Ron Francis have had poor games at the position. "Francis is still rusty," Landry said. "It's like he is in the second week of the preseason. He's about a half-step slow in reacting to the ball. They worked him over pretty good. It's obvious he wasn't ready."

Dodgers drop heartbreaker in first game of NL playoffs

LOS ANGELES (AP) - There seemed to be no way Los Angeles could be beaten after eight innings of the opener of the National League playoffs. But when it comes to playing the New York Mets, the Dodgers always seem to find a way to lose. A three-run rally in the ninth against a pair of pitchers who had been virtually unhittable since August gave the Mets an improbable 3-2 victory Tuesday night. The underdog Dodgers know they'd better win tonight's game or they're in big, big trouble. "If we don't bounce back, it's going to be over quick," Dodgers outfielder Mike Marshall said. "We played a good ballgame, things just slipped away in the ninth inning." Run-scoring singles by Marshall in the first inning and Alfredo Griffin in the seventh gave Dodgers' ace Orel Hershiser what appeared to be an insurmountable lead entering the ninth. The lead appeared safe because Hershiser finished the season with an all-time record 59 consecutive scoreless innings, not allowing any scoring since Aug. 30, and had continued his incredible pitching into the postseason. Hershiser scattered five hits over the first eight innings, but he finally gave up a run in the ninth on a leadoff single by rookie Gregg Jefferies, an infield out and Darryl Strawberry's RBI double to right-center. Hershiser was removed in favor of Jay Howell, who hadn't allowed a hit in his final 7 1/3 innings of work - since Aug. 29 - and hadn't given up a run in 18 straight innings. Howell walked Kevin McReynolds, but struck out Howard Johnson for the second out of the inning. Up came Gary Carter, a veteran who has delivered many clutch hits in his career but suffered through a season of frustration. The first two pitches to Carter were strikes, and the Mets catcher appeared to be overmatched and swung defensively. The third was a breaking ball, down and away, and the lunging Carter blooped it to center. Playing deep, Dodgers center fielder John Shelby didn't appear to get a good jump on the ball. He made a dive, the ball glanced off his glove and dribbled a short way away from him. Strawberry scored easily from second and McReynolds raced around from first, barely beating Shelby's throw home as Carter chugged into second with a double. Winning pitcher Randy Myers retired the Dodgers in order in the bottom of the ninth to complete the comeback as the Mets broke a five-game losing streak in playoff series openers. Howell felt the pitch to Carter was a good one. "I made the pitch I thought would win it for us and I came up empty," Howell said. "I've got to give the guy (Carter) credit. It was a pitch down and away. I did what I wanted to do with it." Dwight Gooden pitched the first seven innings for the Mets, allowing only four hits and one walk while striking out 10. Baseball playoffs

Switzer expects close ballgame with Texas

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Most of No. 10 Oklahoma's players have been around for the past three years of Sooner dominance over Texas, but few have played. "That's a hell of a difference," Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said Tuesday at his weekly luncheon with sports writers and sportscasters. "The players that are playing this game have sat and watched it; they didn't go make it happen. You can be on the team, but you didn't win the ball game." Switzer said he's counting on the younger players - seven of the 11 defensive players who started last week were freshmen or sophomores - to step forward. "The young players are the ones who are going to have to prove themselves," Switzer said. "I think they can. I'm betting on them." The Sooners have not lost to Texas in the past four years, and they have convincingly won the past two games, scoring more than 40 points in both games. Switzer admitted that both teams have "slipped a little bit" since previous years when they were ranked higher. This is only the seventh time since 1945 that both teams have lost at least once prior to the game. "It's still the great classic it will always be," he said. Missing at Oklahoma, however, are some of the lead characters, whose bashing comments of Texas have livened up the series. "Kind of boring, isn't it?" Switzer said. "This doesn't feel like OU-Texas." Oklahoma is a two-touchdown favorite. But Switzer said he was more surprised with the 33-point spread two years ago, and said this year's spread was evidence that Texas was closing the talent gap. "This year's game is drawing a lot closer, not only in talent but in closeness of the game being played," Switzer said.

Gentle Dove Ministries begins to branch out

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

After being in operation almost one year, Sharon Applin recently provided an update of her Gentle Dove Ministries.

Applin launched Gentle Dove Ministries in August of 1987 from her home. In the beginning she visited the local jail and counseled and visited with female inmates.

Today, she says, the ministry is branching out.

In January of this year, Applin moved her ministries into a building donated to her by the First Baptist Church. Located on the Clairemont Highway, it was formerly the home of Greenhill Baptist Church, later called the Bible Way Baptist Fellowship.

Very recently, two acres of in town land have been donated to Gentle Dove Ministries and Applin's dream is to someday build a facility there.

Both Applin and her husband, Marvin, who is employed by B&F Well Service, are now licensed ministers and they have been holding church services in their home since March. They were licensed in May of this year.

She suffers from Multiple Sclerosis and can't work full time. "I know my own limitations and can't wear my body out," she said.

Applin said she and her husband work together with him being the "church leader" and her doing the "missionary work."

Within the past few months, their small congregation has grown from four people who met in their home to sometimes as many as 45.

She noted Gentle Dove Ministries is working also toward a tax exempt status.

Presently, one of Applin's duties at Gentle Dove Ministries is to drive people to a business so they can apply for a job. She told one story of a former inmate who walked clear across town every-day so she could have a job. Eventually she was able to acquire a car.

Another new area which Gentle Dove Ministries is just beginning to explore is sending donations to missionaries throughout the world, regardless of denominations.

Applin said they are in the process of securing the names and addresses of missionaries for this purpose.

Even though Applin's Gentle Dove Ministries has begun to branch out into other areas, she said they have not forgotten their prison ministry work.

Gentle Dove Ministries is attempting to expand its prison ministry by mailing letters to all the prison wardens in the state of Texas.

In the beginning, Applin's prison ministry included women only, but that too has now changed. Men are included as well.

Applin has also started visitations twice a month to the Taylor County Detention Center as a direct result of a request from another inmate. She now has about eight inmates in Abilene she visits on a regular basis, traveling to and from in a vehicle donated to her by a supporter.

Applin continues to visit the local jail on Saturdays and her husband visits on Sunday. She said they have also been asked to set up branch offices in other locations.

At present, only Applin and her husband are visiting the jails but she said they have volunteers who are "ready to get into it."

Another aspect of Gentle Dove Ministries which has grown considerably during the past year is letter writing. Applin said they send out 45 letters and magazines every week to the Snyder jails. New names are added every day. And well over 100 letters are mailed out each week to inmates throughout the state. A blue pin on a U.S. map marks each prison they write to, she said.

Over 400 Christian literature packets are mailed out each month to inmates in jails and prisons. A separate closed file is kept for each one.

Gentle Dove Ministries business cards are placed in each packet and she said they receive responses to those cards all the time.

Once a week she said she gets a copy of the local jail roster and they write between 30-50 letters to inmates. "We reach a lot of inmates we never meet," she said.

Applin said they often receive requests to write to inmates from family, friends or other inmates. Sometimes referrals come through chaplains also.

Sometimes they get a response to a letter and sometimes they don't, but Applin said they never stop writing even if they don't receive a reply.

She said closed files are kept of the letters they receive from inmates and a copy of each letter they mail out is also kept on file. "We try to write every two weeks," she explained.

If Applin has visited an inmate they write to she said she writes up a report of how the visit went and includes that in the closed file too.

At present, three volunteers help with the letter writing campaign: Lynda Garcia, Rhonda Dodson, a former inmate, and Marci Smith, a high school student.

Applin said they need volunteers for this letter writing effort, which is done during business hours from 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

Hilda Rangel, another volunteer, acts as a sort of receptionist.

The ministry also accepts donations of items which are distributed to persons in need. Items range from men's, women's, children's and infant's clothing to shoes of all sizes and some furniture. She said they really are in need of any and all types of kitchen items, coming. They go out as fast as they come in.

All items are given away free. Applin can be heard each Sunday morning at 8:35 a.m. on Virgil Mott's program, "This Is Your Time" on KSNV.

Ex-convict convicted in officer's slaying

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An ex-convict accused of going on a nationwide killing rampage has been convicted of capital murder in the death of a Beaumont police officer.

Michael Lee Lockhart, 27, sat motionless Tuesday after an eight-woman, four-man jury deliberated less than two hours before finding him guilty of the March 22 slaying of patrolman Paul D. Hulsey Jr.

"My son worked all his life in the system. He believed in justice and I believe this day justice was carried out," said the slain patrolman's father, Paul D. Hulsey Sr., a former Galveston police chief.

"I grieve very much at the loss of my son and I grieve at the loss of any police officer because when you kill a police officer, you kill a piece of America," he said.

Lockhart's attorney, Charles Carver, declined to speak with reporters, but Jefferson County prosecutors said they were elated about the verdict.

"The jury weighed it cautiously and came back with the proper verdict," said District Attorney Tom Maness. "The credit goes to a tremendous investigation on the part of many law enforcement agencies."

The trial was moved to San Antonio because of extensive publicity in Beaumont. The sentencing phase will begin Thursday and Lockhart faces death by injection.

Lockhart, who also is wanted for slayings in Indiana and Florida, gained notoriety in San Antonio in August when he jumped out of a third-story window at the Bexar County courthouse in a failed escape attempt.

Since that time he has been ordered to wear handcuffs and leg shackles.
He took the stand last week and said that the 29-year-old Hulsey, an eight-year police veteran, did not follow correct police procedures and provoked an attack.

Carver said in closing arguments Tuesday that prosecutors did not present all the evidence that might have vindicated Lockhart, who once served time in a Wyoming prison on a burglary charge.

"They want you to find Michael Lee Lockhart guilty and later kill him because they want to show this community that we are good law-abiding citizens," Carver said.

"They want you to sacrifice this man so the appetites of the police officers in Beaumont can be satisfied because they lost a friend," the Port Arthur attorney said.

Prosecutors charge that Lockhart's rampage began after he stole a red Corvette in Ohio last November. He later drove the car to Florida, stole license plates from another car at the Tampa airport and then drove along the Gulf Coast before reaching Beaumont.

A calendar found in the Beaumont motel room where Hulsey died had notations showing Lockhart's net worth to be $2.071 million on Jan. 20 and nearly $4.2 million on Jan. 17, even though he was unemployed at the time.
Lockhart also faces a capital murder charge in the slaying of Windy Gallagher, 16, who was stabbed 21 times in October 1987 in her Griffith, Ind., home.

He also is charged with capital murder in the slaying of 14-year-old Jennifer Colhouer, who was found stabbed to death in the bedroom of her Land O' Lakes, Fla., home on Jan. 20.

Maness said in closing arguments that Lockhart was cool, calm and collected when he shot Hulsey.

"He has no regard for any life except his own," Maness said. For Results Use Snyder Daily News Classified Ads Call 573-5486

House sustains textile veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a bill to impose tougher restrictions on textile imports, after failing to override President Reagan's veto, promise to renew their efforts when Congress returns next year.

"We'll be back," Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., said Tuesday after the House voted 272-152 to override Reagan's veto but fell 11 votes short of the two-thirds needed to enact the measure over his objections.

The action appeared to close the book on the battle for textile legislation this year, with two weeks at most remaining before lawmakers adjourn to campaign full time.

The bill, designed to protect American industry from foreign competition, would freeze current textile and apparel imports at 1987 levels and limit future increases to 1 percent annually. The same would apply to non-rubber footwear except that no future growth would be allowed.

Countries that increase their purchases of U.S. farm goods would get larger shares of the U.S. textiles market. A pilot program would be established, allowing the government to auction off import licenses. A special quota would be created for imported silk neckties.

Reagan vetoed the measure Sept. 28, saying it represented "protectionism at its worst" and would not only narrow consumer choices but inhibit trade and cost America overseas sales. Sponsors said it would save American jobs now in jeopardy because of a wave of Asian textiles and apparel crowding U.S. merchandise out of stores.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, lobbied furiously for the override and sponsors said they were close to two-thirds at one point. "But we had some guys we just couldn't pull across," said Rep. W.G. Hefner, D-N.C.

"Obviously, I'm disappointed," Hollings said in a statement. He claimed the bill was similar to provisions endorsed by Reagan several years ago before the president became critical of "this protectionism nonsense."

"The failure to override the veto means that the next Congress or the next administration must act to restructure our current inefficient textile policy," Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said after the vote.

Textile and apparel workers bused in for the occasion from various East Coast cities held a flag-waving rally on the steps of the Capitol at noon, chanting, "Save our jobs, save our jobs." Some then watched glumly from the House galleries as the legislation met its doom.

Critics portrayed the measure as guaranteed to spur price increases that would amount to a fresh tax on consumers.

"Stand up for consumers, stand up for America, support your president's veto," urged Rep. William Frenzel, R-Minn.

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., another of the bill's fiercest critics, said "it imposes a tax on consumers of about $20 billion a year."

Rep. Ed Jenkins, D-Ga., sometimes said to occupy "the textile seat" on the House Ways and Means Committee, scoffed at the notion of new price hikes under the bill and added that import curbs are common in Asian countries.

"They have quotas all over Asia," Jenkins said.

Imports surged into the U.S. market in the early 1980s, and Congress responded with a textile bill that Reagan vetoed on similar grounds in December 1985. An override attempt failed in the House in August 1986.

The textile industry, already protected by 1,400 tariffs, undertook a wave of modernization as a result and there were many layoffs as aging plants closed and new ones were automated. Earnings were up last year, and critics of the bill say the industry is flourishing.

But earnings fell 12 percent in the first quarter of this year and layoffs have increased over the last 12 months.

Child with rare disease gets to leave hospital

AUSTIN (AP) — A painstaking effort by hospital and social workers to provide healthcare support to an 11-month-old, terminally ill child will allow the infant to go home with his mother.

Julian Alcala has hypophosphatasia, a terminal genetic illness that prevents his bones from absorbing the calcium they need to grow and develop.

Julian's illness has no known treatment, beyond providing a ventilator that will help him education at Brackenridge Hospital.

The ventilator won't cure the disease but will allow him to leave the hospital in time to celebrate his first birthday Oct. 18 with his mother and grandparents in San Marcos. He was scheduled to leave for home today.

"Right now, I'm starting to get nervous," said his mother, Cynthia Alcala, 20. Alcala said her son "loves attention, loves people talking at him."

Getting him out of the hospital and into her home is important to her. She has an extended family willing to help, she said.

Teacher pay under study

Superintendent Dalton Moseley unveiled the plan Tuesday during a 4 1/2 hour board work session. He cited teacher morale problems with the current pay method, where some 60 teachers with four and five years experience make less than $1,000 above state base.

If implemented, he noted the beginning pay for a teacher with no experience would be downgraded to $17,000 per year, which would be $1,800 above state base. The district's starting pay now is $19,000.

Any final decisions regarding the proposal would likely come next summer during board budget planning for the 1989-90 school year.

Moseley noted also he will be studying pay scales for support staff and administrators "up and down the level" prior to next summer's budget planning.

During Tuesday's workshop, trustees touched on several school district-related items with no action taken on any. Trustees attending included Billy Bob McMullan, who presided, Ann Walton, Ken Branam, Ygnacio Benitez, Terry Martin and Mike Jordan. Luann Burleson was absent.

In other items, the board was informed:

—That a more detailed infectious disease policy is now being written with more specific guidelines regarding steps in the event AIDS is diagnosed for a school staffer or student. The board directed administrators to identify the legal perimeters which the district may take regarding disclosure of the disease's diagnosis and steps taken once a victim is identified.

—The maintenance department is considering a treatment program for the system's boiler system. The plan would "soften" water used in the boilers in an attempt to lengthen the useful life of the equipment.

Watkins and her husband, Doug, own Rendezvous Bronze Works in Buffalo Gap. Nearby is the original Taylor County Courthouse and Watkins initiated Buffalo Gap's first community Christmas Tour in December 1987. The town intends to make it an annual tradition. Rendezvous provides tours, lectures and demonstrations free of charge to area schools.

Watkins has donated a small sculpture to be given away at a drawing in the museum at the Friday night preview and reception for members of the Museum Association. Also to be given away are a piece of pottery by Barbara Jones of Sweetwater and a white ceramic buffalo donated by Maxine Grimmell. Persons who would like to attend the Friday night party are invited to join the Museum Association by paying dues of $15 for an individual or $25 for a family.

On loan from the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth are a Cheyenne Indian bison pipe with a black stone bowl, and lithographs, engravings and etchings representing artists' conceptions of the buffalo as far back as 1770.

The buffalo statue created by local artist Dr. Robert Taylor will also be displayed. Danny Fenton is making available limited edition prints from his gallery.

"Night of the Buffalo Moon" will open to the public this Sunday. The museum, located on the Western Texas College campus, is open each weekday and from 1-4 p.m. on Sundays.

Judge: FBI must explain subpoena

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge said the FBI must answer a complaint that it used a criminal grand jury subpoena to retaliate against a whistleblower.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton ruled the FBI must explain in a Nov. 28 hearing why a criminal grand jury subpoena was used for an administrative investigation of agent Bernardo "Matt" Perez, who filed a class-action lawsuit against the bureau.

"The court is of the opinion that a response is required," Bunton wrote Friday. "If the subpoena was secured by an officer of the bureau, then it is strong evidence of retaliation. If the subpoena was wrongfully secured and no criminal or administrative sanction was brought against the FBI officer (Perez), then this is evidence in support of plaintiff's allegation of disparate treatment."

Bunton ruled Friday that the FBI discriminates against Hispanic agents in promotions and working conditions. Bunton also found that the FBI retaliated against Perez after he complained to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

"The court specifically left unresolved the matter of a grand jury subpoena secured in the course of an administrative investigation of ... Perez after the date of his bringing an Equal Employment Opportunity complaint," Bunton wrote.

Bunton noted in his ruling that Perez "may be the most carefully scrutinized special agent in the history of the bureau."

Though Perez was the target of investigations and serious accusations by others in the FBI, "no meaningful breach of professional duty or law has even been demonstrated" on his part, Bunton wrote.

Bunton said he would give the FBI 15 days to notify him whether a further hearing is required. Other hearings are expected later this year on what remedies and damages should be imposed on the FBI.

An FBI spokesman in Washington, D.C., said he wasn't aware of the subpoena, nor could he say whether FBI attorneys would seek a hearing.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me how to make reservations at a cruise or resort hotel for an unmarried couple who are traveling together here and possibly abroad? I am a widower, 60 years old. Since I was married during the so-called sexual revolution, I am not familiar with this sort of thing.

My traveling companion and I do not want to pass ourselves off as a married couple. When I call or write for reservations, should I say it is for "John Smith and Mary Jones," or "John Smith and friend," or what? I doubt if the hotel management cares whether a couple is married or not, yet I want to avoid possible embarrassment.

Your help will be greatly appreciated. I trust you will not use my name in your column if you think this is printable. Sign me...

UNSOPHISTICATED
IN ST. PAUL

DEAR UNSOPHISTICATED: Ask for reservations for John Jones and Mary Smith. You must use your correct names if you plan to travel abroad since your passports will bear your correct names. Specify whether you want twin beds, a double or adjoining rooms. Consult with your traveling companion so there will be no embarrassing surprises. And you're right — most hotel managers don't care whether you are married or not as long as you're quiet, manly and pay your bill.

DEAR ABBY: A month ago, my younger sister and her boyfriend announced their engagement. She is 22 and he is 26. They are planning to be married in 16 months.

Since then, my boyfriend and I have decided to take the same step — probably much sooner than my sister. I am 26 and he is 34. Abby, we don't want any hurt feelings; neither do we want to steal my sister's thunder or, worse yet, commit a breach of etiquette. Would it be all right for us to get married prior to my sister's wedding? Or must we wait until after she's married?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be alert today for unusual financial opportunities. Something profitable could suddenly spring loose out of the blue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, you have a marvelous touch for taking the ideas of others and reconstructing them into something more promising. This could be especially true in two instances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may be drawn into something today that has strong, competitive elements. Fortunately, you'll be the one with the odds tilted in your favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's imperative that you have faith in yourself and your ideas today or else a minor setback could cloud your mind with negative thoughts and make you less effective.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If a financial development is presently running in your favor, don't let it drag on. Try to do something conclusive today that will lock it down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're willing to make concessions when dealing with others today, they'll respond in kind. However, they are only apt to act upon your cue.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial trends continue to look favorable again today. Make doubly sure that you are capitalizing on these fortuitous influences.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A situation may arise today where you'll find yourself competing against one who always tries to outshine others. This person will fall flat.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Flow with events today instead of trying to alter their course. Conditions look good, provided you don't rock the boat.

Nuclear...

Plant mishaps kept secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — For three decades, serious mishaps at the Savannah River nuclear weapons plant were kept secret for national security reasons and in some cases not reported to Washington, according to federal officials who are trying to change that attitude.

One senior Energy Department official has compared the approach to safety at the Savannah River Plant, near Aiken, S.C., to that which led to the explosion of the shuttle Challenger on Jan. 28, 1986.

And one member of Congress says the facility, which has been closed since August, should not be allowed to reopen until the situation improves.

An Energy Department spokesman, Will Callicott, said that since the federal government began making atomic weapons in World War II, "there has always been a mind set, a culture, that we are doing work that is important for national security and perhaps that may override any obligation toward public accountability.

"People have historically not been sensitive to the importance of disclosing things," Callicott said. "Clearly, there is a lot of information that did not make it up the chain to top management here at headquarters."

Without a detailed review of the record, he said, it would be impossible to determine exactly what information had reached Washington and what had been released to the public.

Energy Secretary John Herrington, since taking office in 1985, "has given heightened attention to the area of environmental safety and health," and for the first time placed these issues in the hands of an assistant secretary, Callicott said.

The Savannah River facility produces plutonium and tritium, which are used in making nuclear weapons. It is run by E.I. du Pont Nemours & Co. under contract from the Energy Department.

A Du Pont inspector, G.C. Ridgely, wrote in a recently released August 1985 memorandum that 30 "reactor incidents of the greatest significance" occurred there.

One of the most serious mishaps at Savannah River was the melting in November 1970 of a rod used to start an atomic chain reaction, causing radioactive contamination of an adjacent room. It took 900 people three months to clean up the contamination, according to the memo.

"Serious radiation exposure could have occurred because no outside alarm existed" and "alarm was ignored for two hours," the memo said.

Last Friday, Energy Department officials said the department had not been informed of the incidents, but on Monday senior department spokesman C. Anson Franklin said those statements were incorrect and that the incidents had been reported to the department's regional office in Aiken.

He said the information apparently had not been relayed to headquarters in Washington from the regional office.

The reactors at Savannah River were closed down after the most recent incident, in August, and had been scheduled to reopen Tuesday. But Energy Department officials assured members of Congress last week that production would not resume until safety was assured, possibly after 30 days to 45 days.

"If they restart those things without having briefed us and without having convinced us they have solved the safety and health issues, they will be in serious trouble in the Congress," said Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla.
