

For third quarter...

Banking deposits showing signs of sluggish economy

Bank deposits, an indicator of the local economic climate, continued to show sluggish signs based on third quarter figures released by four local financial institutions.

Total deposits at the close of the third quarter of 1988 were $196.3 million, down $2.5 million from the same time last year.

Snyder National Bank was the deposit leader with $76.2 million compared to $77 million at the same time in 1987, a drop of $800,000. When compared to deposits at the end of the first six months of 1988, SNB deposits were down $3.2 million.

Deposits at West Texas State Bank were $72.5 million, a drop of $1.3 million when compared to the third quarter of 1987 and down $1.4 million when compared to 1988 mid-year totals.

American State Bank reported deposits of $18.9 million, a decline of $2 million from the same time last year. The ASB deposit figure was $800,000 lower than the second quarter report of 1988.

Snyder Savings and Loan reported $28.7 in deposits at the close of business on Sept. 30, up $600,000 when compared to the third quarter in 1987. The current period was up $200,000 when compared to mid-year.

Snyder National reported total loans of $46.7 million compared to $50.6 million at the same time in 1987, a decrease of $3.9 million. When compared to the second quarter of this year, SNB loans were down $1.4 million.

West Texas State Bank revealed loans of $35.3 million on Sept. 30, an increase of $1 million since Quayle in focus...

Candidates 'square off'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Michael Dukakis and George Bush, picking up where their understudies left off, are arguing about the fitness of their running mates for the nation's highest office after a vice presidential debate that focused on doubts about Dan Quayle's background and qualifications.

Democrats hoped the debate has dramatized their contention that Quayle was too inexperienced to step into the presidency on a moment's notice and they drew cheer from the first flash poll suggesting much of the public was going along with that view.

In the only debate scheduled between the two of them, Quayle and Lloyd Bentsen clashed over protecting the environment, Social Security, Contra aid, taxes and campaign reform.

An ABC News poll rated Bentsen the clear winner. Six debate judges who scored the encounter for The Associated Press also picked Bentsen unanimously as the victor.

Nevertheless, Republican Quayle said he did "great" in his prime-time encounter with Bentsen. Democrat Bentsen said, "I think I did fine and I enjoyed it. I had fun."

In a 90-minute meeting where neither candidate made any big mistakes, the most electric moment came when the boyish-looking, 41-year-old Quayle was defending his qualifications and said he had as much experience as John F. Kennedy when he sought the presidency. It was a comparison he has made often.

Bentsen shot back, "Senator, I served with Jack Kennedy. I knew Jack Kennedy, Jack Kennedy was a friend of mine. Senator, you're no Jack Kennedy."

With an icy stare, Quayle interrupted to say, "That was really uncalled for, senator." Bentsen replied, "You are the one that was making the comparison, senator... and I'm the one who knew him well."

Bush pollster Robert Teeter said today that Bentsen had made "a clever remark," but he added, "While it may have been a memorable line for a day or two, it will not really dominate the debate."

Democrats suggested that Quayle appeared to be reciting prepared remarks throughout the debate — New York Gov. Mario Cuomo said today Quayle "looked like Johnny Carson playing Karnac; he started with the answers and looked for the questions" — and that he seemed unusually subdued.

Still decade's 2nd lowest...

'88 building year better than 1987

New construction in Snyder managed to better itself for the just-completed 12-month period, but the total near $2.7 million is still far short of new construction estimates reported here as recently as three years ago.

Fiscal year 1987-88 will now stand as the second lowest building total to date for the decade. The lowest will remain last year's figure of $1.7 million

For the fiscal year ending on Sept. 30, 1985, the construction estimate was $7.4 million, and that was a decline from 1984's record high of $9.1 million.

This year's climb in new construction, however, did reverse a trend of back-to-back declines in building, each equaling a 50 percent drop from the previous year.

For the just-completed three-year period, the figures were $3.6 million in 1986; $1.7 million in 1987; and $2.7 million in 1988.

The building totals for 1987-88 were topped by the construction of the Olney Savings building at 50th St. and College Ave. and the permit issued for a new Walmart store now under construction in the 4500 Block of College Ave.

The month of September included two permits issued for new single family residences, bringing the year to only five new homes built in Snyder during the past 12-month period.

In addition, the past fiscal year ended with some 37 mobile home move-ins and eight commercial buildings issued permits.

In other year-end totals, there were 36 permits issued for carport and accessory additions; 22 for alterations to existing dwell-

At 'Buffalo Moon'...

Historic gun due display

A Sharps' 50 Buffalo Gun once owned by J. Wright Mooar will be displayed in the Scurry County Museum as part of its "Night of the Buffalo Moon" exhibit opening this weekend.

It was on Oct. 7, 1876, that Mooar, one of the most famous of the buffalo hunters, killed the white buffalo from which Snyder took the name for its annual October celebration. The museum's exhibit is part of this year's White Buffalo Celebration. The buffalo gun is on loan from Randy Hays, Mooar's great-grandson.

Featured in the museum exhibit will be sculptures and photographs by Pam Gilbreath Watkins of Buffalo Gap. Also included in the display are a buffalo sculpture by Dr. Robert Taylor of Snyder; a Cheyenne Indian bison pipe with a black stone bowl and etching and engravings on loan from the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth, and limited edition prints from Fen-ton's Gallery.

Members of the Museum Association will get the first look at the new exhibit Friday night when they attend a reception starting at 6:30 p.m. in the museum. Mrs. Watkins will also be present and the Western Texas College Singing Cowboys will provide musical entertainment. Persons who would like to join the museum association and attend the reception are invited to send memberships to the museum or pay memberships at the door. Dues are $15 for individuals and $25 for families. Because of the food preparation for the reception, those planning to attend are asked to notify the museum office by calling 573-6107 by noon Thursday.

Mooar shot and killed the white buffalo on the banks of Deep Creek about seven miles northwest of Snyder. The story is told that it was his

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If you want your money to go farther, send a kid away to college."

Even the state of California is feeling the budget crunch. To save money, the state is now paying retirees by direct electronic deposit to save the cost of postage in mailing checks.

Sounds logical enough, doesn't it? But there is a slight hitch in the theory. The state continues to mail duplicates of the deposit slip to the retirees.

A few weeks ago, an Ask Us question wanted topics of discussion for day-time talk shows. A little research reveals that generic topics would probably suffice, and they wouldn't have to be changed often.

In a short time, we've assembled this marvelous collection of cultural topics for day-time TV talk shows.

Geraldo-housewife hookers; Donahue, homosexual couples; Morton Downey-topless dancers and other women who make a living with their bodies; Sally Jessy Raphael-convicted sex offenders; Oprah-men and women who buy sexy garments for each other; Geraldo-women who kill their babies.

While doing this research, we noticed that a couple of actors have worked their way onto at least three talk shows—making up stories that fit the topic of the day.

It proves two things: people have a vivid imagination, and daytime TV makes night-time TV look good.

Americans are said to make 200 billion telephone calls a year.

That may seem like too many, but when you take away the wrong numbers, sales pitches, and teenagers—that just leaves about one call a week for the rest of us.

Lawless denies negotiating with Iranians on hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former U.S. government employee, emerging as a mystery man in reports of fresh Reagan administration efforts to free American hostages in Lebanon, denied he tried to negotiate a prisoner release with Iranian figures.

Richard Lawless, president of a trade and investment consulting firm, on Wednesday sought to refute assertions by former Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr that he has been working on the hostage problem behind the scenes on behalf of the administration.

In doing so, Lawless, 44, echoed statements made earlier by

White House and State Department officials seeking to knock down Bani-Sadr's allegations. Administration spokesmen have said Lawless is not a government employee and has not been carrying out any kind of mission on behalf of the United States.

Speaking through the co-owner of his firm, U.S.-Asia, Lawless said: "I categorically deny and state for the record that I am involved either directly or indirectly in any discussions or negotiations with any party related to attempts to secure the release of hostages in Lebanon."

Lawless also said, "I have never in my entire life had any direct or indirect contact with any Iranian government officials or any Iranian nationals claiming to represent the Iranian government or any Iranian related interests."

On Tuesday, Bani-Sadr said in Paris that Lawless had negotiated in behalf of Vice President George Bush with a representative of Iranian Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani, in an attempt to get American hostages liberated.

Told of the denials at an interview with The New York Times on Wednesday in Paris, Bani-Sadr amended his account, saying he no longer was certain Lawless was involved in the talks, but that "it was probably him."

Dear Abby

Lack of Love for Daughter Weighs on Mother's Mind

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem loving my 15-year-old daughter, "Lisa." Since the day she was born, I've had to force myself to show her any affection. I don't have this problem with my 13-year-old son.

When I hug Lisa, I feel embarrassed and a little hypocritical. Why? She is a very happy, outgoing girl and a wonderful daughter — always helping me around the house because I work full time away from home.

I am afraid she's beginning to notice my attitude toward her. Maybe it's my guilty conscience. Every day I tell myself that tomorrow will be different. But it never is. The truth is, I really do love her; it's just hard for me to show it. I would like to have a close mother-daughter relationship so she will come to me if she ever needs me. (I never had this with my own mother.)

Abby, I was 17 and pregnant with Lisa when I married her father. His parents never liked me. I never should have married him. It was a miserable marriage. We're divorced now. Do you think that has anything to do with the way I feel about my daughter? Help me, please.

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: I think you've found the first piece of this puzzle. For years, you have unconsciously blamed your daughter for your miserable marriage because you couldn't bring yourself to blame yourself. Get professional help to bring your deeply buried feelings to the surface where you can examine them for what they are. And then forgive yourself. Once this is accomplished, you will be able to express your love to Lisa without feeling hypocritical. Good luck, mother.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. Although not of major importance, it's driving me and my loved ones up the wall!

I was recently informed that there is a word to describe numbers that are the same backward as they are forward, i.e. 1881. I have contacted TV stations, radio stations, colleges, libraries, friends and relatives, but to no avail. Please let me know if such a word exists.

DON

DEAR DON: The word you are looking for is "palindrome." My Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary defines it this way: "Palindrome: a word, verse or sentence (as 'Able was I ere I saw Elba'), or a number (as 1881) that reads the same backward or forward."

DEAR ABBY: I would like to respond to "Rather Be Parentless in Indiana," who wrote: "My father is rude and disgusting. And if you think he's bad, you should meet my mother."

I, too, was not very proud of my parents. When my father wasn't killing himself stoking the boiler on a railroad locomotive platform to feed, clothe and put a roof over the heads of his wife and children, he sat around in his undershirt and stocking feet. Sometimes he even drank beer right out of the bottle in the living room. His grammar was atrocious, as he had to leave school at an early age. I was embarrassed to have my friends see him, so I'd meet them elsewhere to avoid him. He died of a stroke at 52.

My mother was country to the bone. She was even less articulate than my dad. She never learned anything but how to cook, clean and have babies. What an embarrassment! She never traveled out of the state in which she was born. My mother has Alzheimer's now, and doesn't even know who she is, let alone her children.

Wake up, kid, before you find yourself tearfully kneeling before a grave marker wishing you could start all over again. Sign me ...

O'Hare landings reduced

CHICAGO (AP) — Planes to and from Chicago are being delayed safely on the ground in an unprecedented attempt to reduce congestion and the growing number of air traffic controller errors at the nation's busiest airport, officials say.

The Federal Aviation Administration's move comes after controllers at O'Hare International Airport made four mistakes in less than a week.

In those incidents, planes were allowed to get too close to each other, officials said. None resulted in accidents.

So far this year, controllers at O'Hare have made 30 mistakes, compared with 12 in all of 1987, the FAA said.

"I can't explain the reason," said Don Zochert, an FAA spokesman. "That's the question everybody wants the answer to, and if there was an easy solution we'd have it."

Under the plan, which was announced Wednesday but had taken effect earlier this week, flights to Chicago will be delayed on the ground in their cities of origin rather than in the air over O'Hare and the smaller Midway Airport here when there is too much traffic, said FAA spokeswoman Barbara Dettmer.

During peak periods — usually between 4:45 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. CDT daily — the maximum number of planes allowed to depart and land in good weather will be reduced to about 155 per hour from 180, Ms. Dettmer said. The number is curtailed further during poor weather.

The policy resulted in a total of up to 243 delays at O'Hare on Monday and Tuesday, and up to 33 delays at Midway on Tuesday, according to reports published today. The weather was good on both days.

Civil complaint filed against four

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor and the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. filed a civil complaint against Thomas Lundberg and three others, seeking restitution for allegedly misused potash mine pension funds.

The U.S. District Court action was filed Wednesday, less than two weeks after a New Mexico court of appeals postponed a trial for Lundberg and seven others involving similar allegations.

Lundberg was trustee of three pension funds for 840 employees of Lundberg Industries Ltd. in Carlsbad, N.M., and Dumas, Texas.

Writers welcome member

Scurry County Penwomen met Sept. 22 in the home of Dorothy Cox who also offered the invocation.

Elaine Tate, with the Western Texas College Journalism Department, was welcomed as a new member.

Program books were passed out and members paid their yearly dues.

Janelle Burk reported her poem, "Blue Norther," was published in October's issue of "Poetic Liberty" magazine. Garnet Quiett's poem, "Fret Not," was printed in the Trinity Methodist church newsletter.

Burk gave the program, "Beginnings." She gave ideas for beginning to write and how to write a beginning. She asked the questions, "Have you done your research? What are you going to write about?" She pointed out that non fiction must have a focus, or main idea while fiction must have a plot. Then, begin to write.

During the creative sharing session, Cox read two untitled essays, Burk read her poem, "Autumn Flight," and Sherry Bryant sang a song she composed entitled "Are You Happy in the Lord Today?" and her poem, "Listen to My Heart Beat, Lord." Quiett read a Terza Rima entitled "Autumn Glory."

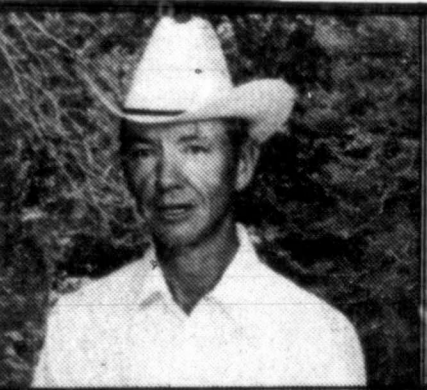

Bryant won the popular prize during a secret ballot for best composition. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting is set for Oct. 19.

In 1985, most Latin American countries lowered their central government deficits in relation to their gross domestic product, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The exceptions were Argentina, the Bahamas, the Dominican Republic, Mexico and Suriname. Bolivia and Costa Rica reduced their deficits markedly: Bolivia from 45 to 5 percent and Costa Rica from 8 to 2 percent of gross domestic product.

for the time being the strategy of the questionable opening bid. Doesn't it seem dangerous to pass and hope for the best, defending against the doubled contract, particularly since East can bid two clubs, his second suit, with some chance of playing a makable part-score contract? That would be my view had I opened the East hand, but I am happy to say that my partner in a regional pair event last summer took the more aggressive stance. He thought I would have 10 points for my double, and with his own 10 points and our side having the advantage of the opening lead, he passed and hoped for the best.

When diamonds were led, declarer won and led a low heart to the queen and king. East returned a diamond, and West took five more diamond tricks and the ace of spades for down one. Although West had only eight high-card points for his penalty double, the six-card diamond suit compensated. Even though discretion is the better part of valor, the valor exhibited by East won out this time.

On the road, Snyder seventh graders will kick off the first of two games at 4 p.m. The freshmen, who will also play two games, begin at 5 p.m.

Locally, seventh graders play 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. at Travis Field while the junior varsity squads meet at Tiger Stadium at 7 p.m.

Meet WTC athletes, 7:30

Western Texas College holds its "Meet the Athletes" program today at 7:30 p.m. in the college student center.

Cardinals forfeit to Trent Gorillas

Hermleigh's Cardinals have had to call off their District 7-1A opener with highly-touted Trent this weekend.

The Cardinals, who suffered several key injuries two weeks ago during a game with Paint Creek, were forced to forfeit Friday's contest.

Hermleigh opened the season with only eight players. Against Paint Creek, Mario Sanchez went down with a knee injury, Bobby Brown suffered a sprained wrist and Andrew Sanchez was slowed by a hamstring injury. Mario Sanchez will be lost for the season but Coach Doug Cook is hoping Brown and Andrew Sanchez will be able to suit up for the Cardinals' Oct. 14 game with Highland.

The forfeit puts Hermleigh at 0-5 for the season and 0-1 in District 7-1A play. Trent's Gorillas, ranked fourth in the state, are now 5-0 and 1-0.

In Friday's only 7-1A game now, Blackwell visits Loraine. Saturday's action has Ira as Highland's homecoming opponent. Both of those games are set for 7:30 p.m. starts.

Ira enjoyed a 50-8 win over rival Borden County a week ago. The Bulldogs, 3-2 for the season, take on a Highland club that is also 3-2. Highland defeated Paint Creek last weekend, 42-24.

In District 6-1A competition Friday evening, Borden County entertains Loop at 7:30 p.m.

Tigers face tough Andrews

ANDREWS - It's push against shove for the Andrews Mustangs and lately they've been gaining most of the ground.

"Nobody's blocked them all year long," said Snyder Coach David Baugh, whose Fightin' Tigers take on the Mustangs at 8 p.m. here Friday in a District 4-4A ballgame.

Andrews goes into the contest boasting a 3-1 season record. Snyder is 1-3. Both won their district openers last week. Andrews whipped Pecos 27-12 while Snyder shocked San Angelo Lake View 35-0.

Andrews' one loss was a 35-0 whipping by Midland High, but Baugh said the Andrews defense still looked strong.

"They were blown out by Midland on the scoreboard but I think Midland had something like 48 plays and on 38 of them Andrews held them to three yards or less," said Baugh. "The other 10 plays Midland broke big gains or scored long touchdowns on them."

Andrews goes into the game allowing just 217.8 yards an outing - third in the district. Ironically, despite only one win, the Tigers are the district's second best defensive unit, at least statistically. Snyder is allowing 213.8 yards a game.

"If we're to win we've got to have the same effort we've had the last two weeks," said Baugh. "We've got to have that kind of effort every time out."

Andrews is allowing only 141.3 yards rushing a game.

"They have quickness in their down people, strong people on the ends and a great middle linebacker in Mike Hernandez," noted Baugh. Hernandez is also the key for Andrews offensively. The 170-pound senior has rushed for 374 yards and seven touchdowns in four games, averaging 4.6 yards per carry.

Neither team is among the district leaders in offense. Andrews, managing 259.3, ranks sixth. Snyder, with just 147.5 a game, ranks eighth.

Andrews' average is misleading because the Mustangs are the second-best rushing team, averaging 229.8 yards a game behind Hernandez. In contrast, Andrews hasn't thrown the ball often, completing 9 of 28 passes for a district low 118 yards and five interceptions.

"Hernandez is probably the best back we'll have played against, not as far as speed, but in toughness and ability. He usually carries it 20-25 times a game," pointed out Baugh. "Offensively, they run at you, run at you, run at you and try to wear you down. They pride themselves on strength and conditioning and they like to control the fourth quarter."

Snyder will come at the Mustangs with an offense that has shown improvement over the past two outings. Averaging just 80 yards a game early, the Tigers managed almost 250 against Lake View last Friday. Some 205 of that came on the ground, where Snyder welcomed back two-year starter Michael Riggins at tailback. Riggins, who had been recovering from a shoulder injury, ran for 85 yards and a touchdown.

"Teams have to respect what Michael does," said Baugh. "He takes the pressure off some of the other areas a little."

Riggins will get the start at tailback. Randy Morris, who started under center last week for the first time, will get the go-ahead at quarterback again Friday.

Baugh noted that two players held out last week - cornerback Willie Garcia and backup quarterback Toby Goodwin - will suit up Friday.

In other 4-4A action Friday, No. 1 ranked Sweetwater (4-1, 1-0) is at Big Spring (0-3, 0-1), Pecos (3-1, 0-1) is at Fort Stockton (1-3, 0-1) and Monahans (3-1, 1-0) is at San Angelo to play Lake View (2-2, 0-1).

Red Sox get Bugged down; tumble to Oakland A's, 2-1

BOSTON (AP) - The Oakland Athletics respect Wade Boggs, Boston's five-time batting champion.

They just didn't show it in a flirtation with danger Wednesday, edging the Red Sox 2-1 in the opening game of the American League playoffs.

"I hope that's the last time we see that," Oakland manager Tony La Russa said after Boggs went to bat three times with eight runners on base.

With a .356 lifetime average and .361 with runners in scoring position, Boggs was handcuffed by the Athletics despite a leadoff single in the first inning and a sacrifice fly that drove in Boston's lone run.

He struck out against starter Dave Stewart with the bases loaded to end the second inning. He hit a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded and one out against Rick Honeycutt in the seventh, then struck out against Dennis Eckersley with runners on first and second to end the game. "It's over, it's over," said the All-star third baseman, who struck out only 34 times during the regular season en route to a fourth consecutive batting title.

"I'm not going to go home and pout or sit on it and then come up to the plate tomorrow night and think about striking out today," he added.

His failure to come through in the clutch was the key to the Athletics dashing Boston's hopes of winning the first two games at Fenway Park before the teams head for Oakland. The A's have beaten the Red Sox in 14 of the last 15 games at the Oakland Coliseum.

WTC enters region rodeo

ALPINE - Western Texas College gears up for its second Southwest Region rodeo here this evening, hosted by Sul Ross State University.

The rodeo is set nightly at 7:30 through Saturday and at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Designated team members for WTC will be Ray Brown, Clyde Himes, Jim Blain Kenney, Kenny Taton, Denny McLanahan and Michael Gaffney, and Tana Mahoney, Melanie Graf and Krista Jeffries.

Angered Dodgers triumph over Cone, New York Mets

LOS ANGELES (AP) - With an assist from New York pitcher David Cone, the Los Angeles Dodgers finally found a way to beat the Mets, although what happened so many times before almost happened again.

Cone is doing more than just pitch in the National League playoffs - he's writing a column for the New York Daily News. If his article in Wednesday's paper is any indication, he's got a lot to learn about tact.

His remarks concerning Tuesday night's opener of the playoffs, won by the Mets 3-2, found their way to Los Angeles and, understandably, infuriated the Dodgers.

They responded by scoring five runs in the first two innings off him Wednesday night before hanging on for a 6-3 victory to even the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

In his column, Cone said Los Angeles reliever Jay Howell looked "like a high school pitcher" in the ninth inning of Game 1. Cone also said Dodgers starter Orel Hershiser had been "lucky" to shut out the Mets for eight innings.

Nobody was calling anybody lucky after Game 2.

"We have to give them (the Dodgers) credit," Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez said. "We could have put the hammer down with a win tonight. But he (Dodgers pitcher Tim Lincecum) threw a good game. Heck, give him credit."

After a day off for travel, the series shifts to Shea Stadium on Friday night for Game 3. Dodgers left-hander John Tudor, 10-8, will oppose Ron Darling, 17-9. Tudor skipped a start in Game 2 because of spasms in his right hip.

Tudor's replacement Wednesday night, rookie right-hander Belcher, was brilliant before tiring in the top of the ninth. That's when the Mets, who rallied for three runs in the ninth to win Tuesday night, threatened to make it two last-gasp victories in a row.

Finally, with the bases loaded and two outs, Gary Carter, the

SHS graduate to exhibit her paintings Saturday

Janey Bynum, a 1952 graduate of Snyder High School, will be among the exhibitors at the White Buffalo Days Arts and Crafts Show at the coliseum this Saturday.

Bynum, who currently lives in San Marcos, has been painting for seven years, but this will be the first time she has shown her paintings in the West Texas area.

Recently featured in "Artists of Texas, Volume II," Bynum's painting reflects her West and Central Texas roots. Landscapes, wildlife, old buildings, and native American themes are represented in the bulk of her work.

Following graduation from SHS, Bynum married Lowell Bynum who is a 1951 Snyder graduate. Abilene, White Deer, Friona and Lubbock were home to the Bynums before a 1969 move to San Marcos where Lowell is on

Dan Quayle withstands tough test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dan Quayle withstood his mid-term exam, but the Democrats aren't relenting in their campaign to flunk the Republican vice presidential nominee.

In 90 minutes of pressurized debate with Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, Quayle held his own. There were no significant blunders by either man in the running mate debate.

An ABC News poll immediately after the debate found 51 percent thought Bentsen had won, 27 percent said Quayle, and 22 percent thought it a tie. The margin of error in the survey of 637 people was 4.5 percentage points.

Republican Quayle faced the more difficult debate assignment because he is the candidate found by public opinion polls to be a drag on his ticket. He has come under constant campaign attack. And he faced the tougher set of sometimes repetitive debate questions.

Bentsen fills a more traditional No. 2 role. He isn't an issue. He is, rather, a bridge between Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis and his party's more conservative branch.

At the start of the Omaha, Neb., debate, Quayle was asked to defend his credentials and qualifications for the vice presidency and, if need be, the presidency itself. That meshed with the theme Bentsen came to stress — that the debate really dealt with the presidency itself, and whether he or Quayle is the better man to take on the job if necessary.

He and Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis argue every day that the answer on Quayle is no. And the debate had hardly ended before Dukakis repeated that theme, telling a Boston rally that Bentsen had proved again he could take over the presidency if he has to, while Quayle could not.

That points to a campaign theme that is sure to be part of the Democratic litany until Nov. 8. Post-debate comments, predictably, fit that pattern.

"Neither scored a knockout, but Lloyd Bentsen looked and sounded more presidential," said Democratic Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, a former candidate for his party's prize.

Quayle clearly had done his homework for the debate test. When the first questioner recited criticism of his military and academic records, and disparaging comments by Republicans, Quayle said the question behind it all was his qualifications to be vice president "and in the case of tragedy, whether I'm qualified to be president."

The Indiana senator, 41, said it isn't a question of age but of accomplishments and experience, insisted that he has both, especially on national security, jobs and education, and the federal budget.

"On each one of those issues I have more experience than does the governor of Massachusetts," he said. And repeatedly, "I am prepared ... to lead this country" if the GOP ticket wins and that becomes necessary.

Quayle stuck to that line all night.

AP analysis

The panel of questioners, three television and one print journalist, went back to the topic repeatedly, three times by asking what first step Quayle would take if he ever became president. That's an unanswerable question, since no vice president could know what he'd do without knowing the circumstances of his succession. It was not asked of Bentsen.

Each time, Quayle went back to his formula, claiming strength on the big three issues.

But he varied it enough to trigger the debate's sharpest exchange, saying that he has as much experience now as John F. Kennedy had when he ran for president.

"Senator, I served with Jack Kennedy, I knew Jack Kennedy, Jack Kennedy was a friend of mine," said Bentsen. "Senator, you're no Jack Kennedy."

"That was really uncalled for, senator," an angry Quayle retorted.

Kennedy had served 14 years in Congress, eight in the Senate before he became president in 1960. Quayle has been a senator for eight years, and served four in the House.

Bentsen took a share of sharp questions, on his political fundraising tactics and also about his differences with Dukakis on such topics as aid to the Nicaraguan Contras, the death penalty and gun control. The Texas senator favors the first two, opposes gun control. Dukakis holds opposite positions. Bentsen said they agree on most issues, then changed the subject.

Quayle tried to make an issue of that, saying he wouldn't try to defend a liberal like Dukakis, either.

But he remained the focus. And he is certain to remain a prime target in the five weeks until election day.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Walter R. Mears, executive editor of The Associated Press, has covered presidential campaigns since 1960.

Shot through ceiling kills 67-year old man

AUSTIN (AP) — A 67-year-old man who spun records at a senior citizen center was killed when struck by a bullet accidentally fired from the apartment above, police said.

Marvin Lester Ellis was lying in bed when he was struck and killed by the gunshot.

A man who lived in the apartment above Ellis, William Howard Tate, 43, fired his .45-caliber semiautomatic gun without realizing it was loaded, police said.

The bullet went through the floor, striking Ellis in the chest. The victim was pronounced dead at the scene, police said.

Annual report: grin oil forecast predicted

HOUSTON (AP) — The forecast for oil prices appeared grim as benchmark United States crude traded below $13 and a new study says world oil reserves are so large that a low-price atmosphere could continue well into the next century.

In its annual report on world oil trends released Wednesday, the accounting firm Arthur Andersen & Co. and consultants Cambridge Energy Research Associates identifies major trends affecting oil pricing, including the surprising strength of non-OPEC production, which added further to the burgeoning world crude supplies despite low prices.

In addition, Iraq has pushed its oil production back to pre-war levels, but the demand for oil has grown only weakly.

In 1979, Iraq was producing an average of 3.5 million barrels per day, and production already is back up to 2.6 million barrels per day, the report shows.

"One important message from the current environment is the shifting perception of the industry — the perception that we may be in for an extended period of surplus oil capacity and low prices," said Dennis Eklof of Cambridge Energy Research Associates.

The results may be as varied as the producing countries, but experts said the situation will likely make world-oil markets more reactive, as OPEC members battle for market share and non-OPEC members consider new alliances.

That volatility was reflected this week as Saudi Arabia threatened to step up its crude output too unless other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries abide by production quotas.

"The end of the Iran-Iraq war signaled the start of a new war — one of barrels instead of guns," Eklof said, adding that "some of the key producers seek to preposition themselves for the OPEC meeting coming up in November and for a market share into the '90s."

"There's a clear message to all of this. The quota system is not working," Eklof said. "It has been unable to adapt itself to long term trends in the industry."

On Wednesday, the New York Mercantile Exchange, the November contract for West Texas Intermediate dropped 47 cents to settle at $12.60 a barrel in heavy, hectic trading. The benchmark U.S. crude traded as low as a $12.28 barrel during the session.

Over the past month, the near-term crude oil contract price has fallen $2.19 a barrel to lowest level since August 1986.

The oil report showed that, in constant dollars, the 1988 price of oil has run less than one-third the price of 1981 and less than one-half the price of 1984.

"The low-price environment is having profound impacts on all segments of the oil and gas industry, forcing shifts and adjustments in strategy for all participants and all customers," said Victor Burk, a partner in the Houston office of Arthur Andersen and project director on the report. "These changes are driven by altered expectations that the surplus crude oil today may last to the year 2,000 and beyond."

The result has been a wide range of changes within oil companies ranging from the conservative stance toward exploration to the size of workforces. But one of the biggest changes has been reductions in the size and numbers of oil companies.

Between 1985 and 1987 in the United States, the number of independent exploration and production companies has dropped from 165 to 117, the study shows, reflecting 48 companies that were acquired, merged with other companies or were liquidated.

"We believe there will be continued shrinkage and consolidation of the industry in the near future," Burk said.

ings; seven for alterations to existing commercial properties; and seven for signs erected within the city limits.

first day of hunting here. His hunting days over, he became a rancher in the same area and made his home there until his death in 1940. Visitors to the two-story Mooar home on the ranch recall that they sat on the white buffalo robe as they listened to Mooar's stories.

According to a story by Dick Roberts in the Snyder Daily News on Oct. 15, 1964, Mooar brought two Sharps' 50s to Scurry County. Both were owned by the late Ben Weathers after Mooar's death. One of the guns went into the ownership of a collector of historic artifacts in Coahoma. The other was purchased from Weathers by Bill Emerson of Snyder, who in turn sold it to J. M. (Mule) Kayser. Hays acquired it from Kayser. Kayser told Roberts that about 6,500 buffalo were killed with the gun, most during the winter of 1877-78.

The Sharps' 50 was known technically as the Sharps 50-90-2 1/2, which means that the bullet is .50 inch in diameter, the fire chamber is 1 1/2 inches long, and the powder load is 90 grains of black powder. Guns of that size were not rare in those days, Roberts wrote. The Civil War was fought largely with big bullet guns—44, 50 and even .60 caliber. By the end of the war there was a demand for a breech loader, and although the Sharps Manufacturing Company of Connecticut had developed a caps and ball gun effective on the tough-skinned bison of the American Plains, the realization of the value of the hide of the buffalo brought out a specific request for an extremely accurate long-range breech loading rifle.

That gun, patented by Sharps in 1869, was the gun used by Mooar and other buffalo hunters of the period. It is estimated that Mooar killed more than 20,000 buffalo.

Kayser told Roberts that in his opinion the workmanship evident in the Sharps 50 has never been surpassed, and that many modern guns fail to reach its quality.

Two other traffic accidents were investigated by city police Wednesday, the first at 9:39 a.m. in a College Ave. supermarket parking lot, where a 1974 Chrysler four-door driven by Bobbie Leatherwood of 2305 Ave. H hit a parked International tractor-trailer rig owned by Abtex Beverage Corp. of Abilene.

Time between sex varies a great deal

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A woman in our group is 34 and married to a 46-year-old alcoholic. She says she has intercourse with her husband once every 3 months and doesn't miss it. Is this normal?

DEAR READER: I hope that your "group" is Alanon, a support organization that helps people whose lives have been affected by alcoholism. If you are not in Alanon, I urge you to suggest to your friend that she consider joining.

To answer your question: Sexual needs vary from person to person. What is "normal" for one couple may not be "normal" for another. Under different circumstances, your friend might choose to be more sexually active. Her present situation may not permit this. It's difficult to get turned on by late-night advances made by a guy who reeks of gin. Alanon could help your friend deal more effectively with what is, at best, a difficult situation.

Alcoholism aside, I am often asked what constitutes appropriate intervals between sexual encounters. Again, people exhibit enormous variation in their patterns. In part, this is related to age, fatigue, stress, general sexual energy, personal preferences and a whole host of interpersonal factors. It seems to me that the appropriate interval is whatever each partner feels comfortable with. Should there be a discrepancy within the couple's wishes, outside counseling might be in order.

With respect to the woman in your group, I'll bet she would miss more frequent sex; if her husband stopped drinking. However, under those circumstances, the environment would change and the couple would probably reach a different sexual balance. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Help II - Mental/Substance Abuse." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

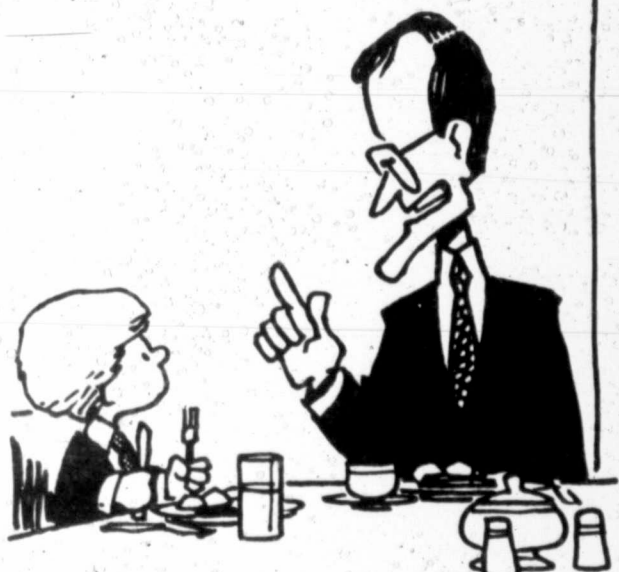

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband and I eat a lot of eggs but don't eat the yolks. Is this practice harmful?

DEAR READER: Egg whites are composed primarily of protein, mostly albumen; they contain no cholesterol.

On the other hand, it's the egg yolks that can cause trouble for people with high cholesterol because egg yolks contain a significant amount of cholesterol, about 250 mg per yolk. For patients who are advised to reduce dietary cholesterol, this amount is approximately a one-day ration. Therefore, the prohibition against eggs results solely from the cholesterol-rich yolks. Egg whites are nutritious and can be consumed without restriction.

Inmate uncertain about ruling

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The attorney for convicted killer Johnny Penry says he is uncertain how the U.S. Supreme Court will rule in the case which is testing the legality of executing mentally retarded people.

Penry, whose IQ has been estimated at between 50 and 60 and who has the reasoning capacity of a 7-year-old, was sentenced to death for the 1979 rape-slaying of a Livingston woman in her home.

The nation's high court agreed to review his death sentence after attorneys contended executing the 32-year-old Oklahoma native would be cruel and unusual punishment banned by the Eighth Amendment. The appeal also contends a confession he made to police should not be allowed as evidence against him because, given his mental capacity, it was not made voluntarily.

Penry's attorney, Curtis Mason, said he did not expect any ruling from the high court until late spring or early summer. Oral arguments are not expected until February.

The case is seen as another serious challenge to the Texas death penalty statute, which earlier this year was upheld by the high court in a case involving convicted killer Donald Gene Franklin.

Mason said it would be difficult now to guess how the court might rule.

"If they say you can't execute retarded people, it could affect all on death row, provided they can prove they're mentally retarded," he said Wednesday. "A lot depends on how they overrule it. I'm not going to try to speculate. But I don't think it's going to be that broad a challenge."

Mason is in the unique position of being a state attorney working on behalf of an inmate challenging a state law. Another state attorney, from the Texas attorney general's office, will argue the case against Penry before the Supreme Court.

When Mason first got the case 2½ years ago, death row inmates were having difficulty getting attorneys to handle their cases. Those who could not afford to hire their own attorneys were assigned to Texas Department of Corrections staff counsels.

The Penry case is the first with TDC representation to make it to the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Penry said his case is getting him attention and respect from fellow Texas death row prisoners.

"Officers have told me I must be a famous man on death row because all the reporters come to talk to me. They're being serious about it. I can tell when a person has been serious or not serious. It makes me feel important in a way because this has never happened to me before."

Congress moving to boost resources

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are moving to give federal regulators more money to rescue ailing savings institutions and contain the industry crisis, which one government official said may cost as much as $50 billion to resolve.

A sharply divided House Banking Committee voted 29-22 on Wednesday to expand the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's borrowing limit from $10.8 billion in bonds to $15.8 billion. The move is opposed by the industry, which pays an assessment to retire the 30-year bonds.

Committee Chairman Fernand J. St Germain, D-R.I., said the measure could come before the full House as early as today.

The House also planned to vote today on a bill creating a special study commission to advise the next administration on the best way to solve the savings industry crisis. The Senate passed a similar bill last week.

St Germain said the Senate would be "hard put" to oppose an expansion of the bank board's borrowing limit, since last summer, when Congress authorized $10.8 billion in borrowing over three years, the Senate pushed for a higher limit of $15 billion.

The bank board already has issued $3.75 billion in bonds. The Banking Committee bill would permit the bank board to float the remaining amount as soon as needed rather than spreading it over the next two years.
