Exxon gains Sharon Ridge

The Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit, Scurry County's second largest unified oil field, will now be operated by Exxon Company USA, it was announced Friday.

Exxon officials announced that it has purchased all of the R.E. Smith interests in the unit, which involves acreage in both Scurry and Borden County.

The unit is a secondary recovery field using water injection.

Its purchase was approved

Wednesday at a meeting of the Sharon Ridge Unit operators committee. At that meeting, R.E. Smith resigned as unit operator and Exxon was selected as successor unit operator.

With the purchase of the Smith interest, Exxon's working share in the unit is now 56 percent. In a statement issued by Exxon Friday, Anse Barber, acquisition manager of Exxon's Southwestern Production Division in Midland, indicated the transaction was part of the company's continuing program to purchase oil and gas reserves.

The unit was formed on May 1, 1955 and originally operated by Warren Petroleum Corp. On Jan. 1, 1958, Warren merged with Gulf Oil Corp. and, on Jan. 1, 1959, R.E. Smith, the largest single owner in the unit, took over its day-to-day management.

Smith, who died in 1973, was a wildcatter who achieved wealth and national prominence. At his death, his wife Vivian, who lives in Houston, assumed control of his operations.

Harold Lacik, unit manager, began his association with Smith dating to 1955. Under the operation of R.E. Smith, the unit employed approximately 25 employees.

In 1985, there were 350 active wells. The Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit is second only to SACROC in oil operations in Scurry County.

Prison building updated

Work now said 10 percent done

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

This past week, the Texas Department of Corrections 1,000-man prison unit under construction northeast of Snyder was said on schedule and nearing 10 percent complete.

By this coming week, the first walls were expected to be going up and, by early December, work at the site is expected to move into its busiest phase.

"In 60 days, we expect to have 200 workers on site," noted David Ritter, project administrator for construction management consultant, HCB Contractors.

Currently, he estimated the work force at 80.

On Tuesday last week, the first concrete slab foundations at the site were poured.

This coming week, the first building to have walls erected will be one of the 5,000 sq. ft. prisoner housing facilities. There will be four such buildings in all.

By middle or late December, Ritter said plans call for all of the site's large buildings to be erected.

The majority of structures—the site will have around 15 in all—will be concrete masonry walls. Those not made of cinder block will be metal buildings.

In all, it is estimated there will be from 25 to 30 sub-contractors employed during the life of the project, which is set to finish June 27, 1989.

The major "subs" now under contract include one Snyder-based operation, Concrete Inc., which is supplying the concrete material.

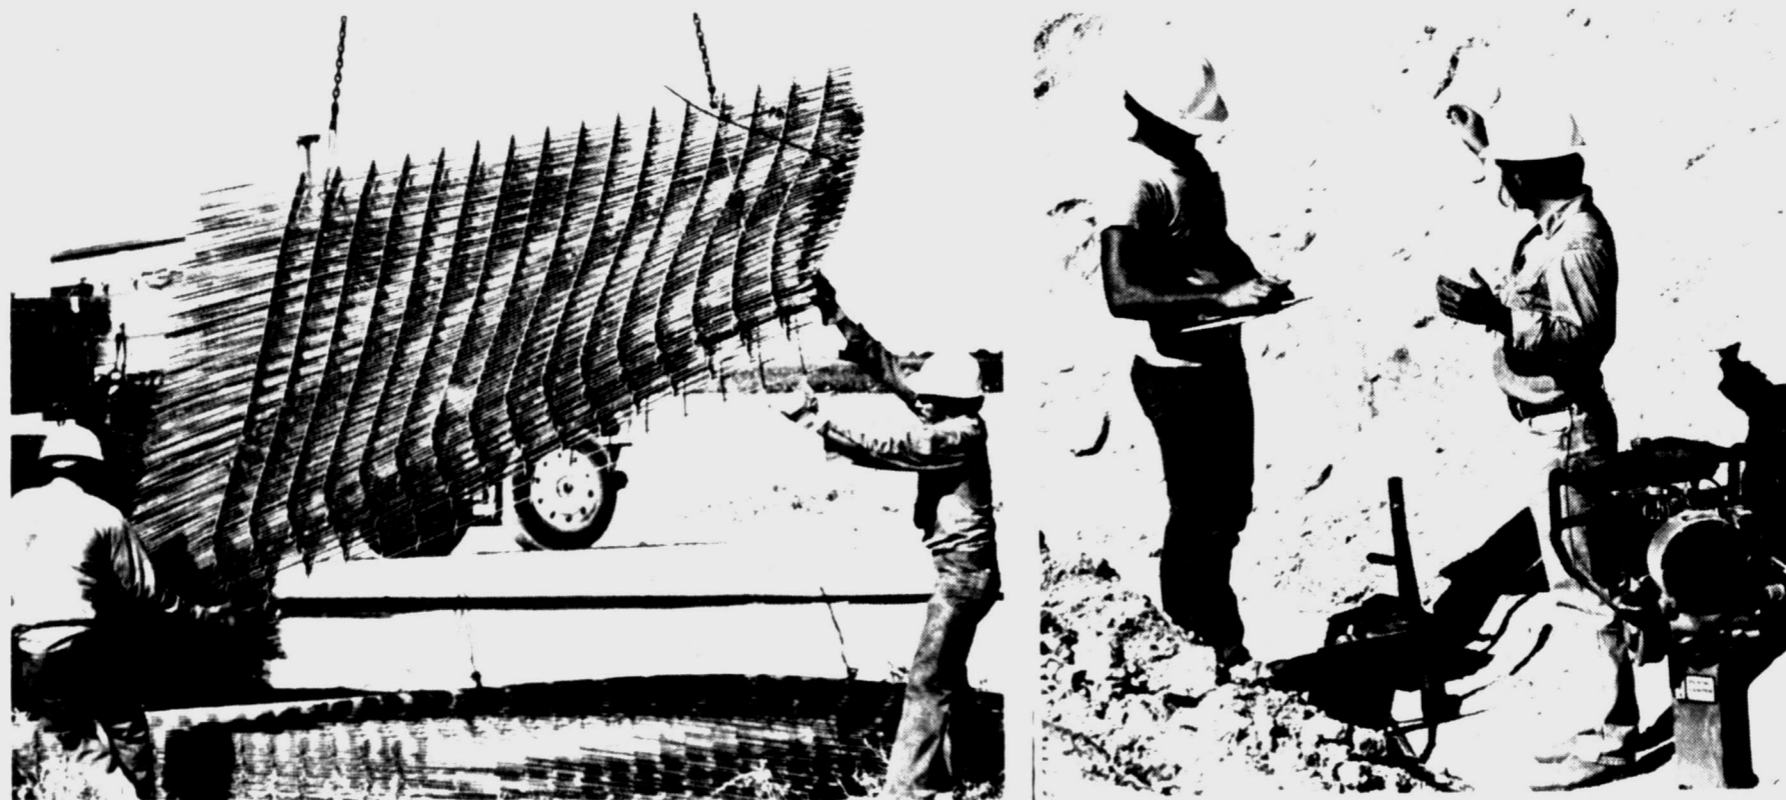

The actual foundation work is being done by Baker Concrete of Houston.

Regarding employment opportunities, Ritter noted any hiring is still being done on site and his advice was to "talk to the subs."

The work is being completed at the 579-acre site located some five miles northeast of Snyder. To accommodate the builders, six mobile office trailers have been moved in.

Board approves plan for interim surgeon

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members Friday authorized hospital administrator Thomas Hochwalt to negotiate a contract with a Sweetwater surgeon who will work on an interim basis while the board seeks two permanent medical staff members.

Hochwalt said he will offer the surgeon, Dr. Thomas Aycock, an office and a secretary for the approximately two days a week that he will be here.

The administrator reported in the noon meeting that the Houston company hired recently to help in the search for a permanent general surgeon and an internist, Whitaker, Fellows & Associates, has agreed to a reduction in its retainer from $4,000 to $2,500.

Board members also signed a conflict of interest statement, which Hochwalt said was part of the continuing accreditation process, paid the hospital's bills and conducted a brief executive session on a personnel matter.

Tax payment billing has some confusion

The Scurry County tax assessor-collector's office has mailed its tax notices this year with all Snyder-based taxing entities listed on a single sheet, and the change has prompted some confusion among tax payers.

Rona Sikes noted that some individuals have interpreted the change to mean that the bill for all four entities—the city, county, college and school—must be paid at the same time.

In fact, she said, each tax bill may be paid separately any time between now and Jan. 31.

Two of the entities—the county and college—offer an incentive for early payment. If paid in October, a 3 percent discount is given. In November, this goes to 2 percent and, in December, 1 percent.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Taxation is a method used by government to artificially induce the rainy day everybody's been saving for."

A man in Pittsburg has battled the giant retailer Sears for the past several months.

The dispute began after he purchased an 8-foot by 18-inch wading pool for his daughter. The pool was actually 7-feet by 17-inches, and he discovered the discrepancy after digging an 8-foot circular patch out of his lawn to give the pool a level base.

The guy paid $39.99 for the wading pool, and he first assumed it was merely one defective product. A call to the store revealed that the specifications on the box were wrong.

Instead of demanding a congressional investigation, the Pittsburg man did his own calculations. He figured that fudging on the length of the sidewall saved nine percent on material. Another six percent was saved on the height, and the smaller circular bottom saved about 17 percent.

"A quarter here, a dime there—these little economies mount up when you multiply them by... years of pools," the unhappy consumer claimed.

The manufacturer, General Foam Plastics Corp., says there was never an attempt to mislead.

Meanwhile, Sears gave the man his money back and allowed him to keep the mini-pool. Also, all stores were instructed to inform future buyers of the size discrepancy with a warning label on all boxes.

We see far-reaching implications when the man's daughter grows up. She'll forever be banned from politics. The media could have a heyday with that story—her father using his influence with Sears, certainly not vice-presidential timber.

"Why is that, Mac?"

Probation revoked in 132nd

A 37-year-old Hermleigh man's probation was revoked last week in 132nd District Court, and he was ordered to begin serving a 10-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Donny Mack Chauncy was on 10 years' probation for a Dec. 2, 1987, criminal mischief offense, and his probation was revoked on the basis of an Aug. 2 conviction in Ector County for robbery, according to court records.

Rosalio Gutierrez Jr., 24, of 205 N. Beaumont Ave. pleaded guilty to a Sept. 10 DWI offense and was sentenced to 180 days in the county jail and fined $750.

District Judge Gene Dulaney issued probated sentences to three defendants, including Jesse

Intercontinental missile shown to foreign reporters by Soviets

TEYKOVO, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Beneath the surface of the northern Russian landscape, a few miles from ancient churches and grazing cattle, lies the blunt white tip of nuclear destruction. The SS-11 intercontinental missile has not intruded on the outside world in the 15 years or more since it was placed in its silo 150 miles northeast of Moscow.

But it retains the power to destroy New York, Los Angeles or any other American city in minutes.

"This missile is on full military standby. It's fully armed," Major Gen. Ivan Vershkov said Thursday on a trip sponsored by the Soviet Foreign Ministry and Defense Ministry. The Soviet decision to show the missile to foreign reporters was unprecedented.

"Your presence here is indeed a step toward trust," he said. "If someone five years ago told me a group of correspondents, including foreign correspondents, would meet me by a missile silo, I wouldn't have believed it." The single-warhead SS-11 is among the oldest of the Soviet strategic forces. Western military references list three types of SS-11s and estimate the Soviets have deployed about 440.

The U.S. Defense Department says their range is 6,600 to 8,000 miles, putting any intercontinental target within their reach.

The missile is based at what Western analysts call the Teykovo missile range, surrounded by the historic towns of Suzdal, Rostov, Yaroslavl, whose ancient churches remind one of life centuries before nuclear weapons.

Vershkov said residents know only that a military installation is in the area.

Soviet military officers said the decision to show the missile was made by the general staff of Marshal Sergei F. Akhromeyev, the Soviet military chief, within days of a reporter's query. The officers said they learned of the visit six days before it began.

Akhromeyev was shown a U.S. Minuteman II missile in the United States this summer. Vershkov, a 49-year-old veteran of Soviet rocket forces, said reporters were shown an SS-11 because it is analogous to the Minuteman II.

U.S. officials have visited more than 100 missile sites while monitoring Soviet compliance with the treaty eliminating medium-and shorter-range missiles, which was ratified in May.

After first conviction, courts grapple with DNA evidence

DALLAS (AP) — The conviction of a rape defendant in Dallas this week was one of the first in Texas obtained with the help of a DNA fingerprint, but attorneys are watching several other cases to determine the effectiveness of the new type of genetic evidence.

DNA test results were used to help secure a guilty plea in a rape case in Bryan two months ago and were admitted in a co-defendant's trial.

Prosecutors will enter a DNA fingerprint in the Houston trial this week of a man charged with raping two elderly women. Defense attorneys for Henry Lee Bethune filed pretrial motions questioning the use of such accuracy statistics.

While property owners are required to pay only one tax bill at a time, they must pay the entire portion of an individual entity's bill. Partial payments on such billings are not allowed.

Cost savings were said the reason for the change in listing all four entities on a single statement, according to Sikes.

The switch allowed for savings on both postage and paper expenses, she said.

It also allows for speedier handling of the statements at her office, she noted.

Regents approve Pan Am merger

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas System regents have given their approval to begin merger negotiations with Pan American University.

The regents voted unanimously to begin the talks with the Edinburg school during their meeting Saturday in Arlington.

Pan American regents already had approved negotiating a merger in late September.

If a merger plan is approved by both boards, the Texas Legislature will be asked next year to make Pan American the 15th institution in the UT System.

South Texas leaders argued for several years that the region has not received a fair share of the state's higher education resources, and a merger with larger university systems has been considered a way to upgrade education programs and opportunities in the region.

Jack Blanton, chairman of the UT board, told the Austin American-Statesman that he and fellow UT regents Shannon Ratliff, Mario Yzaguirre and Sam Barshop will serve on a committee to negotiate with Pan American.

The Pan American board has named four regents Nat Lopez, Horacio Barrera, Bob Shepard and Noe Fernandez to handle their negotiations.

Demos vow to resume fight for family issues in 1989

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Sen. Edward Kennedy's son was undergoing cancer treatment, the senator was absent from the Capitol for three days every three weeks for two years. He didn't lose his job.

When Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., had surgery that laid him up for months, he didn't lose his job either.

Kennedy, D-Mass., used those examples to underscore why Democrats will be back next year pressing for a parental and medical leave bill that died Friday along with a major child care initiative.

"These two items will be top priorities in the next Senate," Kennedy said.

Backers of the two family bills failed Friday to get the 60 votes they needed to limit debate and complete action on the measure. The vote was 50-46.

The package, which also included a crackdown on child pornographers, was on the floor for the better part of two weeks amid intense political and parliamentary maneuvering.

Supporters found some solace in the heightened visibility of their causes.

"It was an extraordinarily wonderful job of educating both members of the Congress and the American public," said Judith Lichtman, executive director of the Women's Legal Defense Fund.

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., sponsor of the child care and parental leave bills, said he would re-introduce them on the first day of the 101st Congress in January.

Accusing Republicans of waging "a filibuster by silence," he declared, "The stonewall prevailed. They defeated the American family. But we're not going to lose forever. We're going to win these issues."

Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., sponsor of the parental leave bill in the House, said the Senate vote marked the beginning of the fight and predicted supporters would have renewed strength next year.

"The Senate's got to learn that you can't keep playing" with family issues, she said. "People are going to be angry that there's been such a high level of rhetoric and so little produced."

But the groups who fended off the parental-leave and child-care provisions this year vowed to be back in force next year as well.

"This was round one, but it was very much indicative what the proponents of (child care) and parental leave will face in the future. They're going to face a battle again and again, not only from the business community but from groups like ours," said Elizabeth Kepley, a lobbyist for Concerned Women for America.

She said the conservative group's nearly half-million members are active in every congressional district in the nation.

On May 7, 1945, Germany signed an unconditional surrender at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in Rheims, France, ending the European stage of World War II.

Hazardous chemicals must be reported by law

Employers in the Scurry County area are reminded that the deadline has passed for the reporting of the location of hazardous chemicals in the work place. All employers, including government entities that are subject to the Texas Hazard Communication Act (SARA) of 1986 are supposed to disclose this information to the public. Reports are required to be filed with the Texas Department of Health, local fire department and the Local Emergency Planning Committee.

Any chemical, for which a Material Safety Data Sheet (MSDS) is required, should be reported if the average daily quantity on hand exceeds the reporting thresholds.

Registration for calligraphy class underway at WTC

Registration is continuing for a nine-hour calligraphy course at Western Texas College in evening classes meeting on Tuesdays from Oct. 18-Nov. 22.

Classes will meet from 7-8:30 p.m. in the Scurry County Museum on the WTC campus. Fees will be $35 per person and students will furnish their own supplies. Supplies can be purchased from the instructor, Donna Holt, at the first class meeting.

To pre-register call 573-8511, ext. 240.

For Results Use Snyder Daily News Classified Ads Call 573-5486

In general, the minimum threshold limit is 10,000 pounds except for nearly 400 chemicals listed as extremely hazardous under Sec. 302 of SARA Title III. For this group of chemicals, the minimum reporting quantity is 500 pounds or less.

Any chemical that falls in one or more of five categories is classified as hazardous. These chemicals are classified as acute (immediate) health hazard, chronic (delayed) health hazard, fire hazard, sudden pressure release or reactive. Any substance used in routine agriculture operations, such as fertilizer held for sale, is excluded from the reporting requirements.

The Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC) was required to be established by SARA Title III. This federal act is also referred to as the Emergency Planning and Community Right-To-Know Act.

It is the purpose of the LEPC to help increase the public's knowledge on the presence of hazardous chemicals in the community and subsequent releases of these chemicals into the environment. The fire department will make use of the chemical inventory to decrease response time, increase effectiveness of fire fighting, improve education plans and protect the safety of personnel.

The LEPC is available to assist in the preparation of chemical inventories in the work place. Address inquiries to: W. E. Moore, Chairman LEPC, Route 1, Box 98, Snyder, Tex. 79549.

Financial Focus

If you owned common stocks or equity mutual funds on Oct. 19, 1987, when the stock market dropped more than 500 points, you probably saw a drop in the value of your portfolio as well.

Those who invest as part of a long-term financial plan realize market corrections, like Black Monday, are not only inevitable but also healthy. These investors didn't panic. In fact, many took advantage of lower prices to add to their holdings. This takes courage and confidence—the ingredients of financial independence.

Managing money is simple when profits are easy. It takes courage and confidence to manage money during times of uncertainty.

Barry Hartstone, president of Putnam Financial Service, recently addressed an audience of investment professionals on the subject of money management during times of financial adversity.

Hartstone believes "Money goes where it's treated best." This is the ingredient that makes "investors out of savers." Hartstone is convinced that service not only helps bring money in but "the clients behind the money also stay where they are treated best."

To illustrate, he points out, "there was no massive rush (after Black Monday) to redeem holdings." In fact, Hartstone said, in many cases clients started to add to existing fund investments when they were made aware of buying opportunities.

A time of financial shock is an opportunity to re-evaluate your financial position. Ideally, re-evaluation is an annual event, but many delay it until a crisis.

A review should begin with your long-range investment objective. Is it the same as when you began? Even after a correction in market and economic conditions are you still on course? If so, there is no reason for radical changes in your philosophy. On the other hand, if your objectives have changed, or your investments no longer meet current or future needs, then perhaps a restructuring of goals and investments is called for.

Equally important, is your money being managed where it's treated best? Uncertain times demand reassurance.

Adversity yields strength only when we learn from it. Uncertain economic times offer the opportunity to evaluate not only investments but also investment advice.

Support group for MS victims organized here

A support group for victims of multiple sclerosis has been organized in Snyder by Janev Thomas, herself an MS sufferer. The first meeting was held on September 26 and the next meeting will be at 1 p.m. Monday in the doctors lounge of Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

In the future, the support group will meet on the first Monday of each month, always at 1 p.m. in the doctors lounge of the hospital.

For the present, Mrs. Thomas said the support group is for victims of the disease only. Guest speakers may eventually be brought in and videos will be shown at each meeting. A program on MS will also be presented at each meeting she said.

The support group enables members to share a common condition, situation and symptoms Mrs. Thomas said.

Mrs. Thomas and her husband, John, have two teenage sons: Bryant, 15, and Randall, 13.

Multiple sclerosis is a neurological disease—a disease of the central nervous system—the brain and the spinal cord. Approximately 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases.

Multiple sclerosis is usually progressive, proceeding in a series of unpredictable attacks. The cause is yet to be found and there is no known cure. It usually attacks people in their prime years, 20-40. No medication has been found to be successful as a treatment for MS.

MS usually strikes young adults, women, people in the temperate zone and people in areas with high standards of sanitation.

The following are danger signals that could mean MS:

—Partial or complete paralysis of parts of the body.

—Numbness in parts of the body.

—Double or otherwise defective vision, such as involuntary movements of eyeballs.

—Noticeable dragging of one or both feet.

—Severe bladder or bowel trouble (loss of control).

—Speech difficulties, such as slurring.

—Staggering or loss of balance (MS patients erroneously are thought to be intoxicated).

—Extreme weakness or fatigue.

—Pricking sensation in parts of the body.

—Loss of coordination.

—Tremors of hands.

Catholic panel rejects idea of 'miracles' at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A study committee of the Roman Catholic Church found no evidence of miracles at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, where worshippers say they have received messages from the Virgin Mary during Monday night rosary services.

"Lubbock isn't Fatima, Lubbock isn't Lourdes and Lubbock probably isn't even Medugorje," Bishop Michael J. Sheehan said Friday, referring to the two church-approved shrines and the Yugoslavian village where reported apparitions are still under study by the Catholic Church.

The bishop assembled the panel to study rosary messages and other events which culminated Aug. 15 with a crowd of more than 13,000 assembling for an outdoor Mass on the Feast of the Assumption of Mary.

Many of the people attending the Aug. 15 Mass reported experiencing unexplainable occurrences, including seeing Jesus in the sky and having rosary beads change color.

Since early spring, parishioners Mike Slate, Mary Constancio and Theresa Werner kneel at the altar of the spacious church during Monday night rosary services and write on notepads. After the rosary, they read what they say are messages from the Virgin Mary. Other parishioners reported visions and the scent of roses during the services.

"A lot of good things have happened, the only thing we're saying is it doesn't take a miracle, it doesn't take a suspension of the laws of nature to explain these good things that have happened at St. John Neumann," the bishop said.

The committee praised the spiritual results of the happenings at St. John Neumann and found no evidence of deception or desire for financial gain on the part of anyone at the church, the bishop said.

A miracle or miraculous event was considered in the strictly theological sense by the committee, "as phenomena or occurrences perceptible to the senses that cannot be explained by natural causes."

"This is the meaning of miracle which is accepted throughout their report," Sheehan said.

The bishop acknowledged that he had directed the pastor, Monsignor Joseph James, the rosary messengers and the church staff at St. John Neumann to refrain from comment to the news media. He has advised James to take a few days of vacation, something the priest had already planned for October, according to other sources.

Sheehan said he met with James and the messengers to inform them of the committee's findings, but did not make the statement available to anyone until Friday morning.

Although there will not be opportunity to explain the bishop's decisions on the committee's report to the congregation until Sunday morning, by Friday afternoon several parishioners had heard about the results.

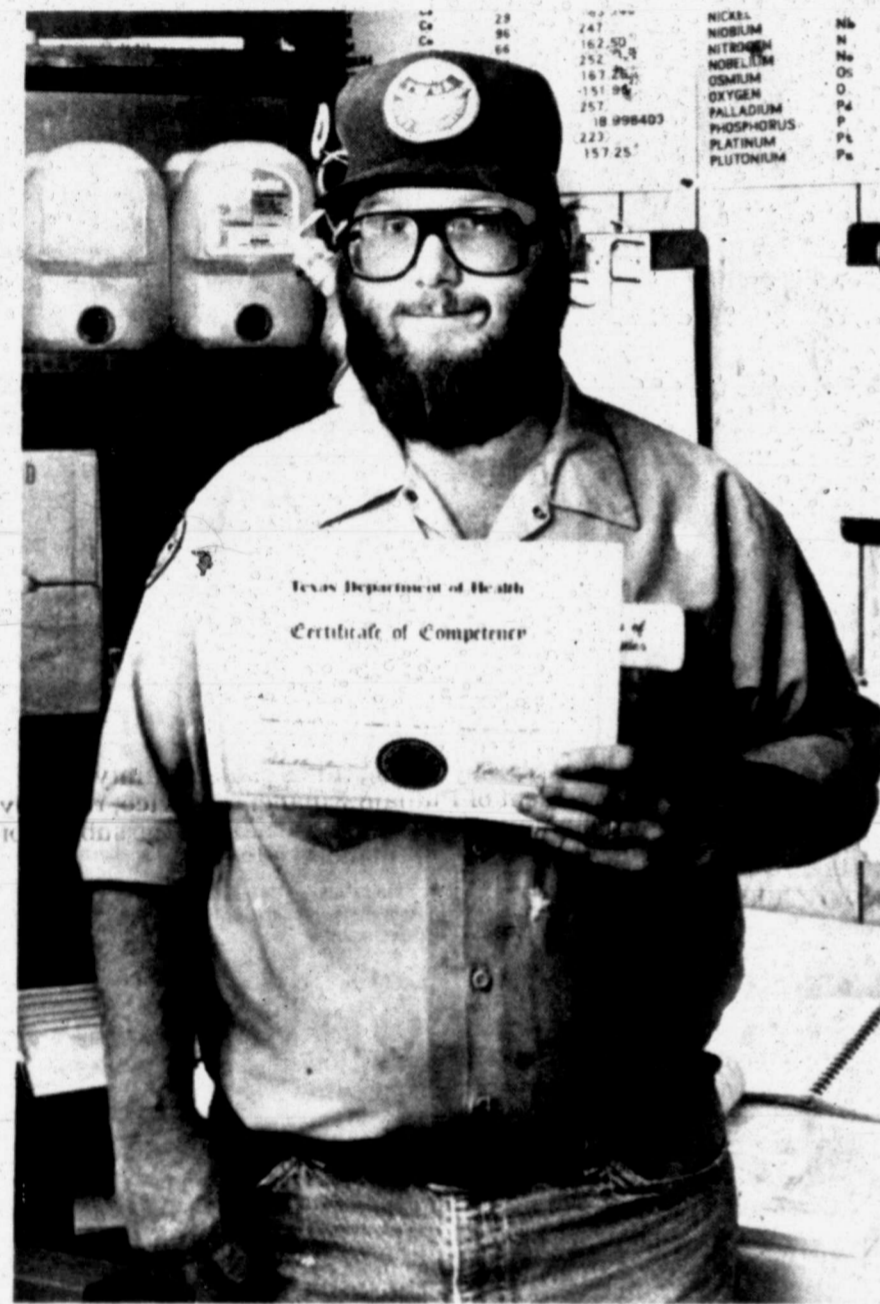

"If they are saying there's not miracles there, they don't have the faith in the Lord they should," said Dolores McMillan, a member at St. John Neumann. "When you have faith in the Lord, you see miracles every day."

Mrs. McMillan said she saw Mary appear in the clouds with St. Michael dragging the dragon on Aug. 15.

The bishop told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal the committee made a distinction between the term "miracle" and the term "supernatural."

"The supernatural or workings of God's graces in our Christian lives does not require miraculous events and indeed is mostly present to us and active within us in the midst of the ordinary occurrences of divine providence which do not circumvent the laws of nature," the bishop said.

Andrews enjoys 35-14 homecoming win...

Tigers give good effort but fall to 'Stangs

ANDREWS -- Snyder's Fighting Tigers started strong in the first and third quarters here Friday night but it was Andrews who finished the show as the Mustangs galloped to a 35-14 homecoming victory.

Snyder took the opening kickoff and marched 63 yards in nine plays to score first against the favored Mustangs. Undaunted, Andrews scored on four of its first six possessions, the last one coming with 38 seconds left to give the hosts a 28-7 halftime margin.

Snyder came back to score again deep in the third quarter and pull within 14 points, 28-14. Further efforts by the Tigers were stopped by a fumble, an interception and a solid Andrews defense.

"I was interested in seeing how we would react in the second half and the kids fought back hard," said Snyder Coach David Baugh. "We restructured our defense at halftime and the kids never let up."

Andrews got its final score with just 18 seconds left in the game after quarterback Robert Morris broke free on a 42-yard run to the 17 and Mike Hernandez bulled over five plays later.

"If we hadn't given up those two easy ones (Andrews' TDs in the final seconds of the second and fourth quarters) it would have been a much closer game," said Baugh.

Andrews managed 294 yards offensively to the Tigers' 233.

Both had 12 first downs.

The Mustangs got 97 of their yards on just two plays - Robert Morris' 42-yard run in the fourth quarter and Amos Rosas' 55-yard TD in the final seconds of the first half.

The loss put Snyder at 1-1 in District 4-4A play and 1-4 for the season. Andrews upped its record to 2-0 in loop competition and 4-1 overall.

Snyder played all of the second half and about five minutes of the first without starting quarterback-safety Randy Morris, who apparently suffered strained ligaments in his left ankle. The injury could possibly keep him out for several weeks.

Randy Morris helped engineer the Tigers' first scoring drive. Passes of 10 and 34 yards to Simon Gutierrez got the ball to the 15-yard line. Isrrael Hinojos carried two times to the 9, and from there, Randy Morris hooked up with Bart Morton for the TD strike. Bert Merritt's kick-after was good with 8:31 to play.

Andrews countered quickly after a 15-yard penalty gave the Mustangs good field position at the 48-yard line. On the second play of the drive, Rosas broke free for 12 yards to the Tiger 36-yard line. Two plays later, Robert Morris connected with Stephen Hines for a 26-yard pass to the 7. Hernandez took it over from there with 6:43 left. Rosas booted the PAT to tie the game.

Less than four minutes later the Mustangs scored again. The drive was set up on an interception, giving the hosts the ball at the Tiger 20.

Joe Don Finely ran for 10 yards on first down and Hernandez bulled to the 2-yard line moments later. A five-yard penalty and a three-yard loss put the ball back at the 10, but the quarterback hit Hines on a 9-yard pass to the 1. Hernandez slammed over from there on fourth down with 2:52 left. Rosas' kick was good.

Snyder was unable to move the ball on its next two tries and punted. Andrews also stalled, but

Landry, Gibbs see contest as key for season's success

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Washington Redskins' defense of their Super Bowl title could slip off into a deep sleep if they don't defeat the Dallas Cowboys on Sunday.

Washington coach Joe Gibbs won't say the NFC season would be over if the Redskins lose, but four losses this early would be difficult to overcome.

"We're definitely in a hole," Gibbs said. "But I don't think either team will be out of it with four losses because if you go 12-4 you're probably going to win the division."

Dallas coach Tom Landry said, "If you lose this game, you are in a deep hole with a lot of making up to do. It could make things very difficult. There probably won't be a wild card team out of the NFC East this year."

Washington and Dallas, each 2-3, meet at noon Sunday in Texas Stadium before the Cowboys' first home sellout of the season.

Last week both teams were on the wrong end of last minute thrillers.

Dallas lost 20-17 on Monday night to New Orleans on a 49-yard field goal at the gun by Morten Anderson.

Washington lost 24-23 to the Giants after rookie Chip Lohmiller missed a 36-yard field goal and an extra point.

The Redskins have also been having turnover problems, losing the ball 12 times in five games while forcing only four. Eight of the turnovers have led to 41 points.

Two young quarterbacks, Mark Rypien of the 'Skins, and Steve Pelluer of the Cowboys will duel.

Rypien is 0-2 as a starter since Doug Williams was injured although his quarterback rating is 101.7, the third best in the NFL behind Boomer Esiason and Jim Everett.

Rypien has completed 42 of 68 passes for 585 yards and five touchdowns.

"The breaks aren't going our way right now," Rypien said. "I feel badly because I'm 0-2 as a starter. It's frustrating to know you could be 2-0."

Gibbs said Rypien "has had two good games. I can always ask for more but I think he has been carrying load."

Pelluer hit 23 of 35 passes for 271 yards and two touchdowns against the Saints and ran six times for 54 yards.

"He's had two excellent games in a row in the fourth period,"

Landry said. The Cowboys, who were one-point underdogs, have lost three consecutive games to the 'Skins. They've never lost four in a row to Washington in the 29-year history of the series.

Dallas holds an overall advantage of 31-23-2.

Bulldogs set for Highland

HIGHLAND -- Ira's Bulldogs were to face Highland at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the District 7-1A opener for both teams.

In the only district game set Friday, Loraine pounded Blackwell 62-14. Friday's other contest went to Trent, which accepted a forfeit from Hermleigh.

Because of injuries, Hermleigh could have suited up only five players for the six-man contest.

After Friday rainout...

Hershiser gets start again

NEW YORK (AP) - Orel Hershiser and Tim Lincecum pray for rain. It may not rhyme like Spahn and Sain, but that's the plan of Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda.

"I'm trying to get Hershiser out there as many starts as I can," Lasorda said Friday night after Game 3 of the National League playoffs was rained out. "If it happens that this series goes seven games, I've got him out there for Game 7."

Hershiser, 23-8, was to pitch Saturday against Ron Darling, 17-9, who was scheduled to pitch Friday. John Tudor, originally scheduled to be on the mound for the Dodgers on Friday, now will go Sunday against the New York Mets' Dwight Gooden. Sid Fernandez will pitch for the Mets in the Game 5, while the Dodgers' haven't decided on their starter.

"We wanted to get this one in tonight, but we'll just have to live with it," Mets manager Davey Johnson said.

Hershiser, 23-8, finished the season with 59 consecutive scoreless innings and shut out the Mets for 8 2-3 innings in Game 1. He's on such a roll that Lasorda wants him out there as often as possible.

"Sometimes I feel more in control when I pitch with three days' rest," Hershiser said. "You stay in a good groove. There is no extra day to sleep on it and maybe lose it."

Tudor, 10-8, was originally scheduled to pitch Game 2. After hip spasms forced him out of his final start of the season, the Dodgers pushed him back to Game 3. Friday's rain pushed him back to Game 4.

"Obviously I want to pitch and I'm disappointed, but there's no guarantee that my leg was going to hold up today or even tomorrow," Tudor said. "I understand what they're doing. I'm not angry. It's not like they're casting me aside because I'm not a good pitcher."

A steady rain caused Friday's postponement, and the rain was expected to continue through the early part of today. During Friday night's wait, both teams sought to play down the furor that erupted over Mets pitcher David Cone's column on Dodgers reliever Jay Howell.

Cone quit his newspaper job Friday with a humble tone.

"I apologize to Jay and the Dodgers," Cone wrote in his final column. "I apologize to my family for embarrassing them. And I apologize to my teammates."

Lasorda said Cone's comments did not leave any ill will.

"I feel there has never been a bitter rivalry between the Dodgers and the Mets," he said. "I've always had a lot of respect for those guys."

Johnson took the controversy in stride.

"It's hard to put a muzzle on people," he said. "It's unfortunate that sometimes in the playoffs things get said unwittingly which arouse opponents."

TIGER EFFORT GOOD

regained momentum with 10:12 left to play in the half when a shanked punt gave the Mustangs good field position at the Tiger 39.

It took the Mustangs just five plays to score. Key efforts were runs of 19 and 17 yards from Robert Morris to get the ball to the 2-yard line. Finley carried the ball across two plays later from a yard out. Rosas' kick-after was wide right this time, but the Mustangs led 20-7 with 8:26 left.

Snyder countered with a drive of its own that reached the Mustang 22-yard line before dying. An 8-yard pass from backup quarterback Tracy Odom to Lee Fletcher and a 16-yard scamper from Jayson Presley helped fuel the 13-play drive. Snyder overcame a fourth-and-two situation at the 32, but was unable to convert on a fourth-and-five from the 22. Andrews took over.

Andrews gave the Tigers a break they didn't capitalize on moments later. Finley fumbled and Charles Guynes recovered, setting Snyder up at the Mustang 26. The good luck turned sour, however, when Hines intercepted Odom two plays later.

Andrews made good on the turnover, though it first appeared time would run out in the half. With help from a 15-yard penalty, the Mustangs reached their own 45-yard line. A draw play sent Rosas dashing up the middle and the 5-6, 170-pound senior ran 55 yards to score with just 38 seconds to play.

Andrews went for two points on the conversion and although Rosas dropped the ball, it bounced right back in his hands and he carried it over for a 28-7 lead.

Andrews' defense had come into the game ranked second in the district and Snyder's was third. Nothing happened in the second half to prove any different.

Andrews managed only four first downs in the half, with two of those coming on the last-minute TD drive. Similarly, Snyder's offense sputtered under the Mustang defense.

Neither team could move the ball effectively on their first two possessions of the half but Snyder got cranked up on its third try.

The Tigers took over at their own 44-yard line and drove to the end zone in six plays. A 31-yard burst from Presley and a 12-yard pass from Odom to Presley were key plays in the drive. Riggins ran for 5, 2 and 8 yards - the latter accounting for the touchdown with 1:45 left in the third quarter. Merritt's kick was good again.

After stopping the Mustangs once more, Snyder drove from its 11 to the 27 before Odom was intercepted by Hernandez - setting up the first of three fourth-quarter turnovers. Two plays later Hernandez fumbled and Merritt recovered. On the next play, however, Riggins fumbled at the end of a 7-yard run and Doug Carruth fell on it for the Mustangs.

Andrews' touchdown march began with 2:52 left and was punctuated by Robert Morris' 42-yard run to the 17. It took five plays from there, with Hernandez crashing over from a yard out.

Rosas led all rushers with 95 yards on 10 carries - 55 of it coming on one run. Robert Morris had 79 yards on five carries and Hernandez picked up 68 on 15.

Presley led Snyder with 62 yards on six tries. Riggins had 57 yards on 14 carries. Gutierrez led receivers with three catches for 59 yards.

"Our kids aren't down," said Coach Baugh. "We lost the game and we don't like that, but we played hard and never gave up. That's important in getting a program established."

Snyder will entertain Fort Stockton next Friday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. Andrews is at Monahans.

A's hoping Sox will stay silent

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The Red Sox hope a lineup shakeup can wake up Wade Boggs and the offense. But Bob Welch and the Oakland Athletics want to continue Boston's deep sleep in the American League playoffs.

The Athletics went into Saturday's third game with a 2-0 lead and everything going their way. They have momentum, a big home-field edge and better pitching and hitting so far.

The Red Sox, who led the majors in scoring and batting average, have managed one puny earned run on 10 hits in a pair of one-run losses. Boggs, the five-time batting champion, is 1-for-7 with three strikeouts.

"Everybody expects me to be perfect. Wade Boggs expects Wade Boggs to be perfect," he said during Friday's workout at the Oakland Coliseum. "As long as you play this game, you're going to fail. The sad part is you're going to fail a lot more than you succeed."

Boggs, whose .366 average and .476 on-base percentage were both best in baseball, will be moved from leadoff to the third slot for Game 3. Ellis Burks, who has hit the ball hard from the No. 6 position, is expected to fill Boggs' spot at the top of the order as the Red Sox try to solve Welch. Mike Boddicker will start for Boston.

"We're going to shift it around a little," Boston manager Joe Morgan said. "Maybe a change will do us good."

Boggs and the rest of the Red Sox haven't done too well in Oakland lately. Boston lost all six games there this season and have won only once in the last 15.

Boggs is just a .238 career hitter in Oakland, his worst average of any stadium. At Fenway Park, Boggs has a .402 lifetime average against the A's.

Welch figures to be especially tough. He relies on a good fastball that should be even more effective because of the twilight start. He won his only start versus Boston this season, decisioning Boddicker on Aug. 29 by giving up one run on six hits in 8 2-3 innings.

Green new manager for New York Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) - Dallas Green's ego is just big enough to think he can become the first of the New York Yankees' nine managers since George Steinbrenner bought the franchise in 1973 to be able to work with the volatile owner.

"I think all of us have a certain amount of pride in our ability," Green said Friday after taking over the job from Lou Piniella.

"I've done a lot of things in baseball. I've played the game, been part of the minor league system. I've managed a team to a baseball championship. I've been a general manager."

Chicago fires Fregosi

CHICAGO (AP) - Jim Fregosi was fired as manager of the Chicago White Sox Friday by General Manager Larry Himes, ending a two-year association that was uncomfortable at best.

In their case, the catch phrase "philosophical differences" was not just rhetoric.

Himes, hired at the end of the 1986 season to replace Ken Harrelson and rebuild the organization, traded away high-priced talent for young prospects and set his sights on the future.

But Fregosi, hired by Harrelson in the middle of the 1986 season, wanted a chance to win now.

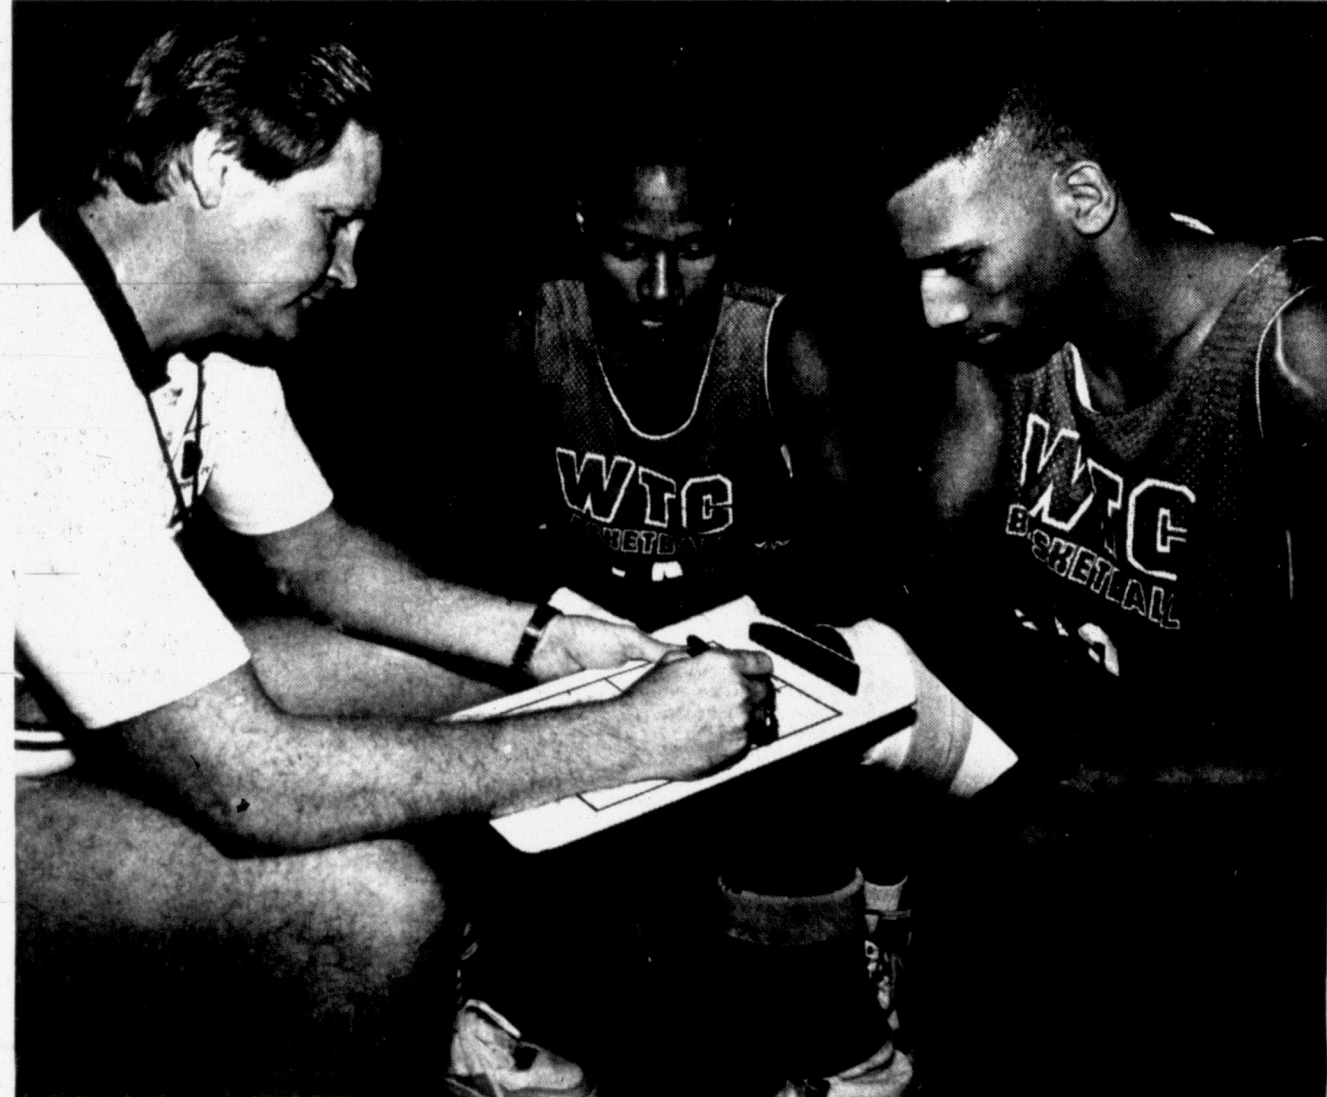

Fregosi, 46, was under contract through 1989. But he should have no trouble landing a job elsewhere - probably as manager or general manager of the California Angels, where he played for most of his 18 major league seasons. He also managed the Angels to the American League West title in 1979.

Himes said he hopes to name Fregosi's successor before the annual winter meetings, which will be held in Atlanta the first week of December.

Among those reportedly under consideration is Jim Lefebvre, 46, the third-base coach and batting instructor of the Oakland Athletics.

Another name that has popped up is that of Bucky Dent, a former White Sox shortstop who has been managing in the New York Yankee farm system.

SEASON NEARS - Western Texas College Coach Tony Mauldin instructs Keith Hawkins, 5-11 sophomore from Morton, and San Antonio's Vladimir McCrary, 6-7 sophomore, before workouts. The Westerners are gearing up for their Oct. 22 season opener with Hill County College in Dallas' Reunion Arena. Fans who attend the game will also see an NBA preseason contest featuring the Dallas Mavericks and Philadelphia 76ers. See details below. (SDN Staff Photo)

WTC plays in Dallas, Oct. 22; deadline for travel plans near

Time is running out for anyone interested in making a trip of Western Texas College's 1988-89 basketball opener.

Deadline is 5 p.m. Monday to make reservations with Snyder Travel Agency for the trip to Dallas on Oct. 22.

Western plays Hill County at 4:30 p.m. on the 22nd in Dallas' Reunion Arena. Fans attending the game will also see an NBA preseason matchup featuring the Dallas Mavericks and Philadelphia 76ers. The NBA game will start at 7:35 p.m.

Those booking the trip will travel by bus to Dallas, leaving Snyder about 8 a.m. on Oct. 22, and will return the following day.

Cost of the trip, including bus fare, overnight lodging at the Holiday Inn on North Central Expressway, game ticket and transportation to the arena will be $62 per person (based on double occupancy). Persons who choose a $5 game ticket rather than a $10 ticket will pay $56.45.

Arrangements must be made through Snyder Travel Agency by 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10. The phone number is (915) 573-4074.

Anyone planning on attending the game but who is making other travel arrangements, should still reserve tickets. Tickets should be reserved in advance by calling the WTC Athletic Department at (915) 573-8511. College officials noted that only a limited number of tickets are available.

Tickets are $10 or $5, depending on seating locations for the Mavericks-76ers contest.

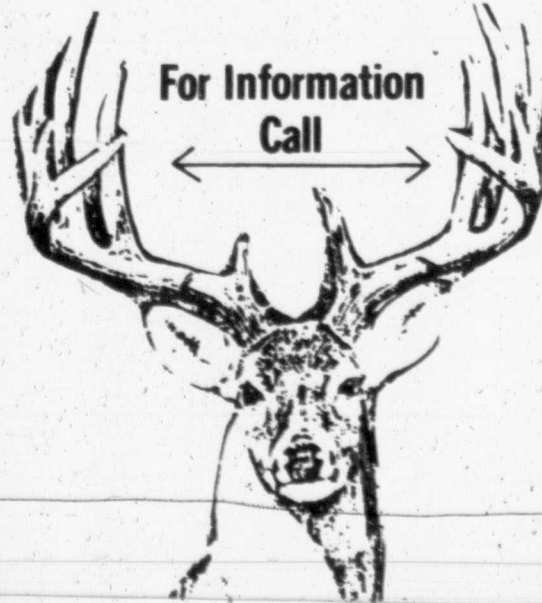

Fans may sit in the lower level for the college game but will move to different seating for the Mavericks' contest. They may move upstairs with the $10 ticket or behind the baskets for the $5 ticket.

Western making mark at Sul Ross St. rodeo

ALPINE - Western Texas College fared well in Friday night's performance of the Sul Ross State University Rodeo here. The Southwest Region rodeo was to continue with Saturday's 7:30 p.m. show, and conclude with Sunday's 1 p.m. short-go. Western had four designated team members to place in the top 10 Friday, though some of the times and scores may not hold up for the finals. Ray Brown led the way with his 6.5 second clocking in the steer wrestling. His effort put him in second place behind another WTC student - Russell Merchant. Merchant, who cannot contribute to team points but who can garner individual points, clocked a 5.9 to take over the top spot. Also making the top 10 for WTC was Bobby Moody, who is tied for fourth with a 9.5. Team member Kenny Taton scored a 73 in the saddle bronc. His effort is currently tied for second and should hold up well for the finals. Also competing in the event from Western was Bryan Peterson. He scored a 66 and is in fifth place. Bull rider Michael Gaffney, another team member, is sixth in the standings with his 73. He is behind schoolmate Buddy Reed, who is tied for second with a 77. Women's team member Krista Jeffries is in eighth place in the breakaway after posting a 5.5 time. It is doubtful she will remain in the top 10 for Sunday's short-go. Western's only other effort in the top 10 came in the calf roping where Jimmy Uptergrove clocked a 9.9 to take over third place.

Dorsett arrested

AURORA, Colo. (AP) - Denver Broncos running back Tony Dorsett, arrested by the Colorado State Patrol and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, said he knew he was wrong to refuse to take a breath test. The state patrol said Dorsett was "uncooperative" and verbally abusive to officers who stopped the black Jeep Cherokee he was driving at about 11:30 p.m. Thursday. Dorsett said he had been without an attorney and had always heard that in such cases "if you have an option not to do something, do not do it because it can work against you in some cases. That was the only reason I didn't do it - because I wasn't in the presence of my attorney." Dorsett, 34, came to the Broncos this season from the Dallas Cowboys where he had played 11 years. Trooper Don Rolfe stopped a black Jeep Cherokee driven by Dorsett about 11:30 p.m. Thursday after the patrol received a complaint that such a vehicle was weaving along Parker Road in Arapahoe County, authorities said. Rolfe confirmed the vehicle was "weaving severely," authorities said. Dorsett was taken to the Arapahoe County Jail and was released early Friday after posting a $750 bond, Anello said. He was scheduled for an arraignment in county court Nov. 8.

Givens files for divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge ordered heavyweight champion Mike Tyson to stay away from his wife, actress Robin Givens, after she filed for divorce and described her eight-month marriage as "a continuous horror story" of domestic violence.

Friday's order by Superior Court Judge Hugh E. MacBeth Jr. requires Tyson to stay at least 1,000 yards from Miss Givens and the Burbank Studios set where she tapes her TV series, "Head of the Class." It also forbids the 22-year-old boxer from going near Miss Givens' mother, Ruth Roper, and sister, Stephanie Givens.

"My husband, Michael Gerard Tyson, has throughout our marriage been violent and physically abusive and prone to unprovoked rages of violence and destruction," Miss Givens stated in a declaration filed with her divorce petition Friday.

The 23-year-old actress cited irreconcilable differences as the reason for ending the marriage to Tyson, whose wealth is estimated at $40 million.

"The most recent incident in which I was physically terrorized by Michael occurred on Oct. 2, 1988," at the couple's Bernardville, N.J., mansion, Miss Givens said. "I was awakened by Michael's hitting about my body and my head with his closed fist and open hand."

"Michael appeared, by his actions and by his breath, to be intoxicated and I discovered that he had been drinking champagne early in the morning."

"The above described incident was the latest in a continuous horror story for me. Michael has repeatedly hit me, threw things at me, threatened to kill me" and also threatened to kill her mother, sister and employees, Miss Givens said.

Tyson's lawyer, Howard Weitzman, who successfully defended automaker John DeLorean from cocaine trafficking charges, declined comment on the divorce petition until he and Tyson see it.

Actress Sigourney Weaver tells of African adventure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sigourney Weaver has been known as a courageous actress. But as the late naturalist Dian Fossey in "Gorillas in the Mist," she has outdone herself.

In earlier films she has battled outer space demons ("Alien" and its sequel, "Aliens"), revolution ("The Year of Living Dangerously") and evil spirits ("Ghostbusters"). The new movie shows her in conditions of genuine peril: working with gorillas in the mountain jungles of Rwanda without a double or a net — nothing between her and a beast that could crush her in an instant.

Fossey was murdered in Rwanda and her assailant was never found. Her colleagues, who con-

Miniature golf season to end for sr. citizens

Senior citizens will end the miniature golf season with a tournament Thursday morning at Westerner Golfland. The tournament will begin at 9 a.m.

A 42 tournament starting at 10:30 a.m. Monday will get the week's activities in the Senior Center underway. The women's aerobic exercise class will meet at 3 p.m. Monday and again on Wednesday.

Any senior citizen who enjoys singing in a group is invited to join singers from the center at Snyder Oaks at 2:30 p.m. on Mondays and at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesdays at Snyder Nursing Center. This group does not meet for rehearsals but performs informally each week.

Al Ballard's band will play in the center at 11 a.m. Tuesday and the Robert Allen band will play for country/western dancing in the center at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The Kitchen band will perform at Snyder Oaks at 10 a.m. Wednesday and the Sunshine Choir will sing at the LLL meeting at 11:15 a.m. Thursday.

With the coming of the fall season, the Senior Center bowling group hopes to increase its membership. Bowlers from the center meet at Snyder Lanes at 2 p.m. on Wednesday and new bowlers are welcome.

Friday's special activity is the Sing Along starting at 11:15 a.m. Blood pressures are also checked in the center each Friday.

sidered her an eccentric, said she had angered local residents with her aggressive efforts to restrict poaching.

Weaver, 38, was born into the entertainment business. Her father is Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, the NBC president considered to be the architect of modern television. Her mother is the former actress Elizabeth Inglis. After Stanford University and the Yale School of Drama, she worked her way from off-Broadway to films.

During a recent visit from her New York home, she talked about her African experience in an interview with The Associated Press.

Q. Did you know about Dian Fossey and her work?

A. I had gotten her book when it first came out. I had also been at Stanford when they started that human-primate program where you could live with an ape in your trailer and do your thesis on it. Jane Goodall had come and spoken to us.

"After I read Dian's book ("Gorillas in the Mist") I thought, "They can't make a picture out of this; she is too difficult a woman to be portrayed on the screen." I also thought logistically it would be a nightmare. How could you possibly create the whole atmosphere of the gorillas?"

Q. Once the deal was made, weren't you overwhelmed by the danger involved?

A. Not really. I was reading a lot of Dian's papers and rereading her book, and it seemed that she was often threatened by gorillas, but they never actually hurt her....

I was intimidated by trying to gather all the information about Dian. So much of it was conflicting. And so much of it was hearsay. She had a very negative reputation within her field, and she was considered to be a very difficult woman. I heard people say some pretty hard things about her. And some very loving things as well.

Q. What kind of a person was she?

A. She was a mass of opposites, I think. Everything you can say about Dian, the opposite is probably true. She loved people, she loved partying.... On the other hand she shunned people, she preferred to be with animals. She lived up in this isolated place, tramping around in mud, yet she loved to go out in fancy clothes.

Restaurant facility reopens at local inn

The restaurant facility at the Willow Park Inn, which had cut-back to serving breakfast only, has now reopened for a full schedule of daily meals.

New manager for the facility is Tony Whittenburg.

The operating schedule every day except Sunday is 6 until 10:30 a.m. for breakfast; 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. for lunch; and 5:30 until 10 p.m. in the evening.

On Sunday, the facility is open for breakfast and lunch only.

In the near future, Whittenburg said, a Sunday buffet lunch will be started again.

Currently, all orders are from the menu. Each meal includes full salad bar. The restaurant includes a lounge facility available for members.

Also offered at the facility are accommodations for small parties and banquets up to 200.

Whittenburg noted all cooking at the restaurant, including its breads and desserts, are done in its own kitchen.

The menu items include hamburgers, chicken, steaks and seafood. A specialty is cobbler for dessert, he noted.

Scurry County Folks...

By Shirley A. Gorman

After 52 years in the construction business, James L. "Jim" Wadleigh is calling it quits. A public auction will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, at Wadleigh Construction located on College Avenue, just this side of the Highway 84 underpass.

Everything will be liquidated including all the office furniture, typewriters, computers, construction equipment and trucks.

Wadleigh, who is in ill health, said recently that he was unable to continue in the construction field. He leaves with a "heavy heart" because his crew will be without work and his office help without jobs. Some of his employees have been with him for many years, he said.

"I loved every minute of my work and I wouldn't change any part of it," he says.

With retirement, he says he'll plant his beloved wild flowers and feed the wild birds. "I will keep on staying busy even if I have to crawl on my hands and knees to do so," he said.

His wife Helen calls her husband "the rock" because he was always there when anyone in the family needed him.

Wadleigh, the youngest of four children (three boys and one girl), was born Jan. 1, 1917 on a farm near Denver, Colo. A few years later his father left the farm and went to work in the city. But when the Depression came he lost his job, Wadleigh said.

"All four of us children had to pitch in and help make a living," Wadleigh said. "I herded cows near the Denver Airport."

Wadleigh saw some very famous people at the airport including Charles A. Lindberg and Amelia Earhart. One day while herding cows, he said Lindberg waved to him just before he left the airport in his "Spirit of St. Louis."

"I could see the words on his plane because he was flying so low," he said.

Some time later Wadleigh went to work for a drug store after school and during summer vacation, earning $4 per week. "Drugs were not dispensed from a bottle in those days," he said. "The druggist had to mix the drugs and powder and fill the capsules himself."

As the Depression continued, things worsened in Denver as they did elsewhere in the U.S. More hours and wages were being withheld from all the family jobs, Wadleigh said.

He said many people held rabbit drives and jack rabbits were shot and placed in a pile and hungry people lined up for blocks just to take one home to eat.

Even though food and money was scarce, Wadleigh said he and his family never had to resort to eating jack rabbits.

There soon came a time when Wadleigh's father could not find any work at all in the city. Even though he was a farmer, a machinist, a painter, a carpenter and a brick layer he could not find enough work to support his family, Wadleigh said of his father.

"One day he decided to trade our home in town for a small farm in Indiana. To check out the farm, my father and I rode in an old Model T Ford through ice and snow in the dead of winter. I often had to get out and scrape the ice off the windshield so we could see the road," he remembers.

Even though they couldn't tell much about the farm because of the winter weather, Wadleigh said they decided to make the trade anyway. In the spring the entire family moved to Indiana. But after the winter snow

TO RETIRE--Jim Wadleigh plans to retire this month after 52 years in the construction field. Due to ill health, he is liquidating his construction company with an auction slated for October 15. (Family Photo)

melted, they realized they had traded for a rock farm and land with big trees. However, hard work prevailed and by cutting the trees for lumber, Wadleigh said they survived the Depression.

Wadleigh headed for Texas after he graduated from high school in Indiana. Ed, an older brother, had already found work in Amarillo.

He left Indiana in the winter time with snow and ice on the ground, hitchhiking most of the way. "People were more inclined to pick up hitchhikers in those days," Wadleigh said.

When he reached Oklahoma, he was asked to drive a fleet of cars for delivery to Amarillo. Wadleigh had $11 in his pocket when he left Indiana and he managed to get to his brother's place in Amarillo with some of it intact.

Wadleigh's brother helped him get his first job--putting up billboards along the highway. A short while later he went into construction work with Walter Wirtz, a building contractor, and he has been in construction work ever since.

Wadleigh came to Hermleigh in the fall of 1936 to help Wirtz build St. John's Catholic Church. The church was completed in 1937 when he was 20 years old.

Wadleigh met his future wife in Hermleigh--Helen Nachlinger. They were married in the newly built church in June of 1937 and have been together 51 years.

Wadleigh's life as a construction worker was not an easy one. A construction worker had to go from place to place to follow the few available construction jobs during the Depression.

"Wages were mainly 25 cents an hour and if I got paid $1.50 per hour I felt I was rich," Wadleigh said.

Once Wadleigh landed a construction job he was always the last man to be laid off after the

Norris, Bauer repeat vows

Kathryn Dianne Norris became the bride of Joseph Dee Bauer of Carrollton at 5 p.m. Aug. 6 in the First United Methodist Church. Dr. Wylie "Buff" Hearn officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dick Norris of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bauer of Carrollton.

The church was centered with a rainbow candelabra and a tall crystal vase of white and blue agapantha blossoms and white curly willow. Two candle trees with emerald leaf greenery, curly willow and agapantha blossoms completed the altar decorations. The pews were marked with candlelight satin ribbons, baby's-breath and greenery.

Music was provided by Teresa McLaughlin of Wichita Falls who played the orchestra bells and the organ. Pianist Kristi Neill joined in accompanying Mickey Broach of Snyder, Keith Patterson of Stephenville, and Cammy Estrada of Denver, Colo., who sang "Friends," "To Me," "The Wedding Song," "All I Ask of You," and "One Hand, One Heart." Darrell Brown of Stephenville closed the service with "The Lord's Prayer."

Jerry Worsham read selections from "The Prophet" by Kahil Gibran and the book of Ruth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin and chiffon. Large puffed sleeves with tiny rosette inlays decorated the basque bodice and embroidered lace appliques accented the high-collared neckline and long gauntlet sleeves.

A sheer chiffon skirt covered a single, pleated ruffle of satin while hundreds of seed pearls were scattered from the bodice to the cathedral train.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of peach and white roses, enchantment lilies, star of Bethlehem, blue delphinium blossoms, alstroemeria lilies, Queen Anne's lace, and baby's-breath with streamers of bridal picot and eggshell lace.

Angie Crouch of Dublin was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Gina Roberts of Irving, Kevin McShane of Bryan, Laurie Donelson of Snyder, and Laurie Derrick of Stephenville. Lana Henderson of Big Spring was junior bridesmaid.

Each attendant wore a knee-length bubble dress of midnight blue polished cotton. A side bow of ecru Cluny lace enhanced the dropped waist. They carried bouquets of blue cornflower, rust alstroemeria lilies, blue agapantha, Queen Anne's lace, and baby's-breath tied with peach and cream lace.

Claire Cotton of Snyder was flower girl. She wore a white eyelet dress fashioned with a sash of midnight blue. She also wore a wreath of baby's breath and agapantha blossoms in her hair.

Robby Orr of Houston, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore white linen pants and shirt with midnight blue bow tie and suspenders. He carried a candlelight satin pillow trimmed in ecru lace with the couple's names and wedding date embroidered by Margaret Watkins of Snyder.

Best man was John Bauer of Carrollton, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Bryan Norris of Snyder, brother of the bride, Brent Walker of Ft. Worth, David Lamb of Carrollton, and Tony Arthur of Stephenville.

Ushers and candlelighters were Chris Roberson of Dallas, Steven Shepard of Cedar Hill, and Max Dixon of Stephenville. The men were attired in classic black tuxedos with black ties and cummerbunds while the groom wore tails. Boutonnieres were a mixture of white rosebuds, enchantment lilies, and Queen Anne's lace. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The bride's table was highlighted before a bridal archway entwined with English ivy. The cloth was embossed with antique satin over a cream satin skirt. Streamers of thin candlelight satin ribbons draped across all sides and were brought to a point at each end with peach rosebuds and greenery. Mirrored pedestals topped with brandy snifters filled with alstroemeria blossoms and baby's-breath centered the table. The punch bowl and appointments were silver with colors of cream and midnight blue.

The four-tiered bridal confection of Italian cream was held by crystal columns. Decorating each layer were blue agapantha and alstroemeria blossoms, white and peach roses, baby's-breath and leather leaf foliage.

Serving at the bride's table were Ollie Carroll of Snyder and Kelli Lamb of Stephenville.

The groom's table carried off the theme of his profession in hydrology with an antique china hand water pump surrounded with greenery and agapantha blossoms. The colors of midnight blue and cream with brass accents complimented the table. A German chocolate cake was topped with a cross and crescent, the insignia of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

An hors d'oeuvre table held an arrangement of cascading fruit flanked on either side by a crystal tray of various cheeses and finger sandwiches. An ecru lace cloth covered the table.

Sabrina Bills of Lubbock registered guests. Linda Walker of Snyder provided piano selections throughout the reception.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple will be at home in Austin.

The bride, a graduate of Snyder High School, was graduated from Tarleton State University with a bachelor of fine arts in theatre. She will be attending graduate school at the University of Texas in Austin.

The groom graduated from Tarleton State University with a bachelor of science in hydrology. He is employed in Austin as a hydrologist for Engineering Science, Inc.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Housden announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carie Evonda, to Russell Wayne Gafford, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Gafford Jr. The couple plans to exchange vows Nov. 12 at First Baptist Church. (Ted Bigham Photography) implying that his takeout bid was two-suited in clubs and hearts. There they rested, although East did double and get a one-trick set.

It would have been better if South had been of the old-fashioned conservative school. If he had tamely passed over four spades, his side would have taken four tricks to get a plus score. But let's not be too harsh with him. If North had held the diamond ace rather than the Q-J, five hearts would have been a makable contract.

Drying swimmer's ear

TORONTO (AP) — Blow-drying of the ear canal can prevent recurrence of chronic ear infections in patients who swim, notes a report in a medical publication.

Patients can eliminate moisture in their ears by aiming a conventional blow-dryer at the ear from a distance of 45-60 centimeters, according to Family Practice News.

Using the dryer for about 30 seconds three times a day ensures dryness of the canal, thereby preventing bacteria and fungi from causing chronic infection, the journal reports.

Blow-drying is often effective when conventional treatment — topical application of ear drops and cleansing of the ear canal with a "dry mop" — is not, it notes.

The publication adds that the use of ear plugs while showering or swimming is another good preventive measure.

Two schools of thought

By James Jacoby

In the early days of contract bridge, conservative tactics were employed against pre-emptive bids. Since the opponents had a long suit, you needed extra values to get into the bidding at a high level. With the increase in bridge sophistication, special bids came to be employed to show two-suited hands against high-level pre-empts. This made it easier to compete. Look at today's deal for an example of how too much sophistication can sometimes backfire.

East raised his partner's three-spade opening to four. He thought he could provide West with a couple of tricks, and hoped it would be enough. Anyway, if they went set, no doubt the opponents could make something. South trotted out four no-trump as a takeout bid. His partner might not know that this bid showed clubs and hearts, but South felt he could handle whatever happened. West doubled four no-trump to show that he had a defensive trick, and East doubled five diamonds. Now South bid five hearts,

Fire sprinklers big business

NEW YORK (AP) — The automatic fire-sprinkler business is huge, with annual sales of nearly $3.5 billion, with no competition from overseas, reports Metalworking News.

The publication notes that about 16 million sprinkler devices have been installed in North America, with about 15 million of the total in the United States. The devices and systems are not imported.

Until recently, automatic sprinklers were primarily installed for commercial and industrial users. Since 1983, however, they have begun to be installed in residences, with the most recent count placing installations at 100,000 living units.

Piping represents about 70 percent of the material used in a sprinkler system, and industry estimates place piping requirements at about 400 million linear feet per year. Ninety-six percent of the piping is black steel, 3 percent plastic and 1 percent copper.

Jim Wadleigh plans to retire

job was completed. As long as Walter Wirtz had a job, Wadleigh said he had a job even though it meant moving from place to place.

If Wirtz didn't have a job for him, he would keep going back to other construction sites until they would hire him.

In the summer of 1941, Wadleigh and his wife and son, Lanny, left Texas to go to work in Denver. He found work shortly after arriving but with World War II looming, Wadleigh decided to move his family to Vallejo, Calif. in December of 1942. Working in the shipyards, his salary went from $1.50 per hour to $3 per hour. "I didn't feel I could turn that down," Wadleigh said.

They drove into Vallejo on Dec. 7, 1942 and as they were eating their noon meal in a restaurant, Wadleigh said they heard the news on the radio that Pearl Harbor had been bombed by the Japanese.

"I reported for work on Dec. 8 and by noon we were in war with Japan," Wadleigh said. "You can imagine the panic that resulted. Everyone was jumpy. We expected Japan to bomb the west coast at any time."

"It was lucky that we arrived when we did because soon all the houses were filled up," Wadleigh said. "We had just bought a 1942 auto, furniture, a house and just about everything we needed before everything went off the market."

San Diego park outstanding

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — This southern California city boasts one of the largest and most diversified urban parks in the nation, reports Travel Agent magazine.

The city's Balboa Park is more than just greenery, however, notes the international travel journal.

Scattered among 1,400 acres are a half-dozen museums whose ornate buildings in Spanish-Moorish style date back to the Panama-California Exposition of 1915, three theaters, a science center, concert halls, golf course, tennis courts and bicycle paths.

According to Wadleigh, it soon became apparent that many items would soon be "taken off the market." "If we saw people standing in a line we got in line also because we knew it would be for some scarce item," he said.

Since Wadleigh was a carpenter by trade, he was soon put to work insulating submarines. He hated that job and tried to get into the service, but because his right index finger had been cut off in a construction accident he was disqualified.

In February of 1945, Wadleigh was finally accepted into the Merchant Marines as a ship's carpenter. "The war ended shortly thereafter and I was sure glad to be home," he said.

Wadleigh then engaged in many phases of construction work—building bridges, overpasses, culverts, big buildings and other types of construction work in the Vallejo and San Francisco area.

Wadleigh got his construction license in 1949 in California. By 1950, the Korean War was in the making and Wadleigh felt it was time for he and his family to leave the West Coast. They sold their home and headed for Amarillo where Wadleigh again went to work for Walter Wirtz, this time as a construction superintendent.

In 1952, Wadleigh moved his family to Snyder where he continued in the construction field. One of his first jobs was to build a home for his sister-in-law, Mary Ann Lambert on Westridge Drive. He also constructed an addition to West Texas State bank as well as numerous other jobs.

Wadleigh built his first metal building in 1955 for Theo Lamb when he built Lamb Chevrolet House (now owned by Howard Gray Motors). Since then he has built many metal buildings in the Snyder and surrounding area, some even as far away as Marfa.

Once Wadleigh had entered into metal building construction, his only two commercial buildings that were not metal were the chamber of commerce and Midwest Electric buildings.

It has been said of Wadleigh that his vast knowledge of construction work made him a very exacting builder. He always expected a lot from himself and his employees.

Two of Wadleigh's sons, Lanny and Tom, worked with him in the family business since the time they were 14. Another son, Pete, didn't like the construction business and studied photography and mechanics instead. He now lives in Breckenridge.

Polly Echols, Wadleigh's only daughter, worked for Texaco Oil Company in Houston for several years. Seven years ago she moved back to Snyder to help her dad. She did the drafting of plans and the job estimating costs for Wadleigh Construction.

"I always wanted my children to go to college but I also felt they should be taught how to work and they all learned how to do that," he said.

"It was a sad day for me when I realized that I could no longer cope with the construction business," he said.

Wadleigh's sons had gone into business for themselves and his two grown grandchildren had left to go into another field of work. Since his daughter could not handle the field work and the office work, he said he realized that it was time to close down Wadleigh Construction.

FEATURED THIS WEEK
A NATURAL STATE. By Stephen Harrigan.

This selection of essays explores the human longing to feel at home in the world of nature. In vivid prose, Harrigan evokes the landscape of his home territory—the rivers, deserts, mountains, and seashores of Texas—and the lives of the creatures that inhabit it.

Those creatures may be as small as the tiny coquina clams that burrow into the intertidal sands of the Gulf coast or as large as the captive elephants in the Houston Zoo. He writes with equal intensity of his own reactions—sometimes droil, sometimes haunted—to the extraordinary power of place that Texas projects.

Each of these essays deals in one way or another with a yearning to find a point of entry into a more resonant and complete world. Harrigan chronicles this yearning with restraint and accuracy as well as considerable humor and creates in the process a work of lingering discovery.

Evening vows unite couple

APPROACHING MARRIAGE — Barbara and Freddie Hull of Snyder and Dixie Tucker of Ft. Worth announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Kimberly Ann Tucker and Tommy Ray Hull Sr. both of Ft. Worth. The wedding is planned Nov. 25 in Ft. Worth. (Private Photo)

Sheila Ann Martin and Michael Todd Sorrells repeated nuptial vows at 8 p.m. Sept. 23 in Faith Baptist Church. Pastor Buck Hatfield performed the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Martin of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Sorrells of Hermleigh.

Vows were exchanged before a brass arch decorated with blue, yellow and white flowers. Seven-branch candelabra covered with greenery flanked the archway. The piano and organ were accented with arrangements of blue, yellow and white flowers. Pew markers included four royal blue bows and four yellow bows with flowers and greenery.

Holly and Cristy Scott were candlelighters. Holly wore a teal-length blue dress and Cristy was in yellow. Shoulder bows and V-backs accented the design.

Musical selections included "Somewhere Out There" sung by Mary Lee Hicks; "The Wedding Day" and "Endless Love" sung by Holly Scott.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of organza embellished with lace. The bodice featured a Victorian neckline and a lace inserted yoke surrounded by ruffles which continued down the back to the waist. Pearls decorated the lace patterns. Full, sheer sleeves gathered to a cuff at the wrist.

The full skirt was layered in lace trim and was completed by a full, sheer cathedral veil sweeping from the headpiece. The bridal bouquet consisted of a white lace fan with royal blue, light blue, yellow and white flowers cascading around the fan. Blue, yellow, and white satin streamers tied in love knots completed the arrangement.

For something old, the bride's maternal grandmother's wedding ring was tied to the widest ribbon in her bouquet. Something new were her shoes. The wedding gown was borrowed from Chris

(Ted Bigham Photography)

Ellis of Abilene, cousin of the bride. Something blue was a handkerchief bordered in lace and embroidered with names of the bride and groom, a gift from Ann Galyean.

Andrea Escobedo served as matron of honor. Ann Harvey of Ft. Worth, cousin of the bride, was her bridesmaid. Their teal-length dresses were of royal blue taffeta with royal blue lace overlay. V-backs were accented by shoulder bows and short, puffed blue lace sleeves. Dropped waistlines finished the style.

The attendants carried round bouquets with lace bows and flowers of royal blue, yellow, light blue, and white. Ribbon streamers in the bride's colors accented the arrangements, and royal blue bows were worn in their hair.

Misty Vaughan of Abilene, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired in a yellow taffeta full-length dress styled like the bridal attendants' gowns. She threw petals in the bridal colors.

Ring bearer was Phillip Scott. He carried the rings on a white, lace-covered heart pillow.

Mark Estes was best man and Shawn Ragland served as groomsman. Ushers were Robbie Nolan, cousin of the bride, and Gary and Stephen Sorrells, brothers of the groom. All male attendants wore dark blue suits with light blue rose boutonnieres.

Sheri Marsh, cousin of the bride, registered guests at a podium decorated with a small throw-bouquet in the bridal colors.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in baby blue with white lace overlay. Silk flower arrangements decorated the crystal appointments and pineapple punch.

The three-tiered wedding cake was separated by pillars with a blue water fountain and flowers underneath. The white frosting was decorated by blue, yellow, and white silk flower arrangements. A Precious Moments miniature bride and groom under a garden arch topped the cake.

Mary Lee Hicks, Terri Stout, and Betty Elam served.

The groom's table was covered in yellow with lace overlay. An arrangement of yellow, blue, and white flowers and a white paper bell set decorated the table. A heart-shaped German chocolate cake had chocolate icing decorations with the couple's names in the center. Lisa Chambers served.

Following a honeymoon trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple is at home in Snyder.

Both the bride and groom are Snyder High School graduates. The bride is a vocal music major at Western Texas College and the groom is employed with West Texas State Bank.

NEW BREAKFAST CHOICE

Low fat is the way to go in today's diets, according to various health officials, and a new chicken sausage could help lower fat intake at breakfast.

Sausage prepared from a combination of white and dark chicken meat and fat components from chicken, or other animal components, has the potential of providing a low-fat breakfast sausage.

Sausage made from a combination of white and dark meat chicken, plus added fat, seems to be an acceptable produce.

Chicken has not been used extensively as a breakfast sausage product before due to the lack of texture and fat needed for flavor. Mixing chicken meat and a small portion of fat from other meats creates sausages with adequate flavor, yet they are low in fat content and cost.

Four sausage formulations were evaluated to determine which fat species produced the most desirable sausage product when combined with chicken.

Lean chicken tissue was combined with about 10% added fat (either chicken, beef, pork or a high oleic acid pork fat) to give a final fat content of 15-16% in all four sausages. The sausage products were then presented to a consumer taste panel to determine tenderness, juiciness, flavor and overall acceptability.

Sausage containing chicken meat and chicken fat was chosen to be as good as any other treatment. Normally, breakfast sausage contains about 35-40% fat. Also, when chicken fat is used, there is a better ratio of unsaturated fatty acids than with the other mixtures.

The combination of chicken with chicken fat (or other animal fats) creates an economical produce low in fat and high in taste quality. Also the use of chicken dark meat will expand the market base for this product and benefit the poultry industry.

Shedding some light on 'lite'

NEW YORK (AP) — Products labeled with "light" or "lite" sometimes are higher in fat and calories than their "regular" counterparts, according to Family Circle magazine.

It says the Food and Drug Administration states the two terms can mean different things on different products. A light product (as compared to a regular one) may be lower in calories, fat or sodium, but it may also be higher in one or all three.

"Light" can also refer to the color, flavor or texture of the product. Since there is no FDA standard to adhere to, the label should explain just what "light" refers to.

Boston or Bibb lettuce has twice as much vitamin C and three times as much vitamin A by weight, as iceberg lettuce. Romaine lettuce has six times as much C and eight times as much A as iceberg. In general, the darker green the lettuce, the more nutritious. This is also true for other green leafy vegetables.

Family communication tips

NEW YORK (AP) — Kids' busy schedules and a rise in two career and single parent homes have resulted in the fact that many families no longer eat together on a regular basis.
However, reviving the dinner hour as a ritual in the home can improve family communication, says Family Circle magazine. It gives these tips to make the family meal a positive experience.
— Eliminate distractions: For uninterrupted family-time, turn off the television and unplug the phone.

— Avoid unpleasant business: Save giving out punishments and discussing bad grades for some time other than the dinner hour.
— Get everyone involved: Encourage children to speak up and participate.
— Stick to a designated time: Appointing a specific hour can be comforting to children as a sign of order in a chaotic world.

Candlelight promises made

Theresa Renee Hildreth and Duard Leroy Jones were joined in matrimony at 7 p.m. Aug. 20 at Faith Baptist Church. Buck Hatfield, pastor of the church, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Larry and Betty Hildreth of Snyder. The groom's parents are John and Pat Jones of Snyder and James and Dorothy Snowden of Belton.

The altar was centered by a brass, arched candelabrum holding 15 tapers. Matching spiral candelabra flanked the lighted arch. A memory candle, boxwood and pew markers completed the decorations.

Brandy Gill of Andrews, cousin of the bride, lit the candles.

Organist Patsy Martin of Snyder accompanied Jeff McGuire and Dawn Ublehart of San Angelo in "I'll Still Be Loving You," "Precious Love," and "Always."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal, white gown of taffeta and chiffon completely overlaid with lace. The fitted bodice was accented by leg-o-mutton sleeves. The full skirt featured a full-length train fastened at the neckline. The scalloped lace was embellished in pearls.

The veil of illusion was trimmed with pearls and lace to complement the gown. The cascading bouquet was of white bridal roses and lace highlighted with pearls, Frenched white carnations, and needlepoint ivy atop a white prayer book accented with lace and satin streamers.

Lit. teacher lauds soybean

NEW ATHENS, Ill. (AP) — Eileen Greco once taught English literature to teen-agers. Now she teaches lessons on the nutritive value of the soybean to everyone she meets.

"If you could choose your elders, you wouldn't have to listen to any of this," she said, alluding to the link between a family history of early heart attack and a heightened risk of coronary disease. "You could eat just about anything."

But if Uncle Seymour has clogged arteries or Grandma Elsie's cholesterol level is twice her weight, you might be interested in Greco's information.

Greco, who lives in this community about 25 miles southeast of St. Louis, is a soybean booster, representing the Illinois Soybean Program Operating Board. She's also a member of the American Soybean Association.

"I was surprised how much we consumed that I didn't know about," she said. "Every American uses 35 to 40 pounds of soy oil a year."

The best-known soybean product is soy sauce, followed by vegetable shortenings, salad dressings and margarine.

Others might surprise you — soy flour, soy nuts and a product called TVP that stands for "textured vegetable protein."

Just add water and spices and it becomes a meat-like filling for tacos. Or mix it with pineapple, water chestnuts and peppers and it's an Oriental stir-fry dish.

Soybean plants are among the world's oldest, having been cultivated in China for more than 4,000 years.

were Rhonda Morris of Ft. Worth, Ann Blackmon of Dallas, and Kim Clement of Abilene. Dresses were designed by Judy Dunk in teal taffeta. The tea-length full skirts set off fitted bodices accented by ruffled sleeves and scalloped necklines. White stockings and heels and white hair combs and streamers completed the designs. Each carried a colonial nosegay of white daisies, yellow statice and jade baby's-breath with multi-colored streamers.

Jessica Green, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She carried a white satin basket decorated in teal, yellow and white and filled with white petals. She wore a tiny wristlet of white daisies.

Justin Green, also cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a satin pillow covered with lace and wore a white daisy boutonniere.

Best man was Jay Casey of Ft. Worth. Groomsmen were Mike Deere and Lee Hamilton, cousins of the groom, and Stuart McCoy. Terry Hildreth, brother of the bride, ushered guests.

The groom wore a white Pierre Cardan tuxedo with tails, a white pleated shirt and white bow tie and cummerbund. His boutonniere was of white roses, baby's-breath and English ivy. White shoes completed his attire.

His attendants were also attired in silver Cardan tuxedos with turquoise bow ties and cummerbunds. They wore white daisy boutonnieres and grey shoes. Rachel Everett registered guests at a table accented with a white candle surrounded by white roses and carnations.

A reception at the Snyder Country Club followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was centered by a silver candelabrum holding four candles and decorated with English ivy, white carnations, and baby's-breath. The silver punch bowl was also surrounded by English ivy and baby's-breath.

A three-layer white cake with four satellite cakes was held up by a fountain of teal blue running water. All decorations on the confection were of white icing. A Precious Moments bride and groom miniature with a heart topped the cake.

Sharon Gill of Snyder and Cindy Gill of Andrews, cousins of the bride, served.

The groom's table held a German chocolate cake decorated with chocolate roses. Feature of the table was a cowboy sitting in a washtub decorated with palm leaves, Boston fern, and lariat rope. A country quilt covered the table. Servers were Shawna Stipe and Nena Forbes.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple is at home in Snyder.

The bride, a Snyder native, is a Snyder High School graduate and attended Western Texas College. She is employed with West Texas State Bank.

The groom also attended Snyder schools and is employed with Canyon Resources Inc.

By Donny Brown

In a column given over mostly to harebrained speculations and foo-foo, we'd like to alter the pace and shake the cup.

As TV preachers are bent to say, we'd ask you to "gee-ueve!" The theme is United Way.

At this point, we'll admit that this request in print is death to a columnist—a sorry breed who lives only to be read. With the word "gee-ueve," folks tend to roll their eyes and turn to the comics.

TV trumpeters of the gospel can get away with it because, with their plea, they perform a service—whether entertainment or spiritual depends on your perspective.

Columnists, on the other hand, only fillup a space. Instead, you could be reading about some guy in Passaic, N.J. and his collection of milk bottle tops.

But seriously folks.

United Way really does need you to "gee-ueve!"

It's a flat out fact that at least four local organizations, the Boys Club, Noah Project, Oil Patch Foster Parents and the Snyder Child Day Care Center, would be in a world of hurt without United Way.

SDN Opinion Page

Columns-Cartoons-Look Back-Letters-Quotables

Without its financial support, it would be "no tickie, no laundree" time. Not to mention the good United Way does for the broader-based Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, West Texas Rehab, Salvation Army and Red Cross.

As a fund raiser, it tends to get lumped in with all the other good causes. And the rest ARE good causes, folks selfishly trying to raise money—a job that will neither earn you a dime nor make you a friend.

But before we get too preachy, we'll throw in some entertainment. A man is sent to hell and given his selection of "rooms" where he will spend eternity. In each, people are forced to stand on their heads in either blazing fire or boiling water. A final option has a group standing knee-deep in sheep manure while drinking coffee. The man agrees to the final room. Before he can finish his cup, however, the devil walks in and announces, "Okay, coffee break's over, back on your heads."

But seriously folks.

The trick to United Way is that it has a goal of eighty-five (hard as heck to come by) thousand dollars. And anyone who thinks that amount is easy to raise should just try it sometime.

There are the big givers—like the folks at SACROC who have come up with $10,000, or Mobil Producing, $5,900 last year. But the meat and potatoes of United Way are the $1,000 gifts from businesses asked to donate to a zillion other causes; the $200 gifts from individuals who are likewise; and the $5, $10 and $20 donations from a whole bunch of others.

To add up to $85,000, it takes a wad of folks.

If you lined up the individual donations like a gigantic math problem, you'd fill up the chalk boards at Snyder High School and have a string of numbers trailing toward 37th St.

And it's scary as the dickens thinking that you have to depend on that many bodies year after year.

The United Way drive kicked off Oct. 1. Workers are now coming around and "shaking the cup," asking for your contribution.

It's a once a year campaign, but the good work it does in Snyder and Scurry County goes on year-round. We mentioned "no tickie, no laundree." Without the bucks, it can't happen.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

During my years of writing for various magazines and newspapers, I've interviewed many strong, intelligent, creative women who have carved a place of prestige and respect for themselves in male-dominated fields. I've faced them across cluttered executive desks, over the backs of horses, and inside crowded police cars. Time and again, I've heard them say, "I'm not one of those women's libbers."

This statement always baffles me, as does the reaction I get if I happen to say, "I am a feminist." Most women respond with open hostility and defensiveness. Men react with guarded, challenged expressions and sometimes, mumbled curses.

I've given a lot of thought as to why people react with such threatened anger whenever you identify yourself in any way with the Women's Movement. I think the problem stems from two sources. First, people cling to old and dated stereotypes about feminists which no longer apply, and second, the Women's Movement is blamed for every evil on the face of the earth, but given no credit whatsoever for the accomplishments all women (and men) now take for granted.

Feminists are supposed to hate men, yet want to BE men.

They're thought to be genderless and make-upless in appearance, humorless and hostile in attitude. They're expected to be leftwing politically, and if they are not all lesbians, then the men they choose to involve themselves with are supposed to be spineless wimps. And they are accused of being anti-family.

If this is how you think of feminists, it's time you gave it a second look. These stereotypes simply don't fit these days, any more than the idea that all black people are supposed to like watermelon or all Asian families run laundries. It simply isn't so.

Feminists don't hate men at all; on the contrary, they admire and respect them for their competitiveness, aggressiveness, ambition, and strength. Yet, they don't want to BE men — they celebrate their womanhood, exalting in the traits traditionally attributed to the feminine nature such as sensitivity, compassion, and intuition. They enjoy feeling attractive and dress accordingly, which includes enhancing their sexuality.

And as far as their men being wimps, c'mon...don't you GET it? Strong women LOVE strong men, someone against whom they can test their strength. A strong woman knows that a strong man is so confident in himself that he is quite capable of giving her the freedom to be herself fully without her feeling tied to a tight leash. (In return, he receives her absolute loyalty.) A strong woman realizes that a truly strong man has no NEED to swagger to "prove" himself, he's not threatened by her strength or abilities and has no problem with changing a baby's diaper or cooking supper. Why should he? It's part of life.

As far as being anti-family, it's an unfair accusation to make on women who are just as passionately devoted to their kids as any other women. Many women have been literally forced into the workplace long before they wanted, because of a national economy which dang near collapsed in the 70s and hit rock bottom in this state in the 80s. If those women, who have to work anyway, choose to fight their way up the career ladder in order to make an income a little more than 62 cents on the dollar for what males make, they should not be spat upon for that effort. ESPECIALLY if they are raising kids alone, which nearly half of the women in this country do now.

Most people don't realize that the Women's Movement served to sensitize the consciousness of a nation — that before the Women's Movement, there was no such thing as women's right to vote, originally, and in recent years, no such thing as a Child Abuse Hotline, no such thing as a National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, no such thing as shelters for battered women. Nobody ever talked about the sexual abuse of children, and those children (one out of every four) grew up harboring terrible shame which crippled their adulthoods.

Before the Women's Movement, men were denied the exhilarating privilege of being present at the birth of their babies, and many of the joys of parenting young fathers now take for granted were once considered "unmanly."

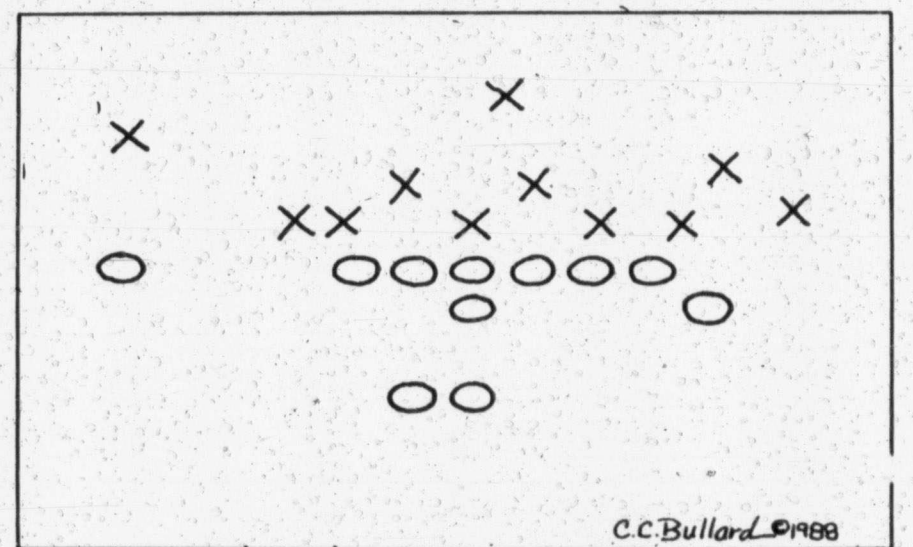

Before the Women's Movement, all a woman had is what her husband provided for her; parents pushed their daughters to marry a "good provider," and if they didn't, they were doomed to a lifetime of poverty. And in these days of six-figure single-family dwellings and college educations, even the best providers struggle heroically to do it on one income.

As to those women who claim not to be feminists, it never occurs to them that without "those women's libbers" — trailblazers like Betty Friedan and Gloria Artist's note: All football cartoons refer to pro ball.

Steinem and the early fighters, they wouldn't even have gotten those important jobs in the first place. Could it be that they really ARE feminists who just don't have the guts to admit it?

Any societal upheaval yields benefits as well as problems, and there are many problems yet to be addressed: insufficient day-care, latchkey kids, high divorce rates and the like. But we've come such a long, long way, baby, that I have great hope that these problems will be addressed and solved in time.

Maybe then we won't feel the need for labels to express your personal identities, and maybe we'll be able to accept one another's positions without pigeon-holing each other into little empty slots. And maybe, just maybe...we won't even be angry anymore.

10 YEARS AGO

Roy Meador was installed as the new president of Sunrises Kiwanis Club and Jay Massingill was named leader of the Noon Kiwanis.

Pat Falls and Thelma Smith were crowned "Coming Home" king and queen at the Ira homecoming celebration. Cindy Huddleston was named Homecoming Queen during halftime ceremonies.

15 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Neill won $70 from the Jaycees for the overall grand prize and first place for September in a cleanup, paint-up, fix-up campaign.

Snyder celebrated its oil industry with the "Billioth Barrel of Oil" celebration. Pat Moore of Ira was featured as a local who watched the first oil well being drilled.

A free barbecue, parade, tours of the oil field, square dance and banquet of some 1,500 people complete with Ken Curtis as guest were part of the festivities.

Snyder marked the 50th anniversary of football in the city. Ex-players were invited to a coffee and the first Tiger team of 1923 was pictured.

20 YEARS AGO

Bobby Goodwin was promoted to captain at the Snyder Police Dept. following 14 months of service as a detective sergeant. In police work for eight years, his promotion made him second in command of the department.

Jimmy Ward received a $25 prize at Snyder Lanes for bowling a 656 series. Another $25 was reserved for the first woman to break the 650 mark.

Judy Bruyere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Bruyere, was named "Sweetheart" of the local Lions Club.

SUNDAY
October 2

A $1,000 reward is now being offered through the Scurry County Crime Stoppers program for information leading to the arrest and indictment of individuals responsible for at least two Scurry County equipment thefts and a third incident in Borden County, it was reported Sunday.

Individuals with information should now call 573-6700.

For the second month in a row, Scurry County's unemployment estimate stayed at its lowest level of 1988—the 5.5 percent range.

The figure reflects the month of August. The total quoted for persons with jobs was 8,935, down 53 from the previous month.

MONDAY
October 3

The naming of a new state representative for the 78th District will prompt two separate ballots come Nov. 8, it was reported Monday.

One ballot will be part of the regular election to fill the post effective Jan. 1 and the second, a "special election" called last week by Gov. Bill Clements, will fill the post's seat until Dec. 31.

Scurry County commissioners Monday voted not to have the state highway department straighten the Ennis Creek curve northeast of Snyder because of an estimated $15,000 to $20,000 in costs that the county would incur.

In making the motion, Commissioner Tommy Pate noted that when the court gave its approval for the straightening project several months ago, it was not aware of expenses related to lowering a half-dozen oil and gas lines at the curve.

Saying that there has been a recent groundswell of public opinion against a municipal no-smoking ordinance, city councilmen Monday night rejected the ordinance on second reading.

No-smoking proponent Betty Benson indicated, however, that she and other supporters of the ordinance may seek a referendum on the issue, putting it to a popular vote.

Five indictments were handed down Monday by the October session of the Scurry County grand jury including one charge of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

For the second straight year, the City of Snyder's annual comprehensive financial report has been awarded a "certificate of achievement" from the Government Finance Officers Association.

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members Tuesday night chose a Houston company to aid in the recruitment of a surgeon and an internist for the hospital's medical staff.

After a discussion of the relative merits of Jackson and Coker of Atlanta and Whitaker, Fellows & Associates of Houston, administrator Thomas Hochwalt recommended Whitaker, Fellows.

Snyder school administrators are now studying ways to correct "inequities" in the pay scale levels used to categorize Snyder teachers.

Tuesday, a preview of one proposed solution was profiled for the school board—a plan designed so that no individual teacher would receive a pay cut and the majority, some 86 percent, would receive pay raises beginning next year.

WEDNESDAY
October 5

Sheriff Keith Collier said Wednesday that rumors of devil worship and potential kidnappings, apparently related to the Sept. 2 disappearance of a 7-year-old Stamford girl, are unfounded in Scurry and adjacent counties.

In a joint statement with the Snyder Police Department, Collier said rumors have become rampant of a Satanic cult in the Snyder, Colorado City, Sweetwater and Rotan area seeking school children for sacrifices.

THURSDAY
October 6

Bank deposits, an indicator of the local economic climate, continued to show sluggish signs based on third quarter figures released by four local financial institutions, it was reported Thursday.

Total deposits at the close of the third quarter of 1988 were $196.3 million, down $2.5 million from the same time last year.

New construction in Snyder managed to better itself for the just-completed 12-month period, but the total near $2.7 million is still far short of new construction estimates reported here as recently as three years ago, it was reported Thursday.

The first TDC Correctional Officer Training class offered through Western Texas College is set to begin with a 27-member class—24 males and three females, it was reported Friday.

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

I felt a need to sit down and write this short letter to the people of Snyder. My husband is here working at the prison and we are staying at one of your trailer parks for at least four months. I have come off and on to be with him.

Since I have been here this full week, I have thoroughly enjoyed my stay because of the relaxed and kind people who have made me feel welcome and very comfortable. Everywhere I go, the people are hard-working, compassionate and interested in you as a person.

You have a beautiful park and trees, and how nice it is to see ducks that are not harassed or afraid of humans.

We recently had a woman die in the trailer park while her husband was here working. Her husband was not alone because the manager of the park and everyone pitched in to help him until some family could arrive.

My main point is to tell each and every one of you that "the grass is not greener" somewhere else. You give me the impression that this is HOME for people who are away from their families.

Thanks,
Nancy Earnheart

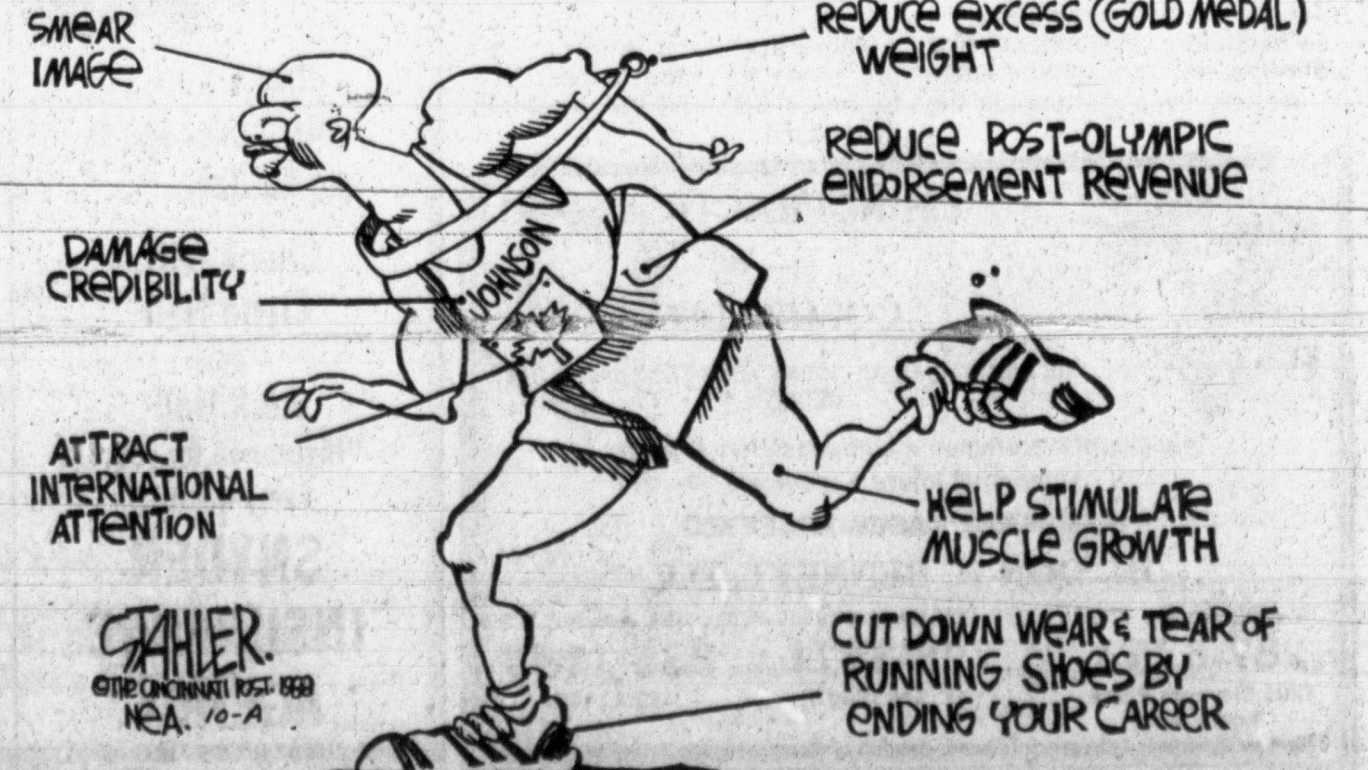

To the editor,

The picture of Linda Miller giving blood at the blood drive has prompted me to write this letter which I should have written months ago.

I looked at her picture in the paper and I thought, does she know how much she and other people like her are doing for people who need blood? I guess they don't fully know unless they are told.

Safe-Driving Contract Puts New Driver's Parents at Ease

DEAR ABBY: Being the parents of a 16-year-old who has just passed his driver's license examination, we feel that other parents, such as we, are apprehensive about our child's newly found freedom, and perhaps would like to ease some of that anxiety by drawing up a contract as we did, as a reminder of the seriousness of this new responsibility. It has worked wonders for us.

DRIVING CONTRACT
I (), on this day, do agree to the stipulations stated below rendering me the privilege of driving my parents' cars. If, at any time, I violate the said agreement, the driving privilege will be forfeited to the extent and degree of violation.

1. Should I get a traffic violation ticket, I agree to pay for the ticket as well as the difference in the insurance premium for as long as the premium is in effect.

2. I agree to pay for damages that I incur not covered by insurance.

3. At NO TIME will I ever drink alcoholic beverages and drive at the same time, nor will there be any liquor or beer in the car at any time.

4. I will never transport more passengers than there are seat belts, and will not drive the car until all passengers have buckled up.

5. I will keep the car that I drive clean, inside and out, and be aware of its needs for gas, oil, etc., plus wax the car once a month.

I have read the above agreement and do sign this in accordance with the rules.

interruption of a second call. When I called my local telephone company to request discontinuation of the service, I was told: "There is a simple code that you can punch into your phone to deactivate the call-waiting feature. Before you make an outgoing call, punch in the code and your conversation will be uninterrupted. Once you hang up, the call-waiting feature resumes."

This deactivation code prevents being interrupted during phone calls you yourself have initiated.

Your readers should check with their phone representatives to find out if the deactivation feature is available in their area. It probably is.

NO INTERRUPTIONS, PLEASE

DEAR NO INTERRUPTIONS: Thanks for bringing me up-to-date. I checked with the phone company and found that "cancel call waiting" is a brand-new service becoming available in many areas.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Lady in Waiting," who would like for her child (if he's a boy) to have a middle name, but her husband has none. Abby is right. The child's name must be exactly like his father's, or he can't be a "Junior." But all is not lost. Select a middle name, and have your husband go to court and have HIS name legally changed to include the new middle name.

The baby, if a boy, can then be a bona fide "Junior," and father and son will have given each other a gift that will truly last forever.

J. BAKER, BOTHELL, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: I have read many letters in your column from people who say they cannot forgive. What they really mean is, they will not forgive. Abby, withholding forgiveness hurts only you. It can eat you alive. I want to tell you what I was able to forgive in hopes that it will help people who are harboring petty grudges to forgive, and get on with their lives.

Lee and I have been married for 10 years. Last year, he became completely burned out at his job and also suffered a severe back injury. I was expecting our fourth baby, and we had another family sharing our home. All this created a very explosive atmosphere, and Lee flipped out.

Our baby was born and developed mononucleosis at 3 weeks. Lee announced that he didn't love me anymore, and he left me. The other family moved out suddenly, and I was alone with a sick newborn and three other small children.

I couldn't eat or sleep. I lost 47 pounds, got hooked on tranquilizers and had a nervous breakdown. Lee came back, put me in a mental hospital, then proceeded to have an affair with my best friend of 10 years. (The affair lasted four months.) While I was in the hospital, my best friend's husband broke into our house and caught his wife and Lee in bed together. He told Lee that he could have her — then Lee and my girlfriend became "engaged." They told me later that they had planned to drive me to commit suicide so I would be out of the way.

After I was released from the hospital, Lee tricked me into a false reconciliation. Two hours after making love to me, he stood me up at the airport and took his girlfriend to Florida. Meanwhile, my kids were aware of everything that was going on, and my 7-year-old kept begging me to shoot him in the head because he didn't want to live anymore. It was terrible.

We lost our home, so the children and I moved into my parents' attic with no heat — during a Pennsylvania winter.

Suddenly, Lee came to his senses and broke up with his girlfriend.

Her husband forgave her, and she went back to him and their three children. And guess what? I forgave Lee and took him back. I got counseling, went to church and kept reading my Bible. I'm off the pills, eating normally, and our family is intact. We got our house back, Lee is totally repentant, and we have restructured our lives to avoid anything that could be destructive to our family.

Two weeks ago, I went to my girlfriend and told her I forgave her. We cried together and talked for six hours. Forgiveness, when it is least deserved, has true healing powers. In forgiving her, I released her of all guilt, and now God is able to work in my life.

I still feel a little insecure at times, but I'm much better today than I was six months ago. A life filled with thoughts of revenge and bitterness is no life at all. Abby, if you think this letter will help others to forgive, you have my permission to print it with my name.

DONNA STEWART,
HILLTOWN, PA.

DEAR DONNA: Your letter rivals the Book of Job. As you know, I telephoned you to verify the authenticity of your incredible trials. After our long conversation, I was convinced of your sincerity.

I am profoundly grateful to you and your husband for allowing me to use your names. Your testimony should be an inspiration to others. If you could forgive — anyone can. May God continue to bless you and yours.

Protesters object to North's speech

AUSTIN (AP) — Former U.S. Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North touted Ronald Reagan, George Bush and the values of an "unabashed conservative" to about 400 people at a dinner designed to help him raise money for legal expenses.

But outside the hotel where North spoke Thursday night, about 60 demonstrators protested his visit and one man was arrested.

The man, wearing a sign saying "Don't do the crime if you can't do the time," apparently damaged a part of the hotel's sprinkler, sending a stream of water into the air, police said.

Other demonstrators, organized by Chicanos Against Military Intervention in Latin America, dispersed after several hours when police said they would be arrested for criminal trespass if they did not leave.

North is charged with conspiring to defraud the U.S. government by secretly using funds from Iranian arms purchases to provide supplies for the Nicaraguan rebel forces.

Money for North's defense at his trial is being collected by the North Legal Defense and Family Safety Trust in Washington. About 400 people attended a $50-a-plate dinner at the hotel, and an estimated 30 attended an earlier $250-a-person reception.

Earlier Thursday, North cancelled an El Paso appearance scheduled for Friday.

Jack O'Brien, who was organizing North's El Paso luncheon appearance, said North cited the possibility of violence by demonstrators as a reason for canceling. But Charles Haddox, who led a group planning to protest in El Paso, said North supporters may have raised the specter of violence "as a face-saving tactic" because reservations were not as high as expected.

In Austin, demonstrators carried signs, held banners and chanted as North supporters entered and left the hotel.

"Feed the children, not the war," and "Jillie North is not a hero — he's a big fat zero," were among the slogans chanted.

One man entering the hotel said, "I'm sorry I forgot my roach spray."

The local organizer of the fund-raising dinner, Adrian Van Zelfden, introduced North to the diners, who included former Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton at the head table.

Van Zelfden noted that North was born in San Antonio and said, "I really think that Oliver North is a good guy and deserves our help."

The audience cheered, applauded and gave a standing ovation to North, who evoked a laugh when he said, "You're going to wake up the guests upstairs. Lord knows, I'm in enough trouble as it is."

North was applauded when he criticized the media for presenting what he said is a less than full picture of the presidential campaign. He urged supporters to be involved in the political process.

"I will tell you as a Texan, I think it's time the people of Texas stood up and said 'No' to Lloyd Bentsen twice," North said, to applause. Bentsen is running for re-election to the U.S. Senate and for vice president on the Democratic ticket.

North decried communism, criticized Congress and praised the Republican administration of Reagan and Vice President Bush, the party's presidential candidate.

North's co-defendants are John Poindexter, former national security adviser; Albert Hakim, an Iranian American businessman; and Richard Secord, a retired Air Force major general.

In June, a federal court ruled that the four defendants were to be tried separately.

On Sept. 30, a federal appeals court refused to dismiss the conspiracy indictments. North's trial was to have begun this month, but it was delayed. A new trial date has not been set.

Uncovering facts about hepatitis

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been on cortisone for five years for chronic hepatitis. I also take Imuran, Lasix, MircroK and hormones. I get black and blue marks all over my arms. Would you discuss this condition?

DEAR READER: Chronic hepatitis is arbitrarily defined as liver inflammation that lasts more than six months. It is further subdivided into two classes:

- Chronic persistent hepatitis is benign, usually follows typical acute hepatitis, rarely causes symptoms and needs no treatment.
- Chronic active hepatitis, on the other hand, is serious. It is thought to be due to an inefficient immune response to the hepatitis B virus. Some medicines, such as methyldopa (for hypertension) and isoniazid (for tuberculosis) can cause chronic active hepatitis. This ailment can progress to cirrhosis (liver scarring) or liver failure. Diagnosis is made by liver biopsy. Treatment includes cortisone and immune suppressing drugs, such as Imuran, in order to reduce liver inflammation and retard hepatic damage.

Unfortunately, these medicines also affect tissues other than the liver. In particular, blood clotting may be impeded. Therefore, patients on cortisone or Imuran may tend to bleed readily and bruise easily. I suspect that your black and blue marks are drug-induced. However, the healthy liver plays a role in blood coagulation, so if your liver is malfunctioning, your blood clotting may be slowed by liver disease, irrespective of the therapy.

You seem to be under the care of a doctor who is, judging from the treatment you are receiving, familiar with chronic hepatitis. I suggest that you ask him or her about your bruising. Clearly, this is an issue that should be addressed before you develop a possibly dangerous clotting deficiency. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Consumer Tips on Medicine." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Clarifying views on HMO problems

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

I took a lot of heat following publication of a recent column on Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) in which I criticized for-profit health plans. In turn, I was criticized for throwing the proverbial baby out with the bath water: Like major-league baseball teams, not all HMOs are created equal.

Some are non-profit, other are called "staff models," "group models" or "IPA (Individual Practice Association) models." Such designations reflect the role of the primary care physician in the system: As a salaried employee, a contracted physician-member of a group practice, or contracted-doctor in solo practice. MDs are paid by the HMO by one (or a combination) of three methods: salary, fee-for-service or capitation (guaranteed fixed price per enrolled patient).

Few experts have questioned the quality of medical care that is theoretically delivered by HMOs. The issue that has raised conflict-of-interest flags is the manner in which the doctors are paid.

In a New England Journal of Medicine Special Report, Dr. Alan Hillman of the University of Pennsylvania wrote: "The economic viability of HMOs depends on their ability to keep the use of health-care resources within a budget. Because physicians' decisions govern the use of resources, most HMOs use a variety of mechanisms to encourage cost-conscious behavior by providers: These are a particularly important influence on the behavior of physicians. (These) incentives may take the form of penalties, rewards or both. Physicians may be at risk of losing a percentage of their payment that is withheld in the case of deficits, or they may be rewarded with bonuses in the case of surpluses."

Dr. Hillman asks: "Do financial incentives induce physicians in HMOs to act in their own pecuniary self-interest and, therefore, to compromise patient care?" Not necessarily, he concludes. However, "the relation between financial incentives and physicians' behavior needs to be clarified." In particular, patients need to know more about the HMO plans offered to them, the major point in my original column.

In another article in the New England Journal, Dr. Douglas Levinson of the Medical College of Pennsylvania urges that HMOs disclose to the public the arrangements they have made with their doctors. Why? For the following reasons:

1. "Although the actual effects of these arrangements are poorly understood and notoriously difficult to study, subscribers may believe that the quality of their care may be adversely affected. Opponents hold that in some HMOs, the case-by-case financial pressures to limit services may be large enough to distort medical decision-making. Consumers have the right to make their own judgments, based on knowledge of each plan."

2. "Consumers have a right to choose between savings that frequently result from such plans and the greater choice or absence of cost-saving incentives in other plans."

3. "Incentives to withhold services introduce ethical dilemmas into the practice of medicine. (These) dilemmas in prepaid plans are much less apparent than those in the fee-for-service system, which makes it obvious to the consumer that the consulting physician has an interest in selling service..."

The disclosure statement should detail the role of the primary care physician, list any specific requirements regarding specialty consultations and the use of hospitals, indicate the restrictions on consulting out-of-plan physicians, describe the pool of consultants and the method of obtaining exceptions, enumerate the appeals procedure for emergency exceptions, and explain the incentives or disincentives for the primary care physician.

Of the 27.7 million people now enrolled in HMOs, 44 percent are enrolled in for-profit plans. In many HMOs, the primary-care physician is the "gatekeeper," the major influence on cost containment. Such a gatekeeper serves two masters: the institution and the patient. At present, there is no accepted code by which the gatekeeper can balance his dual roles as guardian of the HMO's finances and patient advocate. Ethical guidelines may take years to formulate. As I have written previously: With HMOs, what you want is not necessarily what you'll get — unless you insist on a written disclosure and make sure you read the fine print.

Lorenzo said talking with Icahn about Eastern sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Talks about Texas Air Corp.'s possible sale of its Eastern Airlines subsidiary to rival Trans World Airlines Inc. bring together two former bitter adversaries.

Texas Air apparently has put Eastern on the auction block, just a few months after Chairman Frank Lorenzo vowed to shareholders that the ailing unit was not for sale.

Sources said Thursday that takeover strategist Carl Icahn, TWA's chairman, was talking with Lorenzo about acquiring Miami-based Eastern.

That report came a day after New York developer Donald Trump confirmed he was negotiating with Texas Air about a possible purchase of Eastern's air shuttle operation and said a contract could be signed by next week.

Icahn was in contact Thursday with Trump, exploring ways in which the two might buy separate pieces of Eastern, according to a report in Friday's editions of the Wall Street Journal.

Lorenzo "wants to divest himself of Eastern Airlines one way or another," said Robert Decker, an airline analyst for Duff & Phelps Inc. in Chicago.

Trump reportedly would pay more than $300 million cash for the shuttle, which serves New York, Boston and Washington and is Eastern's most profitable operation. Some analysts said Trump might use the shuttle to help draw people to his hotel and casino properties in Atlantic City, N.J.

Airline analysts suggested Icahn might be willing to acquire all of Eastern except the shuttle.

Icahn and Lorenzo are wily and tenacious executives who duelled over control of TWA three years ago. A lot has changed since then, for both men and for the deregulated airline business.

Lorenzo, whose Texas Air empire went on to acquire Eastern for $676 million after his TWA bid failed, apparently has decided that running an unwieldy and fractious airline company is too much trouble.

Eastern has been fraught with labor agitation and staggering financial losses before and since Lorenzo took over. Eastern lost $120 million in the first half of the year and recently laid off about 3,000 union employees.

Texas Air also owns Houston-based Continental Airlines, a non-union carrier that recently has started to stem its losses.

For Icahn, who has chased giant companies ranging from

So, I am telling you. On Dec. 22, 1987, I was rushed to Cogdell Memorial Hospital bleeding badly because medication had thinned my blood too much. Because blood was available, I could be stabilized enough to get me to Scenic Mountain Hospital in Big Spring.

There I received several more pints of blood. When I could be returned to Cogdell, I received two more pints. That has been the last I have needed.

Thank God, I am recovering very well, but for three weeks when I was receiving blood, my daily thought was of those who gave that blood. I would think, "I live because you give."

Thank you; you gave me the gift of life.

USX Corp. to Texaco Inc. in recent years, the acquisition of Eastern would make TWA the largest U.S. airline in terms of revenue passenger miles, an industry measurement of capacity.

Icahn is said to be interested in Eastern's north-south routes, especially between New York and Miami, as possible feeders into TWA's trans-Atlantic routes. Eastern's Latin American and Caribbean routes also reportedly piqued Icahn's interest.

Eastern's militant workers, who characterize Lorenzo as a union buster, have been included in talks with Icahn on the possible sale of the airline to him, sources familiar with the situation said.

Such a situation recalls the move by TWA's workers in 1985 to talk with Icahn about possibly buying that airline, which Lorenzo was seeking in order to strengthen the operations of his other carrier, Continental.

At that time, TWA's pilots and machinists promised Icahn hundreds of millions of dollars in labor concessions if he took control, largely because they feared Lorenzo would gut TWA and replace them with lower-paid workers, a strategy Lorenzo had used earlier at Continental.

Now, the Eastern unions favor a sale of the entire airline as a going concern to a friendly acquirer, while they are opposed to the sale of individual assets such as the shuttle.

At a Texas Air shareholders meeting in early June, Lorenzo said "Eastern Airlines is not for sale."

The next president will face a challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shifts in Soviet ideology are following the shake-up in the Soviet power structure as Mikhail Gorbachev solidifies his rule and pursues radical change both in the economy and in relations with the West.

The Soviet leader is stepping up momentum, defying the judgment of some analysts in the CIA and prestigious Washington think tanks that he is running out of gas and that his colleagues in the Kremlin are losing patience with him.

For the next U.S. president the changes are less frightening than intellectually challenging. The Soviets' new chief ideologist, Vadim A. Medvedev, suggested in a speech published Wednesday in Pravda that conflict with the West was no longer considered inevitable by Moscow.

"Present-day realities," he said, "mean that 'universal values' such as avoiding war and ecological catastrophe must outweigh the idea of a struggle between the classes. Peaceful coexistence, as we see it today, is a lengthy, long-term process whose historic limits are difficult to determine."

The implication is that the Soviets under Gorbachev want to reduce the risks of conflict with the United States and concentrate on economic improvements such as expanding current experiments with cooperative ownership and renting property to farmers and merchants.

This could make the current U.S. presidential debate over which American weapons to develop and which to scrap a little beside the point. In dealing with the Soviets beginning next January the focus may be on devising a strategy for dealing not with a potential aggressor but with a thoughtful adversary who is likely to generate a steady stream of proposals for arms control and an easing of regional tensions.

Joint commitments are being developed even now to outlaw chemical weapons, halt the proliferation of ballistic missiles among less advanced countries and revamp the World Court.

And yet, George Bush, Michael Dukakis and their running mates have spent little time on foreign policy and even less on how they would cope with Gorbachev as the Soviet system evolves into something new and unprecedented.

When the candidates venture beyond domestic issues, Bush generally hammers at Dukakis for not supporting development of all the weapons the Reagan administration is backing. Dukakis, in turn, tries to be reassuring about his commitment to U.S. defenses. But how would they deal with Gorbachev?

Bush and his running mate, Dan Quayle, are sounding the traditional conservative themes of a powerful military structure and keeping a wary eye on the Russians.

Dukakis and his running mate,

Lloyd Bentsen, are playing down ideology and playing up "competence."

Man killed in shootout

WEST, Texas (AP) — A man died and a state narcotics agent and a woman were wounded today in an exchange of gunfire as federal and state drug officers attempted to serve warrants at a North Central Texas home, authorities said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety tentatively identified the dead man as David M. agrum.

The DPS agent was in stable condition at Waco Hillcrest Medical Center with a single gunshot wound to the upper arm, said hospital spokesman Mike Beaty.

U. S. Senate ends chance for action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Friday effectively ended all chances for action this year on a triple-barreled family package promising child care assistance, parental job leaves and a crackdown on child pornographers.

It voted 50-46 to restrict debate and get on with the measure, but 60 votes were needed to do so. Congressional leaders hope to adjourn next week.

The vote capped two weeks of intense political and parliamentary maneuvering in which Democrats challenged Republicans to put their votes behind their pro-family rhetoric and Republicans countered that they were being railroaded into a massive package with little opportunity to propose alternate approaches.
