

Civil rights case due reconsideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — As apprehensive civil rights advocates look on, the Supreme Court is hearing arguments that will help it decide whether to overturn a key 1976 decision used to fight racial discrimination.

Justices today were scheduled to hear arguments of whether they should reverse the 12-year-old ruling that allows people to sue private citizens accused of bias. Their decision is expected in 1989.

The court sent shock waves through the civil rights community last April when it announced it would explore the issue in a case from North Carolina involving charges of on-the-job racial harassment.

While no party to the North Carolina case urged the court to reconsider the 1976 precedent, the justices by a 5-4 vote took the extraordinary step of acting on their own initiative to call for a reexamination.

The dissenters said the move threatens to undermine the faith minorities have placed in the high court.

The attorneys general of nearly every state, a majority of U.S. senators, a significant minority in the House and more than 100 civil rights and public interest groups are urging the court not to tamper with the 1976 ruling.

The Reagan administration, meanwhile, is not taking an official position. The Justice Department said it will sit out the controversy, declining to offer its views in a "friend-of-the-court" legal brief.

In addition to its practical effect, the case is expected to have a major psychological impact and provide a tip-off on the future direction of the court.

Liberals and conservatives alike are watching closely to see whether the addition of Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, President Reagan's most recent appointee, will solidify a conservative majority and lead to dismantling of a number of precedents established earlier by the court.

The 1976 ruling, called Runyon vs. McCrary, held that racially segregated private schools which refuse to admit blacks violate the Civil Rights Act of 1866. That law was enacted to ensure recently freed slaves all the rights of citizenship.

The 12-year-old decision allows civil rights groups to use the 1866 law as a weapon to attack private discrimination in all forms.

For example, no other federal law bars racially segregated private schools.

Two ballot race...

No 'new' names for 78th district special election

The deadline has passed to file for the special election due Nov. 8 to fill the 78th District's state representative's seat for the months remaining in 1988.

As expected, no new candidates surfaced other than the two already announced for the post's two-year term beginning Jan. 1.

Filing in both ballots are ex-Snyder mayor Rod Waller, a Republican, and David Counts, the Democratic nominee from Knox City.

The deadline to file for the special election ballot was Monday.

The race for the 78th District will prompt two separate ballots, both on Nov. 8.

One ballot will be part of the regular election to fill the post effective Jan. 1 and the second, a "special election" called by Gov. Bill Clements, will fill the post's seat for the remainder of this year.

The winner in the special election will serve until Dec. 31, to be replaced on Jan. 1 by the winner of the regular Nov. 8 ballot.

Scurry County residents will vote in both races but on separate ballots.

Counties represented by the 78th District include Scurry, Cottle, Fisher, Garza, Jones, Kent. See FILING, page 9

One seat expiring...

SWCD ballot due Thursday

The annual election for expiring positions on the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District will be Thursday with a meeting set for 7 p.m. in Room B of the coliseum.

One member of the five-man board has an expiring post, Burl Belew, representing Zone 4. This zone comprises all of Borden county north of U.S. Hwy. 180. Nominations will be accepted from the floor at Thursday's meeting and all producers present are eligible to vote, regardless of which zone they live in.

Candidates for the expiring post must reside in Zone 4.

In addition to the election, Joe Hefner, director for the local ASCS office, will discuss the disaster program and how it affects local producers.

The Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District is comprised of Scurry and Borden County. Other directors include Charlie Henderson, board chairman and Zone 3 representative; Walter Stirl, vice president and Zone 1 representative; W.L. Wilson Jr., secretary-treasurer and Zone 5 representative; and Leon Sterling, Zone 2 representative.

4-H honors set Saturday

Scurry County 4-H youth will be honored at the annual county 4-H award program Saturday. It will begin at 7 p.m. at Snyder Junior High.

4-Hers will be recognized in the various 4-H project areas as well as special awards given to the outstanding junior 4-H youth and Gold Star winners.

Adult awards will be given to the "Friend of 4-H" and the adult leader award.

SHL issues profiled

Raising the monthly allowable income for Medicaid recipients is considered the Number 1 recommendation of 10 forwarded to state lawmakers by the 116 representatives of the Silver Haired Legislature recently in Austin.

In their second biennial meeting since the auxiliary group was created by the state legislature, the representatives proposed that Medicaid beneficiaries be allowed to make $1,062 monthly instead of the $687 that is the current standard in Texas.

The group noted that the higher level is based on a federal standard that is already being used in most other states.

Area representative Delbert Downing of Snyder said the second formal session was much better organized than the first one was two years ago, with more than 60 resolutions being efficiently pared down to the top 10.

Downing noted state legislators will be advised of all the resolutions that were considered.

He said the representatives, elected last summer in balloting at senior centers around the state, were pleased with visits from House Speaker Gib Lewis, Attorney General Jim Mattox, Comptroller Bob Bullock, Treasurer Ann Richards and a number of state representatives and senators.

Lewis, in particular, urged them to be outspoken, said Downing, who represents 12 counties and 21 senior centers.

In the other top 10 resolutions, listed in order, the SHL urged legislators to:

—Make it mandatory for car owners to show proof of auto liability insurance before receiving a license.

WTGCSA meet starts

Some 100 members of the West Texas Golf Course Superintendents Association (WTGCSA) registered here Wednesday morning for a two-day "Turfgrass Conference" at Western Texas College.

Morning and afternoon sessions are slated into Thursday in the Fine Arts Theatre. This marks the second gathering of the WTGCSA on campus.

During the day Wednesday, the group will hear speakers cover a diverse range of subjects related to golf course management. These will include athletic turf, drought tolerant grasses, water management, soil balance and the so-called "seed shortage."

The schedule Thursday will include a tour of the new golf course. See TURF, page 9

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The gift of gab often needs to be wrapped up."

A substantial jump in oil prices would do a lot to stimulate the Texas economy, but there's at least one other area that needs reform before Texas is again an attractive state for businesses to move into and to stay.

Most business firms will tell you costs of all type insurance has skyrocketed. Liability insurance, although required to work in some areas, is either unaffordable or unattainable.

Texas, because of a decision rendered by a plaintiff-oriented supreme court, has become known as the "sue state." Unless that reputation is changed, business will leave this state and no new business will come.

A classic example is the toy manufacturer who agreed to pay $7.5 million to the parents of an Austin child who was hit by a car while riding a dark-colored tricycle that his parents claimed was unsafe because the driver could not see it.

The brain-damaged child will receive escalating monthly payments from the company until he reaches the age of 72.

The parents alleged in the 1984 suit that the company was at fault because the black tricycle their son rode into the street was not easily visible. The child was struck about 4 p.m. outside his home while crossing the street from a shaded area.

Admittedly a terrible accident with life-time consequences, the driver was not charged with any traffic violation.

Recent changes in state tort laws place the majority of responsibility for personal injury on product manufacturers.

Said the defendant's attorney about the state law, "If the parents were 99 percent at fault for letting him ride the tricycle out in the street, and if a jury believed the dark color of the tricycle was one percent of the cause of the accident, then the tricycle manufacturer would have to pay for 100 percent of the damages."

We need some legal changes in Texas—and soon.

Will case has jury

A 132nd District Court jury at midday Wednesday was hearing arguments over the contested wills of an 87-year-old Tarrant County woman who died last year.

The case, styled Frances Heaton of Grand Prairie vs. D.G. Brown of Groesbeck et al., is to decide which of two wills for the estate of Lillie Mae Sims should be probated, a 1986 handwritten will forwarded by Heaton or a 1976 typewritten will advocated by Brown.

The case is being tried in Scurry County because a Snyder relative of Mrs. Sims served as her guardian before Heaton assumed that role, with the guardianship remaining in Scurry County.

Ship seized

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban gunship seized a U.S. merchant ship with eight people and New Zealand's America's Cup race yacht aboard, saying the vessel was in its waters, a claim the captain flatly denied, the Coast Guard said.

The eight, at least seven Americans, were detained Tuesday in Punto Cayo Malo, Cuba, said Coast Guard spokesman Dan Vogele.

The disassembled sloop New Zealand was aboard the 160-foot U.S.-registered merchant ship Tampa Sea Horse, officials said.

Nuke woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Safety problems that halted production of U.S. nuclear weapons materials expose a "bad trend" and a "sense of complacency" in the operations of nuclear plants, top Energy Department officials said today.

"The risks we are facing are serious," said Richard Starosteki, deputy assistant energy secretary for safety, health and quality assurance.

Energy Secretary John S. Herrington said Tuesday that the government will not be able to manufacture nuclear weapons materials for 2½ months because of safety problems, but he said that raises no threat to national security.

AIDS testing

BOSTON (AP) — The military says it found just one mistake in testing more than 135,000 recruits for the AIDS virus, suggesting carefully conducted tests have an error rate of only .0007 percent.

The armed forces, which routinely screen all recruits for acquired immune deficiency syndrome, had only one false positive in checking young men and women from areas where the AIDS virus is rare.

The results of the military testing program are to be published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine.

State may lose some food stamp funding

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state of Texas may lose more than $500,000 in funding for the food stamp program next year because of the theft of food stamps by two U.S. Postal Service workers and the loss of other stamps amounting to $262,035, officials say.

Authorities say two postal workers stole more than $140,000 worth of food stamps and another $120,000 in stamps was unaccounted for in the mail.

The Texas Department of Human Services, which administers the joint federal-state program, is fighting loss of the federal funds in a suit filed recently in U.S. District Court in Austin.

The state owes $262,035 in lost food stamps, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture says it intends to cut funding next year by that much, according to court documents.

Since Texas matches those funds, the Human Services Department stands to lose $524,070. The amount of food stamps available would not be affected, but jobs connected with the program would be, a state official said. The Legislature would have to approve money to replace the lost federal funds.

"If the Texas Department of Human Services is required to pay the claim of $262,035, it would have to be paid from state funds appropriated for the administration of the food stamp program," Randy Washington, associate commissioner in charge of the department's income assistance programs, said.

"I don't know where we would find those state funds," Washington said. "Obviously, we do not plan to pay the penalty, and we do not think it's an appropriate penalty. That's why we're in litigation."

"Our opinion is we really don't control what happens in the mail, and therefore, the state should not be liable for those losses," Washington said.

Credit for Soviets due next week

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—A consortium of West German banks next week plans to sign a $1.6 billion credit agreement for the Soviet Union, reportedly the biggest Western credit line ever to the Soviet Union, according to financial sources.

Deutsche Bank, West Germany's largest commercial bank, is heading the consortium involved in the agreement.

Soviet officials hope to use the money to improve the Soviet Union's food processing and consumer goods industries, a top priority of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, according to today's editions of The New York Times.

The Duesseldorf-based financial newspaper Handelsblatt said Monday that the agreement would be signed on Oct. 17.

When contacted by the Associated Press by telephone, Deutsche Bank spokesman Hans Detmar said: "I can confirm that the signing will take place on Monday." Detmar provided no further details.

Other banking sources, requesting anonymity, said the agreement would be signed at an undisclosed location in Frankfurt.

Woman Wonders if She Should Measure Up to Her Man's Ideal

By Abigail Van Buren

1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old petite blonde, and after knowing a lot of jerks who have done me wrong, I finally found a wonderful man who is kind, fun, intelligent and caring.

The problem? He insists that I have surgery to increase the size of my bust. I feel happy with myself the way I am and wish he could love me this way. He says he wouldn't spend the rest of his life looking at other women's breasts if the perfect body was at his side.

I really don't want to do this, but I don't want to lose him. And I'm a little hurt knowing he feels this way.

Should I have this surgery done to please him? Or try to find someone who will love me the way I am?

BLONDIE

DEAR BLONDIE: Your "kind, intelligent and caring" man is another jerk. If you are happy with yourself the way you are, leave yourself alone. I am not opposed to breast augmentation surgery — it has done wonders for many women — but a man who would threaten you by saying he would spend the rest of his life looking at other women if you didn't "shape up" is no prize. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: In the past, you have often run letters from single, wealthy people who have no heirs and want to know what to do with their money when they pass away.

Well, how about giving it to the local library? Our public libraries are one of the most important, yet one of the most neglected, of all municipal facilities.

In view of the miserable state of our public educational system and the rampant illiteracy in our society, supporting the public libraries with gifts and endowments is one of the most worthwhile things anyone can do with his or her wealth.

L. DAVIS ALMAND,
SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR L. DAVIS ALMAND: Bravo! Thank you for a valuable suggestion. On numerous occasions I have been asked if I have any special advice for young people. My response repeated:

"If I could give young people one piece of advice, it would be, read, read, read! In reading, you will open up new worlds, real and imagined. Read for information, read for pleasure. Our libraries are filled with knowledge and joy, and it's all there — free for the taking. The person who DOES NOT read is no better off than the person who CANNOT read."

DEAR ABBY: Re: Peterson vs. Peterson Vacuuming and Dusting. How can a man who has followed his wife about during her work be so unobservant? A vacuum cleaner sucks up the dust into its bag — it doesn't blow it around the house. Of course the vacuuming should be done after the dusting.

I do not think Mr. Peterson should do housework as you suggested. I suggest he take up a hobby — hiking. From Cincinnati to Ran-goon would be a good start.

Juvenile found hanged in city jail

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An investigation was under way today into the death of a teenager who was found hanged in his cell at the Kingsville City Jail only hours after he and his brother were arrested following a disturbance.

Kleberg County Justice of the Peace Keith Bray said Tuesday that Ruben Vasquez, 16, died "from causes normally associated with hanging or asphyxiation."

Authorities said the youth hanged himself with a pair of tube socks.

Strange things can happen when both sides show distributional hands. West's two-diamond cue-bid showed length in both major suits but not necessarily much high-card strength. North's double indicated that his side held the balance of power. East began by bidding spades, intending to compete further in hearts. South then introduced his second suit. When West then raised the spade suit, East decided not to mention his hearts, in the hope that this might confuse North and South if they were defending a spade contract. It was peculiar that East did not double five clubs, but if South were to hold one more club and one less heart, it would have been hard to take three tricks on defense.

Against five clubs, West was able to take advantage of what has become a standard defensive play. Since West was known to have at least five cards in the spade suit, his lead of the spade deuce could not be a normal fourth-best lead. Instead, that two of spades was a significant card, with a clear bridge message: "Partner, if you win this trick, I can ruff a diamond." So East led back a low diamond and West ruffed. The ace of hearts was now the setting trick, but East was able to take a second heart trick and give his partner still another ruff for down three.

U.S. Senate repeals diesel tax payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted to repeal a law requiring farmers, shrimpers and oilmen to pay a 15.14-cent per gallon tax on diesel fuel at the pump and then apply for a refund at the end of the year.

The measure calls for the government to reimburse off-road diesel users for the taxes already paid since April, with about 11 percent interest, said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, the bill's Senate sponsor.

Backers of the repeal said the law hit farmers especially hard because they had to pay the tax when they need cash most — during the planting or harvesting seasons, creating a cash-crunch for many.

The repeal was passed Tuesday night in legislation making technical corrections to the tax code by a vote of 87 to 1. Neither Democratic Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen nor Republican Phil Gramm participated in the vote.

A similar measure is also included in a House-passed bill. The separate measures now go to a conference committee where differences will be worked out before final legislative passage.

According to figures from Sen. Phil Gramm's office, Texas farmers would pay $31 million a year in diesel taxes, while the annual cost to shrimpers and other commercial fishermen was $14 million and to oil field workers, $25 million.

most hard-pressed people in Texas to impose it on: farmers, oil operators and fishermen," said Gramm, R-Texas. "I'm glad, however, that a measure of common sense has now prevailed."

Said Rep. Solomon Ortiz, a Corpus Christi Democrat: "Reinstating the tax exemption is good news for so many farmers who have already been hit hard by the drought. Shrimpers and construction workers will also benefit from the bill."

make him the Most Qualified Candidate

TO THE VOTERS OF SCURRY AND BORDEN COUNTIES OF TEXAS:

This district needs conservative, competent and conscientious officials in our local governmental positions.

National and state-wide campaigns primarily rely upon publicity in identifying the more qualified candidates.

Rarely do these candidates come to your home and solicit your vote; however, often you vote for the politician who came to your home or business and asked for your vote without regard to the qualifications and experience of the candidate.

Many of you never know who the most qualified candidate is to vote for in state-wide judicial races; you merely guess or mark your ballot because of name recognition or place on the ballot. Often you are embarrassed after an unqualified candidate is elected who takes office; and, you generally must suffer for four years before correcting your mistake.

Please support Pete

Game 7 is slated tonight...

Mets lock series up again

LOS ANGELES (AP) - David Cone rewrote his story and Davey Johnson rewrote his lineup card. As a result, the end is yet to be written to this year's National League playoffs. Cone, who was awful in Game 2 in the wake of a controversial column under his byline in the New York Daily News, was brilliant in Game 6 Tuesday night, pitching the New York Mets to a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers to deadlock the series at three games apiece.

So it's on to Game 7 tonight, with probable NL Cy Young Award winner Orel Hershiser pitching for the Dodgers against Ron Darling of the Mets. A berth in the World Series opposite Oakland goes to the winning team.

Cone, 20-3 with a 2.22 earned run average during the season, overcame a shaky start to stifle the Dodgers on five singles, two with two outs and nobody on in the ninth inning. Cone then retired pinch hitter Mike Davis on a fly to left to end the game.

The heretofore quiet Kevin McReynolds, 3-for-20 in the first five games, sparked the Mets, becoming the eighth player in the history of the league playoffs to get four hits in a game.

McReynolds, batting in front of a hot hitter, Gregg Jefferies, instead of a cold one, Howard Johnson, drove in three runs, two on a fifth-inning homer off losing pitcher Tim Lary which gave New York a 4-0 lead.

The changes Johnson made in his lineup got results right away. After Lenny Dykstra reached base on Dodger first baseman Hatcher's error to start the game, Wally Backman, elevated from the eighth spot to second in the order, delivered a hit-and-run single, sending Dykstra to third, from where he scored on a sacrifice fly by McReynolds.

In the top of the third, Darryl Strawberry and McReynolds singled, and Strawberry later scored on a two-out double by Kevin Elster, who replaced Howard Johnson at short and batted eighth.

The Dodgers got their run in the bottom of the fifth. After Cone had retired Jeff Hamilton and Alfredo Griffin, making it 10 in a row he had gotten out, Dodger reliever Brian Holton singled. Sax walked on four pitches and Hatcher singled home Holton.

The Mets got their final run in the sixth on a one-out, leg double to left by Dykstra and a two-out, broken-bat single by center by Hernandez.

Ladies fall to 3rd in district, still not out of playoff hunt

SWEETWATER - Snyder's Lady Tigers couldn't get their offense going and fell to Sweetwater, 15-5, 15-11, in a key District 4-4A volleyball match here Tuesday.

The loss knocks the Lady Tigers, 5-4, out of second place in the district standings and jeopardizes their chances for a postseason playoff berth.

"We'll just have to not lose any more from here on in and see what happens with everybody else," said coach Patty Grimmett, whose Tigers dropped into a three-way tie with Fort Stockton and Andrews, behind 6-3 Sweetwater and undefeated Pecos. "We'll have to rely on some help, but we're not out of it."

Considering that defending state champ Pecos has yet to play Sweetwater and Fort Stockton in the second round, that Sweetwater must also play Andrews and Fort Stockton - and that Snyder plays Fort Stockton and Andrews - the district's runner-up spot would still appear a toss-up.

Here Tuesday, Snyder struggled offensively for the second straight outing.

"We had a hard time giving them any offense at all," panned Grimmett. "We had a hard time getting our passes up to be set so we could hit. We had some bright spots but we just couldn't get them going, I guess.

"They gave us a lot of offense. They were hitting from outside and we weren't blocking them. We were having to play defense all the time and we couldn't get our defensive hits up where we could set the ball," said the coach.

Scoring on serves for Snyder were Teena Braziel 5, Rhonda Echols 4, Sandra Morin 3 and Holly Fuller and Melody Pickering 2. Snyder fell to 15-10 with the loss. Sweetwater improved to 14-8.

Next action for Snyder will be Saturday at 3 p.m. in Fort Stockton. A junior varsity match is set for 2 p.m.

In other action here Tuesday, Sweetwater junior varsity downed Snyder 15-3, 8-15, 15-11, and Snyder freshmen topped the Lady Mustangs 12-15, 15-11, 15-12.

Tyson's hand re-fractured

NEW YORK (AP) - Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson has reportedly refractured his right hand, possibly putting a crimp in his scheduled title defense on Dec. 17 against Frank Bruno.

Bill Cayton, Tyson's manager, confirmed Tuesday that he had been called by promoter Don King from Cleveland with the news that may affect the champion's fight schedule.

The latest revelations were contained in a story in Wednesday's edition of the New York Daily News.

According to reports, Tyson was hitting the heavy bag in a gym on King's farm in Orwell, Ohio, when the injury occurred.

Tyson originally had been scheduled to start training Monday in Catskill, N.Y.

Cayton said he could not be positive whether the apparent hairline fracture on the third metacarpal of the right hand, which Tyson injured in a street fight with Mitch Green in August in New York, was new or old.

That original injury forced postponement of the fight with Bruno until October. Further problems moved the fight back two more times, to December.

According to the News, Cayton said he spoke to the doctor who treated Tyson in Cleveland and was told the injury was "minor." Cayton said it is still possible for Tyson to keep his four-times postponed date with Bruno.

"There are nine weeks to the fight and a hairline fracture usually takes only three weeks to heal," Cayton said.

Cayton said Tyson was expected to arrive in New York today or tomorrow to be examined by Dr. David Chiu. Chiu treated Tyson after the fight with Green.

"I think they want to keep him (Tyson) in Cleveland because they're afraid of papers being served on him," Cayton was quoted as saying.

And injury toll is rising...

Defenders taking aim at QBs

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Eighteen NFL quarterbacks have been injured in the first six weeks of the season and Dallas coach Tom Landry says it's because the best defense is a passer on his back.

"You have to blitz the quarterback and hit him before he gets the ball off, that's why you see defenses rushing so many people," Landry said. "When they (the NFL) made the rule you can't hit receivers and knock them around then it changed the defenses.

"The best defense you have is to control the quarterback so defenses are going after him."

The NFL's "in-the-grasp" rule was legislated to protect quarterbacks.

"There's never been a rush on quarterbacks like you see now," Landry said. "You don't see many teams rushing three guys and sitting back in a zone with the other eight players. They're coming after the quarterback to disrupt his timing."

Chicago coach Mike Ditka, who advocates a rough, tough style of play, said in a telephone interview "the injuries are coming so hot and heavy in this league it's taking the fun out of it."

Ditka continued "you can talk about injuries to the quarterback but the ones to the other positions are also alarming."

He said he, like Landry, was puzzled for an answer.

Jim Finks, general manager of the New Orleans Saints, said more receivers are going out at the expense of pass protection, leaving the quarterback vulnerable to hits.

Dallas club president Tex Schramm, a member of the NFL's rules committee, said "we were concerned about the injuries to quarterbacks so that's why we instigated the 'in-the-grasp' rule. We'll certainly have to study it some more."

Bluebonnet wilts

HOUSTON (AP) - The financially struggling Bluebonnet Bowl has elected to punt this season, canceling the 1988 New Year's Eve game and trying to resume play in 1989 with a corporate sponsor.

The bowl's board of directors voted to skip the 1988 game unless they quickly find a sponsor who insists on playing in December.

The Houston Sports Association, operators of the Astrodome, bailed out the bowl last season when the Texas Longhorns beat Pittsburgh 32-27.

The game drew only 23,282.

U.S. House, Senate try to meld tax bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators are trying to reach a compromise on sharply differing tax bills passed by the House and Senate, one containing a "taxpayers' bill of rights" and the other offering relief for 20 million owners of mutual funds.

The Senate bill, which was approved Tuesday night on an 87-1 vote, would cut selected taxes by an estimated $3 billion over three years and, to avoid worsening the deficit, boost other taxes by the same amount. The House bill, passed 380-25 on Aug. 4, has a $7.5 billion price tag.

Far more provisions are identical in both bills. Both would correct hundreds of technical errors in the 1986 tax overhaul; extend several expiring tax benefits; relieve farmers from paying the federal diesel tax on fuel for off-road use, and raise some taxes to pay for the benefits.

The tax bill and a comprehensive plan for fighting drug abuse are the only major pieces of legislation standing in the way of adjournment of the 100th Congress, as early as this weekend.

"All of us realize the more revenue we have in this bill, the less likely the president is to sign it," said Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., manager of the Senate tax measure. Thus, the Senate will try to hold down the cost and House negotiators will be pushing for senators to accept some new provisions.

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., cast the only vote against the Senate bill. A principal architect of the 1986 tax changes, Bradley has argued against undue tampering with the new system, saying it should not be riddled with special-interest provisions.

Not voting on the 87-1 Senate vote that passed the tax bill were: Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas; David Boren, D-Okla.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Thad Cochran, R-Miss.; Daniel Evans, R-Wash.; Phil Gramm, R-Texas; David Karnes, R-Neb.; Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J.; Richard Lugar, R-Ind.; Dan Quayle, R-Ind.; Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.; and Pete Wilson, R-Calif.

Both the House and Senate bills would extend several expiring tax benefits, with the Senate opting for a shorter extension in order to reduce the cost. These include a credit for business research, an exclusion for workers' employer-financed educational assistance, and a tax break for low-income first-time home buyers.

The Senate bill, but not the House, would set up a "bill of rights" for taxpayers who are the subject of collection or other enforcement efforts by the IRS.

The agency would have to inform taxpayers fully of their rights at the time an action is launched and would be barred from promoting employees on the basis of how much they collect. The 10-day notice required before the IRS could seize property for overdue taxes would be extended to 30 days.

The House bill includes a permanent change for owners of mutual-fund shares, allowing them to deduct as a miscellaneous expense certain costs of operating the funds. These expenses could be written off fully despite a 1986 change that permits miscellaneous deductions only to the extent they exceed 2 percent of adjusted gross income.

Woman finally uses whistle she carried for 25 years

HOUSTON (AP) — Patsy Young had carried her whistle for 25 years, but had never had an occasion to use it until a man attempted to pull the Houston attorney from her car in a parking garage.

Mrs. Young, a 51-year-old grandmother, told police her husband gave her the whistle when she was a University of Houston

Wiman is named to Hendrick post

Frances Wiman of Abilene, former Snyder resident, has recently been named vice president for development at Hendrick Home for Children. She succeeds Ron Keener, who resigned to form a public relations company.

Wiman has been at Hendrick Home for almost four years and was promoted from assistant vice president for development.

She is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and is completing work on a master's degree in counseling at HSU. She is a member of Mental Health Association, National Society of Fund Raising Executives, For Kid's Sake, United Way and Southwest Rotary Club.

student so she could use it to call for help if she got into trouble.

Mrs. Young said she was getting out of her car in downtown Houston early Tuesday when a man grabbed her right arm.

"He said he needed to borrow my car," she said. "He started pulling me out of the car. I started struggling, screaming and hitting."

"I kept trying to knock his glasses off, and I was screaming at the top of my lungs."

As the man ran away after a brief struggle, Mrs. Young began blowing her whistle.

"It seemed like I was blowing for a really long time," she said. "A woman heard the whistle and found five or six policemen who came running in."

"I pointed out the direction he ran and one of the policemen stayed with me while the others went looking for him," she said. "A few minutes later, they came back with him."

The suspect, 36, was apprehended by security guards when he ran into a nearby office building "looking nervous, like he was looking for a place to hide," Roberly Lt. Allen Tharling said.

Community mourns five girls killed in car accident

PULASKI, Wis. (AP) — More than 2,000 mourners who filled a school gym to remember five young girls killed by a speeding car heard condolences from President Reagan and a tape of a victim singing "Could've Been."

Many at Tuesday night's community service at Pulaski High School hugged and sobbed as the tape recording of rock star Tiffany's song, sung by 12-year-old Nicole Watia, was played.

"The flowers you gave me are just about to die. When I think of what could have been, it makes me want to cry," sang the girl's high-pitched voice.

Nicole's version of the song was among the personal mementos the victims' families shared as this village of about 1,900 gathered for the first time since Friday night's accident that also killed Brenda Hylok, Laura Karcz, Jodi Prokop and Jessica McKeefry, all 13. Three funeral services were scheduled for today.

"I feel they (the mourners) want something to happen but they don't know what they want to happen," said the Rev. Jordan Kuczvara, pastor of Assumption of Blessed Virgin Mary Church.

Police have been puzzled as to why the driver of the 1975 Cadillac, a 17-year-old high school junior, was going an estimated 70 mph down the residential street before it jumped a curb, killing the Glenbrook Elementary seventh graders in front of Jessica's house.

Investigators planned to check the vehicle for possible mechanical problems and to investigate whether the driver, a diabetic, suffered a medical problem such as a seizure, said Police Chief Reed Woodward.

No alcohol was involved, he said. Reagan, in a message sent with Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis., to the village about 15 miles northwest of Green Bay, said, "Nancy and I join with each and every one of you as you mourn the loss of five precious young lives.

"There are no words to express what you are feeling or the grief that your fellow Americans share with you as a result of this great tragedy."

Crying girls hugged one another at the high school, where dozens of floral arrangements surrounded the five closed caskets lined at one end of the gym.

James Brawner, Glenbrook Elementary's principal, estimated that more than 2,000 people filed past the caskets to hug the girls' families and offer sympathy.

Among the letters, cards and messages read during the service was a poem on friendship that Laura Karcz's sister, Lisa, said was one of the last her sister had written.

Discovery astronauts uneasy during liftoff

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The five veteran astronauts who flew Discovery into space say the most anxious moments of their nearly flawless flight came during liftoff, a "very long 8½ minutes" as they remembered the fate of the Challenger.

Pilot Richard Covey said Tuesday that although he had flown before, he still was "a bit taken aback" by the power of the rockets that thrust the shuttle into orbit Sept. 29.

"It was a very, very long 8½ minutes" until the main engine cut off, Covey said during the crew's first post-flight news-conference at the Johnson Space Center. "I think we all felt that way."

"I'm sure we were all thinking, to some degree, about the fact that the last time this had been attempted, it wasn't successful. You never forget that," he said. The Challenger explosion, which occurred 73 seconds after liftoff on Jan. 28, 1986, and killed all seven astronauts aboard, was blamed on a faulty booster rocket. The rockets were redesigned and NASA officials have found no damage in the new boosters.

Despite the anxious moments, Discovery's astronauts praised the shuttle's performance and its success in putting Americans back into space.

"We can look back on a flight that as far as I'm concerned was picture perfect," said Discovery commander Frederick Hauck, who announced the mission would be his last. Hauck, a Navy captain, said he is considering what he will do next, but said he has not resigned from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"I don't think we have any ghosts hovering above us anymore," Hauck said, referring to doubts cast on the space agency because of the Challenger explosion.

During an appearance today on "CBS This Morning," Covey was asked how NASA was changed by the Discovery mission.

"I think the main changes we've seen within NASA are a commitment to quality, a commitment to safety that we didn't have quite as much emphasis on prior to the Challenger accident and an increase in communications between all the elements of NASA," Covey said.

During the four-day mission, Hauck, Covey and astronauts John M. Lounge, David C. Hilmers and George D. "Pinky" Nelson, deployed a $100 million communications satellite, tested systems on the orbiter and conducted 11 experiments before landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., on Oct. 3.

Although a detailed account of the mission showed a few minor problems, including trouble with a cooling system, the only complaint the astronauts had Tuesday concerned the bulky pressure suits worn during launch and landing.

While watching a 20-minute film about the flight that included shots of the astronauts getting into the 75-pound suits before landing, Nelson said, "It hurts just to watch it."

Nelson said although the suits — part of a new escape system — are "pretty uncomfortable," he added that a few modifications such as a better fan and a less bulky harness could improve them for future astronauts.

An explosive hatch and a telescoping pole also are part of the new escape system, which can be used during certain emergencies but would not have saved the Challenger crew. The astronauts would bail out of the hatch and slide down the pole in their orange suits, which are equipped with parachutes, floating devices and radio gear.

The film also showed the astronauts twirling in microgravity, playing with their food during meals and clowning around in Hawaiian-print shirts.

But it also showed them working on various experiments and deploying the Tracking and Data Relay Satellite, along with some magnificent shots of Earth.

During the mission, Discovery's crew members broadcast an emotional message in memory of the seven Challenger astronauts while a camera on the shuttle showed a view of the Earth.

Hilmers, who came up with the memorial, said he wanted those on the ground to see the pictures of Earth to help understand why others want to travel in space.

"I thought at that time we were really linked closely together," he said. "I felt a lot closer (to the Challenger victims) than I may have ever before. We really wanted to show the world that we were standing up there for them and their sacrifice wasn't in vain."

Possible stroke reported as factor in rural wreck

A 79-year-old Snyder woman was listed in satisfactory condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital Wednesday after suffering a possible stroke and running over two rural mailboxes on a Monday morning traffic accident.

Irene E. Simmons of Rt. 2 was going west on County Road 1101 8.3 miles north of town at 10:25 a.m. Monday when her 1976 Ford four-door went out of control and ran over two Rt. 2 mailboxes owned by John Jordan.

An investigating Department of Public Safety trooper said Jordan saw the mishap and followed Mrs. Simmons home, where he saw that she needed medical attention and called for help.

A hospital spokesman said Wednesday that her condition had improved considerably since she was brought to the hospital.

An estimated $75 in damages was caused to the mail boxes.

Jim Wright honored in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — At a time when U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright is dodging political barbs and ethics committee investigations, more than 9,500 Texans turned out in his hometown to honor him.

"An event of this kind could go to a man's head," Wright told a packed gathering at Will Rogers Coliseum.

The "Jim Wright Salute," dubbed a bi-partisan, non-campaign event drew nearly twice the number of supporters originally expected by the 400 organizers of the event. The free barbecue for the District 12 Democrat was paid for with donations.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter is in a group-care home because of my age (78) and her severe M.S. She is given her medicine all at once. They are muscle relaxants. Shouldn't she be getting them spread out over the day?

DEAR READER: Multiple sclerosis is a slowly progressive nervous-system disease of unknown cause that eventually results in disturbances of vision, speech, judgment, emotional state, and muscle function. M.S. patients may reach the point where purposeful movement becomes difficult or impossible. Spasticity (tight muscles) can be painful and difficult to control.

Cortisone is sometimes helpful in retarding the development of M.S. symptoms. However, there is no specific therapy. Occasionally, muscle relaxants are used to alleviate the pain of spasticity. To my knowledge, these drugs are most effective if given in divided doses throughout the day. However, remember that they can often make matters worse because they cause sedation.

Prophylactic treatment of infections — particularly of the urinary tract — and a program of physiotherapy can make an enormous difference in keeping M.S. patients independent. I do not know why your daughter's doctor has chosen to give her one-dose muscle-relaxants. Ask him or her to explain this to you. In my opinion, she might be better off taking more frequent, lower doses. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Multiple Sclerosis."

Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Like your other reader, I also had a 2-year-old whom other people labeled "hyperactive." Thank goodness for my mother, who called her a normal, active child. We found that soft music (especially from a music box she could wind herself), lots of books and no TV right before bed helped her calm down enough so she could go to sleep. Maybe your other readers could try this approach before they rush off for the Ritalin.

DEAR READER: I think that it's important for people to discriminate between a child labeled "hyperactive" by friends and a youngster diagnosed by medical professionals as having "hyperactivity" (now known as Attention Deficit Disorder or ADD).

Most 2-year-olds are active by adult standards. I remember a marvelous feature in Life magazine many years ago: A fully trained Marine was asked to mimic every moment and gesture made by a normal child. The photographs were revealing: Within a few minutes, the Marine was totally exhausted. He simply could not physically keep up with the child's activity rate. This was not due to the child being "hyperactive"; the Marine got tired because adult muscles cannot match the seemingly random motions of a child.

Many youngsters tend to become "wired" at bedtime. They may not be tired as they're expected to be, and they're ready for new activity. In addition, they are easily stimulated by electronic baby-sitters (TV sets) and other factors in their surroundings.

Therefore, I agree with you that a "quiet period" before bedtime is appropriate for most children.

On the other hand, such a common-sense approach is unlikely to make much of a difference to a child with Attention Deficit Disorder. This affliction appears to be due to a poorly understood malfunction of the central nervous system. It is marked by impulsivity and inattention and (sometimes) by hyperactivity; it can be related to learning disorders. ADD may affect up to 10 percent of school children and is 10 times more common in boys than in girls.

Meetings held this week on U.S.-Soviet grain proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another meeting is scheduled for this week in London to see if a new long-term U.S.-Soviet grain agreement can be worked out.

The meeting was announced Tuesday by the White House as "tentatively scheduled" for Thursday and Friday, but no other details were provided in the brief statement by Alan F. Holmer, deputy trade representative, who leads U.S. negotiators.

The previous 5-year agreement expired on Sept. 30, despite months of negotiations and informal talks by U.S. and Soviet officials. One possibility has been a simple extension of the old pact for a year while negotiators work out details of a new arrangement.

Negotiators have been pressured by some U.S. farm interests to insist on larger minimum levels of annual grain purchases by the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, the Soviets have been buying U.S. grain in large quantities without a new agreement, including an additional 250,000 metric tons announced Tuesday by the Agriculture Department.

The sale brought total corn sold to the Soviets and delivered in the 1988-89 corn marketing year that began on Sept. 1 to more than 4.3 million tons.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat or soybeans. The 250,000 tons of corn would be about 9.85 million bushels. Corn prices have been averaging about $2.73 per bushel at the farm level, according to USDA estimates, meaning that the latest sale could have a farm value of around $27 million.
