

SHS marchers set for district contest

The Black and Gold Snyder High School Marching Band will perform at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in Abilene in UIL marching competition.

The band seeks to continue a tradition which dates back some 30 years, a Division I rating in marching competition.

The band lost 12 marchers due to grades following the first six-weeks of study and will take approximately 125 to contest Saturday.

The winners from the Abilene UIL event will advance from the district contest to regional, scheduled the following Saturday, Oct. 29, in Wichita Falls.

The Abilene marching contest will be at Shotwell Stadium. Some 35 area bands are scheduled to compete.

The marching will be divided into a morning and afternoon competition.

The first session will be from 8:26 a.m. until 12:45 p.m., and the second session will be from 4 until 7:30 p.m.

SS benefits to be increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 38.4 million Social Security recipients will get a 4.0 percent benefit increase in January, the second highest boost in 6½ years, the government said today.

The Social Security Administration said the increase promises an extra $21 a month for the average retired worker, who now gets $516 a month from the huge pension and disability insurance program.

It said the maximum monthly benefit for a worker retiring in 1988 at age 65 will rise $61, from $838 to $899.

The exact size of the increase became official today when the Labor Department announced the change in the Consumer Price Index for September.

Since 1975, Social Security benefits have risen automatically each year with the CPI with the exception of six months in 1983 that were skipped to help bail the system out of a crisis.

The increase for 1988 was 4.2 percent, which had been the biggest advance since a 7.4 percent rise in 1982, back when higher inflation rates translated into bigger cost-of-living increases.

The change in Social Security benefits is calculated by taking increases in the CPI for urban wage earners and clerical workers for the July-September period, compared to the same period in the previous year.

More than 4 million recipients of Supplemental Security Income, a welfare program for the aged, blind or disabled, will also get a 4.0 percent increase.

For the elderly and disabled, the Social Security increase will be partially offset by an extra $7.10 a month in Medicare premiums, which will rise to $31.90 starting in January. They are deducted directly from the benefits.

The agency gave the following examples of how the 4.0 percent increase will affect average monthly benefits:

— All retired workers, up $21, from $516 to $537.

— Aged couple, both getting benefits, up $38, from $883 to $921.

— Widowed mother and two children, up $42, from $1,070 to $1,112.

— Disabled worker, spouse and children, up $41, from $902 to $943.

— All disabled workers, up $20, from $509 to $529.

No-pass, no-play in effect Friday for SHS activities

Friday marked the enforcement date for Texas' no-pass, no-play rule for the first six-weeks of school and, locally, an estimated 7.6 percent of the grades given for the first six-weeks at Snyder High School were below 70.

The ruling will affect several areas of extracurricular activity now underway, although generally not to a large degree when the number of failing to passing is compared.

For the Snyder High School band, for example, which goes to marching contest Saturday, the percentage of those failing was 8.7 percent of those participating.

Broken down, this includes 137 students out for band with 12 now said ineligible.

When the no-pass, no-play rule was first implemented in the fall of 1986, an estimated 25 percent of the entire student body at the high school failed one grade or more.

At the varsity football level, four players out of 34 participating are now ineligible.

Of the 28 junior varsity football players out, nine failed at least one grade and, of 32 freshmen, nine failed also.

The boys varsity basketball team fared better, however, with 10 athletes now working out and none of these affected by no-pass, no-play.

For the other levels of boys basketball at SHS, 11 were suited up with four failing at least one grade.

The Snyder High School Choir, another student activity which encompasses all grade levels, had a 17 percent failing rate with 21 students failing out of 117 initially enrolled.

For FFA activities, 12 of the 48 students enrolled failed one grade or more.

The freshman girls volleyball team has 16 players with only 1 failing; but the freshman girls basketball team lost three of its six players to grades.

Several extracurricular activities had no failures, however.

The varsity teams for both girls basketball and volleyball had none affected by no-pass, no-play. Currently, the basketball team has nine out and the volleyball team, 11.

Others with no failures reported included the 34-member tennis team, the 17-member boys golf team, the 12-member junior varsity volleyball team, and the eight-member girls JV basketball team.

In addition, of 20 cheerleaders now participating at SHS, none failed a grade during the first six weeks.

OPENING TONIGHT — Joy McSpadden as "Belinda" and Dave Harverson as "Frederick" are cast members for "Noises Off," a comedy which opens at 8 p.m. Friday at Western Texas College. Tickets are $7.50 for adults and $5.50 for students for both the show and a dessert buffet to be served during intermission. The play will run through Monday. (SDN Staff Photo by Bob Campbell)

Diamond M to mark painter Wyeth's birth

The Diamond M Museum of Fine Art will mark the birthday of artist N.C. Wyeth on Sunday and open a new exhibit at the same time.

One room of the Diamond M is devoted to a collection of 12 original works by Wyeth (1882-1945). These include paintings done as illustrations for famous books by such authors as Jules Verne, Mark Twain and James Fenimore Cooper. Also in the collection are "The Astrologer" and "The Courier of the Air."

In tribute to the artist, the museum will show three video tapes about his life and work. The first showing will begin about 1:30 p.m. and the final showing about 3:30 p.m.

Photographs by In Focus, a Permian Basin photographic society, will make up the new exhibit. Bill Murchison, Western Texas College faculty member, is among the photographers whose works are represented.

Sunday hours in the Diamond M Museum are 1 until 4 p.m.

Amendment would tap state permanent funds

(Editor's Note: This is the final story in a series of three regarding amendment proposals facing Texans in November.)

Proposition 3 on the Nov. 8 ballot would establish a Texas Growth Fund to provide alternative financing for businesses that have difficulty obtaining capital from other sources.

The fund would be created with investments by the governing boards of the Permanent University Fund, Permanent School Fund, Teacher Retirement System of Texas and Employees Retirement System of Texas.

No more than one percent of the value of the assets of any of the other funds could be placed in the Texas Growth Fund, which would be managed by four gubernatorial appointees and representatives of the related funds and retirement systems.

The growth fund would have a life of 10 years, with the legislature having the option after 10 years to extend it by creating Texas Growth Fund II.

No more than 10 percent of the fund's expenditures could be for venture capital investments, which have potential for substantial return and usually also involve greater risk, and at least 75 percent of those investments would have to be matched by investments from other sources. The remainder of Texas Growth Fund money would be dedicated to more conventional investments in new and existing businesses.

Proponents say the amendment would augment economic recovery by increasing the See AMENDMENT, page 11

In Brief

Prices go up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rekindling of higher food costs brought on by the drought sent retail prices up 0.3 percent last month, the Labor Department said today. Nearly balancing the steeper grocery prices was the sharpest drop in gasoline costs since February.

The overall consumer price rise was considered moderate and was down a notch from the 0.4 percent rises of July and August.

15 are killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli warplanes and helicopters attacked guerrilla strongholds in Lebanon today in apparent retaliation for a bombing that killed seven Israeli soldiers. Fifteen people were killed in the raids, police said.

The jets scored direct hits on ammunition dumps and training bases of the Iranian-backed Hezbollah, or Party of God, and Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, said a police spokesman in Lebanon.

Morris Abram leaving top Jewish post

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's been a long trail from a small town in Georgia to the University of Chicago Law School, the presidency of Brandeis University and partnership in a prestigious law firm in New York.

Now, at 70, Morris B. Abram, who started out in Fitzgerald, Ga., where there were a handful of struggling Jewish families, will step down at the end of this month as chairman of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry. "It's been a fruitful period," he said.

AP analysis

Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union, one of Abram's concerns in the two jobs, is on the rise. Through September, 11,238 were granted exit visas. That is a big jump from the low point of 896 in 1984, but less than one-third of the 51,320 permitted to leave in 1979.

That was the biggest exodus, and it came under the late Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, whose record on human rights generally is considered below the standards set by his successor, Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Abram is hopeful, nonetheless. He says there have been some fundamental changes, especially in the United States. President Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz have made Soviet Jewry "a priority concern," Abram said in a telephone interview from his Paul, Weiss law office in New York, "causing other governments to become associated with it."

Reagan and Shultz gave human rights what Shultz calls "pride of place" on their agenda for the four U.S.-Soviet summits and the dozens of meetings Shultz held with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

Shultz always began with the topic, putting it ahead, even, of nuclear arms control.

Kremlin gives Sakharov tentative ok

MOSCOW (AP) — Human rights activist Andrei D. Sakharov today said the Kremlin has tentatively agreed to let him leave the Soviet Union for the first time, to attend a conference in the United States.

Sakharov, a pioneer of the Soviet dissident movement, said he will leave for the United States next month.

Sakharov said at a news conference that the lifting of a travel ban against him was due to President Mikhail Gorbachev's program of economic and political restructuring and the personal efforts of some Soviet officials.

Granting Sakharov a visa to travel abroad would be a dramatic gesture to show the liberalization under Gorbachev's reforms.

He told reporters the government agreed "in principle" to allow him to attend a conference of the International Foundation for the Survival and Development of Humanity. Sakharov said he had not yet officially applied for the necessary travel documents.

"This question was raised by the authorities of the foundation and presented to decision-makers, and now it has received a positive response. The question is solved in principle. I will take part in the coming trip by the foundation," said Sakharov.

Today's news conference was held in an auditorium at the headquarters of the government press agency Novosti. It was the second time the government furnished a stage for Sakharov to speak to reporters.

Your Birthday

Oct. 22, 1988

One of the most important moves you're likely to make in the year ahead will be of a social nature. The new alignment will be with people who can help you in both your personal and business life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even if you're doing familiar tasks today, be mindful of safety procedures. If you get careless, your thumb might get in the way of your hammer. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Be sure whatever you buy is something you really need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't lean too heavily on those in your charge today, even if you feel it's for their own good. Stern tactics will invite a rebellious response.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you do things in a hasty fashion today, there is a likelihood you will repeat past mistakes. Don't create problems that can be avoided.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In any arrangements you have with friends today where money is involved, be sure accounting procedures are accurate. You could be held responsible for miscalculations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Objectives that are important to you today will not be achieved without effort. What you hope to attain will have to be earned the hard way.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't let grudges gain the upper hand today. If you do something out of spite or vindictiveness, you could be the one who ends up getting the short end of the stick.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Think positive today, but avoid unrealistic expectations. Your hopes could be dashed if they are predicated upon erroneous projections.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In arrangements where there are partners or associates involved, don't take it upon yourself today to act without their full consent or permission.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be an unreasonable person to work for today. You might ask others to do things that you would never think of doing yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Look gift horses in the mouth today, especially in your business affairs. Ulterior motives are likely if someone offers you something for nothing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid a companion today who has a faculty for creating problems at the least provocation. This person could draw you into something rather nasty.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A comet striking Earth with the power of 300 million Hiroshima-sized atomic bombs may be the cause of mass extinction 11 million years ago, say scientists who blame a bigger blast for killing the dinosaurs eons earlier.

The scientists' new study means that of nine mass extinction episodes in Earth's history, three that occurred about 11 million, 38 million and 66 million years ago now have been linked to comets or asteroids smacking into the planet.

The highly controversial theory says such impacts kicked up dust and triggered smoky fires that blocked enough sunlight to freeze many creatures and deprive others of food supplies.

Other new studies bolster support for rival theories that blame mass extinctions on gigantic volcanic eruptions, on changes in sea level or on global climate changes unrelated to objects smashing into Earth.

The studies are being presented at a four-day conference, "Global Catastrophes in Earth History," which opened Thursday in Snowbird, Utah.

Scientists from Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and the University of California's Berkeley and Santa Barbara campuses performed the study that suggests a comet or asteroid impact caused mass extinction of about 25 percent of species 10 million to 11.7 million years ago.

The team was led by Nobel Prize-winning UC-Berkeley physicist Luis Alvarez, who died last month.

In 1980, the Alvarez team found thin layers of the metallic element iridium deposited around the world in 66-million-year-old rocks, suggesting a comet or asteroid striking Earth killed about two-thirds of all species, including dinosaurs, at the time.

Iridium is viewed as evidence of such impacts because it is far more common in extraterrestrial objects than in Earth rocks. Iridium in a comet that hit Earth and exploded would have settled from airborne dust.

In the new study, two deposits of iridium were found in 10-million to 12-million-year-old sea-floor rocks some 6,200 miles apart: in the Weddell Sea near Antarctica and the Tasman Sea north of New Zealand, said Frank Asaro, a nuclear chemist at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory.

That suggests, but doesn't prove, that a comet or asteroids also hit Earth and triggered extinctions at that time, he said. Researchers estimated the comet or asteroid would have measured about 1.8 miles across and would have vaporized in an explosion with 300 million times the power of the 13-kiloton atomic bomb that destroyed Hiroshima at the end of World War II, Asaro said.

He said they estimate the 6½-mile-diameter comet that killed the dinosaurs produced a blast 10 billion times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb.

In 1982, Alvarez's team said iridium found in 37-million to 39-million rocks may have triggered a mass extinction of about 25 percent of species on Earth at that time.

Asaro said evidence that comet or asteroid impacts caused three mass extinctions supports a more controversial hypothesis that extinctions occur at roughly 26-million- to 30-million-year intervals when comets are hurled toward Earth by the gravity of an undiscovered companion star to the sun, nicknamed the "Death Star" or "Nemesis."

Other studies support the theory that huge volcanic eruptions in India 66 million years ago blocked out sunlight and caused mass extinction.

Negotiators agree on compromise bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a revolt by conservatives, congressional leaders attached anti-obscenity provisions to a compromise drug bill so the measure can pass and the 100th Congress can go home.

A weary House Speaker Jim Wright predicted Thursday night that both houses would approve the leaders' "final agreement" on the drug bill today, but cautioned that the obscenity language could not be "nailed down" until lawmakers reviewed it. The bill is the major legislation keeping Congress in session.

After marathon meetings by rank-and-file negotiators, Wright — along with the majority and minority leaders of both houses — gathered to tackle the unresolved issues Thursday night.

The thorniest among them proved to be Senate-passed language to give the federal government broad new powers to combat obscenity.

Earlier in the day, rank-and-file lawmakers stripped the language from the drug bill after liberals insisted the government's powers would be too broad.

"We were threatened with a revolt" by conservatives, said

Wright, who admitted he began envisioning an embarrassing floor fight that would destroy his effort to unite liberals and conservatives, Democrats and Republicans, behind the bill that could help all incumbents.

A coalition of conservative groups began an intense last-ditch telephone campaign to win inclusion of the anti-obscenity provisions, said Diane Quartermain, legislative affairs director of the Liberty Federation, formerly the Moral Majority.

The bill — which would authorize some $2.5 billion in new anti-drug money, is an ambitious attempt to deal with all aspects of the drug problem, including law enforcement, treatment, rehabilitation, education and help for authorities in drug-producing countries.

New initiatives would include up to $10,000 in civil fines for those caught with personal use amounts of drugs; a federal death penalty for killers in drug-related crimes; and denial of some federal benefits to convicted drug offenders, including users.

A number of lawmakers cautioned the drug bill would be meaningless without new financing, and the House Appropriations Committee took quick action Thursday.

Forget about the danger of the opening lead being ruffed — when is seven no-trump a safer contract than seven of a suit? Here's one possible answer: when you are able to get a count on the hand to help you play your long suit to best advantage. If your long suit is your trump suit, you don't usually have the luxury of postponing the play of trumps for too many rounds. (You don't want a defender to win a trick with a small trump.)

The opening two-diamond bid, a variety popular in England and much of Europe, showed a strong hand not quite forcing to game. When East preempted in spades, South bid in forthright fashion what he thought he could make. And North of course thought that if his partner could bid six no-trump without the A-K in either minor, he ought to be raised to seven.

Declarer won the opening spade lead and in quick order cashed the diamond ace, the K-Q of hearts, and A-K-Q of clubs. He then finished up with the other two high hearts and the remaining high spade. West had followed to two spades and to only three rounds of hearts, and he was known to have six clubs when East showed out on the first lead of that suit. That left him with only two diamonds, so it was easy to play a second diamond to dummy's king, dropping the queen and making the contract. And what would have happened in seven diamonds? Probably declarer would have played the pre-emptive spade bidder for diamond shortness and gone set.

Zapruder's son sued over JFK copyright

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two researchers of the John F. Kennedy assassination are urging a federal court to stop the son of the late Abraham Zapruder from selling the right to show his father's famous film footage of the slaying.

A suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court argues that Henry G. Zapruder, a Washington tax lawyer, should not have a copyright claim to the 8mm film that captured for history the shooting of Kennedy 25 years ago next month in Dallas' Dealey Plaza.

"It's a historical event and it's far too important to American history to allow its use to be dictated by a copyright owner who has shown no sensitivity for its importance and for the uses which scholars and writers want to make of it," said James H. Lesar, an attorney and vice president of the Assassination Archives, a private research group.

Zapruder, reached by telephone late Thursday, declined to answer specific questions about the suit, but said the family only charges people who use the film for commercial purposes.

"We make the film available free of charge to anyone who is not going to use it for commercial purposes, and we've been doing that for years," he said. "We do that because we think it's the right thing to do. People who are going to charge, we charge."

The elder Zapruder, a dress manufacturer who died in 1970, had sold the film to Life magazine for $150,000 shortly after the assassination. Life featured dramatic frames from the footage in a special issue following the slaying.

In 1975, Time Inc. sold the film back to the Zapruder family for $1.

The original 8mm film is in storage at the National Archives, but the Zapruder family retains exclusive rights to the film's use and copies. Henry Zapruder, according to the suit, has been charging up to $30,000 for the right to use the film footage.

The panel approved $500 million in new spending for the drug bill, an amount that would pay for barely a third of the estimated $1.4 billion first-year costs of the legislation. The final cost is expected to be about $2.5 billion if the multi-year measure is fully financed.

The $500 million includes: $242 million for treatment, prevention and education; $179 million for new agents and equipment for federal law enforcement agencies; $42 million for the federal courts; $25 million for the Coast Guard; and the rest for programs of the departments of state and agriculture, and the Food and Drug Administration.

A combined bill to combat adult obscenity and child pornography had passed the Senate 97-0 previously, and was added to the drug bill when the House refused to take action. The child pornography language was approved by the drug bill negotiators.

Fire shuts down DFW airport

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — A control tower fire at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and efforts to fight the blaze snarled flights and delayed travelers for hours, with some planes diverted to other cities.

Flights were suspended for an hour Thursday when a technician, trying to contain the electrical fire at the tower's base, flipped the wrong switch, cutting the circuit that feeds the entire communications network.

The Federal Aviation Administration tower at the nation's fourth-busiest airport was temporarily evacuated, affecting takeoffs or landings of about 120 flights. About 15 flights were diverted to other airports in the area, the FAA said.

The technician suffered minor burns. Airline officials said they were slowly getting back on schedule for today's flights after being backed up for two to three hours. "Am I upset?" asked Jim King of Houston as he tried to make connections for a Boston flight. "Sure I'm upset. But what are you going to do about it? That's why I'm sitting here drinking beer."

Service was disrupted for about 30 minutes before controllers were able to start a backup communications network, said Norm Scroggins, FAA tower manager at the airport. Controllers, with assistance from an auxiliary FAA tower near the airport, lost contact with pilots for less than five seconds.

One plane attempting to land was forced to circle the airport in a routine maneuver, said Scroggins. "In so far as passenger and airline safety, that was not compromised," said Scroggins. "We had emergency transmitter-receiver capability to talk to those crews and minimize the impact and certainly not affect the safety of the system at all."

Love Field in Dallas and the U.S. Naval Base in Grand Prairie, both served by the control tower, also had flights disrupted.

Bitter families remember fatal crash

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The families of 10 people killed when a military jet ripped through a hotel lobby lashed out at the Air Force on the anniversary of the crash, accusing officials of what one called "the utmost insensitivity."

Sobs filled the charred shell of the Ramada Inn-Airport on Thursday as parents poked through the debris where their children died in a fireball on Oct. 20, 1987. A year later, the seven-story hotel remains blackened, damaged and smelling of smoke. "That's where my daughter died. We think those were her shoes," said Robert T. Goldberg, pointing to a desk top in what was once the office of his daughter, Beth, who handled reservations for the hotel.

Air Force Master Sgt. Larry Martin and his wife, Cheryl, combed the rubble for the baby ring their daughter, Dawn Shelly, always wore before her death.

"It should be here. It should be here," Martin said as tears filled his eyes.

Family members said they are bitter about their treatment by the U.S. Air Force, which doesn't have to pay damages under Indiana law for the deaths of adult victims who left no dependents.

"When the U.S. Air Force kills innocent people, survivors should receive justice," Goldberg said.

He and other parents contend the Indiana law prevents people here from receiving justice equal to those in other states.

"Because the Air Force is hiding behind Indiana's wrongful death law, we are being treated with the utmost insensitivity," Martin said.

He added that the Air Force has "shown little compassion for our family" and it has chosen "to devalue that beautiful gift of human life by treating the survivors' families as if we are the guilty party in this wrongful act."

The families said they want the law to be changed, and they want a jury to decide whether the crash was caused by negligence and whether damages should be awarded.

An Air Force panel already has cleared the pilot, Maj. Bruce Teagarden, of any wrongdoing in the crash.

Gastineau quits football

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) - Mark Gastineau, who fought his way back with the New York Jets, is walking away from football to help actress-fiancee Brigitte Nielsen in her fight against cancer.

Gastineau, the defensive end whose headline-generating personality infuriated teammates and made him a media star, cited the illness of the actress as the reason he is leaving the game.

"My relationship with Brigitte Nielsen was the primary reason I returned to football this year, and for whatever success I enjoyed," Gastineau said at the Phoenix, Ariz., airport. "Her sudden illness, for which we are now seeking medical treatment, has caused me to put into perspective my career and the things that are most important to me in my life."

Rogers facing charges

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Detroit Lions defensive end Reggie Rogers faces criminal prosecution for his role in a traffic accident that killed three teen-agers, Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson says.

Patterson said Rogers' Jeep ran a red light at 1:50 a.m. Thursday and struck a car driven by Kenneth J. Willett, 19, of Drayton Plains. Willett's cousins, Kelly Ess, 18, and Dale R. Ess, 17, of Versailles, Mo., died soon after. Willett died 10 hours later at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Rogers, 24, of Rochester suffered a fractured neck and badly lacerated thumb in the crash, said Dr. Robert Aranosian. Rogers was in guarded condition early today.

He was expected to remain hospitalized for at least a week, Aranosian said.

Rogers, who according to his attorney and police had been drinking before the crash, faced several possible charges depending on the results of a blood alcohol and drug test, Patterson said.

Tiger netters aim for regionals now

October 22 will be the date for Snyder's first post-season competition of the 1988-89 school year.

Coach Charlie Chrane's varsity tennis team clinched second place in District 4-4A earlier this week to get a berth to the regional playoffs in Lubbock.

"I'm happy. We played well. The kids have done a good job so far," said Coach Chrane, following Tuesday's 17-3 victory over Andrews. "Now our goal is to win our first two matches at regional and play in the finals."

The Tigers will get their chance to do that beginning Friday, Oct. 28. The tournament, which features the top two teams from six districts in Region I, concludes on Saturday, Oct. 29.

Meanwhile, Coach Chrane won't know who his team is to play until Thursday, the 27th, when the top seeds are named and the pairings are made.

At the 7:30 p.m. meeting the top four seeded teams will receive byes and the eight other teams will begin play at 8:30 a.m. on Oct. 28.

The eventual Region I champion will advance to the state tournament the following weekend in Austin.

With Tuesday's win over Andrews, the Tigers finished the regular season with a 6-2 record, runner-up to undefeated Monahans.

Snyder had gone into the match already leading the Mustangs 7-1 after rain had postponed play earlier in the season.

Robinson is not released

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - San Antonio Spurs officials, disappointed that Navy Ensign David Robinson will not be joining the NBA franchise this year, said they thought reasons to release him from his military commitment far outweighed those to keep him.

Navy Secretary William Ball III on Thursday rejected a plea by Robinson's agent, Lee Fentress, to release Robinson from his two-year commitment, which would end in May 1989.

Robinson - a 7-foot-1 center who was drafted by the Spurs in 1987 and signed an eight-year, $26 million contract - suggested that the Navy increase his obligation to the Naval Reserve.

Spear feels team unity key for successful WTC season

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

He knows what it takes and he thinks maybe Western Texas College's Westerners have it.

"Realistically, I don't think there is any doubt on anyone in this team's mind we can do it," said returning all-conference

Dallas' Reunion Arena.

The tip-off is set for 4:30 p.m. An NBA preseason game between the Dallas Mavericks and Philadelphia 76ers follows at 7:30 p.m. Fans can attend both for as little as $5.

"I'm excited about starting the season," said Spear, a sophomore from Albuquerque, N.M. "It's early, but the reason you play is to play the games. I think we're ready to play. I'm sure we'll get better as the season goes along, but I think it will be good for us to play now. It helps you find out where you are. It's hard to tell much playing each other all the time."

Spear earned honorable mention all-Western Junior College Athletic Conference accolades last season after averaging 15.8 points and 7.4 rebounds. The 6-5 sophomore is hoping for more honors this time around, but isn't concerned.

"If I worry about individual goals I'd be losing the team concept," said Spear. "I feel like if I do the things I need to do for the team, the individual honors will come."

The team concept is one of the reasons Spear believes the current Westerners will improve on last season's 8-23 record.

"The biggest difference is we've kept everybody together. There's a lot more team unity. It should be a big bonus," said Spear. "Almost everything has been positive this year."

Though Western returns only three players, two of them - Keith Hawkins and Chawn Cummings - are guards. Spear sees that as an asset.

"We should have good leadership at the point guard and that will make a difference. Last year we had mostly freshmen in the backcourt."

Some added height and numbers inside will benefit the team, too.

"We've got a lot more strength inside. We're not as tall as some of the teams we'll play, but I think we'll be able to match up a lot better this year," Spear added.

A year's experience also puts

Spear in the role of a leader. "Last year I played back, especially early. This year, I feel like it's up to me to sometimes make things happen when we need it. I don't look at it as in numbers or scoring, it's more as a leader. It's pressure on myself."

And there's added pressure Saturday night in Dallas.

"Well, yeah," he grinned, "my family is coming and my girlfriend is coming, too."

College golfers gear for conference event

ROSWELL, N.M. - Western Texas College golf team was to tee off in a practice round here today, gearing for Saturday's WJCAC tournament.

The 27-hole event begins at 8:30 a.m. (CDT) and is the second conference tournament of the season. Current standings have Odessa leading with 5 points, followed by Midland with 4, Western Texas with 3, New Mexico Military with 2 and New Mexico Junior College with 1.

WTC Coach Dave Foster said the Westerners will need to play error-free, if possible.

"Hold the mistakes down. Any team on any given day can prevail, it's just the one that makes the least mistakes," said Foster. "We're looking for a good tournament. We're close to pulling out of our slump. Hopefully we can pick up some momentum this week."

Playing for Western will be Mark Burgen, Darrel Cofer, Jeff

Beal, Jeff Baker, Gary Schoen, Lance Jones and Wade Hatter. Hatter will be playing as an individual.

Jones, a sophomore from Andrews, is tied for conference medalist honors with Midland's Gordon McCarver. Both have an average of 68.6.

Thames ties quick lead at TT rodeo

LUBBOCK - Western Texas College students are in first place in the calf roping and bull riding events after the opening show of the Texas Tech University Rodeo, being held at the South Plains Fair Grounds Pavillion here.

Tyler Thames, a freshman from San Antonio, clocked a 9.8 to take the lead in the calf roping. A 71 earned the top spot in the bull riding for Buddy Reed, a sophomore from Robinson. Neither are designated WTC team members but they can accumulate individual points.

The only WTC team members to compete Thursday for Western Texas were Michael Gaffney and Ray Brown. Gaffney scored a 66 in the bull riding.

"That's in third place right now but I'll be surprised if it makes it back to the short-round," said Coach Bob Doty.

Only the top 10 scores and times from each event qualify for Saturday evening's short-round.

Brown took a no-time in the steer wrestling.

Several other WTC students competed Thursday but none landed in the top 10 of any event.

Among those scheduled to compete today were team members Clyde Himes in the calf roping and team roping, Kenny Taton in the saddle bronc and Denny McLanahan in the bareback. Women's team member Krista Jeffries will compete in the barrels and breakaway while Tana Mahoney and Melanie Graf are entered in the goat tying.

The rodeo is set for 8 p.m. today and Saturday. A show is also set for 3 p.m. Saturday and includes McLanahan in the bull riding, Brown in the calf roping, Himes in the steer wrestling and Russell Merchant in the calf roping and steer riding.

Hershiser, who was voted Most Valuable Player of the Series. Hershiser ended the season with the most remarkable string of success in baseball history, a major-league record 59 consecutive scoreless innings, breaking Don Drysdale's mark of 58.

Hershiser finally allowed three earned runs in the playoffs, but he had a save and a win, including a 6-0 shutout of the Mets in Game 7 of their series.

In Game 2 of the World Series, he pitched a 6-0 shutout on three hits. And he allowed only four hits, two by Lansford, in Thursday night's clincher.

"We caught them in a little cold streak, and we nickel and dined them to death," Hershiser said. "We also out home-ran them, and you don't expect that."

"I'm very, very proud of our team," Hershiser said. "It's a great mix of individuals - both personalities and talent. With one swing, Gibson exemplified what he's done all year long for us. He made it cool to be aggressive, to be a workaholic."

Silence Oakland's bats...

Dodgers win World Series

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The World Series belonged to the Los Angeles Dodgers - not a "dream team," as Manager Tom Lasorda called it, but a team that simply did the right things at the right times.

Battered but never beaten, the Dodgers captured their sixth World Series title Thursday night with a 5-2 victory over Oakland. Orel Hershiser pitched another masterpiece as the Series ended in five games.

And there were no more A's. They were only the Z's, because their bats had gone to sleep. The heavily favored Athletics, who averaged nearly five runs a game during the season, scored just 11 runs on 28 hits in the five Series games.

From A to Z, the Dodgers did what they were called upon to do. They hit-and-ran, stole some bases, moved runners along, played defense and even hit a few homers.

"I think everyone will respect us now," Dodgers second baseman Steve Sax said. "We may not be a power team, but we sure are a winning team."

Mickey Hatcher had two homers, including one in the decisive game, and that's as many as the entire A's team hit. The A's may have out-homered the Dodgers 156-99 in the season, but in the Series, it was 5-2 Dodgers.

"We missed the biggest piece we were chasing," Manager Tony La Russa said of his American League champions. "But I have a great feeling about the 1988 Oakland A's. I'm very proud of what this team did. We didn't choke. We got beat because the Los Angeles Dodgers did more."

The Dodgers did the winning without their key player, Kirk

Gibson, who was gimpy on both legs. Their inspirational and on-field leader had only one at-bat during the Series, although it resulted in a game-winning homer in the opener.

He was not alone among the dented Dodgers. Cleanup hitter Mike Marshall missed part of Game 3 and most of Game 4 when his back stiffened up. Pitcher John Tudor came out of Game 3 in the second inning when his elbow hurt. He may need surgery and a new career. And catcher Mike Scioscia couldn't play in the final game because he wrenched his knee the day before.

"This team has established itself in baseball history," Dodgers general manager Fred Claire said in a jubilant locker room. "It will go down as one of the great storybook seasons, all the way to the finish when it overcame injuries and beat two great, outstanding teams."

The Dodgers last won the World Series in 1981, beating the New York Yankees in six games, and they are the only team with two World Series wins in the '80s. The A's last won the Series in 1974, beating the Dodgers in five.

Those were the A's of Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando and Rollie Fingers. These were the A's of Jose Canseco, Mark McGwire and Carney Lansford. But among this modern trio, there were just five hits in 54 at-bats in the Series for an average of .093, and Lansford had three of the hits.

"The Dodger pitching shut us down," La Russa said. "It's the age-old story. If you make the right pitches, you can't make much contact ... Most of it was Dodger pitching."

And most of that pitching was

Hershiser named MVP

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Incredible season. Incredible finish. Incredible Orel Hershiser.

He capped one of the most amazing stretches a pitcher has ever had as the Los Angeles Dodgers won the World Series in five games by beating the Oakland Athletics 5-2 Thursday night.

Hershiser allowed only four hits while walking four and striking out nine as he handcuffed the heavy hitting Athletics for the second time in five days.

Following his three-hit, 6-0 win over the Athletics in Game 2 Sunday night, the 30-year-old right-hander was a clear-cut choice as the Most Valuable Player in the Series, just as he was in the National League playoffs.

"I just never wanted to let down," Hershiser said of his amazing pitching in the last 52 days. "I always went pitch-by-pitch. Every outing I had was a pressure outing."

"I didn't want to go out there and lose and have everybody say, 'He cooled off at a crucial time in the Series. He can't pitch under pressure.'"

Starting with the fifth inning of a game Aug. 30 against Montreal, Hershiser pitched 101 2-3 innings and allowed only five earned runs.

Called "Bulldog" by his teammates, Hershiser finished the season with an all-time record 59 consecutive scoreless innings and worked 42 2-3 more innings in the postseason.

"You can't say enough about what he has done," Dodgers outfielder Kirk Gibson said. "It should go down as one of the great performances in history and it may never be accomplished again."

'Stangs host Fightin' Tigers

Hermleigh welcomes Ira Bulldogs tonight

Sweetwater hopes to feast on Tiger for homecoming while Monahans tries Panther meat as

4-4A glance

Last Friday's Results: Fort Stockton 7, Snyder 0, Monahans 7, Andrews 6, Big Spring 38, Lake View 6, Sweetwater 39, Pecos 19. Friday's Games: Snyder at Sweetwater, Lake View at Andrews, Pecos at Big Spring, Monahans at Fort Stockton.

District 4-4A football teams gear up for another Friday night.

The Mustangs are celebrating homecoming tonight and have invited Snyder to share it. The problem is, Sweetwater hasn't been in a sharing mood this season and the Mustang Bowl has been anything but hospitable.

It's the home of one Kenneth Norman, who seems intent on setting some kind of record for rushing. With 1,201 already wracked up, the 180-pound tailback is averaging just over 200 yards a game. As if that weren't enough, he rules as safety - over a Mustang defense that leads the state in allowing only 96.5 yards a game.

Snyder, at 1-5 an obvious underdog, hopes to avoid being the Mustangs' seventh victim. The Fightin' Tigers, under Coach David Baugh, have played well in their past four ballgames.

Elsewhere, Monahans will try to keep pace with the Mustangs when it travels to Fort Stockton tonight. The Lobos, 6-1, are the district's only other 3-0 team. Fort Stockton is 2-1. The Panthers are 3-3 for the campaign.

Monahans' Ronnie Ramsey has run for 429 yards and 6 TDs on just 70 carries. The Lobos rely on the all-district returnee and some good ability from quarterback Chris Jordan, who has passed for 452 yards and run for 222 more.

Fort Stockton is led by quarterback Pete Martinez, who has thrown for 652 yards and 4 touchdowns. Wide receiver Joe Parks has hauled in a district-high 21 passes for 325 yards.

In other 4-4A games tonight,

San Angelo Lake View is at Andrews and Pecos plays in Big Spring.

Lake View, 2-4, 0-3, will match an air attack against Andrews' strong rushing game. The Mustangs, who reached the district's defeated ranks after a 7-6 loss to Monahans last week, are 2-1 in loop action and 4-2 overall.

Lake View sails on the arm of Will Burney, who has hit his receivers 51 of 107 times for 656 yards. Troy Allen leads the Chief receiving corps with 12 catches for 217 yards. Five Lake View players have 7 or more receptions this season.

But Lake View's downfall has been its defense, which has given up almost 310 yards a ballgame, including over 200 on the ground. It's an ideal situation for Andrews, which boasts the second-ranked rushing attack behind Sweetwater. Andrews' offense averages almost 225 yards rushing a game, with Mike Hernandez leading the way. Hernandez has rushed for 505 yards and 11 touchdowns. Quarterback Robert Morris has run for 231 yards and thrown for another 109.

It could be bombs-away time in Big Spring, when the Steers host the Pecos Eagles. Pecos is 3-3 for the season but hasn't located a win in district play yet. The Steers are 1-4 after beating Lake View 38-6 for their first win of the season. They are 1-2 in district play.

The game brings together two of the district's bottom three defensive teams, statistically speaking, but also features some of the area's most exciting offenses. The Steer offense, in fact, ranks second with an average of 330.8 yards.

The Steers like the arm of Rance Thompson, who has thrown for 894 yards and 8 TDs in just five ballgames. Favorite receiver Troy Lewis leads the district in yards with 369 yards on 17 catches.

Pecos is captained by quarterback Bobby Ray Smith, who has thrown for 500 yards and run for another 174.

Loraine last weekend. Hermleigh is 0-6 for the season.

Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. in Hermleigh.

In tonight's other 7-1A game, No. 4 ranked Trent travels to Loraine to play the highly touted Loraine Bulldogs. Loraine is 6-1 overall and 2-0 in district play. Trent's Gorillas are 6-0 and also 2-0. Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

The other loop contest pits Highland, 4-3 and 1-1, in Blackwell, 1-5 and 0-2, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Ira is 4-3 overall and 1-1 in district play after a 38-30 loss to

Lady Tigers slated for Saturday match

Snyder's Lady Tigers, clinging to a scant playoff hope, take on the Loboettes of Monahans in District 4-4A volleyball action here Saturday.

Action has been moved to the evening instead of the afternoon. Junior varsity squads will play at 7 p.m., varsity teams at 7 p.m.

Snyder is 6-5 in district play, two games out of second place with just three to play. Pecos has wrapped up at least a tie for the 4-4A crown with an 11-0 record. Sweetwater is 8-3 and in second and Fort Stockton is 7-4 and in third.

Monahans is 6-16 for the season and 1-10 in district play. Snyder is 16-11 for the current campaign.

Elsewhere Saturday, Pecos entertains Big Spring, Andrews is at Sweetwater and Lake View is at Fort Stockton.

Undefeated Hogs try skills against surprising Cougars

by The Associated Press

There will be a lot of answers to the Southwest Conference's puzzling football chase coming from the Astrodome on Saturday evening in a game that could be as high-scoring as pinball.

The unblemished Arkansas Razorbacks take their 6-0 ledger into the Dome for the 12:05 p.m. (Raycom TV) meeting with once-beaten Houston which warmed up by scoring 82 points against Tulsa.

Arkansas comes off a highly emotional 27-24 victory over the Texas Longhorns in Austin.

Odds makers made the game a pick 'em affair although Arkansas could only beat Tulsa 30-26 while Houston handled the Hurricanes 82-28.

The Razorbacks also will be without running back James Rouse, who suffered a knee injury against Texas. Joe Johnson was expected to start in his place.

In other games on the abbreviated SWC menu, Baylor travels to Texas Christian in a 2 p.m. game while the high-rolling Texas Aggies entertain Rice at 2 p.m. in College Station. TCU was favored by two points while the Aggies were 24-point favorites.

Arkansas has won six games in a row from the Cougars. Houston has been to the Cotton Bowl four times since entering the league in 1976 and two of the Cougar Cotton Bowl teams lost to the Razorbacks.

The Hogs are 5-2 in Houston against the Cougars and 3-2 in the Astrodome. Arkansas has won its last three games in the indoor facility. Arkansas is expected to borrow a page from A&M's defensive play book and blitz the Hogs. A&M defeated Houston earlier in the season with an all-out rush.

"To stop Houston, you have to play an aggressive defensive game," said Hog tackle Michael Shepherd, The AP's SWC Co-Defensive player of the Week. "I think Houston is going to score some points on anyone they play. We need to try to force them to do things they don't want to do."

Noseguard Kerry Crawford said "from my experience I know Houston is an offensive powerhouse. But our destiny lies in our own hands. We have to be ready."

Arkansas coach Ken Hatfield said "nobody runs the run-and-shoot like Houston does."

Houston coach Jack Pardee is worried about a surprise passing blitz from the Hogs.

"They beat us (21-17) because of their passing game last time," Pardee said. "We've got to stop that from happening again."

The defending SWC champion Aggies, who can't claim the title or go to a bowl game because of NCAA probation, have defeated three consecutive conference opponents, Texas Tech, Houston, and Baylor.

Baylor is 0-3 in league play and the Bears hope to get revenge for a 24-0 loss to the Horned Frogs in 1987.

"Those kind of defeats are not easy to forget," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "The bad thing is that TCU basically has the same team this year. And to make things worse, TCU has played like gang busters in Fort Worth."

Rice coach Jerry Berndt said the A&M game marks three straight tough weeks for the Owls.

Sweetwater nips Cats 42-40 in wild contest

Snyder and Sweetwater set off fireworks here Thursday night, battling to a 42-40 outcome celebrated by the Mustangs.

"It was a great game, good for the spectators. Our kids competed very well against them," said Coach Milton Ham. "The kids gave a good effort and that's what is important."

Paul Anderson scored on runs of 65 and 48 yards and on a 65-yard screen pass from quarterback Edward Rios.

The TD toss was one of three thrown by Rios, who hit Terry Stephens on scoring passes of 65 and 60 yards. He also found Anderson on a two-point conversion.

Dewayne Cato added a 1-yard scoring burst and Brian Brunson kicked a pair of 1-point conversions.

Snyder led 26-20 at halftime but fell behind after two Sweetwater third-quarter touchdowns and never caught up.

"The kids played the No. 1 program in the state. That's what Sweetwater has," pointed out Ham. "Now they know they can play with them."

Snyder will lose 10 players to grades, bringing the number eligible to suit out down to about 18 for next Thursday's game in Abilene. The Cats are slated to play Cooper at 7 p.m.

Tiger freshmen fall to Mustang gridders

Sweetwater freshmen defeated Snyder in a couple of close ballgames here Thursday evening.

The Mustang B-team won 14-8 while the A-squad took a 12-8 victory.

"Both teams played well. They were hard-fought games," said Coach Larry Scott. "Sweetwater got a couple of big plays in both games and that hurt. We were having trouble getting the ball in the end zone."

Young 'Dogs blank Jayton

IRA - Ira junior varsity football team whipped Jayton 40-0 here Thursday evening.

Craig McMullen led the ground game with 210 yards rushing and three touchdowns.

Brian Martinez tossed for three more TDs, hitting Lary Gunset for scores totalling 115 yards.

Ken Smith also had a 40-yard TD scamper for the Bulldogs, who are now 2-1-1.

Daniel Espinosa scored the lone TD for Snyder's A-team while Michael Torres ran over a two-point conversion.

Sweetwater scored late in second quarter on 80-yard run and trailed 8-6 at halftime. The Mustangs tallied again with nine minutes left to play for the winning score.

In the B-team game, the Mustangs scored the winning TD on a 93-yard pass interception and return. Lucadio Luera scored Snyder's touchdown. Keadon Collins ran in the conversion.

Snyder A is 6-2 now for the season while the B-team is 1-1-1. Snyder B has a game set against Sweetwater again next Thursday, Sept. 27, tentatively set for 4:30 p.m. The A-team is idle next week.

Whale rescuers go to 'Plan B'

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — Rescuers frustrated by a delayed icebreaking barge opted for a new plan to free three trapped whales: using a helicopter to drop a 4½-ton concrete slab that could punch a trail through foot-thick ice today.

"A large, wide lead has opened four miles from the whales. That's the closest open water there's been yet," Ron Morris of the National Marine Fisheries Service said Thursday. "I just want to take advantage of the situation."

Weather forecasts indicated that favorable winds would shift over the weekend, probably shutting the pathways through the ice, Morris said.

Officials said they planned to have a giant Alaska Army National Guard Skycrane helicopter lift the concrete "crusher" — left over from the construction of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline — at first light today. The trip was expected to take about two hours.

The Guard has not abandoned its effort to tow the 185-ton "hover-barge" 230 miles to Barrow. But the two Guard Skycranes that towed the barge Thursday have managed to move it just six miles from the dock at Prudhoe Bay in two days.

The tow was to have begun Monday, but was stymied by sub-zero temperatures, darkness, mud, fueling and too much weight. And after those problems were solved, the helicopters found the going tough in the shallow, muddy bay just outside the oil field.

By nightfall Thursday, a desolate stretch of more than 224 miles remained between the barge and the whales.

The California gray whales, whose species is endangered, were trapped during their annual migration about 100 yards off the treeless Arctic Ocean coast more than two weeks ago by the constantly shifting ice pack. They have been breathing through small air holes about 18 miles northeast of this Inupiat Eskimo village.

Volunteers have been using ice picks, chain saws and de-icers donated by a Minnesota family business to enlarge the two original holes and punch new ones in the ice.

A new breathing hole was cut Thursday and a tarp was placed over the largest of the original holes, said biologist Geoff Carroll of the North Slope Borough.

"The whales came up in a hole they've never used before. That's the first significant progress we've made in moving them, so I think we'll go full bore on it," Carroll said as he headed for another all-night vigil on the ice.

The rescuers have recordings of killer whale calls and gray whale mating calls to scare or lure the trapped whales toward the open sea.

The animals don't seem to be as lethargic as they were earlier this week, Morris said. "They look nice," he said. "I have hope that the whales will be around when we try to break through."

Even though the whales have been trapped for more than two weeks, Morris still believes they have a 50-50 chance of making it to their winter feeding grounds in the warm waters off Southern California and Mexico.

Biologists named the whales Bonnet, Crossbeak and Bone — the latter having much of its snout scraped away by the ice. Eskimos have given them their own names: Siku (Ice), Putu (Icehole) and Kanik (Snowflake).

Victim dies; officer fired

HOUSTON (AP) — A communications officer for the Harris County Sheriff's Department has been fired after failing to dispatch an ambulance for a heart attack victim who died before the ambulance arrived about an hour after the original call.

Maj. John Matthews, commander of the department's Technical Services Bureau, said Thursday the unidentified woman took the call from the victim's wife, Elizabeth Abilo, at 12:17 a.m. Sept. 27 but failed to dispatch an ambulance to the Abilo home in suburban Alief.

Matthews said Mrs. Abilo called the 911 emergency number and the call was routed directly to the Sheriff's Department.

The county's 911 screens were down at the time of the call, meaning that the caller's location was not immediately available to the officer, he said. The officer did talk to Mrs. Abilo long enough to record her address and phone number and to realize she needed assistance immediately, Matthews said.

A transcribed tape of the call indicated that the victim's wife said, "Card arrest, arrest," Matthews said. "She clearly requested an ambulance."

The woman hung up the phone to attend to her husband after giving her address and phone number to the officer, he said.

Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 13th day of October, 1988. The file number of said suit being No. 16,648. Joan resumes westward drift; death toll stands at 26 persons MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Hurricane Joan resumed its deadly trek toward Central America with 110 mph winds today after heavy rains pounded Venezuela and pushed the storm's death toll to at least 26.

The rains unleashed mudslides Wednesday and Thursday that swallowed wooden huts and left at least 11 people dead in the poorest neighborhoods of Caracas, Venezuela.

The storm killed 15 people in Colombia, injured 50, and left tens of thousands homeless when it swept the Guajira peninsula on Monday.

More than 37,000 people fled coastal areas of Nicaragua and Costa Rica, where a hurricane watch was in force. Hurricane warnings were in effect for the Colombian islands of San Andres and neighboring Albuquerque and Providencia.

"It's better to leave before we get killed," said Teresa Wilson, who toted a plastic bag stuffed with clothes and fled the Nicaraguan coastal village of Bluff with her seven children.

The Nicaraguan government appealed to the international community to be prepared to lend assistance.

ed its drift westward and was expected to continue slowly in that direction today. Maximum sustained winds were 110 mph, the center said.

Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla., said forecasters still expected the hurricane to hit Nicaragua or Costa Rica today or Saturday.

Nicaraguan officials worried about the readiness of government agencies, relief organizations and coastal residents, some of whom live in wooden homes on stilts.

"We make a formal call upon the international community to respond in rapid fashion with its cooperation," Budget Minister Enrique Sotelo said.

Sotelo said if Joan continued straight for Nicaragua, "the economic consequences would be enormously severe and would force greater sacrifices upon the people."

About 7,000 people fled Nicaragua's remote Miskito Coast and two small islands by boat, and schools were closed nationwide.

Hundreds of people arrived by boat Thursday afternoon in Rama, 180 miles east of the capital, and were taken by military and civilian trucks to a school in the provincial capital of Juigalpa, 85 miles east of Managua.

"We decided to bring our children and to leave our husbands to guard our homes," said Johnny Hunter, a 29-year-old Bluefields woman.

President Daniel Ortega enacted an emergency law banning communications media from reporting unauthorized news about Joan.

The opposition daily La Prensa called the decree "absurd and illegal" and said the law made it "legally impossible to report on the hurricane."

In Costa Rica, the National Emergency Council said at least 30,000 people were evacuated from Puerto Limon, a town of 20,000 about 100 miles southeast of the capital of San Jose, and 14 other towns along the northeast coast.

About 350 people decided to stay in Puerto Limon and ride out the storm, said an official with the National Assistance Committee who spoke on condition of anonymity. Police patrolled near-empty streets to prevent looting.

"I will stay here, because I have faith in God," said Clifford Pyles, 54, a sailor and lifetime resident of Puerto Limon.

Education Minister Francisco Pacheco said schools and universities throughout the country would close today until the storm was over.

Costa Rican officials feared Joan could destroy many of the 20,000 banana plantations along the coast.

Officials said Costa Rica has never been hit by a hurricane in recorded history, and the last one that hit Nicaragua was in 1911.

At 9 a.m. EDT today, Joan's center was about 65 miles south-southeast of San Andres and about 170 miles east of Bluefields, Nicaragua, near latitude 11.6 north and longitude 81.2 west.

As election nears, Bush and Dukakis continue campaigns

by The Associated Press

With 18 days till the election, Democrat Michael Dukakis said today he is counting on more TV exposure, including two talk-show interviews this morning, to give voters "a better sense of who I am."

Rival George Bush was spending his campaign day in Ohio after picking up new police backing in New York.

Dukakis, who has been campaigning for more than a year and a half, said today that voters are only now "beginning to focus in" and make their decisions. He said he was "cautiously optimistic" about his chances though "we're behind a little bit." Polls have shown him trailing Bush.

He has been striking back harder at Bush's allegations in recent days, and he complained anew today on "CBS This Morning" that "I've been subject to attacks and distortion."

"The American people are not happy with this campaign," he added on ABC's "Good Morning America."

"I hope through interviews like this, people will have a better sense of who I am," he said on CBS.

Peace broke out briefly Thursday night between the two presidential candidates, who appeared jointly at the Alfred E. Smith charity dinner in New York, a state where Republicans say Dukakis' once-strong support is shaky.

But behind the scenes, Dukakis was apologizing directly to the vice president for remarks made by a campaign worker about Bush. The official, national field director Donna Brazile, resigned Thursday after telling reporters that Bush should "fess up" about rumors involving his personal life.

Dukakis said today that the aide had made "a very serious mistake in judgment."

Elsewhere today, President Reagan returned to the campaign trail on behalf of his vice president, saying in remarks prepared for delivery in Bowling Green, Ky., that Bush has shown how to "keep a cool head in hot crises."

Dukakis was staying in New York this morning to tape a pair of TV talk-show interviews, and spending most of the day in that state before going on to Louisiana and Texas. The two Southern states are considered the Democrat's best prospects in the region.

Running mate Lloyd Bentsen was back in his native Texas, trying to secure that state's 29 electoral votes, and mixing production appearances with remarks attacking what he called GOP distortions of what he and Dukakis stand for.

Bush, campaigning Thursday in a state once considered a stronghold for Dukakis, traveled to the New York City borough of Queens to receive police endorsements and to campaign in a Democratic neighborhood.

Along with the badge of a slain officer came the endorsement of about 30 police organizations, including the 40,000-member Police Benevolent Association of New York City.

"It's time for America to take back the streets," Bush said.

At another appearance, Bush criticized Dukakis for opposing the MX and Midgetman missiles while also saying he wants to modernize the land-based U.S. strategic forces.

Dukakis, campaigning in New Haven, Conn., said "truth was the first casualty in the Nixon White House and it was the first casualty in the Bush campaign."

"Above all, the truth should matter a lot in a presidential campaign because as we learned in Watergate, it matters a lot in the Oval Office," he said.

Dukakis also made a point of drawing a distinction with Bush on abortion, saying Bush "wants the government to make one of the most personal choices a woman can make."

But as Dukakis and Bentsen argued that their messages were not getting out, Republican Dan Quayle said Dukakis was only getting what he was dishing out.

"Now we have the man from Massachusetts claiming his stand on crime is being distorted," Quayle said while campaigning in Ohio. "This is coming from a man who blamed George Bush for last year's drop in the stock market."

Quayle, who spent most of the week in his native Midwest, headed south, with appearances in East Tennessee and Georgia. Ronald Reagan, who also campaigned this week for Bush and Senate candidate George Voinovich in Ohio, planned to give a pep-talk to 4,500 campaign workers in North Carolina and help raise money for Republicans there.

THE LINEUP IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Going into the '88 elections

GOING INTO the 1988 elections, the Democrats control the House of Representatives by a 255-177 margin. With the vast majority of incumbents heavily favored to win re-election, the Democrats should keep their edge.

Election '88

House incumbents expect to triumph

by Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Democrats currently have a 255-177 majority (three seats are vacant) in the House of Representatives. If past history is any indication, the November election will have little impact on the margin of Democratic control.

Over the past decade, the percentage of House incumbents winning re-election has continued to climb. In 1986, a record 98 percent of incumbents from both parties who decided to seek another term won it.

This fall 408 House incumbents are running for re-election, the highest number since 1968. Only 27 seats — 14 Republican and 13 Democratic — are vacant. Thus, the House in the 101st Congress will likely be little different from the House in the current 100th Congress.

Democratic and Republican operatives say little publicly, but privately insiders on both sides of the aisle believe that the best the GOP can hope for — and this would be only if George Bush won a landslide victory — would be the net gain of a few seats, certainly fewer than five.

Without that smashing Bush win, it's more likely that the Democrats will add a few seats, perhaps three to six, and at most, 10.

Only about 60 of the 435 House races this year are even considered contests. In the others, the incumbent — or the entrenched party in the case of an open seat — is running unopposed, or facing such token opposition that the outcome is a foregone conclusion.

Depending on whose figures you accept, there are about 15 House contests now considered too close to call. They are about evenly divided between seats now held by Democrats and Republicans. In the remaining 45 "contests" upsets could occur. But those upsets will probably be few and far between. And the number of potential upsets is also almost evenly divided between Democratic- and Republican-controlled seats.

This is a year almost devoid of really interesting House contests. Perhaps the most interesting are:

- Georgia's 4th District — Two term GOP Rep. Pat Swindall was caught last February on tape trying to negotiate a $850,000 home mortgage at very favorable rates and proceeding even though allegedly told the loan was coming from laundered drug profits. Swindall, though, denies that he knew the money was laundered. He is currently trailing his opponent, Democrat Ben Jones, who played "Cooter" in the television series "Dukes of Hazzard." Swindall has charged that Jones used to beat his wife, lies about a criminal record, is a not-completely recovered alcoholic and favors drug legalization. This is 1988's most vicious campaign.
- Indiana's 3rd District — This features a rematch of 1986's closest contest: Republican John Hiler defeated Democrat Tom Ward by 47 votes. Hiler was first swept into office with Ronald Reagan in 1980. Both the off year elections since, 1982 and 1986, have been cliffhangers for him. His backers think George Bush will help him this year.
- Mississippi's 2nd District — In 1986, Democratic Rep. Michael Espy became the first black to represent a Mississippi district in this century. In one of the poorest congressional districts in the nation, a district that is 58 percent black, Espy won a narrow victory because he was the first black candidate ever to attract significant number of white votes, about 10 percent. He is trying to win re-election against Republican Jack Coleman, a former business lobbyist who is arguing that Espy is too liberal for the district. The contest is close and marked with racial tension.

- Wisconsin's 5th District — When Democratic Rep. Jim Moody, who had been easily re-elected since 1982, announced he was resigning to run for the Senate, numerous candidates lined up to succeed him. When he changed his mind, the district was thrown into turmoil. Moody finally emerged as the Democratic primary winner in a bitter contest. Now he faces Helen Barnhill, a single mother, feminist and successful business consultant. She is attempting to become the first black Republican to serve in the House since Reconstruction. Moody is favored, but if his flip-flop in the primary has angered enough Democrats, and if Barnhill can siphon off enough normally Democratic black votes, this could be an upset.
- Indiana's 5th District, South Carolina's 4th District and Texas' 4th District — All three districts vote solidly Republican in presidential contests, but are represented in Congress by Democrats: freshman Jim Jontz in Indiana's 5th, freshman Elizabeth Patterson in South Carolina's 4th and four-term Rep. Ralph Hall in Texas' 4th.

The districts are being targeted by the GOP which thinks it has found potential winning candidates in Patricia Williams in Indiana, Knox White in South Carolina and Randy Sutton in Texas.

All three Democratic incumbents are favored. But these contests will be a test of whether the GOP can really expect to make inroads in dislodging Democratic incumbents.

Dear Abby

Toddler Must Learn That Three's a Crowd in Bed

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Shortly after Julie was born, I started taking her into my bed to breast-feed her. I had fully intended to put her back in her own crib when she was finished, but after a week or two, I found myself falling asleep with her, and when she would wake up, I would be right there. It was convenient, and I admit I enjoyed the security of having her next to me, as my husband was working the graveyard shift.

However, when my husband started working days, Julie was not used to sleeping alone, so she cried until I took her into our bed. When she was 10 months old, I weaned her to a bottle.

Abby, she's 2 1/2 years old now, and she's still sleeping with us! It is ruining our marriage, but I just don't know what to do. I can't force her to sleep in her own room because she's afraid to sleep alone. I've tried everything. I guess I'm just a marshmallow. Please help.

GINA IN LAYTON, UTAH

DEAR GINA: Place a night-light in Julie's bedroom and explain lovingly but firmly that she must sleep in her room — and not in yours. For "company," let her take her favorite cuddly doll or toy animal to cradle in her arms.

You can expect her to cry and fuss at first, but don't back down. When she realizes that she may no longer sleep with you, she will accept it.

DEAR ABBY: Everyone is talking about the possibility of a serious water shortage in this country. I have a suggestion that could help.

If most people are like me, they let the water run while they brush their teeth. Today, I closed the drain to see how much water I was wasting. The sink filled twice before I finished brushing (about two gallons).

Perhaps most people would waste only one gallon per brushing. However, if 200 million people brush their teeth twice a day, wasting only one gallon of water each time, that's 400 million gallons of water going "down the drain" daily. Multiply that by 365 days a year, and we have lost 146 billion gallons yearly!

Abby, if people would shut off the water while brushing their teeth, think of all the water we could save.

J. TYREE,

HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR J. TYREE: You gave us something to think about. It's said, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry." Why wait until then? Readers, it's worth a shot, right?

DEAR ABBY: I don't know whether you can use this in your column or not, but I hope you can because it could help a lot of people who are as ignorant as we were.

I had never read the instructions that came with condoms because I figured that was my husband's department, so consequently, I was not aware that one should never use an oil-based lubricant. Well, we found out the hard way that using Vaseline, baby oil or cold cream with a condom can cause it to break!

We have been married for 12 years and this will be our third child, so it's no big deal, but please, publicize this very important information so other people will not have the kind of accident we had.

I'm signing my real name, but if you print this, sign me ...

PREGNANT IN ALABAMA

DEAR PREGNANT: Thank you for wanting to warn others. Readers, for the best protection, ask your pharmacist for a lubricant containing nonoxonyl-9. This kills both sperm and the AIDS virus, according to Dr. Merv Silverman, the president of the American Foundation for AIDS Research.

Abby's favorite family recipes are included in her new cookbook! Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Lamar Hunt settles silver case for 17 million dollars

NEW YORK (AP) — Peru's state-owned mineral company views a $17 million check from Texas businessman Lamar Hunt as a "first installment" from the three Hunt brothers, who a jury held plotted to corner the world silver market, an attorney for the company says.

Minpeco S.A., the Peruvian minerals concern, has been unable to collect a $132.45 million jury award from Nelson Bunker Hunt, 62, and William Herbert Hunt, 59, because they filed for personal bankruptcy in Dallas late last month.

The brothers, all from Dallas and sons of the late oil billionaire H.L. Hunt, were sued by Minpeco in federal court in Manhattan.

Minpeco's lawyers said they would file papers at bankruptcy court in Dallas today to unfreeze the Hunts' assets so Minpeco can pursue collection efforts against them.

"We believe that our client's claims cannot be discharged by the bankruptcy action," said another Minpeco lawyer, Thomas O. Gorman.

Lamar Hunt, 56, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League, paid the $17 million to settle his part of the jury finding that the brothers tried to corner the world silver market. The settlement was approved by U.S. District Judge Morris E. Lasker, who presided over the nearly seven-month civil trial.

His attorney, Paul Curran, told Lasker that Lamar Hunt was settling the matter because he "wanted to put an end to the very heavy legal and emotional costs of this litigation."

Hunt's Kansas City, Mo., office issued a statement that said the $17 million is "a small fraction of the liabilities possible under the judgment, interest and ongoing costs inherent in continuing the legal action."

Failed bank is to reopen

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas bank which state regulators closed following an examination of its assets reopens today as a branch of another institution in the city, officials say.

The Texas banking commissioner on Thursday ordered Security Bank, Dallas, closed. As receiver, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. approved assumption of Security Bank's assets by Deposit Guaranty Bank, Dallas, which took it over as a branch.

The FDIC says the failed bank's sole office today becomes a branch of Deposit Guaranty. It was the 99th Texas bank failure so far this year, Mark Largent, banking commission spokesman in Austin, said.

Security Bank had total assets of $20.6 million, said the FDIC in Washington. Deposit Guaranty will assume $18.6 million in 1,100 accounts and will pay the FDIC a premium of $51,000, officials said.

Regulators said Deposit Guaranty got an option to purchase loans and other assets of the failed bank. The FDIC said it will advance $19.6 million to the assuming bank and retain assets of the failed bank with a book value of $19.8 million.

Group launches recall

DALLAS (AP) — Mayor Annette Strauss is the target of recall petitions being circulated by a group upset over the city's contract with managers of the Starplex Amphitheater in Fair Park.

The Committee for Better Government filed papers for the recall election, officials said Wednesday.

Tax protestor Frank Bodzin, committee leader, said he realizes it is impossible to force such an election before May 6, when Mrs. Strauss and other City Council members are up for election.

Bodzin, along with other committee members, are upset by the contract the city negotiated with PACE Entertainment for operation of the $10 million amphitheater.

"The PACE contract, like many others that have financially raped the Dallas taxpayer, are the result of poor and incompetent management or outright fraud," Bodzin told a press conference.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a friend, male, 35. He says he feels tired and without energy unless he takes an aspirin. Recently, he cut his hand badly but only about two drops came out. The blood was so thick. Could thick blood be causing his fatigue?

DEAR READER: The "thickness" or consistency of the blood is not necessarily related to the speed of clotting. In some diseases characterized by viscous blood, such as polycythemia vera (an excess of red blood cells), blood does clot more rapidly; this is probably due to the over-production of platelets, the body's blood-clotting cells, that often accompanies the condition.

Aspirin (and other drugs that inhibit coagulation) do not affect blood consistency. Rather, these compounds slow clotting by reducing platelets' adhesiveness or interfering with the proteins that are necessary for coagulation to take place.

Therefore, I doubt that your friend's single aspirin tablet is truly relieving his symptoms. I believe that he will have to look elsewhere for an explanation. Blood ailments marked by excess viscosity — such as polycythemia and diseases associated with excess white blood cells — can cause fatigue and loss of stamina.

I suggest that your friend undergo a medical examination to determine the condition of his blood. If his blood constituents are normal, the doctor will want to look for other causes of energy loss.

On the other hand, if your friend's blood is abnormal, he will require further diagnosis and treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I fell in the hospital 1 1/2 years ago and tore the ligaments in my right knee and foot, and sprained my ankle. I used hot pads, soaks and an Ace bandage for treatment. Sometimes I still need crutches because of the pain. An orthopedist said to have the nerve deadened. My doctor disagrees and says I have arthritis and gout. I'm confused and sick of this pain.

DEAR READER: First of all, you need to separate out the various possible causes of your pain.

If you have arthritis and/or gout, the accident you had is probably inconsequential; you need treatment for the underlying problem. Arthritis, depending on type, usually responds to one of the many anti-arthritis preparations that are available with and without prescription. Gout, too, can be controlled by medicine, notably allopurinol.

In the event that your symptoms are the result of the fall — as I suspect they are — the situation may be more complicated. Once ligaments and tendons have been injured, they almost never heal completely; the affected joint remains intermittently uncomfortable for months or years. You may have to rely on knee and ankle braces — or support the joints by taping them — to provide added stability.

Also, physical therapy might be useful to mobilize the joints and give them added strength.

Since your doctors seem unable to agree on a course of action, I suggest that you request referral to another orthopedic surgeon for a third opinion.
