

Virus affects networks

by The Associated Press
Researchers today tried to trace a "virus" that infected computer systems nationwide, slowing machines in universities, a NASA and nuclear weapons lab and other federal research centers linked by a Defense Department computer network.
By Thursday night, the virus had infected hundreds of computers on what one expert said was the largest scale ever, but authorities said it apparently destroyed no data even though it temporarily halted some research.

Viruses are tiny programs introduced to computers either as a prank or vandalism. They can attach themselves to other programs.

Dukakis says he is gaining on George Bush

by The Associated Press
George Bush accused rival Michael Dukakis today of "borrowing like mad" to deal with a fiscal mess in Massachusetts, while Dukakis declared he is coming back in the presidential race as voters realize he "will stand up for them."
With the election just four days away, polls continued to show Bush with a lead, but Dukakis and his aides said the race was getting closer.
"The test of a good president isn't who comes up with the best commercial," Dukakis said on NBC's "Today" program. "In the last two or three weeks people are getting a much better sense of who Mike Dukakis is, who wants to be president of the United States, and I think that's one of the reasons frankly why we're doing better and closing this gap."

"I think they see in Mike Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen a very strong team that will stand up for them and I think that's the fundamental issue," he said.
President Reagan, in remarks prepared for delivery today in Palos Hills, Ill., where he was speaking at a Bush rally, said, "The last eight years have been good years, but I've got a hunch that, when George Bush gets in the saddle ... we ain't seen nothing yet."
Bush, meanwhile, traveled to Fairfield, Conn., to take a poke at fiscal problems in Dukakis' neighboring Massachusetts.

Ask Us

Q. — Would you please explain the electoral-voting process?
A. — Voters don't directly elect the president since how a state votes determines how its "electors" vote as part of the Electoral College system. In this election, there are 538 electoral votes spread among the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Texas has 29 electoral votes. To win, at least 270 electoral votes are needed. Electors will meet Dec. 17 and their votes will be counted Jan. 6 by a joint session of Congress.

In Brief

Jobless up

AUSTIN (AP) — Statewide unemployment in Texas rose less than one-half of 1 percent from September to October, according to figures released by the Texas Employment Commission.

Texas unemployment was up four-tenths of a percent to 7.4 percent in October, up from 7 percent in September, marking the third straight monthly increase.

Bryan Richey, regional commissioner for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in Dallas, said the edging up of unemployment in Texas is tied to a national economic slowdown.

"The economic activity nationwide has slowed a bit," he said. "A lot of it has to do with housing, the slowdown in housing and related industries there. And I think that this development, at least in part, is being reflected here in Texas."

Delta trial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Operations flaws by the crew of Delta Flight 191 contributed to the crash of the airliner at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport in 1985, an expert on cockpit dynamics says.

Lee Bolman, who specializes in cockpit resource management, testified in federal court Thursday that there were periods when Capt. Edward M. Connors exhibited "no sign of active management."

Bolman also testified that the the crew at times demonstrated ambiguity about location and air traffic control information.

Reject plan

MIAMI (AP) — City commissioners have rejected a proposal allowing police to arrest homeless people, jail them for 10 days and fine them up to $100.

"We're catching hell for it," Commissioner J.L. Plummer said of the proposal, which was unanimously rejected Thursday but will be reconsidered Dec. 15. "We have existing laws that can be enforced."

The ordinance, aimed at curbing the annual influx of homeless from Northern cities, would have banned sleeping on sidewalks and cooking and urinating in streets and parks.

Students again for Bush

Junior high vote counted Thursday

As their high school counterparts had done earlier, a large majority of Snyder Junior High School students indicated Thursday a preference for Republican presidential candidate George Bush.

Casting ballots in a mock election poll, 67 percent of 442 students voting favored Bush over Democratic opponent Michael Dukakis.

The actual count was 298 for Bush and 143 for Dukakis.

The students also voted in the U.S. Senatorial race between Lloyd Bentsen and Beau Boulter, a much closer race in the student's opinions.

Bentsen, the Democrat, received 54 percent of the vote. He polled 242 votes to Boulter's 200.

The junior high students were participating in the 1988 National Student-Parent Mock Election, a nationwide poll. In addition to the political races, the students were asked to express their opinions on key issues of U.S. policy and how they feel about the future of the U.S., questions answered by high school students also during a Tuesday mock ballot.

Regarding policy issues, the students were asked if they favored tougher penalties for drug possession; if taxes should be increased to reduce the federal budget deficit; if new government programs should be implemented to help the homeless; if treaties between the U.S. and Russia are needed to drastically reduce nuclear missiles; and if the U.S. should continue to support the Contra rebel faction opposing the government in Nicaragua.

At Snyder High School, 83 percent of some 175 students responding said they favored tougher drug penalties; 64 percent said taxes should be increased to offset the deficit; 85 percent favored

Company G event at WTC Saturday

The 15th annual reunion for "Company G" is now underway with the formal business meeting of the group scheduled Saturday morning on the campus of Western Texas College.

Company G was a National Guard unit mobilized out of Snyder on Nov. 25, 1940. It became part of the U.S. Army's 142nd Regiment, 36th Division which saw action in six European campaigns of World War II.

Of some 110 men from Scurry County originally called, an estimated 25 veterans of the unit still reside here.

As a special feature of this year's reunion, slides of a 36th Division dedication service held in Italy will be shown. These were taken by former county resident R.C. Rainwater and his daughter, Patsy Maddux, who has also written an account of her father's war experiences (see related story).

Registration for the reunion activities Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. outside the WTC Science Lecture Hall. A formal dinner at the college will end the event Saturday evening.

The 36th Division was among the first American troops to invade Europe. They fought in Italy, Southern France, Central Europe and ultimately Germany.

Division members were awarded 15 Congressional Medals of Honor, 2,354 Silver Stars, 80 Distinguished Service Crosses, 5,407 Bronze Stars, 88 Air Medals and 12 Unit Citations.

Veteran recounts Co. G at invasion

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Patsy Rainwater Maddux, who recently accompanied her father, R.C. Rainwater, a former Scurry County resident, as he and 18 other veterans of the 36th Division returned to the sites of their World War II battles to free Europe. Rainwater was among 110 men from Scurry County fighting with Company G, which is holding its 15th annual reunion here this weekend.)

Instead of preparing for a Thanksgiving feast in November of 1943, soldiers of the 36th Division made other plans, involving strategies to take the Camino hill mass area of Italy.

The troops had landed on the beach at Salerno on Sept. 9, 1943—making history as the first American troops to land on the European continent during World War II.

R.C. (Toss) Rainwater, who volunteered for the Texas Army at his hometown of Snyder, described the approach to Cassino, a strategic location to the march to Rome. The Allied forces began Operation Raincoat at Mount Maggiore which was occupied by the Germans.

In order for the 142nd Infantry to seize the top of this mountain, the Allies preceded the attack Nov. 15 by massive artillery barrages from 900 guns, according to "The Texas Army." This prelude led to the mountain being renamed

Turkeywalk start scheduled at park

The annual Turkeywalk to benefit the American Heart Association will begin at the Towle Park Pavilion Saturday with registration to get underway at 8:30 a.m. The five-mile walk will start at 9 a.m.

Volunteers have secured donors to sponsor them for each mile walked.

Each participant who brings in more than $150 in pledges will receive a free turkey, donated by Everybody's Thriftway, Lawrence IGA and Furr's.

All walkers turning in at least $30 will receive a Turkeywalk T-Shirt.

Prizes will be offered for the top three fund raisers here. First place will receive a $50 savings bond donated by West Texas State Bank, second place, a stadium blanket donated by the C.R. Anthony Co., and third place, a $15 gift certificate donated by Keaton Kolor.

Walkers must turn in their pledge money before Nov. 14 at the Senior Citizens Center.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: Gene Dow, in the Colorado City Record, noted that the 1989 edition of the Farmer's Almanac has been published. Its main theme is the contention that the penny is now obsolete.

The almanac wants to do away with the worthless penny which it claims is "good only for making change and collecting sales taxes."

In its place, the Almanac suggests a new coin—a bit to be worth 12½ cents. This may seem strange to some, but the "bit" has been around a long time, even before computers and horses, and as long as Ben Franklin's famous expression, "A penny saved is a penny earned."

Texans use the word bit on a daily basis. A two-bit newspaper sells for 25 cents and some places you can still get a two-bit cup of coffee.

Some younger folks respond with a blank expression when told something costs two-bits, four-bits or six-bits. Most of the younger generation think you're trying to remember a popular foot ball yell.

In computer talk, a bit is a symbol for "1 or 0" which means "on or off." Eight bits make a byte and a byte makes a number, letter or symbol.

Popeye's reports bid for takeover

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The owner of Popeyes Famous Fried Chicken and Biscuits is attempting to persuade Church's Fried Chicken Inc. to accept its $300 million takeover offer on friendly terms.

A Copeland Enterprises Inc. denied in a letter Thursday any intent to wage a hostile takeover and requested a meeting with Church's board of directors.

"First, despite the aggressive intentions that you perceive to underlie our tender offer, let us assure you that our strong preference is to negotiate a mutually acceptable agreement with you," Alvin C. Copeland, chairman and chief executive officer, said in the letter.

"Our decision to commence the tender offer turned in large part on our eagerness to proceed quickly to negotiations concerning the future of our two companies," Copeland said. "Accordingly, we would like to meet with you as soon as possible and begin to explore the combination of Popeyes and Church's."

Church's officials were unavailable for comment, the San Antonio Light reported today. But Church's spokesman Troy Brand said the company would not respond to Popeyes' initial cash tender offer of $8 a share until Monday.

The takeover offer was made by Copeland Oct. 25 and gave Church's, the second-largest fast-food chicken restaurant chain in the country, until Nov. 22 to respond.

That same day, Copeland also filed lawsuits in four states challenging the states' anti-takeover statutes to facilitate purchase of Church's nearly 36 million outstanding shares.

Study: heavy drinkers have almost double risk of injury

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors are letting alcoholics use hospitals as "revolving doors" by ignoring their drinking problems, even though experience shows that alcoholism can be effectively treated, researchers reported today.

At a Connecticut hospital's emergency room, not a single patient was referred for alcohol evaluation or assistance out of 47 who were found to have at least double the legal blood-alcohol limit, the researchers said.

The subjects were among 346 motor-vehicle accident victims whose cases were reviewed at the unidentified hospital's trauma center, said the researchers, led by Dr. Grace Chang of Yale University School of Medicine in New Haven.

Only about one-fourth of the 346 patients were even tested for alcohol, with 53 of them testing positive, the researchers reported in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Forty-seven had levels of at least 200 milligrams of alcohol per deciliter of blood — double the legal limit for drivers in Connecticut, the researchers said. Levels went as high as 550 milligrams per deciliter, they said.

Blood-alcohol levels of 200 milligrams per deciliter "are unusual in the course of ordinary social drinking" and are considered an indication that a drinker has "an alcohol problem, however infrequent his inebriation," the researchers said.

While unable to generalize about all physicians, the researchers said this study and others indicate that recognition of alcohol problems in hospital emergency departments "is limited, as is referral for treatment."

"Despite evidence that alcoholism treatment success rates can be as good as or better than those for many medical problems, alcoholics are permitted to use medical centers as revolving doors, with the witting and unwitting complicity of the institutions," the researchers said.

Studies show that when doctors advise patients that their alcohol consumption is dangerous, "there is a high probability that the patient will cut back on use of the drug," said an accompanying editorial in the Journal.

and occasional world champion. Sitting West, he heard the opponents arrive in four hearts after North had made a negative double of West's one-diamond overcall. Let me tell you something about the methods of Stansby and his partner Chip Martel in such a bidding situation. Martel had two ways of showing a diamond raise after a negative double. A simple raise showed support without a high diamond honor. Had East held the ace, king or queen of diamonds with support, he would redouble, which for them has that special meaning. However, none of this has significance for the actual deal, since it is certainly obvious that Stansby needed only to look at his own cards to know that Martel could not hold a high honor in diamonds.

Still, the seven of clubs was led. East won the ace and returned the three of clubs. West ruffed and made the same play that I suppose you or I would have made, but it still requires a bit of teeth-gritting. He underled the A-K-Q-J-10 of diamonds. Sure enough, his partner had the nine and came back with another club to beat the contract one trick.

Oyster plan said approved

AUSTIN (AP) — An advisory committee including oyster industry representatives will help develop regulations to implement a state oyster management plan. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission voted Thursday for the plan, which officials called a step in the direction of making the oyster industry more profitable and protecting the oyster from depletion.

The advisory committee, which was added to the plan by commissioners Thursday, should be activated "as soon as possible," said commission member Delo Caspary of Rockport. "I think it's extremely important," Caspary said. "I think everybody's in agreement that something needs to be done, it's just exactly what should be done to get your maximum production."

Thomas Hulst of Kemah, president of the Texas Oyster Association, said his group had objected to the plan because members did not feel there was enough chance for industry input and review.

If the advisory committee works the way it is meant to, Hulst said, it would resolve such objections and lead to improved relations between the industry and Parks and Wildlife Department, and eventually to an improved oyster fishery system.

There has been "distrust" for years between the industry and state officials, Hulst said. "What we have been pushing for was to eliminate that distrust and work together for the betterment of the industry and the Parks and Wildlife Department."

Industry spokesmen and department officials have disagreed, for example, on whether the oyster population can be harmed through over-fishing.

Jerry Clark, department chief of coastal fisheries said, "I think historically, the problem was that the only authority that this agency had was to open and close the season on the basis of depletion. Therefore, the only contact this agency ever had with the industry in general was when we were trying to close the season."

Officers allege discrimination

DALLAS (AP) — A suit has been filed in federal court by five black police officers who allege discrimination in hiring, disciplinary and promotional practices in the Dallas Police Department.

The suit, filed Thursday against the city and key city officials, seeks $55 million in damages and comes less than two months after another discrimination suit was filed against the city by the 207-member Black Firefighters Association.

Both suits allege that longstanding discrimination by white supervisors prevents many black officers from advancing.

The city denied the firefighters' charges, and city attorneys declined to comment Thursday on the police officers' suit, saying they had not seen it. A city councilwoman, however, said the police officers' concerns are valid.

The suit by the police officers, which seeks class action status to include all of the estimated 300 black officers on the 3,100-member force, charges that supervisors are quicker to discipline black officers, placing documents in personnel files that later hurt the officers' chances of promotion.

The suit also cites constitutional violations of equal protection, due process, free association and free speech. C. Victor Lander, a lawyer representing the four black policemen and one black policewoman, said, "The DPD intentionally mistreats its black officers."

Defendants in the suit are the city, former chief Billy Prince, current chief Mack Vines, Mayor Annette Strauss and City Manager Richard Knight.

Discrimination also surfaces in the way white officers treat the black citizens of Dallas, Lander said.

"They feel that they are somewhat different or superior to the black citizens they police," the lawyer said of white officers in general.

Vines could not be reached for comment, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

City Councilwoman Diane Ragsdale agreed that black officers face discrimination.

analysis was required before existing regulations are changed.

"I think the plan itself creates an avenue of cooperation we've never had before," Clark said. "I'm looking forward to that in a big way."

Oyster fishermen last year won a state court injunction to re-open the oyster season after the commission took emergency action to close it.

State District Judge Peter Lowry of Austin ruled that the commission acted improperly in closing the season on an emergency basis, without a public comment period and without having developed the oyster management plan.

The advisory committee would have input if parks and wildlife staff in the future decided it was necessary to close the season, officials said. It also would have input in developing rules for closing a season.

With practical input from fishermen combined with scientific data, the commission wants to find a way to benefit commercial oystering "but at the same time protect the resource from overharvesting, from pollution" and other possible damage, said Richard Morrison of Clear Lake City, commission vice chairman.

Dear Abby

A Becoming Modesty Is Not a Sign of the Times

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Recently you told a 14-year-old girl whose mother wouldn't let her wear a strapless, wraparound dress because it was too revealing that the rules for how a 14-year-old girl should dress haven't changed.

Well, I am a 14-year-old girl, and I say they have changed. Today, girls are compelled to show off their bodies because of the same social rules that forced their grandmothers to cover up theirs.

I'm a figure skater — not on ice, on roller skates, so you won't be seeing me in the Olympics unless they accept dancing on wheels instead of blades as an athletic competition.

But whether it's done on wheels or blades, one thing is the same — the boys are always fully dressed, but the girls are semi-nude. The same thing is true in many other sports. Just take a look at how the gymnasts are dressed when they perform. And it isn't only in sports; my sister has an after-school job that requires her to wear a uniform with short-skirts during the summer, so the customers can look at her legs while ordering pizza.

It's everywhere, Abby. Just take a look around you.

SCANTILY CLAD IN TENNESSEE

DEAR SCANTILY CLAD: Call me old-fashioned, but my perception of acceptable (modest) attire hasn't changed, although fashions have. Witness today's baseball and football uniforms. Gone are the baggy trousers — replaced with skin-tight stretch-pants.

DEAR ABBY: I just sat through a Sunday morning sermon in which our minister used the phrase "man's seed" no less than a dozen times. It was all I could do to keep from walking out.

It's taken what seems like an eon to enlighten people about the miracle of reproduction, and what happens? An ignorant, callous patriarch stands in front of a church full of people and implies that the creation of life is a process in which man — make that "Man" — sows the seed, and woman provides the passive soil.

Well, I'm not going to take it anymore. All life in this world is born of Woman. It's a power we must reclaim as our own, or be responsible for the continued disrespect and subjugation dumped on our sisters and children. The ovum — make that "Ovum" — is the "seed"; and semen is, you'll pardon the expression, fertilizer.

UNSUNG MATRIARCH, CLEVELAND

DEAR MATRIARCH: Yours is another variation on the same old theme: Which is more important to the creation of life — the egg or the sperm? Obviously they are of equal importance since neither can reproduce without the other. And enough of the name-calling, please. Man is not "fertilizer"; neither is woman "dirt."

DEAR ABBY: What do divorced couples do with photos of their times together? I haven't seen my "ex" in more than 10 years. We were married for seven years. No children. He has since remarried and has children.

I thought maybe I would send him all these pictures anonymously. I can't just throw them out. Abby, if you were in my place, what would you do?

"SAY CHEESE" IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAY CHEESE: I'd pack them up and send them to him. If you don't feel inclined to enclose a note, you don't have to; he'll know where they came from. Those pictures are part of your ex's "history," which might mean something to his children one day. If he doesn't want them, let HIM throw them out.

The facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy are all in Abby's new, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

S&L system can't handle losses this big

HONOLULU (AP) — Congress never intended for the savings and loan industry to pay for the extraordinary losses now being generated by insolvent S&Ls, the industry's top federal regulator says.

M. Danny Wall, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, urged Congress to delve into the history of the deposit insurance system before deciding whether or not to spend taxpayer dollars to rescue the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., which guarantees S&L deposits up to $100,000.

Wall told the U.S. League of Savings Institutions on Thursday that Congress, in setting up the deposit insurance system, set the premiums charged to financial institutions high enough to cover only normal losses, not catastrophic losses.

An actuarial study at the time showed that, to cover all future losses, premiums would have had to have been set nearly four times higher than they were originally, Wall said.

Some of Wall's listeners concluded he was implying that Congress should help the industry pay the bill, but Wall said, "I'm not taking that step."

"I'm not saying what the solution is at this point, I'm just trying to set a historical basis," he said, promising to present the bank board's recommendations after the election.

Regulators estimate it will cost $45 billion to $50 billion to cover the industry's red ink.

The new chairman of the league, B.R. Beekma, said healthy S&Ls can't bear the cost of bailing out their insurance fund without falling into insolvency themselves.

Deregulation promoted by the Reagan administration and sought by the industry allowed many S&Ls in the early 1980s to raise interest rates offered to depositors and venture into new kinds of loan arrangements. But many underwrote highly speculative and ultimately disastrous loans, often in real estate, and as of midyear 1987 of the nation's 3,048 S&Ls were listed as insolvent. Another 408 were solvent but losing money.

Now, the industry that fought so hard for deregulation in the early 1980s says government should have regulated it more, and it is calling for a return to many of the controls of the past.

Beekma, as part of what he called the industry's "never-again agenda," said S&Ls will accept a clampdown on the kinds of lax regulation that contributed to the red ink.

"I can promise you that the U.S. League will be vigorous in its pursuit of tighter regulation and supervision," he said.

Beekma, chairman of InterWest Savings Bank in Oak Harbor, Wash., replaces Theo H. Pitt Jr., a North Carolina thrift executive who served as league chairman for the past year.

The trade group also appointed Frederick L. Webber as its new president, the top staff position. Webber is a former assistant secretary of the Treasury in the Ford administration and former White House aide under Richard Nixon. He most recently was president of the National Soft Drink Association.

He replaces William B. O'Connell, who has held the post since 1979.

Failing entrepreneur goes on hunger strike in city

NEW YORK (AP) — Struck down by bad luck and last year's stock market crash, a once-rising star among entrepreneurs is trying desperately to save his business with a 12-day-old hunger strike in an illegally parked van opposite the New York Stock Exchange.

"I've come to the seat of capitalism, the New York Stock Exchange, and what happens," Jan Stuart said Thursday.

Stuart said he has not eaten since he left his Cliffside Park, N.J., apartment on Oct. 24 to live in a van on Wall Street, just feet away from where George Washington was sworn in as the first president of the United States.

The 34-year-old owner of Jan Stuart Skin Care Co., who was once featured on the cover of Entrepreneur Magazine, was viewed skeptically at first as police ticketed the van for each of the first four days and passers-by told him he was crazy.

But as the days passed — and Stuart's weight dropped from 190 pounds to 175 — police left him alone and onlookers started writing encouraging notes on his van, which features posters that read: "Wake Up America" and "Help Me Save My Company."

Dozens of people have already signed a petition, attached to his van, that Stuart hopes to present to the stock exchange to show that there is concern for the small business owner in America.

"I have to do something drastic to keep my business going. I'm starving in need of funding," Stuart said.

"Small business people need help. We are the future of this country. Big business has put me down. In the small business world, anything can cause destruction," he added.

Young Tigers rally to nip Steers, 24-21

Snyder junior varsity overcame a two-touchdown deficit to defeat Big Spring here Thursday night, 24-21.

Big Spring struck quickly, scoring two touchdowns in the first several minutes of the game to lead 14-0.

Snyder rallied on a first-quarter touchdown play as Terry Stephens tossed to Dewayne Cato on a screen pass that went for 55 yards. Byron Brunson kicked the conversion.

The young Tigers came back in the second quarter as Brunson scored on a 4-yard scamper, then kicked the point-after for a 14-14 tie.

Forty-five seconds before halftime, the hosts scored again. Stephens passed to Justin Hester and he pitched to Cato for a 35-

Cats fall to Steers

BIG SPRING -- Brian Crawford scored Snyder's only points on a quarterback sneak in a 20-6 loss to Big Spring here Thursday.

The loss puts Snyder freshman at 6-3 as they head into their final game of the season, Nov. 10 at Monahans.

Crawford also intercepted a pass to set up the TD. It was one of four turnovers by the Steers, but Snyder was unable to take advantage of the others.

"They did a lot of passing, like their varsity does," said Coach Larry Scott. "We controlled the run real well but we couldn't control their passing."

yard touchdown play. Brunson kicked the conversion to give Snyder a 21-14 lead.

A 30-yard pass play and conversion tied the game up for Big Spring in the third quarter, but Snyder was able to control the fourth quarter and earn the victory.

Snyder took over for its final drive with seven minutes to play and ran the clock until Brunson kicked a 25-yard field goal with four seconds remaining.

"It really was a great job by the kids. We're all sophomores on the junior varsity now. We've played real well the last three games against kids that were older and bigger than us," praised Coach Milton Ham.

"We had suited up 19 and we had to play well. They had about 40 suited up. The kids deserve a lot of credit. They hung in there and never thought about laying down and quitting."

Now 4-4-1, Snyder can break .500 with a victory in their final outing of the season, 7 p.m. Nov. 10 against here against Monahans.

Ira, Hermleigh set to end grid seasons

District 7-1A wraps up its regular season tonight with Trent and Loraine looking to keep momentum into the playoffs.

At Ira, Coach Don Jones leads his Bulldogs against Blackwell at 7:30 p.m. Ira is 5-4 for the season and 2-2 in district action. Blackwell is 2-5-1 overall and 1-2-1 in 7-1A.

In tonight's other 7-1A contest, Hermleigh, under the direction of Doug Cook, plays in Loraine.

Hermleigh goes into its final game still trying to secure a victory. The Cardinals are 0-8.

District 4-4A roundup...

Tigers challenge Big Spring

If run versus pass is your idea of an ideal football matchup, District 4-4A has it tonight.

Sweetwater, which features the loop's best running attack, can wrap up at least a tie for the district title by stopping San Angelo Lake View's air show in the Mustang Bowl. Andrews, another run-oriented squad, needs a win at Fort Stockton to keep its playoff hopes alive. Monahans hopes to run over the Eagles in Pecos, while Snyder straps on its anti-aircraft guns for a battle in Big Spring.

All four games are set for 8 p.m. starts. Tickets are $4 at the gate.

Coach David Baugh's Tigers will try to shoot down a Big Spring team that is averaging 300.7 yards a game - and over half of that through the airways. Quarterback Rance Thompson has already thrown for 1,053 yards and nine touchdowns and is averaging 19.1 yards per completion.

Tony Lewis is a key player for the Steers, 2-5 overall and 2-3 in district play. Lewis has run for 206 yards on 21 carries and caught 18 passes for another 376 steps.

Snyder, 1-7 and 1-4, hopes to take advantage of what has been a porous Steer defense, however. Big Spring's defense ranks last in the district, allowing 309 yards and almost 29 points a game.

Snyder's more run oriented attack is led by Jayson Presley (357 yards), Michael Riggins (229 yards) and Lee Fletcher (197 yards). The trio is also adept at catching passes out of the backfield. Presley and Fletcher have seven catches each.

It could be a record night in Sweetwater for the Mustangs' Kenneth Norman, who already has 1,446 yards and 16 touchdowns to his credit. Lake View is second only to Big Spring in rushing yards allowed, with 1,525.

Sweetwater, 8-0 and 5-0, leads the district in offense (374.5 yards per game) and defense, (119.8).

Lake View features a dangerous passer in Will Burney, who has thrown for 910 yards. Favorite receiver Troy Allen has 414 on those steps on 23 carries. The Chiefs are 3-5 overall and 1-4 in district play.

At Fort Stockton, the Andrews Mustangs will be trying to keep a hold on second place in the district. At 6-2 and 4-2, Andrews and Monahans are tied for the loop's runner-up spot.

Andrews prefers a ground game, led by Mike Hernandez (645 yards, 14 TDs on 157 carries). Two other Mustang backs

A-team wins over Steers

Snyder eighth grade football teams split with Big Spring in games played Thursday.

The A-team won 22-14 while the B-team lost, 14-0.

The A-team scored on a 50-yard pass play from Brian Luna to David Guerra, a 1-yard run from Barretta Collins and a pass from Santos Gutierrez to Jason McAden. Gutierrez and Jesus Parra also ran in conversions.

Ben White and Wayland Harrison also carried the ball well for the Cats as they improved to 5-1-1 on the season.

"The coaching staff is really proud of this team because of its unity, sacrifice and overall team spirit," said Coach Roger Goodwin.

The B-team got strong help from Matt Cunningham, Peyton Daniels, Heath Cowen, Chris Stansell, Brent Graham, Chad Walker, Joe Bob McCravey, Robert Kimbel and Justin Spear. Graham intercepted a Big Spring pass.

In the only seventh grade game played Thursday, Big Spring topped Snyder 20-7.

Next action for the Cats will be Nov. 10 against Midland Greenwood. The eighth graders will host Greenwood at Tiger Stadium. The seventh graders play in Midland.

have run for over 350 yards this season, including quarterback Robbie Morris. Morris has thrown for another 280 yards.

Fort Stockton, 3-5, 2-3, is guided by Pete Martinez, who has found the target 62 of 162 times for 829 yards. Receiver Joe Parks leads the district in completions and total yards, having pulled down 26 passes for 486 yards.

Monahans tries to stay up with the Mustangs by punishing Pecos tonight. The Lobos are another ground-oriented team. Ronnie Ramsey has romped for 511 yards and seven touchdowns.

But the Lobos aren't afraid to go to the air. Quarterback Chris Jordan has connected on 46 of 103 passes for 643 yards. Ralph Sanchez has 22 of the catches for 305 yards.

Pecos, 4-4, 1-4, relies on catalyst Bobby Ray Smith, who has thrown for 662 yards and run for 265 already this season. Tommy Valdez leads the Eagle running game with 523 yards.

With Cotton in bag, Hogs try to improve on national ranking

by The Associated Press

The unblemished Arkansas Razorbacks, who clinched a Cotton Bowl berth before Halloween, try to do something about their national ranking on Saturday against the always troublesome Baylor Bears.

The 11th-ranked Razorbacks (7-0) have yet to crack The Associated Press Top 10 and need to keep winning for the sake of Southwest Conference and Cotton Bowl prestige.

Waco isn't an easy place to do that, particularly on homecoming. The Bears are 3-2-1 against the Hogs in homecoming games.

The last seven Baylor-Arkansas games have been decided in the fourth quarter.

Last year, Arkansas scored with 47 seconds to play to win 10-7 in Fayetteville.

Baylor had an off week to prepare for the Hogs, a team Bears' coach Grant Teaff calls "the best they've had since I've been at Baylor."

"Winning on the road against Texas and Houston like Arkansas has done is impressive," Teaff said. "Arkansas is a highly motivated team."

Quarterback Brad Goebel, tailbacks Anthony Ray and Eldwin Raphael, tight end David Bell and defensive end Eugene Hall used the off week to heal injuries and were probable starters for the Bears.

Odds makers rated the Hogs seven-point favorites for the 1 p.m. game at Baylor Stadium.

"Our next two games (Baylor and Texas A&M) are critical as far as the national rankings are concerned," said Arkansas coach Ken Hatfield. "But I don't worry about what other people think of us. The main poll everybody looks at is where you finish."

Arkansas closes the regular season on Nov. 26 against Miami, which embarrassed the Hogs 51-7 last year.

In other games this week, Texas Christian was a four-point pick over Texas Tech in Fort Worth, Houston was a five-point choice over Texas in Austin, and Texas A&M was a four touchdown favorite over Louisiana Tech in a non-conference game at College Station, and No. 1 ranked Notre Dame was a 32-point favorite over Rice at South Bend, Ind.

NBA tips off today

by The Associated Press

Are the Los Angeles Lakers beatable in 1988-89?

They became the first team since 1969 to repeat as NBA champion last season, and they added free agent Orlando Woolridge during the offseason, giving them their deepest bench of the 1980s.

But with three teams — Utah, Dallas and Detroit — taking the Lakers to the seven-game limit in the playoffs, there's hope around the league that Magic Johnson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Co. can be taken.

(TBS) is one of 10 NBA openers. Elsewhere, it's New York at Boston, Atlanta at New Jersey, the Los Angeles Clippers at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Charlotte, Milwaukee at Indiana, Detroit at Chicago, Houston at Denver, Seattle at Utah and Phoenix at Portland.

Charlotte joins Miami as expansion teams. The Heat plays its first game at home Saturday night against the Clippers.

Dallas coach John MacLeod is looking forward to the challenge (see PRO, page 7)

Past adversity makes Dusters more determined, says Roewe

Anyone who thought Western Texas College's womens basketball program died after last year's shortened season is wrong.

If anything, says Julie Roewe, the Lady Dusters' thwarted campaign of a year ago has made the team more determined as continue their way into the 1988-89 season.

"I look for a real successful season. I think we'll have a good team. We had so much adversity last year I think we deserve it," said the 5-9 sophomore co-captain from Haskell.

Western's Lady Dusters, on the heels of their first-ever appearance in the NJCAA National Tournament, blazed to a 12-3 record midway through the 1987-88 season. Then came the semester break.

Homesickness called convincingly to at least two players but it was grades that did the biggest damage, virtually stripping the team of all but six players. The Dusters hobbled to a 3-3 mark over their next six games until lack of players forced them to forfeit their final eight outings.

"We didn't like that happening but I think we're probably better leaders this year because of that," Roewe said of herself and fellow sophomores Nickey Allen, Stephanie McKnight, Tabitha Walton and Stacy Smith. "Last year we had the opportunity to be a real good team and it backfired on us. We didn't get anything out of it and it's important for us to have a good year this time."

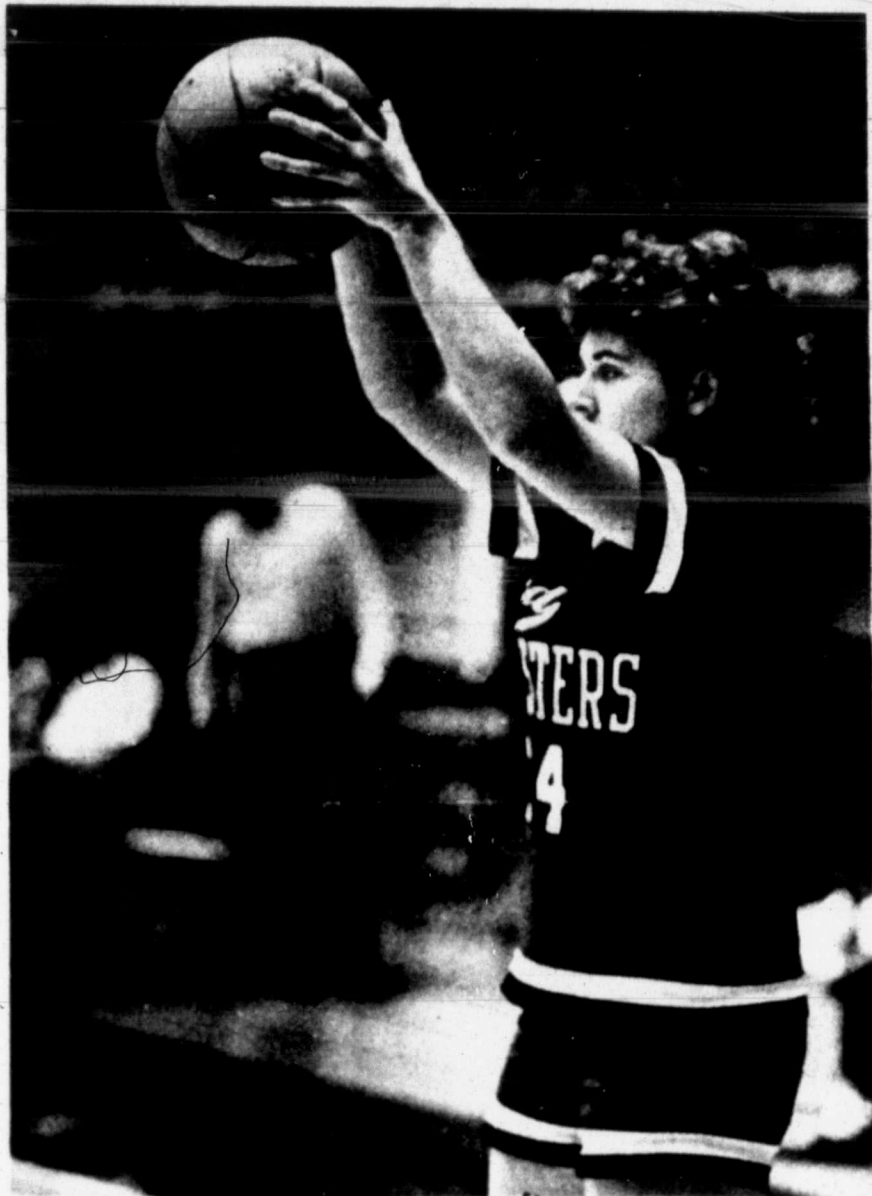

And Roewe likes that she sees. "We've got some really good freshmen who contribute a lot to the team. Last year, we were all freshmen and one sophomore. We've got a strong sophomore group and a good group of freshmen to fill their places when we need them," she said.

Roewe's reputation as a hard-nosed but intelligent player has her sharing co-captain duties with Allen. It's a role she readily accepts.

honor for me. I like to take on the responsibility of a leader," said the physical therapy major, who averaged 9.5 points and 4.4 rebounds last season. "I think you have to have good leaders to have a good team." The Dusters are playing in the Lady Texan Classic at Levelland this weekend. They play in Ranger on Nov. 7 before making their home debut against South Plains College in a non-conference tilt on Nov. 11.

DUSTER CO-CAPTAIN - Hamlin sophomore Julie Roewe is one of two captains for the Western Texas College Lady Dusters this season. The other is Nickey Allen. Roewe believes last season's adversities will make the team more determined for the 1988-89 campaign. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ladies didn't come to play, charges Chadwick in defeat

LEVELLAND - Coach Kelly Chadwick's comments following Thursday's 61-57 loss to Western Oklahoma were short, but not very sweet.

"We played terrible. That's one of the worst games I've ever seen a team play. We weren't ready at all," said the Western Texas College Lady Dusters coach.

Shooting statistics were not available after the ballgame but Western's percentage would have chilled an Eskimo. The Dusters, for instance, scored only four points in the final 4:13 of the ballgame.

"We weren't shooting, we were just throwing it up there. It was like we were nervous wrecks," blasted the coach.

Western Texas led by as much as 20-12 in the first half, but Western Oklahoma's Lady Pioneers came back on the good outside shooting of Rhonda Jones, and the inside play of 5-11 sophomore Jill Newton. While the Dusters struggled to find the basket, Oklahoma scored 9 unanswered points to take a 21-20 lead on Stephanie Wetselline's rebounded shot with 2:53 to play in the first half.

Baskets by Stacy Smith and Nickey Allen put Western up 24-21 again, but Western Oklahoma stayed close and trailed by only three at halftime.

Western Texas fell behind by as many as five points in the second half. The Dusters stayed on the heels of the Pioneers, but could never regain the lead.

With 4:13 left and Smith on the bench with five fouls, Western Texas had a chance to go in front. Kim Whitted missed the foul shots that had sent Smith to the sidelines, and the Dusters rebounded. The score was locked 53-53, but Western Texas again couldn't find the basket on two opportunities.

Western Oklahoma got the ball back and Karen Block slipped in of facing the Lakers.

"It's time for new blood and new excitement in the West and it might as well be us," MacLeod said.

But while the Lakers added Woolridge to their already formidable cast, the Mavericks are standing pat with last season's Western Conference finalist.

"There's a side of me that feels that we needed to do something," General Manager Norm Sonju said. "It's been very hard on me personally to see a couple of teams being able to go out and do things."

"But there's another side of me that says, 'Look, you don't ever want to make a move. You should only make a move to improve. I want to move only to improve,'" Sonju said.

Everyone in the West still regards the-Lakers as the team to beat.

a 3-pointer. The game remained in the one-to-three point range the rest of the way. A free throw with one second showing on the clock accounted for the four-point margin of victory.

Allen led Western Texas with 24 points. Tabitha Walton scored 8, Smith had 6 and Julie Roewe added 5.

Western Oklahoma was paced by Jones' 15 points. Block scored 10 and Westselline and Amy Watts added 8 each. The Pioneers went to the line 29 times and hit 18 free throws.

"About all we could do is foul," said Chadwick. "It was unbelievable."

The Lady Dusters, 2-2 now, are scheduled to play Barton County at 4 p.m. today as the classic continues. Saturday, the squad will take on Tyler at 4 p.m.

Western Okla. 61, Western Texas 57. Marcos says he'll comply with court order

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos says he feels "betrayed" by the American system but will comply with a judge's order in his federal racketeering case and "take my destiny, whatever that may be."

"I am not afraid to go to jail," Marcos told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview at his home here Thursday. "I would probably be dead by the time the trial is over. I'm feeling in pain every day."

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, were indicted Oct. 21 by a federal grand jury in New York on federal racketeering charges accusing them of plundering more than $100 million from their homeland and funneling it into Swiss and Hong Kong bank accounts, Manhattan real estate and fine art.

Mrs. Marcos pleaded innocent to the charges in New York on Monday, but her husband's arraignment was delayed pending the report of a government physician who examined him Monday.

Defense lawyers contend the 71-year-old Marcos, who remained in a wheelchair during the interview, is too frail to make the 10-hour flight to New York and hinted his poor health may cause his trial to be suspended altogether.

But Marcos, who appeared tired but remained alert, said he would comply with a federal court order requiring him to submit fingerprints, palm prints and handwriting and voice samples to the FBI here by next Wednesday or face contempt charges.

"I'll take my destiny, whatever that may be, but I'm going to fight for my dignity and my honor," Marcos said in his first meeting with the press since being indicted two weeks ago.

Although the grand jury indictments were handed up after nearly two years of investigation, and grand juries in Honolulu and Alexandria, Va., are also investigating him, Marcos said he was confident he would be vindicated.

"I don't think they have any evidence," said Marcos, offering the results of past investigations in the United States, the Philippines and Japan that cleared him of similar charges.

The interview was held at his sprawling hillside home overlooking Honolulu as Marcos prepared to leave for an appointment with an eye doctor.

"I'm tired and in pain, I'm on the way to the doctor right now," he said.

In the past six months, Marcos has complained of chest pains that have sent him to the hospital, and of an eye ailment and of flare-ups of old war injuries of the leg and the knee.

Defense lawyers for Marcos have presented letters from two Honolulu doctors and Marcos' personal physician, saying Marcos suffered from an enlarged heart and a thickening of the heart muscle.

Marcos, a staunch U.S. ally during his 20 years as president of the Philippines, said he held no animosity toward President Reagan, who once hailed him as a valuable ally

Shamir would step up Jewish settlement

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said he would step up Jewish settlement in Israeli-occupied lands but rejected potential coalition partners' demands to annex the areas and expel its Palestinian residents.

Shamir, head of the right-wing Likud bloc, held preliminary bargaining meetings Thursday with two extremist parties, Moledet (Homeland) and Tzomet (Crossroads), whose support he needs to form the next government.

The meetings took place as the nearly 11-month-old uprising that has cost the lives of 306 Palestinians and 10 Israelis persisted in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. Eleven Palestinians were shot and wounded in clashes with soldiers, Arab hospital officials said.

Likud won 40 parliamentary seats in Tuesday's elections, more than any other party in the 120-member Knesset. The left-leaning Labor party won 39 seats, meaning neither it nor Likud have the majority needed to form a government.

Since the elections, both have been wooing the 18-member religious bloc in an effort to win its support.

Both Tzomet and Moledet, which won two seats each, favor annexing the disputed territories. Moledet's founder, retired Gen. Rehavam Zeevi, says the only solution to the Palestinian-Israeli conflict is to expel all Arabs from Israel, a policy he euphemistically calls "transfer."

Zeevi has asked Likud to hold a referendum on the issue as a precondition for his joining a Shamir-led coalition, Israel radio said.

"Shamir has made it clear that the idea of transfer will not be included in the guidelines of the next government," said Yossi Ahimeir, the prime minister's spokesman. "Likud rejects the concept."

Shamir said he opposes annexing the territories because such a step would violate the 1978 Camp David accords, Ahimeir said.

The prime minister appeared on Israeli television Thursday and said he was confident he would be able to put together a government soon.

"I can't give an exact date, but I hope it won't take long," he said.

Thatcher welcome tumultuous

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher got a tumultuous welcome today from thousands of people in this Baltic port on her symbolic pilgrimage to meet Lech Walesa at the Lenin shipyard, birthplace of the banned Solidarity union.

Cheering crowds lined the route and pressed flowers into Mrs. Thatcher's hands as she toured the Old Town and Gdansk's reconstructed Long Market, whose ornate architecture reflects the city's wealthy past at the major Baltic seaport of the 16th century.

Mrs. Thatcher was greeted by city authorities as she arrived by plane from Warsaw. She then departed for a ceremony where she joined the country's leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, to honor Polish defenders of the Westerplatte peninsula, scene of the first shots of World War II.

Before leaving Warsaw, she dedicated a monument in the city's eastern Praga district to British flyers who died trying to ferry food and weapons to the Polish-resistance movement in the failed Warsaw uprising of 1944. The rebellion against the Nazi occupiers cost 200,000 Polish lives.

The ceremonies emphasizing the wartime British-Polish alliance and the tour of the Old Town preceded Mrs. Thatcher's scheduled meeting with Walesa on the final day of her three-day trip to Poland.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Thatcher told communist leaders they must negotiate with Solidarity as the price for long-term Western aid, including the rescheduling of a daunting $39 billion foreign debt.

The trip to the shipyard, which the government plans to close Dec. 1 as the first big money-losing victim of an economic austerity program, marks the high point of a tough visit.

Mrs. Thatcher has endorsed the banned union, including paying homage to a murdered Solidarity priest, while urging her communist hosts not to flinch from the risky path of reform.

In Gdansk, Mrs. Thatcher similarly mixed an official and so-called "private" program.

At Westerplatte, as the uniformed Jaruzelski watched, Mrs. Thatcher laid a wreath at the monument to the "defenders of the coast." On Sept. 1, 1939, an armored German ship fired a salvo at the small Polish garrison on the peninsula guarding the bay of Gdansk, the first hostilities of the war.

Mrs. Thatcher then traveled by boat to the city center, changing on the way from a somber black coat to a green one, which aides said represented a "feeling of hope."

She was cheered wildly by thousands of people in the painstakingly restored Long Market, the main street of the Old Town. Spectators hanged out of windows of the five-story Hanseatic buildings to wave. A sign said "Young Polish Conservatives Welcome Mrs. Thatcher."

In her keynote speech of the visit at a state banquet, Mrs. Thatcher said it was "vital there should be a real dialogue with representatives of all sections of society, including Solidarity."

"You will find your friends ready, not just to stand and cheer, but to help in practical ways," she said.

She cited Western support for an International Monetary Fund program by offering credits, debt-rescheduling, encouraging investment and establishing joint ventures.

Communist Party leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, in a guarded speech, complained Poland "suffered much" from Western embargoes after the government's 1981 declaration of martial law and outlawing the following year of Solidarity.

He hinted he resented carping from wealthy Western countries that have not shared the long history of foreign invasions and economic straits endured by Poland.

new government programs to help the homeless; 68 percent were in favor of treaties to reduce nuclear arms; and 47 percent—the largest percentage noted—said they were undecided about support of the Contras.

Junior high students responded also. With their vote, 84 percent said they favored tougher drug penalties; 60 percent said taxes should be increased to offset the deficit; 78 percent favored new programs to help the homeless; 50 percent were in favor of treaties to reduce nuclear arms, with 26 percent saying they were undecided; and 38 percent in both categories said they were either opposed or were undecided about support of the Contras.

The poll also asked the students if they felt they were better or worse off than their parents when they reached their parent's age.

At the high school, 57 percent said they thought they would be better off while only 3 percent thought they would be worse off.

In addition, 22 percent said they expected to be "about the same" and 16 percent were unsure.

Junior high students were not as optimistic. 40 percent said they expect to be better off and 13 percent expect to be worse off. Another 24 percent were unsure and 21 percent said they expect to be "about the same."

In a final question, the students were asked to list themselves as either Republican, Democrat, independent or other.

At the high school, the "independent" category received the largest vote, 38 percent. Also, 32 percent said they were Republicans and 25 percent favored the Democratic Party.

With the junior high vote, 50 percent proclaimed themselves as Republicans compared to 26 percent as Democrats and 18 percent as independents.

Third parties could tip the scales

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Libertarian, New Alliance and Consumer parties are virtually unknown to all but their most ardent supporters. But if extremely tight races develop between George Bush and Michael Dukakis in several key states, these minor parties could conceivably influence the outcome of the presidential election.

So-called third or minor parties are usually found on presidential ballots. But only occasionally do they have an impact. In 1968, for example, George Wallace's American Independent Party siphoned off enough votes from Democrat Hubert Humphrey in the South to tip the scale to Richard Nixon. In 1960, John Anderson's third-party presence on the ballot cost Democrat Jimmy Carter several states.

The rules for getting a minor party on the ballot differ from state to state. In some states — Arkansas, for one — all the party must do is nominate a slate of electors and pay a filing fee.

But in most states, especially larger ones, parties must file petitions signed by as many as tens of thousands of state residents. By one estimate, it would take a total of almost 700,000 signatures to guarantee a party a place on all 50 state ballots and the District of Columbia this election.

As many as a dozen minor parties will be on one state ballot or another. But only the Libertarian, New Alliance and Consumer parties have had enough money to promote their candidates to the point that they might have an impact in an extremely close Bush-Dukakis contest.

The candidates of the New Alliance and Consumer parties — psychologist Dr. Lenora Fulani and former Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy, respectively — pose some potential problems for Dukakis.

Fulani, a militant black woman, is campaigning hard in some black in-Jersey, Minnesota and Wisconsin, where, in 1976 in another third-party effort, he received more than 1 percent of the vote. As with Fulani, McCarthy draws almost entirely from Democratic voters and 1 percent could make a difference in a tight contest.

George Bush's third-party problem comes from the presence on most state ballots of former Texas GOP ner cities as the only candidate who is pushing the platform and goals of Jesse Jackson. She has made campaign appearances with controversial Nation of Islam head Louis Farrakhan. Observers believe she is capable of getting a total of 40,000 to 50,000 votes from among states like New York, Illinois and California. Almost all these votes will come at the expense of Dukakis and in a dead heat could swing a state from Dukakis to Bush.

If extremely tight races develop between Bush and Dukakis, minor parties could influence the election.

McCarthy, who has become a kind of liberal Harold Stassen, has been pushing his candidacy since early summer. He will likely be on fewer than a dozen ballots. But they will include states like Pennsylvania, New Rep. Ron Paul, who this year is the Libertarian Party standard bearer.

The Libertarian Party, which believes in very limited government and in individual freedom, is the most organized of the third parties. It has run in every national election since 1970 and in the 1984 Reagan landslide attracted more than 1 million voters. This year, with some conservatives still unsure about George Bush's conservative leanings, Paul could do very well both in California and his home state of Texas. He could even do well enough to cause Bush major headaches should the election in either of those states come down to a few thousand votes.

ed "the Million Dollar Mountain" because of the amount of money spent in shelling the Camino hill mass area.

Eighteen days later, the 142nd succeeded in reaching its goal in taking the top of Mount Maggiore. Rainwater said the 36th Division then began its approach to San Pietro and Mount Lungo.

He said the winter of 1943 is one he will never forget because of the living conditions. For three days, he shared a fox hole with two other soldiers, including Red McCravy of Snyder.

"We timed the artillery rounds, only leaving the fox hole for water," Rainwater said. Where the artillery rounds left holes in the ground, rain and melted snow would form pools, and the soldiers collected water in their empty C-rations cans between the rounds of attack.

When Rainwater's regiment was pulled back off the front line, they remained "in reserve," assisting the 141st and the 143rd infantries who stayed on the front line.

During his recent return visit, Rainwater pointed to Mount Lungo, saying he had helped haul many five gallon containers of water, plus C-rations, up the snow-covered mountain during the night to soldiers on the front line.

During the month of December, the Americans lost more soldiers to disease and injury: 2,186 to 1,169 killed or missing in action, according to "The Texas Army." These casualties occurred during the victories at Mount Lungo and San Pietro in mid-December.

On Dec. 15, Rainwater led his squad on a night attack at Mount Lungo with the Germans firing machine guns at the Americans from three sides.

According to a 1943 issue of the Snyder Daily News, the action was a "quick flanking movement." A grenade volley finally succeeded in destroying the weapons, allowing the squad to advance.

For this effort, Rainwater earned the Silver Star for bravery.

The exposure to the elements during this time also caused severe frostbite to his feet, and he was evacuated to Africa for a period of recuperation.

The war went on, and on Jan. 20-21, the division suffered severe casualties at the Rapido River crossing. Several of the 18 veterans who returned to this site 45 years later described this battle as a "strategic mistake." Five of the 18 were wounded at the Rapido River crossing.

Carl Strom was the American lieutenant in charge of calling a cease fire during this battle. Strom met the German command officer to arrange a six-hour truce to remove the dead and wounded soldiers. After the battle ended, Strom had 17 men left out of his troop of 145.

Rainwater would see much more action and, on June 3 of 1944, was wounded by machine gun fire during the battle of Anzio. A bullet was removed from his right lung at the 300th General Hospital in Naples, Italy.

Virus infects U.S. computers grams and spread through shared software or "electronic mail" systems that link computers.

Mild viruses may flash a message on a user's screen, while "deadly" forms can destroy data or cripple a computer. This virus apparently did its damage by rapidly duplicating itself, thereby slowing computers' processing speed and taking up their memory space.

Many research centers shut down their computers Thursday in an effort to purge the rapidly spreading virus, but not all experts were confident they had eliminated the program, which could linger in electronic mailboxes. In the past, "antidote" programs have been developed to seek out and destroy viruses.

"The very scary thing is that this is a very sophisticated computer program, and shutting them down may not be enough," said Richard LeBlanc, associate professor in Georgia Tech's School of Computer Sciences.

CRMWD okays 1989 budget

BIG SPRING—Although it is in the middle of a $70,000,000 long range supply project at Stacy, the Colorado River Municipal Water District will operate its financial affairs about the same level in 1989 as this year.

Directors last week adopted an operating budget of $12,645,631 up only $73,343 or .58 of one percent over the current year. Virtually all the increase is for manpower costs directly and in benefits.

This marks the sixth consecutive year that CRMWD budgets have remained almost constant. The 1989 budget is actually .39 of one percent less in 1987 and 1.33 percent less in 1986. In fact, the new budget is up only .91 of one percent over 1984, the first year that district budgets topped the $12,000,000 mark.

Revenue estimates total the same as expenses, and for 1989 this includes $12,555,631 estimated water sales, up $73,343 from this year's projections. This postulates modest gains in deliveries, for while water rates to cities are not fixed until January, the adopted budget does not anticipate any significant changes.

Budgeted operational expenses of $6,607,266 would be up $61,977 or .95 of one percent. Debt service of $4,976,415 is up only $3,621 of .07 of one percent. (Not in the budget is the additional $5,467,013 debt service for Stacy reservoir, which is totally funded by contract cities of Abilene, Midland and San Angelo, plus one half from district reserves.)

The lion's share of operational costs, or $3,607,000, is for electric energy, and estimated decrease of $233,294 due to more economical pumping patterns from the nearest sources of water. Next greatest item is manpower (payroll) costs of $1,584,966, up $89,571 or 5.99 percent.

Also, of the administrative and general allocation of $1,611,660 in 1989, an increase of $84,637 is attributable for hospitalization, social security and retirement benefits.

Net revenue at the end of the next year is pegged at $2,011,353, most of which will go to indebted and reserve funds. An item of $1,061,950 or $7,800 more than this year, is provided for future water supplies.

Kentucky escapee loses appeal

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Last year one-third of my husband's stomach was removed because of a bleeding ulcer. Just before being released, he developed anxiety and depression and was hospitalized for a week in a psychiatric ward. He has a prescription for 200 mg Elavil at bedtime. He's so doped up he falls asleep at work, can't get out of bed and has the energy of a 90-year-old. I think this is too much medicine but I can't seem to get through to his doctor.

DEAR READER: The amount of Elavil (an anti-depressant) that your husband is receiving seems to be high. The usual dose is 25-50 mg a day. The symptoms he is experiencing could certainly be due to over-medication.

If his doctor ignores your concerns, find another one who will be more sympathetic and who will consider reducing your husband's Elavil dose or changing over to another anti-depressant.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Choosing a Physician." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is Retin-A, normally prescribed for acne, helpful for wrinkles as well?

DEAR READER: Yes. Retin-A has been shown in medical studies to reduce wrinkles, get rid of age spots and improve the condition of aging skin. It is applied once a day as a cream or a gel and rubbed in well. Patients sometimes develop sun sensitivity or scaly rashes in treated areas. The medicine is available by prescription only and should be used under medical supervision.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband's grandmother is in her 70s. A year ago she was mowing the lawn and a stick flew up and cut her lower leg. Despite whirlpools and antibiotics it's still not healing. Her spirit is getting more broken every day. What should she do?

DEAR READER: Elderly people do not heal as quickly as younger patients. If your husband's grandmother has not responded to whirlpool treatments and antibiotics, I think that she should be seen by a surgeon. Perhaps a fragment of the stick is still in the wound; this must be removed before healing will take place.

Also, because of poor circulation, the lady may need debridement (surgical cleaning of the injured area) with or without skin grafting. A surgeon can best advise you about the next steps to take.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our son, 22, has been experiencing shrinking of his penis. There is also a loss of feeling and an uncomfortable constant firmness. He cannot ejaculate. He's not been sick or injured and tests are negative. The urologist expanded a stricture in the urethra and cauterized a spot in the bladder. But the condition persists. What's causing it?

DEAR READER: Your son may be suffering from an unusual form of Peyronie's disease. This condition, of unknown cause, produces thickening and contractures of the deep covering of the penis. Treatment is varied and consists of surgical removal of the scarlike tissue, local injections of cortisone and ultrasonic therapy. Some cases resolve spontaneously.

If your son's urologist is unable to help the situation, I suggest referral to the urology clinic at a teaching hospital.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for two Kentucky prison escapees say they will appeal an appeals court ruling that the men should be extradited to Kentucky regardless of how they got into the custody of U.S. officials.

Derek Quintero and James Blanton were arrested July 9 at a hotel in downtown Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, by at least three FBI agents accompanied by Mexican police. The men were taken immediately to the United States without a hearing before a judge — a violation of an extradition treaty, prosecutors have acknowledged.

But the 8th Court of Appeals agreed with prosecutors that only Mexico, and not the prisoners, has a right to object to the escapees' arrest and transfer to the United States, and Mexico has not done so.

Blanton's and Quintero's attorneys had contended that the men should not be extradited to Kentucky because they were arrested and taken to the United States illegally. They said the FBI kidnapped the two men.

Rod Ponton, Quintero's attorney, said Thursday that both prisoners will appeal to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the state's highest criminal court.

Ponton seemed puzzled by the ruling, which was dated Wednesday but released Thursday.

"The upshot is the court of appeals says if you're kidnapped by the FBI, it's all right. You can be extradited," he said.

Ponton said the ruling is incorrect because it could set a precedent for abuses.

"This isn't Argentina in the early 1970s," he said. "We can't let the government go kidnapping people if they just want to. If we let the government kidnap people without following the law, what's the next step? Going over there and shooting them?"

Ponton said the ruling seems to contradict a precedent set this summer that said evidence obtained illegally outside the United States can't be introduced into a U.S. court.

Ballard Shapleigh, Blanton's attorney, did not return a phone message left late Thursday, and prosecutor Robert Dinsmoor could not be reached for comment.

The defense attorneys say their clients fear retaliation from Kentucky prison authorities if they are returned. The men escaped with four others June 16 from a maximum-security prison in Ed-dyville, Ky.

Blanton, 29, of Farler, Ky., was serving a 48-year murder sentence. Quintero, 26, of Clarksville, Tenn., was serving 37 years for robbery and kidnapping.

Arrest warrants have been issued for Blanton and Quintero in Tennessee in connection with the slaying of a Dover, Tenn., couple while the escapees were at large, but neither man has been formally charged or indicted.

The other four escapees were caught before Blanton and Quintero and have been returned to Kentucky.

First grader shot to death

AUSTIN (AP) — The shooting of a 7-year-old girl by her mother has been ruled a homicide by Travis County Medical Examiner Robert Bayardo.

Police said the shooting appeared to be accidental, but Bayardo said Thursday "this was very reckless. The girl was shot at very close range."

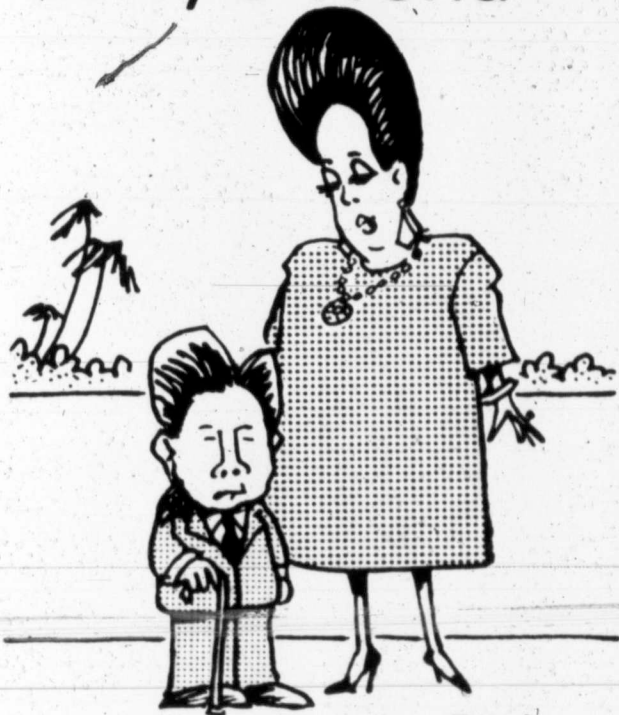

Rochell Porter was shot once in the left cheek with a .25-caliber pistol Wednesday at her home. The girl, a first-grader at Blackshear Elementary, died at Brackenridge Hospital at 9:30 a.m.

The pistol was on a table when the girl's mother, Ulene Porter, 37, was getting Rochell and her 9-year-old sister ready for school, said Sgt. Don Bredt. Another sister, who is 2, was also at home when the shooting occurred, he said.

Police spokesman C.F. Adams said Ms. Porter told investigators one of the girls moved an ashtray that nudged the gun, prompting her to take the pistol away. She told officers she was turning around with the gun in her hand when it fired, striking the girl.
