

Texas awarded super collider project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department will build its $4.4 billion super collider project in Texas, Sen. Phil Gramm said today, hours before the department was to make its official announcement.

Seven states had vied for the project because of the economic benefits tied to the construction of the giant atom smasher.

Gramm said the superconducting super collider, a 53-mile underground ring of magnets capable of whipping proton beams together with 20 times the force of the world's most powerful existing accelerator, would be built at site south of Dallas.

He called the super collider "the most important scientific project that will be built anywhere in the world in the last quarter of the 20th century."

The project is expected to create thousands of construction and scientific jobs and an annual budget of $270 million.

The six other contenders were Illinois, Arizona, Colorado, Michigan, North Carolina and Tennessee. They were chosen from a field of 25 bidding states by an independent panel appointed by the Energy Department.

"I think that we won on the merits — the scientific and economic proposal that we made. And I believe that it was helped by the congressional delegation's unified, bipartisan support. I don't believe it was a political decision, but a scientific decision," said Morton Meyerson, chairman of the Texas National Laboratories Commission, which coordinated the state's proposal.

"I feel elated," Meyerson said. "It will be the most important scientific project in this century, because of its size and importance. It will be the largest scientific machine ever built."

Scientists hope to learn more about the nature of matter from studying the subatomic particles created by the proton collisions.

"The SSC will put the United States and the state of Texas on the cutting edge of high energy physics," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. "The economic potential of the SSC can only be guessed at today, but it is bound to be very great. For example, I expect that the construction of the SSC alone will result in the creation of thousands of high paying jobs in Texas over the next few years."

The contending states spent years and millions of dollars trying to persuade the Energy Department to put the project on their turf. Lobbying continued right up to the last minute.

In an effort to attract the project, Texas voters approved a $1.1 billion bond package that would reduce the federal cost of building the atom smasher south of Dallas.

Illinois officials spent two years and $8 million on their campaign.

Ask Us

Q. — Is it true that the entire U.S. House of Representatives comes up for election at the same time?

A. — Yes. Congressmen are elected for only two-year terms. In theory, the entire U.S. House of Representatives could be changed out in one election.

In Brief

Tanker update

LONDON (AP) — A Liberian oil tanker broke in half in stormy weather in the north Atlantic today, burst into flames and sank, spreading fire over the ocean and leaving the 27 crewmen missing, coast guard officials said.

A Canadian military aircraft flew over the scene about nine hours after the tanker sent a distress signal, and it reported spotting an empty life raft, said a spokesman for the British coast guard in Falmouth.

5 year term

HOUSTON (AP) — Galveston insurance heir Shearn Moody Jr. must report to a federal prison Dec. 2 to begin serving a five-year sentence he received for defrauding his family's charitable foundation of $1.3 million.

In an order released Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Kenneth M. Hoyt ordered Moody to report a Fort Worth prison next month.

Copter crash

LONDON (AP) — A helicopter carrying oil rig workers crashed into the North Sea off Scotland today and all 13 people aboard were rescued, a Royal Air Force spokesman said.

The Sikorsky S-61 helicopter fell just before 9:00 a.m. about 70 miles northeast of Fraserburgh in northeast Scotland and three miles from the Claymore oil platform, said spokesman David Pocock.

Cable changes revealed

New channels due by Dec. 1

Changes in the lineup of cable television channels offered through Snyder Cablevision will go into effect Dec. 1, company officials announced Wednesday.

To celebrate, the cable company plans prize giveaways in December to include a color TV, four tickets to the Texas-Texas A&M football game and other prizes.

The change in lineup will be followed on Jan. 1 by an adjustment of the monthly rate structure with the basic service fee going from $11.24 to $16.95.

For the basic service, customers accustomed to 12 channels will see this expand to 27. Also, a stereo radio service will be offered with the basic package.

For added fees, three premium channels will be offered to include HBO, Cinemax and the Disney Channel.

All stations now offered on the basic service will be retained and six channels previously offered as part of the "tier" package will be changed to basic service status.

These six will include The Nashville Network, CNN Headline News, CNN Cable News Network, ESPN-24 Hour Sports, the USA Network of sports, movies and features, and the UNIVISION-Spanish International Network.

Channels which will be added and "new" to the basic service will include:

The Discovery Channel, a family channel focusing on the world of science, space and travel.

MTV-Music Television, the 24-hour rock music video channel.

The Arts and Entertainment network, providing drama, classic performances, comedy and dance.

Legion slates Veterans Day events

Veterans Day will be observed in Snyder Friday with traditional activities planned by the American Legion and its auxiliary and, as a county, state and federal holiday, closings for several governmental offices.

The American Legion Layne Kite Post 181 will again sponsor its breakfast for veterans, a flag raising ceremony and an evening meal with all veterans and their families invited.

The post's five "Poppy Girls" have been selling the commemorative flowers this past week in observance of Veterans Day also.

Chairman for the poppy sales this year was Jeanne Butler. The Poppy Girls were Brandy Isbell, Dasha Weaver, Sabrina Davidson, Bridget Callaway and Kimberly Adams.

Butler noted that poppies will be on sale into Friday at various locations and at the American Legion post.

Friday, the post will offer breakfast to all veterans and their families from 6 until 10 a.m. at the legion hall, 1802 Ave. R.

At 9 a.m., a flag raising in honor of the nation's vets is planned at the post.

VA to honor POWs Friday

Former Snyder principal Joel Griffin will be among 65 area veterans honored Friday, Veterans Day, at ceremonies planned in Big Spring at the VA Medical Center.

The event, to begin at 11 a.m., is to recognize former prisoners of war. Griffin will be honored also at a local gathering Friday night at Trinity Methodist Church here.

For that event, which will begin at 7 p.m., friends and his former students are invited. Griffin began as a teacher in the local system in 1951 and later served as principal at the Central campus, at West Elementary and upon his retirement in 1979, at Stanfield Elementary.

At the Friday night program, Jim Erwin, principal at East, will offer a brief program. Also assisting with the program will be Donnie Burk.

Congress authorized the medal for the men and women who were held as POWs while in service to their country. John Webb, social programs director for the Big Spring VA facility, said 187 POWs in a 52-county area were identified and mailed invitations.

Two others from Scurry County are invited, he noted, M.B. Hanks, who lives southwest of the city, and Robert Mitchell of Ira

At Friday's ceremony in Big Spring formal presentation of these medals will be made by Col. William Collins, brigadier general select, this area's highest ranking military officer.

Collins serves as commander of the Technical Training Center at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

He will be assisted by the color guard and other military personnel from Goodfellow.

Griffin was held for more than two years by the Japanese after his B-17 was hit by enemy fire in the South Pacific.

He was a member of the 47th Bomb Group and was shot down.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The problem with teaching a kid the value of the dollar is the demand for his allowance in Swiss Francs."

A criminal justice publication put out by the governor's office had some information that reveals the bigness and sophistication of illegal drug operations in the state.

In 1987, police in McAllen stopped a 1986 Chevrolet Blazer because of an unsecured seatbelt violation driven by a known narcotics trafficker.

The untrained eye would think the Blazer looked normal. Closer inspection, however, revealed bullet-proof windows, steel plating and Kevlar floor matting, armor designed to stop direct hits from high-powered bullets.

Electronically detonated tear gas ports were hidden behind fake reflectors and aimed laterally from each side of the front and rear fenders. The tear gas could be fired from switches marked "safe" on a control panel below the steering wheel.

Also found in the "auto" was a cache of automatic weapons and one ounce of cocaine.

In another stop, the West Texas Multi-County Narcotics Trafficking Task Force in El Paso confiscated 14 Ak-47 semi-automatic rifles manufactured in Communist China, along with 14 bayonets, 3,000 rounds of ammunition and $14,000 in cash. The weapons were said to be traded for drugs in Mexico.

While making an aerial survey in Lamar County, a helicopter flown by a DPS agent was fired upon and hit two times by a man with a rifle guard who appeared to be a field marijuana grower.

A cougar was part of the security arrangements which included the latest high-tech surveillance equipment at a clandestine lab in East Texas. The task force there confiscated $5 million worth of methamphetamine.

Concluded the governor, "No longer are we dealing just with the back alley pusher. Drug traffickers have graduated to more sophisticated operations, and law enforcement must respond in kind."

Not a pretty picture of the enlightened '80s.

On a lighter side, did you hear about the pro-grinder who borrowed his girlfriend's urine sample for a drug test?

After the test, the trainer said he had good news and bad news. "The good news is you were tested clean. The bad news is you're pregnant."

Snyder ISD audit slated

The 1987-88 outside audit of Snyder ISD finances will be presented Thursday during the board of trustees' regular November meeting.

The session will begin at 7 p.m. at the school administration building.

Offering the audit report Thursday will be Joe Morren, certified public accountant from Colorado City.

Also scheduled Thursday is action related to a proposal for a new treatment process for the district's boiler system.

The maintenance plan was proposed to the board earlier by Lawton Taylor, head of maintenance for the district.

The proposal would see the district treat water used in the boilers, softening the water's hardness to extend the life of the boilers.

Also on the agenda is approval.

Former Watergate conspirator John Mitchell dead at age 75

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Newton Mitchell, the gruff former attorney general who went to prison for conspiring to cover up the Watergate scandal in his friend Richard Nixon's White House, is dead at 75 after collapsing on a Washington street.

Mitchell was the highest ranking of the government officials who served time for the political scandal that brought about Nixon's resignation from the presidency in August 1974.

"I considered John Mitchell to be one of my few close personal friends," Nixon wrote in his memoirs. "I believed that I owed my election as president in 1968 largely to his strength as a counselor and his skill as a manager."

Georgetown section of Washington in early evening Wednesday. Mitchell had suffered a heart attack.

He stopped breathing as he was being taken to the hospital, and died despite cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Mitchell was convicted on Jan. 1, 1975, of conspiring with Nixon's chief lieutenants, chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and domestic counselor John D. Ehrlichman, to cover up White House involvement in the Watergate affair, of the cover-up itself and of perjury.

He fought the conviction in vain to the Supreme Court.

All three were sentenced after a three-month trial to terms of 2½-to-8 years.

There was testimony at the Senate Watergate hearings, at the cover-up trial and in various published first-person accounts that Mitchell twice rejected plans for spying on Democrats because they were too expensive but that he accepted a third, less expensive, version. Mitchell always denied the allegation.

NASA opens space station mockup

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A life-size model of the planned Space Station Freedom has begun to take shape for the first time under one roof with the grand opening of $4.8 million building addition, NASA officials said.

More than 1,000 people toured the 27,000-square-foot space station mockup and training facility at Johnson Space Center Wednesday, after a 2½-year expansion of the building that houses a full-size model of the space shuttle.

The new facility will allow engineers to connect the mockups of individual space station modules, which previously have been kept separate because of space limitations, officials said.

"This marks another milestone in the space station program," said Clarke Covington, manager of the Space Station Projects Office at the Houston space center. "We now have the ability to move the modules around and put all of them together into an integrated system as it would appear in space."

Initially, the modules will be used by astronauts and engineers to help determine the best design for the permanent station, officials said.

"They're made in such a way that we can do our analysis and then arrange them different architectural layouts," Covington said. "We can then get our flight crews in to do a review of them, and take their comments and suggestions and redo it."

Once the design is complete, National Aeronautics and Space Administration engineers will install equipment to simulate the operations of the orbiting station, he said.

The mockup for the project now consists of four modules, including a U.S. laboratory module, a crew habitation module, a Japanese laboratory module and a European Space Agency module, Covington said.

The model also includes four connecting nodes, which will provide extra storage space and serve as airlocks between docking vessels and modules.

Each segment of the station will be carried individually aboard shuttle flights and assembled in space, beginning with an expected first launch in March 1995.

Kids Get Lesson in Gratitude When Grandma Gives to Charity

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please comment on a new idea about gift giving that my mother-in-law just came up with.

On her grandchildren's birthdays, Christmas, etc., she is planning to send money to one of her favorite charities and notify the grandchildren that a gift was made in their name in the amount of $10, rather than sending a personal gift to each of them as she has done in the past. It seems the reason for this new plan is because she has not received thank-you notes from them in the past, and hopes this "will teach them a lesson."

Abby, I agree that children should write thank-you notes for gifts, and I am all for giving money to charities, but I question her decision. What will this teach her grandchildren about giving? What is her motive for giving gifts in the first place? Whatever happened to the joy of Christian giving, and expecting nothing in return? And what about the golden rule?

I probably should have expressed my opinion about her decision at the time it was made, but I was so surprised that I didn't know what to say.

DISAPPOINTED DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Children cannot be expected to know what they have not been taught. Parents should teach children early that they may not play with, wear, eat or otherwise enjoy a gift until they have thanked the giver. I do not recommend continuing to give gifts to a child of any age who has not acknowledged previous gifts. Say what you will about "the golden rule" and the joy of "Christian giving," if Grandma chooses to teach thankless grandchildren "a lesson" by

Computer errs

DALLAS (AP) — A computer glitch may have caused as many as 2,000 bills for city and school taxes to be mailed to homeowners instead of their mortgage companies, an official with the Dallas tax office said.

Collections manager Catherine Turner said Wednesday the statements, representing less than 1 percent of the nearly 700,000 statements the city issues, were erroneously sent to residents.

Tax bills normally are sent to mortgage companies, which pay the taxes from money collected in advance as part of homeowners' monthly payments.

Payment of the tax bills, which are usually mailed in mid-October, is due Jan. 31.

The city, which handles tax collections for the city and school district, contacted mortgage companies in June about homeowner account lists but didn't receive some until as late as the end of September, Turner said.

sending money to her favorite charity in their name rather than giving them gifts, I'm on her side.

True, one should give for the joy of giving, but when the receiver lacks the courtesy to say "thank you," the giving loses much of its joy.

DEAR ABBY: I am presently pregnant and unmarried. I tried to tell the man responsible (he lives in another state), but he refuses to see me. Because of his behavior, I have decided not to tell him. I do not want to share my child with someone who doesn't have the time of day for us now. At the same time, I do not want to deny my child a father, although I am not sure he would be a good father. (Maybe no father is better than a lousy one.)

I would like to hear the opinions of people who never knew who their fathers were. I would also like to hear from men who have fathered children out of wedlock. Would any prefer not knowing they were fathers?

ALONE IN MINNESOTA

DEAR ALONE: You need not be alone. Get in touch with a woman's advocate group to help you make some important decisions. The father of your child has certain legal responsibilities to face. He may even deny paternity, so be prepared for a legal battle.

Every child has the right to know who his or her father is. One's medical history is vital if there's a hereditary disease in the family. My advice: The father-to-be should be informed either by you or an attorney. It's also a man's right to know that he has fathered a child.

The facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy are all in Abby's new, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

Stargazers members hear quilting demo

Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club held its October meeting in the home of Mildred Rogers with Joy Early giving a special program on quilting.

She commented that years ago quilts were made by necessity and were all hand-made from fabric scraps. String quilts were usually the only ones made by machine.

Early gave step-by-step instructions saying to draft a pattern and make one block before cutting all pieces. She also said when using cotton pieces, to use cotton backing also.

Early also makes all her own bindings and demonstrated her techniques. She demonstrated two quilts, place mats, a Christmas table cloth, a child's vest, and several quilt blocks she has pieced for future projects.

Rogers presided during the meeting and gave a report from Council. Roll call was answered to, "Where do you keep your medicine?"

The next club meeting will be Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

by shrewd card-placing based on West's vulnerable overcall.

South bid three diamonds on the way to four hearts to guide the defense if the opponents bid four spades. But West thought he could happily defend against four hearts with what looked like plenty of defensive tricks. He cashed the ace of spades, then the ace of clubs, and played a second club.

Mahaffey won the king of clubs and cashed the K-Q of spades, throwing diamonds from his hand. It looks normal to now take a heart finesse; if it loses, return to dummy with the eight of hearts for a diamond finesse. But declarer thought it likely that West would have bid four spades if he held a singleton small heart or a heart void. And vulnerable overcalls are not loosely made at the championship level. To Jim Mahaffey, that spelled red kings in the West hand. So he ruffed dummy's third club with his nine of hearts and played ace and queen of hearts from his hand. That placed West on lead with no escape. A diamond would be into the A-Q, and a spade would allow declarer to ruff in dummy while shedding his losing queen of diamonds.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Baugh urging Tiger unity as date with Loboes nears

David Baugh wasn't coaching in Snyder last season, but he hopes the Tigers are upset enough over the 63-0 whipping the Monahans Loboes handed them that they'll try to atone for it Friday night.

"I would think our seniors dang sure don't want anything to happen like that again. It should be payback time," said Coach Baugh, whose Tigers close out the 1988 season on the Loboes' home turf at 8 p.m.

Payback time could be tough. The Tigers have been swamped with illness and injury this week, and optimism isn't particularly high.

"We need to have a good game for the sake of the program. We sure don't need to get beat 63-0. We'll have a problem moving the ball against them, and I'm afraid if we don't have people healthy it'll be like starting over," the coach said.

The entire quick-side of the line missed workouts Monday and Tuesday, and only one linebacker was able to go on Tuesday.

"Carl McClurg's got a problem with his arm, Tim Derryberry has a knee injury and Kevin Murdoch and Bart Morton are sick. I think Greg Kiker and Todd Perry are the only ones (starters) on the line who weren't hurt or sick," said Baugh. "Tuesday, Kevin Dollins was the only linebacker who wasn't hurt or sick. Linebacker used to be our deepest position."

Coaches moved Lee Fletcher from end to linebacker for workouts.

WTC golfers play Friday

ODESSA - Western Texas College tees off in Western Junior College Athletic Conference action here Friday.

Teams were to take practice rounds today at Odessa Country Club, site of the 27-hole event.

Playing for Western will be Mark Burgen, Darrell Cofer, Gary Schoen, Lance Jones, David Turrentine and either Wade Hatter, Jerry Whitten or Mike Thelen.

Conference standings show Odessa leading with 9 points, followed by Midland with 6½, NMJC 6, Western Texas 5½ and NMMI 3.

Lance Posey of Odessa College leads the medalist race with a 68.6 average. WTC's Jones, a sophomore from Andrews, is second with a 69.6 average. Burgen and Cofer are 16th and 17th with averages of 73.3 and 73.6.

"I'm afraid it would be pretty easy to slip on out this week and just say to heck with it. Hopefully we'll have most of the kids ready to go Friday."

Monahans has incentive. The Loboes need a win to wrap up the district's runner-up playoff spot.

Monahans has fashioned a 7-2 record, 5-1 in District 4-4A. The Loboes go into the game fourth in the district in offense, averaging 280.9 yards, and second defensively, allowing just 188.

Leading the team is quarterback Chris Jordan, who has thrown for 795 yards and run for another 324 this season.

"He's probably the best quarterback we've faced as far as overall throwing, running and experience," said Baugh.

The Loboes also feature returning all-loop runner Ronnie Ramsey, who has 582 yards and nine touchdowns on 96 carries.

"What you have to do against Monahans is adjust to all of their formations. They formation you to death," noted Baugh. "You've got to line up right against them. They have overall good quickness and good strength. They are the second best team we'll play this season."

Monahans' only district loss was to No. 1 ranked Sweetwater.

Baugh will be hoping for the type team play his Tigers gave against Big Spring last week, even though four turnovers led to a 13-6 defeat.

"That was probably the best we've played as a team all season. I think had we played that way together, we'd have maybe won a game or two that we didn't earlier," he said. "It's important that we play together again Friday, don't get down and keep fighting."

Lady Dusters, SPC to clash in non-conference tilts here

When the Western Junior College Athletic Conference preseason coaches' poll came out a month ago, both Western Texas' Kelly Chadwick and South Plains' Lyndon Hardin immediately started playing head games.

Irish reject Gator offer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Top-ranked Notre Dame has been offered about $3 million to meet fourth-ranked West Virginia in the Gator Bowl in a game that could determine the national championship, a bowl spokesman says.

The same offer of between $2.8 million and $3 million was presented to West Virginia officials Wednesday.

But Notre Dame athletic director Dick Rosenthal was quoted today as saying the Irish will not go to the Gator Bowl.

Sources familiar with bowl negotiations say Notre Dame already has struck a different deal and will play in either the Fiesta Bowl or the Orange Bowl.

Bills' Garner latest player to be suspended

NEW YORK (AP) - Drug abuse is not rampant among the Buffalo Bills, General Manager Bill Polian insists in the wake of the team's third player suspension this season.

The Bills, owners of the NFL's best record, lost linebacker Hal Garner for 30 days after the league announced Wednesday that he had violated its substance-abuse policy.

"If you're intimating that there is rampant drug abuse on this football team, the best evidence that we can glean is that there is not," Polian said.

He called the latest suspension "another isolated incident. It is not indicative of a quote-unquote drug problem on the Buffalo Bills."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who hoped the early spate of substance-abuse penalties was reducing the league's drug problem, also suspended Houston's Doug Smith for 30 days.

That brought to 22 the number set down this year. All but one player - Indianapolis running back Tony Collins - got 30 days as second-time violators. Collins was suspended for at least a year for a third offense.

Chadwick took the poll, which proclaimed SPC as No. 1 and Western as No. 2, and wrote something to the effect that Hardin said his team deserved to be No. 1 and that Western was a distance No. 2 at best. Then he stuck it on his office door for the Dusters to see.

The next day, he got a letter in the mail from Hardin. In it was a "revised version" of the poll, which showed WTC as No. 1 and South Plains dead last in the conference.

"Just wanted you to know that we papered our walls with this poll," Hardin joked.

It's early in the season for two top-rated teams to meet, but this weekend, Western Texas and South Plains square off at Scurry County Coliseum in a pair of rare, non-conference ballgames.

"People are going to say 'How come you are playing South Plains two times at home,'" said Coach Chadwick, whose Dusters entertain the Lady Texans here Friday and Saturday at the coliseum. "Well, we intended to have a tournament this week and there was a foul-up with one of the teams. South Plains and I both needed games and we needed home games so badly."

Both games are set for 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students. They mark the first home contests of the season for the Dusters, who are 5-2 in seven road games.

If Chadwick is hesitant about playing the highly-touted Lady Texans in non-conference games, he doesn't admit it. In fact, he sounds almost excited.

"They are picked to win the conference and from what I can tell they are the best team in the conference right now," said Chadwick. "I want to play them because that's the way you get better, by playing the best."

"As for playing them in a non-conference situation, I don't think that matters," added Chadwick. "We don't play them in a conference game until January (Jan. 12). A lot of things can change between now and then."

Chadwick believes the games will be good ones.

"From what I can tell, the ballgames should be real good Friday and Saturday night. They could go either way. Their experience is the biggest difference I see right now. Their sophomores played the entire season and were in the regional tournament last year, and that probably gives them an edge."

Boosters meet Monday

Western Texas College Booster Club will meet for a Dutch treat luncheon, noon Monday, Nov. 14, at the Golden Corral. Anyone interested in college athletics is encouraged to attend.

Bass club meets tonight

The Snyder Bass Club will hold its final meeting of 1988 tonight at 7:30 at the Towle Park Barn. Winners of yearly competitions will be honored and officers for 1989 will be elected. The event will include a family chili supper.

WTC men in Cisco tonight

CISCO - Western Texas College's Westerners battle Cisco's Wranglers here at 8 p.m. in a non-conference basketball game. The Westerners are 3-0 on the young season, following an 85-81 victory over Ranger earlier in the week. WTC and Cisco will battle next Monday, Nov. 14, in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum.

Pee Wee games Nov. 19

Snyder and Big Spring will meet in a pair of Pee Wee All-Star Football Games here Nov. 19. Tickets are $1 at the gate. The games are slated for Tiger Stadium, but could be moved to Travis Field in the event any high school playoff games are scheduled. Action will begin at 5:30 p.m. with a 9-10 age game and will follow with an 11-12 age game.

Cat football teams play

Snyder underclassmen football teams close out the 1988 season this evening. Locally, the seventh graders play Midland Greenwood, 5 p.m. at Travis Field. The eighth grade tests Greenwood at 5 p.m. at Tiger Stadium. Snyder and Monahans junior varsity teams follow the eighth graders at approximately 6:30 p.m. In the only out of town contest, Snyder freshmen play in Monahans at 6 p.m.

Cagers to scrimmage

Snyder High School basketball teams are set for scrimmage action today. Snyder varsity boys host Merkel at 5:30 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum. The varsity girls will entertain Klondike and Roscoe in at the high school gym. Action will begin about 4 p.m. Klondike and Roscoe girls will also bring junior varsity teams. They will join Snyder freshmen in scrimmages at Gym 1, one of the practice gyms on the SHS campus.

Strange won't talk Player of Year

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Curtis Strange doesn't want to hear about the Player of the Year Award.

Or think about it. And he certainly doesn't want to talk about it.

"I got all caught up in that last year and it got me," said Strange, among those teeing off today in the first round of the season-ending Nabisco Championship, golf's richest event.

Last year, Strange came into this tournament, the last official-money event on the PGA Tour schedule, as the leading money-winner and the leader of the Player of the Year standings.

He finished dead last in the elite, 30-man field and saw Paul Azinger take Player of the Year honors.

This year, Strange is the challenger, the only man with a chance to overtake Sandy Lyle of Scotland in the Player of the Year race.

"I haven't thought that much about it," insisted Strange, the U.S. Open champ and, like Lyle, a three-time winner on the American tour.

His chances are slim. Under the complicated point system used to determine the Player of the Year, Strange would have to win the tournament and take over the money-winning lead.

Both are possible. Strange is seventh in the money standings with $612,644 coming into the last official event of the season.

This tournament, however, offers $2 million in prize money, with $360,000 going to the winner. In addition, there's another $1 million in bonus money, from the season-long Nabisco Grand Prix, with $175,000 going to the leading money-winner.

And that, more than anything, is Strange's goal.

"I would dearly love to win a third Arnold Palmer Trophy," which goes to the year's leading money-winner, Strange said.

or Cynthia Young Viola into the world.

"Sorry," the Minnesota Twins' ace left-hander says. "If it's a boy it's Steven Paul. If it's a girl it's Kalie Marie."

Viola, who on Wednesday was named a near-unanimous winner of 1988 AL Cy Young Award, is on a roll.

He was most valuable player in the Twins' seven-game triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1987 World Series. He started and won the 1988 All-Star Game. He joined Jim Perry as the only Twins to win the Cy Young. And any day now, he and his wife, Kathy, will become parents for the third time.

"This is the most incredible year-plus anyone could even dream of, let alone have happen," Viola said in a telephone interview from Orlando, Fla.

Viola has always been confident. Still, he was a bundle of nerves until the Baseball Writers Association of America finally notified him late Wednesday afternoon that he had won the Cy Young in a landslide.

"Today was the first day that I have to say, I was really nervous," he said. "Today, I knew it was the day. I was a little itchy."

Fortunately for Viola, the Twins pay him handsomely to pitch in front of big crowds. Including a $100,000 incentive for winning the Cy Young. Viola made $1.6 million in 1988. He'll get a $1.55 million base salary next year.

Viola rewarded the Twins with a major-league-leading 24-7 record in 1988. His 2.64 earned-run average and 193 strikeouts ranked third in the AL. The Twins didn't repeat as champions, but they did win 91 games - six more than they won during the 1987 regular season.

In the Cy Young balloting, Viola captured 27 of a possible 28 first-place votes and 138 of a possible 140 points.

Dennis Eckersley of the Oakland Athletics got the other first-place vote and was second with 52 points.

New rules and new role make Jackson formidable candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the ashes of a lost Democratic presidential campaign, Jesse Jackson heads toward the next one strengthened by new rules and a new role.

Next time, Jackson will begin as the Democrat to beat — which is what somebody almost certainly will do. The odds weigh heavily against the nomination of a black man in 1992, in a party that at times shrank from the word "liberal" during the campaign just ended.

Jackson said he doesn't fear that a liberal can't be elected. "Reaching out, making room, that's liberalism. So the liberal tradition is a proud tradition," he said. "I will not forsake it."

There surely will be ample competition, with Democratic names like Bradley, Cuomo, Nunn, Gore and Gephardt and more on the early list of possible entries for 1992. Even as Gov. Michael Dukakis conceded his loss to President-elect Bush his supporters were chanting "ninety-two, ninety-two."

Whatever the field, the standing Jackson won in 1988 and the rules concessions he gained from Dukakis at the Democratic National Convention will make him more formidable next time. For a while, Republicans tried to bill him as a virtual third partner in the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket. He was a major, nationally televised performer at the Atlanta convention.

Jackson is aware of the perils as well as its advantages of his enhanced political station. He's been talking with friends and advisers about the way to deal with both.

The first step already has been taken. It was a late campaign sprint in behalf of Dukakis. With it, Jackson guarded against any finger-pointing suggesting that he'd done less than his best for the Democratic ticket.

AP analysis

He said he'd put in more miles, registered more voters than anyone else in support of Dukakis. By election night his voice was hoarse and fading from the campaign strain as he said it was much too early to talk about 1992 politics.

"I have not yet made that decision, not even given it serious consideration," he said. That at least is the public posture.

Jackson also said the new political season began on Wednesday, pointing to city elections in 1989, off-year elections in 1990, the census and congressional reapportionment in 1991. "There's a lot to do, a lot of meaningful work, and I intend to be involved, right in the heart of it," said Jackson.

That involvement flows inexorably toward a third quest for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1992. Jackson's voter registration efforts for the Dukakis ticket will pay him dividends, too. His political action committee, Keep Hope Alive, fits the same pattern.

An initial test of his strength in party councils will come early next winter, when the Democratic National Committee elects a new chairman, or extends the tenure of Paul Kirk, who had planned to leave the post but may stay on temporarily for the sake of party peace.

Ron Brown, a Washington lawyer, Jackson's convention manager and a volunteer adviser to Dukakis, expects to seek the chairmanship. At least four other Democrats are prospective candidates.

While Jackson isn't saying so yet, he will be at work for Brown. Jackson allies were named to about a dozen at-large committee seats as part of a harmony pact with Dukakis at the Democratic convention in Atlanta. One of the new committeemen: Jesse Jackson Jr.

More important, delegate selection rules have been amended to Jackson's potential advantage in 1992.

Federal agents to probe allegations

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — A federal prosecutor said the U.S. Attorney's office here waited until after Election Day to explore reports that hundreds of non-citizens are registered to vote in South Texas, because the government wanted to avoid any appearance of taking sides.

"We waited because we don't want to be accused, one way or the other, of being involved in partisan politics and trying to influence the outcome of an election," said Jack Wolfe, assistant U.S. Attorney in McAllen.

He said federal prosecutors will coordinate the investigation with the FBI to look for "ghosts on the voting rolls," which he defined as people registered who do not intend to vote, and may not even know they are registered.

"What you can do, is you can now vote for them," Wolfe said. "You can request absentee ballots in their name. You can even appear at the polling place" with false identification.

"I don't think these aliens vote, but I think votes are cast for them," Wolfe added.

Republicans in Hidalgo County, on the Mexican border, approached the U.S. Attorney's office in McAllen after inadvertently finding hundreds of non-citizens while campaigning recently with telephone volunteers following the voter-registration list, said Tom Wingate, county GOP chairman.

"We've got several hundred names of people on the voter rolls of people who claim they are not U.S. citizens," Wingate said.

Citizenship is a requirement for voting eligibility. Those illegally registered include legal resident aliens as well as illegal aliens, Wingate said.

"In the past, we've had indications of the same type of activity going on," Wolfe said. "And we have arrested illegal aliens who had voter registration cards on them, and obviously they have those cards to prove citizenship."

The courts, which use voter registration lists to obtain jurors, also have encountered non-citizens who were not aware they were registered to vote, Wolfe added.

Democrats charged the GOP was trying to intimidate Hispanics after local Republicans last month produced radio advertisements warning that non-citizens can be prosecuted for voting.

The dispute resulted in the Justice Department sending 32 observers to oversee Tuesday's election in Hidalgo County, the state's only county to receive such federal scrutiny.

The federal observers were in the Lower Rio Grande Valley county to ensure against violations of the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination in the electoral process. They reported no such incidents Tuesday.

"There doesn't seem to be any desire on the part of the Democrats to protect the integrity of the voting process," Wingate said Wednesday.

County Democratic Chairman Richard Alamia responded, "That's a damn lie. The Democrats do care about abiding by the law."

He accused the local GOP of trying to gain politically by raising the allegations shortly before the election.

Wolfe said he asked the Republicans not to show him their evidence until after Election Day.

East Texas district goes Republican for first time

AUSTIN (AP) — After years of trying to chip away at a Democratic stronghold in East Texas, Republicans were giddy with success after winning state Senate district 1.

Republican Bill Ratliff, an engineer from Mount Pleasant, defeated Democratic incumbent Richard Anderson of Marshall by 50.9 percent to 49.1 percent.

"We elected a Senator in district 1 which is an historic first," said Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican. "That is supposed to be a solidly Democratic district. I'm looking forward to Mr. Ratliff coming here and being a member of the Senate, and that will be a tremendous change for the good," he said Wednesday.

"We busted our pick in it this time," said state Republican Party Chairman Fred Meyer.

Republicans have eyed the conservative district for years.

In 1985, the first major attempt to win there arose when U.S. Rep.

Sam Hall, a Democrat, resigned to become a federal judge and created a vacancy in the district. But the groundwork for a GOP challenge had been laid in 1984 when U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, campaigned heavily across East Texas.

The special election to replace Hall pitted Democrat Jim Chapman against Republican Edd Hargett, a former Texas A&M football star. Republicans sank $2 million in the race hoping to make a gain started in the 1984 Reagan landslide. Chapman won

Ornaments class set Nov. 16, 30

Students will create one-of-a-kind ceramic Christmas ornaments in a class scheduled by the Scurry County Museum.

Ty Brunson, Western Texas College art instructor, will teach the class from 1:30-3:30 p.m. on Nov. 16 and 30. Students will pay fees of $12 each which will cover the cost of materials used. Brunson will help students design and decorate their ornaments, which can be as simple or ornate as the student wishes. Ornaments left in the terra cotta clay would go well with the southwest look popular in holiday decorating this year.

Persons wishing to attend are to call the museum office at 573-6107 by noon on Tuesday.

with 50.9 percent of the vote and was hailed as a hero by Democrats on Capitol Hill.

In 1986, Hargett sought the Texas Senate seat vacated by Democrat Ed Howard, but was defeated in a special election this time by Anderson.

Controversy dogged Anderson during his two years in the Texas Senate.

He took the oath of office in September, 1986 despite a pending lawsuit that contended his election was unconstitutional. Anderson's term as Harrison County Judge didn't expire until December 31 and the Texas Constitution forbids an incumbent official from running for the Legislature until his term is over. Anderson claimed the provision didn't apply to special elections. The Texas Supreme Court dismissed the suit and he was seated in the Senate by a 23-6 vote along party lines.

"So, after years of trying, I finally decided — if you can't BEAT pompous hypocrites — JOIN 'EM!"

Town leaders celebrate super collider with colas and chips

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — News that this Central Texas town is where the federal government will sink its super conducting super collider — a 53-mile doughnut shaped hole in the ground — was met with backslapping and cola-sipping celebrations today.

The energy research project will bring 4,000 construction jobs within four to five years, plus 3,500 permanent jobs to this community of 18,000. It also will bring big changes to the quiet agribusiness and manufacturing county where many residents commute north to Dallas and where attractions include a polka festival and tours of Victorian gingerbread-trimmed homes.

N.B. "Buck" Jordan, executive director of the Waxahachie Chamber of Commerce for the past four years, said: "We're very elated about this situation, naturally. When you talk about what it means to us and the state of Texas — $275 million to $300 million is not anything to sneeze at."

Jordan said the chamber had yet to put together any big celebration — at least for today. "We plan to open up a bottle of Coke and a bottle of 7-Up and sit around the table and have some chip and dips," he said with a laugh.

"Four thousand construction jobs within a period of time of four to five years, 3,500 permanent jobs ... What can you say when you start putting those kind of figures together for the state of Texas, or this particular area? It's fantastic what's happening to the state of Texas right now," Jordan said. "It could certainly lift us out of the current slowdown in economic conditions we've been having."

But attorney Ron Johnson took the announcement calmly, saying the town's excitement about getting the project had waned somewhat since talk about the project began about two years ago.

"We were getting tired of hearing that word, 'super.' But this is super — a supercollider. I think almost everybody in business is going to be glad to see it here," he said.

"It's something we've been working on for almost two years and it looks like the work of a lot of people has paid off," said Waxahachie City Manager Robert W. Sokoll.

According to Sokoll, Waxahachie began a major capital improvement project in 1984 that will enable the community of 18,000 to grow to 40,000 with no difficulty.

"We have doubled the size of our sewer plants and we have constructed a 1.5 million overhead water storage system, spent several million on streets and there are presently engineering plans, ready to be bid in March to add 5 million gallons of water treatment (capacity) to our water treatment plant. We'll also be building new pump stations and new water lines to tie in to the enlarged water plant," he said.

The city's water plant was built about 30 years ago, he said. But with the coming of the supercollider comes the loss of homes in its path.

Ellis County Courthouse telephone operator Jo Ann Collier said she is one of 500 people who will lose at least some of their property.

"I don't even want to talk about this, except my house is going to be taken. I guess I'm going to have to pack up," she said. "Everyone around here is celebrating but the people who are losing their homes."

Police Chief Pierce Padgett, who heads a 36-person department, said with the good news comes the bad. "I'm sure there will be some bad news, maybe an increase in crime with more people. But by the time gets here, I hope we will have a bigger tax base so we can hire more people."

Television), featuring family entertainment.

—The Weather Channel, 24-hours of in-depth and local weather.

—The American Movie Classics (AMC) Channel, which offers "the greatest movies ever made in Hollywood" shown without commercial interruption.

—Nickelodeon, specializing in children's programming.

—The Home Shopping channel with "shop at home" items and services offered.

—The Home Sports Entertainment network, offering a varied selection of competitive sports programming.

Also, Galactic Radio, a radio service broadcast in stereo, will be available to cable subscribers that have stereo radios with an external antenna capability.

This will enable connection of the radio to the cable system by means of a signal splitter available at no charge from the cable office.

The service features six FM radio formats, to include rock, country, easy-listening, jazz and classical.

Another new feature of this audio-only programming will be the "In-Touch Network" for the visually impaired. At regularly scheduled times throughout the day, articles are read from the Wall Street Journal, Modern Romance, Gourmet Magazine and other print media.

Snyder Cablevision will be offering HBO, Cinemax, MTV and The Nashville Network in stereo for customers who have televisions capable of receiving stereo broadcasts.

To select this schedule of programming, Snyder Cablevision sent out surveys this summer to one in every five customers. From these returned questionnaires, the lineup was determined.

Snyder Cablevision will be offering free installation to all new customers between Dec. 1 and Dec. 31 and a free upgrade to any pay service. During the month of December, the two new premium services will be previewed free of charge to all basic customers.

Present customers will require a new converter box in order to receive the full 27 channels of basic programming and the free preview of Cinemax and Disney available beginning Dec. 1.

Cable customers with cable-ready television sets will have no need for the new converter to receive the cable package, company officials note.

To maintain an orderly flow of traffic through the cable office, a schedule will be followed to pickup converter boxes. Customers with last names beginning with the letters A through L are asked to pick these up between Nov. 14-19.

Customers with last names beginning with the letters M-Z should pick up their converters between Nov. 21-26. The cable office will be closed Nov. 24 for Thanksgiving.

In addition, all Snyder Cablevision customers are offered a 30 day free trial period for a wireless remote control.

Those keeping this remote control beyond the 30 day period will be charged $2.95 more each month.

For additional information, area residents should call Snyder Cablevision at 573-2327.

ANOTHER WOMAN (PG) It's easy to poke fun at Woody Allen's latest movie, since it's another of his Bergmanesque/Chekhovian affairs — a chamber drama made by a fellow who is best at making us laugh. How dare he forego his sense of humor? Indeed, his last somber effort, "September," was dreadful.

This time, Allen is getting similarly tepid notices, though "Another Woman" is a much more assured film — maybe even a breakthrough for him. Never before (not even in the wonderful "Annie Hall") has the writer-director so fully entered the consciousness of a character other than one played by himself.

Here, he takes us inside the mind of an overly controlled, middle-aged philosophy professor (Gena Rowlands) — a quietly disintegrating woman whose philandering physician husband (Ian Holm) is even more aloof and blocked than she is. Renting a flat in which to write a book, she discovers a curious acoustical problem: The neighboring apartment belongs to a shrink, and through the open grate she can hear one distraught patient's confessions. The overheard anguish catalyzes her own.

Shot by Sven Nykvist, the movie is austere and autumnal: New York has never looked so dark, so gray. At first, this bodes badly for the film. As the Rowlands character starts to fall apart, one worries that the movie will degenerate into Allen's dutiful homage to Bergman's "Face to Face" (where Liv Ullmann was the disintegrating intellectual). Even as the movie goes along, there are signs that Allen is still somewhat unsure of himself as a "serious artist." A self-conscious narration spoken by Rowlands often just verbalizes what we can already see.

Still, this small, uneven movie ultimately works. The key to its success is that Allen has chosen the right actress to embody his story of middle-aged angst. Gena Rowlands has fallen apart in movies before — usually in grainy, grueling films directed by her husband, John Cassavetes. Alas, Cassavetes often gave Rowlands too much free rein, and she responded by acting up a neurotic storm. This time, she's more subdued: Control seems to have been as good for Rowlands the actress as it is bad for the character of the professor. This is her best performance. GRADE: ★★★

MADAME SOUSATZKA (PG-13) Shirley MacLaine may really have learned something from "trance-channeling" and her other off-camera mystical pursuits. After all, in this tastefully romantic, John Schlesinger-directed portrait she truly seems to become the title character — a perfectionistic piano teacher who inspires young prodigies until they leave for greener pastures. Was MacLaine Madame Sousatzka in a previous life? She certainly captures her essence here.

It's a bit of a shock, too. Madame is a lot older and fleshier than we are accustomed to seeing MacLaine. And she's a lot more eccentric than earlier MacLaine characters.

Unfortunately, the rest of the movie — scripted somewhat preciously by Ruth Praver Jhabvala — is not as fresh as MacLaine's performance. The film waxes conventionally noble and inspirational over the teacher-student relationship as embodied by MacLaine, and by Navin Chowdhry, playing a talented Indian boy who becomes Sousatzka's latest challenge. Meanwhile, Twiggy brings some zest to the sketchy role of an aspiring pop star who lives upstairs. Overall, the movie has a slightly musty aura, but MacLaine — and gobs of well-played piano music — give it some life. GRADE: ★★★

New Home Video

THE SERPENT AND THE RAINBOW (R) MCA, $89.95. Horror-film director Wes Craven's 1988 tale of mystical terror is based on a non-fiction book by Wade Davis, and the blend of horror and anthropology seemed to bother some people. If you can stand the gore, you may be intrigued by this suggestive little thriller.

It's about a Harvard anthropologist (Bill Pullman) who investigates a Haitian powder thought to transform people into zombies. The movie makes a provocative connection — however politically specious — between the last days of Baby Doc Duvalier's dictatorship in Haiti and the darker forces of voodoo: GRADE: ★★★ (Film grading: ★★★★★ — great, ★★★★★ — good, ★★ — fair, ★ — poor)

Insurance industry strikes back at rate-cutting referendum

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nearly 50 insurance companies have swiftly answered a voter revolt against skyrocketing rates by announcing they will stop writing certain policies in California, an industry spokesman says.

At least six other insurance companies, including Aetna Life & Casualty and Fireman's Fund Insurance Cos., said they have withdrawn or intend to withdraw from the auto insurance business in California as a result of the passage of Proposition 103, which was backed by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

On Wall Street, stocks of several companies handling large amounts of insurance in California were down Wednesday.

"We're finding exactly what we feared, and that is that there's no marketplace left as a result of the passage of Proposition 103," says Don Stewart, executive director of the Pasadena-based American Agents Alliance, a 600-member association of independent insurance brokers and agents.

Under Proposition 103, insurers must lower almost all insurance rates, including those on auto, home and business policies, by 20 percent below November 1987 levels. The reductions must be offered when policies come due.

It also requires an additional 20 percent cut in auto rates for drivers with good records, gives control over most rate increases to an elected insurance commissioner, strictly limits the use of territorial rating to set auto rates, and subjects the industry to state antitrust and unfair business practice laws.

Proposition 103 was approved by a narrow margin Tuesday despite the insurance industry's $60 million campaign seeking its defeat. It was the nation's most costly state ballot question battle ever.

Forgery report is investigated

Two male suspects were identified in an attempted forgery by passing offense at Olney Savings Wednesday afternoon, and a city detective said the case would be forward to the district attorney's office for disposition.

An Olney customer, Kevin Boyd, told officers at 12:10 p.m. Wednesday that two men had tried to cash a check on his account at the savings and loan institution.

The detective said the suspects were identified about two hours later.

Following a 7 p.m. Wednesday report of people smoking marijuana in an apartment in the 1900 Block of Coleman Ave., police took two adults and a juvenile into custody at the address.

A 15-year-old boy was arrested for possession of less than two ounces of marijuana and was later released into the custody of his parents.

A 21-year-old woman and 26-year-old man were arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia in the same incident.

A 24-year-old woman was arrested for DWI at 12:49 a.m. Thursday in the 4000 Block of College Ave.

Carriker, Counts vote tallies near 60 percent

With all precincts reporting, State Sen. Steve Carriker and State Rep-elect David Counts garnered almost 60 percent of the votes in their elections Tuesday.

Carriker defeated Republican Bobby Albert of Wichita Falls with 92,904 votes for 59.4 percent. Albert, who failed to carry his home county, tallied 63,458 votes for 40.6 percent.

Counts, a Knox County insurance man, defeated former Snyder mayor Rod Waller with 59.7 percent of the votes. Counts, a Democrat, polled 19,937 votes in the 78th District while Waller had 13,450 for 40.3 percent.

Crash prompts grounding, inspections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force is inspecting all of its B-1B bombers for electrical, hydraulic and fuel line problems following the crash of one of the costly new planes in Texas.

The inspections were prompted by Tuesday's crash during a routine training flight out of Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene, Texas. The four men aboard ejected safely after steering the flaming aircraft away from homes where it crashed west of Abilene.

Pentagon officials said Wednesday that the remaining B-1Bs, long-range bombers designed to carry out nuclear strikes against the Soviet Union, would be grounded until the inspections were completed.

Col. Albert Jensen, wing commander at Dyess, said television footage of Tuesday's crash led Air Force officials to believe the plane was downed by a fire in or around its two left-wing engines.

Jensen said the aircraft commander, or pilot, Capt. Michael E. "Muddy" Waters, "did an absolutely tremendous job, thinking of the other crew members as well as the local populace, before he got out of the aircraft."

Although Jensen declined to give specific details about the final seconds of the flight, he clearly implied Waters stayed with the aircraft as long as he could and guided it to an unpopulated area before joining the rest of the crew in ejecting.

"He was the last man out of the aircraft," Jensen said. "It was his judgment, while the aircraft still had good flight characteristics, to steer the aircraft to an unpopulated area. He did an absolutely tremendous job."

Some training flights had resumed at Dyess by Wednesday afternoon. Officials said the planes flying had passed the inspection ordered by the Strategic Air Command.

The inspections take two to three hours per plane, according to the Air Force.

An Air Force official at the Pentagon, who asked not to be named, said the inspections generally focus on electrical, hydraulic and fuel lines. The official declined to be more specific, as did Lt. Col. George H. Peck, a spokesman at SAC headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

SAC, which is responsible for land-based nuclear bomber and missile forces, said the grounding and inspection order was issued Wednesday as a "normal precaution" in the wake of a major accident.

Peck said the order would not affect the B-1B's current standing alert to be ready for immediate takeoff in the event of nuclear war.

In Texas, the Air Force set up a roadblock to seal off the crash site Wednesday and sent in military investigators, who spent the day mapping the area and searching through debris.

The wreckage was scattered over an area seven miles by two miles, said Al Dostal, an Air Force spokesman.

Jensen said his speculation of a fire around the left wing engines was based on a video tape aired on a television newscast.

The Air Force has been criticized over the past two years for its handling of the B-1B program, primarily because of acknowledged problems in developing the bomber's radar-jamming gear. However, the service insists the plane is still the best long-range bomber in the world.

The Air Force has purchased 100 B-1Bs at a total cost of $27.3 billion, or about $273 million per plane. The last plane was delivered on April 30.

Tuesday's crash was the second involving a production-model B-1B in 14 months, leaving the Air Force with 98 of its original 100 planes.

The bombers have been deployed at four bases: Dyess; Ellsworth AFB, S.D.; Grand Forks AFB, N.D., and McConnell AFB, Kan.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My friend has been told she has Lou Gehrig's disease. The writings are so very technical about it. Could you please explain the disease in simple language?

DEAR READER: Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) is sometimes called Lou Gehrig's disease, a remembrance of the great baseball player who died of the ailment and thereby attracted much public attention.

ALS is a neurological disorder of unknown cause, marked by progressive degeneration of nervous system tissue that supplies muscles. It causes weakness and wasting of the muscles of the hands, forearms and legs. Cramps and difficulty speaking (and swallowing) are common.

ALS usually starts in middle age and progresses rapidly, with death occurring in two to five years. Although there is no known treatment, patients can be aided by physical therapy and nursing care.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had arthritis very badly. About three years ago, while trimming some evergreens, I fell right into a yellow jacket nest. I ran into the house and got into a tub of cold water with lots of soda bicarbonate. I soaked several times over the next few days. During that time, my arthritis disappeared. I'm not kidding — it's gone. Is there some medical reason for this?

DEAR READER: Certain forms of inflammatory arthritis are marked by what doctors call "spontaneous remission." In other words, some people get well for unknown reasons without therapy.

Therefore, doctors often have difficulty in determining if patients get well on their own, or from treatment.

The relation you describe — arthritis cure after bee-stings — has been reported, and provides the basis for the scientifically unproven technique of administering bee venom to arthritic patients. No one knows precisely how this works, as it does in a small percentage of cases.

Evidently, venom stimulates the immune system to produce antibody protein that interrupts the body's reaction to itself, the presumed cause of some arthritis.

For example, rheumatoid arthritis is often treated with medicines that shut off the immune reaction, and is sometimes helped by bee venom.

To my knowledge, most reputable allergists discount the bee-venom cure for arthritis, but, in my opinion, we ought to keep the subject under investigation as long as there is some evidence that it is occasionally successful.

For more information, I am sending you a free copy of my health report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I read an article in a popular magazine about herpes and fever blisters. It said that if someone with fever blisters only (Herpes 1) had oral sex while he or she had a blister, the partner could get Herpes 2. True?

DEAR READER: Herpes simplex virus causes painful, recurring crops of blisters in various parts of the body. Type 1 infections tend to occur around the mouth and nose, type 2 in the genital area.

To a degree, this categorization is useful in defining herpes infections, but from a practical standpoint, herpes is herpes; type 1 and type 2 look and behave the same way, are transmitted by direct human-to-human contact and are treated with the same drug (acyclovir).

I think that if someone with oral herpes type 1 had oral sex, the virus could be transmitted to the genital area, causing type 1 infection. However, genital herpes is generally considered to be type 2. Rather than wasting time trying to figure out who gave what to whom, I'd simply go ahead and treat both partners.

Deputy, two others killed

PROCTOR, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers have been called in to piece together the sequence of events that led a Proctor man to shoot his ex-wife and a Comanche County lawyerman before putting a rifle to his own head and killing himself.

Proctor authorities believe Billy Jackson McDonald, 39, shot and killed his ex-wife, Elizabeth Jane Green, 30, and Chief Deputy David Jones before turning the gun on himself about 1:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Gunpowder tests not introduced in court

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A crime expert says results of gunpowder tests that could prove an American teenager did not shoot and kill a Juarez policeman have not been forwarded to the judge hearing the case.

"I'd bet if the tests had been positive, you'd have them there," said Kelly Martin, 18, who is accused of the May 7 slaying of Lt. Jose Zuniga Acevedo.

At a hearing Tuesday in the 7th District Court, criminologist Luis Aguirre Mesa testified in the hearing that two gunpowder tests, designed to determine whether Martin of Dell City had fired a gun, had come out negative.

Mesa said the information wasn't forwarded to the court because negative tests results usually aren't unless they are requested.

Martin and another Dell City teen-ager were arrested just hours after Juarez police officer Pedro Vera Gallegos was shot to death.

The other teen was released for lack of evidence, but Martin has been in custody since his arrest on charges of murder, injuries, theft of a police gun and unauthorized use of a police car.

Martin has said he and a friend, Dale Bridges, were bar-hopping in Juarez when the police officers stopped them, took them to an alley and demanded money. Juarez police frequently solicit bribes and have a reputation for shaking down drunken, rowdy American teen-agers who take advantage of Juarez's drinking age of 18 and infest the downtown streets on weekends.
