Ellis County celebrates super collider

Preparations, studies, proposals finally pay off

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — It's been a long time coming, but finally the $4.4 billion super collider is coming to this county seat town with its landmark courthouse and gingerbread homes.

After years of hesitant preparations, studies and proposals, Ellis County residents rushed to town squares, popping champagne corks and struck up the bands to celebrate the Department of Energy's decision Thursday to bring the project to North Texas.

"It's a very festive mood," said David Lander, mayor pro tem of Midlothian, a town of 5,000 in northwest Ellis County. "Everyone is very excited. It's obviously going to be a tremendous boost to our North Texas economy. About the only thing that might be similar to this would be being named the city to host the next Olympics."

Parties and speeches began shortly after the 11 a.m. confirmation that Ellis County would be the home of the giant atom smasher that attracted bids from more than 20 states.

Jubilant Texans cheered at victory gatherings at the county courthouse and Chamber of Commerce in Waxahachie, the Midlothian City Hall and the Ennis town square, as high school bands played and bank signs flashed the good news: SSC SSC SSC We Got It!

"It's definitely a big day in this town," said Shannon Simpson, curator of the Ellis County Museum in Waxahachie. "I guess I'll start collecting super collider studies and maps now."

"The collider's going to put Texas back where it ought to be," said Steve Wylie of Bardwell, who party-hopped to all the celebrations

For many residents, the 53-mile super collider ring will mean new jobs, a more technical workforce, a stronger housing market, better schools, prosperity for an area once known exclusively for its cotton farms and cattle ranches. If built, the super collider would bring an estimated 4,000 construction jobs and 3,500 permanent jobs to the now 18,000-population Waxahachie, located about 30 miles south of Dallas.

"The Super Collider is an investment in our future," said Phil Bronson of Waxahachie.

"The educational level will come up once we get all the technical people in here."

"I've been through a lot of land speculation in this county, but nothing like this," said real estate agency owner Tom Crabb. "The land values here could double inside the ring — maybe more."

But for others, the changes will have a more personal value.

"You know what this town has needed, but never had?" said Bob Hamilton of Rutherford Crossing, a rural development outside Waxahachie.

FCIC reports no fraud

The reports of possible fraudulent federal crop insurance claims in five counties, to include Scurry, prompted a statement from officials with the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. Thursday that "no cause for disciplinary action" has been found.

In early October, U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm notified FCIC officials that he had received reports of cotton in the five counties being "disastered" when it should have been ginned.

The counties mentioned in the report were Scurry, Nolan, Fisher, Jones and Mitchell County.

Thursday, Michael Forgash, FCIC information director, said the findings of an investigation into these reports indicated that the loss procedure process for "disastered" crops should be followed. See FCIC, page 11

Q. — Has Scurry County had its first freeze yet?
A. — Not officially. The lowest official reading of the year to date was in the early morning hours last Sunday, Nov. 6, when the mercury dipped to 36 degrees. The average first freeze date for Scurry County is Nov. 4.

Church's suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The battle over Church's Fried Chicken is getting messier with a shareholder filing a class-action lawsuit against the company's board of directors, claiming its actions to avert a hostile takeover jeopardized shareholders' equity interests.

San Antonio-based Church's recently recommended to shareholders to reject an inadequate $290 million takeover offer by Popeyes Famous Fried Chicken and Biscuits, owned by A. Copeland Enterprises Inc. of New Orleans.

Robert J. Piro and the Three Bridges Investment Group filed the suit in state district court Tuesday.

He is accused of bank fraud, misapplication of funds, conspiracy and illegally sharing in the proceeds of a bank transaction. No one answered Associated Press telephone calls to Lemons' Vernon home.

Audit directs shift of budget category

Audit recommendations offered to Snyder school board members Thursday included that some $400,000 in budgeted monies be shifted to a more correct budget category and that almost $41,000 of a holdover cash balance be placed in the school's general fund.

The directions were given by outside auditor Joe Morren of Colorado City during the board's regular November meeting.

Of greatest importance, noted Morren, is the change in budget status of the $400,000 amount.

He noted the old method has budget items in fact related to "instruction" carried under the budget category for administrative functions.

This occurred mainly because health insurance was budgeted in the administration budget rather than where the payroll for such items was incurred — under "instruction."

During the staff changes in the school business office, Morren also noted, year-end adjustments related to these budgeted items were "inadvertently omitted."

The net result was that actual expenditures for the district at the close of last fiscal year were greater than the figures quoted with the final and amended budget.

Because of this, he said, the district received a "hand slap from the agency," a reference to the monitoring of such financial reports by the Texas Education Agency.

Regarding the holdover cash balance, Morren noted "the district still has $40,880 in a fund originally established for the retirement of debt."

The amount remained after the district had completed its single remaining outstanding debt, one inherited with the consolidation of the Fluvanna school district — money owed for the construction of a gymnasium.

Snyder ISD is currently debt-free and, during last fiscal year, was not required to borrow even short-term loans to cover its expenses.

This $40,880 holdover will be shifted toward capital improvement projects.

In other aspects of the district's operation, Morren noted that the district experienced a drop of its "cash on hand" of some $171,000 during the year. This occurred as money kept in temporary investments to draw interest was shifted into the operational budget to help offset tax value declines and losses in property tax income.

Lair, Tale win awards

First and second places have been won on the national level by Snyder High's student publications, the 1987-88 "Tiger's Tale" newspaper and the 1988 "Tiger's Lair" yearbook.

Competing in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, a national organization of student publications, the newspaper won first place, earning 926 points out of a possible 1,000. It also received special recognition with All-Columbian honors in the areas of "coverage and business." This was the second year for the newspaper to compete on the national level.

Staff members were Sharon Doty, editor-in-chief; Nelda Dela Rosa, associate editor; Paula Caldwell, Angie Buchanan, Jennifer Pate and Lisa McCullough, page editors; Robin Cawthron and Stephen Williamson, staff writers; and Kenny Gambrell, artist.

Select asbestos areas 'friable' under cover

An update on a study of asbestos material present in Snyder school campus buildings was offered to the school board Thursday, including a report that pinpoints priority areas if and when removal of the material is ordered.

Lawton Taylor, head of maintenance, told the board that preliminary findings of a federally-mandated "management plan" for the district had been returned.

While all asbestos material in school buildings here has been "encapsulated" or covered, Taylor said ceilings in the Snyder High School Auditorium, the West Elementary gymnasium and auditorium ceilings and in select areas of North Elementary had been found to have "friable" asbestos beneath its covering. Insulation wrapping around pipes at Central Elementary was also found to be "friable," he said.

This indicates the asbestos is "crumbly" beneath its covering and, if the cover material was ever disturbed, has the potential to become airborne.

"It's safe," Taylor said, "we just don't know what future action we might have to take as part of the management plan."

One of the decisions as part of this plan will be if the district will be required to remove these asbestos areas in the immediate future.

Higher Reagan deficit estimate already faces president-elect

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect George Bush has been given the glum news that the budget deficit in the next fiscal year will be $21 billion higher than the Reagan administration had previously estimated.

That information means that Bush will be facing an even bigger budget headache when he takes office on Jan. 20.

The new deficit estimate was presented to Bush and President Reagan during a Cabinet briefing Thursday on the administration's final budget submission to Congress.

Joseph Wright Jr., director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the OMB now estimates that the deficit for the 1990 fiscal year, which begins next Oct. 1, will be $132 billion, substantially higher than the $111 billion deficit estimate OMB made just three months ago.

Officials said the main factors boosting the deficit estimate were the drought, which slowed economic growth this year, and higher-than-expected interest rates, which raised the cost of financing the $2.6 trillion national debt.

The Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law's deficit target for 1990 is $100 billion, which means that $32 billion in budget cuts will be needed to close the gap between revenues and spending.

Achieving such sizable cuts in the face of congressional opposition to further reductions in domestic programs will present Bush with major political problems.

During the campaign, Bush sidestepped specifics on how he would deal with the budget deficit by touting a plan for a "flexible freeze." Bush said he would allow government spending to grow only enough to match inflation. Within the overall freeze, selected programs could grow while others would be cut.

However, Bush avoided providing details on what programs he would cut in order to free funds for increases that he promised to make in education, child care and health care for the poor.

The budget document Reagan sends to Congress on Jan. 9 will reflect his decisions, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

However, officials said it was likely that Bush would rewrite at least part of the document once he takes office, just as Reagan did in 1981 when he submitted his own budget to Congress in place of the budget left behind by President Carter.

Officials refused to comment on reports that the final Reagan budget will call for substantial increases in defense spending and steep cuts in domestic programs as a way of providing Bush with the opportunity to present a "kinder, gentler" budget blueprint once he takes office.

OMB spokeswoman Barbara Clay said that Reagan's final budget would not include any tax increases, something the president has consistently opposed, or seek to trim Social Security benefits as a way of meeting the $100 billion Gramm-Rudman deficit target.

"We have some difficult choices ahead" on where to cut spending, she said.

With estimates on future deficits rising, many private economists are convinced that Bush will be forced to accept some type of tax increase despite his oft-repeated opposition to new taxes during the campaign.

House Speaker Jim Wright on Thursday said that the first signal on whether Bush is serious about reducing the budget deficit is likely to come from his appointment of two members to the National Economic Commission, a bipartisan advisory group created to come up with a blueprint for eliminating the budget deficit.

Bush criticized the commission during the campaign as a device for raising taxes, but Wright said if Bush is serious about dealing with the deficit, he will weigh carefully his appointments, which are expected to be made soon.

Governor credits teamwork effort

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says a solid proposal and teamwork by Texans was the winning edge in the national competition for the $4.4 billion superconducting super collider.

"There's an awful lot of credit that goes to a lot of people. We pulled a lot of different constituencies together. We hitched all these people to the same wagon, and those horses really performed," Bill Clements said Thursday.

The state's pitch to lure the atom-smasher project dated back to 1983 and included more than $1 billion in financial incentives.

Man is sole survivor of Last Man's Club

SAN PABLO, Calif. (AP) — Fifty-six years later, Albert Furrer is finally the last man of The Last Man's Club.

The 96-year-old civic leader today will get that bottle of Mumm's champagne the club bought after the 32 World War I veterans reunited in 1932 and decided they would get together every Veterans Day.

"What else can I say but that I'm here until the end," Furrer said Thursday from his bed at Brookside Hospital, where he had a malignant growth removed this week.

"I came through floods, fires, wars ... my God, you come through it all, and I don't know if it's an honor or a sort of curse," added Furrer, who lives in a nearby nursing home.

"It's rough to see all your friends die off. Old people don't make many new friends."

The champagne bottle, encased in a decorative mahogany box, is in the hands of the family of the club's former secretary-treasurer, Victor Parachini, who died in February at age 89. For the past four years, he and Furrer had been the club's only surviving members. The bottle is signed by the club's original 32.

After all these years, the champagne is mostly a symbolic trophy, having gone sour. A new bottle will accompany it so Furrer can hold the club's final celebration today, Veterans Day, which was called Armistice Day before 1954.

The Last Man's Club was modeled after similar efforts by Revolutionary War veterans to maintain camaraderie, said Furrer. Its members all came from Contra Costa County, across the Bay from San Francisco.

The club's name was derived from the members' intention to leave a sizable endowment to the last surviving member through annual dues. At one point, its coffers held $30,000.

But the money was spent on the Veterans Day parties and on helping members who had fallen on hard times, and the fund dried up about five years ago.

"They were all the kind of fellas you'd be proud to be associated with," Furrer recalled.

ed. "It was a great thing when we were all together. It was the kind of deal where we all helped each other."

Furrer, who ran a stationery store for most of his life and served on numerous community boards, remembers the annual club parties as classy evenings of entertainment and food.

Besides those affairs, members attended funerals of deceased members.

The one thing club members never did was talk about the war, said Furrer, explaining that the group didn't want to relive their wartime experiences despite their desire to stay in touch.

Betty Maffei of the Contra Costa County Historical Society will put the Mumm's on display in nearby Pleasant Hill after today's celebration and keep it for posterity.

DR TE named champion

DR TE, a six-year-old brown American quarter horse stallion owned by the Hays Ranch of Snyder, recently was named AQHA Champion by the American Quarter Horse Association. The stallion has earned 18 halter and 162 performance points in AQHA open division show competition. Points are awarded based on the number of entries and a horse's placing in a particular class.

To be named AQHA Champion, a horse must win a minimum of 35 points at official AQHA shows. Two grand champions must be earned, in addition to a minimum of 15 points in halter and performance classes. The AQHA Champion Award is but one of several awards provided by the association to youth, amateur and professional exhibitors.

Headquartered in Amarillo, AQHA is the world's largest equine registry, claiming more than 2.6 million quarter horses in its files. More than 2,400 approved shows were conducted in 1987, attracting 689,362 entries in amateur, youth and open division competition.

Increase in prices foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail prices for dairy products will rise in the months ahead partly because of tight supplies at the wholesale level, according to a new forecast from the Agriculture Department.

"However, increases in dairy prices are not likely to appear dramatic in comparison with other prices," said the situation and outlook report released by USDA earlier this week.

The report noted that milk prices had already increased this year and said the average rise in retail dairy costs for 1988 should be about 2 percent over 1987 levels.

The average September price for milk was $12.20 for each 100 pounds, down 50 cents from a year ago but an increase of 40 cents over a month earlier.

Markets for dairy products were already tight last summer when the drought began to send feed prices soaring. The report said the reason was strong domestic use of skim milk-based products and rising demand for nonfat dry milk exports.

Production was already easing when the drought struck, the report said, a factor guaranteed to magnify the impact of higher feed prices on milk production. Total 1988 milk production is expected to be around 1 percent more, however, than the 1987 level of 142.5 billion pounds.

Since May, prices of American cheese and nonfat dry milk have climbed 15 percent to 20 percent, the report said.

"These markets probably will stay quite tight until yearend because of low stocks, strong domestic and export demand and weakening milk production," the report said. It said, however, that butter prices have had difficulty holding last summer's small increase.

Feed prices most likely will be substantially higher next year than they have been, primarily because of the drought, the report said. It noted forecasts of corn production at its lowest level since the 1983 drought.

"Use is not expected to decrease as much as production and stocks may fall by two-thirds," the report said.

It reiterated earlier estimates of a tighter soybean market as a result of the drought.

As a result, the report said, farmers are going to have to pay more to feed their cows and therefore will have fewer cows producing milk.

"The drought-caused boosts in feed costs will be the dominant factor affecting milk production," it said.

Lawmakers say veto unnecessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's veto of a nutrition monitoring bill was "unfortunate and unnecessary," says a group of lawmakers including the chairmen of the House and Senate agriculture committees.

"The president's veto of nutrition monitoring legislation on election day is astonishing," they said Thursday in a statement.

The legislation called for a 10-year assessment of the health and well being of Americans and the American diet with special focus on the elderly, pregnant women, infants, children and the homeless.

Under the bill, which Reagan vetoed Wednesday, the secretaries of agriculture and health and human services would have reviewed in advance any federal advice to consumers on what to eat and what not to eat. The provision was designed to make the federal government speak with one voice on nutrition and safety issues.

"We believe the veto of this legislation was unfortunate and unnecessary," the statement said. "We will press for passage of this legislation at the outset of the 101st Congress," which meets in January.

In vetoing the bill, Reagan said that the "administration strongly supports the principal goals of this legislation and reaffirms its commitment to use existing authority to achieve these ends."

Reagan said in a statement, however, that "enactment of the bill would set up federal nutrition efforts on the wrong course."

Judge will not drop charges against North

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he rejected defense motions to dismiss the case against former presidential aide Oliver L. North because they reflected a cynical attempt by the Iran-Contra defendant to put himself above the law.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell wrote that North's arguments for dismissing charges he lied to then-Attorney General Edwin Meese III and destroyed National Security Council documents "reveals a skewed attitude toward our form of constitutional government."

North is accused of obstructing a November 1986 presidential inquiry into the Iran-Contra affair by lying to Meese about diverting U.S.-Iran arms-sale profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

North contends he committed no crime because Meese lacked legal authority to question him.

"Ours is a country governed by the rule of law," Gesell said in his opinion released Thursday. "There is nothing in the Constitution, federal statutes or applicable decisions which warrants this cynical approach. To merely state it provides the response. This court must reject it totally."

In a separate development, the Justice Department touched off a confrontation with independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh by objecting to a brief he filed in North's case. It said the brief "mischaracterizes basic constitutional principles," but Walsh issued a statement rejecting the accusation.

Gesell said North, in seeking to have the case against him dismissed, was arguing that "he had the absolute right to lie, to obstruct such inquiries, and to remove or destroy official NSC records because he had not been warned that if he did so he might be indicted."

North "fails to appreciate the gravity of his alleged conduct," the judge said.

"North did in fact have fair warning that mendacity and obstruction, coupled with destruction of official documents, was illegal," the judge wrote.

Defense lawyers argued that North couldn't be prosecuted for giving false answers because he wasn't subpoenaed or placed under oath by Meese and that the attorney general's inquiry was not a "pending proceeding" before a government agency.

"If the allegations in the indictment are factually correct, North breached the high public duty with which he was entrusted" when questioned by Meese on Nov. 23, 1986, the judge said.

"The court will not give judicial approval to the suggestion that he was free in these circumstances to place his personal interests or objections to national policy ahead of the public trust he had accepted," Gesell wrote.

Walsh, the independent counsel, "will need only to prove at trial that the specific questions posed to North by the attorney general were precise and material to this legitimate presidential inquiry" and that North purposely lied, the judge said.

The retired Marine lieutenant colonel is charged with conspiring with former national security adviser John M. Poindexter and arms dealers Albert Hakim and retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord to illegally divert U.S.-Iran arms-sale profits to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Gesell also indicated he would deny similar motions to dismiss charges that North lied to Congress in 1985 and 1986 about his role in covert aid to the Contras.

No date has been set for North's trial, the first of four separate trials ordered by the judge.

In its court filing critical of Walsh's Oct. 25 pleading in the North case, the Justice Department asked Gesell for permission to "articulate, clearly and definitively the executive's view of the law which governs the relationship between the president and the Congress."

A deft countermove

By James Jacoby

Here is a deal in which the traditional approach to playing this hand would seem to be in order. In four hearts, your only losers are the A-K of hearts and the club ace. So you draw trumps as quickly as possible. Unfortunately defender West is a step ahead of you. He grabs the first trump lead with his king and plays a second spade, the deuce, completing his high-low begun with the opening lead and confirming to his partner that he would like very much to ruff the third round of the suit. When you play a second heart, West takes the ace and leads a club to his partner's ace. A spade back lets West take the setting trick with the lowly deuce of hearts.

Florida expert and renowned teacher Bill Root found a way to circumvent the well-laid plans of the defenders. After West had led the second spade, Root played A-K-Q of diamonds, throwing a club away. Then he played the last diamond from dummy. When East discarded a club, declarer threw his last club away. West won the trick, but now South was able to ruff when West tried to get East on lead with the club ace. There was no way for West to get his spade ruff, and declarer made his game.

Texas super collider site should also benefit state of Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officials say Oklahoma and the rest of the Southwest will benefit from Texas' selection as the site for the $4.4 billion super collider project.

"It moves ... the center of gravity for basic research in our direction," Ed Bingle, geologist and director of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission in charge of the site, said Thursday. "This facility, and this is a bad pun, has a magnetic effect in terms of research ... that goes far beyond Texas."

Energy Department Secretary John Herrington announced Thursday that the federal project, if approved by Congress, will be built on some 16,000 farm acres in Texas' Ellis County about 35 miles south of Dallas.

Bill Banowsky, head of the Texas effort to land the collider project, said the site is "strikingly close to the Red River border."

He pointed out the super collider, which if built will be the largest scientific instrument ever constructed, will be almost equidistant from the University of Oklahoma in Norman and the University of Texas in Austin.

"It's going to have a wonderful impact on Oklahoma," he said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles.

Banowsky, a former president of Oklahoma, said the collider, 20 times more powerful than any in existence, will make the Southwest "an important center for technology" that no longer will pale next to California's Silicon Valley.

"The decision to locate the superconducting super collider in Texas is great news for Oklahoma," said Gov. Henry Bellmon. "This will have both a direct and indirect beneficial effect on Oklahoma and the Southwest."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Supercollider may unlock secrets of creation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Physicists hope the superconducting super collider will help them explain the very origin of matter itself and perhaps lead them to their holy grail: a single theory that unites all the forces of nature, from gravity spanning galaxies to the mysterious bonds that hold the proton together.

The first task of the collider, if it is built, may be a search for the Higgs particle, named after Peter Higgs of the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, the scientist who first postulated its existence.

Scientists say this subnuclear particle should emerge from proton-proton collisions 20 times more powerful than anything possible today. Finding it would be a giant step forward in understanding nature.

The super collider, a 53-mile around machine, will be the first atom smasher able to concentrate in a small volume of space the energy density that must have existed in the theoretical "big bang" origin of the universe. The Energy Department on Thursday selected a site near Dallas for the giant machine, even though Congress has not yet decided it should be built.

The current picture of nature, called the "standard model," is tantalizingly incorrect — but nobody is sure just where it goes wrong. At very high energies, the theory predicts certain particle interactions will occur with greater than 100 percent probability — which is an impossibility.

Modifications to fix up the standard model almost always require extremely energetic collisions for their experimental tests.

A recent example of theory-testing on which the collider will build is the discovery of the so-called W and Z particles at the CERN particle accelerator in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1983, predicted by the "electroweak" theory. This shows the fundamental identity of the familiar forces of electricity and magnetism and the weak forces responsible for some forms of nuclear radioactivity, including the reactions responsible for the sun's energy.

It is the W and Z particles that carry the unified "electroweak" force, just as it is the familiar photon or particle of light that carries the electromagnetic force.

Though the masses of the W and Z particles could be estimated in advance as roughly 90 times that of the proton, there is no way to calculate the mass of the Higgs particle. But scientists say there should be an upper limit of about 1,000 times the mass of the proton.

All mass is equivalent to energy, shown in the famous "EMC squared" relationship first developed by Albert Einstein. That is, the energy of any particle is equal to its mass times the speed of light squared.

It's convenient to speak of mass in terms of "electron volts," the energy acquired by an electron falling through a voltage. Electrons in the filament of a flashlight bulb are accelerated through 3 electron volts.

The mass of a proton at rest is a little less than a billion electron volts.

The total collision energy must be around 40 trillion electron volts to create a particle of 1 trillion electron volts. The world's most powerful accelerator, at Fermi Lab in Chicago, can produce 2 trillion electron volts, whereas the super collider is designed to generate 40 trillion electron volts.

"Our lack of understanding of the masses of the various particles is a very deep problem," the super collider Central Design Group wrote in its 1986 report.

The standard model says protons and neutrons are made of smaller particles called "quarks" held together by force-carrying particles called "gluons."

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had an operation for chronic sinusitis during which my septum was corrected. I still have terrific headaches, pressure in my eyes and nose and funny vision. The doctors are puzzled. Where do I go from here?

DEAR READER: I think you have to discover the reason for your symptoms. Your doctor can either provide this service or refer you to someone who can.

Headaches and eye pressure are two cardinal symptoms of sinus infection. A series of sinus X-rays should reveal whether or not you have continuing sinusitis, despite the septum operation. This operation moves the plate of cartilage separating the nostrils to a more midline position, thereby getting it away from the openings through which the sinuses drain.

However, you may still be suffering from sinus infection that results from blockage by other tissue. (Also, remember that it may take up to a year for the operated-on tissue to recover.) Further surgery may be necessary.

On the other hand, your symptoms may not reflect sinusitis at all. Allergies, neuralgia and dental infections are three common conditions that mimic sinus infection.

A capable specialist should be able to sort out this situation. Obviously, further treatment depends on the underlying cause.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my health report "Headaches." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: At age 25 I was told I had rheumatoid arthritis. Now at 44, the pain, swelling and red welts around my joints are much worse, but another test said I didn't have arthritis. Is this Lyme disease, lupus or what?

DEAR READER: Rheumatoid arthritis, a form of joint inflammation due to the body's reaction to its own normal tissues, can often be diagnosed by a blood test. A patient with this disease would be called "seropositive."

However, some patients who appear to have rheumatoid arthritis do not have a positive blood test. They are called "seronegative." This means that they have rheumatoid arthritis, but it doesn't show up on the blood test.

In your case, one of two things may have happened. First, during the 19 years of your illness, you may have converted your blood test from positive to negative. You still have rheumatoid arthritis but you are now seronegative. The treatment is fundamentally the same for both types.

Second, you may not have rheumatoid arthritis at all. When your ailment was originally diagnosed, testing was not nearly as sophisticated as it is today. For example, Lyme disease — a tick-borne cause of arthritis, rash and fever, had yet to be discovered. Laboratory testing has evolved over the past two decades. Possibly, you had an arthritic condition that was previously mis-diagnosed.

In any event, you certainly need further blood tests now. I believe that these should include analysis for Lyme disease, lupus, Reiter's syndrome, psoriasis, gout and the other arthritis-producing diseases that resemble rheumatoid arthritis. I suggest that you work with your physician to clarify this problem.

Victory Baptist Church plans 14th anniversary

Victory Baptist Church will celebrate its 14th anniversary this Sunday. All former members and friends of the church are invited to attend the special anniversary services which include an old fashioned gospel singing at 2 p.m.

Victory Baptist was actually established on Nov. 7, 1974 in the home of Pat Githens who became the church's first pastor. The church moved to the East School cafeteria in January, 1975 and met there while property was purchased and a building could be built. In March, 1977 the church moved into its new building which is located at 3303 Apple Street.

Githens resigned as pastor in 1978 to establish a new church in Big Spring. Pastors which followed him included the Revs. George Harris, Don Gonce and Jim Dillow.

In May, 1988 Githens again became the pastor of the church.

The church has grown in size during the past six months and plans are presently being made to expand the facility.

Sunday's schedule of services include Sunday School at 9:45 a.m., worship service at 10:45 a.m. and singing at 2 p.m.

There will be no Sunday evening service at the church.

Freshmen win big; end campaign at 7-3

MONAHANS -- Snyder freshmen ran past Monahans 40-7 here Thursday to complete the 1988 grid season with a winning effort.

"It was just a real pleasure to coach all these guys," said Larry Scott. "They were hard workers, they listened, they were coachable and they enjoy football. We feel like they are going to be strong contributors to what hopefully will be a new era in Tiger football."

Snyder posted a 7-3 record. Daniel Espinosa led the young Tigers here, scoring on runs of 80 and 55 yards and carrying over four two-point conversions.

Neither team scored in the first quarter but Snyder got on the board when Mark King snapped loose for a 40-yard TD run. Espinosa ran in the conversion.

Espinosa's 55-yard scamper came next and he also ran in the two-point conversion again.

Monahans scored on a 67-yard halfback pass and kicked the PAT to make it a 16-7 ballgame at halftime.

In the third quarter, Snyder increased its lead on an 85 yard drive, capped off by King's 18-yard touchdown run. Espinosa carried in the extra points.

Still in the third, Leddy Lewis scored on a 15-yard run for the Tigers. Brian Crawford hit King on an extra-points pass.

Espinosa broke loose on an 85-yard jaunt for Snyder's final touchdown of the game. He also ran over the conversion.

Espinosa carried 17 times for 212 yards. Others toting the football were Craig Pippin, 9-22 and Leddy Lewis, 7-28.

Coach Albert Lewis indicated that with the exception of the long halfback scoring pass, the Tiger defense "did a super job."

Tigers travel to Monahans; Mustangs meet in Andrews

Sweetwater tries to put the finishing touches on a perfect regular season in a traditional Mustang shootout, while Monahans entertains Snyder in 4-4A glance

Team	District			Season

Last Friday's Results: Big Spring 14, Snyder 6, Andrews 20, Fort Stockton 7, Monahans 38, Pecos 14, Sweetwater 35, Lake View 7.

Tonight's Games: Snyder at Monahans, Sweetwater at Andrews, Big Spring at Fort Stockton, Pecos at Lake View.

games that could have a bearing on the Class 4A schoolboy playoffs tonight.

Elsewhere in District 4-4A, Pecos is at San Angelo to play Lake View and Fort Stockton hosts Big Spring.

Tonight's expected highlight game pits the team that W.T. Stapler built - Sweetwater - versus the team that Stapler is building - Andrews.

Stapler came from Conroe to construct a winning program at Sweetwater in the early 80's, but found his way to Andrews two years ago. The switch generated some bitter feelings, which fuels the fire already burning for tonight's contest. Sweetwater, ranked No. 1 under the guidance of Tom Ritchey now, takes a 9-0 record into the contest, 6-0 in district play.

One game back at 5-1 is Andrews. The Stapler-coached Mustangs are 7-2 for the season.

Those marks are equal to those of Monahans, a team which needs to defeat Snyder tonight to insure a playoff berth.

Sweetwater leads the district both in offensive yards (379.1) and defense (134.2), and features Class 4A's leading rusher in Kenneth Norman. Norman, a senior tailback, has rushed for 1,572 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Andrews brings into the game the district's third rated offense (283.4 yards) and defense (205.4). The team is directed by quarterback Robert Morris, who has thrown for 299 yards and run for 414. Mike Hernandez is the district's second-leading rusher behind Norman, with 740 yards and 15 TDs.

Snyder will go against heavily-favored Monahans with records of 1-8 and 1-5. The Fightin' Tigers, despite their record, are giving up only 269.9 yards - fourth in the district. The offense, however, is generating only 200.1.

The Tigers are getting some good numbers from sophomore all-purpose back Jayson Presley, who has 436 yards rushing and 145 receiving. Senior tailback Michael Riggins has rushed for 373 yards - including a season-high 144 last week - and caught passes worth 81 more steps. Snyder also relies on fullback Lee Fletcher, 266 yards rushing and 105 receiving, and junior quarterback Randy Morris, who has hit his receivers 23 of 50 times for 399 yards.

Monahans is led by senior QB Chris Jordan, who has thrown for 795 yards and run for 324. Tailback Ronnie Ramsey has 582 yards and nine touchdowns. The Lobos are averaging 280.9 yards and allowing only 188.

Big Spring, 3-5, 3-3, brings its air show to Fort Stockton. The Steers are averaging 296.8 yards, with almost half of it coming through the airways. Quarterback Rance Thompson has thrown for 1,095 yards and 10 touchdowns.

The Steers' opponent, Fort Stockton, has struggled offensively, but boasts a quick-hitting defense. Key players for the Panthers, 3-6, 2-4, are quarterback Pete Martinez, 956 yards throwing, and Joe Parks, the loop's leading receiver with 544 yards on 27 catches.

The district's top passing game - in numbers, anyway - belongs to Lake View, where Will Burney has thrown for 1,117 yards. Receiver Tony Allen has 516 yards and leads the conference in receptions with 31.

Lake View is 3-6 overall and 1-5 in district play. The Chiefs take on another 1-5 team in Pecos, although the Eagles are 4-5 for the season.

Pecos is directed by quarterback Bobby Ray Smith, who has thrown for 671 yards and seven TDs and run for 298 yards. Smith needs just 31 yards tonight to pass the 1,000 mark in total offense. Sweetwater's Norman (1,646), Big Spring's Thompson

(1,047 in 8 games), Monahans' Jordan (1,119), Fort Stockton's Martinez (1,094) and Lake View's Burney (1,037) have passed the mark for combined rushing and passing yards.

Tandem offensive leaders, which includes rushing and receiving, are Norman (1,668), Big Spring's Tony Lewis (601 in 8 games), Andrews' Hernandez (738), Big Spring's Dennis Hartfield (636 in 8 games) and Sweetwater's Ernie Munoz (648).

Snyder's Presley is among the top 10 with 581 tandem yards.

Aggies hope to stun Hogs

by The Associated Press
Texas A&M claims the Arkansas Razorbacks won't be the true Southwest Conference football champions unless the Hogs beat them on Saturday.

Probation-stained Texas A&M figures it can claim the SWC title with an asterisk by defeating the Cotton Bowl-bound Hogs in Fayetteville.

"This is not a bowl game for us," said Texas A&M quarterback Bucky Richardson. "It's a game for the Southwest Conference championship. We're still the champs. They have to take it away from us."

A&M has won three straight SWC titles and is unbeaten in league play this year. However, NCAA probation has knocked A&M out of post-season play and the legal right to claim the league title.

The unblemished, 11th ranked Razorbacks have only A&M to beat to sweep through the SWC unbeaten. They have already clinched their first outright league title since 1965.

The Hogs have sold out Razorback Stadium for the homecoming game against the Aggies.

"We'll be pumped up for this one," said Arkansas cornerback Richard Brothers. "We have a lot of incentive."

A&M hasn't won in Fayetteville since 1967. Aggie Coach Jackie Sherrill is 0-3 in Arkansas and has been outscored 77-10 by the Hogs in the state.

If Arkansas downs A&M, it will go into a nationally televised Nov. 26 matchup with Miami unbeaten and with a longshot chance at the national title.

Arkansas rated a two-point favorite over A&M for the 1 p.m. clash. In other games, Texas was a one-point favorite over Texas Christian in a noon (Raycom Television) game in Fort Worth; Baylor was a four-point pick over Rice in Houston in a 1 p.m. game. Texas Tech was a four-touchdown favorite over Lamar in a 1 p.m. game in Lubbock; and

Tiger squad tumbles 35-14 but has productive season

Coach Milton Ham said that despite Thursday's 35-14 loss to Monahans the Tiger junior varsity football team had a productive season.

"We were very proud of them. It looks like we have something to build on," said the coach. "The kids improved every week and really had a change of attitude. They believed they could improve and it showed up. They played real hard last night. Monahans has a good football team. All of the kids played well."

Monahans managed a 14-0 lead before Snyder came back on a 4-yard touchdown run from Bryon Brunson. Brunson also kicked the point-after.

Following two more Lobo touchdowns, Terry Stephens scored for Snyder on a 9-yard run. Brunson booted the PAT.

Monahans tallied late for the final score.

"Everybody played well," said Ham.

Earning special mention were Brunson, Stephens, tailback DeWayne Cato, strong tackle Bay-jon Long, guard-defensive end Tim Norman and Richard Hernandez, noseguard Frank Morin, linebackers Carlton Sanders and Kelly McGaha and Blair Williams, Justin Hester and A.J. Beaver in the secondary.

Snyder completed the season with a 4-5-1 record.

7th graders slap Greenwood

Snyder's seventh graders outlasted a Midland Greenwood rally to win their final football game of the 1988 season here Thursday, 18-12.

With time running out in the fourth quarter, Eric Braziel took a handoff and raced around end 60 yards to break a 12-12 tie and give Snyder the win.

Greenwood scored first in the game but Snyder came back on a 2-yard burst from Braziel. The tying TD was set up on a 40-yard pass from Stephen Campbell to Braziel that went to the Midland 3.

Snyder enjoyed a 12-6 halftime advantage when Braziel broke free on an 80-yard touchdown scamper in the second quarter. Greenwood used a pass interception to get good field position and scored midway through the fourth to lock the game up again, 12-12 before Snyder's final comeback.

The win left the seventh graders with a 4-3-1 season record.

"We were very pleased with the kids' performance this year," said Coach Mike Montgomery. "They learned a lot but they have a lot more learning to do. If the kids can stay together, by the time they are seniors they will have a pretty good football team."

8th grade completes season with triumph

Snyder eighth graders closed out the football season with an impressive 20-6 victory over Midland Greenwood here Thursday evening.

The win left the Cats at 6-1-1 for the season.

"We had two big victories this year over undefeated teams," pointed out Coach Roger Goodwin, whose Cats topped Andrews 12-6 and Big Spring 22-14. "In both games we had to come back in the fourth quarter to win."

Snyder didn't have to rally late here Thursday. Greenwood did take a 6-0 lead, but Snyder tied the game on a Ben Wilson run of 12 yards in the first quarter.

The Cats went ahead 12-6 before halftime when Bryan Luna took off on a 50-yard footrace to the end zone.

In the fourth quarter, Luna scored on a 40-yard run. Jesus

Parra ran the two-point conversion.

"This group has a lot of potential for future Tigers," added Goodwin. "The coaching staff is extremely proud of them because of their character."

Defense absent as Western falls to Wranglers, 138-114

CISCO - Western Texas College's Westerners couldn't put the brakes on a hot-shooting Cisco team here Thursday and lost for the first time this season, 138-114.

"We did not play very good defense. I guess that is kind of an understatement, though," said Coach Tony Mauldin, whose Westerners are now 3-1 on the season.

Western fell behind early but stayed in the game until the last few moments.

"They've got a quick running team and two excellent outside shooters. But it was a close game, really. They led by 9-10 points most of the way but we cut it to 6-7 several times. We just couldn't get over the hump," said the coach. "At the last, we substituted and they substituted and it (the score) got away from us a little."

Bobby Spear led the Westerners with 31 points which included a 12-of-12 effort from the free throw line. Bernard Williams scored 19 points while James Joyce tallied 14 and Kenneth Critton and Vladimir McCrary added 13 each.

Western hit 31 of 37 free throws for the night.

Mauldin said playing time is what Western needs most.

"We've only got three players with us from last year. We've got some other sophomores but some of them haven't played that much. Right now, we don't know how to play hard, solid basketball for 40 minutes."

Western will get a chance to repay the Wranglers next Monday. The Westerners host CJC at 8 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum.

"We'll get a chance to see if they are really that much better than us, or whether we have a chance to redeem ourselves," said Mauldin. "The positive of Thursday's game was we made several runs at them and never gave up. We need to be able to execute on all cylinders for 40 minutes."

NL Cy Young winner is Dodgers' Hershiser

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Another honor, more fame, more public attention.

Orel Hershiser is learning about life as a celebrity.

"The biggest pressure so far has been on my parents, wife and friends," the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher said Thursday after it was announced he was the 1988 National League Cy Young Award winner.

"Today we ran an errand to buy Quinton (his 3-year-old son) some clothes and people were stopping me and I couldn't help Quinton get things.

"Things have changed that way and I hope things calm down."

Hershiser, who already had collected the NL playoff and World Series Most Valuable Player awards, pitched still another shutout in the NL Cy Young balloting. He became the first pitcher in three years to be voted the honor unanimously.

Cincinnati's Danny Jackson, who had an identical record to Hershiser, was second with 15 second-place votes and 54 points. David Cone, 20-3 for the New York Mets, was third with nine second-place votes and 42 points.

Hershiser's record streak of 59 scoreless innings to end the regular season locked up the award for him: He wound up 23-8 with a 2.26 earned-run average for the Dodgers.

He is the 12th unanimous Cy Young winner, the first since Roger Clemens of Boston and Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets in 1985. Minnesota's Frank Viola, named Wednesday to win the AL Cy Young, was one vote short of unanimous.

Carter wants test scored checked again

DALLAS (AP) - Officials from the Dallas Independent School District and Dallas Carter High School say they will ask state officials to re-examine the test scores of a football player whose ineligibility led to the team's disqualification from the state playoffs.

"We're going to ask the UIL and the Texas Education Agency to come back (today)," DISD Superintendent Marvin Edwards said Thursday, just hours after Carter was disqualified from the Class 5A playoffs for using an ineligible player the final three weeks of the regular season.

The action came one day before the Cowboys, ranked No. 6 in the state in the final Associated Press poll, were scheduled to play Plano East in a bi-district game.

Carter was forced to forfeit its final three games, moving South Grand Prairie into second place in District 11-5A. The Warriors will play Plano East at 9 p.m. today at Texas Stadium.

Lady Dusters happy to be debut at home against South Plains

For Western Texas College's Dusters, there's no place like home - especially after starting the season with seven straight road games.

"We're anxious to come home and play," said Coach Kelly Chadwick of tonight's 7:30 p.m. ballgame with South Plains College. "I hope we have a real good crowd out there. The coliseum to me has a great atmosphere for basketball. Our kids usually play well there."

Tickets to the home opener are

$2 for adults and $1 for students. The two teams also tangle again here Saturday night at 7:30. Both games will be held at Scurry County Coliseum.

"We had a great crowd last weekend in Levelland (for the South Plains Lady Texan Tournament). I was really and truly appreciative of that. It really makes a difference."

Chadwick said fans who make it out to the coliseum this weekend can expect to see some fine women's basketball.

"These kids are fun to watch and they play hard. South Plains does too. I don't think there is any doubt they'll be two good ballgames," he said.

South Plains has been picked No. 1 in the conference and Western No. 2 according to a preseason coaches' poll, though the games this weekend will not be conference contests.

Western is 5-2 for the season while South Plains comes in with a 5-0 record.

"They're picked to win the conference and they've got a real good outfit," said Chadwick.

"They've got good shooters, rebounders, some size, some quickness and they play good defense. They play hard. They're a quality team, well coached. Right now they are the best team in this conference. From what I can tell the ballgames should be real good Friday and Saturday night. They could go either way. We're probably playing more freshmen right now. Their experience is the big difference."

To upend the Lady Texans, Western will have to shoot the ball better and limit the turnovers, stated Chadwick.

"We're turning the ball over way too much. We had 25 turnovers against Ranger (despite a 74-48 victory). Our free throw shooting is suspect. We've been over 65 percent only one time. Those are the areas we have to get better in if we're going to compete with people like South Plains."

Scott optimistic...

Snyder boys are improving

Snyder varsity boys showed improvement in their basketball scrimmage with Merkel here Thursday night, according to Coach Larry Scott.

"The main thing were were looking for was improvement over our first scrimmage and I think we saw some," said Scott. "Our defense was better, our rebounding was better and we shot the ball better. We saw improvement and that's the main thing we wanted to see."

Snyder opens the 1988-89 season next Friday, Nov. 18, in Abilene.

"We don't expect to be in midseason form right now. We still have some things we need to work real hard on before next Friday. Our shot selection off our offense, our play in special situations - with time running out in the quarter, going for last shot - things like that are areas where we need work."

Coach Scott will continue evaluating his players through next week. Several prospects will begin workouts Monday, following the end of the current football season.

Open season Monday...

Lady Tigers just need time

Coach Ken Housden says time on the court is what his Snyder High School Lady Tigers need to mold into a solid team this season.

"We need a little more time playing together to get a little more basketball sense," said Housden, following Thursday's scrimmages with Klondike and Roscoe here.

"The scrimmage went pretty well. We did a lot better than we did in our first scrimmage. We still have some areas to work on, mainly on man offense and our full-court press."

Snyder won two of three quarters when scrimmaging with its varsity. The younger girls lost all three scrimmages to Roscoe and Klondike varsities, but two of them by only one point.

"We had 12 girls who all played a lot and did a good job. Part of our problem is we just haven't been playing together long enough."

The Lady Tigers open the 1988-89 cage season Monday, playing Abilene Cooper in Abilene at 7:30 p.m. A freshman game tips off at 4:30 p.m. and a JV game at 6 p.m.

Wyoming was a two-point favorite over Houston in a 7 p.m. nationally televised game (ESPN) in the Astrodome.

Texas running back Eric Metcalf was doubtful for the game in TCU against the Horned Frogs as the troubled 'Horns try to win their second conference game of the year. Metcalf is troubled with a sprained ankle.

Houston is fresh off a 66-15 slaughter of the Longhorns in which Andre Ware threw five touchdown passes.

New attack made on landmark abortion ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is making a new attack on the Supreme Court's landmark Roe vs. Wade decision legalizing abortion, proposing that the justices use a Missouri case to reconsider the 15-year-old ruling.

The proposal came in form of a brief filed with the court Thursday by Solicitor General Charles Fried, who said the Missouri case represents "an appropriate opportunity" for the justices to review the 1973 decision.

Pro-abortion groups said the timing of the proposal, two days after the general election, was political.

"I guess they were afraid to do this before the election because they thought they might lose the votes of millions of women," said Eve Paul, Planned Parenthood's vice president for legal affairs.

But a Justice Department spokesman, Loye Miller, insisted that the timing was dictated by extended internal discussions at the Justice Department on the question and by extensive staff work that had to be completed.

Fried's brief said the Missouri case "is free of procedural defects and implicates a number of the legislative choices foreclosed by Roe vs. Wade."

The solicitor general's brief noted that the Reagan administration's views on abortion were expressed in a case in June 1986, when the government urged that Roe vs. Wade be overturned.

The high court at that time voted 5-4 to reaffirm the earlier ruling, but since then another Reagan appointee has joined the court, Justice Anthony Kennedy. Anti-abortion groups hope that will tilt the court's balance and lead to scuttling of Roe vs. Wade, which held that a woman has a constitutional right to an abortion.

Missouri officials want the Supreme Court to reinstate a strict state anti-abortion law, struck down in July by a federal appeals court which said the statute was invalid under Roe vs. Wade.

The Missouri law declared that human life begins at the moment of conception and said no public funds, employees or facilities could be used to perform or assist in an abortion or to counsel a woman to have an abortion.

A key issue in the Missouri case is whether it is unconstitutional for a state to declare when human life begins. The Missouri law did that, and went on to declare that "unborn children have protectable interests in life, health and well-being."

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in July struck down those declarations, saying that it is unconstitutional for a state to adopt one theory of when human life begins.

Douglas Johnson, legislative director for the National Right to Life Committee, said the Missouri case offers the high court a chance to address important issues, such as limits on abortions late in pregnancy, even if it decides not to use the case to overturn Roe vs. Wade.

"We're not predicting that the court would use this case as the occasion to overturn Roe vs. Wade," Johnson said. "That's a possibility. Of course, we would be delighted if they did."

Eleanor Smeal, president of the Fund for the Feminist Majority, called Fried's brief "a sneak attack on women's lives."

She said that if the Reagan administration gambit works, precedents could be established to "put at risk not only legal abortion but the pill and IUD."

"They didn't have the guts to do it before the election," added Molly Yard, president of the 160,000-member National Organization for Women. "It's a sneaky, lowdown thing they've done."

President George Washington and Congress authorized creation in 1794 of the U.S. Navy.

Officials: politics behind collider choice

BATAVIA, Ill. (AP) — Illinois congressional delegation is moving to the front lines of a campaign to pressure President Reagan for a review of the Energy Department decision to award Texas the $4.4 billion superconducting super collider.

Illinois' Democratic senators, Alan Dixon and Paul Simon, suggested Thursday that Texas, the adopted home state of President-elect George Bush, was chosen because of political considerations.

The state was one of six finalists for the coveted federal project, even staunch defenders of the Reagan administration in Illinois, like U.S. House Minority Leader Bob Michel and Republican Gov. James R. Thompson, expressed dismay that the state was bypassed.

"The department's decision to funnel billions of additional federal dollars to a state that already has a wealth of federal facilities is another slap in the face at the Midwest," Michel said in a statement.

Illinois already is home to Fermilab and its Tevatron — the world's most-powerful atom smasher, which would be surpassed by the collider. State officials had argued that building the project near Fermilab would save as much as $500 million and shorten construction time considerably.

The 17-term congressman said the Energy Department's failure to be "even-handed... may lead some of us to reconsider our support for the project."

The superconducting super collider, known as the SSC, still needs congressional approval for construction.

Thompson called suggestions that only Texas' clout-laden contingent in Congress had the political muscle to guarantee the super collider project "an unwarranted and outrageous slap" at Illinois' delegation.

In letters Thursday to Reagan, the eight U.S. senators from Illinois, Michigan, Colorado and Arizona and 21 members of Illinois' U.S. House delegation asked that a bipartisan commission of physicists review all seven of collider proposals before any money is spent on the Texas site.

"I do not believe that the timing of this decision and its proximity to the election is a coincidence," Dixon said.

"If the decision had been based on merit, we would have won it."

The project is expected to provide thousands of jobs and an annual budget of $270 million for its host state.

State officials spent about $13 million to promote Illinois' merits for the project.

President of West German parliament resigns position

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The president of parliament resigned today after being bitterly attacked for saying on the 50th anniversary of Kristallnacht that many Germans initially found Hitler's rule "glorious."

The furor overshadowed West Germany's carefully organized ceremonies marking Kristallnacht, the night of terror against the Jews that signaled the start of the Holocaust.

Parliament President Philipp Jenninger announced he was stepping down as assembly leader after meeting with other top-ranked members of the governing Christian Democratic Union.

The conservative politician's speech Thursday, which also called the early years of the Nazi's Third Reich a "triumphant procession," set off waves of outcries throughout the country and abroad.

His speech, at a special session of the Bundestag, or parliament, triggered a walkout by about 50 lawmakers and calls for his resignation from opposition Greens and Social Democratic parties.

"My speech was not understood by many listeners the way I had intended it to be," the 56-year-old politician said in a written statement to the news media. "I am deeply sorry and I am very hurt, if I have offended the feelings of others."

He added: "During my whole political career — most recently as president of the German Parliament — I have been active in working for reconciliation with the Jews and for the vital interests of the state of Israel."

"I always have been an uncompromising foe of every type of totalitarian rule," Jenninger said. Jenninger said he was stepping down as Bundestag president because he wanted to avoid any damage to the office itself and because he believed he lost the trust of many colleagues.

The statement did not say whether Jenninger would remain a member of Parliament.

Jenninger had been the No. 2 West German official after President Richard von Weizsaecker, under the nation's rules of diplomatic protocol.

A member of Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democrats, Jenninger has been a lawmaker since 1969 and was one of Kohl's closest aides before he was elected Bundestag president in November 1984.

In his speech Thursday, Jenninger talked at length about the positive feelings of many ordinary Germans early in the Hitler dictatorship.

"Didn't Hitler bring to reality what (Kaiser) Wilhelm II had only promised, that is to lead the Germans to glorious times? Wasn't he chosen by Providence, a Fuehrer such as is given to a clarified among loss adjustors serving the crop insurance program.

"Other than seeing we needed clarification of the rules and procedures, nothing major turned up during our internal investigation," he was quoted as saying.

In response to the initial reports, the FCIC directed staffers from its Dallas "compliance office" to conduct spot checks of loss adjustment in the five counties.

The Dallas staffers were augmented by workers from the FCIC's Lubbock and College Station offices. In all, about six workers were involved. Forgash told the SDN two weeks ago.

At the time, FCIC officials said they had no knowledge of "specific allegations."

These spot checks consisted basically of "reworking the claim," Forgash said. "You shouldn't draw any conclusions from where our people visited," he said from his Washington office.

The process under review was where producers claim crop losses through federal crop insurance claims.

This "loan adjustment process" is similar to claims made by individuals who file claims through automobile insurance companies.

Forgash noted, "The FCIC, like any insurance company, is subject to fraud. When it is discovered, it is (legally) pursued."

Audit directs fund changes

At one point, it was thought the district might have to use more than $1 million from its reserve account. At the start of this fiscal year, the district has some $3.5 million in these reserve accounts.

Regarding total "fixed assets," the district has some $16.3 million in value to include $12.8 million in buildings; more than $3 million in furniture and equipment; and some $405,000 in land.

During the last fiscal year, the district also expended almost $9.6 million in total payroll. Morren noted this reflected a $60,000 increase over the previous year.

Board members approved the outside audit unanimously. All trustees attended the session to include Billy Bob McMullan, who presided, Mike Jordan, Luann Burleson, Terry Martin, Ygnacio Benitez, Ken Branman and Ann Walton.

In other action, the board approved a maintenance plan for the district's campus boiler system, following a recommendation from head of maintenance Lawton Taylor.

The district will contract with Reef Industries of Odessa, a subsidiary of Reef Chemical of Snyder, to purchase chemicals which will "soften" the water used in the boilers. The annual cost, which will include technical support from Reef Industries, will be $4,767.

The actual work to inject the chemical into the system will be performed by the maintenance staff.

The board also approved this year's textbook committee. It will consist of instructors Rudy Gutierrez, Kay Hensley, Irene Masters, Dorothy Kayser, Doug Chitsey, Margaret Corkran, Eleanor Dryden, Drew Bullard, Kay Hopper, Albert Taylor, Sherman Birks, Ned Moore, Bill Lyon and Laurie Welch.

The board also formally approved the employment of Brad Crawford, an attorney with the Lubbock firm of Crenshaw, Dupree and Milam, to represent the district in the disciplinary lawsuit styled Evelyn Malone vs. Snyder ISD.

Herrington rebuts complaints that Texas choice was political

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's energy chief is fending off complaints that a decision to select Texas from among seven bidding states as the site for a $4.4 billion super collider atom smasher was guided more by politics than by science.

Politicians from some of the losing states — Illinois, Colorado, Michigan, Arizona, Tennessee and North Carolina — called for a bipartisan review of the selection process.

"The Texas decision has a strong smell of White House politics," said Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich.

Riegle and senators from Illinois, Colorado and Arizona sent a letter Thursday to President Reagan asking that he appoint a commission to review the site selection, which was done by a special task force of the Energy Department. The choice of Texas was announced Thursday by Energy Secretary John Herrington.

"If this project is to have the slightest chance of being funded it is imperative that you demonstrate" that the site selection was "based solely on scientific criteria," the senators' letter said.

Herrington insisted that the Texas site, south of Dallas, was clearly superior to the others.

"There was no politics in this," he told reporters.

The seven states had competed intensely for the host of the super collider project because of the economic benefits and scientific prestige associated with it.

The collider is envisioned as a 53-mile underground ring that will use 10,000 magnets to whirl beams of protons into each other at energy levels 20 times what is possible in today's most powerful machines. What happens in those collisions is expected to enable scientists to test the latest theories on the origins of matter.

Congress has not yet agreed to build the atom smasher, although it did appropriate $100 million this year for engineering design and certain research and development items.

Herrington said the choice of Texas was based on site geology, regional resources and environmental criteria.

The 16,000-acre site some 25 miles south of Dallas was the only one given ratings of "outstanding" on the most important considerations by the 10-member site evaluation task force of senior civil servants, Herrington said.

"The greatest benefit to the most people in the most states is what we were after. And I think that after you look into this process, read the decision documents and question us on it, you will find out that was in fact what happened," he said.

Herrington said he had no knowledge of the task force evaluation results until last week, and did not tell Reagan and his decision-eligibility Thursday morning.

Officials of some of the losing states linked Texas' selection to Tuesday's election of Bush, who has made Texas his adopted home.

"I do not believe that the timing of this decision and its proximity to the election is a coincidence," said Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, reacting to Herrington's announcement, alluded to political links.

"The icing on the cake is the very special relationship between Ronald Reagan and Texas," he said.

Herrington said the installation will be named the Ronald Reagan Center for High-Energy Physics, if it is built.

Strike threat is postponed

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The National Mediation Board intervened in the labor dispute between Northwest Airlines and its 4,800 pilots, averting the possibility of a strike at midnight tonight.

Northwest Chairman Steven Rothmeier requested mediation Thursday as pilots voted on whether to set the midnight deadline for a strike over wages and other issues. The union today said the results of the balloting were not available.

Not every loser was ready to blame politics. Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., said, "The fact that we went so far in the process is a tremendous compliment to the state."

Herrington said the department will offer technical "debriefings" to all the losing states on why Texas was chosen.

The Energy Department estimated the cost to build the collider and operate it for 25 years at $10.8 billion.

The benefits to Texas will be enormous, assuming the project goes ahead: 3,000 permanent jobs, including 500 annual positions for visiting scientists; 3,500 construction jobs, an annual operating budget of $270 million; much prestige and practically no pollution.

Experts said the importance of the project goes well beyond the local benefits it promises.

Dan Green, head of the physics department at the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Illinois, said selection of a site was "really a good sign that America wants and supports high energy physics and wants to support basic research and wants to recapture a position they have been frittering away."

Herrington said much of the leadership in high-energy physics was headed to Western Europe to participate in the existing CERN accelerator at Bern, Switzerland.

"We need to keep those people in the United States," he said.

Dear Abby

Korean War Vets Should Get The Memorial They Deserve

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Today, on Nov. 11, America will honor her veterans. I would like to ask your readers to consider a special group of men and women who fought a war that has become "the forgotten war."

Thirty-eight years ago, on June 25, 1950, the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel of Korea and invaded South Korea. It was called a "police action" and the United Nations responded by sending troops to Korea. Besides the South Koreans, the majority of fighting men were Americans.

When a truce was finally called that ended in a stalemate on July 27, 1953, 5.5 million men and women had fought directly or indirectly in this "conflict." Of these 5.5 million, 103,000 were wounded, 54,263 were killed and 8,177 were classified as missing in action or prisoners of war.

There has been much publicity about the Vietnam Memorial, but the military personnel who fought to secure the freedom of South Korea have only the TV series "M*A*S*H" to remind people that we were there.

I lost my beloved husband of eight months when he was shot down over North Korea on his first combat mission. His remains have never been returned to me. Who will remember those who gave their lives in the Korean War?

Who will remember:
1. That when they returned, there were no welcoming parades — only apathy?

2. That in 1953 they had to live with their own silent hell of war-time memories, as "post-traumatic stress disorder" was unknown then?

3. That their feats were chronicled in only a few paragraphs in history books, and they have all but been ignored by the media?

At long last, Congress has finally approved a long-overdue memorial for the Korean War vets. It is to be situated across from the Vietnam Memorial.

Six million dollars are needed. Hyundai Motor Corp. in South Korea has contributed $1.2 million in gratitude.

Abby, you have espoused many worthwhile causes in the past. I hope you will consider this one. Our ranks are diminishing with age, and time is of the essence.

If any of your readers would like to make a small tax-free donation, it would be gratefully appreciated. Checks can be made out to: The Korean War Memorial Fund, P.O. Box 2372, Washington, D.C. 20013-1372.

DEAR KATHLEEN: I am sending my check today, and I hope readers will come through with contributions. If everyone who reads this sends $1, we should have that memorial paid for in a matter of months. Readers?

Bush, Reagan set wheels in motion for transition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan and George Bush set the wheels in motion for the president-elect's ascent to chief executive as Reagan left instructions for his Cabinet officers and political appointees to resign by Inauguration Day and Bush conferred with leaders of his transition team.

After a series of meetings Thursday with the president, the Cabinet and his transition crew, Bush flew to Florida for a four-day vacation, his first post-election break.

The president-elect planned to fish and relax in Gulf Stream, Fla., but he told reporters he also intends to spend time on the telephone as he assembles his administration.

Bush and Reagan met with White House chief of staff Kenneth Duberstein and later attended a Cabinet meeting. The president-elect also huddled with Craig Fuller and Bob Teeter, leaders of his transition office.

Vice President-elect Dan Quayle also met with leaders of Bush's transition team.

The Bush transition office officially opens for business on Monday in a rented suite of offices a few blocks from the White House. But work was already under way as security guards erected metal detectors and a desk was set up at the entrance where a volunteer collected resumes from job-seekers.

The vice president made his first Cabinet appointment on Wednesday, naming campaign chairman James A. Baker III to be his secretary of state. He has told reporters he wants to name the balance of his Cabinet sooner rather than later, but has set no timetable.

Reagan and Bush were applauded as they walked together into a Cabinet meeting. Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying, "We don't even argue over which side of the table to sit on."

But for all the friendliness, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan reminded his men, "We are still in charge until Jan. 20 and are still responsible for making decisions of the government."

Duberstein told the Cabinet and heads of independent agencies to be prepared to submit their resignations. "It is probably fair to say that all political appointees at all levels should be prepared to resign or depart on Jan. 20," said Fitzwater.

"President Reagan of course is free to accept anyone's resignation at any time and the president-elect would have that decision to make after the 20th," he said. "There might be cases where he wouldn't have someone to fill that position, and would want someone to stay on for awhile," he said.

Bush on Wednesday promised a "brand new team" when he takes office. But Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh and Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos all have been mentioned as possible holdover appointments.

One man viewed as likely to receive a major post in the new administration, retiring Gov. John Sununu of New Hampshire, set his goals high. He told reporters in New Hampshire that he would turn down offers to be secretary of education or energy, but White House chief of staff "isn't on my 'no list.'" Sununu, who campaigned energetically for Bush and was instrumental in his critical victory in the New Hampshire primary last February, said he hadn't been offered any post.

Family stands to lose farm to collider

MAYPEARL, Texas (AP) — When Olive May Wilburn, 81, learned that the superconducting super collider was coming, she wept for the home her family stands to lose, along with the land her late husband began farming in 1944.

The elderly woman shuffled outside with her walker and looked at a surrounding wheatfield, plowed only the day before. The land her husband had worked from 1944 until he died 10 years ago, the land where her 3-year-old great-granddaughter now plays, may soon be lost to progress.

The Wilburn homestead is mapped out to become the research campus of the $4.4 billion super collider, midway between Waxahachie and Maypearl.

The future is threatening to take away Olive May Wilburn's past, and she's not sure what to do about it.

"I just kept thinking that maybe it wouldn't come, maybe it wouldn't happen ...," Mrs. Wilburn said.

But granddaughter Betty Hoppood delivered the news Thursday morning after hearing it on the radio: The super collider would be built in Texas.

The announcement had many in Ellis County jumping for joy, but it only made the Wilburns mad.

Mrs. Wilburn and her husband had worked for 20 years to pay off their 200 acres.

After Texas bid for the super collider, state and federal officials notified the Wilburns their acreage would be needed for the project if the state won it.

"I hate to see farmers who have worked all their lives for their land have everything taken away," Mrs. Hoppood said.

Grandson Dale Wilburn, a 38-year-old machinist who lives with Mrs. Wilburn, said he checked local land values and has found some selling for up to $6,000 an acre.

"I don't know if that would be enough to buy something comparable," Wilburn said. "We'll be out on the street and I don't know if that will be enough."

But Mrs. Hoppood, watching 3-year-old Pamela run across her great-grandmother's kitchen, doubted they will be able to buy enough adjacent land to keep the family together. As it stands now, Pamela can walk to visit Mrs. Wilburn or another 80-year-old great-grandmother, or several other relatives.

"We'll never be together again, pretty soon," Mrs. Hoppood said. "We'll be lucky to find land fairly close to each other."

Mrs. Hoppood and her mother were the first to discover that the Wilburn homestead along Farm Road 66, about 5 miles west of Waxahachie, was targeted by government officials. The family first thought the federal project would be built across the road, but learned at the Waxahachie public library that their home was at the top of the list of needed property.

Mrs. Wilburn collapsed on her bed in tears Thursday morning when she heard that Waxahachie had been selected.

"I cried, but not too long," she said. "It don't do no good anymore. I've got to get out and I don't know where I'm going."

The family doesn't expect a miracle, but wishes one would arrive. Wilburn, looking out over a fence line dotted with rusting farm harvesting equipment and rusting automobiles, said he is holding out hope that the project will stall.
