

Goodfellows plan Yule food project

The Snyder Goodfellows will again conduct its food distribution project to aid needy families in Scurry County this Christmas.

An application form is included in this issue of the SDN. The deadline to apply is Dec. 5.

The annual food distribution will take place on Dec. 17, a Saturday, at the ag annex of the Scurry County Coliseum.

Once all applications are received, a committee will screen these and those who qualify will be notified by mail. These cards will go out the week prior to distribution and must be presented on the day of the food distribution.

Last year, an estimated 1,056 individuals were helped to include some 293 Scurry County households.

In all, approximately 360 boxes of food were given out. These contain enough food to feed a family of five.

OPEC to limit production...

Tentative deal cut

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Iraq's oil minister predicted today that a tentative OPEC deal to end a bitter dispute over production between Iran and Iraq would send crude oil prices soaring to $18 a barrel within a few months.

Such a steep climb theoretically could add as much as 10 cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline, but analysts said they doubted that would happen because retail prices had not come down during the recent slump in crude prices.

The tentative deal worked out by the ministers of the 13 nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to limit their production next year was announced late Thursday.

Iran's oil minister, Gholamreza Aghazadeh, flew to Tehran today to get his government's approval for the pact, which sets a ceiling on OPEC's production at 18.5 million barrels a day in the first half of 1989.

Analysts estimate OPEC has been producing more than 21 million barrels a day recently, far above the cartel's current cap of about 15 million barrels.

Issam Abdul Raheem Chalabi, the Iraqi minister, also expressed confidence the agreement would push crude prices back to OPEC's benchmark of $18 a barrel. Prices have been at least $4 lower in recent months.

"I think we can reach that ($18 price) within a few months," Chalabi said.

Analysts say each $1 rise in the price of a barrel of oil theoretically adds 2.5 cents a gallon in retail gasoline prices.

But Fergus MacLeod, an oil analyst at Barclays de Zoete Wedd in London, said of the increase: "In terms of its impact on prices at the gas pump, you may not get a direct feedthrough

Q — Is the enforcement aspect of the new illegal alien laws now in effect here?

A — Yes. This area is under the jurisdiction of the Marfa Sector of the U.S. Border patrol, and that office reports that four West Texas businesses located in Lubbock, Fort Stockton and Odessa were recently assessed total fines of $9,550 for either knowingly hiring an unauthorized worker or failing to properly complete and maintain employment eligibility forms.

In Brief

Texas fatals

by The Associated Press

A 16-year-old San Antonio boy was thrown from the bed of a pickup truck and killed just after midnight today when the truck collided with a car on Interstate Highway 35.

The teen-ager became the 11th person to die on Texas highways during the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

The unofficial count by The Associated Press began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and continues through midnight Sunday.

The identity of the teen-ager had not been released pending notification of relatives.

The pickup the boy was riding in was struck broadside by a Camero at the intersection of Interstate 35 and Southwest Military Drive in San Antonio. The boy suffered massive injuries when he was thrown from the truck and he later died at Wilford Hall Hospital.

Suspect calls

TOWSON, Md. (AP) —

Authorities arrested a bank robbery suspect who dialed the Baltimore FBI office collect from San Diego and chatted 45 minutes as agents traced his name through a computer.

The agents learned he was the last of three suspects wanted in a bank robbery last week in nearby Catonsville. They confirmed his identity and the location of the public phone where he was talking and alerted agents at the San Diego office to pick him up.

The rambling conversation ended Tuesday night with his arrest.

Poor's helper

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A

poverty-stricken man who collected aluminum cans so he could give money, food and clothing to other poor people was killed by a motorist while making his rounds, police said.

Arthur Bailey, 69, was either riding or walking his bicycle along a city street when he was struck and killed by a pickup truck Tuesday night.

Nation observes holiday

By The Associated Press

Offering plates heaped high to thousands of needy as descendants of American Indians and Pilgrims recalled the spirit of peace that prevailed at the first Thanksgiving.

Football games and parades also captured the attention of millions of spectators and television viewers on Thursday's holiday. Parades featuring towering cartoon-character balloons, opulent floats and miles of marching bands streamed through the streets of New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Houston to herald the start of the holiday season.

Of course, Americans sat down at family dinner tables to feast on the traditional turkey, cranberry sauce, stuffing and gravy while offering thanks.

President-elect George Bush and his wife, Barbara, spent a quiet Thanksgiving at their seaside vacation home in Maine. President Reagan and his wife Nancy gathered with relatives and friends in Santa Barbara, Calif., and Vice President-elect Dan Quayle had a quiet dinner with his family in Indiana.

Thousands of needy people packed shelters and restaurants across the country to dine on free hearty meals and enjoy the holiday's good cheer.

"Thank God for places for this," said Henry Scott, a homeless man dining at the Masonic Temple in Paterson, N.J. "I'm making it by the skin of my teeth. I'm trying not to resort to being incarcerated."

In San Francisco, about 7,200 people, served by 600 volunteers, feasted.

30 DAYS 'TIL CHRISTMAS

FRANKENSTEIN — The SHS drama "Frankenstein" opens Friday at 8 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium with tickets priced at $3 for general admission and $5 for reserved seating. The cast includes (above, from left) Lei Holcomb, Kristi Mize, Tanya Mauldin, Karen Conard, Melissa Hodges and Coy Berryman. It will run approximately one hour and 50 minutes and includes a 20-member cast. Reservations may be made by calling 573-6301 or 573-0133. (SHS Drama Photos)

Sale, auction Saturday will fund school fixup

A "Garage Sale Plus," which will include a combination garage sale, silent auction, bake sale and Christmas item sale is due Saturday to benefit the renovation of the Dermott School, a project of the Scurry County Historical Commission.

Individuals interested in donating items to be sold at the garage sale may bring these to the Towle Park Barn after 3 p.m. Friday. Also, to donate items, call 573-9729 or 573-1477.

The sale Saturday will be from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

During the day, bids may be submitted for the "silent auction" of such items as a hand-made afghan made by Juanita Hart, a copy of "Footprints Across Scurry County," published here during the county's Centennial celebration in 1984, a copy of "Country Doings," a now out-of-print cookbook published during the Bicentennial celebration of 1976, a set of antique cotton scales, and assorted hand-painted China pieces.

The silent auction will end at 2:30 p.m.

In addition, door prizes will be given out during the day, at 9:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Door prizes will include an original wrought iron light fixture which was saved during the restoration of the Cornelius-Dodson House, another project of the commission.

Two copies of James Michener's "Texas" in hardback will be given out also, as will two copies of the Scurry County Sesquicentennial cookbook, "From the Cookie to the Chef."

Other fund raising plans to benefit the Dermott school restoration will include an antique car rally Dec. 3, a Saturday, at the Cornelius-Dodson House. It will be sponsored by Historic Scurry County Inc. and the Snyder Wheels, the Scurry County antique car club. Club members will have an assortment of vehicles at the coliseum grounds.

Memberships to Historic Scurry County Inc. will be sold during the day. It is the non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation of local historical buildings. Membership in it is open to anyone interested in the preservation of local history.

New attorney joins Snyder law practice

Dana Cooley was a schoolteacher who couldn't forget that what she had really always wanted to do was become a lawyer.

The Big Spring native grew up in Borden County, graduated from high school there and earned a bachelor's degree in education at Abilene Christian University before teaching kindergarten in Monahan's for a year and home economics for four years at Borden High School.

"I just couldn't forget that I'd like to be an attorney, and we made the decision to go for it," Cooley said this week.

She received her oath for admittance to the State Bar last Monday in Austin. In Snyder, she will be an associate with the Rosser & Armstrong law firm.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The teller on Deep Creek says, "The person who can't lead and won't follow is called a road block."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

The Aggies and UT were on the tube yesterday and Gene Dow had an interesting column in the Colorado City Record about the state's two biggest schools.

"Carrie Nation, the hatchet-wielding saloon biter from Kansas, may have inspired Texas' best-known college song.

"In April 1903, Mrs. Nation went to Austin with the announced goal of saving UT students from denon rum. However, when she began her speech on the steps of Old Main, a crowd of students began heckling her. Hearing the ruckus, the UT president rushed from his office and attempted to quiet the hecklers by reminding them that the eyes of Texas are upon you."

"One student, Lewis Johnson of Jacksboro, thought the incident funny and decided to use it in a campus minstrel show. That night, he asked his roommate, John Lang Sinclair of San Antonio, to write a humorous verse as a parody of the confrontation.

"Writing on the back of a brown laundry sack, it was set to the tune of 'I've Been Working on the Railroad.' It was first sung in public on May 12, 1903. Later Sinclair wrote a second set of words for 'The Eyes of Texas,' long the alma mater of UT and assumed by some to be the state's official song."

The Aggies' 12th Man tradition began in 1922. Aggies stand during the entire game, standing in readiness in case they are needed to go into the game like the original Twelfth Man, E. King Gill.

After winning the SWC the Aggies were playing Centre College in the Dixie Classic in Dallas. Gill, a basketball player, was in the press box when Coach Dana X. Bible called him to the A&M bench.

There had been numerous injuries and the coach had Gill put on a uniform and be ready to play if needed. He suited up, but was never called into action.

Coach Jackie Sherrill expanded the Twelfth Man tradition by the "volunteer" kickoff team, all non-scholarship players who try out for the daring squad.

Healthy cells untouched...

New drug attacks AIDS-infested cells

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laboratory experiments announced today show that a plant toxin combined with a synthetic protein is able to attack and kill cells infected with the AIDS virus while leaving healthy cells untouched.

In a study published today in the journal Science, a group of researchers report that a man-made molecule called recombinant CD4 can be used to deliver a killer-toxin to cells infected with AIDS in test-tube experiments.

However, they cautioned that the new laboratory development — like other incremental advances in AIDS research — was far from being ready for clinical application and, at best, might offer a potential new treatment approach rather than a cure.

Dr. Jonathan W. Uhr, chairman of the department of microbiology at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas, said the CD4 molecule naturally binds to a glycoprotein, called gp120, that forms on the surface of cells infecting with human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, which causes AIDS. CD4, he said, will not attach itself to cells not infected with HIV.

In the laboratory, Uhr said, his research group combined a synthetic CD4 molecule with a toxin called ricin that is extracted from plants.

When exposed in a test tube to HIV-infected cells, he said, the CD4-ricin combination binds to the cell surfaces and the ricin then kills the cell, thus eliminating a source of HIV virus.

"Early in the course of HIV infection, T-cells and macrophages (two types of immunity cells) are thought to be the major cellular reservoirs for the virus. Both of those bear the CD4 molecule that permits the virus to enter," said Uhr.

By combining a toxin with the CD4 molecule, the researchers are, in effect, creating a guided missile that attacks only those cells that are infected. Healthy cells are not touched by the toxin, said Uhr.

The scientist said toxic effects of the CD4-ricin combination will have to be studied in the laboratory before the technique could be used in clinical experiments. Ricin has been used in cancer drugs and has been found to be well tolerated by patients if managed carefully, he said.

Uhr said it will be at least a year before the drug could be tested on patients. And, though this technique shows promise, he said he is not suggesting that it would cure AIDS.

"We would not expect it to kill a latently-infected cell and this represents a significant obstacle in terms of curing this disease," said Uhr. "I think that one might expect, at best, to slow it down."

He said the AIDS virus is known to invade cells and stay there quietly, not making the gp120 protein that would be targeted by the CD4 molecule.

"One would have to consider the problem of these latent infected cells as a major one in terms of ridding the body of all the infected cells," said Uhr.

Dr. Flossie Wong-Staal, a National Institutes of Health AIDS researcher, said the finding was "important" but added, "we could never eliminate the virus infection by this means" because of the latently infected cells.

"It still very early to say if this would be an important therapy, but it should be tried clinically, I think," said Wong-Staal.

Other scientists involved in the study were Mark A. Till, Victor Ghetie and Ellen S. Vitetta of the University of Texas, and Timothy Gregory, Eric J. Patzer, James P. Porter and Daniel J. Capon of Genentech, a South San Francisco, Calif., firm that developed the synthetic CD4 molecule.

A report on the study was published today in Science, the journal of the American Association For the Advancement of Science.

Former Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev died of a heart attack in 1971. He was 77.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's time for Operation Dear Abby IV? Once again, we will join forces with the America Remembers campaign, whose national chairman is still Donald P. Grimes.

Last year, Operation Dear Abby III sent an estimated 3 million pieces of mail to our servicemen and women stationed in Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Iceland and Europe, as well as those serving in the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean. Tons of letters and packages were dropped from helicopters to aircraft carriers to cheer those who had been deployed for weeks — some for months.

Schoolteachers in the United States and Canada made class projects of writing to our servicemen and women who would be away from their families during the holidays. Women and men who love to bake sent cookies, brownies and fruit-cakes. The elderly residents of the Jewish Center for the Aged in St. Louis baked 21 dozen kosher cookies, under strict rabbinical supervision. (They received letters of gratitude from Marines and sailors in Okinawa who enjoyed "the sweet touch of home.")

I received hundreds of heart-warming pictures of men and women in uniform — jubilant as they eagerly sorted through thousands of letters, searching for some from their home states.

Veterans of previous wars wrote to give our young servicemen and women a lift because they remember how rough it was to be away from home for the holidays.

Romances blossomed — and some weddings took place following long pen-pal relationships.

This year, more than 100,000 troops will participate in the program. Please join me in this campaign to let them know that you love and appreciate them. Send as many Christmas and Hanukkah cards as you can. Last year, many readers wrote to say that they were overwhelmed at the responses they received from grateful servicemen and women.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday
Nov 26, 1988

There should be a noticeable upswing in your social life in the year ahead. Fun interests will be expanded upon and the contacts you make will also be helpful in furthering your other ambitions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you are likely to be in a fun-loving mood and this should please your companions, because your bright, positive attitude will take their minds off their problems. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things should work out to your ultimate advantage today if you don't rock the boat and just let events run their natural courses. Early occurrences won't be indicative of end results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When selecting your activities today try to plan something with active friends who don't take themselves or life too seriously. Involvements with negative types could spoil your day.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lady Luck tends to favor you today in situations of a material nature. Be alert for an opportunity that could help feather your nest.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Leadership, judgment and initiative are likely to be your dominant qualities today. Success in furthering your personal interests can be achieved if you use your gifts wisely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Developments out of your control could work to your advantage today in bolstering your career or financial position. Move swiftly if opportunity knocks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your enthusiasm is contagious today and you can easily arouse an interest in others for what interests you. This is why partnership arrangements are likely to be your strong suit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your objectives are clearly defined today, your chances for achieving them will be better than usual. The key to today's success is being single-minded.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to perform at your best today, you need stimulating and risky involvements. Your judgment in challenging ventures should be quite good.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A matter that has been hanging fire can be finalized to your satisfaction today if you're prepared to dedicate energies and efforts to doing it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you could do well operating on your own today, you are likely to be even more effective in situations involving partners. Be a team player.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have the faculty for bringing things to a successful conclusion today that should please you and win the admiration of others, especially if you're materially motivated.

took the ace and queen and returned a second club. Although declarer could shed two spades on the high clubs, eventually he had to lay down the spade ace in the far-fetched hope that the king would drop singleton. No such luck.

And what were the wasted high cards? Figure it out for yourself — the K-Q-J of clubs, the king of diamonds and the queen of spades did declarer no good at all. But is it possible that declarer overlooked something in the play? If you recall, this week's theme is keeping the dangerous hand off lead. How could that be done?

It's fair to assume that West would not underlead an ace against a suit contract, so East is marked with the club ace. What happens if declarer simply plays low from dummy at the first trick? Sure, West will win the trick, but the diamond king is safe from attack, and declarer can ruff out East's club ace to establish two clubs for two diamond discards. And what if East is brilliant enough to figure all this out and wins the club ace anyway at trick one to lead the diamond jack? Declarer may lose two diamonds and a club, but now his three small spades can go away on the K-Q-J of clubs.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Getting an early start

Here was one of those sad bridge hands in which so much of the high-card strength was seemingly wasted. Against four hearts, West led the 10 of clubs to dummy's jack and East's ace. East then switched to the jack of diamonds. Declarer put up the king. West

Wright's wife's records subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The special counsel investigating House Speaker Jim Wright has subpoenaed records on work his wife, Betty, did for a partnership between Wright and a Fort Worth real estate developer and investor, according to a source familiar with the case.

The source, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said investigators for outside special counsel Richard J. Phelan had subpoenaed and received records of transactions, working papers and memos related to Mrs. Wright's work for George A. Mallick.

Until 1984, Mrs. Wright was paid $18,000 a year for advice that she gave to an investment venture formed by the Texas congressman, Mallick and their wives in 1979, according to financial disclosure statements filed by the speaker.

With the six-month ethics probe of Wright entering its home stretch, the investigators are examining transactions underlying the partnership company, Mallightco, in much greater detail than available in public records, the source said.

Wright's financial disclosure form shows that he apparently exchanged stock worth between $50,000 and $100,000 for his initial share of the partnership, which was formed to manage investments in stocks, real estate and precious and semi-precious stones.

He listed the value of his Mallightco holdings, which were later placed into a blind trust, at between $100,000 and $250,000. The trustee disclosed last July, two months after the ethics probe began, that the assets had been disposed of.

Wright's investments with Mallick are not mentioned in the six-count resolution which spells out the bounds of the investigation by the ethics panel, formally known as the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct.

Bush's vacation town said rife with rumors

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) — In this fishing port that may be the site of the next summer White House, rumors are flying as thick as herring gulls over a dragger's stern.

One rumor has it that Ocean Avenue, the winding road that skirts President-elect George Bush's oceanfront estate, will be made one-way to ease the flow of traffic and enhance security. Others suggest the road will be closed to the public and that passes will be issued to townspeople who live along the route.

Bush and his wife, Barbara, were spending the Thanksgiving holiday at the family estate.

Rumors are about all the town's residents have to work with as they swap ideas about what may happen to their quaint but growing coastal village once Bush takes office Jan. 20.

There is scuttlebutt that lobster fishermen may be barred from setting their traps in the protected cove beside the president-elect's 11-acre compound at Walker's Point. Bush has made it plain that he opposes any such restrictions.

Other unsubstantiated rumors tell of property sold or leased at exorbitant prices to news organizations seeking an operational base near the Bush estate.

Making their way through the grapevine are rumors that a half-dozen helicopter pads will be built at various points in town to speed Bush's trips to and from his estate known as Walker's Point, after his grandfather who built it.

Some of the speculation is just plain fun.

"The last rumor I heard is that they're going to land the aircraft carrier Nimitz out there to bring him in," said Bush's closest neighbor, Robert Dennis, pointing to the ocean beyond Walker's Point.

The Secret Service, in accordance with long-established policy, would not comment on any rumors or offer any details about security arrangements for the Kennebunkport compound.

"The more we say about it, the more we legitimize what the rumors are, and we hate to do that," said special agent Bill Corbett, a spokesman at Secret Service headquarters in Washington.

Emphasizing that no decisions have been made, Corbett said "right now we're just monitoring what the president-elect's schedule might be for the foreseeable future."

The Kennebunkport compound is more accessible to the public than other presidential retreats such as President Reagan's mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., but Corbett indicated the location should not pose insurmountable security problems.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son is moderately autistic. However, we live in a foreign country and the care isn't the greatest. How do we go about finding a good center for him in the United States?

DEAR READER: Autism is a mental disorder marked by extreme withdrawal into fantasy, in conjunction with delusions, hallucinations and an inability to relate to people.

When you return to the United States and obtain a pediatrician for your son, the doctor can advise you about what resources are available in your community to treat this unfortunate condition.

In many cases, it is treatable and your son may be helped. I suggest you contact the Health Information Clearinghouse — P.O. Box 1133, Washington, DC 20013.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had a Pap smear that was Class I. Three weeks later I had another which came back positive for cancer — Class IV. How is this possible? I do have venereal warts and yeast infections.

DEAR READER: During a Pap smear, cells are scraped from the cervix (uterine opening) and examined under a microscope. Based on the appearance of the cells, they are graded I (normal) through IV (clearly abnormal).

Cervical cancer usually arises on only a portion of the cervix; if that particular area is not scraped, the abnormal cells will not be discovered. This is why most doctors prefer to examine the whole cervix.

In your case, it's possible that a small abnormal area on the cervix was missed on the first examination.

A second alternative is that the technician misread one or both samples. Human error often accounts for differences in interpretation.

A third explanation is that you developed Class IV cells in the interval between examinations.

In any case, you need further investigation, such as a cone biopsy, during which a portion of the cervix is removed and meticulously examined.

Recent studies have shown an unmistakable association between venereal warts in women and dysplasia (abnormal cells) in the cervix. Some women with genital warts have a tendency to develop cervical cancer, which — if discovered early — can be successfully treated.

Therefore, you need to be under the care of a gynecologist who will be able to follow through on this problem. In addition to addressing the Class IV Pap, the specialist should offer you treatment for both the genital warts and the yeast infection.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Viruses and Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Candidate withdraws

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — The interim president of Southwest Texas State University did not apply to be considered for the post.

Michael Abbott, a former executive vice president of the school that has about 20,000 members, was not on a list of finalists released by Texas State University System executive director Lamar Urbanovsky. The list was released in response to a request the Austin American-Statesman under the Texas Open Records Law.

William Koehler, vice chancellor of Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, informed Urbanovsky by telephone Wednesday that he was withdrawing. Koehler gave no reason.

Book details year at lay monastery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Firefighters refused to respond to medical emergencies at the monastery, garbagemen wouldn't pick up its trash and a county health worker described its tiny patients as "little rattlesnakes."

The reason: Starcross Monastic Community, a Roman Catholic monastery run by lay workers, wanted to provide a home for infants with AIDS.

Yet through it all, much of the bad was offset, said Tolbert McCarroll.

"For every problem we encountered, there was some surprising force that came along to balance it," said McCarroll, author of "Morning Glory Babies."

McCarroll, known as Brother Toby, said the book is an "unconcealed plea" to readers to adopt infants infected with the AIDS virus who otherwise will

"spend their days in walkers tethered to doorknobs in hospital corridors."

"There are a lot of misconceptions about how ill these babies are," he said in an interview. "People think they are nothing but trouble, always sick."

"Nothing could be further from the truth, as we hope our story shows."

McCarroll describes a social worker yanking Starcross Monastic Community's 12-year-old foster care license because it would not abandon plans to care for the infants, a neighbor telling reporters the nearby town of Annapolis didn't consider Starcross "part of the community anymore" and a poster being defaced with graffiti reading: "Catch exotic diseases, kiss AIDS infected kids."

"We never carried (the babies) near the public road because of some threats shouted from cars," McCarroll writes in the 160-page book, published last month by St. Martin's Press.

Even now that two years have passed, McCarroll said, "good will toward us will continue to be a local sin for some time to come."

The monastery, about 120 miles north of San Francisco, cares for three or four infants with AIDS.

Although the internationally known monastery's conflicts have been reported before, the book, which details the first two years of Starcross's efforts to help the babies, offers the most complete picture so far of its struggles since November 1986.

Aside from neighbors' fears, the "most antagonistic reaction" came from the government, McCarroll said.

At one point, a social worker ordered McCarroll's 82-year-old bedridden mother, who lived in a separate house on the remote property in Sonoma County, to be fingerprinted for a criminal check, McCarroll says. After an argument over the matter, he said, the monastery's license was temporarily revoked. Despite the problems, "unsolicited helpers" began showing up, offering physical labor, supplies and friendship.

Williams goes wild as WTC wins seventh contest, 107-97

ODESSA - Bernard Williams, the 6-1 sophomore who hit key free throws late to help Western Texas College win two other games this season, did his thing from farther out Thursday, tossing in 10 3-point shots to lead the Westerners to a 107-97 win over Pratt College, Kan.

The turkey-day victory put Western at 7-1 on the season as they prepare to meet Hill County College in second-round action of the Odessa Tournament. Today's game is set for 4 p.m. Western also meets Texas State Technical Institute of Waco at 4 p.m. Saturday in the classic-style format.

Trailing the Beavers 51-42 at halftime, Western came out hot in the second 20-minute period and hit an amazing 21 of 28 field goal attempts. The blazing accuracy - 75 percent - included an eight-of-nine effort from 3-point land, with Williams hitting seven-of-seven.

For the night, the Andrews native turned in a season-high 38 point performance.

Williams wasn't alone, however. Bobby Spear, the consistent 6-5 sophomore from Albuquerque, N.M., also had a strong game, accounting for 27 points and eight rebounds. Ken Critton, a 6-8 freshman, slapped home 18 points and had eight boards and Oklahoma transfer Vladimir McCrary added 10 points, including two 3-pointers.

Point-guard Keith Hawkins dished out 10 assists.

Shawn Jamison, a 6-8 sophomore, led Pratt's Beavers with 27 points. Eric Moore scored 21, Michael Hudson 18 and Alan Dubberly 11.

Western shot 47 percent from the field in the first half but only four of 13 from 3-point range and

Tigers set for L'land

LEVELLAND - Coach Larry Scott's Snyder Tigers will take on Levelland at 7:30 p.m. here Saturday in a non-district basketball game.

A junior varsity contest opens the action at 6 p.m.

Snyder is 2-1 on the season and hopes to rebound from a narrow, 56-53, loss to Midland Lee earlier this week.

"Levelland is a lot like us. They always seem to be strong and competitive," said Coach Scott, anticipating a tough ballgame.

"They have a real fine player in Kenneth Jackson. He's a 6-3 wing player who is a real good shooter. He can post up inside, too, if they need him to."

Levelland is 2-0 for the season.

Saturday's ballgame begins a long road trip for Snyder's varsity boys, who play do not play at home again until Jan. 10.

was just four of seven from the free throw stripe. In contrast, Pratt went to the line 24 times in the first 20 minutes and bagged 18 points.

Those totals evened up in the second half as Western was 17 of 24 from the stripe and Pratt was four of 13.

Williams is getting used to performing under pressure. Earlier this season he hit two free throws with seven seconds left, then executed a crucial steal as the clock was running out to help lift the Westerners over Cisco, 100-97. Then earlier this week, on Monday, Williams nailed a short jumper with five seconds left to break a tie game and propel the team past Ranger, 79-77.

Today's meeting is the second time Hill and Western have met. Western edged the Rebels 80-78 in the first game of the season at Dallas Reunion Arena.

Dusters use bench strength to punish Wranglers, 74-67

CISCO - The bad news is Western Texas' Lady Dusters are still struggling at times offensively. The good news is that people are coming off the bench to take up the slack.

"We made some changes and that seemed to turn the whole thing around," said Coach Kelly Chadwick, whose Dusters trailed by 17 points in the first half before rallying to beat Cisco 74-67 here Wednesday night in non-conference hoops action.

The victory was WTC's 10th in just 14 outings, and keeps the momentum going as the Lady Dusters prepare for their conference opener on Thursday, Dec. 1, in Clarendon.

"It's frustrating when our starters take some bad shots and turn the ball over but it's really refreshing to see ladies come in off the bench and play well," said the coach. "Playing in Cisco is tough and we're happy for the win. We did not play well, but the good part is that we brought in some players off the bench and they turned it around."

The reserve help came from Jayton freshman Bobbie Brown and Beaumont sophomore Tabitha Walton, among others. Joy Muller, a freshman from Oilton, also contributed to the effort, and Chadwick was pleased with the play of regular Stephanie McKnight, starting point-guard.

"Bobbie hit a couple of baskets and Tab (Walton) hit a couple and it just seemed to turn things around. They didn't score a lot of points but they came in and ignited us," Chadwick noted.

Western trailed by 17 with just over six minutes to play in the half but pulled even with the Lady Wranglers and got a buzzer shot from McKnight to lead 38-37 going into intermission.

Chadwick opted to go with players off the bench for most of the second half, then brought the rest of the starting crew back in to finish Cisco off.

"With about five minutes to go we were down about nine points and I put the starters back in. They took over and managed to pull the ballgame out," said Chadwick.

In addition to Brown, Walton and McKnight, Chadwick also praised the efforts of Muller and Valery Jackson, a 5-10 freshman from Morton.

Walton and regular Nickey Allen led on the scoreboard with 15 points each while Tami Wilson bagged 14 points and McKnight added 8. Brown, Stacy Smith and Julie Roewe pitched in six points apiece.

Cisco was led by Elayne Caruthers, who had 25. Cynthia Wilson added 10.

"Another thing that was real good to see was how well Stephanie (McKnight) played," said Chadwick. "She probably played her best game of the season. She didn't score a lot of points but she hit crucial baskets, had very few turnovers and really provided the leadership for the team," the coach added of the 5-4 sophomore from Snyder.

Next Thursday's WJAC opener in Clarendon will be a double-header with the Lady Dusters taking the court at 6 p.m. WTC's Westerners play Clarendon at 8 p.m.

Moon's pep talks lift Oilers past struggling Dallas, 25-17

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Soft-spoken Warren Moon shocked the Houston Oilers into action with a rare tongue-lashing.

They were so amazed at their quarterback that the Oilers overcame their road phobia to beat the Dallas Cowboys 25-17 on Thanksgiving Day.

It was Dallas' ninth consecutive loss and its 11th defeat of the season, tying a club record set in 1960 when the Cowboys went 0-11-1.

The Oilers, 9-4, had four road losses this year. And Moon was sick and tired of them easing up once they left their "House of Pain (Astrodome)."

He gave them a hard chewing out after Dallas jumped to a 7-0 lead and seemed to be on the way to one of the shocking upsets of the NFL season.

"When you get to this time of a year you have to count on something besides the home crowd to fire you up," Moon said.

So Moon took it upon himself to act like the Houston home crowd.

Moon said, "I had a few players on my team mad at me for awhile. I felt we came out flat and I said so on the field. I don't usually do things like that but I could see us flat and so I said something."

"Maybe some of the guys thought it would be like preseason (Houston won 54-10) coming in here but I knew it wouldn't be like that. When you're playing a team that's down and they get off to a good start it gives them too much of a lift. That's when I noticed I had to say something. Dallas played us tough and I knew they would."

The Oilers stayed only a half game behind Cincinnati in the AFC Central division race.

Houston coach Jerry Glanville said, "We ran into a trap today. Dallas was emotionally high. We were flat coming out."

The Cowboys led 17-10 in the third period after Steve Pelluer's three-yard touchdown run but Moon wouldn't be denied.

He took the Oilers on what proved to be the game-winning drive after safety Jeff Donaldson intercepted a tipped pass at midfield. Other than Mike Rozier's 12-yard run in the second period, it was Houston's only touchdown of the day.

Tony Zendejas kicked four field goals but missed an extra point that caused concern for the Oilers.

The Cowboys could be thankful that they played Houston tough and still remained in the race for the NFL's No. 1 draft pick next spring.

But Dallas coach Tom Landry said, "This wasn't a happy Thanksgiving for me."

He praised his downtrodden club's effort.

"I'm proud of the team. It seems like we just can't make the big play. I didn't want just a moral victory."

Aggies hold off comeback to defeat Texas Longhorns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas, frustrated for the fifth year in a row by Texas A&M, 28-24, can only look to next season. A&M, basking in its 500th college football victory, will seek No. 501 next Thursday against Alabama.

A&M, 7-4, but ineligible for bowl play because of NCAA probation, led 28-0 Thursday before the underdog Longhorns, 4-7, rallied in front of a national television audience and sellout home crowd of 77,809.

The Southwestern Conference loss ended Texas' worst football season since 1956 when it went 1-9.

"The seniors on this team have gone through so much this season with all of the adversity and they have done nothing but fight back," said A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill.

A&M running back Darren Lewis, a 210-pound sophomore, ran 38 times for a career-high 212 yards and a 15-yard touchdown for the favored Aggies.

Lewis also set up fullback Robert Wilson's 1-yard touchdown with a 36-yard run.

All-American linebacker John Roper ran a blocked field goal 48 yards for a 21-0 A&M lead, and sub quarterback Chris Osgood's 8-yard scoring run raised the score to 28-0 in the second quarter.

Texas redshirt freshman Mark Murdock brought screaming Texas fans to their feet with scoring tosses of 9 yards to Kerry Cash in the second quarter, 14 yards to Stephen Clark and 76 yards to Tony Jones in the second half.

"It was all on guts and effort tonight," said Texas Coach David Williams, whose team lost four games this season by a total of 13 points.

A fumbled pitchout on third-and-2 after Texas had reached the A&M 34 spoiled Texas' chance for a possible go-ahead touchdown.

Texas sub quarterback Donovan Forbes tossed the ball to tailback Eric Metcalf, who said he slipped, and the ball bounced to the A&M 49, where A&M recovered.

North Texas State may give Marshall a lot of problems

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) - When Marshall takes the field Saturday in an attempt to stop the University of North Texas in the first round of the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs, it will have a lot of places to start.

North Texas, 8-3, likes to use four wide receivers, usually three on one side, and keeps a running back behind the quarterback just to keep people honest, according to Marshall assistant head coach Don Poluszek.

"They call the majority of their plays at the line. They check your alignment and predetermine what they do. If you're not ready up front, they utilize the fullback," Poluszek said.

North Texas, the third-place finisher in the Southland Conference, is seeded 10th in the Division I-AA playoffs. Marshall, 10-1 and the Southern Conference co-champion, is seeded sixth and seeking to return to the title game in Pocatello, Idaho.

Southland member Northeast Louisiana defeated Marshall 43-42 in last year's championship game.

If Marshall is ready up front on defense Saturday, prepare to see the ball in the air. North Texas sophomore quarterback, Scott Davis, has completed 158 of 270 passes for 2,409 yards and Darin Collins has carried for 412.

"They have a lot of weapons. Ask Texas. They had to hold on to win," Poluszek said. The Mean Green Eagles lost to Division I Texas 27-24 but defeated Division I teams Texas Tech and Rice.

That, of course, is not to say that Marshall doesn't have offensive weapons of its own. Junior quarterback John Gregory is 185-of-327 passing for 2,687 yards - most of that to split end Mike Barber and tight end Sean Dorner, both All-Americans last year.

"Everybody at Northeast Louisiana has said good things about Marshall. I know they have a good group of athletes and a good group of players," said Bob Finklea, North Texas defensive coordinator. "We have to play a good team, but we're looking forward to it."

River guide says he first thought nothing of gunfire

ALPINE, Texas (AP)—A man injured when he and a West Texas couple were attacked by snipers while rafting down the Rio Grande says he first thought the gunmen were harmless.

River-rafting guide Jim Burr, who survived the attack that killed one man and injured his wife Saturday, said he really wasn't alarmed when he first heard gunfire in the distance.

"That wasn't unusual," Burr said. "In the past, it hasn't been a cause of concern."

Even when the snipers first fired on the three, Burr said he still didn't think those shooting were seriously trying to hurt them.

"When I got hit, I realized they weren't kidding."

Burr, 36, a guide with the Terlingua-based Far Flung Adventures, was shot in the thigh. He remains hospitalized in Alpine in stable condition.

Michael Heffley, 40, of Eastland was killed in the attack. His 32-year-old wife, Jamie, was wounded and remains in stable condition in an Abilene hospital.

The three were rafting through the Colorado Canyon when they were attacked by snipers who opened fire from atop 300-foot bluffs overlooking the Rio Grande, which runs along the Texas-Mexico border. The attack occurred about 30 miles southeast of Presidio.

Heffley was fatally shot while trying to shield his wife from the gunfire.

Authorities on both sides of the river joined in the search for the attackers, but they have not made any arrests.

Burr said the gunshots he heard before the attack didn't trouble him because hunters and people "just shooting" have used the area.

After he was shot, he said, "I started hollering at them and running down the river. I'm hollering, 'There's no money on the boat. Please don't shoot! No more! No more!'"

"They were hollering something back, but in the distance it all got wadded up. But I think it was Spanish," he said.

"As far as I can tell, it was totally without motive," Burr said of the attack. "They didn't steal anything. They didn't come down to the boat."

At one point, after Burr and the Heffleys swam about 50 yards against a canyon wall to elude their attackers.

Shoppers may face shortages during annual shopping spree

By The Associated Press

Christmas shoppers wading into the post-Thanksgiving rush today face a little added pressure this year: tight inventories.

That's a business decision prompted by a long-running slump in the retail business, but for consumers it means limited selection and shortages of hot-selling items.

Today's opening of the nation's annual shopping spree finds retailers optimistic about improving their seasonal sales, but conservative enough to stock sparingly.

Inventories have been tight for much of the year, and few retailers are likely to take many chances at this point.

The advice from industry analyst Monroe Greenstein of the investment firm Bear, Stearns & Co., is to shop early.

"If consumers want to buy popular items, they better not wait," he said.

The most popular items this season are expected to include designer and cashmere sweaters, leather goods and compact disk players and for children, Nintendo video games and Barbie dolls.

"It is still too early to get a true reading on whether this is going to be a nail-biting Christmas. We never anticipated Christmas 1988 to be a barn-burner Christmas," said Mike Wellman, marketing vice president for K mart Corp. in Troy, Mich.

"There are more people working, the election is behind us, and people seem to be reasonably, if not optimistic, comfortable with the shape of the economy."

K mart, with thousands of discount stores, book shops and drugstores, expects holiday sales to run about 6 percent ahead of last year — in the range of most optimistic forecasts.

For K mart, and other big retailers, the decisions that may make or break Christmas 1988 were made as long as 16 months ago.

"We have been playing the whole inventory thing conservatively all year long and that's continued right into Christmas," Wellman said.

Promotions are expected to help generate traffic.

While the day after Thanksgiving is the traditional start of the season, many stores have had their decorations up for weeks. At Saks Fifth Avenue's flagship store in Manhattan, for instance, the evergreens went up right after Halloween.

To get Chicago shoppers in the spirit, Marshall Field's hired carolers and minstrels to roam its stores and installed a Christmas tree in one location that it calls "the tallest indoor handmade-ornament tree in the world."

Some "sale" signs and price markdowns will be popping up around the country, but analysts say many of these promotions also were planned in advance and prices have been adjusted to account for them.

"We continue to operate in a very competitive environment, and we see some caution on the part of the consumer," said Kathy Blackburn of Mervyn's, a Hayward, Calif.-based department store chain.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, plans to give shoppers a taste of the new low prices that are part of its recently announced restructuring plan.

Most Sears stores will not switch to "everyday low pricing" until next year, but the company will still be touting holiday sale items.

Some retailers say price choppings may be inevitable later in the season.

In a survey conducted last month by the accounting firm Touche Ross & Co., 90 percent of a group of 70 New England retailers said major markdowns would take place earlier or at the same time as last year.

2 children killed in separate fires

By The Associated Press

Separate fires on Thanksgiving claimed the lives of two 4-year-old boys in Texas and left family members hospitalized today.

One child died early Thursday morning in a mobile home fire in Comanche that sent the rest of his family to a Dallas hospital for treatment of severe burns.

A house fire near the East Texas town of Hemphill also killed a 4-year-old boy and injured his infant brother Thursday.

Comanche Fire Department officials said the mobile home fire in the Central Texas community may have started in the heater of the family room where the boy, Brian Hatley, was sleeping.

His parents, Jack and Sheila Hatley, and sisters, Tabatha, 3, and Samatha, 1, were taken to the Comanche Hospital and later transferred to Parkland Hospital in Dallas.

Late Thursday, Sheila and Samatha Hatley were in serious condition and Jack and Tabatha were reported in fair condition.

Advent candle lighting event planned Sunday

Hermleigh United Methodist Church, in preparation for the Christian season of Advent and the coming Christmas celebration, will be lighting the first Advent candle, during this Sunday's 11 a.m. worship service. Assisting with the lighting will be all elementary through kindergarten youth present.

A new Advent wreath and stand has been prepared by members and will be placed in the sanctuary for this season. The Altar Guild will be in charge of placing cedar and evergreen decorations on the altar and throughout the church.

The church tree will be put up and all members and friends are asked to bring and place under the tree money, groceries and items for Christmas cheer baskets. These are to be given to the elderly, needy and rest home residents of the community.

Many events have been planned for this season and will be announced at later dates. Rev. Sam Walters is the pastor. Everyone is invited to attend the services.

Real estate firm founders file personal bankruptcy

AUSTIN (AP) — The founders of one of the nation's largest homebuilding companies, who have just filed personal bankruptcy plans to repay up to 4,000 creditors, hope to bounce back — maybe in the same industry, one of their attorneys says.

Nash Phillips and Clyde Copus, who built Nash Phillips-Copus Inc., intend to get back into real estate again, but probably will need a financial partner said lawyer Travis Phillips, who is no relation to Nash Phillips.

"I think that they would like to get back in the homebuilding business," the lawyer told the Austin American-Statesman. "That's what they know best and what they enjoy. But there is a real question as to what opportunity exists in Texas these days."

The personal bankruptcy plans would leave the two men with only their homes, two cars apiece, various personal possessions, and $100,000 apiece.

The two men are seeking court-approved liquidation of $8 million in combined assets, according to documents filed Wednesday. Sources say they personally guaranteed $440 million in loans.

Their company, which took in $450 million in revenues in 1984, its peak year, was caught with too many debts, too much raw land and too little cash during the Texas real estate crunch of 1986. NPC Inc. filed for bankruptcy in March 1987.

Phillips listed total property of $5.7 million and Copus reported total property of nearly $2.9 million. Together, they listed liabilities of $39.3 million.

Twenty-three of their 40 largest creditors agreed to the plan to liquidate their assets before the filing. More than 4,000 creditors are believed to be involved, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

The plan calls for an advisory committee to be formed by five creditors — NCNB Texas, University Savings Association of Houston, MCorp., Mellon Financial Services of Denver, Colo., and United Savings Association of Houston. That advisory committee will be responsible for coordinating the liquidation of the assets.

"The liquidation will basically be handled by the creditors themselves," said Travis Phillips. "We think that will result in a better yield (to creditors)."

Because of the earlier agreement from most of the large creditors, the liquidation plan provides a chance to gain relatively quick approval from Bankruptcy Judge Larry Kelly if no major disputes arise.

Phillips and Copus started the business partnership in 1945 with $2,500. Their homebuilding business expanded with Austin after World War II.

By the late 1970s, they were the largest homebuilders in the city. In 1984 at their zenith, they built homes and developed real estate in eight markets in Texas, Colorado and Arizona.

The two are credited with contributing substantially to Austin's boom period of the late 1970s and early 1980s.

OPEC agrees to output quota

from the increase in oil prices. It's difficult to pass on the full increase."

Oil companies, he noted, have not slashed pump prices with the recent decline in crude prices.

The final agreement would have to be approved by all the ministers.

The ministers opened their winter meeting Monday but postponed further discussions until Saturday to give them time to end the stalemate between Iran and Iraq, which agreed to a cease-fire in August in their eight-year war.

Mana Saeed Otaiba, oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, also left this morning to meet with Emiratis President Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahyan in Morocco.

Otaiba refused to discuss what quota his country would be given in the tentative accord. The United Arab Emirates has been greatly exceeding its current quota, adding to the glut on the world market.

The futures price for West Texas Intermediate, a major U.S. crude, closed Wednesday at $13.97 a barrel.

The financial markets were closed Thursday in the United States for the Thanksgiving holiday.

The ministers want the production agreement to dry up some of the glut on the market so prices will go up.

The major stumbling block to the accord, which would replace one drawn up in 1986, has been the Iran-Iraq dispute.

Iraq had been insisting that its production quota, or ceiling, in any new pact be the same as Iran's. Aghazadeh repeatedly said no.

It was not known exactly how that dispute was resolved.

Aghazadeh said Iran would retain its share of total cartel output at 14.27 percent.

"I received a new proposal in which my main concern, which is to preserve my percentage share, is taken into consideration," he said.

With a ceiling of 18.5 million barrels, that would give Iran a quota of 2.64 million barrels a day. Its current cap is 2.4 million barrels.

"As for the Iraqi quota, 11 members have agreed to donate part of their share to that country," Aghazadeh said. "Insofar as this particular issue is concerned, I find it necessary to consult with my government."

"But other issues, I have agreed to," he said.

Aghazadeh did not say how large Iraq's quota would be under the plan. Its ceiling was set at 1.5 million barrels under the current pact, although it refused to honor that level.

Asked if he was still refusing to allow Iraq the same quota as Iran, he replied, "This is exactly the issue which I have to consult with my government."

"If Tehran agrees that other countries could donate part of their share to Iraq, we will be able to have a strong agreement," he said.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait had insisted that all 13 members would have to be party to any new agreement.

OPEC members are Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

After 16 months, mother still awaits return of son

FREEPORT, Texas (AP) — The reward for information leading to the whereabouts of Dale Henry Hulsopple stands at $1,000, but Brazoria Police Chief Theresa Guidry says no progress is being made to solve the 16-month-old mystery.

"Right now, we are at a standstill because we have run out of leads," Ms. Guidry said. "We have followed up every lead and have found no trace of him."

When Dale Henry Hulsopple's parents, Don and Jean Hulsopple, sat down for Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday, they glanced to a window sill, where a yellow-and-gold electric candle flickered behind wooden mini-blinds, a constant reminder of her son, missing without a trace for 16 months.

"Somehow, it makes me feel better to have it there. I don't know why," Mrs. Hulsopple said.

Dale Henry Hulsopple, her youngest of four children, was 27 when he disappeared on July 27, 1987.

An assistant manager of the Sonic Drive In restaurant in Brazoria, the outgoing, jocular young man left work after receiving a phone call. He told co-workers he would return in 30 minutes.

His car was found the next day along a nearby county road without the keys in the ignition, his father said.

The day after he disappeared, his parents went to Dale's apartment and found their son's dog, Gaspard, had been left unattended.

He would never have done that, the family said. "Oh, gosh no," Mrs. Hulsopple said. "In the past, if he was to be gone for any length of time, he gave the dog to me to dogsit."

She said her son would never have gone away without letting others in the family know where he was going.

Don Hulsopple said he is convinced someone in Brazoria County has information that can help solve his son's disappearance.

"Very definitely somebody knows what happened," Hulsopple said. "Someone has to know because he did not leave of his own volition."

"This community is too small for someone not to know something that can help us or show us where to look," added sister Denise, three years Dale's senior. "Even if he just stopped for gas, he would have joked with the cashier, or something."

Almost as mysterious as the question of Dale's whereabouts, is the unexplainable phenomena family members said they have had.

"You wake up in the middle of the night and feel he is trying to get to you, trying to contact you," Hulsopple said. "Jean and I have both had these kinds of experiences, my daughter, too. "I can't say they are nightmares, because I swear I am not asleep. I am up, awake."

Obituaries

Marcelino Felan

A funeral Mass for Marcelino H. Felan, 76, of 1401 Avenue M will be said at 2 p.m. Saturday at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church with Fr. Joe Augustine officiating. Burial will follow at Hillside Memorial Gardens under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

A rosary will be said at 8 p.m. Friday at the Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel.

He died at 3:15 p.m. Thursday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. He was born April 26, 1912 in Sabinal, Tex. He was a World War II Army veteran and member of the American Legion. He had lived in Snyder since 1951 and retired in 1978 after working for Scurry County for 32 years.

He was a member of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. He married Frances Contreras on Feb. 4, 1945 in Sabinal. She survives.

He is survived by three daughters, Dora Rivera of Odessa, Anita Martinez of Abilene and Cynthia Felan of Snyder; two sons, Lino and Ruben, both of Snyder; nine grandchildren; and one brother, Fabian of Bay City, Mich.

Willie Cooper

STAMFORD—Services are set for 10 a.m. Saturday at Kinney Funeral Home Chapel for Willie Belle Cooper, 88, who died Tuesday in Phoenix, Ariz. Burial will follow in the Highland Memorial Cemetery.

She was the aunt of Walter Cox of Snyder.

Born in Stamford, she was a long-time resident of Phoenix and was a claims representative for the Social Security Administration. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Roy C. Cooper of Phoenix; a sister, Mary Frances Damron of Lubbock; and another nephew, Ray Cox of Amarillo.

Alma Hertel

RULE—Services were set for 11 a.m. Friday at the Faith Lutheran Church in Sagerton for Alma "Snooks" Hertel, 67, who died Wednesday in an Abilene hospital. Burial was to follow in the Old Glory Cemetery.

She was the mother of Steve Hertel of Snyder.

Born in LaGrange, she had lived in Rule most of her life and was a member of the Faith Lutheran Church.

Windshield said shattered

Police are investigating the breakage of a car windshield in the 100 Block of 20th Place. Chris Maxfield of 131 20th Place told officers at 8:12 p.m. Thursday that the windshield of his Ford Mustang had been shattered.

2 arrested in fight

Two young men were arrested for public intoxication at 12:50 a.m. Friday after city officers responded to a reported fight in the parking lot of Allsup's convenience store in the 3900 Block of College Ave.

An officer said the youths were 17 and 18 years of age.

First-time home buyers might consider a foreclosed home. The price of a foreclosed home may be lower than similar homes and financing may be more attractive, says PaceLine National Management.

Goodfellows to aid needy

Assisting the Goodfellows again this year will be the Snyder High School student council and local classrooms, which will be conducting canned food drives in the days leading up to Christmas.

Snyder Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will also be helping Goodfellows box and sort the food items.

Donation stations are expected to be set up at Snyder financial institutions also.

Goodfellows

Scurry County families may apply for Goodfellow food donations by filling out this form. The deadline to apply is Dec. 5. Applications should be mailed to: Goodfellows; P.O. Box 461; Snyder, Tx., 79549.

Partially deaf boy found on streets learns to communicate

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — One year after he was found wandering the streets of Ciudad Juarez, partially deaf and unable to speak, 9-year-old Jose de Jesus Garcia Aguilera is attending school for the first time.

Jose's identity remained a mystery for months, but now authorities say special education classes are unlocking a very sharp mind.

"In one day, I swear, he learned the whole alphabet in sign language," said Gloria Ferrel, a staff psychologist at the Casa Hogar del Nino, a government-run children's home where Jose now lives.

Sometime in October, Jose, a spunky, streetwise kid, fled the crowded two-room hut and meager meals he had shared with his mother, grandmother and four siblings in Tampico, a port city on the Gulf of Mexico.

He was found Nov. 7, 1987, wandering the streets of Ciudad Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas, 700 miles from home. Social workers spent eight months trying to learn his identity, but Jose could communicate only through gestures, pictures and his crooked-toothed grin.

"He's very sharp. He's always been able to communicate in one way or another," Cecilia Villarreal, Casa Hogar director, said in an interview this week at the home.

The mystery was solved in June when his mother, Micaela Aguilera, learned where he was. Aguilera, a poor barmaid with an estranged common-law husband, turned her son over to the Casa Hogar in Ciudad Victoria, capital of the state of Tamaulipas, about 130 miles from Tampico.

Jose now lives with 120 other children ranging in age from newborn to 15, and his mother has visited several times, officials said.

The small campus with spottlessly clean dormitories, a dining hall, classrooms and a large garden is one of four homes in the state and dozens around the country for abandoned, mistreated and needy children.

Jose started classes at a special education school in September. Although he has a lot of catching up to do, he seems unfazed by the burden of learning to spell, count and communicate through sign language at the same time.

"He's learning very fast," said Patricia Franco, a staff teacher who helps Jose practice his sign language.

Jose, wearing new corduroy pants, a sports shirt and tennis shoes and carting a big blue book bag, charged into the office to greet a visitor and show off his new knowledge.

He spelled his name in sign language, then flashed the signs for desk, glass and book as Franco pointed to the objects.

That accomplished, he grinned at his instructor for approval.

Numbers still confound him, though. When Franco pointed to three cups on the table, Jose wrote the number eight in a notebook.

Jose drew many pictures of an airplane in flames during his stay in Ciudad Juarez, leading authorities to speculate that he had survived a plane crash.

Specialists now say those pictures reveal a very active imagination fueled by television and the fact that his home in Tampico is next to an airport.

But Jose is sticking to his story, using new skills to tell of his odyssey.

When Franco used sign language to ask where he comes from, Jose attempted to sign a lavish story about how he'd crossed the mountains and flown in an airplane.

"It's crude," she said. "But he's telling us he's been traveling, that he's been on an airplane."

Villarreal said Jose is still being tested. His deafness is considered quite severe. A hearing aid didn't help, and authorities are awaiting another.

Plans call for Jose to see a specialist in Los Angeles for more tests and to determine if an operation could correct his hearing loss.

Jose still is difficult to discipline because he has always fended for himself, Villarreal said.

"He could easily have escaped, and he's had a lot of opportunities," said Villarreal. "But he seems happy here."

A&M biochemist says famous violin maker used right stuff

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The way a Texas A&M biochemist sees it, Stradivari was lucky.

Those world famous Stradivarius violins were just the product of all the right stuff, says Dr. Joseph Nagyvary.

Nagyvary said he discovered several years ago that the wood Stradivari used to make his violins was soaked in water, not dry-seasoned as is commonly believed. He also found that the Stradivari varnish, which is a composite made up of billions of crystals and other particles in addition to linseed oil, played an important role in the fine instrument's sound quality.

"Stradivari did not know materials science," said Nagyvary. "He just happened to use the right materials to produce the quality violin he is famous for."

During restoration, some of the Stradivarius had sound quality inadvertently stripped away along with the varnish, Nagyvary said.

Some collectors considered the thicker, colored varnish to be unattractive, and did not realize its value in producing tonal quality, he said.

For centuries, families of tradition-bound craftsmen produced perfect copies of Stradivarius violins — complete with blemishes, chipped varnish and burn marks.

But Nagyvary is producing a violin that is meant to appeal to those who want a violin for its sound quality, not its physical resemblance to an antique.

"I don't consider violin making an exalted artwork, nor was it in the beginning, since the same artisans also made furniture and shoes," said Nagyvary, who holds a Ph.D. in biochemistry and biophysics and who is a violin enthusiast.

Nagyvary, who has had his work on the violin published in scientific journals, said the debate over his violin is basically a debate over two different commodities — sound and appearance.

"I'm not arguing with the artists," Nagyvary said. "I'm producing a 'high-performance violin,' not a piece of artwork. The value of the violins produced by people who consider it artwork lies in the label, the condition and the appearance. It is a serial product sold as artwork. I base the quality of mine on such things as sound spectrum analysis.

"I compare this to the difference between coach-making of the 1800s and the production of race cars. A sports car is not sold merely on its looks, but on its performance," he said.

Nagyvary earlier received a $274,000 grant from the Texas Advanced Technology Program to fund studies that would help establish a major string instrument industry in Texas. Several members of the Texas A&M engineering faculty are collaborating on the project.

"Our violin industry in Texas would be backed with sound scientific evidence," Nagyvary adds. "For the first time in history, the violin will be offered as a tool, an instrument with distinct and scientific specifications for why and how it performs."
