

New WTC Faculty, Staff Members Begin Duties

by Lois Gleason

New full-time faculty members seem to be settled into the routine of their new jobs now, as are their students.

Buddy Foster is the new director of residence halls. His wife, Christine, a former EKG technician at Health Science Center in Lubbock, is assistant director of residence halls. They are parents of a four-week-old daughter.

He was manager of a cassette tape publishing company in Lubbock before coming to WTC. From that experience he developed a keen interest in business. "I found out you've got to know it (business). You've got to know how the system works," he said. He plans to work toward a master's in business from Hardin-Simmons University.

Foster was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army in 1972. He attended Armor School and Armored Cavalry School in 1973. He was a platoon leader in the Army National Guard from 1973-75 and an armory platoon leader from 1977-78. He is still associated with a national guard unit in St. Louis.

He was graduated from Texas Tech in 1974 and during the 1974-

75 school year he taught math at Frenship School in Wolforth.

This is the first teaching assignment for John Gibson of Tulsa, Okla., the new art instructor.

Gibson first became seriously interested in art during college. He set out at one point to be a dentist, but his habit of studying for anatomy classes by drawing pictures gave him the idea of changing his major to fine arts.

Of teaching, he said, "It's not work — it's play." He added that teaching is an energy outlet which gives him the opportunity to express his ideas. He also likes the idea of remaining in a college atmosphere.

In his spare time, Gibson enjoys swimming and, of course, painting, especially what he terms "figurative representationalist painting." He and his wife, Denise, have a two-month-old daughter.

Gibson attended John Brown University of Arkansas and received his bachelor's in Fine Arts from the University of Oklahoma in Norman. He received his master's from North Texas State University in 1979 and has been a teaching fellow there from the fall of 1977 through the past semester.

Although Robert Grandjean, associate professor of biology, prefers the pronunciation "Gronzhon" over "Greenjeans", he admitted, "My name is about the extent of my French." He was born in Jersey City, N.J., and until going to college lived within an 80-mile radius of New York City.

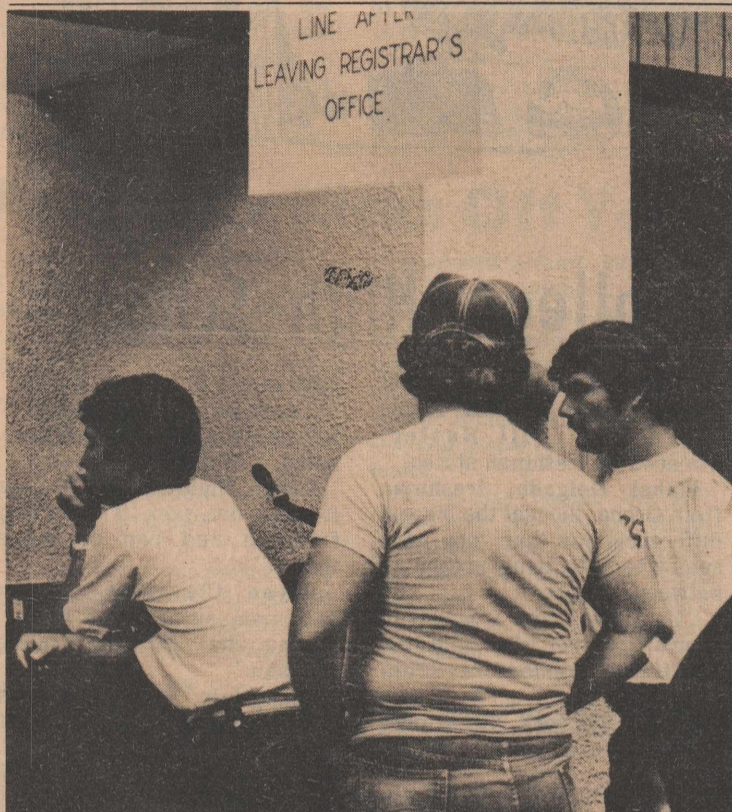

He attended Niagra University in New York, then served in the army as a biological research assistant while stationed in Maryland. After leaving the army, he became a government bond broker on Wall Street. But he said, "I didn't like the whole city thing." So he came to Texas and did graduate work in marine biology at Texas A&M and in Houston, spending two and a half years at each place before coming here.

On his way to Snyder, Grandjean's car broke down and had to be towed. As a result, he missed the first half-day of classes.

Grandjean's interests included learning to cook, eating, research and (since his car broke down) bicycling. He would also like to take up scuba diving.

1,230 Enrolled for Fall; Campus Numbers Up

Preliminary figures released from the registrar's office Sept. 24 show that WTC's total enrollment for the fall semester is 1,230. This exceeds the 1,184 registered for the fall term last year.

Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services and registrar, said that on-campus registration is up but enrollment at extension centers is down.

Six hundred eighty students are registered as full-time students, while 552 carry part-time loads. Sixty per cent of these students are enrolled in academic curricula and 40 per cent are enrolled in vocational/technical programs.

Scurry County contributes 48 percent of the total enrollment and Nolan County is the second with 8 per cent.

Only 2 per cent of the student population are out-of-state students and only one alien student is attending WTC.

L.D. Walden, 52, director of maintenance, and Jerrell W. Row, 44, former instructor of electromechanical technology, died earlier this month.

A native of Girard, Walden was a World War II veteran and had served as chief engineer at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock before moving to Snyder.

Survivors are his wife, the former Linda Mullins, three sons, Lonnie, Steve and David, a step-daughter Rene Mullins, a sister and two brothers.

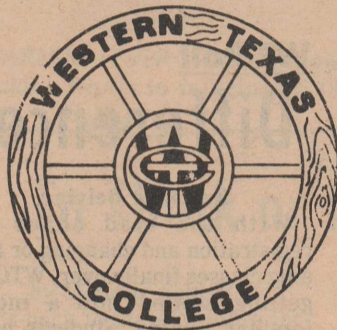

A retired master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force, Row was repair and maintenance supervisor for the Midland plant of Texas Instruments this year. He left Snyder a year ago.

Survivors include his wife, the former Sidney Ann Harrison, two sons, Alan and Jason, all of the home, a daughter, Jeannie, his parents, two sisters and a brother.

Funeral services were arranged through Bell-Seale Funeral Home and burial services were in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

Walden died Sept. 7 at his home and Row died Sept. 13 in an Odessa hospital.

McNair Named to WTC Board; Trustees Ax Midwinter Session

Wacil McNair, editor of the Snyder Daily News since 1954, was appointed to the board of trustees during the regular monthly meeting Sept. 10.

He fills the vacancy left by George Patterson, former Snyder city manager, who resigned to become city manager in Highland Park, a Dallas suburb.

McNair was appointed to serve until the April, 1980 election when the position, Place 2, will be on the ballot for the remaining four years of the current term.

The board approved several faculty resignations and employed new personnel.

Trustees also okayed an auxiliary budget totaling approximately $421,000, the purchase of five IBM typewriters and a bid of $7.25 per foot for about 1,700 feet of curb and gutter at the apartment project site south of the campus.

Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president, reported that fall semester credit hour enrollment is up over last year, reflecting that more people on campus are taking full class loads.

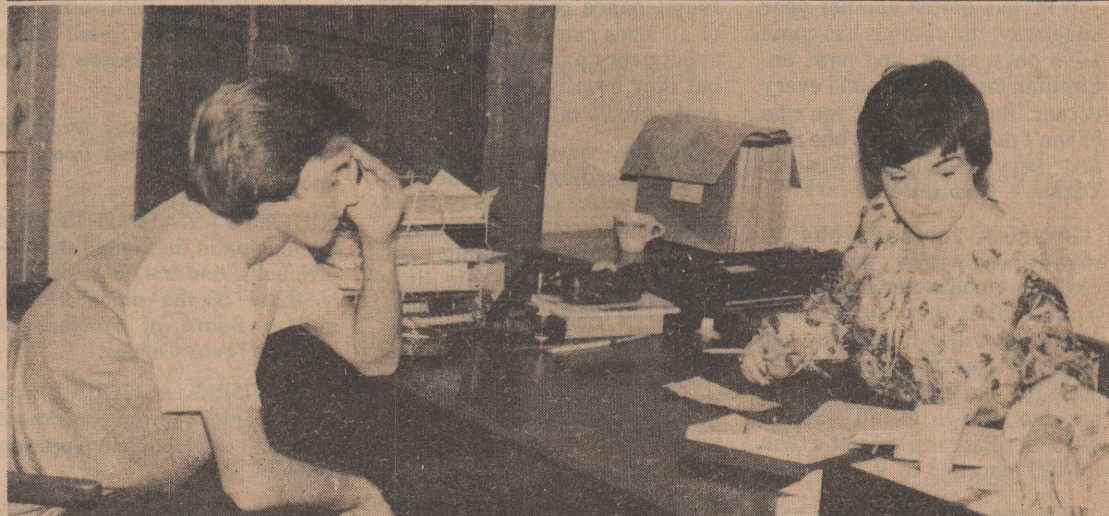

In August, the board agreed to eliminate the midwinter session due to energy expenses, costs of offering the extra courses and different dates area colleges begin their spring semesters.

Trustees also approved new rules relating to community and booster club use of gym and physical education facilities, the appeal process of grade changes, alien student tuition and fee changes for cosmetology and nursing students.

A 1979-80 budget of $3,167,845 was approved for the college in July, representing a nine per cent increase over last year.

This increase was accomplished despite an overall lowering of the local tax rate. Local monies funding operation of WTC are at their lowest level in four years.

Books Burn Budgets

Another semester is underway and we've all been through the experience of registration... some for the first time.

The lines at the counselors' offices are finally empty and Betty McQueen and Dr. Mary Hood have been heard to breathe an audible sigh of relief! (Heard of one student who stood in line five times with "adds and drops".) Perhaps finally getting a schedule that fulfills our individual needs is actually the least surprising part of college enrollment.

The big shocker comes when you get to the bookstore... or maybe I should say to the cashier. The price of textbooks and workbooks is ridiculous!!!

As far as they go, students are content with the "used" books, which may have helpful hints in the margins. But it's a really big mind blower when you must purchase new books and find that your bookstore bill equals or exceeds your entire registration fees!

Sure, most everyone is out to make a buck these days, but it seems there should be some way to hold down the cost of textbooks in an era where it's about all most can do just to pay registration, dorm and living expenses. The price of higher education is like many other things going to price itself right out of reach of the average student on a budget.

There are no ready-made answers to the situation, but it's something we all need to think about and perhaps someone will come up with a workable solution.

Until then, when you see a fellow student emerge from the bookstore with new book in hand, the stunned, glazed look in his eyes is probably due to shock and concern over how he's going to live the rest of the month on loose change!

Going My Way?

As college students, most of us either own a car or have access to a car. Therefore, we are all aware of our nation's gasoline shortage. Maybe it is not even a shortage, at least not yet, but the prices that we are having to pay for our fuel have certainly put a 'shortage' in our pocketbooks.

WTC is a fine, reputable school — and it draws many people from the same hometowns, plus quite a few from the same family, sometimes.

When the week is coming near its end, everyone starts making plans for the weekend. Maybe you are going home to see the football game Friday night, or maybe you're just going home because Mom and her "washing machine" are waiting for you and all of your laundry.

Whatever the reason, there is surely someone else going your way. Think how much cheaper it would be for you to share the expense of the trip with another student. This would also give you some company to keep that trip from being so boring.

Next time you decide to go home, see if some of your friends are going your way. Carpool... set an example for the rest of the nation to follow, because college students of today... you will be fuel-users of tomorrow (if you aren't already).

A 'Hare-y' Situation Develops on Campus

by Linda Belvin

WTC has gotten another year underway, the campus has come alive once again, and new, unfamiliar faces are around every corner. But for those of you who haven't noticed, there's one new and very individual Western Texan — Georgette!

By now you're probably wondering just who this Georgette character is and just what makes her so special. You'd know her if you saw her and you couldn't miss her — she's the one with the fluffy hair and the cute little tail. (Sorry, guys, but Farrah Fawcett's twin is NOT enrolled at WTC!)

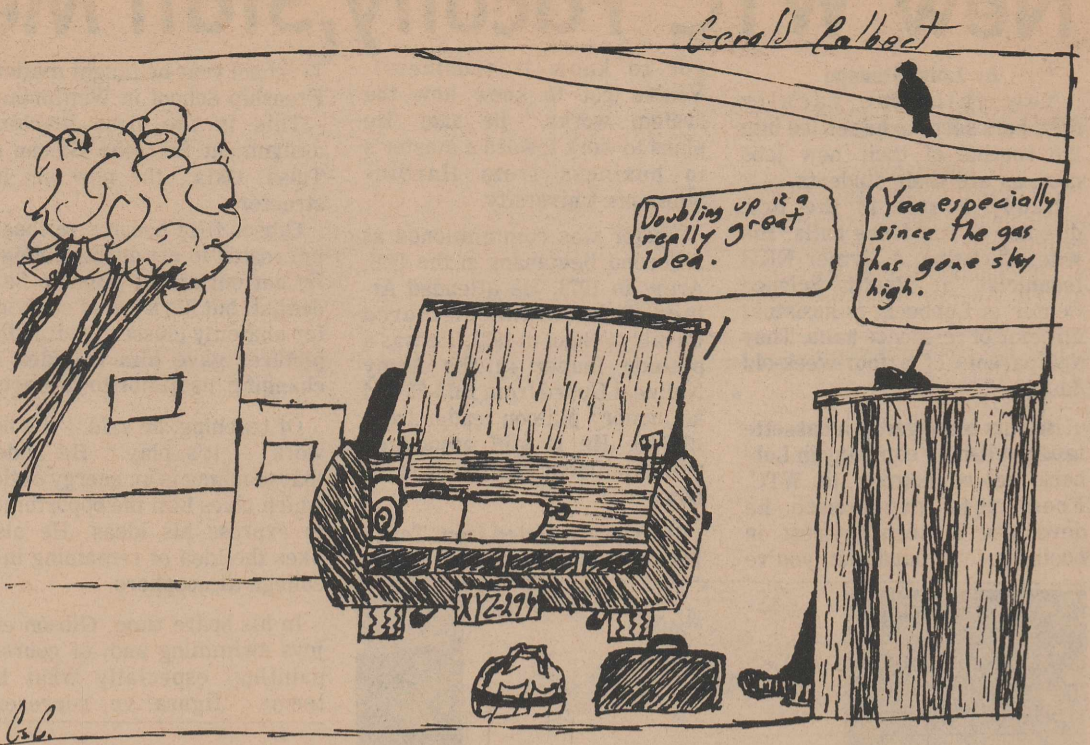

You see, Georgette is a rabbit.

Recently, WTC's rabbit population seems to have exploded. The little jokers appear to be everywhere. According to maintenance personnel, rabbits of all sizes can be found on just about every part of the campus, but they usually stay where the grass grows tallest.

So how, you might ask, are you supposed to know which one is Georgette? If you're ever wandering around outside the administration building and glance up to see a cute little bunny looking you straight in the eye batting her eyelashes, chances are it's Georgette. Rumor has it she even flashes a Pepsodent smile every now and then.

So what does all this have to do with us at WTC? Whenever you see Georgette, stop and think about what a friendly little scamp she is. And couldn't we all learn a little something from that?

WT Poll

Difference in College, High School?

by Linda Belvin

With the mad chaos of registration and changing or adding classes finally over, WTC is getting settled into a more familiar routine. Students now can take the time to slow down and notice more of their surroundings. With this comes the realization that college is an entirely different world from high school. Whether you were a senior of '79, a senior of '75, or a senior of a year so long ago you'd rather not mention, you're bound to notice at least some differences.

What is the biggest difference that you've noticed between college and high school? Here are some of the different impressions received by WTC students.

Chris DeSautell, sophomore from Slaton, said, "The teachers are a lot better. You can learn more from them and they're not in a bad mood all the time. They're really interested in helping the students."

"You have the freedom to do what you want. There's no criticizing from the teachers. If you walk in late, so what? It's no big deal," Bill Butler, Sweetwater freshman stated.

Mabel Delgado, freshman from Ozona, thought the biggest difference was that "you have somewhere to hang around in between classes."

"You have more freedom to control your own life," said J.D. Sheffield, sophomore from Loraine.

Jimmy Pittcock, Aspermont freshman, said simply, "Party more."

"There's nobody telling you that you can't smoke or eat candy in class," stated Sherri Williams, Colorado City freshman. "There's nobody hassling you."

Mark Rutherford, sophomore from Passaic, N.J., said, "You don't have a lot of classes every day and you have the chance to do what you want."

Judy Medrano, Hobbs freshman, thinks that "there are a lot more people here."

But Julie Young, freshman from San Antonio, has the opposite impression. She said, "It's smaller — there were over 3,000 people in my high school."

"You gotta walk farther," was the opinion of Brian Sandbothe, freshman from Anson.

Peggy Highfield, sophomore from Snyder, said, "I have more freedom and can do more things."

Bryan Cleveland, Jayton freshman, agreed with Peggy, saying that he had "more freedom."

"You lose your identity in college," stated Snyder freshman Jamie Westbrook. "You feel more like a number than a person."

Linda Compton, Snyder freshman, said, "You don't feel like you have to attend class. You get treated more like an adult."

Randy Reynolds, sophomore from Crosbyton, said, "You can meet new girls."

"The kids are different — they're friendlier and act more mature," said Brenda Ingram, sophomore from Snyder.

Joanne Salinas, Anson sophomore, stated, "You have the chance to get to know a lot more people. It's just better than high school!"

Nov. 18 to Mark WTC's Tenth Anniversary Fete

by Lois Gleason

WTC's tenth year anniversary will be held in lieu of homecoming this year. The celebration is set for Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18. All former students and faculty will be invited.

Nov. 22, 1969, was the actual date that Scurry County residents voted for the college, but the 22nd falls on Thanksgiving this year.

Although nothing is final, tentative plans for the occasion, according to Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president, include a "short ceremony" in front of the museum featuring a guest speaker. There are also plans to make presentations and honor some people, like members of the original steering committee.

The ceremony will be followed by open house on campus. There will be a special exhibit in the museum besides the exhibit already scheduled for that time.

"We plan to have an anniversary edition of the school paper that would recognize some of our outstanding graduates," Dr. Clinton said.

Dr. Jim Palmer, history professor and division chairman and Dr. Harry Krenek, history professor, have taken under consideration the idea of planting a time capsule. They hope to receive input from students as to what to put in the capsule.

Other tentative plans call for having displays put in stores and banks and asking the mayor to declare a WTC week.

Assembly Kicks Off Year

Student body president, Kenneth Levens, served as master of ceremonies for the All-School Assembly Sept. 6 in the gym.

Levens introduced Senate officers, including J.D. Sheffield, vice president. Andra Crenshaw, secretary and Sheila Sandbothe, treasurer.

A welcoming was presented to the student body by Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president. Dr. Ben Brock, vice president and dean of academic affairs, introduced new faculty members.

The men's and women's basketball teams were introduced by their coaches. The men's team was presented by Nolan Richardson, while Joe Cushing presented the women's team.

Bob O'Day named the golf team and Dr. Shelby Hillis presented WTC's judo squad. Bob Doty presented the rodeo team and Dr. Mike McBride's journalism staff was also recognized.

New Student Housing Projects Opens Doors

Two new student housing projects opened their doors earlier this month.

An on-campus duplex, designed to accommodate eight people, opened Sept. 1. The duplex was designed and built by students in the residential construction program.

Sam Fleming, who worked on the project from beginning to end, said the students did the framing, plumbing, wiring, concrete work, roofing and interior design. Work began on the structure last March and is complete except for landscaping.

Program adviser Bill Hale said plans for a new duplex are being made.

Another source of housing is being provided by Lynn Smith and Dick Norris of Snyder. They recently opened the Westerner's Bunkhouse, an off-campus dorm located at 2603 Avenue F.

The facility houses 42 students and is open exclusively to males.

To Think or Not Our Educational Choice

by Monette Sentell

It's back to the salt mines for another semester of higher education and it's really rather funny... I've come to the astounding realization that the more I learn or come in contact with, the more there is I realize I know nothing about. It's kind of like a dog chasing his tail... you never quite catch it all!

When I first heard someone say that one of the highest values a college degree gives you is (hopefully) the ability to think and reason for yourself, I wondered about the truth of the statement.

I have since ceased to wonder. If you think about persons you know or may have known that seemed to think they "knew it all", you'll probably agree that sooner or later the rug was pulled out from under their little world. Once we cease to learn or to realize that there is always more to learn, we cease to grow as individuals, and that in turn affects us as a group.

I believe it's a gross misconception to think that once you graduate with degree in hand, the world owes you a position. Wake up... it doesn't. It may take a while, but employers can usually separate the person who has a good educational background and desires to accomplish something in life from "Freddy Freeloader" whose mouth usually outweighs his posterior!!

Another truth to me is the fact that if you are educated, if you are attractive, if you are brilliant, if you are competent... you don't have to yell it from the highest hill. It shines through like class... everyone knows there's something special about you, but few can actually put their finger on one certain attribute that makes it so. It's the "dork" with a large lack of self-confidence who finds it necessary to corner people and expound on all of his degrees, honors, roots, etc.

I guess what it all amounts to is do the best you can do with what you have and with what is offered to you.

Develop self-confidence, and you'll look back with few regrets in later life. I read somewhere that "... no one can be intimidated unless he allows himself to be." It's a good thought.

And along the way... take some time to smell the flowers... it's a great life if we don't weaken!!

A list of all tapes and numbers may be obtained by contacting the counseling office.

The tapes include a variety of subject matter such as the registration process, tuition costs, veteran programs, adult education classes, financial aid, degree requirements, Reading Center information and community services.

Also included are many self-help tapes for personal information on topics such as friendship building, dating skills, how to deal with depression, how to handle fears, relaxation exercises, things to consider in looking for a mate, parenting skills,

Howdy Week 'Success'

Students Enjoy BBQ, Ice Cream, Everything

by Linda Belvin

The first week in a strange place with strange people is always the toughest. Here you are, surrounded by strangers and propelled into an entirely new and different environment. And as we all know, that can be a little bit frightening. Even returning the second year can be a little hectic.

So to get everyone acquainted — and reacquainted — the executive board of the Student Senate got together, put their heads together and came up with a plan. Thus Howdy Week was born.

A barbecue at Towle Park on Wednesday night, Sept. 5, signaled the beginning of Howdy Week. Students attending discovered some good food, a few good laughs and a lot of good friends.

The following night students were invited to an ice cream party held on the patio of the Student Center. Then, after eating, they were urged to put on their dancin' shoes and attend the Howdy Dance held in the cafeteria. From Donna

Summer to Mel Tillis, from the Cotton-Eyed Joe to Le Freak, WTC was 'boogieing' down!

Las Vegas didn't have anything on old WTC the following Monday. "You name it, we play it" was the motto for Game Night, which was held in the Student Center. Chess, Monopoly and Yatzee may not be prime casino material, but everyone agreed it was a lot of fun anyway. Backgammon, pool, foosball, ping pong and checkers were also featured.

Thursday night the movie "Cat Ballou", a comical western starring Lee Marvin, was shown in the Student Center. There was a big turnout and students attending also enjoyed popcorn and cokes.

Wednesday night the gym was left open for students wishing to attend the Gymarama, which concluded Howdy Week. Activities included swimming, basketball and tennis.

According to Brenda Weber, assistant director of student activities, Howdy Week was "a tremendous success."

'Marigolds' Cast Selected

The cast and crew for WTC's production of "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" have been selected, according to James Rambo, drama director.

Brenda Otto, English teacher at Snyder High School, will play Beatrice, a frustrated widow with two daughter to rear.

Donna Browning will play Tillie, a shy girl with a gift for science.

Toni Disko will play Ruth, an ambitious, selfish girl cowed by her mother's sarcasm.

Tammi Sparks will play Nanny, an old woman abandoned by her family.

Completing the cast is Doni Douglas who will play Janice, a student who competes with Tillie in a science contest.

Crew members included David Fleming, Darrell Hayes, Mark White, Billy Allen, Judy Medrano and Patricia Martinez.

Performances of the prize-winning play are scheduled for Nov. 15, 16, 17 and 19 in the fine arts theatre.

Community Service Classes Set

Several classes offered through the community services department are in progress or will begin soon.

Twirling classes began Tuesday afternoon in the gym for students up to 10 years and from 11-16. They meet 4-5 p.m. and 5-6 p.m., respectively.

Sandi Arnesman of Kinsley, Kansas, is the instructor. She began twirling 15 years ago and has taught both private lessons and in a twirling camp.

Scuba diving classes will meet from 6-9 p.m., Oct. 4-5 and 8-12 at the college pool. Jerry Bell of Arlington is the instructor.

Students will pay fees of $75 each and must provide their own mask, fins and snorkel. Tanks and oxygen will be provided.

Aviation ground school is scheduled Oct. 8-Dec. 3 for students interested in flying. Dr. Gene McClurg is the instructor.

Classes will meet from 7-9:30 p.m. Mondays in LRC-101, and students will pay fees of $75 to cover the cost of books and materials.

Finally, Oct. 2, a body conditioning class will begin with Lee Burke as the instructor. Fee is $30 per person.

Betty Sandel and Bob Hays, mid-management instructors, were elected to state offices at an annual workshop in Dallas in August.

Sandel is treasurer of the Texas Junior College Management Assn. for 1979-80 and Hays is vice president of the Texas Junior College Assn. DECA.

Harry Krenek, professor of history, has been awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree by Texas Tech University. His dissertation concerns the history of the Texas National Guard between World Wars I and II.

Dr. Krenek has been on the faculty since 1972 and is currently serving as president of the Faculty Association.

He received the Bachelor of Science degree of Howard Payne University and the Master of Arts degree from Southwest Texas State University.

Bob Doty, new agriculture instructor, has participated in professional rodeo throughout the United States, mostly doing bareback riding.

Doty grew up in Lueders and attended Lueders-Avoca High School. There, he was influenced by his vocational education teacher to take up agriculture. He received his bachelor's in general agriculture business from Abilene Christian University and his master's in vocational education from Sam Houston State.

He said he is looking forward to working at WTC and improving the image of the rodeo student is one of his goals. "The cowboy has been stereotyped as somewhat lacking in intelligence and manners. This is not 100 per cent true."

Doty would like to recruit students to WTC who are not of the old image. Another of his goals is to have a good rodeo team with quality students competitive in the classroom and in the rodeo arena.

Jim Rambo of Comanche is the new assistant professor of drama and speech. This will be his sixth year teaching.

For WTC's fall production, Rambo has chosen the play, "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," which will have an all-female cast.

He said he can stay on a schedule fairly well "until two weeks before show time."

The time he spends working with the play precludes most hobbies, but he does enjoy swimming and working with plants. Whenever possible, Rambo spends his afternoons playing with his two children. He and his wife, Teresa, belong to the Agape fellowship here.

Rambo received his bachelor's from Abilene Christian University and his master's from Texas Tech in speech communication.

Previous teaching positions terim Christian Student Center director this year, received an Alumni Citation Award from the Abilene Christian University Alumni Assn.

He is one of six alumni honored this year for outstanding contributions to their professions and communities.

Adults interested in working toward the GED are invited to enroll in adult education classes. They meet Thursday nights at 7 p.m. in the LRC.

Students enroll at any class and no fees are required. Course areas offered are English, math, reading, writing and science.

For more information, call 573-8511, ext. 249.

Dr. Joe Reaves, associate professor of psychology, will be featured speaker for the Scurry Co. United Way's kickoff dinner Oct. 7.

Dr. Ed Barkowsky, communications and letters division were at Texas Tech, Perryton High School and Weatherford College.

This is the first year of teaching for Frank Cannon, mid-management instructor.

After graduating from Tarleton State University with a BBA degree, Cannon took a job as manager of a Jack-in-the-Box restaurant in the Dallas/Fort Worth area. From there, he went to Mississippi to help open a Wendy's restaurant. He stayed six months. For the past two years he has been an equipment operator here in Snyder for Western Co.

Cannon is enthusiastic about teaching. He said that teaching gives him the opportunity to use his degree and allows him the chance to "get close to the scholar's life." He also said that by teaching he will be getting away from life and into real life.

Cannon, of Mineral Wells, and his wife, Pamela, of Oklahoma, have three small children. They enjoy tennis and camping on a regular basis. Their favorite place for camping is the Possum Kingdom Lake area.

Linda Wright, new office occupations instructor, has taught part-time here before, so she isn't exactly new, but is excited about full-time teaching.

"I hope to come to know my students and that we can work together to accomplish their goals," she said.

Originally from Carlsbad, N.M., she attended Sul Ross University because she wanted to be an individual instead of a number she felt she would have been at a larger university.

After graduation, Wright was hired as secretary for the industrial arts department at Sul Ross.

Wright taught business courses at Sanderson High School for one semester and taught at Snyder High School from 1971-74.

She enjoys working in her yard and sewing when she has time. She and her husband, chairman, is United Way vice president.

Special entertainment will be presented by the jazz band, under direction of Guy Gamble, music instructor.

A seminar held Saturday on human relations and communications for management personnel from American Magnesium was arranged through the adult vocational division.

Betty Sandel, mid-management instructor and Dr. Gilbert Fleer, associate professor of sociology and counselor, conducted sessions.

A second section will be held Oct. 6.

Robert Grandjean, associate professor of biology, is interested in making a study of the WTC pond. He would like to see anyone who knows anything about its history or who has any records of fish-stocking that might exist. "Any and all information is valuable," he said.

Tommy, have a four-year-old daughter.

Jimmy Hess, automotive mechanics instructor, has also been a part-time teacher here before.

A native of the Snyder area and a graduate of Hermleigh High School, Hess received his associate in applied science in automotive technology from Texas State Technical Institute in Waco.

He worked for Wilson Motors in Snyder and has been employed by IR Compression Services for the past three years. With that company, he worked in Snyder for 18 months.

In other staff changes, Mike Ezzell, state representative, will serve as director of the Christian Student Center until a permanent replacement for former director, Gary Lowe, can be found.

Joe Carter, associate professor of science, has returned following a one-year leave of absence.

Other new part-time or new personnel include:

Jan Blassingame, part-time instructor in cosmetology.

Charles Meek, accountant.

Glen Johnson, superintendent of golf and grounds maintenance.

Patrick Doran, assistant superintendent of golf and grounds maintenance.

Museum Exhibits Vary During Fall Semester

Weaving Trees? This is the hobby of Janet Davis who has exhibited tapestries in the Museum this month.

The artist weaves different shapes and sizes of hangings, all featuring trees and a few sunsets.

Davis has participated in many area and local shows. She owns a weaving loom and her own studio in Lubbock's Garden Arts Center.

The next exhibit will be the art works of C. Warren Cullar, former WTC art professor, and sculptures of Jim Thomas showing Oct. 11 through Nov. 1.

Art by Clint Stokes in November, the Fourth annual Old-fashioned Christmas Exhibit and art by Charles Harper in December round out the semester's schedule of temporary exhibits.

The WTC Museum is open daily and Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

'Passionate' Posters Created in Orientation

Sophomores slept peacefully Monday, Sept. 10, but freshmen students made tracks to the gym for freshman orientation.

The students engaged in activities and mixers in order to become acquainted with each other and with faculty members.

After these activities were completed, the students were shown a film, "Johnny Lingo."

A short break was taken and the fun later resumed with a poster contest. Groups of ten students put their minds together in an effort to create the best poster. The theme that had to be followed was "Blue steel, green cheese and purple passion." A winner was chosen by audience response.

All of the posters were displayed in the Student Center and the winning poster will be kept in the activities office.

Publications Staffers Attend LCC, Texas Tech Workshops

Student publications staff members attended two workshops in Lubbock Sept. 14-15.

Lisan Anderson, Lynda Cain, Gerald Colbert and Tammi Sparks participated in the One-Day Yearbook Workshop at Lubbock Christian College Sept. 14.

Sessions were led by Taylor Publishing Company representatives on all phases of yearbook planning, design and production. Sept. 15, students attended the Mass Communication Day at Texas Tech University. They were Anderson, Colbert, Donna Fowler, Louise Johnson, Rhonda Reynolds, Sparks, Doyel Long and Soyla Santos.

Sessions were held on yearbook, newsgathering and news writing, commercials, photography and media careers.

Dr. Mike McBride, associate professor of journalism, accompanied the groups.

WTC Predicted to Win Conference Again

by Gerald Colbert

When asked what to look for from conference foes, Westerner Coach Nolan Richardson replied, "All of the basketball teams in the conference are definitely tough. No one team will dominate over the others."

Odessa and Midland are returning six players. "They are going to be tough," said Richardson. South Plains has five returning lettermen off of last year's squad and New Mexico Military Institute is always a top contender in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. Even Amarillo, the loop darkhorse is expected to be tough with their six-foot ten-inch 245-pound all-conference center returning along with the loop's highest scorer.

WTC has been picked for the fifth consecutive year to win the conference. "We have seven returning players from last year," stated Richardson. "Hopefully, it's not the team that's picked on paper that wins but rather the team that goes out and proves it by winning basketball games."

It always seems that the hardest part of defending a championship is that "others are out to get you." That puts pressure on these players to come back and be number one again after going to National the past three years. "Teams seem to play much better when they have nothing to lose and everything to gain. We've set high goals for ourselves, like winning the conference, regional and national championships," he added.

In all, the season looks good even considering routine season injuries. "Hopefully, we can get everyone healthy and successfully defend our titles," Richardson said. "The bench is the key to success and we have a good one. I like to play lots of people."

The players are being put through rugged practice sessions and will play their first game Oct. 8 at 3 p.m. in the WTC gym. They will take on Odessa in a non-conference battle.

This is a rundown on the team for 1979-80:

Rodeo'ers Sponsor Roping, Barbecue

Team ropers from Snyder and the surrounding area gathered at the Jerry and Connie Springer ranch Sept. 15 for team roping and barbecue, sponsored by WTC's rodeo team.

The rodeo team cleared $930 and Brent Murphy flagged 84 teams through three go-rounds and two fast-backs.

Ropers brought and donated steers, Bar H Bar Western Wear furnished the barbecue and 'Goat' Hataway prepared the barbecue.

Bob Doty is WTC's rodeo adviser.

From the Bench Fabulous 'Bottom Twenty'

by Gerald Colbert

When someone mentions the top twenty teams in college football, names like Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Alabama and Texas automatically pop into your mind. But what about the teams on the other side of the coin?

Penthouse magazine published a story on the twenty worst college grid this season, so I thought that I would take this opportunity to share with you a preview of what's to come, perhaps.

(1) Northwestern had a season record of 0-10-1 and this year looks even worse. They have major problems on both offense and defense.

(2) UTEP in the last four seasons has recorded only four victories. Don't get your hopes up, UTEP fans — this season won't be any better.

(3) Wake Forest owned a record of 1-10 last season. This year may not get a single victory.

(4) Vanderbilt's 2-9 finish last year doesn't appear as though it will be improved on any this year. Vanderbilt will once again own the cellar of the Southeastern conference.

(5) Idaho could possibly improve their 2-9 finish of a year ago, but don't look for a miracle.

(6) TCU lived in the cellar of the Southwest conference from the very beginning of last season. It looks like there will be no improvement on that 2-9 season of last year.

(7) For Virginia it looks like another bummer of a season and another 2-9 finish.

(8) Once again Columbia looks to be a stepping stone for the other Ivy League teams.

(9) Oregon State just won't have the offensive line to be competitive this year. It doesn't look much better than 3-6-1, the same as a year ago.

(10) West Virginia could possibly have a winning season in 1982, but not this year.

To round out the bottom 20 we have the following teams: (11) Rice, (12) Army, (13) Illinois, (14) Boston College, (15) Kansas, (16) Syracuse, (17) San Diego, (18) Tulane, (19) Washington State and (20) Memphis State.

Most of these are predictions made by Penthouse. I'm going out on a limb to make a couple of predictions of my own concerning two squads:

First, the Rice Owls from Houston are going to make a charge for the Southwest title by defeating the Aggies of Texas A&M and the Bears of Baylor. Don't think so, huh? Watch!

Second, Columbia lost seven seniors on the offensive line and their all Ivy League wide receiver, but this just could be the year that Columbia climbs out of the league cellar. They have a very strong defensive backfield.

Just give these people time and they will give other conference teams a real run for their money.

Vocational Ed Division Offers New Short Courses

Two specialized short courses will be offered soon through the adult vocational education division.

A three clock-hour class in fair housing practices is scheduled from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Oct. 4 in the fine arts theatre.

Mike Graves and Brenda Hedges are instructors for the course, which requires a $5 fee. It is intended to acquaint applicants for real estate licenses with local, state and federal laws regarding housing and credit discrimination and community reinvestment.

A short course on carburetor and emission controls is set from 7-10 p.m. Nov. 5-8 in the automotive shop, with instruction under the direction of the Texas State Technical Institute (TSTI) mobile automotive division.

It will cover the latest developments in all phases of auto emission control systems. Fee is $25 per person.

In progress is a class in basic bookkeeping which began Sept. 17. Nov. 1 a squeeze-cementing seminar is planned by the American Petroleum Institute (API).

AVE courses do not carry college credit and do not conform to the regular college class schedule.

Nursing Students Graduate

Graduation exercises for eight vocational nursing students were held Aug. 31, and caps were presented to 11 other students.

Dr. James Tully, dean of learning resources, was the program speaker and Dr. Gene McClurg, dean of occupational and technical education, welcomed guests.

Certificates were presented by Dr. Ben Brock, vice president. Pins were awarded by Winnie Poyner, RN; and Diane Beard, RN, vocational nursing instructors.

Graduating students were Cindy Campbell, Kim Hines and Gale Locknane of Snyder, Donna Nettles of Ira, Clara Rolan of Post, Terri Salmon of Loraine, Travis Sligar of Abilene and Jan Stelzer of Post.

Students receiving caps were Cynthia Adams, Orpha Dorman, Becky Erwin, Jamie Franks, Mildred Garrett, Karen Owens, Luzelarba Quiros and Kathy Reynolds of Snyder, Deanie Blaines of Hobbs, Teresa Stansell of Fluvanna and Carol Watkins of Colorado City.

The students and their families were honored at a reception in the Student Center following the program.

1st Scrimmage Oct. 16

Fems Prepare for Season

The Dusters, WTC's women's varsity basketball team, have been working out daily since school started in preparation for the new season.

"Our attitudes are super and at this point I would have to say we are several weeks ahead of this time last year," Coach Joe Cushing said.

Their first scrimmage here will be Oct. 16 at 5 p.m. in the gym. Cushing would like everyone to attend.

"Our goal is to have the Dusters achieve national prominence as the men's team has — and we can do that with your support," he said.

Sophomore team members, all from Texas, are:

No. 12 — Liz Hooper — 5'5" — guard — Hamlin;

No. 24 — Delbra Ray — 5'7" — guard — Bellville;

No. 31 — Ginger Peden — 5'9" — forward — Whiteface;

No. 30 — Katie Fisher — captain — 5'8" — guard — Austin;

No. 22 — Joyce Plagens — captain — 5'8" — forward — Rankin;

No. 14 — Stella Bickley — captain — 5'7" — guard — Robert Lee.

Freshman members, also all from Texas, are:

FCA Chapter Now on Campus

Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) has come to the campus. The first meeting took place Sept. 18 in the Student Center. Members of the FCA chapter at Texas Tech University and others from Dallas were present to help form the chapter.

Joe Cushing, local FCA adviser, said, "This is a good organization and is not just for athletes — it should be a campus-wide organization. I feel that there is no other way to get to know each other besides the dances and a few other limited activities."

He also stated that FCA is good for the campus because it gives students something to do "instead of sitting around in the dorm."

Cushing gives Paiga Lou Eiland credit for getting the WTC chapter off the ground. He urges everyone to attend. To find out what time the FCA meets, contact Cushing or Eiland.

Professional athletes in all sports are involved in the FCA, but it also is a student organization run for students.

Judo Fans Treated to Clinic

Directors of the Texas Black Belt Judo Assn. conducted a clinic on campus for judo enthusiasts in the area Sept. 8. Participants came from Midland, Odessa, Austin, Houston and Fort Worth, as well as Snyder.

Directing the clinic was Ace Sukagre from Fort Worth, a 5th degree black belt and chairman of the Association's Board of Examiners.

Assisting were Gail Stolzenburg of Houston, president of the Association and a 4th degree black belt; John Randall from the University of Houston, a secretary of the Association and a 3rd degree black belt; Oliver Batchelor of Odessa, treasurer and a 2nd degree black belt and Dr. Shelby Hillis, WTC judo instructor and a 3rd degree black belt.

Athletic Boosters Approve Committee

Athletic booster club members heard a financial report and approved the creation of an executive committee Sept. 10.

Judge Wayland Holt, WTC Booster Club president, reported that the membership drive was progressing and that the club was $2,000 shy of their $10,000 goal.

Dr. James Tully, learning resources dean, was elected treasurer of the organization. Also named to the executive committee were Guy Sullivan, Dennis Ball and Mrs. Corky Kruse.

Named as an additional vice president was Virginia Whitson. She will help organize a senior citizens' arm of the club.

Members also heard brief remarks by basketball coaches Nolan Richardson and Joe Cushing.

Hargrove Ties Record

Brian Hargrove, former WTC golfer, shot a record-tying 63 on the WTC golf course Sept. 6.

Hargrove, who was all-conference in 1974-75 and 75-76 and all region in 1975-76 for the Westerners, tallied 11 pars and seven birdies to card the overall score, 31 on the front and 32 on the back nine.

The Snyderite tied the course record held by Billy Sitton of Midland and Mike Waller of Fort Stockton, two other former WTC players.

Linksters Take Second In NMJC Tournament

by Terry Green

The WTC golf team placed second in the sixth annual New Mexico Junior College Intercollegiate Golf Tournament in Hobbs, N.M. This was their first outing of the season.

The Westerners' number 1 team held the lead going into the final eighteen-hole round when the team from Hobbs made a final charge to take the victory. WTC's number 2 team led the tourney by three strokes after the first round but dropped to fifth place going into the final round.

Jeff Wagner and Victor Villarreal, both freshmen, each shot a 221 in the 54-hole tournament and tied for third place medalist honors.

Coach Bob O'Day said, "They performed well in their first intercollegiate tournament. Some of the other freshmen and sophomores had some good rounds, but we need to be more consistent."

He added, "We had an opportunity to win the tournament and let it get away on the final round. New Mexico Junior College had a great team score of 284 on the par 288 course, four shots under."

Tournament team scores were:

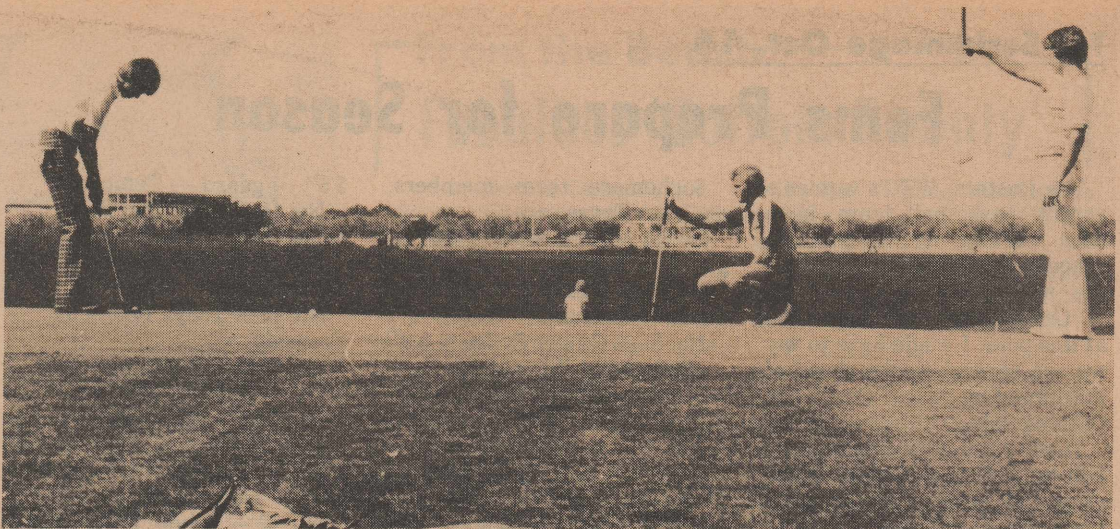

1. NMJC 1, 888; 2. WTC 1, 893;
3. Midland College 1, 905; 4. WTC 2, 906; 5. Midland 2, 2910;
6. NMMI 1, 1,920; 7. Frank Phillips 1, 942;
8. NMJC 2, 945; 9. Cisco 1, 965;
10. Cisco 2, 977.

Not only did NMJC have the lowest total team score of 888 but they also had the lowest single round score of 284. Of all ten teams competing only the top four teams consisting of NMJC 1, WTC 1, Midland 1 and WTC 2, broke 300 in a single round of competition.

Scores for WTC 1 included: Wagner 221, Ken Lawrence 224, Mike Mahan 225, Scott Barrett 226 and Phil Kuss 230.

Scores for WTC 2 were: Villarreal 221, Richard White 224, Lance McMillan 230, Bill Leonard 233 and Chris Johnson 239.

Individual scores included Johnny Curbo 231 and Frank Monfrey 233.

Birdie Breaks Tie In Faculty Scramble

Three teams were tied at the end of the nine-hole Third annual WTC Faculty Golf Scramble Aug. 29 on the college golf course.

Winning a sudden death playoff on the fourth hole was Richardson's team which fired a birdie-3. Second was McBride's team which shot even par and third was Mills' team with a bogie-5.

Two other teams competing were only one stroke back at 35 each. They included Dr. Robert Clinton (captain), Speedy Moffett, Dr. Joe Reaves, Darla Doty and Kathy Genuchi; and George Gann (captain), Rex Hopkins, Bob Doty, Joe Cushing and Bobbie Hargrove.
