14 SERIES HEAVY-DUT

John Deere Rotary Hoe has firmly established itself as a major tillage tool for corn, beans, cotton, maize, peas, beets, small grain, and numerous other crops. It cultivates in the rows and between the rows. It can be used from pre-emergence until the crop is 6 to 8 inches high. It's fast-recommended minimum speed is 4-1/2 miles an hour. It really saves on tractor fuel over other types of cultivation.

Row-crop tillage is far from the only use for this versatile implement. Other jobs include crust-breaking to let crop seedlings emerge, firming and finishing seedbeds, small-grain cultivating, wind-erosion control, packing behind drills, and summerfallow tillage. Whatever the job, you can be sure that a dependable John Deere Rotary Hoe will save you time and money.

John Deere Rotary Hoe is thoroughabout 108 penetrations per square yard with Heavy-Duty 14 Series.

Good work is assured by a uniform pattern -there's none of the hit-or-miss of hoe wheels with staggered teeth. Axles on 14 Series Hoe are adjustable—as close as 14 inches for maximum penetration . . . up to 23 inches where trash is a problem.

You'll cover up to 80 acres a day and do excellent work with a 4-section John Deere Integral Hoe like the one above.

John Deere Hoe has tough, cold-forged tines with non-curling points which "wear in" on the rear side for self-sharpening action. Tines may be bent and straightened many times without breaking, and are replaceable. They enter the ground almost straight down for best penetration, and emerge in nearly flat position for most aggressive shoveling action.

EDITORIALS

U.S. News & World Report recently devoted a lengthy article to 'Life In The 'Welfare State' -- Now And In The Future." The "welfare state" in question is the U.S. Here's its history, as the magazine recounts it: "Federal welfare today is a vast program that grows in leaps. In a few years, welfare has grown from a small program to become the second-most-expensive in the government. Only national defense costs more.

'In less than 30 years, the number of people getting some form of government help has grown to 23 million annually. Cost of the program this year alone will be $22 billion. This doesn't include cost of veterans' benefits.' Next year, the magazine adds, the cost will be $26 billion if present Administration proposals for more welfare are approved. We will soon have to draw a firm line between what we want, or think we want, from government-and what we can afford. The cost of welfare is fast becoming insup-

A SINGLE STEP

Proponents of the proposal to provide federal medical aid to everyone over 65 receiving benefits under social security deny that this would be an opening wedge to socialized medicine. The Socialist Party of the United States apparently thinks other-

This party, of course, favors complete socialization of medicine, as well as complete socialization of just about every facet of American life. It has now issued a pamphlet which describes a program for bringing about socialized medicine on a bit-by-bit basis. The first bit would be the social security concept of medical aid to the elderly.

Norman Thomas, long the principal voice of socialism in this country, has made that clear. He says the bill in question is "insufficient" and a "timid start." But he advocates its support—and with good reason, considering his views and objectives. As the old Chinese proverb has it, the longest journey begins with with a single step. And a program of socialization must also begin in a limited way. But the limitations would inevitably grow fewer and fewer as time wore on. If one group-arbitrarily defined regardless of need- is to have its medical care bills paid for by the federal government, other groups will demand and receive the same handouts. So, little by little, socialized medicine will be brought about.

The Socialist Party and socialist individuals have every right to their position. Those who take a different view also have the right, and the obligation, to fight their proposals. This is not a matter of denying medical services to elderly people whose own resources are inadequate. The federal-state cooperation measure passed by the last Congress provides for aid to all who need it, whether they are under social
