Reagan takes own suite time in 'new office'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-spirited President Reagan, out of the intensive care unit, is walking around and conducting "business as usual" in a suite at George Washington University Hospital, his doctor and aides said today. They said the president stayed up until 11 p.m. EST Tuesday with his wife Nancy to watch the first hour of the televised Academy Awards presentation, slept for four or five hours and began a busy morning tackling White House affairs. "Although he is somewhat uncomfortable, the president slept quite well," said Dr. Daniel Ruge, Reagan's personal physician. "He has been out of bed and walked."

The move to the suite was accomplished Tuesday night, one day after the president and three other persons were wounded in a gunman's assassination attempt outside a Washington hotel.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III said on the CBS-TV "Morning" show that Reagan signed some nomination papers Tuesday evening and an unspecified executive order this morning.

When Baker and other aides finished a meeting with Reagan this morning, he was eating breakfast sitting in a chair.

"It's really business as usual," said White House counselor Edwin Meese III, who said the president had set up a "full-time office" in his hospital suite.

"The president is fully capable of taking actions," Baker said. "We've had to cancel very few activities."

Meese indicated on NBC-TV's "Today" show that because of Reagan's "remarkable recovery," he might be discharged from the hospital early next week, sooner than originally expected.

The White House said Reagan is starting to eat solid foods and is "in good condition, but is experiencing some pain and fatigue in response to his injury." Ruge said the president's vital signs remained normal.

Doctors said White House press secretary James S. Brady was still in critical condition but improving dramatically at George Washington for treatment of a head wound. Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy, in the same hospital, was reported in good condition and improving and may be moved today to a surgical ward. District of Columbia policeman Thomas Delahanty was in good condition at Washington Hospital Center.

Doctors said Brady, who earlier had been able to move only the right side of his body, can now move his left arm and leg. "Everybody is very encouraged by the progress Jim is making," Baker said.

Brady's doctors said he is able to see and speak and may be able to sit up in his hospital bed within a few days. They said he may recover without severe, permanent mental or physical impairment.

Ruge's report was relayed by a staff member of the White House press office, who said she received it from deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

Even before he was moved from the intensive care section, Reagan had turned his room into a temporary Oval Office.

He was described Tuesday as ready to take charge in any emergency while he recovers from an assassination attempt that sources said may have been planned to gain the attention of a young actress.

Various sources said John W. Hinckley Jr., 25, the man accused of shooting the president, described his plans in an unmailed letter to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster and said, "I'm going to do it for you." Miss Foster starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, and congressional and Justice Department sources said the letter indicated Hinckley was "infatuated" with her.

At the White House, it was also business as usual. "The government did not skip a beat," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Tuesday.

"It's just as if the president were here in the Oval Office the way the White House is running," added Michael K. Deaver, the White House deputy chief of staff.

Texans recall John Hinckley Jr.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — John Warnock Hinckley Jr., charged with trying to assassinate President Ronald Reagan, changed from an "average" high school student to a troubled, lonely young man by the time he enrolled in college, according to the memories of those who knew him then.

Classmates at Highland Park High School in Dallas, where Hinckley graduated in 1973, have recalled him as "average" and "part of the crowd."

But Calvin Wynne, a maintenance man at the Lubbock apartment where Hinckley, 25, lived while a student at Texas Tech University, said Hinckley told him political leaders should be eliminated.

"His attitude, his personality, was strained," Wynne said of Hinckley, currently tranquilized and held without bond at a U.S. Marine Corps base near Washington, D.C., where he awaits psychiatric evaluations.

One of Hinckley's former professors at Tech, Otto Nelson, said Hinckley wrote a book report on Hitler's "Mein Kampf" and one on the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz in Poland, where 2 million people were killed, as extra-credit projects in a 1978 German history class.

Nelson said he recalled Hinckley as a self-sufficient student who took no part in class discussions, and characterized him as "attentive, diligent, punctual."

During last year's presidential campaign Hinckley said if he had to choose he would support Libertarian Party candidate Ed Clark, "but as far as he was concerned, none of them knew what they were doing," Wynne said.

"The main gist of the conversation was about political leaders, and what he thought should be done was that they should all be eliminated," Wynne said.

"It seemed he wanted to find someone to tell whatever his problem was," Wynne added. "There was a nervousness about him."

In a strange side development, it was revealed Tuesday that Hinckley's older brother, Scott, was to have dined Tuesday night with the son of Vice President George Bush in Neil Bush's Denver home.

The Houston Post told of the engagement in a copyright story Tuesday, but Neil Bush and his wife, Sharon, said Scott Hinckley was coming as the date of a girlfriend of hers and that the dinner party had since been cancelled.

There was a flurry of interest Tuesday in an April 9, 1980, videotape made by KAMC-TV that showed a young man who looked like Hinckley and called himself "John" shaking hands with Reagan, then a candidate for the presidency, at an airport rally here.

Later in the day, however, KAMC news director Cliff Avery said a West Texas couple identified the person in the tape as their son.

"They looked at the tape and identified the photo as their son. They produced a photo of their son. We are confident that it is not John Hinckley," Avery said.

Committee's vote favors expansion, construction

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

A Midland County blue-ribbon committee that's trying to use foresight in Midland's windfall boom on Tuesday night recommended that the county build a new courthouse annex and jail and acquire "additional land" for projected county-government expansion in downtown Midland.

The committee's vote was unanimous, although four of its nine members were absent.

Though intentionally general, the proposal was sketched in far more detail earlier in the night by committee member Charles Priddy, a Midland developer who intimated that the recommendation might avail nothing.

"The county's going to tell us to go to hell, anyway," he joked. Priddy also suggested that the Midland County Historical Commission's two-story Brown-Dorsey Medallion Home at Weatherford Street and Illinois Avenue be uprooted and, replete with wine cellar, be moved to behind the Museum of the Southwest.

But Priddy predicted that suggestion likely would draw flak and fury from commission chairman Nancy McKinley.

The plot on which the historic frame house rests would adjoin the projected site for the county annex along Baird Street and flanked by Texas and Illinois avenues just 1 1/2 blocks east of the downtown courthouse.

"I WOULD HOPE that we try not to be shortsighted," Priddy told the committee, chaired by Midland lawyer John Hyde. "I hope we have foresight... Now, the county may tell us to go to hell."

But that doesn't seem likely. A county spokesman, Commissioner Durward Wright who dropped in on the session in The First National Bank of Midland to "answer questions," noted that the county commissioners for several years have "been planning for the future." The Commissioners' Court recently appointed each member of the blue-ribbon committee.

However, Wright did say that the Commissioners' Court was about to take some formal action on a proposed annex when County Judge Bill Adhers and first-term Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis proposed the blue-ribbon ad hoc committee to make recommendations on how the county might best handle growth and expansion.

And Wright did note that the commissioners in the early 1970s planned for a "20 percent growth factor" in remodeling and expanding the 1929-built courthouse.

"We've been accused of being short-sighted," said Wright.

"This is not an easy problem to try to address," Hyde said of the expansion.

IN TRYING to formulate a plan, Hyde and Priddy proposed reshuffling courthouse departments. But, in Priddy's words, they recommended that the judiciary and "all the attending paraphernalia" remain in the Midland County Courthouse.

"After all," reasoned Hyde, "the Midland County Courthouse ought to be for the courts."

The panel is projecting space for five state district courtrooms instead of the three which currently serve Midland County.

Unlike Hyde, Priddy proposed that the County Jail, now on the fifth floor of the courthouse, and Sheriff Dallas Smith's office be moved out of the courthouse and to a new and separate jailhouse near the proposed Courthouse Annex. Priddy surmised that prisoners could be transferred from the jailhouse to the courthouse as securely by "paddy wagon" as they are now moved by elevator from jail to courtroom within the courthouse.

The blue-ribbon panel is to meet with the sheriff to plan the most practical and legal ways of effecting the move.

DISCUSSION ALSO focused on moving those county offices in the existing Courthouse Annex at 218 W. Illinois Ave. to the proposed annex. Non-court related offices in the courthouse would be relocated to the pro-

School leaders fight for bond

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 11th in a 14-part series studying the candidates and issues in Saturday's school, city and hospital election.

By LOREN BERGER
Staff Writer

Deteriorating, overcrowded conditions in Midland elementary schools have resulted in concentrated rallies among school administrators to push through a $6.6 million bond this week.

Backed by the districtwide Parent-Teacher Associations, school board members have directed media tours through the elementary schools and have made repeated appearances in the last several months before civic organizations in campaign efforts to gain approval of the bond issue.

"Midland is growing at the rate of about one elementary school a year," said Ed Runyan, president of the school board at a recent League of Women Voters forum.

The entire package designates $5.6 million for construction of two new elementary schools, one near the De Zavala site in east Midland and one in northwest Midland, south of FM 868, in addition to $1.05 for high school improvements. Voters will have a choice to vote separately on the items.

Proposed tax increase would be 5 1/2 cents per $100 of valuated property. Residents living in homes valued at $50,000 would pay about $20 more per year in taxes.

AFTER A FALTERING attempt to pass a $10 million school bond in 1979 which would have allowed for elementary school construction in northwest Midland, school officials have reintroduced the bond proposal, anticipating the public has realized the future impact of increased enrollments in light of worsening conditions.

Thailand's prime minister deposed in bloodless coup

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thai military commanders deposed their leader, Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda, in a bloodless coup before dawn today, but Prem escaped to a base in northeast Thailand and vowed to fight the former associates who ousted his squabbling civilian-military government.

A usually reliable source reported that Prem ordered troops loyal to him to move toward Bangkok from his base, but the report could not be confirmed. Prem also claimed the support of King Bhumiphol Adulyadej, Thailand's popular monarch.

A "revolutionary committee" of military leaders headed by Gen. Sant Chitpatima, the deputy commander in chief of the army, announced that Prem had resigned as prime minister and army commander in chief and retired from the army.

However, Prem announced he had established his "operational base" at the Suranare Army Base 150 miles northeast of Bangkok. He claimed the four regional army forces, the air force and the navy were still behind him.

Prem charged that Sant and his associates, who Radio Thailand said included the commanders of the navy and air force, had "ill intentions against the monarchy, the country and the democratic system."

Prem and King Bhumiphol conferred at the royal palace in Bangkok after the coup and reportedly flew to northeast Thailand together, accompanied by the entire royal family.

Prem in a broadcast on the government's northeast region radio said the royal family was under the protection of the 2nd Army, which has its headquarters at the Suranare base, and a later announcement said they had taken up residence on the base.

"Yes, I'm optimistic and hopeful," said MISD Superintendent Dr. James Mailey. "I think a number of people in the community have recognized a real need in the elementary schools."

Both elementary schools, costing $2.8 million each, would have identical outlays which would provide for 20 classrooms in addition to areas for special education, learning disability and enrichment programs. Special programs mandated by the state or federal government have made a dent in the number of available classrooms in the elementary schools, according to Mailey.

Among some of the schools whose original designs contained space specifically designed as libraries, partitions have been erected to create classroom space. Such adaptations have taken place at Burnett, Henderson, Pease, Jones, Rusk and Fannin elementary schools.

"WE'VE HAD TO convert some hallways to provide additional classrooms," Mailey said, referring to West and South elementary schools which have overextended maximum classroom space. Predictions show these two schools should be five classrooms short by 1985.

In addition to these two schools, De Zavala, Jones, Burnett, Travis, Bowie and Henderson already are at capacity enrollment and are adapting stages, hallways and bookrooms for classroom space.

Mailey said the new school to be located in northwest Midland would alleviate crowding in all city schools by rescheduling all school bus routes. "This will affect busing in all areas," he said. "My intention is that we will move a number of buses." Schools most directly affected by changes in bus routes will be Jones, Burnett, Henderson and Bowie.

"We'll have to pull one bus from Bowie, for example," Mailey said. "That cluster is as full as it can be." Projections in classroom shortages for the 1981-82 school year are disparaging, according to figures released by the school district. Predictions indicate a shortage of 18 classrooms.

Atlanta child death toll rises to 21

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The unidentified body of a young black man was pulled from the muddy Chattahoochee River early today about four miles downstream from where Atlanta's 21st slain child was found Monday.

But it was not the body of either of the two missing children whose cases are being handled by a special task force investigating the child deaths, said Douglas County Sheriff Earl Lee. The victim probably weighed 150 to 175 pounds and probably was 20 to 25 years old, he said.

"It definitely is not Joseph Bell, which we had thought that it might be," Lee said. "So at this point in time, it looks like we'll have to look in a different direction."

Bell, 15, disappeared March 2. Daron Glass, 10, last seen Sept. 14, is the only other missing child whose case is assigned to the special task force investigating the deaths and disappearances of 23 black children since July 1979.

"I don't have any opinion," Lee said when asked if he thought the body was related to the child cases, "other than the coincidence that this body was recovered from the same river that the person was recovered from yesterday and not too great a distance apart."

Both bodies were found about 20 miles southwest of Atlanta. Several task force members joined Lee's deputies in attempting to identify the body found Tuesday evening and pulled from the water early today.

A canoeist found the body snagged on a tree limb, Lee said. It was clothed only in some type of vest.

The body had been in the water "for some period of time. You may be talking about days, you may be talking about weeks," Lee said.

An autopsy was ordered. The discovery came just hours after the case of 13-year-old Timothy Hill was added to the list of cases being probed by the special police task force.

Hill's body was found in the Chattahoochee on Monday afternoon.

Dr. John Feegel, associate Fulton County medical examiner, identified the body Tuesday and said Hill showed signs of "gentle asphyxiation" — the same cause of death for 10 of the 20 other children.

"It's one more of the same — black male, teen-age, no marks, no mutilation," said Feegel.

Hill, who had been reported missing March 13, apparently was suffocated at least a week before his body was found, Feegel said. It was "quite possible" the youth had been dead since the day he disappeared, he said.

There was no sign of injury on the body, he said.

"My working presumption is that he was probably asphyxiated in some way and put in the river," Feegel said.

Hill had been labeled a runaway by Atlanta police, who turned his case over to their missing persons bureau rather than the task force, despite his family's conviction that the youth had been "snatched."

Atlanta Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown defended his department's handling of the case, saying Hill's file had been given to a member of the special task force for study on Monday even though the task force had not been assigned to the case.

Five uniformed officers in the missing persons unit had been searching for the youth, Brown said, and had received reports that Hill was sighted "as recently as a couple of days ago."

Solidarity backs Walesa

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The other leaders of the Solidarity labor federation reluctantly approved Lech Walesa's decision to call off a nationwide general strike but kept a 12-day-old strike alert in effect while they continued debate on Walesa's newest agreement with the government.

Warsaw Pact armies were reported still holding maneuvers in and around Poland. And a Soviet television commentator said Poland was "very tense" despite the suspension of the strike call in exchange for the government's promise to punish those responsible for the beating of union activists in Bydgoszcz March 19.

In Washington, the State Department said 18 divisions of Soviet and other Warsaw Pact forces remained in an increased state of readiness in Poland and neighboring countries.

"They don't seem to have stood down their preparations even though the Polish labor federation has called off the general strike," said one Pentagon analyst.

The general strike had been called for Tuesday but was suspended the day before after negotiations between Walesa and Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski. Solidarity's national coordinating commission met in Gdansk Tuesday to discuss the agreement and decide on cancellation of the strike.

The discussion was heated, informed sources said, and most commission members objected to the agreement because Walesa did not obtain the govern-

Don't Be Misled

There are few things in life more important and of a more personal nature than providing life insurance for the protection of one's family. Because of the almost sacred nature that is usually associated with a family's life insurance program, it would only seem logical that a family would proceed very cautiously if anyone suggests that their insurance program be abandoned, in favor of something new. We have all learned that new is not necessarily better.

In recent weeks our local association has received notice that a sales force, mostly out-of-town people, is working in West Texas with a "new" way to provide a life insurance program. Whatever else their suggestions might be, the main thrust of their approach seems to be based on replacing policies that are already in force. Be very careful if someone approaches you with such a suggestion. In fact, the following guidelines might prove to be helpful:

- (1) Contact your local insurance agent and get his opinion. Closely compare the benefits of both your present policy or policies with those you are being offered. It may surprise you to find out what benefits you may lose if the change is made. A comparison of this type should either confirm that you ought to make a change or that you might be making a mistake.
- (2) If the salesperson represents himself as a Financial Planner, Consultant, etc., find out if he has a permanent license. Depending on individual circumstances, the person with a temporary license might not be around long enough to service what he sells. Since you are contemplating doing business with him, you owe it to yourself to find out.

Unmailed letter reveals infatuation with actress

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An infatuated John W. Hinckley Jr., accused of shooting Ronald Reagan, described his desperate plans and said "I'm going to do it for you" in a letter to a teen-age actress who starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, sources say.

The letter, written to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster but never mailed, was quite specific about Hinckley's plans and reflected an "I don't-care-what-happens-to-me" frame of mind, the sources said.

The letter was described by four congressional and Justice Department sources, who refused to be identified. Congressional leaders were briefed Tuesday about facts in the case by Attorney General William French Smith.

Miss Foster played a pre-teen prostitute in "Taxi Driver," a film about a New York cab driver who is fascinated by guns, reviled by rampant pornography in the city and plans to assassinate a Senate candidate.

Two sources said authorities were aware of a second Hinckley letter, and one source said that letter had been mailed but declined to say to whom.

NBC News, however, quoted federal agents in Connecticut as saying that Miss Foster told them she had received several love letters from Hinckley in recent months. The network also said pictures of the actress were found in Hinckley's wallet. Federal authorities in Connecticut and Washington declined to comment on the report.

The sources said Tuesday that investigators had found the letter Monday in Hinckley's quarters, apparently at the downtown Park Central Hotel where he stayed the night before Monday's attempted assassination.

They said Hinckley, a 25-year-old drifter, obviously was "infatuated" with Miss Foster and wanted to get her attention. One source described the unmailed letter as expressing his desire to "go out and do something to get himself killed."

Miss Foster is now a freshman at Yale University, and Hinckley, in an employment application filed with the Rocky Mountain News last October, said he was a student at the Ivy League school from September 1980 to October 1980.

Yale officials said they had no records of Hinckley ever having been enrolled there. At Yale, Miss Foster said in a brief statement: "I have never met, spoken to, or associated with him (Hinckley)." She said the FBI and the U.S. attorney's office had asked her to say nothing about him.

Earlier Tuesday, Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., said he believed investigators had developed a theory about a motive in Monday's attack, which wounded White House press secretary James S. Brady and two law officers as well as Reagan. Laxalt, however, refused to divulge details, and there was no official word whether the letters were linked to any suspected motive.

Hinckley, meanwhile, retained the firm of millionaire Washington defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams, a former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and owner of the Baltimore Orioles baseball team.

A member of the firm confirmed the two lawyers spent more than two hours Tuesday interviewing Hinckley in the prison at the U.S. Marine base at Quantico, Va.

The firm was first contacted by Hinckley's wealthy and conservative parents in Colorado. Hinckley's father, J.W. "Jack" Hinckley, is president of Vanderbilt Energy Corp., an oil and gas exploration company.

Two court-appointed attorneys were assigned to Hinckley's case Monday after he said he could not afford to pay a lawyer.

Meanwhile, Vice President George Bush's office said Hinckley's brother, Scott, was a casual acquaintance of Bush's son, Neil, and had planned to attend a dinner at the younger Bush's home in Denver on Tuesday night. The dinner was canceled following John Hinckley's arrest, said Bush spokeswoman Shirley Green.

Hinckley was placed under 24-hour watch at the Quantico, Va., base, where he was being held as a security precaution. He was prescribed a tranquilizer, Valium, by a prison doctor who examined him early Tuesday and pronounced him in good health.

"He's alert. Everything's normal, and there have been no problems this morning," said Bill Dempsey, a spokesman for the U.S. Marshals Service.

Hinckley, who is charged with attempted assassination of the president and assault on a Secret Service agent, is scheduled for a preliminary hearing Thursday, when the government must present enough evidence to convince the magistrate to send the case to a federal grand jury.

Hinckley profile resembles others

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, John W. Hinckley Jr. identified with a radical cause but didn't participate in the movement. And like Lee Harvey Oswald, Hinckley apparently was unemployed before he was charged with attempting to assassinate a president.

In these and other respects, Hinckley is similar to the men and women who have tried to kill presidents, according to a study of assassination and political violence prepared just after the violence of the 1960s and profiles of the two women who tried to kill President Ford.

Table listing weather conditions and temperatures for various cities across the United States, including Albany, Albuquerque, and Los Angeles.

High winds coming

It's time to shut the windows and bolt down everything; winds on Thursday should be blowing out of the south and southwest at 15 to 25 mph and gusting.

The thermometer should warm up to the low 80s after resting in the low 50s overnight.

High on Tuesday was 75 balmy degrees, a low reading compared to the sizzling 99 degrees set as a record on that date in 1946.

Extended forecasts

Friday through Sunday: West Texas: Partly cloudy with no important temperature changes. Low 30s north to 50s south.

Texas area forecasts

North Texas: Partly cloudy southeast, mostly fair and warm elsewhere. Mostly cloudy, windy and continued easterly, 10 to 15 Thursday. Seas 2 to 4 feet.

Absentee turnout low

Absentee voting for Saturday's election showed a low turnout, as recorded by Don Furguson, business manager for the Midland Independent School District.

Odessan stable after collision

ODESSA — An Odessa man was in stable condition at Medical Center Hospital this morning following a two-car accident near Midland early Tuesday afternoon.

Partitions have been erected in many Midland elementary schools to create additional classrooms.

School administrators fighting for bond

(Continued from Page 1A) rooms by the end of the school year, which will increase to 47 classrooms short within the next two to three years. THE SAME REPORT points out Washington Elementary will have the only extra elementary school instructional space available throughout the district by the 1982-83 school year. Elementary school enrollments have increased 3.8 percent annually and an influx of 2,000 more students is predicted over the next four years.

Anson Jones and Burnett elementary schools are getting eight to 15 more students each week and Midland schools are growing 400 to 500 students each year in kindergarten through fourth grade, according to school officials.

While 11 portable buildings have been purchased by the school district and are utilized at nine elementary schools, Mailey expects the number of temporary buildings to increase if the bond election fails.

At De Zavala Elementary School, which is rapidly deteriorating due to insufficient heating, plumbing and insulation, school officials are predicting 16 portable buildings will have to be added within the next two years to create space for an expected 100-plus increase in enrollment by 1985.

School officials are turning a concerned eye toward Odessa where elementary school overcrowding has caused the school district to schedule half-day sessions and students must attend school in shifts.

"Odessa has been confronted with the same type of problems," Mailey said. "For the strength of the educational system, the school district would rather use temporary buildings instead of reverting to half-day sessions."

A storeroom also serves as a room for special testing at Bowle Elementary School, 805 W. Elk.

Several of Midland's elementary school campuses have portable classrooms — a total of 11 throughout the school district — which are used for classroom instruction.

Grocery bills drop for second month in a row

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer Grocery bills dropped during March for the second month in a row, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey which showed lower price tags on a wide range of items.

Sugar decreased in more cities — 11 — than any other item during March, the AP survey showed. Sugar prices rose through most of last year because worldwide production was not expected to be large enough to meet the demand.

ly more decreases during March than during February.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes were used. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The AP found that the cost of a random list of grocery products, priced at one supermarket in each of 13 cities, dropped by an overall average of 1.3 percent last month, following a 1.5 percent decrease in February.

March also brought some bargains at the meat counter. All-beef frankfurters and pork chops each declined at the checklist store in five cities and chopped chuck was down in four cities.

Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The only sour note was sounded in the frozen-food department. Orange juice prices, which have been rising since a January freeze in Florida, jumped again in March, increasing in 11 of the cities checked by the AP.

Beef prices in particular had been expected to rise sharply this year, due in part to last summer's drought that boosted the price of feed grains. But a larger-than-expected supply of meat coming to market has kept prices down — temporarily at least. A 19-city survey conducted by the National Cattlemen's Association showed the average price of a pound of ground beef in March was $1.49 — four cents less a pound than in January and 10 cents less a pound than in March 1980.

posed annex. "They're going to be jockeying over there for position," figured Priddy. "When you throw 30,000 square feet open, they're going to jockey."

Wright said that a 30,000-square-foot building now would be adequate to accommodate the county and district tax offices and other county offices to be located in the proposed annex, which eventually may be expanded to 60,000 square feet.

Wright added that the county could finance the 30,000-square-foot annex without calling for a bond election.

However, a larger building to care for a burgeoning county government in years to come and a new jailhouse would entail more funds than the county has in its treasury.

"I see no way out of doing that (calling for a bond issue)," said Priddy. "If you can get the school to back off (of its bond programs) for awhile, you might try that."

Priddy, who is chairman of Objectives for Midland in the '80s, said that the county should not compromise in projecting, planning and building for growth.

"We take halfway measures, and we always regret it," he said.

Mertzon double murder probe 'at a standstill,' Ranger says

MERTZON — The investigation into the murder of two men here last week is "kind of at a standstill" now, according to Texas Ranger Clay Bednar, as the investigators continue "trying to acquire some underwater metal detection equipment" to locate a gun believed used in the double slaying.

investigation, said he expected the equipment to arrive from Houston in time to continue the investigation Thursday morning.

Bednar said investigators need more sensitive underwater detection equipment to find the .22-caliber pistol believed to have belonged to one of the two victims — Midlander John Bernardon, 34, or David James Adams, 32, of Grape Creek.

In addition, Bednar said, six guns have been sent to the Department of Public Safety ballistics laboratory in Lubbock for testing. Bednar said the guns may be connected with the case, but he said, "I'm not at liberty to say where they were found."

Both men were found shot to death March 22 on Spring Creek. Bernardon was found in a rowboat the two were fishing from, while Adams was found nearby in 4 to 5 feet of water.

No motive has been released concerning the double shooting, but Bednar said the investigation team has "several" suspects.

"We have several suspects that we're pursuing," he said this morning. "And we have several leads that we're working now."

Man charged with rape

A California man is under bonds totaling $50,000 on charges of aggravated rape and aggravated assault in connection with an incident last week at an apartment complex on Scharbauer Drive.

Police identified the suspect as 23-year-old David R. Pickle, who gave his address as Exeter, Calif., and listed his occupation as a maintenance man. He was arrested in Amarillo Tuesday and returned to Midland after being indicted by a Midland grand jury. Justice of the Peace Robert Pine arraigned Pickle and set the bonds.

A hydraulic pump valued at $250 was reported stolen from the bed of a truck parked at the M System Food Store, 1200 Rankin Highway. The theft occurred sometime Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

City firemen reported heavy damage to a fence and storage shed in a blaze at 402 W. Hamby about 3:45 p.m. Tuesday. The owner of the property was not immediately known.

Pouring gasoline from one container to another near a water heater was blamed for a fire that caused slight smoke damage to a store room at a residence owned by Don Dow, 2515 Seaboard, shortly before 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Slight damage to the wiring systems of two vehicles was reported in separate car fires Tuesday afternoon.

The first blaze occurred about 6:20 p.m. near Texas and Calhoun Streets. The car's owner was listed as David Hardin of 1806 E. Texas. The second fire broke out in a car owned by Charles Dobbs, no address available. The blaze occurred near the intersection of Mogford and Princeton Streets about 9 p.m.

Firemen also put out a heater treater fire on South Midkiff Road about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday. Minor damage was reported. The owner of the equipment was not listed.

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

Direct counselors more active with advice

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

Question: Please explain the difference between directive and non-directive counseling. Is one style of counseling more effective than another?

Answer: The difference between directive and non-directive counseling lies in how active the counselor is in giving advice, explanations and directions to the counselee. Directive counselors are much more active in this way than non-directive counselors.

Non-directive counselors operate from the idea that if a person can be helped to develop or discover his own solutions to his problems, he will be more apt to act upon them and thereby achieve a therapeutic benefit.

Such counselors give much less direct advice. They usually reflect back to the client's thoughts or feelings which the client has in some way expressed. This reflection of thoughts or feelings usually is done in such a fashion as to help the client see his problem in a different way and to point the client to a possible solution.

In reality, all counselors are directive to some extent because it is not possible to be completely non-directive. Humans constantly communicate with one another on a variety of levels—verbal, tone of voice, facial expressions, body posture and hundreds of other non-verbal ways. Such communication with each other has the purpose of both reporting information and influencing a response in the other party. Even the most non-directive counselor is constantly influencing or attempting to influence the client to respond and behave in certain ways.

Therefore, it is not a real choice between directive and non-directive counseling. The choice is really between different degrees of directive counseling. As in all mental health problems, different persons with different problems may respond to one style of counseling better than another. The person who is considering counseling would do best to choose a counselor with whom he is comfortable rather than a particular style or theory of counseling.

Question: What kind of training do counselors or therapists receive?

Answer: Counseling and psychotherapy are provided by several different professions. Psychiatrists have a medical degree with a psychiatric specialty and are the only mental health professional who is licensed to prescribe medication. Psychologists have a Ph.D. or a master's degree in the field of psychology.

Clinical psychologists have received training in counseling, therapy and the use of psychological tests. Clinical social workers general have a master's or a doctorate in social work. They generally have been trained in counseling with individuals, marital pairs, families and groups. Statistics reveal that the majority of all counseling or psychotherapy sessions in this country are delivered by persons trained in social work.

Persons with other kinds of training also may deliver counseling services. Educational psychologists and ministers are two such examples. In choosing a counselor, the person should pay attention to the counselor's training and background since there are individuals who call themselves counselors or therapists who have had little if any applicable training in the field.

Shuttle managers try for April lanch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Kennedy Space Center officials have set an April 10 blastoff for the space shuttle Columbia's maiden voyage and plan to begin the launch countdown Sunday, a spokesman says.

"Everybody basically agreed, and no one said they didn't support the 10th," spokesman Hugh Harris said after a meeting Monday of the managers in charge of the shuttle's various systems.

Top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were expected to meet here today to give formal approval to the date after a launch readiness review.

Pad workers loaded hydrazine aboard the Columbia Monday in preparation for the reusable craft's initial blastoff. The fuel powers hydraulic units used to steer the shuttle's rocket engines. The operation was running about 16 hours behind schedule, but officials expected it to be completed today.

If NASA gives the final go-ahead for April 10, the countdown leading to a launch 45 minutes before sunrise would begin at 11:30 p.m. EST Sunday.

"We are prepared to pick up the launch countdown this weekend," said Robert Gray, manager of the shuttle projects office. "We have identified some additional work, but it is presently scheduled and will be done in time to support the start of the countdown."

The actual countdown time is 73 hours, but several built-in "holds" are scheduled to make up for time lost in any of the procedures and for periods when no activities are planned, Kennedy Space Center spokesman Miles Waggoner said.

Today's readiness review entails "all participants getting together and going over what remains to be done before launch," Waggoner said.

Powerful ambitions could impede progress where work is concerned. Expect your greatest gains to come from cooperative ventures. Partnerships can have their ups and downs, but a romantic alliance will lead you in new interesting directions. Personal finances may get a boost from marriage. Do not devote too much time to business that family life suffers.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Tend to neglected tasks today and you may be able to get away for a long weekend. It sometimes seems that you are your own worst enemy. Try not to judge yourself too harshly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Business alliances grow stronger. Take the initiative and financial success will come more easily. This is not the right time to change jobs. You may have to smooth things over with mate.

knowledge that the trumps were on his left, Tommy displayed commendable technique. He ruffed the opening heart lead in dummy, crossed to the ace of diamonds and ruffed another heart. Back to the king of diamonds for another heart ruff, and then the queen and jack of diamonds from dummy. When East discarded a heart on the fourth diamond, Tommy smiled quietly—he had read the hand correctly! Tommy had discarded two clubs from his hand on the diamonds. Now he cashed the ace of clubs and then led the queen of clubs from dummy. On this trick Tommy sluffed his king of hearts. West, down to nothing but trumps,

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The world's longest running oil spill, from Mexico's Ixtoc 1 oil well in the Gulf of Mexico, did not cause serious environmental damage because of the type of oil involved and climatic conditions, University of Georgia researchers say.

Oil on the surface broke into smaller and smaller pieces and eventually dissipated, according to Dr. John S. Patton and Mark W. Rigler of the University of Georgia and Dr. Paul D. Boehm of Energy Resources Co., Inc., of Cambridge, Mass.

The oil spill was capped one year ago this week. The spill occurred under ideal environmental conditions, the researchers reported in this week's issue of Nature.

"The subtropical environment of the Gulf of Mexico hastens degradation of materials," Patton said. "In addition, prevailing winds blew the spill out to sea and resulted in less than 1 percent of the oil being washed ashore."

Although scientists don't know exactly how the oil broke up and dispersed, they found the oil to be broken up by weathering rather than bacterial action.

The huge oil mass was broken into two kinds of particles, the researchers said. Both were found in pancakes about three inches across, each with a crude oil center covered with yellow skin.

Weathering causes small pieces of the pancakes to flake off. "These flakes contain a variety of embedded particles, including microscopic animals and plants, floating debris and even fish scales," Patton said.

Area projects planned

Andrews and Glasscock Counties reported wildcats.

ANDREWS COUNTY: Amoco Production Company of Odessa has staked a 10,000 foot wildcat location 20 miles north of Odessa. The 18 Frank Cowden R/A "D" is located 660 feet from the south line and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 1, block 44 of the T-1-N, T&P RR Co. survey. The old total depth and field name have been amended from Cowden, North to Cowden, North (Deep) and is situated 500 feet southeast of a completed oil producer.

GLASSCOCK COUNTY: The Petroleum Corporation of Delaware in Midland plans to drill a 10,200 foot wildcat 10 miles east of Garden City. The 1 J.W. Cox is located 660 feet from the south line and 1,650 feet from the east line of section 29, block 33 of T-4-S, T&P RR Co. survey and is 550 feet northwest of a completed oil producer and 3,500 feet northeast of a dry and abandoned venture.

Researchers say conditions prevented spill tragedy

Researchers don't know what eventually happens to the flakes. Those that accumulate debris may sink to the bottom. Those that remain floating may dissolve, evaporate or form tar balls, Patton said, but they don't stick together.

The team's microscopic examination of the large-scale spill can yield information about future oil spills, they said.

"By knowing mechanisms which cause dispersals we can help predict what will happen to specific spills in other environments, Patton said, adding that Boehm developed a computer program based on the Ixtoc 1 findings.

"With this model we can take fewer samples in future disasters and make better predictions as to the effect of the spill," he said.
